WORKINGMEN'S COMPENSATION BILL OFFERED

Immediate Adoption Is Urged Instead of the Commission Plan.

Workmen Can Sue If Employers Do Not Pay Damages.

Limit Is Placed on the Fees of Workingmen's Attorneys.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn. March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—As forecasted in The Herald Saturday, the special committee headed by D. A. Stuart, appointed by the house to consider workingmen's compensation legislation, has completed its work and today reported a bill to the legislature suggesting its immediate adoption, instead of the commission plan proposed by the employers and employes of the state. The committee, besides Stuart, includes Wells, Nolan F. B. Wright and Grant all of whom appear as joint authors. The bill applies to hazardous occupations, including work on railroads, street railways, mines quarries, excavations, explosives, machine shops, electrical pursuits, bridge work and buildings over forty feet high. A schedule of damages is provided as follows: For death, $2,cet to $5,000 where there are persons wholly dependent, two-thirds that where there are persons partly dependent, and hospital and burial expenses, the latter limited to $75, where there is no dependants; loss of both hands and feet, four years' wages, not less than $2,650 or more than $4,000; one hand and one foot, or both feet, three years' wages or $2,000 to $3,000; one hand or one foot, fourteen months' wages, or $660 to $1,000; loss of finger, $75 and medical attendance; thumb, $100 toes, $25; loss of sight, $2,000 to $3,000; one eye, one-third of this amount; deafness, $1,000 to $1,500; permanent total disability, $2,000 to $3,000; temporary disability, half the regular wages. If employer does not pay workmen may sue, and contributory negligence, fellow servants' negligence or assumption of risk, shall not be set up as a defense; if workingmen refuse to accept the law, these doctrines can be set up in defense. Workingmen's attorneys cannot charge more than $25 when $500 is recovered, $50 for $500 to $1,500; $75 for $1,500 or more. The act is made

SEVERAL INJURED IN STRIKE RIOT

New Jersey Crowd Attacks Dozen Men Who Continue Work.

Woodbine, N. J., March 8.—Several persons were injured today in a riot, growing out of a strike at a hat factory, when a crowd of 400 set upon a dozen men who had continued working in the hat shop. Stones, bricks and other missiles were thrown.

A revolver was fired and Abraham Willert, one of the men attacked, was struck by a brick and rendered unconscious.

CROWD PACKING COURT IS WARNED AGAINST NOISE

Judge in Cooper-Sharp Trial Says: "No Demonstrations."

People Pack the Room Almost to Suffocation Point.

Arguments Delivered on Killing of Former Senator Carmack.

Nashville, Tenn., March 8.—There was a rush today when the courtroom doors opened in the Cooper-Sharp trial for the murder of Former Senator Carmack. Half the audience was composed of women and many of them brought lunches.

Judge Hart warned the crowd against demonstrations.

"I have been told," he said, "that some persons have been brought here to express approval or disapproval. I can scarcely believe it. But I want to say that any one who applauds, hisses or comments upon the argument will wish he or she had not done it. I realize the immense interest felt in the result and I want to gratify it, but the conduct of the audience must be seemly and decorous."

Before the arguments opened, the attorneys suggested some changes in the tables and chairs, which would give more room for free movement for the speakers. These were carried out. Meanwhile the throng had grown until the room was packed to suffocation.

Most of those inside the bar were admitted at the request of counsel for the state or defense and their number finally drew a protest from the court. He followed it with an order that no more should be admitted no matter who they were. Mrs. Carmack was in her usual seat—a huge leather chair, with her son on one of its arms. With the defendants were Mrs. Burch, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Bradford and Mrs. Sharp besides a score or more of their women friends.

Capt. Fitzhugh, in his opening speech for the state, described how, Sunday night, Nov. 28, Col. Cooper was in the Tulane hotel to meet E. B. Craig, how Cooper made threats about Carmack to Craig, and how these threats were

NIGHT RIDER IS FREE; MUTINIES

Dresden, Tenn., March 8.—Hiram Hogg, confessed night rider in jail here pending trial for the murder of Capt. Quentin Ranken, incited a mutiny among the prisoners this morning. An attack was made on the sheriff, C. A. Bloefield, and during the fight Hogg escaped. He would have been used as a witness today against Will Watson, night rider, who was placed on trial at Tiptonville.

OCEAN TRIP FOR AIRSHIP PLANNED.

New York, March 8.—Joseph Brucker, former commissioner to Germany of the St. Louis world's fair, has under consideration a plan to send the first steerable airship across the Atlantic ocean. He is relying on the approval and co-operation of King Alfonso of Spain, who is greatly interested in the development of the flying machine. Mr. Brucker's plan is to start his expedition in the air from Cadiz, Spain, or some other coast town, drift with the trade winds to the Canary, Madeira and the Cape Verde islands and then directly across the Atlantic to the West Indies. He proposes to make the start about July 25, taking advantage of a full moon and says the voyage should be made inside of five days.

MAN IS KILLED, BARTENDER HELD

Says He Was Fired Upon When He Opened Door.

Chicago, March 8.—Hugh Hopkins, 37 years old, son of J. J. Hopkins, superintendent of stations of the South Side Elevated railroad, was found slain early today in a doorway at 3703 Wentworth avenue, after John Latera, a bartender, had reported to the police by telephone that he had exchanged shots with a holdup man in a South side saloon.

Laterra is detained by the authorities pending an investigation of his story. He says Hopkins pounded on the door of the saloon after closing hours, and when the door was opened, drew a revolver and fired. Laterra returned the fire and Hopkins fell. His body was found a block from the scene of the shooting.

CRIME'S INCREASE BEATS POPULATION.

New York, March 8.—That the increase of crime is ahead of the county's growth is shown by the annual report of the district attorney issued today. The figures show that while the county has increased in population at the rate of about 4 per cent a year, the increase in the number of indictments for crime in 1908 over 1907 was more than 10 per cent.

BODYGUARD WILL BECOME MARSHAL

Denver, Col., March 8.—Jimmy Sloan, formerly President Roosevelt's closest companion and bodyguard for the last five years, has been rewarded and within the next few weeks will resign from the United States secret service to become United States marshal for the southern district of Illinois. Sloan's appointment has been agreed upon by Speaker Cannon, in whose district the new marshal will take office. His home is in Danville. Sloan will continue in the secret service as the personal guard of President Taft until the duties of protecting that president have been fully learned by Lucien C. Wheeler.

State Loses Its Famous Contest With the Railroads.

Governor Hadley Prophesies Appeal to the Highest Court.

Jurist Declares the Rate Fixed by Legislature Prevents Profits.

Kansas City, Mo., March 8.—A notable decision in favor of the railroads was handed down today by Judge McPherson of the United States District court, in the 2-cent fare and maximum freight rate cases, involving eighteen Missouri lines. The railroads contended that the rates fixed by the statutes of the state were not remunerative but confiscatory, and that the enforcement of the statutes be enjoined. The state brought proceedings to have them enforced.

"The question," says Judge McPherson, "is whether the traffic wholly within Missouri generally referred to in the evidence as local traffic can be carried under the freight rate statute of 1907 and the passenger fare statute of 1907 at such profit as will give a reasonable return after paying expenses upon the investment, or whether such traffic is carried at a loss or less than such reasonable profit. The court has reached the conclusion that upon this question the statutory rates fixed by either and both statutes are not remunerative.

"The passenger earnings under the 2-cent fare law allowing nothing for extra cost over interstate business, give no return whatever to the Rock Island, St. Louis & Hannibal, Kansas City, Clinton & Springfield, and the Great Western. The other companies will have the following: The St. Louis & San Francisco between 3 and 4 per cent; the Santa Fe between 4 and 5 per cent; the Kansas City Southern a small fraction over 2 per cent; the M. K. & T. between 2 and 3 per cent, the Burlington between 3 and 4 per cent. But all this is arrived at by allowing no extra cost of service. But to add the extra cost for freight and passenger, there are no earnings over expenses. This is confiscation under the Constitution.

"It being a legislative act, and not a judicial one, this court cannot fix rates. If it could, 2½ cent passenger

Jamaican Cable Tells How He Also Yearned to Take a Hand in Revolution in Haiti.

The Ex-President Thought Americans Not Alive to the Situation.

New York, March 8.—What purports to be the views of Theodore Roosevelt of the attitude of the United States concerning Haiti, as expressed Dec. 4 last, are contained today in a special cable dispatch to the Herald from Kingston, Jamaica, quoting a letter Roosevelt wrote to Sir Harry H. Johnson, the British traveler, scientist and student of the negro question. Roosevelt said:

"I don't think we shall intervene in Hayti. Of course we ought to, but this people of ours simply do not understand how things are outside our own boundaries.

"Of course I do not desire to act unless I can get the bulk of our people to understand the situation and to back up the action; and to do that I have to get the facts vividly before them.

"In Panama, Cuba, Santo Domingo and Porto Rico it needed months or years of preparation before we could get our people to see things straight, and the worst of it is that the educated Northeasterners are not merely blinded, but often malevolently blind to what goes on.

"We ought to have interfered in Venezuela again and again during the last seven years. We ought to have interfered in Central America and Hayti. In all three places we ought now to do something of the same kind that we are doing in Cuba. Santo Domingo and Panama, according to the exigencies of the case, but the Americans simply were not alive to the situation."

He will enlist his men and gather his supplies here and in Seattle for a long journey, to begin with navigation in the spring.

RIVALRY IS VERY KEEN

Congressmen Anxious for Place on Ways-Means Committee.

Champ Clark Would Await Settlement of Rules Fight.

Washington, March 8.—Although congress is not in session there is much doing today among the lawmakers, many of whim are remaining in Washington.

As the ways and means committee of the house will have the important duty of reporting the new tariff bill there is keen rivalry among members of the house for appointments to fill the three vacancies on the committee. The only vacancy in the Republican membership made by the expiration of the term of Representative Bonyenge of Colorado, will in all procability be filled by a member from a western state. Representative Howell of Utah, Burke and Martin of South Dakota and Cushman of Washington have been suggested.

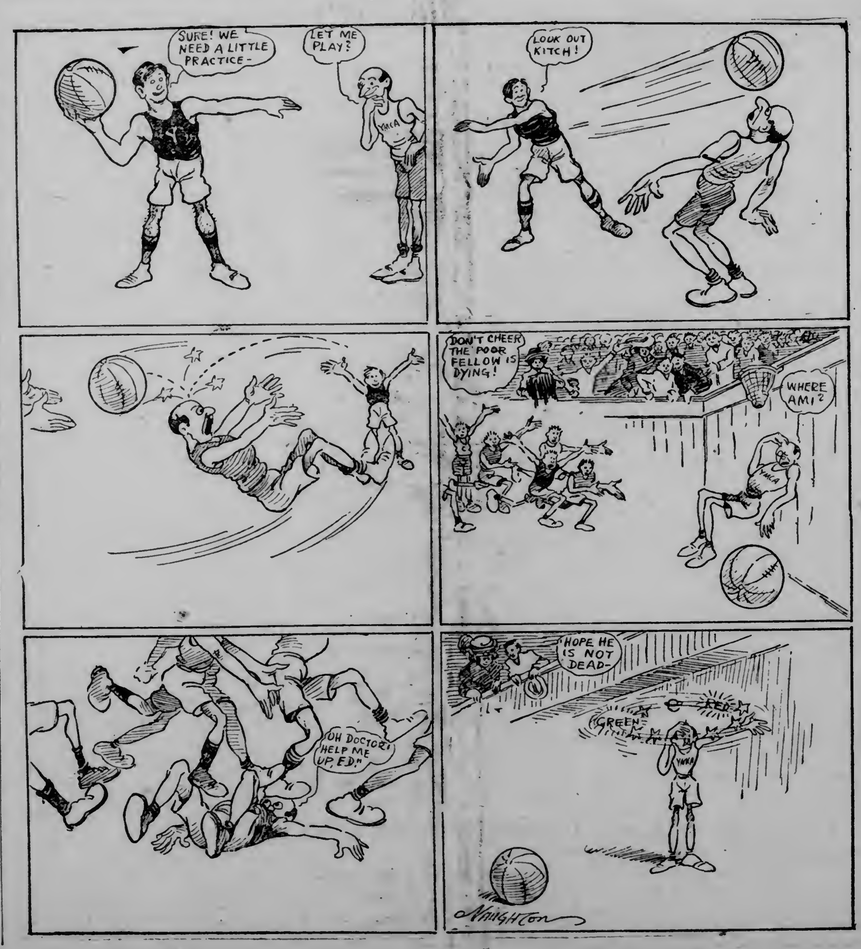

Francis Burton Harrison of New York, although having served only one tern in congress, is most prominently spoken of to fill the vacancy in the minority membership of the committee caused

COUNT OKUMA PRAISES TAFT'S NAVAL PROGRAM

Ex-Leader of Japanese Progressives Declares It Cannot be Construed as Hostile to His Country.

Hopes for Adjustment of Federal and State Relations.

Tokio, March 8.—Count Okuma, former president of the Progressive party, has written an article for the Mainichi, in which he praises President Taft for his policy as embodied in his inaugural address. In regard to that portion of the address dealing with the treaty rights of aliens, Okuma says that it would be a matter for general rejoicing should the delicate relations between the federal and state constitutions be adjusted in a manner thoroughly compatable with national credit and honor and the standing of the United States as a highly civilized power. The count concurs with the naval program laid down in the inaugural speech. He writes that President Taft believes that such an outcome is an unavoidable demand of the times, and ridicules the idea that it is directed against Japan. He asserts that this idea is a gross misrepresentation of both Japan and the United States, which believe equally that a strong navy is the best guarantee of peace.

Regarding immigration, the count cannot entertain the idea of restriction as a principle, but he is unopposed to it as a temporary measure for preventing unnecessaryia excitement and irritation when Japan is unfortunately the object of unwarrantable suspicion. In conclusion he says:

"Japan's real motive was proven on the occasion of the visit of the fleet, and is now understood fully by estimable Americans. Local anti-Japanism is not of serious concern, and will disappear when they cease to be haunted by a needless suspicion. The true American sentiment will ultimately prevail, especially under the guidance of a great, fair-minded statesman of the eminently peaceful disposition of President Taft."

TAFT WILL TOUR SOUTH

Discloses Plan for an Extended Tour Next Fall.

Will Attend G. A. R. Encampment in Salt Lake City.

Washington, March 8.—That President Taft contemplates a general trip through the South and the West next autumn was indicated by him today when he said he would try to attend the forty-ninth annual encampment of the G. A. R., to be held in Salt Lake City, Aug. 9 to 14.

The invitation was extended by Senators Smoot and Sutherland of Utah, who also represented the executive committee of the G. A. R. President Taft said that he should like very much to attend the meeting, and it might be possible for him to do so.

LAUNCH RESCUES DARING AERONAUT

Long Beach, Cal., March 8.—Five thousand people saw Jean Savage, an amateur aeronaut, ascend from the beach in a fierce wind, which at times threatened to carcen his balloon, and they watched him as he drifted over the ocean. He did not cut loose until he was 2,500 feet high. The balloon, relieved of his weight, turned over and shot down into the sea, where it was picked up by a launch.

ORDINANCE PREPARED

An ordinance designed to prevent the overloading of teams on Duluth hills probably will come before the council tonight.

Charles Hazen, who has been of the opinion all along that a measure of this kind could be drawn up, has been in conference with City Attorney Wilson, and expresses the belief that an ordinance that will adequately cover the situation has been prepared. It makes the maximum load twice the weight of the team.

When the proposition was first brought up, the need of such a measure was generally conceded, but it was argued that it would be almost impossible to properly gauge the loads, for what would be too much of a load for one team, it was pointed out, might be easy hauling for another.

Those who have been displaying the most interest in the matter, however, made it a point to investigate conditions, and after carefully considering the matter in all its lights, decided that an ordinance such as proposed could be prepared.

If the council is convinced that the measure covers the situation, there is little doubt that it will pass, for public sentiment, apparently, is strongly in favor of it. Mr. Hazen has been interviewing different people on the subject, and he says sentiment is unanimously in favor of the ordinance.

TELEPHONE LINE PROSPERS.

Red Lake-Marshall Counties Farmers' Company Is in Good Shape.

Thief River Falls, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The directors of the Red Lake-Marshall Counties Farmers' Telephone company met last night at the home of the secretary at Erie.

There was a large amount of business transacted, in addition to the adoption of the constitution, bylaws and toll rates. There are 14,000 poles already purchased, which are being hauled out as rapidly as possible, and will be placed as far as Kratka by the end of the month.

Poles will be set at once in the low or bad places, so as to have them ready for the work of stringing the wires in the spring. All the stock of this company is about taken by the farmers. The line will be another of the many farmers' lines that have been established in Red Lake county within the last twelve months, and will, like all the others, connect with the Thief River Falls system, as it is so central and has good connections with the cities below, as well as with adjoining towns in the northwestern part of the state.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

WAR UPON DISEASE

Prosecute Thorough Campaign in Minneapolis Against White Plague.

Successful Effort Being Made to Interest Working People.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minneapolis is in the midst of an anti-tuberculosis campaign which for thoroughness of organization and breadth of operation has all previous efforts in the war on the great white plague dwarfed into insignificance.

Starting ten days ago, the local anti-tuberculosis committee launched a four weeks' campaign. The plan is to show an exhibition of charts, models and appliances khich make plain the cause, prevalence and methods of combating tuberculosis in many widely scattered civic centers. In connection with the exhibit there are daily programs of addresses on various phases of the problem. In each case these talks are adapted in time and matter to the needs and opportunities of the neighborhoods in which they are given.

The work was started at the Pillsbury house social settlement, where a successful effort was made to interest the workingmen living in the neighborhood and their families. From the settlement house it was taken to the state university, where the hygienic and sociological aspects of the problem were dealt with scientifically. Now it is located in the East high school for the benefit of 5,000 school children on the East side.

POTATO KING BUYS LAND.

Frank Schroeder Purchases Large Tract in Clay County.

Moorhead, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Schroeder, the potato king of Clay county, has made another large purchase of land. He has just closed a deal for 400 acres in sections 21, 28, 29 and 30, Moorhead township. The price per acre is given as $50.

The undertaking of this large contract shows what can be undertaken by farmres in the potato belt. Frank Schroeder has been very successful in potato raising as well as in the raising of other crops. He sold 8,000 bushels of potatoes from last year's crop. He has a large family, and practically all of the farm work is done by the members of the family, thus reducing the expense to the minimum. The price paid, $50 per acre, while good, is, of course, not a top notch price for Clay county lands, many sales being regularly made at from $60 to $65 per acre. It has been proven conclusively that a bit of Clay county land is the safest and most profitable investment that can be made, and the thrifty Germans of the Sabin district are fully alive to the fact.

MOTION IS DENIED

To Include Cohasset Parties in a Damage Suit at Bemidji.

Bemidji, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A motion to include other defendants in the case of J. M. Emerson Greenfield and others of Superior, Wis., against J. A. Clark of California has been denied by Judge C. W. Stanton in the district court.

The case involves a $30,660 lawsuit, and a motion was made by Attorney Pratt for the plaintiff to bring in E. L. Buck, a banker at Cohasset, and others, as defendants, but after considering the arguments of the attorneys, Judge Stanton denied the motion. The case was brought on for alleged misrepresentation in the sale of real estate.

NORTHOME MAN CASHIER.

J. E. Cowan Succeeds Mr. Mooney in International Falls Bank.

International Falls, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. E. Gowan of Northome has been elected cashier of the International Falls State bank.

The vacancy in the cashiership was created by the resignation of J. B. Mooney, son of W. J. Mooney, Langdon, N. D., who perished in the wreck of the steamship Republic off the coast of Massachusetts. Mr. Mooney left the bank here to take charge of his father's bank at Langdon.

Mr. Cowan, who is president of a bank at Northome, will move his family to International Falls in the near future and make it home here. Harry Hilliard of Reynolds, N. D., will act as assistant cashier.

BEMIDJI SELLS BONDS.

Duluth Concern Purchases Them and Beltrami County Town Rejoices.

Bemidji, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is no little rejoicing here over the welcome news from Chicago that $50,000 in waterworks bonds have been sold to the Commercial Investment Company of Duluth, which means that work upon the new plant can soon commence.

In a few days the council will advertise for bids for the waterworks.

SUSPECT IS RELEASED.

Archie Cyrus, Held on a Murder Charge, Is Turned Loose.

Little Falls, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Archie Cyrus, who was arrested at Tamarack, suspected of being implicated in the murder of Annie Kintop, was released by Judge M. D. Taylor.

During the session of the grand jury, Cyrus was not brought before that body and his attorney, A. P. Blanchard, held that he could not be held until the September session. The state was not prepared to prosecute at the present time and Judge Taylor liberated Cyrus.

BECKER SPENT A NICKEL.

Five Cents All Ex-Mayor Paid Out as Campaign Expenses.

Madison, Wis., March 8.—During the late senatorial deadlock, ex-Mayor S. M. Becker of Milwaukee, on Thursday received one vote for United States senator. It was cast by F. R. Zimmerman of Milwaukee. Shortly afterward Mr. Becker filed the following campaign expense statement in the office of the secretary of state:

March 5, 1909.—Paid to Richard Kaun, 5 cents for chewing gum. The gum was purchased in the lobby of the capitol building on a trip from the Park hotel to the senate chamber, and constitutes my entire campaign expenses. Mr. Kaun, my manager, having used his influence without a money consideration, to obtain the vote recorded for me at the senatorial election on March 4, 1909.

The statement is verified by James C. McKenzie, filing clerk in the office of the secretary of state. For some time Mr. Becker was a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, but withdrew before the primary election was over.

DEER RIVER IN LIVELY CONTEST

Two Tickets With Prospects of Some Scraps on Tuesday.

Deer River, Minn., March. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village election tomorrow bears every indication of being the closest combat the village has witnessed in years, if all plans carry out as mapped.

The old board party held a caucus last Monday night and nominated a strong ticket. Notwithstanding the declination of Mayor-appoint Breid to accept the head office, or any place on the ticket, he was so earnestly prevailed upon at the caucus that he yielded, and the "Citizens'" ticket was made with Breid at its head.

A telegram was received Friday announcing the death at his home in Chicago of W. T. Joyce, president of the Deer River Lumber company, and the M. & R. road. Mr. Joyce was a millionaire. He was acquainted with several of our business men and was a genial and friendly person to meet.

John Rya was caught by logs and had his leg broken while at work on the landing of the Itasca Lumber company's road last Monday evening. He was taken to the hospital at Grand Rapids.

R. T. Zempel, who is the owner of the old Sullivan farm, southeast of town, besides platting a portion of his land into one-acre lots, is contemplating the formation of a cemetery association and locating the cemetery on his place.

EPILEPTIC GETS TWENTY-ONE YEARS

Unfortunate Condition All That Saved Howard From Extreme Penalty.

Devils Lake, N. D., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge John F. Cowan has sentenced William Howard, slayer of his brother-in-law Thomas, at Starkweather to serve twenty-one years in the penitentiary.

Howard entered a plea of guilty to a charge of manslaughter in the first degree. Two physicians called as witnesses testified that Howard was subject to epileptic fits and while afflicted knew nothing of what he was doing. It was their belief that he could not be held responsible for his crime the same as a person who never had fits. The maximum penalty for the crime is thirty years and the minimum ten. Howard shot Thomas after a quarrel in which both men had been pounded up. Thomas was hit when leaning over a binder, making some repairs. He died in a few days.

Freeman J. Weaver and William J. Lindsay entered pleas of guilty to a charge of burglary in the third degree and were sentenced to serve one year in the penitentiary. They stole some goods from the feed store of Charles Baker in Devils Lake.

S. H. Pratt, a former resident of Grand Forks, who gained some notoriety as a result of having eloped twice with Druscilla Frazier, was sentenced to serve one year in the penitentiary at Bismarck for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Joseph Boyer, who was arrested at Larimore by Chief Fadden and was halted in an attempt to escape by bullets fired close to his heels, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of forgery in the third degree and was sentenced to serve one year in the penitentiary. He claims he is a barber and that his relatives live in St. Paul.

ALLEGED TIMBER THIEVES.

Two Men Believed to be Ringleaders in Gang, Arrested.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., March 8.—John Som...tag and Peter Gillis, believed to be the ringleaders of a gang of timber thieves who have been operating several years in the town of Edson have been arrested on complaint of Albert Butscher, president of the Citizens' State bonk of Boyd.

Butscher and other heavy land owners have been losing much timber through theft and recently combined to bring about the arrest and conviction of the thieves. It is caught as they were hauling a load of logs from Butscher's land to Cadott, where they sold it. Most of the timber stealing has been when it is snowing, the thieves figuring that the new snow will cover thel rtracks.

TO BOND FOR ARMORY.

Thief River Falls to Vote Upon Proposition This Month.

Thief River Falls, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A special city election will be held this month to permit the people to vote on the proposition of bonding the city of Thief River Falls for $20,000 to raise funds with which to construct an armory.

The militia company has been agitating the matter of securing suitable quarters for their military stores and for a proper building in which to conduct their drills, with the result that the above action will be taken. As the city is on a cash basis, paying all warrants issued against them in cash, the matter of raising the funds by bonding will likely carry.

PAYS OUTLAWED DEBTS.

Former North Dakotan Proves That He Is an Honest Man.

York, N. D., March 8.—Amos B. Peters, who made an assignment over fifteen years ago, when he resided in this county was here in January and paid up the balance of his indebtedness with interest.

The total amount of the indebtedness was nearly $10,000, and though the claims were outlawed, he paid everything in full, as a matter of honor. Mr. Peters resides in the state of Washington, where he has enjoyed a full share of prosperity. He was an elder of the Dunkard church when he resided in Marshall county. David E. Snyder was assignee at the time Mr. Peters made his assignment. It seems that his financial trouble, while located here was largely due to his efforts to further the interests of the church with which he affiliated.

EDUCATORS' MEETING.

Northwestern Educational Association at Crookston March 18-19.

Crookston, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the Northwestern Minnesota Educational association will be held here Thursday and Friday, March 18 and 19. The people of Crookston and the Crookston teachers are planning to make the meeting the best in the history of the best in the history of the association.

Among those who will be conspicuous on the program in the general discussions are:

H. C. Misner, president of the 25,000 club; President Weld, Moorhead; George B. Alton, state high school inspector; S. A. Challman, state graded school inspector; R. S. Montague, Supt. William Robertson, Supt. E. E. McIntyre, Crookston; Supt. J. J. Bohlander, Detroit; Supt. Leonard Koos, Red Lake Falls; Supt. J. H. Hay, Thief River Falls; Supt. A. P. Ritchie, Bemidji; Supt. P. A. Williams, Stephen; Supt. G. E. Keenan, Warran; Supt. J. J. Boraas, Red Wing; State Supt. C. G. Schulz, Prof. Rankin, University of Minnesota; Supt. E. C. Stackman, Argyle.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Red Lake Falls—Napoleon Gamache, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gamache of this city, died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ildaige Latendresse at Cass Lake, Wednesday. The remains were brought to Red Lake Falls Thursday and funeral services were held from St. Joseph's Catholic church, Rev. Father Pichery, officiating.

Crookston—As Sam Felsing was installing a sawdust spreading machine in the Great Northern ice house at Carman, Thursday, he slipped on the ice and his arm caught in a belt, resulting in a very painful fracture of the right arm between the wrists and elbow.

Hanley—Lars ePterson, at one time one of the pioneer farmers, living on the county line, about eight miles southeast from this village, is confined at the Darrow hospital in Moorhead with a cancer.

Roseau—Olaf Erpestad has left for Marion, Mass., where he has three sisters. He will be employed in a store owned by his brother-in-law. He has been a resident of Roseau county for half a dozen years and was at one time connected with the Region.

Oglivie—A demonstration in honor of President Taft's inauguration was an event in the Ogilvie public schools, Thursday. The Stars and Stripes were unfurled and the scholars, in a body, stepped outside of the school rooms and gave three cheers for the new president.

Staples—Murray McNair has arrived from Minneapolis and has taken a position in the City National bank as bookkeeper. It is probable that he will be made assistant cashier later on.

Pine River—A masquerade ball will be given in the opera house on Thursday next, the 11th, under the auspices of the Degree of Pocahontas, and elaborate plans are being made for the occasion, which promises to be one of the best of the season.

Crookston—The farm residence of Lewis Larson, in the town of Garfield, burned to the ground last Wednesday night. The members of the family barely had time to escape in their night clothes and as a result nothing was saved.

Walker—At the Citizens' caucus held last week at the village hall, the following candidates were nominated: Mayor, John Baker; councilmen, Gustave Kulander, J. S. Scribner, Archie La Vigne; treasurer, George E. Crow; recorder, Edward L. Rogers; justice of the peace, Bert Jamison; marshal, James E. Campbell.

Oldberg—The farmers' institute, held in Bardwell school house, Section 14, this township, Monday, conducted by F. B. McLeran of Wrenshall, this state, and W. R. Mackenzie of Bemidji, was a success. They spoke to a packed house and proved themselves authorities upon the subjects handled.

Onamia—Dr. N. P. Pierson of Minneapolis, who owns eighty acres of land just east of here, has written Lars Erikson that he will be here the last of the month and commence the erection of a residence and that he will also erect part of the large sanatorium which he is going to build, at the same time.

Brainerd — J. H. Peterson, rural route No. 1, Brainerd, is building up quite a business shipping little jack pine trees to the Western and Southwestern states. Though not as handsome as some of the other varieties of pine, they are said to be much easier to make grow in other parts of the country.

Hallock—The Hallock Farmers' Cooperative Creamry association held its annual meeting Thursday afternoon and the following officers were elected: President, Fred McKinzie; vice president, Gust Carlson; secretary, Nels Lundgren; treasurer, J. H. Bradish; directors: Hugh Cameron, McIlraith, P. M. Peterson, Alfred Carlson and August Anderson.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Houghton — Village and Township Clerk Brand has compiled his report of births and deaths in Houghton and Portage township for the month of February. It shows that there was one death in the township and none in the village during the month.

Calumet—Township Treasurer William White has reported the delinquent tax roll to the county treasurer. It amounted to $1,933.19, being considerably in excess of last year. This was largely due to the fact that the March pay day was included in last year's tax collections.

Houghton—The Atlantic Mining company has commenced the work of demolishing No. 1 shafthouse, which has stood as one of the oldest landmarks of the village. This shafthouse was the first one erected on the company property in Atlantic when the ground was found to hold mineral.

Hancock—Donald McLean has returned from Duluth, where he has been working, and leaves shortly for Copper Harbor, where he will be employed.

Tamarack—Edward Dahl, a blacksmith in the employ of the Tamarack Mining company, has returned to work, after being idle for some time owing to an operation for appendicitis.

Houghton—The case of James Burt, Jr., vs The Portage Lake Foundry & Machinery company was amicably settled in the circuit court and a verdict of $1,000 awrded the plaintiff.

Ontonago—A wrestling match will be pulled off at Ontonagon in a few weeks. The wrestlers are to be Joe Peterson of Republic and William Franks of Ontonagon.

Crystal Falls—The annual St. Patrick's day entertainment, under the auspices of the Guardian Angels' church will be given in the opera house. The entertainment will consist of a lecture, suitable to the occasion, by Rev. Father Mark, Passionist Father of Chicago.

Ontonagon—Mr. Corgan has been busy the past week getting things ready to start logging on one of his eighties. He now owns everything in readiness and is proceeding with his logging nicely.

Ishpeming—Mrs. Anna Sjolander, an old resident of this city and the Winthrop location, died Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Sandell, on Reidy street. She was aged 75 years.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Marinette—A. J. Barlow of Niagara is preparing for a journey to England, to claim a portion of a $15,000,000 estate, and consisting principally of coal mines in Northern England.

Manitowoc—James Edwards, crippled on one side by a paralytic stroke, who fell on a flight of steps to a stone walk three days ago, fracturing his skull, died on Friday.

Ladysmith—Albert Gunder is dead as a result of being injured three days ago in the paper mill by a bursting pulley. His arm was broken in two places, several ribs fractured, and he was otherwise internally injured.

Ashland—Petitions are being circulated to have the question of no license submitted to the people at the next municipal election.

Rice Lake—Stock for a new bank, to be known as the State Bank of Rice Lake, has been fully described, and it is probable that a new business block will be erected for its accommodation.

Madison—Dr. Frederik Van Eeden of Amsterdam, poet, dramatist, sociologist, physician and pioneer in the mental treatment of physical disease, has been secured by the University of Wisconsin for a special lecture on March 23.

Eau Claire—The Dells Lumber company has started up one side of the big mill already, and it is thought it will not be long before the institution will be running full blast. The logs that are now being sawed up are those that come in dry over the railroad and are, therefore, not icy like those brought down the river.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Minot, N. D.—A suit against the Soo was brought by George Pierce at St. Paul for $5,200, for injuries received in a fall upon the steps of a coach at the station here. Ice had gathered on the steps and he held the company responsible for negligence.

Grand Forks, N. D.—News has been received here of the death at Los Angeles, Cal., of Graham Williamson of Arvilla, one of the pioneers of Grand Forks county. It is expeted that the body will be removed to Havre, Mont., for interment, as a daughter lives there. Mr. Williamson was well known in Grand Forks, where he had often visited.

Fargo, N. D.—The basketball team at the A. C. has elected Allen Clark captain, and during the past couple of weeks, under his leadership the boys have been playing great ball.

Minot, N. D.—The law firm of Greenleaf & Leighton has dissolved, Mr. Greenleaf taking over the entire business of the firm, and Mr. Leighton will spend his entire time in the briquetting business in which he is interested.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Robert H. Purvis, manager of the Great Northern Land company of Minneapolis has arrived in the city with seven land buyers from Illinois, all of whom will purchase property and locate in Grand Forks county.

Langdon, N. D.—Two fires were started recently in Langdon by an unknown firebug, but fortunately neither of them resulted in serious damage.

Fargo, N. D.—The work in the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. is moving nicely under the direction of Physical Director Harrison, who asumed charge of the department a few months ago.

Bismarck, N. D.—Commissioner Gilbreath is distributing the copies of the North Dakota Magazine, volume 3, number 3. This issue comprises 172 pages of matter concerning the state government and the legislature, which gives it the name of state officers' and legislative number.

Negaunee—William Zippole, a young Italian, who boards with a family on the Palmer road, had his right leg fractured above the knee Friday at the Rolling Mill mine. The injury was caused by a fall of ground. Rippole is confined to the Negaunee hospital, where the fracture was reduced.

An Informal Showing of the Authentic Fashions as portrayed by the noted designers of our times.

YOU ARE WELCOME

No Disappointments Here in Alteration of Garments

This means, no disappointment in fit or workmanship, and especially in appointments for fittings or finishing of garments. We will positively guarantee that every promise will be kept, and that garments will be delivered promptly within the time set.

A reorganization of our alteration room assures this. We have brought an experienced Forewoman with large metropolitan experience and placed her in charge of this department, and now feel that we can safely make the above broad guarantee.

Of course, we will continue to maintain our present very capable and efficient corps of fitters and tailoresses, who have heretofore been responsible for the superior class of workmanship we have always put into our alterations. In fact, we have augmented this important branch of the department also in our desire to do full justice to our patrons.

And we call your attention to our recently inaugurated "Custom Made" department of Women's Suits. This means nothing less than the same kind of suit a high-class tailor would make to your order—the same lines, the same materials, the same workmanship—and entirely different from the usual "ready-to-wear" suit. These suits cost a little more, but much less than a tailor would make them for, and are intended for patrons not wanting to be bothered with the fittings and time consumed by a tailor. Let us show you!

YOUNG GIRL A HEROINE

Rescues Her Little Companion From Drowning in Lake.

Gertie Cameron 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Cameron 3127 Lake avenue, Park Point, heroically rescued Thelma Titus, her 9-year-old companion, from death by drowning in the icy water of Lake Superior at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Thelma is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. U. C. Titus, who live near the Cameron home.

The children were playing on the ice a half a mile from shore, when they came to a channel made by the ice cutters. A thin crust of ice had formed over the water. It was not sufficient to bear the weight of the little Titus girl, and when she stepped on it she broke through, shrieking with fright.

Gertie Cameron, with no thought of her own danger, knelt upon the thick ice at the edge of the channel and grasped her little friend by the coat collar, pulling her out upon the ice by a remarkable display of strength. The two girls then ran home as fast as they could go. The running warmed the blood of the rescued girl, and it is not believed that she will suffer any serious results from her adventure. Gertie says that when she reached over the thin ice towards Thelma she breathed a prayer to God for help, and asserts that the prayer gave her strength to save the life of her little friend.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—"The Virginian."
BIJOU—New vaudeville bill.

The Virginian.

The better the novel the harder it is to make a good play of it, but "The Virginian," as dramatized by the author and Kirke La Shelle, is an exceptionally good one, and will open at the Lyceum tonight, and play tomorrow and Wednesday matinee and night. The story of the play may be told in a few words. Molly Wood, a school teacher goes from New England to Wyoming, and when the stage coach overturns in a river, is rescued by a superior sort of cowboy known as the "Virginian." She thinks him presuming, shows him his place, and he warns her that she is going to love him. She has begun to do this when, in the second act, he is ordered by his employer to head a party of lynchers to pursue cattle thieves. She urges him not to perform this duty, and says that if he would kill a man she would have a horror of him always. He persists in doing his duty and two men are hanged. Then, when the villian, Trampas, shoots him in the back, Molly reconsiders and nurses him back to life. In the last act she is about to marry her lover when Trampas again appears and orders the Virginian to leave town before sundown or be shot. The Virginian prepares to defend himself according to the code, and a most exciting scene follows. Molly threatens their separation if he kills his enemy. He stands between what he considers love and duty; kills his enemy and Molly forgives him, and the play ends with their wedding.

The Kirke La Shelle company this season has engaged an organization of superior players, among its members being W. S. Hart and Frank Campeau. Mr. Hart is an exceptionally good actor and his great success last season as "The" Virginian has paved his way to greater things. Frank Campeau in his original role of Trampas is sure to attract the many friends he has made in the past few seasons. Many of the original cast have been retained, and a good performance is assured.

POLICEMAN FOUND DYING, WIFE DEAD BESIDE HIM.

Boston, Mass., March 8.—Daniel C. Spillane, a policeman, was found dying early today in his home in East Boston, from the effects of a bullet wound believed to have been self-inflicted, while the body of his wife lay on the floor beside him. Spillane died later at the hospital.

DOUGLAS SHOE STRIKE IS FINALLY CONCLUDED.

Brockton, Mass., March 8.—The factories of the W. L. Douglas Shoe company resumed activity today with the return of the 425 stitchers who had been on strike since March 1, causing the enforced idleness of about 1,560 operatives. At a conference between the strikers and their employers last Saturday, a satisfactory agreement was effected.

EXPLOSION DESTROYS TWO MILLS, KILLS ONE MAN.

Wilmington, Del., March 8.—One man was killed and several others slightly injured early today by the explosion of an experimental barrel which destroyed two mills in the Hagley yard of the Du Pont Powder company, near here. The dead man is George Whitman, aged 50 years, an employe. The country was shaken for miles around.

Best Recipe for Catarrh

The logical treatment of catarrh is through the blood, and the following is sure: To one-half pint good whiskey, add one ounce syrup sarsaparilla and one ounce Toris compound, which can be procured of any druggist. Take in teaspoonful doses before each meal and before retiring. Results quickly follow.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

"The Influence of Some Famous Hymn on Many Lives" was the subject discussed by Paul Gilbert at the devotional service yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. The meeting was one of the most largely attended in several weeks, and Mr. Gilbert's talk on this feature of revival work was most interesting. He spoke of the revival services in which he took part in Wales, in Cambridge and in London, when he was with the great revivalist, Alexander, as a singing evangelist, and told of many features of the great movement. Mr. Gilbert also sang during the afternoon.

The members of the First Christian church met at the association rooms this morning to sew on the bed linen and curtains for the new association building. The aid societies of the various churches have been most generous in their contributions of time and ability in preparing these furnishings for the new building, and by the time that the association will be ready to move, it is expected that all of this work will be completed.

The regular March meeting of the board of directors of the association will be held tomorrow morning at the rooms. The routine business will be transacted.

PROF. SANFORD HERE.

To Lecture on "Lear" Before Club Women.

"King Lear" will be the subject of the lecture to be presented this evening by Prof. Maria L. Sanford of the faculty of the Minnesota university at the club room of the public library. The lecture will be given under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club and the members are anticipating that this evening's audience will be one of the largest of the year as Prof. Sanford's visits to the city are always anticipated with interest and pleasure. The lecture is free to the members of the club but single tickets may be secured at the library by the alumni of the university and others who may desire to attend the lecture.

Honor Mrs. Sanford.

The March meeting of the Duluth branch of Collegiate Alumnae association was held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. H. Hoyt, of 313 South Twenty-first avenue east. The honored guest at the meeting was Prof. Maria Sanford, of the state university, who went from the train to Mrs. Hoyt's home to greet the alumnae for a few moments. The local Minnesota graduates who have become members of the association and who assisted Mrs. Hoyt this afternoon are Mrs. C. E. Adams, Mrs. C. L. Haney, Mrs. Donald Childs, Mrs. C. D. Dickerman and Miss Juniata Williams. Minnesota banners were used in decoration about the rooms.

Home Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Frances Grace Abrahamson and Benjamin L. Lieberman of Grand Rapids, Minn., will take place tomorrow afternoon at the residence of the bride's brother, 606 North Fifty-seventh avenue west. The bride will be attended by Miss Frances B. Light, and the flower girls will be Misses Mirian Ruth Helstein and Pearl Dorothy Rizkin. The groomsman will be Albert Lieberman. The wedding service will be read by Rabbi Kissam. Mr. Lieberman and his bride will leave for a wedding trip, and will later be at home at Grand Rapids.

Auxiliary Meeting.

The Central Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church will met Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Mrs. Charles Shannon of 614 East Sixth street.

Send in Names.

The officers of the Duluth branch of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae desire that any women eligible to membership in the association, who have not received membership blanks, will send their names and addresses to the chairman of the membership committee, Mrs. C. M. Rice of 1515 East Second street.

Lester Park Club.

The regular meeting of the Lester Park Literary club will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Helen Stewart of 5207 East Superior street. What Retail Markets Offer.

Eggs, 27 cents a dozen.
Prunes, 10 to 25 cents a pound.
New cabbage, 6 cents a pound.
Corned beef, 10, 12½ and 15 cents a pound.
Pieplant, 15 cents a pound.
Lamb chops, 35 cents a pound
Spring is coming. There can be no doubt of it. Although that awful languor which comes slightly later in the spring has not yet appeared to make the slow living of life an effort, almost too great to be exerted, yet there is a subtle something that tells one that spring is coming. The desire for pork and beans and pork roast, and roasted turkey and saurkraut, and such hale and hearty articles of diet is passing away, and in its place comes a fondness for omelettes and delicate salads, and green onions, and pleasant little things like that.

New cabbage and pieplant are the features of the market

FIVE DULUTHIANS SEE BULL FIGHT IN MEXICO

W. F. Fitch, Mart Adson, John McCarthy and his bride, and C. A. Marshall were spectators at one of the largest bull fights ever pulled off in Mexico, a week ago yesterday. The Herald is in receipt of a letter from Mr. Marshall, in which he describes the fight.

To begin with, the proprietors of the business, or whatever they call the profession of bull fighting in Mexico, had some Miura bulls imported from Spain to do battle with the toreos and picadors. These bulls are supposed to be especially fierce. According to the letter sent by Mr. Marshall, their actions did not belie their reputations.

In all, before the seven bulls were made to respond to the last call, two of the heroes of the bull ring were torn and cut, one quite seriously, twenty-one horses were killed and several of the lesser heroes of the pit were bruised and knocked about. It was one of the best days in the history of Mexican bull fighting.

There were more than 40,000 people in attendance. The only reason that there were no more was that the police decided that there was a sufficiency, and ordered the gates of the stadium closed. There has been a report that bull fighting is dying out in Mexico. Mr. Marshall says in his letter that it looks to him and the other members of the Duluth party as if the "sport" were becoming more popular in that country of the near Dons.

Mexico, by the way, is the country where they consider prize fighting brutal.

The Duluth party didn't think a great deal of the gentle sport of bull fighting. In fact, they were frightened. Then they were angry because the bulls didn't kill the bull fighters instead of the defenseless horses.

In his letter Mr. Marshall says the scene was a riot of color. They even dress the mules that drag the carcasses of the bulls and horses from the arena, in the most gorgeous mountings. The costumes of the bull fighters, the costumes of the women, the flags, and the colored banners all combine to make an ensemble of colors that would dazzle the eye of a sober-minded American.

The members of the Duluth party expect to be in Duluth in about two weeks.

CAPTAIN DOCKERY A HERO.

Officer, Formerly Stationed Here, Figures in Sad Accident.

Capt. Oliver H. Dockery, of the Twenty-fifth regular infantry and very well known in Duluth, through his long connection with the local army recruiting office, figured heroically in a sailboat accident off Naples, Fla., in the Gulf of Mexico.

Three men in the party were drowned and it was only owing to Capt. Dockery's perservance and pluck that he and Dr. Herbert Caldwell of Louisville were saved. Dr. Caldwell owes his life to the army officer.

Charles G. Wicker, William Phillips and Ray Hackney of Chicago, Dr. Caldwell and Capt. Dockery formed the party. The sailboat overturned in a stiff gale and Hackney offered to swim ashore for help, with the aid of a broken spar. He was carried out to sea and drowned, however.

The others clung tenaciously to the overturned boat. Finally Phillips lost his grip and fell in, to drown. Wicker became exhausted and Capt. Dockery courageously lashed the unconscious man to his own body. A huge wave however carried Wicker over to his death, however.

Capt. Dockery, with a single oar, tried to paddle the overturned boat to the shore. He and Dr. Caldwell were picked up by a mail boat twenty-four hours after the accident happened.

It Saved His Leg.

"All thought I'd lose my leg," writes J. A. Swenson, Watertown, Wis., "Ten years of eczema, that fifteen doctors could not cure, had at last laid me up. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured it sound and well." Infallible for Skin Eruptions, Eczema, Salt Rheum, Boils, Fever Sores, Burns, Scalds, Cuts and Piles. 25c at all druggists.

PHOENIX IRON REDUCES WAGES

Three Thousand Men Affected by 10 Per Cent Cut.

Phoenixville, Pa., March 8.—A reduction of 10 per cent in the wages of the Phoenix Iron company went into effect today. About 3,000 men are affected. All departments except the draughtsmen and general office force are included in the cut.

The Phoenix Iron company is one of the biggest of the independent concerns. The large plant here has been improved and enlarged in the last year, but this winter has been the dullest the town has felt for many years.

BASEBALL BILL BECOMES LAW

Indiana Legislature Adjourns—County Local Option Law Remains.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 8.—The sixty-sixth session of the Indiana general assembly closed here today.

The bill legalizing Sunday baseball and the measure for a uniform system of public accounting, are among the more important bills to become laws. Governor Marshall refused to sign or veto the baseball bill, allowing it to become a law without his approval. An attempt by the Democrats to repeal the county local option law brought on a long contest which ended by the senate Republicans killing the repeal bill.

PURDY IS RETAINED.

Given Recess Appointment as Judge by President Taft.

Washington, March 8.—President Taft has given Judge M. D. Purdy of Minnesota a recess appointment. Senator Clapp, discussing the matter said: "Judge Purdy's status is the same as it was during the late regular session just adjourned. Of course, I am not at liberty to say what the president will do when congress reassembles. He may, or may not, ask Senator Nelson and myself to submit a recommendation. That is a question to be decided on later."

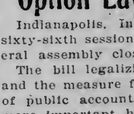

Senator Clapp took occasion to predict that the days of secret executive sessions of the United States senate are numbered. "I have always been gainst executive sessions of the senate," he said. "The rank injustice that is done to many good men is so palpable and the proceedings of the secret sessions become so generally known, that secret sessions are becoming to be a farce."

King Alfonso in Morocco.

Several St. Louis county measures were advanced to the calendar by the house in committee of the whole, on motion of Mr. Austin. One provides for a county examiner to look into the books and accounts of towns, villages, cities, school districts and charitable associations in St. Louis county. Another puts the St. Louis county courthouse under a commission composed of the chairman of the county board, the county auditor and the county treasurer. A third authorizes the transcribing of records in the register of deeds office.

WEST END

WRECK HUT FOR SECOND TIME

Warming House at Skating Rink is Again Demolished.

For the second time this winter, the "warming house" at the free skating rink, at the foot of Twenty-first avenue west, has been destroyed by hoodlums.

A short time after the cabin was erected rowdies knocked down the stove, ripped boords off the walls and yanked the paper from the roof and sides, and Saturday night the operation was repeated, even more effectually.

The warming house was built by popular subscription, and a great deal of pleasure was derived from it by the skaters. The free rink in the West end has been one of the most popular in the city. Members of the Adams' School Alumni association were very active in securing funds for the warming house, and they kept the ice cleared and the shanty supplied with fuel.

After the rowdies got through with their work Saturday night, the warming house was a wreck. The skating season is about over, so the chances are that the house will not be restored.

SNATCHED FROM DEATH.

Mother Grabs Carbolic Acid From Tiny Son's Lips.

Mrs. J. G. Johnson of 2013 West Fourth street saved the life of her 3-year-old son, Charley, yesterday, by snatching a bottle of carbolic acid just as the child was about to drink it. The boy's face and hands were slightly burned, but he will be all right in a few days.

The child found the bottle of carbolic acid and thought it was something good to drink. His mother grabbed the poison in the nick of time.

FREE RINKS ARE CLOSED

Weather and Lack of Money Puts Them Out of Business.

This is the last day of the winter for the municipal free skating rinks. Warm weather and poor ice, together with a lack of funds, resulted in a combination that has put the rinks out of business.

Two or three weeks ago it became evident to the board of park commissioners that it would be necessary soon to close the rinks, because the maintenance fund was getting low. From now on skating will be a doubtful proposition, anyway, on account of the warm weather and consequent poor ice.

The rinks have been a big success, and all gve of them have been very largely patronized. They have been so very successful, in fact, that they will be made a permanent institution in Duluth henceforth, and provision will be made every year for keeping them open during the winter and free to the general public.

MRS. WILKS HEAD OF THE FAMILY

Hetty Green's Daughter Speedily Makes the Fact Clear.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 8.—Sylvia Green Wilks, daughter of Hetty Green, the richest woman in America, has at an early stage of her honeymoon assumed the character of director of her husband. The couple arrived in Philadelphia Friday night and left Saturday afternoon for New York.

Insisting upon walking from the Bellevue-Stratford, the bride was reluctantly accommodated by her husband. Over muddy crossings, banks of snow, threading their way through the crush of traffic, as they hurried, taking short cuts to the station, the pair finally landed at Broad street, the bride a strong winner by several lengths. Arriving at the station she held the door open and Wilks passed through, wiping his forehead with a handkerchief.

"Just say, if you have to say anything, that we were in Philadelphia," said Mr. Wilks. "We are going to New York," he added, but a look from his wife caused the man to stop instantly, and he followed Mrs. Wilks down the platform to the waiting train.

Dressed in a smoke-colored directoire gown with salmon-colored lining of silk and wearing a fur toque and a heavy black veil, the bride led the way from the time the pair left the Bellevue-Stratford until they passed from sight down the station platform.

COMMITTEE IN DULUTH

Legislators Here to Look Over Steel Plant Site.

Spend Nearly Five Hours With Steel Corporation Officials.

Joseph B. Cotton, as a representative of the United States Steel corporation, this morning went over some of the benefits the state of Minnesota would derive from the establishment at Duluth of a steel mill, before the members of the legislative committee, who are in Duluth today.

Representative L. H. Johnson, who is chairman of the sub-committee of the house upon taxes and tax laws, and Representative D. A. Stuart of Winnebago, George A. MacKenzie of Gaylord, Henry Rines of Mora, John F. Selb of St. Paul, C. M. Bendixen of Morgan, and Chester A. Congdon of Duluth, as well as W. A. McGonagle, vice president and general manager of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, were present in Mr. Congdon's office at the meeting of the house committee.

The members of the committee reached Duluth this morning. After breakfast at the Lenox Hotel, they went to Mr. Congdon's office to hear the steel company's side of the investigation that is being made into the tonnage tax question, and of the benefits the state will receive from the bringing to Duluth of a mill of the steel corporation.

"We are here to go into the history of the tonnage tax question, and also to ascertain what benefits will accrue to Minnesota from the establishment here of a plant of the United States Steel corporation," said Chairman L. H. Johnson of the committee. "That is about all there is to say at this time. Of course the question is one of very broad dimensions. It is a very great question, and one that requires lots of study. We are here to give the question our personal attention. We will go out to the site of the steel plant and ascertain all of the facts that are possible. It is a question that means much to the state, and we are here to gather all the facts and information that we can."

That the members of the sub-committee sent here to look into the situation will gather some facts is obvious. They were closeted in the office of Mr. Congdon for over four and a half hours today. They did not leave the office until after 1 o'clock. The members of the committee were asking questions and in turn were being asked questions by Mr. Cotton. Mr. Cotton, as representing the Steel company, was able to give the members of the committee much information as to the policy of the Steel company, should the plant at Duluth be given any encouragement by the state legislature.

The many sides to the question that means so much to Duluth and to the state at large, were pointed out by Mr. Cotton. In turn the members of the committee had many questions to ask of the steel company's representative.

After lunch at the Kitchi Gammi club, the members of the committee will be taken to the Spirit Lake site of the steel plant. The members of the party will take the West Duluth car out to the end of the line, riding from there to Spirit Lake site in vehicles. They wished to get a good look at the country between Duluth and the Spirit Lake site, and the drive from the end of the car line to the site will afford ample opportunity for the view desired.

The members of the committee have nothing to say as to what opinion they may have upon the question, that is of such vital importance to Duluth. They are extremely guarded in their remarks. They let Mr. Johnson, chairman of the committee do their talking, and Mr. Johnson says very little and puts that very little in very concise form.

The members of the committee will not go to the range. The conference this morning with Mr. Cotton and Mr. McGonagle, and the trip to the site of the plant will complete the investigation as far as the visit of the members to Duluth is concerned. The plan is to return to St. Paul upon the evening train.

WILL DISCUSS CONSOLIDATION

Yacht Club Members Will Hold Mass Meeting at Y. M. C. A.

At a meeting to be held this evening at the Y. M. C. A., the members of the Yacht club will decide whether or not they wish to affiliate with the members of the Boat club, and build up one of the strongest water clubs in America.

Commodore Johnson of the Yacht club refused to give out any additional information concerning the matter this morning. He did say, however, that he was anxious that all the members of the club who could possibly do so should attend the meeting tonight.

The matter of the consolidation of the two clubs has been under consideration for some time by the officials of both clubs, and tonight the matter will be decided. If the members decide that the joining of forces with the Boat club would be an advantageous move, plans will be made at once. Some of the Yacht club buildings will be moved to the site of the main Boat club building, while the ice is still strong, and the dancing hall will probably be moved to the branch at Oatka.

BUT ONE MORE TOURNAMENT

Duluth Ski Club Planning a Bumper Event for Sunday.

Duluth ski enthusiasts will be given their last opportunity of the season to witness the great Norwegian sport at Chester Hill, Sunday afternoon, when, under the auspices of the Duluth Ski club, the last of the series of winter tournaments will be pulled off.

All the local riders will compete and invitations have been sent to all the range and Copper country clubs to send representatives. A number of cash prizes will be hung up and it is expected that it will be the bumper ski event of the winter.

The officials of the Duluth club feel very badly about the failure of Bernt Hanson, the Coleraine barrel stave expert, who was to have performed at the last tournament, to show up. They will make an effort to have him give an exhibition Sunday.

POSTPONED

The Redman's Benefit Dance which was to be given Tuesday, March 9, will be postponed until Tuesday, March 16, because of damage to the hall by fire.

COURT COLLECTS $120 FROM RAID

Eleven Men Charged With Gambling, Forfeit Bail; Proprietor Fined.

The eleven men who were arrested at the Douglas hotel, 314 Tower avenue, Saturday night by Detectivess Meade and Dill, failed to show up at the municipal court this morning to answer to the gambling charge they were arrested on, and forfeited $10 bail each. Carl Anderson, accused of conducting the gambling joint pleaded guilty to the charge this morning and was fined $10.

The detectives found three games of poker running, but there being only two officers, about seven of the players made their escape. Those who were arrested gave their names as: William Clarke, John Sweeney, Charles Olsen, John Olsen, Carl Johnson, J. Hunt, Charles White, Charles Miller, Ole Larson, Gust Anderson and Ed Christianson.

MOTHER CHARGED WITH NEGLECT

Mrs. Alice Woods, age 31, who lives in a shanty at 419½ John avenue, was arrested yesterday afternoon, charged with neglecting her 3-months-old infant.

The woman's neglect of her child was called to the attention of the police by a neighbor. Yesterday the mother was accused of leaving her child to swelter for four hours before a hot stove, while she was out. Humane Agent Kellogg made the complaint, and took the child from the shanty to the Children's home, where it is being cared for. When Mrs. Woods returned and was informed that her baby girl had been taken away, and that she was arrested, She did not make any fuss, but climbed into the wagon and was driven to the station house, where she is now held.

The woman is the mother of three children, who are in the state school for demented children.

MURDERS AGENT, KILLS HIMSELF

Double Crime in Great Northern Depot at Devils Lake, N. D.

Devils, Lake, N. D., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. M. Bryant, cashier at the Great Northern depot here shot O. J. Hoepner, the agent at 9 o'clock this morning, through the head and then placed the revolver to his own head shooting himself.

Bryant was discharged by Hoepner yesterday and when he arrived at the office this morning Auditor W. W. Howard was waiting to check him out. Bryant who was presumed to be short in his accounts went to his desk, secured the revolver and committed the rash deed.

Hoepner died twenty minutes after, and Bryant died at 11 o'clock. Not knowing the combination of the safe Auditor Howard has been unable to check the accounts and find out Bryant's exact shortage. Both men were married, with large families residing at Devils Lake. Coroner Gilbrtson held an inquest this afternoon. Hoepner was considered one of the best agents on the Great Northern.

TRANSFER OF LICENSE

Carpenter Brothers Sell Out Interest in Saloon Business.

New Phase of Fight Against West End Saloon.

A new development appeared in the Carpenter Bros. saloon license matter today, with the application made to the city clerk that the Carpenter license be transferred to William Meier, who owns the building wherein the saloon is located.

Mr. Meier's attorney declares the sale of the saloon to Mr. Meier will be bona fide, and that a considerable sum of cash will be involved in the deal. He says it is no attempt to get around the council, but that, if the transfer is allowed, the Carpenters will have no more to do with the place or its profits than any other citizen of Duluth.

Just what view the council will take of the situation remains to be seen. It is rather expected that a majority vote will be secured on a motion to postpone action on a revocation of the Carpenter license, until the legal limit for action on an application for transfer, two weeks, expires. In any event, the proposition allows the liberals an excuse to vote against a revocation of the Carpenter license, if they are so inclined.

DICE BOXES PROHIBITED

The knell of the dice box in Duluth was sounded today on an order from Chief Troyer.

The dice box has become too prominent in the city to be allowed to pass unnoticed by the autorities any longer. Not a cigar store, saloon or candy store in the city is complete without a box and a set of dice, and everything from a beef steak to a pair of shoes or a box of candy is shaken for. It has grown so that some peopel throw dice for the clothes they wear on their backs and the food they eat. Originally it was the custom to shake for cigars alone, but now the scope of dice-shaking has extended until it includes almost everything.

Chief Troyer signed the death warrant for the game today.

JUMPING ON INSPECTOR

Some fifty members of the Commercial club called upon Building Inspector Kielley this morning to express their opinion of him individually and collectively, as a result of the report in The Herald Saturday night that the building inspector would refuse the club a permit for the new building until certain changes had been made in the plans.

The club, it is claimed, has nothing to do with the construction of the building, which is being erected by a real estate corporation. The club has merely taken a lease on two of the floors, and the building committee of the club has nothing to do with the construction of the building expect to see that the two floors are in accordance with the needs of the club.

"After the session this morning, I feel like exonerating the club," said the building inspector. "The permit has not yet been granted, and it won't be until the plans are either made to conform with the ordinance, or the ordinance with the plans, which seems to be a popular method these days. But the club, apparently, is not to blame, and I must retract, as far as the club is concerned, but work will be stopped on the building this afternoon."

THE RELIGION OF A WORKING MAN

Dr. John Copeland Talks to Young Men at the Y. M. C. A.

Rev. John Copeland, Ph.D., of New York city was the principal speaker at the men's meeting Sunday afternoon, in the gymnasium of the Central Y. M. C. A. building. The meeting was well attended.

Dr. Copeland took for his subject, "The Religion of a Working Man." He began by paying both the city of Duluth and the Y. M. C. A. building a compliment. He said that Duluth was a city of aspiration and the city of outlook. He said that America was another name for opportunity, and that an American was one who fights for the next step in progress.

The speaker claimed that there are no men who are entirely without religion. "Religion is the life of God and the soul of man," he said. "Theology is the expression of that life to suit different ages and different temperaments."

Warsaw, Ind., March 8.—Preparations that are being made to probe the books of the county officers for twenty years back may be seriously interrupted by the fact that unknown persons last night opened the vault in the auditor's office and withdrew a number of records.

SOUTH DAKOTA WINS.

WOULD HIT THIS CITY

Duluth May be Forced to Build Another School.

Are Eighteen Basement Rooms Now in Use in City.

Should the bill now pending before the state legislature in regard to underground or basement school rooms go through, it would require another new school building to be erected at once in Duluth, in addition to those now under construction.

In the city there are eighteen school rooms located in the basements of the several schools. These basement rooms care for at least 400 pupils and as all the buildings in the city are in a crowded condition, these pupils could not be well distributed through the different buildings.

In the Endion school there are two rooms located in the basement and used for school purposes. In the Franklin there are two; in the old Washington one; in the high school building three, outside of the manual training room, which Supt. Denfeld says would not come under that head. The Lincoln school contains six, the Monroe two, and the Irving, two. This makes a total of eighteen rooms, and, should the bill pass, arrangements would have to be made for another building at once. It is impossible to say where the building could be located, as it would be a hard matter to build the school at a point where it would relieve them all.

At a meeting of the school board recently, it was mentioned during the course of the meeting that another school, in addition to the C. C. Salter school, would have to be erected very soon. The crowded condition of the Washington school makes this necessary, and the steady growth at the high school is making itself felt. The plan outlined at that time was to procure property near the site of the present high school building, and devote it to the use of the grades, leaving the high school for the use of the high school pupils alone. This would probably have to be done at once should the bill pass the house.

Just what is meant by basement rooms is yet to be determined. The clerk of the high school board has written the Duluth delegation at St. Paul asking just how far above ground they have to be. Owing to the hills in Duluth some of the rooms are on a level with the street and below ground in the rear. The rooms mentioned above are, however, all literally in the basement.

SOCIAL EVIL IS PROBED

The social evil on the Iron ranges is the subject of the investigation of the grand jury today. Special investigation is being made in refrence to the prevalence of the evil at the Adams location, at Eveleth. Several witnesses are being examined by the members of the jury.

It is probable that the work of the jury will be completed tonight. If that is the case, the report will be presented to the district court this evening.

AFTER NEW MEMBERS

Ten sub-committees representing the membership committee of the Commrcial club, this morning began the campaign for new members. The aim of the membership committee is to increase the membership of the club to 1,000, which will require about 200 new members.

There are thirty members of the membership committee. The committee is divided into ten sub-committees. Each of these sub-committees is alloted a section of the business district to work in, and each sub-committee will strive to beat the record of the other committees in securing new members.

The campaign of the Commercial club for new members will be a strenuous one. Buttons bearing a motto, stating that the club wants 1,000 members, have been provided, and members of the club will wear these buttons until the membership of the club has reached the 1,000 mark.

COLOM CASE GOES OVER TO APRIL

Witness Against Man Accused of Murder Is Still Missing.

The Colom murder case, which has been set for trial several times, has again been put off for a month. It is now set for April 5.

The case was to have been called for trial this morning, but Assistant County Attorney Greene reported that a witness, who is needed for the trial, is missing and cannot be located at present. He asked that the trial be set for a later date and his request was granted.

Colom is held in the county jail on a charge of having killed Glazzo Evanich at a camp of the Northern Lumber company, near Alborn, last November. He is alleged to have struck Evanich over the head with an ax, causing a wound, from which the man died in St. Mary's hospital here, some days later.

HUMAN CLOTHING STORE ARRESTED

Wore Three Suits, Five Shirts, Fourteen Socks and More.

A human clothing store walked into the police headquarters yesterday afternoon, in tow of Detective Terry. The man, who was arrested at the union depot by order of the Ashland, Wis., police, wore three suits of clothes, seven pairs of socks, four suits of underwear, and five shirts.

In addition to this he carried a variety of notions, ties, handkerchiefs, etc., not to speak of a liberal supply of tobacco. The Ashland police telephoned yesterday that the man, Joseph Miklo by name, was suspected of having robbed his pal, a lumberjack like himself, of $50. Even after a thorough search, only $8 was found in his possession. He was later released, because there was no evidence to hold him on the charge made.

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial said:

"The tone of the copper market is slightly firmer. Lake is now 13 cents, and electrolytic 12¾ cents to 12⅞ cents per pound. There was a considerable buying movement early this week, 50,000,000 pounds or more being taken, practically all by foreign consumers. Domestic manufacturers are holding to their old established custom of waiting for orders for goods before buying the copper to be used. It may be expected, therefore that the surplus copper in this country will be cleaned up at current low prices by European consumers, and that American manufacturers will buy coper at higher prices when they need it later on. Their policy in this respect encourages foreign competition, of course.

"Both domestic and foreign consumers of copper are practically bare of supplies. When the latter are satisfied that the time has come to buy copper, and the former 'get the orders,' they will come into the market and buy an amount equal to the world's total surplus supplies at one sitting. The change in the metal market may come very suddenly, but at present it seems that we must wait for improvement until the pending tariff revision is more generally understood in its details.

"There is every prospect that the last half of this year will be a period of almost unprecedented business activity in this country. Money is available for the advancement of all legitimate industrial enterprises; the demand for and popularity of electric power is increasing, and electrification of railroads will gain rapidly as time goes on. There will be a steadily increasing consumption of copper and I believe that the price will be up around 15 cents per pond before the end of this year."

QUIT CHURCH OR QUIT SOCIALISM

Priest Lays Down Law, Citing Pope's Circular Letter.

Manitowoc, Wis., March 8.—Members of the Roman Catholic church who are affiliated with the Socialist party must choose between that party and their church. This was broadly intimated by Rev. Kubiszewski of St. Mary's Polish Catholic church on Sunday in an address from the pulpit.

The priest read a circular letter from the pope which he said was the basis for his statement and similar addresses will be made by all Catholic priests in the state. The climax was forced here by the recent nomination by the Socialists of Peter Kaufmann, a member of the Catholic church for city treasurer. Kaufmann has withdrawn from the ticket however, and it is said will sever his connection with the party.

NAMES OF EDITORS MUST APPEAR IN EVERY ISSUE.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 8.—In an option handed down today the superior court holds that the act of 1907, requiring publication of the names of owners, officers and managing editors at tops of editorial columns is not an invasion of any rights by the state and it applies to weekly as well as daily newspapers.

The case in which the opinion was given is that the commonwealth against John F. Short, editor of the Clearfield Republican. Mr. Short was convicted of not obeying the law, but was discharged by the Clearfield county court for the reasons that it was held to be an abuse of the police powers; that the act did not apply to weekly newspapers and that Short in printing his own name, complied with the law. The superior court orders Short to appear for sentence which probably will be only a fine.

RETIREMENT FUNDS FOR TEACHERS.

A bill now before the Minnesota state legislature, which seems quite likely to pass, provides for the creation, management and distribution of a retirement fund for teachers in the public schools of cities having a population of 50,000 or more, and under that limitation applies of course only to Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis at the present time.

The proposal is not for the creation of a fund to which teachers will be compelled to contribute whether they so desire or not. The creation of the "Teacher's Retirement Fund association" is entirely optional with the teachers of any city, and the contributing to and the participation in the benefits of the fund, when the association is created, is also optional with every teacher. Otherwise the plan would be condemned at the outset not only as confiscatory, but as reducing salaries which are urgently in need of being raised.

The initiative in the matter of the creation of such a fund is left to the board of education of each city. The board of education may, by the provisions of the bill, form a plan for the creation of a teacher's retirement fund association, for providing the necessary retirement fund and for its management and distribution. Such an association may be incorporated and take on legal existence upon two conditions: consent of the council of the city and the written approval of a majority of all the teachers of the city. These conditions being met the association may be organized and lawfully begin business.

The association once organized may raise funds by levying a tax not exceeding one-tenth of one mill in any year and by such other means as it may devise. The proposed law does not say anything directly about the levying of an assessment upon teachers, but provides that the association "may include" in its regulations "a provision that only such teachers as make a contribution" to the fund shall be beneficiaries. Each city, which adopts the plan, is thus free to work out its own details and to assess or not assess such teachers as are willing to contribute, at such times and in such amounts as it sees fit.

The entire matter is one which affects the better pay of teachers. There are few who will dispute the fact that the public school teachers are underpaid. Those who do dispute it have to deny the fact that women in other lines of work, even in domestic service, are paid more money than school teachers and it has not yet been claimed that clerks, stenographers, factory workers or domestic servants are over-paid for the service which they are expected to perform.

The retirement fund plans to add something to the pay of teachers as well as to provide a form of insurance for them. As such, it is right that the fund should be provided for the most part by public taxation, but that those who expect to benefit by it should contribute something to it. As an insurance against age and disability, the plan is wholly admirable; as a means of adding to the teacher's salary it can only be said of it that every little helps and as such it is welcome, while we still hold to the necessity of considerable immediate increases in pay.

THE USEFUL MINORITY.

The ambition of President Taft, as generally imputed to him by popular rumor and as flatly announced in his inaugural address, to break up the Solid South, in the sense of building up in the Southern states a strong minority party, is a very laudable ambition and one which we are sure that the president entertains not in any partizan sense but in a purely patriotic desire to promote the welfare of the whole country.

Any political division controlled by the overwhelming strength of one political party is controlled by a party which soon loses its sense of responsibility to the people, and thinking that might makes right, arrogates the government of the people to itself. Corruption abounds, the "rotten borough" is the fact, and government becomes a government of the people by bosses. That the South has not become a rotten borough is due to the fact that its peculiar problems have forced its people to constantly unite in the highest patriotism. The South has been Democratic, not so much from allegiance to the principles of the Democratic party as enunciated by the Democratic candidates for the presidency and by the national Democratic party platforms, but largely through tradition made sacred by four terrible years of war and by other just as terrible years of reconstruction. Because of these conditions there has practically been no minority party in the South, and because of the same conditions the South has escaped, for the most part, the usual evils of overwhelming party domination.

But the South has been separated from the rest of the nation long enough. It is time that the Southern states returned to the Union in fact, as well as in law. It is time, and it is necessary to the solution of its own peculiar problem, that the South should take an interest and a part in the affairs of the nation. It is impossible for it to do this so long as it is solidly Democratic or solidly committed to any other party. The building up of a strong minority in the South is absolutely necessary to the industrial and political development of that section of the country.

There can be no doubt that if the Southern states were as uncertain as are many of the Northern states, the country would be vastly benefited as well as the South itself. Nor would such a condition mean that the minority party in the nation, which ever that party might be, would be any less strong than at present. In fact, the Solid South is actually the greatest weakness of the Democratic party today. The fact that the South is absolutely certain to go Democratic, whether the cause of the party be just or unjust and whether its leader be wise or foolish, creates a distrust of the party in the North that constantly keeps thousands of intelligent voters out of its ranks. When the South develops a virile minority, the balance of power between the two great political parties of the country, no matter what those parties may be, will be much smaller than it is today, than it has been during all the years since the Civil war.

Surely here is a wide space of usefulness for a strong minority in the South. Without it the South will never become an integral, influential force in the government and in development of the country.

A GOOD WORD GONE WRONG.

Words are queer things. There are many of them that have many meanings, and there a very large number that have a double meaning, one being the original meaning, the other being the meaning which the word has taken on from environment. Sometimes the original meaning is almost completely lost sight of and becomes obsolete; so now it is no longer permissible to speak of "preventing the dawning of the morning," for prevent now means "to come before' only in the sense of hindering and stopping. But often we retain both meanings of the word in common use. A word in point is "politician," which is commonly used in both a good sense and a bad sense.

The use of this word, "politician," in its evil sense by The Herald has offended the St. Cloud Times. "The constant slurring of 'the politicians,' is silly nonsense," says the Times. "Leave out the politicians and you remove from public life the ablest men in public life." The Times then goes on to say that Roosevelt and Bryan and Taft and all the rest, down to the humble newspaper "boys" are politicians. So they are to be sure. They are politicians in the original sense of the word; its good sense. But when we speak of a politician who attempts to make politics not a matter of citizenship but a matter of self interest, we use the word "politician" in its derivative sense, and it is not a pleasant commentary upon modern political conditions that every one of us who uses the English language uses the word "politician" more often in this derivative and evil sense than we do in its orgiginal and good sense. We have been forced to so use it, because so large a proportion of our politicians have not been patriots, but simply self-seekers.

The transformation of the word politician is a case of a good word gone to the bad. The thing that it has to describe has been so largely bad that it has got a bad meaning by association, by keeping bad company so much of the time. The Times understands this and everybody understands it. No one is deceived by the use of the word, but everyone instantly understands in which sense it is used.

Through little use some words lose their original meaning, just as organs of plants and animals may lose their original functions by disuse. Will the word politician finally lose its original significance and become totally depraved? Let us hope not, but we must acknowledge that there is a strong tendency in that direction. A politician is really one who makes politics his business or a part of his business. More commonly we recognize as a politician one who by clever methods is able to succeed in politics and most commonly of all we tag as "politician" he who succeeds in politics by bad methods. Every citizen ought to be a politician, and if every citizen were, perhaps we should be able to rescue this word of original goodness from the evil repute into which it has been falling. As it is its evil associations have corrupted it, and in common acceptation it has an odor which is not at all complimentary to those to whom it is applied.

Roosevelt did not have a single sick day in all his seven years in the White House. But there were others that had.

If it really wants to find out what kind of a man he is, and if it has got the grit, California might try it on William Howard Taft.

If some of the correspondents don't watch out with the wild gush they are printing about him, they will get put in Mr. Taft's new Buncombe club.

Has the country got through with Roosevelt? It may help to the answer of this question if we will recall what Lincoln said of Grant: "I can't spare this man. He fights."

What the president of the United States said to the vice president of the United States was: "Put her there, Jim," and we fear that Mr. Taft, too, is hopelessly democratic.

Two newspapers in this country have neglected to print any glowing eulogy of the Roosevelt administration—the Indianapolis News and the New York World. We wonder why?

If the Taft administration can revise the tariff without losing the house of representatives to the minority party, it will do something that has been done only once before in the history of the country.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

William Ainsworth, who came to Duluth in the year 1876, when the coming traffic center of the Northwest was hardly more than a row of straggling stores and houses, stated at the St. Louis last night that until five years ago he had lived here, and that he figured his standing by the location of his place of residence.

"It was this way," he began. "I moved eastward with the increase in salary. I started into the tug business. We did not get the wages then that are paid to the boys today. I was getting $30 a month after I had been with the tug people for a while, and I believed that it was good pay.

"When I started out with the tug people, I lived down upon the bowery. I was wearing overalls and a rough flannel shirt, as most people did in the cheap lodging district. That was the place I lived in before I got my first steady employment in Duluth. I ran away from home to come here, and you may believe that at times I thought that Duluth was a very rough place for a fellow to come to.

"Then I got a position and I moved over the restaurant and saloon kept by Tom Madden. I was getting up in the world and was steadily progressing toward the east end of the city. I roomed over the restaurant for some time, for that was considered pretty good quarters. Then I got another raise and I moved to the east side of Fifth avenue. I had got off the Bowery proper, though let me tell you that the Bowery was not the only tough section of Duluth in those days. The tug people began bgetting stronger and wages began to get better with the growth of the business. Then I made my third move. I moved to the place where the Glass Block stands at the present time. I was getting into the upper districts. When I left Duluth I was living at a spot a little beyond where Giddings store stands, so you can tract my progress while in Duluth. I made a steady progress toward the East end, but you may have noticed that I really never did get past the spot where Lake avenue branches off from Superior street. That was the height of my ambition during the latter years of my residence in this city, but it was only ambition, for I never got half way there.

"Duluth was one of the toughest towns in the Northwest. The Bowery was simply awful at times. If it was known that any man was in town looking for a fight, there would be a score of the toughest fighters in Duluth upon his trail in fifteen minutes. They would round him up some place and he would have to fight before he left town. And to tell the truth, the fellows that generally struck town looking for trouble, as a rule got more than they originally set out to get.

"Some men would travel over 100 miles, and much of the distance was walked, to get a fight. They would hear that there was some tough fighting man up in Duluth, and away for Duluth this fighter would start. He would reach the city and look up the man that he had been told was tough. The men would meet and the fight would be quickly arraigned. There would be no soreness or anger between the two men. It was simply a matter of finding out the best man, and that did not require any anger or hard feeling.

"The fighters would go into a backyard, a back room of some saloon, sometimes into an empty box car and lock the door, or in any place where they would not be liable to be disturbed, and settle their difference of opinion. When the fight was over the men would often shake hands. If the man who had come some distance to fight the Duluth man, had won, he generally remained long enough to gather some of the glory of his victory. Sometimes these traveling fighters had a roll with them, and if they happened to be the victors in the battle, they often spent their roll before making tracks.

"Even in the past five years Duluth has made wonderful progress. Every time a man comes back to this town he can see a decided indication of the progress Duluth is making in every way. To a person who has lived through the old days, when Duluth was nothing more than a straggling lumber and marine town, the progress of the city today seems strange. I like to talk about the old days, and though there are many of the men in Duluth who used to live here in the days I have been speaking about, they are too busy, as a rule, to tell reminiscences. Most of the old timers, who have remained here all their lives, have made some money and have it invested wisely. When I look back over the years that have passed since I first came to this place, I can see many times where a man could have become a very rich man, had he used some of the advice that some of the far-seeing men here gave out. Some saw the future of Duluth and the ranges, and those are the wealthy men of Duluth. The old times were great, but I am disposed to think that the new times for Duluth will be greater."

THE WEATHER.

Duluthians who stuck by Duluth for the winter had reason to pity the benighted persons who left the city for other climes yesterday. Yesterday was worth a week in the Sunny South. It was a perfect day, and, apparently the majority of people took advantage of it, for the streets were crowded with pedestrians.

Today it grew cloudy, and there is a prospect of snow tonight.

The sun rose this morning at 6:35 o'clock and will set this afternoon at 6:03, making 11 hours and 28 minutes of sunlight.

R. E. Clark, acting forecaster, makes the following comment on the weather conditions:

"Temperatures are relatively high for the season over all districts, those along the gulf coast being unusually high. During the past twenty-four hours light rain or snow fell over all districts, except over California, the Northwestern border states and Canada, the lower lake region and the Upper Ohio valley, due to the movement of of barometric depressions central over Texas, the Northwest and one that is disappearing over the New England coast. These disturbances are also attended by somewhat warmer weather in their respective districts. Areas of high pressure, with centers over California, the Red River valley and over Lake Huron, overspread the districts from the lake region west and southwestward to the Pacific coast."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures:

Department of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Duluth, March 8.—Forecast for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday—Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges: Snow tonight or Tuesday; moderate variable winds.

R. E. CLARK,
Acting Forecaster.

Chicago, March 8.—Forcast for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday:

Upper Michigan—Snow tonight and Tuesday; colder northwest portion tonight.

Wisconsin—Snow tonight and Tuesday, heavy possibly in southeast portion; colder tonight.

Minnesota—Colder tonight and Tuesday.

North Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday; warmer in east and south portions tonight.

Attacking the President.

Evansville Courier: The members of congress who are attacking President Roosevelt now are not making for themselves reputations for either courage or good manners. For seven years they have sat under "the big stick" and never whimpered. Now that the big stick is about to be removed from their devoted heads they swell up like the frog in the fable, or like "the boys that fear no noise when they're not far from home."

To listen to some of the speeches in congress it would appear that the members were making some new discoveries about the president. So long as he had patronage to give out or his popularity with the voters was an available life preserver in a political canvass, far from any words of disparagement, there was only honeyed adulation, but this late hour the fierce union and warlike speeches will not convince the public of the courage of the assailants.

The enmity towards the president has been compressed so long that it breaks forth in a most offensive form. Hatred long repressed once unlashed, is without restraint. The violent language used in the house of representatives is unworthy of the dignity of that hall. All that has been said has been true, or a close approximation of the truth, but it has been said in a manner that does not comport with good taste or good breeding.

A Deep Sea Ballad.

Sea urchins have a jolly time,
They sing Neptunes all day,
They play upon the trumpet-fish
And feed sea cows with hay.

They make octopusses mew
By pulling on their tails,
And then, when mother slaps them, they Give vent to doleful whales.

They watch the starfish act in plays,
And clap their clammy hands.

The mussels on their brawny arms
Stand out like iron bands.

At night, when pallid moonfish gleam,
In sleep they close their eyes.
And when the morning comes they all
Can watch the sunfish rise.

If they swear like the devil-fish,
In pickerel they'll burn;
But if they learn to school themselves,
To angel-fish they'll turn.

N. Salsbury in the Bohemian.

Running Away.

Here is my pipe, here is my stick,
Here are my brogans—a well-worn pair;
Come little dog by the name o' Nick,
We're running away from Care!

Off to the hills, with a wind behind,
Leaving the clangor, the jar and grind.
Troubles that harrow, griefs that blind,
And the clutches of old Despair.

Running away—and a fig for bail!
Over the ridges and down the dale,
Swinging along the open trail,
Running away from Care.

Diplomacy.

In the days when I was youthful (I am far from youthful now)
I determined to be truthful
And I sealed it with a vow;
But my head they do not batter
For the things that I may say,
As I try to put the matter
In a diplomatic way.

If, a lady asks you plainly
If you think she's looking old,
If her bulk is not ungainly,
Still no falsehood need be told.
You may thing her aged and fatter,
But it's not the thing to say.
You must try to put the matter
In a diplomatic way.

If a person's not veracious
Do not tell him that he lies,
It's a phrase that's most ungracious
And results in blackened eyes.
I don't say that you should flatter,
But you'll always find it pay
If you'll try to put the matter
In a diplomatic way.

The Worst Offending.

Philadelphia North American: So far as the North American is concerned, the case (steel merger) does not alter in the least our opinion of President Roosevelt. He is human. He makes mistakes. He misjudges some men. He trusts sometimes to bad advisers. That is the worst of the offending of a splendid president and patriot.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1889.

H. M. McHarg, paying teller of the Duluth National bank, left yesterday on a visit to his old home at Albany, N. Y.

Col. Tanner will build an elegant residence this summer on Harrison's East End addition, overlooking the lake, New London and the city.

The real estate firm of Harrison & Duff at West Duluth has dissolved partnership. Mr. Harrison leaves soon for Tacoma, while S. K. Duff will continue in the business in partnership with H. Stevens.

J. N. Johnston of Suffel & Co. left yesterday for Ontario, having received a telegram informing him of his father's death.

Alderman M. J. Davis and Capt. Harvey have returned from Joplin, Mo., where they were inspecting the lead mining district.

E. S. Emerson arrived last night and is busily looking over the Spalding hotel, of which it is probable he will be landlord. It is expected it will cost $60,000 to furnish the house. The opening will take place about May 1.

The minimum temperature in Duluth this morning was 15 degs. above zero. The day was dull and cool, and colder weather is predicted.

The bill to authorize the county board to issue bonds for the purpose of purchasing land for a site for the proposed new courthouse and jail has been prepared and will be sent to St. Paul tonight. The limits within which the site may be chosen are between Fourteenth avenue east and Sixth avenue west, on First or Superior streets.

Charles W. Hoyt, a prominent young business man of St. Paul, has decided to locate in Duluth.

A. B. Spencer opened a blacksmith shop at West Duluth yesterday. He comes from Niagara Falls.

Frank Nathan, formerly of the Great Eastern Clothing company, has left Duluth for Superior, having disposed of his interest in the store here to M. S. Barrows. Mr. Nathan will conduct the Great Eastern clothing store at West Superior.

On March 5 Judge E. F. Martin stepped out of the position of municipal judge, which he has held since April, 1887, except for a period of six months when Judge Hale occupied the position. He was the first village justice of Duluth. Judge Page Morris succeeds him on the municipal court bench. Judge Davies succeeds Alfred Jaques as special municipal judge.

Police Sergeant Clements is confined to the house with a sprained ankle.

Mrs. C. E. Budden and Mrs. J. O. D. Grube have gone on a visit to Tower and Ely.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Le Sueur News: Think how Roosevelt will miss congress, and then think how congres will miss him.

Sherburne County Star-News: It is noticed with some surprise that the house of representatives has invited James J. Hill of the Great Northern railroad to make an address before that body. It is but a few years since that Mr. Hill was looked upon as an enem yof mankind, and an invitation of this sort would have meant political suicide, but times and public sentiment have changed, and now Mr. Hill is generally recognized as one of the deepest thinkers and broadest minded gentlemen of the age. In his loyalty to the interests of Minnesota, he stands alone, and it is fitting and proper that the legislature should have words of wisdom.

Park Rapids Enterprise: Fifteen new men entered the United States senate today. If this infusion of new blood into that deliberate body results in an awakening of the aged and lethargic members to a sense of their responsibility to the country rather than to senatorial dignity, the change will be hailed with applause by a people that have become weary.

Norman County Herald: Governor Johnson has a happy faculty of getting about everything he wants by the aid and with the consent of the common people. In fact, he's a winner.

Moose Lake Star-Gazette: "Four of the jurors in the Carmack murder case can neither read nor write," says the Baltimore Sun. Well if there is to be any "unwritten law" argument sprung in that trial, they ought to be able to judge it as well as any one else.

Norman County Index: Crookston men are planning to establish a home for consumptives on an island in the Lake of the Woods. That is an ideal place for such a home, as it is a beautiful lake with 10,000 picturesque islands.

Madison Independent Press: The governor seems to be holding his own pretty well in spite of the legislative steering committee, which was gotten up for the express purpose of digging a pit for him to fall into. In truth, the governor seems to have unusually good luck avoiding traps set by his opponents.

Albert Lea Tribune: Mr. Taft's vacation of dancing and dining is over. Now let us see if he can make the trusts and trust representatives do the barn dance like Teddy did?

Barnesville Record-Herald: Count the day lost whose low descending sun catches you with nothing done in the way of boosting your home town.

Collector—This bill has been standing for four years.

Mr. Hardup—Then why don't you let it rest?

Endowing a Newspaper.

Nebraska State Journal: For the sake of experiment and the good that might come of it, a Carnegie foundation for a model newspaper might be an excellent thing. "The Carnegie Daily Nation," mailed from Washington as the world's greatest newspaper, would be a conspicuous monument for the library builder. Perhaps it would be even his "most useful and enduring" monument, as Walter Wellman believes.

Mr. Carnegie ought not be led into such a venture, however, without a broad knowledge of the complications involved in creating a model newspaper. What is a model newspaper? A library is a library, a handsome building stored with time's crop of books; but it may be ventured that there are as many kinds of "model" newspapers as there are persons who know how to read. The editor does not live who gets out a newspaper that exactly pleases more than one discriminating mind.

Give up, then, the thought of pleasing its readers, a bit of liberty that only an endowed newspaper can enjoy, and settle on the general principle of telling the truth. But what is the truth? It is taking three months to decide what were the facts about the shooting in the sight of many witnesses of ex-Senator Carmack, and when the jury finally decides we shall all know that its decision is about as likely wrong as right. When it comes to the editorial column, the digestive tract of the newspaper, what woe is there! Of a million hard wrought opinions, which one shall "go?"

By all means let us have the model endowed newspaper. But it would be wrong to keep from the generous ironmaster the fact that to spend his money successfully by this method will call for a reach of a genius not called for in the making of it.

The Lincoln Cent.

Not on the eagle golden
Will we behold his face,
Nor yet on gleaming silver
The honored features trace;
But to the common copper,
The lowly coin, instead,
Has fallen the distinction
Of bearing Lincoln's head.

The millionaire may seldom
Those noble outlines grasp,
But childhood's chubby fingers
The image oft will clasp.
The poor man will esteem it,
And mothers hold it dear
The plain and common people
He loved when he was here.

ON THE IRON RANGES

LUMBER PLANT IS TO BE ENLARGED

Virginia Lumber Company to Employ Many Men This Season.

Virginia, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia Lumber company is driving piles preparatory to the erection of a large machine, and warehouse at a point between the old and the new sawmills.

The building will be constructed of brick and steel 36 by 150 feet and absolutely fire proof. The erection of a new office building is also under contemplation by the company and various other improvements about the mills are in prospect which will increase the out and give employment to a large number of additional men.

C. H. Rogers, the new superintendent, has brought with him from Scanlon a number of men who are now employed by the company. Included in the list are Ernest Douglass, Frank Foster, William Kerr and Andrew Martin sawyers; Ole Berg, head millwright at the new mill and Sam Whittier and Anthony Oest, assistants; Phillip La Bare, head millwright at the old mill, with Adolph Ionas as his assistant.

KILLING A COW PROVES COSTLY

Chisholm Finlander Pays $100 for Sport—Other Notes.

Chisholm, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A Finn, whose name was not stated, came across a cow belonging to Mrs. Hulto, a widow, residing on the south side of the lake, and fired two shots at the animal with a 38-caliber revolver, both shots taking effect and causing death. He was arrested and finde $50 and costs, which amounted to $100.

C. J. Sullivan was called to Ironwood, Mich., last week, to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law, who died at Colorado Springs, Col., and whose body was shipped to Ironwood for burial.

Prof. J. W. Scott of Eveleth, a band leader of note, is thinking of coming to Chisholm to reside. If he decides to come he will organize a band which any town in the country would be proud to maintain.

Frank Holmberg has moved into his new saloon.

Dr. J. F. Shellman has returned, after an absence of about three weeks. He has been in ill health and was being cared for by his brother at Nashwauk.

John Newman and son, from Gile, Wis., are visiting their daughter and sister, Mrs. D. Madden.

John Dwyer, the jeweler for McShane, is laid up with a bad attack of the grip.

A. B. Elspamer, the hardware man, has a first class and up to date store. The building he occupies is 25 by 115 feet, one-story and basement, with an eleven-foot ceiling. Mr. Erspamer paid $4,100 for the lot, and then erected his building at a cost of $8,500.

The new Chisholm Hotel when completed, will be one of the finest on the range or this part of the country. Mr. Neally, the proprietor and manager of the hotel, returned last week from Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis, where he spent ten days buying furniture and furnishings. Mr. Kreatz, the contractor, has started plastering, and the building is expected to be ready for occupancy by May 1.

NEW RANGE TOWN.

Is Called Spina and Located Four Miles East of Buhl.

Buhl, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Spina, the latest range town, located east of here, is attracting considerable attention. Considerable mining work in the vicinity of the new town is expected this year. Big operations in the mines of the vicinity are expected this spring and there is no other property in the vicinity which can be used for townsite purposes.

The Kinney mines are already opened up and miners from these mines have been squatting on the site of Spina. The Jennings is now being opened up and the Shenango Furnace company is going to open up a large property three-quarters of a mile west of the new townsite.

Two saloons, a general store and a school house are already on the property, several houses and shacks are under process of construction and contracts are out for several more business buildings. Before the summer is out Spina bids fair to be a busy little village.

CHISHOLM TICKETS.

Two in Field for Tuesday's Election, People's and Citizens'.

Chisholm, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the village election tomorrow there are two tickets in the field; the People's and Citizens.' The People's ticket is as follows: H. Pugere, president; Julius Grosse, Alex Koivunen, G. Howenstine, trustees; M. J. Thompson, recorder; Oscar Pohjonau, assessor; Martin Connors, constable.

The Citizens ticket is: C. Neally, president; A. Anderson, C. D. Purple, Capt. Rosewall, trustees; R. S. O'Neil, treasurer; Deal Blough, assessor; Charles Shubat, constable. There is one or two independant candidates.

PRISONERS BEING WORKED.

Eveleth Having Streets Cleaned by the City's Boarders.

Eveleth, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Taking the advise of a member of the council the city is now working on the streets all those who are arrested for minor offenses, and who are unable to pay their fines. This plan is the result of the bill the city has recently paid for the board of prisoners at Duluth. The local idea is that the men should pay their keeping; hence the additional cleaning of the Eveleth streets.

FRANCHISE TO BE CONSIDERED

Important Matters Come Before the Old Gilbert Council Monday Night.

Gilbert, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The meeting of the village council tonight will be the last one for the present body. The meeting is expected to be important, as the electric lighting franchise question will probably be decided.

The Virginia Light & Water company, the Gilbert Light & Power company and the Eveleth Electric company seek a franchise. At present most of the residents are using kerosene, while the business houses are using the latest patented gas generators for lighting purposes. The idea of having a municipal plant is gaining favor, as with the town's valuation, it would not take long for a plant like that to pay for itself.

A large number of liquor licenses are being asked for, supposedly to get in before the one saloon for 500 people law goes through the legislature. A number of these applications were left over from the last meeting.

MUCH STRIPPING AT THE STEPHENS

McCarthy Bros. of Two Harbors Take Large Contract.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arrangements are being made for extensive stripping operations at the Stephens mine, near Colby this year, and McCarthy Bros, who have the contract are shipping a large number of dump cars there for the work, which is expected to commence soon. A large amount of stripping has been done at that property before, but none was done last year, nor was ore shipped. The ore is of a low grade, and since the mine was opened up about five years ago only a few hundred thousand tons have been shipped.

Owing to a reduction in their logging business the Alger-Smith railway has returned to the Duluth & Iron Range engine No. 55, which it had leased and was using in their service during the winter. It now expects to ship to Duluth only about four trainloads or 115 carloads of logs per day, a reduction of two trains or sixty carloads, and will mean the taking off of one train crew.

EXPLOSIVE IN HEATING STOVE

Stove Torn to Pieces, People Nearby Having Narrow Escape.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—While a number of the boarders were eating supper at the home of Mrs. Lydia Haugen, on Second avenue, Saturday evening, a large coal heating stove in the same room blew up, with a loud report, scattering red hot coals over the floor, blowing the top from the stove to the ceiling, and one door from the stove with such force that it broke the back of a chair which it struck, and narrowly missed one of the little girls present. The room was filled with black sooty smoke, and the floor was badly damaged before the coals could be picked up.

Upon examination of the coal left in the stove and magazine, a piece of tin resembling a broken can was found, but what it was or what caused the explosion, cannot be surmised.

JEWS CELEBRATE PURIM.

Feast of Esther Observed Among Residents of Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Purim or the Feast of sther, was celebrated here beginning Saturday night in fitting style by the Jewish population, with services in the synagogue. At the homes proper celebration was also made of the downfall of Haman and the rise to power of Queen Esther. Four weeks from today the Jews will observe the Passover, which lasts for eight days. During this week the Jewish people are allowed to eat leavened bread, partaking instead unleavened bread called Matzoh.

EXPECT LIVELY CONTEST.

Missabe Mountain Township Election Will Hardly be Tame.

Eveleth, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Missabe Mountain township election tomorrow promises to be a lively affair, especially for the office of treasurer.

At the caucus Saturday night, the following ticket was selected, after some lively balloting: Supervisor, D. M. Mouser; town clerk, S. E. Helps; assessor, H. S. Sherman; treasurer, William Burke, the present incumbent, got 135 votes; John Turriff, 65; S. M. Anderson, 17. For the other, Anton Mustar got 137, and Tom Lorelle, 21.

The defeated candidates for treasurer will nevertheless go into the election tomorrow night as independents.

At Gilbert, the following ticket was nominated: President, D. T. Cane, the present incumbent; treasurer, J. B. Thompson; clerk, C. F. Linscomb, the present incumbent; trustees, G. Rattenbury, Dave Hogan, M. A. Masterson; justice of the peace, G. W. Pittsley. Contests are expected for treasurer and justice, where G. Noble and Louis Finn will oppose the caucus candidates on an independent ticket.

EXTEND MISSABE TRACKS.

Spur Will be Built From Bailey Mill to Sliver Mine.

Virginia, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway will build an extension from the Bailey mill spur to the Sliver mine, and tracks will be laid before the opening of the shipping season. Heretofore the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg has hauled the output from this mine to the yards of the Missabe.

Butler Bros., who do the shipping at this mine for the Virginia Ore Mining company, have again resumed active operation after a short period of idleness during which time repairs were made to their outfit, and dirt is again flying at this property. The Sliver mine shipped 49,291 tons last season, its initial shipment, but this will be greatly increased the coming season.

VIRGINIANS MET TEDDY.

Shook Hands With Retiring President at White House.

Virginia Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Morris Shanedline and John Mesberg have returned from a five-weeks' visit in the East. At Washington they were the guests of Congressman Bede and were presented to President Roosevelt. During their trip they secured donations to a fund for building a new synagogue in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Coates have returned from a several weeks' stay at Cleveland Ohio, and Hot Springs, Ark.

John A Kennedy of the Virginia Light and Water company, is visiting his sister at Craik, Sask.

W. A. Hall has disposed of his stock of goods and is preparing to go to Texas, where he owns a fine fruit farm. He expects to leave in about two weeks. His wife, Dr. Anna Hall, will remain here for a time, at least.

Prof. Lafayette Bliss and the members of the high school basket ball high school team are highly elated over their visit to Chisholm Saturday. The team not only defeated Chisholm by a score of 32 to 12 in a very exciting game, but were royally treated and entertained by the people of that village. The local team lined up as follows: Mechan, center; Bonner, right field; Keyes, left field; Quayle, left guard; Olson, right guard; Lindsay, substitute; Axel Dahl referee

SEVERAL EVELETHANS GO TO SUPERIOR WEDDING.

Eveleth, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A number of local people attended the wedding of Miss Stone and Ben Kaner in Superior last night among them being Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kaner, Mesdames Milavetz, Miss Celia Milavetz, Louis Siegel, Dave Shapiro and Israel Kaner. Some will stay over in Duluth to attend the purim ball to be given tonight by the Duluth Jews.

Virginia Beat Chisholm.

Chisholm, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia high school basketball team defeated the local high school team 30 to 14. The visitors were better at basket shooting. A large crowd attended the game. Deering and Dragthning officiated.

Held Body for Father.

Hibbing, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pending the arrival of this child's father of Sturgeon lake the body of 5-months-old Helen Farr, who died of bronchitis, Feb. 24, was held here Saturday. The parent was absent in Canada.

The funerals have been held here of Saiva K. Maki, aged 18 months, and Fina Kangas, aged 27, both of whom died of pneumonia.

Eveleth Has to Florida.

Eveleth, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. and Mrs. C. W. More have left with their daughter Margaret for Florida, where they expect to stay for five or six weeks. The trip has been made because of poor health of their daughter.

Two Harbors Briefs.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Charles Cottar and Mrs. James Shea were called to Starbuck Manitoba today by the death of a brother at that place. The Duluth Lumber company are accumulating a large supply of logs at Waldo for the summer's cut of their mill there. They are running their planer there at present, and will start sawing about April 15 or May 1.

In view of his intended trip through the South and West.

"The original Roosevelt club," from St. Paul, got into the White House today and brought back vivid memories of former times. The club was under the guidance of Hugh T. Halbert, seventy-five strong. Mr. Taft accorded them a warm reception in the east room.

The British ambassador and Mrs. Bryce paid their respects to the president and Mrs. Taft today, as did Governor Ide of the Philippines. A number of other callers were received in the residential portion of the mansion.

On Duluth Circuit.

Ontonagon, Mich., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The management of the opera house has succeeded in being placed on the Copper and Iron circuit of Duluth, and from now on any shows booked will be booked from the headquarters, Duluth, and will be with the assurance that they will give perfect satisfaction.

SHOOTS MAN THROUGH LEG

Woman Defends Herself With Revolver From Criminal Assault.

Police Trace Actions of Man Arrested Saturday at Bethel.

Mrs. Lottie Beillenauve, Second avenue east and Fourth street, Saturday afternoon shot George Nicoll through the leg when he attempted to criminally assault her. The bullet, fired from a 38-caliber revolver, penetrated the calf of the man's leg.

The shooting occurred at 1 o'clock, and Nicoll was taken in charge by the police at 3 o'clock, at the Lake avenue Bethel, as told in The Herald Saturday, but the man absolutely refused to talk, and as no report was made to the police from the Beillenauve home, it was late in the afternoon before the detectives learned for a certainty what had happened. Nicoll would not tell how he came to be hurt.

Except for a slight nervous shock, the woman did not suffer from the experience, and Dr. Graham, who attended her assailant, says his wound is not serious. Nicoll is a laborer, about 35 years of age, who came to the city from Minneapolis several weeks ago. He has been staying at the Lake avenue Bethel, and making a living by doing odd jobs about the city. He became acquainted with the Beillenauves, and was a frequent caller at their house.

He ate lunch there Saturday noon, and when Beillenauve, who is employed on a new building on lower Lake avenue, left to go to work, Nicoll remained with Mrs. Beillenauve. Shortly after the departure of the husband, the man made a proposal which she indignantly resented, according to a story told by her to Detectives Schulte and Irvine. Nothing daunted by her refusal, Nicoll, she says, threw his arms about her, and forced her towards a bed.

Mrs. Beillenauve is 45 years of age, and is unusually strong for a woman, so that she was able to make a strong fight to free herself from the man's embrace, but, despite her struggles, she was forced as far as the bed. Then she remembered that a revolver was concealed under the pillow, and without further struggle fell back upon the revolver. Thinking the woman was ready to submit to his attentions, Nicoll released his hold, and she jumped to her feet, and presented her revolver, ordering him from the house.

The man took a step towards her, and she pulled the trigger. Nicoll fell to the floor, with a bullet in his leg. He was soon on his feet again and running from the house. He went direct to the Bethel, and told Rev. J. T. Moody that he had been shot, but refused to tell anything of the circumstances surrounding the shooting. Detectives Irvine and Schulte were put on the case by Chief Troyer. They were unable to learn anything from Nicoll, but traced his movements until they found he had been at the Beillenauve home. The rest was easy. A charge of indecent assault was placed against Nicoll. He claims to have been drunk at the time of the alleged assault. The Beillenauves live in the old St. Luke's hospital building.

Nicoll will be taken before the grand jury, without being first arraigned in police court.

by the retirement of Representative Burke Cockran of New York. It is understood Sereno Payne, chairman of the committee, favors Mr. Harrison's appointment, but Champ Clark, minority leader, has declared that he will not give committee appointments any consideration until the fight on the rules has been settled.

"We may have a committee on committees to suggest appointments," he said, "and until this question of the rules is settled, I can't say anything about committee appointments."

Representative Sulzer of New York, who has served in seven congresses, is also a prominent candidate for Mr. Cockran's place. No mention has been made of any candidates for the vacancy caused by the death of Representative Grander, Democrat, of Rhode Island, but it is believed that a Democrat from New England gets the place. It is generally believed that Representative De Armond will succeed Champ Clark on the committee, as Clark will displace De Armond on the rules committee.

Something Besides Tariff.

When congress meets on the 15th, to consider a revision of the tariff, there will be no constitutional restrictions upon the nature of business that may be transacted. It is generally conceded that at least two months will be required for the house of representatives to conclude consideration of all the schedules involved in this legislation. The house itself will not receive the bill for some weeks, as the committee on ways and means will require considerable time to report the measure. During this long period the senate will have nothing to do in respect to the tariff, and even after the bill leaves the house, it will be in the hands of the committee on finance for some time before the senate acts and debate begins. Then will begin a long wait by the house until the senate amendments can be known and conferees appointed to bring about an agreement upon them.

This procedure will result in each house having to remain in session with nothing to do in relation to the tariff, covering a period of a couple of months. Three days is the extent of a recess that may be taken by either body, and in view of the extended period of inactivity that would face each house, should nothing be considered except the tariff, many senators are considering the advisability of entering upon other legislation which they believe ought to be passed in time to send it over to the house when that body has disposed of its bill, and will only have to wait for senate action on the tariff.

The advocates of postal savings banks have talked of the possibility of such a policy being adopted ever since they became aware of their inability in the last session of congress. There are many earnest advocates of a change of date in the inauguration from March 4 until a later day, when favorable weather is likely to prevail. Senator Depew took the first legislative step in favor of making such a change when he introduced a resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution to change the date of the inauguration from March 4 to the last Wednesday in April.

Hope for Statehood.

Advocates of statehood for New Mexico and Arizona were greatly disappointed that no progress could be made toward the enactment of an act during the last session, and they are restless over any proposition to delay action until the regular session of congress because they fear the mass of legislation which will then come up will crowd their claims to the background.

The president's veto of the census bill makes necessary some action to provide for the enumeration of the thirteenth census, and while legislation might be delayed until early next winter, some of those who are interested in this subject believe that the extra session would give an admirable opportunity to dispose of it.

The extra session is sure to bring forth a deluge of bills in both houses. In the house of representatives it is understood only the committee on ways and means is to consider tariff legislation and on the census to frame a bill for the enumeration of the next census and accounts will be appointed so that any additional legislation requiring committee action could be procured only by a change in this program.

MISSOURI TWO-CENT FARE LAW IS KNOCKED OUT

rates would be fixed for the stronger roads and 3 for the others. But that is for the legislature acting with experts, such as the state employed in these cases, or through a commission with like assistance.

"When the statutes in question were enacted, it was believed by many that by reducing the fare there would be much more travel. For a month or so this proved to be true. But with the novelty gone, the testimony shows that the increase has been less than 3 per cent and more nearly 1 per cent.

"By reason of the abolition of passes passenger revenue is increased less than 1 per cent."

The maximum freight law as passed by the legislature involved reductions ranging from 2 to 40 per cent on heavy freight in carloads. The railways secured a court order temporarily restraining the state officials from putting this act into effect and June 11, 1908, Frank Hagerman, representing the various railroads petitioned the court to make this order permanent. By mutual agreement and at the suggestion of McPherson who decided to have a practical test, the 2-cent passenger rate law was put into effect June 11, 1907, to run three months. At the end of that period both sides agreed to continue the rate in effect as the results obtained had not been considered sufficient, and the law is still being enforced.

After many delays, the cases were finally brought to trial. Both sides joined the joint debates between Carmack and Patterson. And what did they find? That Carmack had referred to that little bald-headed angel, Duncan Cooper, and had asked did the angel 'come from above or below?' and 'was there a smell of sulphur on his wings?'

"Is that reason enough to kill a man?" All this was prior to June 27, and yet he sent no notes and raved no ravings.

"Why, gentlemen, Harriman, Rockefeller and Morgan are private citizens. They never hold an office, but we know they exercise a powerful control in public affairs. Their names appear daily in the public press. Yet whoever heard of one of these men demanding that his name be omitted? Whoever heard of one of these men hunting down an editor and assassinating him on the street: Why, gentlemen, they have never even challenged the right of the press to use their names, for they know better. It is the duty of the press to keep the public informed and Col. Cooper, when he went into politics, made it the duty of the press to watch him."

The speaker told how Cooper never objected to the alleged remarks of Carmack during the campaign and did not object until after the murder. But after Carmack became editor of the Tennesseean, Cooper became suddenly angered.

"He told his son that 'day after day his name was used in the Tennesseean and that Carmack was shooting poisoned arrows at him every day and that it was becoming unendurable,' Let us see. Robin Cooper, his son, says he never saw them. His brother-in-law, James C. Bradford, never saw them. Who did see them? They brought only three editorials in here and one of them was written Oct. 21, entitled 'an awful threat.'

Cooper Not Careful.

"He objected to this because his name was mentioned in connection Ban Murray and two others. One of these he swore had been indicted and convicted and the other, he said, was a gambler. He had to admit the next day that the man he thought was indicted had not been. So Col. Cooper, himself, was not so careful in making charges. And as for the gambling why the colonel has been a gambler himself and won and lost large sums. But it not on record that he ever paid a debt out of his large winnings.

"Now the second editorial appeared the same day and it never mentioned Cooper's name—it simply attacked the machine.

"Cooper in his note to Carmack said: 'I am a private citizen.' Yet as soon as the machine is mentioned this private citizen roars out in anger: 'You are hitting me now, I am the machine, I am the state.' And he says: 'They refer to me and others as the machine.' Any record here, gentlemen, of the others referrd to, going out and shooting the man who wrote it?

"The third editorial produced by the defense appeared on Sunday, Nov. 8, and was entitled 'Across the Muddy Chasm.' This editorial simply repeats the charges that Governor Patterson and Governor Cox had made against one another, and says Col. Cooper is entitled to credit for bringing the men together.

"Col. Cooper, in his cross-examination, says this reconciliation was a commendable thing; that any one who brought it about was entitled to commendation; yet he wants to kill the man who gave him credit for doing a commendable thing."

Rockwall, Tex., March 8.—After having been identified by Mrs. Arthur McKinney as the negro who attempted to assault her Friday morning, Anderson Ellis was taken from the Rockwall county jail and secured to an iron stake driven into the earth, and was burned to death in the presence of about 1,000 persons.

Earlier, Will Clarke, a negro, was shot and killed when his father Andrew Clark refused permission to a posse to search his premises upon the assumption that Ellis was concealed there.

Ellis admitted his guilt, but refused to make a statement or to leave farewell messages for his relatives. He did not utter a cry as the pile of cord-wood which had been well saturated with kerosene was set afire, nor did he show signs of fear as the flames cooked his flesh. He was dead nine minutes after the torch had been applied.

Woman Fights Desperately.

At an early hour Friday morning Mrs. McKinney went into her back yard, and was seized by the Ellis negro, an employe of McKinneys. She fought desperately and the negro, running away called that he would murder her should she reveal his attempted act.

He was surrounded at a farm house three miles south of Caddo Mills. Ellis, armed, made desperate resistance and emptied his weapon at the possee, without effect before he was captured. During the fight with the posse, Ellis was wounded twice.

"Col. Cooper met Craig on personal business, but he pressed the business on the ride and revealed what was in his black heart," said the lawyer. "He owed his friend Craig money—he owed all his friends money, and he never bothered about money owed. But he broke out and said:

Self-Confessed Lobbyist.

"'If my name appears in the Tennessean again, Carmack or I must die.' Think of it, gentlemen; this man, who is a self-confessed lobbyist for a railroad; this man, who is charged by reputable men with having embezzled money entrusted to his care; this man, whose name has been bandied about the state; this man, whose dark and devious ways have now been uncovered, dared to send to an honest and upright journalist the threat that if his name appeared in the Tennessean again, one of them must die. Think of it.

"And when the tragedy was over, the defendants began to look for a cause for an excuse. Their attorneys searched the stenographic reports. They examined the joint debates between Carmack and Patterson. And what did they find? After Theater Parties Catered To.

William H. Bishop is Dead.

New York, March 8.—William H. Bishop, well known in theatrical circles as manager and owner of such old-time stage successes as "The Black Crook," "What Happened to Jones" and "The County Fair," died yesterday from injuries sustained several weeks ago when he was struck by a truck. Bishop was 64.

ESSAYS ARE COMING IN

Pupils in City Schools Much Interested in Big Contest.

"Ben Hur" Theater Party Promises to be Popular.

Thousands of Duluth boys and girls read with interest in Saturday's Herald about the treat that has been arranged for them on the evening of March 22, when 150 school children will be the guests of the paper at the opening performance of "Ben Hur," the great historical and religious drama that will play in Duluth three nights.

Already many have decided to enter the simple educational contest arranged by The Herald as a way of selecting the guests, and essays began to come in this morning.

Even before the paper was off the presses Saturday, the telephones were busy. The Herald had announced the evening before that a great treat was in store for the school children of Duluth and many wanted to be let in on it just a little before the others.

Since the announcement was made many have entered into the contest with a spirit and vim, and no doubt nearly every pupil in the seventh and eighth grades and the four classes in the high school, will enter the contest. It is such an easy matter to write 150 words about "Ben Hur" and the treat for the small amount of work is of such an enjoyable nature, that many have asked if the essay was the only thing required. It is.

All children who are in the abovementioned grades are eligible to enter the contest. The only real condition is that they shall be regularly enrolled students in the Duluth public schools. The essays may be written in any way the writer sees fit, and he may criticise the novel from any point of view that may strike his fancy.

Best Seats in the Theater.

For this small amount of trouble The Herald offers the 150 winners the best seats in the Lyceum. Those who judge the papers will also be members of the party.

For the benefit of those who have not read the book, The Herald tonight begins the publication of a condensed story, telling the principal points of the novel. There will be an installment published every evening until Friday night.

Conditions of the Contest.

All those who wish to become members of the big theatrical party should keep in mind the following conditions:

Each essay should be about 150 words in length, although more or less will not disqualify the writer. The shorter the better. The writers of the 150 best papers will receive tickets. There are no coupon conditions attached to the contest, and no requirements that the contestants shall be subscribers to The Herald.

In this contest it must be understood that the seventh grade pupils will compete with the seventh grade scholars, the eighth grade with the eighth grade, the first year high school people with the members of their own class, and so on up to the senior class in the high school.

Each contestant must be a regularly enrolled student in the Duluth schools, and must write his or her name, grade, teacher's name, the name of the school and class to which he or she belongs, and his or her address on the upper left hand corner of the paper. Only one side of the paper should be used on which to write. The writing should be as neat and as legible as the contestant can make it, for both these will count when the paper is judged. The essays should then be mailed to the "Ben Hur" editor at The Herald.

All essays must be in the hands of the "Ben Hur" editor not later than 6 p. m. Wednesday, March 17.

The Story of Ben Hur.

The first installment of the story follows:

The dramatic spectacle "Ben Hur" is a novelty in story and locale and a wide departure from anything ever seen on the stage in artistic innovations and deviations from traditions. The usual overture by the orchestra is omitted and in its stead what is really a pictorial overture is presented. In this prelude to the play, "The Wise Men in the Desert," is sounded the keynote of the drama. The music, composed by Edgar Stillman Kelley, is both orchestral and vocal. As the first strains of the great orchestra are heard, the curtain rises, disclosing a symbolic picture depicting the opulent power of Rome in contradistinction to the spiritual peace of Jerusalem. For the choral music there were selected passages from the Prophecies of Isaiah concerning the coming of the Messiah, where Christ is referred to as "The light to lighten the darkness of the people." The music for this number begins with the theme of the prophecy and is built upon an ancient scale peculiar to Semitic peoples—Arabs and Hebrews—in which the interval of the augmented second is a prominent feature. This is taken up by the invisible male chorus, announcing the vision of Isaiah. Following is heard a suggestion of "The Star of Bethlehem" theme at the words "Arise; Shine, for the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee." The orchestra then takes up the theme of the Star, while the chorus chants the text, "The Lord shall rise upon thee, and His glory be upon thee, and the Gentiles shall come to thy light and kings to the brightness of thy rising." The symbolic picture here fades away, disclosing the tableau of "The Wise Men in the Desert" beside their sleeping camels, looking across the arid waste of sand and watching with wonder and awe the apparition of the Star of Bethlehem. Mysteriously it flitters, at first a mere luminous point, increasing in size and brilliancy and shooting forth fiery rays of light until the entire horizon is illuminated. As its first shimmering becomes visible, suggestion of the Star theme are heard, developing into orchestra fullness as the light increases in intensity. As this incident of the drama closes, the tread of the camel is simulated by the orchestra, suggesting the journey of the Wise Men over the arid wastes of the desert to the City of Ravid, where the child is to be born whom they seek and would worship.

The Palace of Hur.

Bathed in the glorious oriental sunlight, the flat-topped houses of Jerusalem stretch away to meet the olive-clad hills in the dim purple and gold distance. On the roof terrace of the Palace of Hur all is serene. Simonides, the steward, in whose care is reposed all the great wealth of the Hur family, comes to discuss with the Mother of Hur affairs relating to the vast estate. Tirzah, as playful as a kitten, teases her faithful nurse, Amrah, and the youthful Judah, Prince of Hur (Ben-Hur) discloses to his mother his heart's desire to become a great soldier and aid in freeing Judea from the yoke of Rome. Into this beautiful picture of home life in the Holy City comes Messala, a type of insolence and arrogance of Rome, returning to Jerusalem after a long absence. Ben-Hur greets Messala warmly for they have been friends in childhood, but at last they fall to discussing the supremacy of Rome, and the parting that is inevitable comes. Messala, wild with anger, departs swearing vengeance on his former friend. The Mother of Hur, possessed of a premonition of coming danger, gathers her children to her and cries: "Messala is gone and Judah hath lost a friend; but what if the whole world forsake us so long as this little circle remain unbroken?"

This tender domestic scene is interrupted by the blare of trumpets, announcing the approach of Gratus, the new procurator, for Judea is under the domination of all-powerful Rome. Far and near the people of Jerusalem swarm to their house-tops to witness the entry of their new master. Ben-Hur and Tirzah, to see the legions as they pass Hadean upon the parapet, it crumbles and fall southward. "Help! Treason! The procurate hath been murdered!" In an instant the cry is raised. It seems to come from Messala's throat—that a stone was thrown by Ben-Hur, the Jew. There is a rush of soldiery to the roof-terrace of the Palace of Hur and the young prince is seized and bound, and then dragged away to slavery on one of the Roman galleys, which is equivalent to death. The shrieking women are dragged away to the Tower of Antonia, there to be imprisoned until the coming of Pilate to be ruler of Jerusalem.

URGES ACTORS TO ORGANIZE

John Mitchell Advises Them to Join Union Labor.

New York, March 8.—The bringing of all the actors of the United States into a national organization which could affiliate itself with the American Federation of labor and secure whatever benefits accrue from concerted action was urged here yesterday by John Mitchell, the well known labor leader. He did this at a meeting of members of the Actors' Society of America, the actors' church alliance, the actors' union, the vaudeville comedy club, the White Rats of America and a number of other associations of actors, called for the purpose of protesting against alleged abuses of which they claim to be victims at the hands of theatrical agents.

By acting as one solid body and bringing their united strength to bear, Mr. Mitchell told the actors they would be in a position to command proper consideration of their demands and free themselves of exactions and tyranny which under their present disorganized condition they were compelled to meekly endure.

"The time will come," said Mr. Mitchell, "when every actor will be a member of an international organization which will fight his fight."

The actors adjourned after passing resolutions indorsing a bill introduced in the legislature today by Assemblyman Voss, limiting the commission to be paid to theatrical agents by actors to 5 per cent.

DENEEN HAS A LOOK-IN FOR ILLINOIS SENATORSHIP

Springfield, Ill., March 8.—Whether Governor Deneen's trip to Washington is to have any bearing on the senatorial situation is a matter of conjecture. Ever since he went to Washington there has been talk that the toga will be forced upon him. His friends in the assembly will be glad to vote for him, and so would his enemies, the former to honor him, the latter to get him out of the state.

REJECTED SUITOR KILLS WOMAN AND HIMSELF.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 8.—Waking at 4 a. m. in her home in Beaver, Mrs. Mamie McKee, a widow, found William G. Wilner, a rejected suitor, standing at her bedside, and when she declared again in answer to his question that she did not love the man, he fired four bullets into her head. Wilner then killed himself by taking poison and then shooting himself.

MESSAGE TO AGNOSTICS

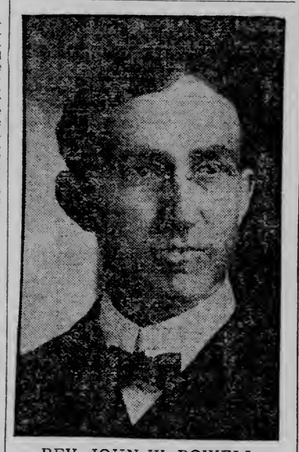

Rev. John W. Powell Begins Series of Sermons on Orthodoxy.

Will Defend the Fundamental Dogmas of Christian Creed.

Agnostics, unbelievers, pragmatists and followers of the countless creeds which are opposed to the teachings of Christianity will find food for thought in a series of sermons begun by Rev. John W. Powell at the Endion M. E. church.

Mr. Powell, in these sermons, is defending the simple articles of the Christian creed, and even the existence of the creed itself, to which so many people in modern times, who "wish to do their thinking for themselves," object.

The sermons are more like debates than sermons, as the speaker is apparently attempting to bring up all the arguments that he has heard against the teachings of the church, and answer them.

REV. JOHN W. POWELL.

"There are many people who object to a creed," said Mr. Powell, "and believe that the church should abandon its creeds. If we did we wouldn't get very far. There are some things which we must accept as facts. We cannot wake up every morning doubting the truth of every fact and requiring its proof. We have to have some fundamental truths on which to build our lives and our characters. If we do not accept them as truths we must at least accept them as hypotheses. The astronomer, for instance, cannot go back and work out the proof of the Copernican theory every time he wants to solve a problem in astronomical mathematics. If he did, he would not work very many problems."

The doctrine of the Trinity was then taken up by the speaker as the first of the Christian dogmas, and he endeavored to show that the Trinity was necessary in order that the Godhead should be endowed with perfect love, perfect friendship, and all the qualities which humanity must see in its Deity before it becomes a Deity. He avoided theological discussion, touched but lightly on the philosophical aspects of the argument, and based his sermon largely to the reason and hearts of his audience.

In later sermons Mr. Powell will speak on the doctrines of "incarnation," "original sin," "eternal punishment," "the atonement," and "the resurrection."

WOUNDED MATADOR RETURNS TO RING, KILLS FOURTH BULL.

El Paso, Tex., March 8.—El Gallo, a Spanish matador who has just completed a tour of the Mexican Republic and is now en route to Spain, appeared yesterday in the Juarez arena. The third bull tossed the matador in the air several times. He was removed to a hospital, but reentered the ring later and killed the fourth bull.

Houghton's Oldest Teacher Resigns.

Houghton, Mich., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Bridget Sauce, the oldest teacher in point of service in the Houghton public schools, has tendered her resignation as eighth grade instructor in the Central school, to take effect March 26, and on April 1 will accept a position in the Chicago public schools.

SEARCH FOR GOLD VEINS

Claims Being Staked Out on the Snow at Rainy Lake.

Much Interest Shown in the Iron Formations Near Atikokan.

Mine Center, Ont., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The gold excitement keeps up at Glenorchy near here on the Canadian Northern railway. A number of the employes of that railroad are spending their midwinter vacation at prospecting. They have a box car sidetracked at Glenorchy and use that for a camp headquarters. They put in the day seeking gold bearing veins and return to the box car at night.

The depth of the snow is a great handicap at the present time but as soon as that leaves great activity in prospecting is most certain. In the meantime, the "early birds" have staked and are staking claims on the snow, with the hope that mineral-bearing formations will be found as soon as the snow melts.

Plans are under way for a hotel and store building, and a town lot scheme for the early spring is in preparation. "Australia" Stone and son are busily engaged in prospecting their claims and seem to be exceedingly well satisfied with results to date.

Thomas Rawn of Atikokan station reports that there is much interest shown in the iron formations in that locality. Robert H. Flaherty of Port Arthur, who represents the "Steel Trust" in prospecting and exploration work in Ontario, has been flying up and down the road lately and was through here on his way to Duluth the other night. It is understood that he was called to the headquarters' city for an important conference on plans and operations in his territory. W. G. LaRue, a Mesaba range pioneer and the father of the Baraboo, Wis., iron fields, was recently through the district on one of his many but very quiet investigation trips. Mr. Rawn says that a number of men have gone in at Kashabowie to do some work preliminary to heavy operations. His company has had a very flattering offer on a royalty basis but some of the shareholders are hanging back. If they come to time Mr. Rawn expects to see quite some very heavy work started.

Look to Mackenzie & Mann.

If the Canadian Northern railway had been finished from Port Arthur to Fort Frances a couple of years sooner, it is quite likely that the gold mining activity in the Rainy Lake region would not have stopped so suddenly and completely in 1899. There are some very likely properties closely tributary to that road, and if a new start is once made a different story than that written ten years ago ought to be the result. It is hoped by the residents and owners of property in this district that Mackenzie & Mann will do something to help gold mining here. The increased passenger and freight traffic from mining would be worth while. And where there are vast expanses of uninhabited, undeveloped country, there would be settlers, tie camps, small sawmills and pulpwood operations. The attention that Mackenzie & Mann are giving to the new Gowganda region, easterly from Sudbury, gives hope that they will awake to the interests of all that region between Port Arthur and Fort Frances.

Before the mines closed down in 1899, the more far-seeing of the operators realized that the fuel problem would become prominent before many years. If activity continued and increased. With the development of the huge power plant at Fort Frances, there need be no worry over future power facilities for mining. Electrical engineering has advanced so far that it will be very easy to run the juice to dozens of stamp mills and mining plants whenever they require it. This will avoid haggling with the government and bickering with jealous interest, as well as the heavy initial expense at Sturgeon Falls, near where the Canadian Northern railway crosses the Seine river. That enterprise was attempted ten years ago, but lack of capital and then the depression in operations killed the project.

LAKE LEVELS.

Lake Superior Much Below Average Stage for February.

The United States lake survey reports the stages of the Great Lakes for the month of February, as follows:

Lakes.	Feet above tide water New York.
Superior	601.48
Michigan-Huron	579.94
Erie	571.40
Ontario	245.28

Since last month, Lake Superior has fallen 2¾ inches Lakes Michigan and Huron have risen three-quarters of an inch. Lake Erie has fallen 1 inch and Lake Ontario has risen 1¼ inches.

During March, Lake Superior is likely to fall 1½ inches. Lakes Michigan and Huron should rise 1½ inches. Lake Erie should rise 2½ inches and Lake Ontario should rise 2¾ inches.

Lake Superior is 8¼ inches lower than the average February stage of the past ten years and about 4½ inches lower than last year. It is 5¾ inches higher than in February, 1893, but 11½ inches lower than in 1906 and 12 inches lower than in 1901.

VALUE OF CHICKENS.

Farmer Sues Railroad for Loss of Fourteen Hens.

Chicago, March 8.—If a chicken is worth 60 cents in the market, how much is it worth in a lawsuit—that is, a lawsuit against a railroad?

The answer of Adam Fuller, a farmer of Shelby, Ind., is $8.83½. He has filed a suit against the Chicago, Indiana & Louisville railway in the superior court.

Farmer Fuller charges that the railroad company wrongfully erected an embankment that flooded his land and thereby drowned fourteen chickens.

He asks $8.40, the value of the fowls at 60 cents each. But does he stop there? No, indeed.

Remember, there are legal fees to be paid. By careful calculation, based on the current prices of eggs, it is demonstrated that the speculative value of the chickens was $90 more.

ROOT TO BE REPUBLICAN LEADER IN NEW YORK.

New York, March 8.—Elihu Root will be the Republican leader of New York, according to a published interview credited to ex-Senator T. C. Platt, who has just returned from Washington.

"Elihu Root will head the Republican organization because of donning the senatorial toga," Mr. Platt is quoted as saying. "His powers are only less than those of the President, and he and President Taft are on close terms."

NEGROES TO PRESENT A TESTIMONIAL TO FORAKER.

Montgomery, Ala., March 8.—Former United States Senator J. B. Foraker will be presented with a handsome testimonial by the negroes of Montgomery because of his championship of the negro troops involved in the Brownsville affair. Collections were taken up in all of the negro churches yesterday, and among the membership of the negro fraternities, with which to purchase the testimonial.

TAKE Kodol FOR Indigestion AND All Stomach Troubles

All are the result of undigested food remaining in the stomach and putting the whole system out of order—as it surely will. Kodol digests the food the way it does, because it contains all the digestive elements. If it contained only one or two of them (such as pepsin, etc.,) it could not be of so much help to the stomach as it is. And there is no question but that Kodol digests all food—anywhere, at any time. When it will digest every particle of all kinds of food, in a glass test-tube, it should have no difficulty in digesting food in your stomach. The next time you have indigestion or dyspepsia, sour stomach, pain in pit of the stomach, belchings, headaches, etc., will be an excellent time to prove, to your entire satisfaction, that Kodol will do just what is claimed for it.

Our Guarantee. Get a dollar bottle of Kodol. If you are not benefited—the druggist will at once return your money. Don't hesitate: any druggist will sell you Kodol on these terms. The dollar bottle contains 2½ times as much as the 50c bottle. Kodol is prepared in the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

So many people scattered all over the American Continent have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines that there's scarcely a hamlet where some of these grateful people are not to be easily found—ever ready to say a good word for the medicines which cured them and which very likely may cure you, if similarly afflicted. Look them up. They are walking advertisements for Dr. Pierce's medicines—ever ready to pass the good news along that these medicines cure when many others fail. Little advertised NOW, because their record of 40 years of cures makes great displays of their merits unnecessary. The great American people, pretty generally know of their unequaled record.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

LONG RUN IN NEW YORK

Fifty-Four Entered in Six-Day Endurance Race.

Great Crowds Cheer Runners in Long Distance Contest.

New York, March 8.—With the crack of a pistol shot, twenty-seven men plunged forward as one man at 12:05 yesterday morning in an endeavor to win speed and endurance honors in a six-day international go-as-you-please race at Madison Square Garden. Incidentally the winners, for the contestants who are making the race in teams of two, will get a a prize of $1,500. Several other teams will receive cash prizes.

Cheers greeted the athletes when they came on the track a few minutes after midnight. The men started to represent the teams at the start were:

Cibot, Ferri, Feegan, Wooledge, Walker, Doms, Loeslien, Deavris, Pomaritis, Rovere, Calabric, Curran, Frazer, Higgins, Davis, Phillips, Hegelman, Kellar, Endlich, O'Driscoll, Spring, Corey, Metkus, Dineen, Harrington, Christie and Quackenbush.

William Collier, the actor, fired the pistol which started the men on the long tramp. The men got away in good, running at a smart trot, but some of them soon started to sprint to gain the honor of finishing ahead in the first lap. Tony Loeslin wearing the hoodoo number 13, was first to complete the circle. He was followed closely by George Metkus and Dineen.

Dineen of boston was leading at the end of the first mile, made in 5:17. Prouty relieved Dineen after the second mile and led the pack at the finish of the fifth mile. His time was 21:05. Davis of the Indian team was second, and only four yards away.

Peter Hegelman, who with Pat Canavaugh for his partner, won the only previous six-day team race, with a score of 770 miles, seemed to be the favorite. He received plenty of applause and was frequently urged by his admirers to "cut loose, Pete." But Hegelman was evidently running on a schedule and was satisfied to maintain an even pace, which kept him within striking distance of the leaders.

At the end of the first hour, Dineen and Prouty of the Boston team, were tied with Davis and Munley, the Indian team for first place, with nine miles and five laps. Corey and Coleman of the Chicago team and Smallwood and Curran of the Scotch-Welch team were tied for second place, with nine miles and two laps.

Hegelman and Golden came next, with eight miles and eight laps, and Spring and Adams followed with eight miles and five laps. The foreigners in the first flight were the Belgians, Navez and Doms, and the Swiss-Italian team, Guignard and Revere, each of which had cosvered eight miles and five laps.

The duration of the contest will be 142 hours, the finish being scheduled for 10 o'clock next Saturday night. A special clay and cinder track, measuring ten laps to the mile, has been laid. It is similar to that made for the recent indoor Marathon race, but much wider.

Five thousand dollars in prizes is offered by the management, of which the winning team will get $1,500, and the next seven teams proportional amounts. The team partners can relieve each other as often as they choose, but neither can be on the track more than twelve hours out of every twenty-four. By frequent relays, it is expected that fast time will be made and all previous world's records eclipsed. The men who are competing were selected from the best professional talent in the world, and fifteen countries are represented in the contest. The list of teams is as follows: French—Edouard Ciboth-Louis Orphee. Italian—Ettorfirigulio Pallanti. Irish—Patrick Feegan-Francis Curtis. English—Jack Sapsford -Herbert Wooledge. Dutch—W. W. Walker-C. Jansen. Belgian—Alexandro Navez-Albert Doms. German—Tonny Lieslin-George Klubertanz. Greek—N. C. Athanassides-Andrew Devaris. Greek—George Tseckouras-John P. Pomaritis. Swiss-Italian—Henry Guignard-Umberto Rovere. Italian-American—Tarrillo Calabrio-Guiseppe Milano. Scotch-Welch — Percy Smallwood-James Curran. Cuban-English—Henry Shelton-James Frazer. Canadian, David Hartley-Anthony Higgins. Indian—Bill Davis-Henry Munley. American—Peter Hogelman-Peter Golden. Afro-American—J. F. Blake-Frank Kellar, military—Corporal Harvey Endlich-Louis H. Someran, New England—Frank Annable-J. F. O'Driscoll, New York—Mike Spring-Ed Adams, Chicago—Albert L. Corey-John Coleman, Philadelphia—George Metkus-George Tracey, Boston—P. J. Dineen-W. F. Prouty, New Jersey—George Harrington-Jerry Sullivan, New York. West side—T. J. Christie-James Ward, Mohawk Valley —David Quackenbush-J. R. Nicholls.

New York, March 8.—Dineen and Prouty the Boston team, went into the lead in the international go as you please race in the Madison Square Garden at the end of the eighth hour today. The score was 6 miles and three laps.

Gould Wins at Tennis.

Boston, Mass., March 8.—Jay Gould, world's amateur tennis champion, defeated Joshua Crane, the former champion amateur tennis player of the world, in three straight sets at the Randolph hall courts of the tennis and racquet club in Cambrige yesterday.

Gould's victories were 6-3; 6-4; and 6-2.

THE "LONG TOM" RINK OF SEVEN FOOTERS AS SEEN BY THE HERALD CARTOONIST

OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR BASEBALL

Coach Walter Wilmot Confident That Gophers Will be Strong.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 8.—One of the most striking points about the University of Minnesota baseball team is the wealth of pitching material which has been gathered together by Coach Walter Wilmot. Where the varsity last year had only from three to four available pitchers, this year has seen at least ten prospective southpaws out for work, and it is believed that the maroon and gold will have no difficulty all through the season in this branch of the game.

Among the leaders on the pitching staff are Victor, Ketcham, George, Marsh, Nessle, Peterson, Adams and La Palme. During the last two weeks the players have been getting out more and more regularly, and all should be in the proper trim when the first outdoor practice is begun. The university will this year miss Alvin Dretchko, one of the best ball-tossers enrolled at that institution in many a year. He pitched practically all the important games last year, and led his teammates through many tight places to the Western intercollegiate championship.

Only three of last year's team are out. These are Capt. Ernest, Kesting and Rand. Ernst holds down the shortsstop position, and last year made but few errors. He is also handy with the stick, cool and resourceful, and should prove a great asset this season. Kesting plays at the second sack and knows the game. Rand was catcher in most of the contests and showed a great development under Wilmot's coaching.

Among last year's freshmen, who are now eligible, are McGovern, Johnston of football fame, Johnny Martin, "Tuddy" Stangebye, George and Hughes. All these players have a baseball knack, can hit the ball, and field their positions smoothly and surely. They stand well for places on the team.

The big difficulty with the Minnesota squad is the late opening of the outdoor season. Most of the institutions with which the varsity has scheduled games are in warmer territory, and get outside several weeks before the Gophers can. The Minnesota team will be outside even before the weather fully permits, but nevertheless their opponents will have a good start. While the team is practicing indoors it is working under difficulties. Most of the players can practice only from 3 to 4 p. m., and with thirty-eight candidates, the time that each can get is necessarily limited. The student drilling, basket ball and gymnasium classes press the baseball boys hard, and give them but little time to take advantage of the big indoor cage.

WIN ONE GAME BUT DROP TWO

Y. M. C. A. Basketball Five Defeats Association Team 32 to 20.

The members of the Y. M. C. A. basket ball team returned home this morning after their annual trip to the Twin Cities.

The boys won one game, but lost two. The St. Joseph school basket ball team of Minneapolis defeated them by a score of 67 to 17. They are the champion team of the Twin Cities, and Mr. Frey says that Duluth was fairly outclassed in this game. The next game was played at Stillwater and the local boys again lost out by a score of 32 to 20. This game was played in the town ramory, and had not the floor been so slippery Mr. Frey thinks that his team would have won. St. Paul association team was next taken on, and in this game the Duluthians were successful in their endeavors to defeat them. The score was 32 to 20. This was the only team met that was really in the same class with the Duluth team, according to the members of the team who arrived home this morning.

The other two organizations make a special endeavor along basket ball lines and are very fast.

PLEASED WITH BIG TOURNEY

Bowling Congress Officials Look for Another Busy Week.

Pittsburg, March 8.—With teams from over two-score of cities scheduled to bowl the second week of the ninth annual tournament of the American bowling congress, promises to be a busy one. During the opening and most of last week all of the events were participated in chiefly by men from Western Pennsylvania, but starting with last night the program is given over almost entirely to visitors.

The officials of the congress are encouraged over the splendid showing made last night which is considered the first real session of the tournament by all teams competing, especially that of the Lipmans of Chicago, which team broke the world's record for five-men teams.

Aside from the competition of the teams scheduled to roll, delegates to the congress are interested in the business sessions. The executive committee will meet Tuesday.

A specific for pain—Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil, strongest, cheapest liniment ever devised. A household remedy in America for 25 years.

SPORTS ARE OPENING UP

Athletes Will Soon be Performing in the Open Air.

Interest Centers This Week on the Power Boat Races.

New York, March 8.—Indoor sports, after an active season, will soon give way to the open air contests of skill and strength. This week brings the first of those notable series of power-boat races at Lake Worth, Palm Beach, Fla. These races will be begun Tuesdan and continue until Friday and will attract the owners of the fastest vessels in their class.

Automobilists in the Eastern states are interested in the New York-to-Boston endurance race which will start from New York on Thursday morning. The prize for the winning car in this contest is the Chester I. Campbell trophy. Fourteen cars are entered to date, but this number will be doubled probably before the start is made.

Three pugilistic matches of ten rounds each are scheduled for New York this week. Big Jim Stewart of Brooklyn will meet Jack (Twin) Sullivan at the Marion Athletic society. Boy Driscoll will be given another chance to redeem himself with Frankie Neil at the Vernont Athletic club on Tuesday, and Joe Gans, the former lightweight champion, will meet Jabez White, the English champion, at the National Athdetic club, New York, on Thursday evening.

James J. Jeffries who still speaks evasively as to whether he will return to the ring and fight Jack Johnson the now champion heavyweight, will continue the light training he began in San Francisco several weeks ago. Johnson is now on his way home from Honolulu, while Al Kaufman and his manager, Billy Delaney, are on their way East from San Francisco. The three big men may be in New York at the same time and should this occur within a couple of weeks, something definite is expected to develop before Johnson leaves for London, where he is to meet Sam Langford in May.

Amateur and professional billiardists are making earnest preparations for the national amateur and professional championship tournaments, which will be decided in New York during the next five weeks. There will be seven contestants in the professional world's championship at the 18.2 balk line, including Louis Cure of Paris, France; George Sutton, George Slosson and Ora C. Morningstar of New York; Calvin W. Demarest, Chicago; H. P. Cline, Philadelphia, and Albert G. Cutler, Boston. Sutton and Slosson will meet next week in another match of 500 points for the 18.1 championship, which will be decided in New York three days before the 1.2 tourney begins. Sutton claims that he was not in good playing condition when Slosson successfully defended the title last January.

Many new aspirants for amateur honors will compete next week at the Liederkranz club, New York, for the title which Damest abandoned when he entered the professional ranks. This tournament, however, will be confined to those who are capable of making a grand average of seven at 18.2 balk line billiards.

RUSH GAMES AT CURLING RINK

Curlers Are Anxious to Finish in Two Weeks' Time.

It is likely that from now on there will be two draws each day at the curling rink. The season is well along and there are four events to finish. The only way this can be accomplished is to play off ten games each day, and the games committee will probably take the matter of drawing games into their own hands, and rush the final games through.

There will be a 6 and 8 o'clock draw, and in this way they hope to finish all the events, leaving nothing to be carried over until next season.

The Board of Trade buttons are still to be played for, and the point contest is by no means finished. It is likely that these two events will be dropped, so that the ice can be used to rush off the rest of the regular events.

FINISH SEASON WITH ONE GAME

Hockey Players May Get Curling Rink in Final Contest.

Due to the warm weather of late, and fearing that there will not be enough cold weather to allow them to play the series of three games they had intended for the championship of the city, the officials of the amateur hockey may decide to close up the season with one final contest for all honors between the Bryants and Northerns.

An effort is being made to get the curling rink for the final contest. There has been no hockey this year at the curling rink, and it is said that the members would like to see one good live game before the season closes. They will be approached today or tomorrow on the matter.

The ice on the outdoor rinks has become so soft and sticky that it would be most impossible to get it into shape for hockey again, and the different rink owners do not care to spend much at the work when the season is so nearly over.

Both teams are thought to be in favor of finishing up the season with one game and it will be pulled off as soon as the officials of the league can find a place to play.

Cleveland Team Busy.

Mobile, Ala., March 8.—Headed by Napoleon La Joie, the famous manager and second sacker of the Cleveland American League club, the in and outfielders reached the city yesterday and are quartered with the pitchers and catchers who preceded them and will remain here two weeks training.

EACH TEAM TAKES ONE CONTEST

Los Angeles and Chicago Break Even in Double Header.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 8.—Two games of baseball were played here yesterday between the Chicago American league second team and the Los Angeles team of the coast league, the Chicagoans winning the first game 8 to 3 and Los Angeles the second 6 to 0. In the morning game Lang and Wiltt pitched for Chicago and Cowley and Phillips of Los Angeles. In the afternoon game, Miller and Altrock did the work for Chicago and Tozier and Chech for the Los Angeles team.

Both games were snappy and full of incident and immense crowds witnessed them.

BOWLING CONTEST.

Herald Printers Will Meet the News Tribune Team.

There will be some big scores made when The Herald and News Tribune bowling teams meet on the Central alleys Tuesday afternoon.

The following men will make up the Tribune team: Currier, Royse, Wilson, Collier and Folsom. The Herald team will be: C. Carlson, O. Anderson, F. Summers, T. Brain and O. Olson.

FREE CONCERTS WILL CONTINUE

Season Will Not Close Until the End of April.

Those who attended the nineteenth free concert given under the auspices of the Scottish Rite Masons at the Masonic temple yesterday afternoon were repaid by a well-rendered program of excellent music, and when the proposition to discontinue the concerts was suggested no one seconded the motion, but after the performance many protests were made against the idea. They will be continued until the end of April, with the exception of Easter Sunday, when the auditorium will be used by the Masonic fraternity for Easter service.

Miss Jane Errington contributed the vocal selections, her dramatic soprano voice fitting well her numbers. A good stage presence, clear enunciation, and free execution assisted in making "O, Lovely Night," one part of a song cycle, by Ronald, a delightful rendition. For an encore she sang a quaint little Scotch love song, "My Laddie," by Thayer. For her second number she sang with artistic taste Gounod's beautiful sacred solo, "Adore and Be Still," and for a second encore Tisley's tuneful and charming "Down on the Sands."

The first organ piece was the overture, "Tempelwelhe-Fest," by the Hungarian composer, Keler-Bela; one embracing many of the characteristics of the music of that nationality, giving good opportunities for solo stops, that for the Doppel flute being especially pleasing and effective. This was followed by an arrangement by Vilbac of Delibes' celebrated ballet, "Sylvia." This composition is quite bright and dainty, specially marked by the alternations of tempo and the pizzicato effects.

The third number was composed of the four movement of Mendelssohn's most celebrated symphony, that in G major, sometimes known as his Italian symphony, because written in that country and under Italian influences, which are developed throughout. It is a very ambitious composition for the organ, but it was effectively and acceptably rendered. The first movement was a bright "Allegro Vivace," redolent of Southern Europe! the second movement, the "Andante con Moto," was a beautiful melody with free bass accompaniment worked out with great taste and artistic appreciation; the "Con moto Moderato" did not present the opportunity for brilliant execution, though somewhat reminiscent of Mozart, still it was a pleasing episode leading up to the fourth movement, the "Saltarello," realy an Italian dance, originally composed of hopping and jumping. In this "Saltarello" there are two distinct dances of that character and a Tarentelle, another Italian dance, taking its name from Taranto, in Italy, the ancient Tarcentum; it is known to be as old as the sixteenth century and was considered a cure for the nervous, hysterical disease called Tarantism; it formed a fitting ending for a typical Italian symphony and the organ showed its capability for the execution of even those rapid passages.

The program was brought to a close by a fine, heroic march, "To the City Eternal," by Liefeld; the brilliant runs in the last movement giving the composition an inspiring climax.

The feature of the program for next Sunday will be selections from Wagner's opera of "Lohengrin," embracing some of the most tuneful and beautiful portions in connection with other popular music.

Mr. Custance explained the development of the symphony in general and that of Mendelssohn in particular, at the same time giving pertinent information concerning the organization of a symphony orchestra, expressing the hope that it would not be long before Duluth could boast of such an institution which would be one of the features of Duluth artistic life, and be to this city what those of Pittsburg, Boston and Minneapolis are to their respective localities, a standing monument of the people's education and intelligence and musical taste.

GOVERNMENT BY COMMISSION

Subject Is Debated by Members of the Question Club.

"Government by Commission" was the subject for discussion before the Question club at its meeting in the municipal court room of the city hall yesterday. The subject was discussed pro and con, and the issue was allowed to rest without definite decision at the end of the speechmaking.

James A. Wharton presented the issue and argued for the plan. He pointed to the success with which its inauguration has met in other cities and contended that the people are given better representation and better government under that system than by the old plan of government. Morris Kaplan opposed the commission plan. He said that the people hold the power under the old system, and if they vote right their power can be exercised to secure the best government.

BACK FROM ISLE OF PINES.

H. S. Shepherd Says Population of the Island is Steadily Growing.

H. L. Shephard has returned from a visit to the Isle of Pines, where he has a fruit plantation. He is enthusiastic over the possibilities on the little island and says that it is a fruit growing center without an equal.

Lemons are being grown in greater number than ever on the island, he says and they will find a ready market in the United States. He picked forty-three lemons from a tree nineteen months' old, and he will have a large and profitable crop from his trees this season.

The population of the Isle of Pines is growing, says Mr. Shephard, most of the population consisting of land owners from the United States. Four boats a week from Havana now handle the traffic between that port and the island.

S.S.S. PURELY VEGETABLE

It is a generally recognized truth that medicines made from vegetable ingredients are a great deal better adapted to the delicate human system, and safer in every way, than those composed of strong mineral mixtures and compounds. Mercury, potash, arsenic, etc., which are used in the manufacture of most blood medicines, are too violent in their action, and frequently derange the system by disturbing the stomach and digestion, affecting the bowels, and when used for a prolonged period often cause Rheumatism. S. S. S. is the only blood medicine guaranteed absolutely and purely vegetable. It is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, selected for their purifying and healing qualities. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison, and all other blood diseases, because it cleanses and purifies the blood, and at the same time builds up the entire system by its fine vegetable tonic effects. S. S. S. may be taken by young and old with absolute safety, and with the assurance that it will cure the diseases and disorders due to an impure and poisoned blood supply, even reaching down and removing hereditary taints. WHEAT HAS WEAK TONE

Bearish Government Report Causes Heavy Selling of the Grain.

Flax Has Steady Rise and Closes Five Points Up.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 8.—The trade awaited the issuance of the government report today. When it did come out, it was bearish, as expected, and caused further selling which had been started by those who anticipated what the report would contain. Closing prices were off more than a point from Saturday.

The visible supply of wheat decreased 1,200,000 bu., and is now 36,941,000 bu. against 38,213,000 bu. last week and 33,002,000 bu. a year ago.

Liverpool closed ¼d to ⅝d higher, Budapest 1⅞c higher and Antwerp unchanged.

The May option closed 1⅜c lower in Duluth, 1⅝@2c lower in Chicago, 1⅝c lower in Minneapolis, 1c lower in New York, ¾c lower in St. Louis, 1¼@⅝c lower in Kansas City and 1¼c lower in Winnipeg. The July option closed 1¼c lower in Duluth, Kansas City and Winnipeg, 1⅝c lower in Minneapolis, 1c lower in New York and 1¼c lower in Kansas City.

May corn closed ⅝c lower in Chicago and ⅝d to 1d higher in Liverpool. May oats closed ½c lower in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—Firmness characterized the early trading in wheat and values were ⅝d higher. Offerings were light and shorts nervous, prompted by the firmness in American cables on Saturday, strength in Winnipeg and small shipments from America this week. During the morning the market was dull and featureless, with the exception of the disposition to support the distant months, and values at mid-day were unchanged to ⅛d higher than the opening and ⅜d to ⅝d up from Saturday. The market is awaiting the American government report.

"Corn was firm at the start and ⅜d higher, followed by an additional gain of ¼d during the morning. The strength in American cables, together with the colder weather here, which is causing increased consumption, prompted light offerings."

Car receipts of wheat were 69 against 44 last year, and at Minneapolis 445 against 368 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 514 against 412 last year. Chicago received 114 against 31 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 858,000 bus, last year 713,000 bus. Shipments 311,000 bus, last year 260,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour, 1230,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 1,062,000 bus, last year 700,000 bus. Shipments 543,000 bus, last year 133,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 25,000 bus.

Wheat was quite active in the Duluth market. May wheat opened unchanged at $1.13⅜, advanced to $1.13⅝@1.13¾, declined to $1.12⅝@1.12½, reacted to $1.12¾, declined to $1.11¾ and closed there, a loss of 1⅜c from Saturday. July wheat was inactive and closed 1¼c lower than Saturday at $1.12⅝.

Durum wheat closed ¾c lower and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 1¼c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax advanced steadily during the session. May flax opened unchanged at $1.59, advanced to $1.64 and closed there, a gain of 5c over Saturday. July flax advanced from $1.58 to $1.63, the closing price, a gain of 4c over Saturday. September flax sold at $1.39½ and closed at $1.42, a gain of 3c over yesterday. October flax advanced from $1.33 to $1.37 and closed there, a gain of 4c.

Oats closed ⅝c lower and other coarse grains were unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Trade Quiets Down Materially After Activity at the Start.

Chicago, March 8.—Wheat prices broke sharply here today on profit taking by leading holders, the May delivery showing the greatest loss, with a decline of 1¾c, compared with the high point of the day. The break followed a firm opening, when prices were a shade lower, to ⅛@⅝c higher, with May at $1.16½ to $1.16¾, and July at $1.04⅝ to $1.04½. The firmness at the start was due chiefly to astrong market for wheat at Liverpool. In the first few minutes May sold off to $1.15, and July at $1.03¾. Trade was active at the start, but quieted down materially early in the session. Many traders weer disposed to await the government report to be made public late in the day.

Another severe slump occurred immediately after the publication of the report on farm reserves, which showed a much larger amount of wheat still in farmers' hands than had been generally expected. May dropped from $1.15¾ to $1.13½, with only one of two intervening trades. July sold off to $1.02⅝. Some recovery was made on profit-taking, but the close was weak, with May off 1⅞c to 2c to 2⅛@¼c at $1.14 to $1.14⅜. July closed 1½c lower at $1.02⅞@1.03.

Firm cables, the strength of wheat and wet weather in the corn belt caused a strong opening in the corn market, but prices soon declined on general selling, inspired mainly by the slump in wheat. Prices at the start were ⅛c to ⅝c higher, wit hMay at 68⅝c to 68¾c. Early in the day May sold to 68⅛c.

The government report was also bearish on the reserves of corn, and the market became very weak in the final fifteen minutes of the day. May dropped to 67½c and July to 67c. The close was weak, with May off ⅝c at 67½@67⅝c. July closed 67⅛c.

Oats were weak because of liberal sales by several of the more prominent longs. The break in wheat had a depressing effect. Prices at the opening were ⅛c higher to ⅜c lower. May being at 55⅞c to 56⅛c. Later May touched 55⅝c.

Provisions were in active demand by outside traders and the market was strong. A 10c advance in live hogs had a bullish effect. Prices at the opening were 8½c to 12½c higher.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Cables Are Strong, But Market Is Weak, Following Chicago.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 8.—Local stocks of wheat decrensed 20,000 bushels for two days. Cables were strong but the local market was weak, following Chicago. A decline of half a cent at the opening was noted and the market remained steady until near the close, when the bearish government report was announced. Here May fell a full cent and closed at $1.13⅜. Minneapolis today received 445 cars against 368, Duluth 69 against 44; Winnipeg 464 against 223. May opened $1.12¾@1.12⅞; high, $1.12⅞; low, $1.11¼; close, $1.11⅜. July opened $1.13⅝; high, $1.13⅝; low, $1.12; close, $1.12⅝. Cash wheat was in fair to good demand. Millers and elevator interests were both buying. No. 1 northern sold for 1½@1⅝c over May, and No. 2 ¼@⅝c under. Close: No. 1 northern $1.12⅝; to arrive, $1.12⅝; No. 2 northern, $1.10⅝; to arrive, $1.10⅝. No. 3 wheat, $1.07⅛@1.09⅛. No. 3 yellow corn, 62¾c; No. 3 oats, 51⅜@52¾c. No. 2 rye, 73⅜@75¾c.

Barley—Receipts, 117 cars, against 141; shipments, 71; prices were fairly active under a strong demand. Receipts were heavy and every car was sold early. Both malsters and feedings interests bought freely. Closing range, 62@63c.

Flax—Receipts, 33 cars, against 56; shipments, 11. The market was active and receipts were fairly heavy. Prices were the same as Duluth May. Local crushers were the principal buyers. Close, $1.63¾.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 2,069 tons. Demand continued strong an din excess of the supply. The usual heavy shipments for over Sunday were reported. Prices held firm. Bran in bulk $23.00@23.50.

Flour—Shipments were much smaller than was expected for over Sunday. Domestic demand was fairly strong and export demand was very small. Prices were reduced on account of the lower prices of wheat. Shipments, 48,443 barrels. First patents, $5.65@5.75; second patents, $5.55@5.65; first clears, $4.40@4.50; second clears, $3.15@3.25.

HEARD ON THE FLOOR.

Gossip of the Trading Room and the Pit.

This is the kind of a market that makes the speculators in flax grayhaired.

The market is in such a condition at present that it is keenly sensitive to the slightest influences, and buying orders for a few thousand bushels are enough to send it soaring.

The visible supply of the seed is so small that there is little offered and at the least sign of a demand for it, it goes up with leaps and bounds. Saturday the demand fell off and there were no buying orders to be filled. As a consequence the price fell 6 cents during the day, and nothing but a small order near the close of the session kept it from going 2 or 3 cents further. Today buying was again in evidence, and the price jumped back 5 cents, going up 1 and 2 cents at a time.

Minneapolis puts were $1.10⅝ and calls $1.12½.

Chicago July ups were $1.04 and $1.03⅞ and downs $1.01⅝@½ and $1.01⅜.

Government Report.

Washington, March 8.—The department of agriculture today estimated that the quantity of wheat in farmers' hands March 1 was about 21.6 per cent equivalent to 143,692,000 bu of last year's crop, and corn 39.3 per cent, equalling 1,047,763,000 bu of last year's crop

MINING BROKER SENT TO PRISON

Spokane, Wash., March 8.—J. E. Craddick, the mining broker who was convicted by a jury some time ago of obtaining money under false pretenses, was sentenced by Judge Hinkle to one to five years in the penitentiary. Motion for a new trial was denied.

Craddick's attorneys gave notice of appeal, bond for which was placed at $3,000. His sureties on his old bond of $3,000 requalified as bondsmen on his new bail.

The complainant, Ed Thompson, claims that he was sold some mining stock by Craddick for $800, in a mine in which certain developments were claimed by the defendant. Upon investigation by Thompson the mine showed that there had been no development of it at all.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Market Closed Firm With the Net Changes Very Small.

Stagnation of Demand in Final Hour and Prices Sagged.

New York, March 8.—Opening dealings in stocks effected but small changes in prices for the most part, with the gains the more numerous. Wabash advanced and the preferred 1¼ on the report of a traffic arrangement with the Union Pacific. Missouri Pacific, however, lost 1. Union Pacific Rock Island preferred and American Ice gained large fractions and Railway Steel Spring declined 1. Not much business was done at the opening.

Room traders were more active in the Gould stocks than for some time, the purchases of Wabash encouraging buying of other members of the group. Missouri Pacific met support after its opening decline and was marked up a point above Saturday's closing. Wabash preferred rose over 2 points, crossing 46. Kansas & Texas also advanced 1⅜. Hocking Coal 1½ and St. Louis Southwestern preferred and National Lead, 1. Prices hardened a fraction in sympathy.

Missouri Pacific rose 2⅛ in all. St. Louis Southwestern preferred 1¾, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault St. Marie preferred 1¼, and Texas Pacific, Bethlehem Steel and International Paper, 1. After a period of stagnation, selling orders in Reading carried it 1½ below Saturday. Disorderly liquidation in Railway Steel Spring broke it 3½, Kansas City Southern and American Smelting fell 1 below Saturday; Toledo, St. Louis & Western, 1¼, and the list generally a fraction, but rallied later. Bonds were irregular.

Trading lapsed into its recent rut after the announcement that no decision would be made today by the supreme court in the commodities clause case. Reading strengthened to 124, and there was also a general hardening elsewhere. Chesapeake & Ohio rose a point and Interborough-Metropolitan, 1⅝. National Lead fell 1¼ and Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati & St. Louis, 2½.

Except for a few specialties, which were bid up, the general list was immovable during the afternoon. Chesapeake & Ohio improved 1⅝. Virginia-Carolina Chemical company 1¼ and Amalgamated Copper 1. Sloss-Sheffield Steel yielded a point.

The market closed firm. A stagnation of demand allowed prices to sag, reducing net charges to trivial proportions. Pittsburg, C. C. & St. Louis, Western Maryland and American Agricultural Chemical rose 1 and Interborough-Metropolitan 2⅜.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., March 8.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: General spring demand is slow in assuming summer proportions, but compares favorably with the same period of last year. John Montgomery, C. B. Barnes and Leo Froelich are on the market with carload consignments. They report that farmers are holding their horses $10@15 a head higher than a month ago and as the market has failed to advance in proportion the shipper is lucky if he gets his expenses on his load. Shipments were made to Goven, Cralk and Moose Jaw, Can., Ridgerwood, N. D., and Moorhead, Minn. Good young draft horses and agricultural classes compose the bulk of the movement.

FEIRING JUMPS 115 FEET.

New Records Made at the Superior Ski Tournament.

Ole Feiring of Duluth made a clean jump of 115 feet and one of 117 feet, at Billings Park yesterday afternoon, at the Superior ski tournament. The former record for 115 was 107 feet, the jumpline. 117 feet Feiring did not stand, but on the 115-foot jump he did, and established a new record for the hill.

Barney Riley of Coleraine outdid himself in the amateur class by clearing 105 feet. He holds the amateur national championship on a jump of 97 feet.

MARSHAL IS ATTACKED.

Is Set Upon by Angered Finns at Amasa, Michigan.

Amasa, Mich., March 8.—This place was the scene of a shooting and cutting a few days ago, that might have had fatal termination.

A number of Finns got on a drunk and one of them pulled out a revolver and took a shot across the street at another Finn against whom he had a grudge.

Iver Olson, marshal of Amasa, immediatelv arrested the fellow who did the shooting and placed him in jail.

This angered some of the fellow's companions and later on, as Iver was patroling his beat, he was attacked by two men. One of them pulled a knife and cut him horribly about the face, making a big gash from the temple down the cheek.

The two latter assailants escaped and have not been captured yet, but they are known and a hunt is being made for them.

LUMSDEN ON TRIAL FOR THE KILLING OF SUYDAM.

New York, March 8.—The trial of John C. Lumsden, the young inventor, charged with the murder of Harry Suydam, a broker, Dec. 19, was begun today. The defendant shot Suydam in his office after an altercation over certain notes which Lumsden declared the broker had guaranteed for him.

MUTILATED BY SAW.

Bismarck, N. D., March 8.—Joe Ganister, employed at Burgois Little's sawmill, six miles north of this city, was killed and horibly mutilated by the circular saw.

Ganister slipped on a log which was passing through the mill and fell on the saw, which split his head in two and cut off his legs and arms.

He came here from Pennsylvania, but nothing is known of his relatives.

NO DECISION ANNOUNCED IN COMMODITIES CASE.

Washington, March 8.—The supreme court of the United States today failed to hand down a decision in the commodities case, involving the validity of the provision of the Hepburn rate law, prohibiting railroads from holding an interest in, or owning lines or other concerns whose products are shipping over their lines of railroad.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION —OF— MILLE LACS TRANSPORTATION COMPANY

We, the undersigned, hereby associate ourselves together for incorporation under and pursuant to the Revised Laws of the State of Minnesota for the year 1905, and to that end do subscribe and agree to the following Articles of Incorporation:

ARTICLE 1.

The name of this corporation shall be MILLE LACS TRANSPORTATION COMPANY.

The general nature of its business shall be to carry on a general transportation business on Mille Lacs Lake, in the State of Minnesota, and to purchase, build, own, lease and operate any and all wharves, docks, boats, tugs, scows and other water crafts necessary or convenient for carrying on said transportation business.

The principal place of transacting its business shall be at Duluth, St. Louis County, Minnesota.

ARTICLE II.

The period of duration of this corporation shall be thirty (30) years.

ARTICLE III.

The names and places of residence of the incorporators of said company are: C. O. Baldwin, Albert Baldwin and J. T. Pearson, all of whom reside at Duluth, Minnesota.

ARTICLE IV.

The management of this corporation shall be vested in a board of three (3) directors, who shall be elected by the stockholders at their annual meeting, which shall be held at one o'clock in the afternoon of the first Tuesday in March of each year.

Until the first election of directors, said C. O. Baldwin, Albert Baldwin and J. T. Pearson, all of whom reside at Duluth, Minnesota, shall constitute the board of directors.

There shall be a president, a vice president, a secretary and a treasurer, all of whom shall be chosen annually by the board of directors immediately after the annual stockholders' meeting.

One person may hold the office of treasurer and any other office at the same time.

Until their respective successors are elected, C. O. Baldwin shall be president, Albert Baldwin, vice president, and J. T. Pearson, secretary and treasurer.

ARTICLE V.

MODEL MONORAIL CAR TESTED IN NEW YORK.

New York, March 8.—Dr. Alexander Chessin of Washington university, St. Louis, gave a demonstration of the principle of the Brennan monorail car in the physical laboratory at Columbia university yesterday. The model has all the essential features of the large car, to perfect which the British government has appropriated $500,000. Dr. Chessin placed the car on a copper cable stretched across the room, and although the center of gravity was three inches above the point of contact, the car maintained its balance perfectly. It successfully balanced more than ten pounds and did not tip until almost two-thirds of the car's weight was placed on one side.

MONEY FOR THE NORMAL

Duluth School Likely to Get Much Needed Appropriation.

President Bohannon Returns From Session With Legislators.

The outlook for the Duluth normal school to get the money needed for the construction of a new dormitory and the addition of a wing on the main building, is very bright at the present time.

E. W. Bohannon, principal of the school, has returned from St. Paul, where Saturday he appeared before the subcommittee from the house and told of the needs of the school. The bill for funds for the normal schools is now before the house, and was referred to the subcommittee, the members of which listened to what Mr. Bohannon told about the growth of the school, with much interest. Tomorrow morning they will arrive in the city, together with members of the senate committee for a personal inspection of the conditions here.

The bill now before the house provides that for the year beginning Aug. 1, 1909, there shall be appropriated $65,000 for a new dormitory; $2,500 for additional grounds; $1,500 for repairs; $750 for the library; $31,000 for support. In 1910 there will be, if the bill is passed, $50,000 for an addition to the main building; $1,500 for extraordinary repairs; $750 for the library; $500 for furniture, and $31,000 for support.

This money will be a great help to the school. Since it was completed some six years ago, its growth has been very rapid. From a mere handful of girls during the opening year, it has grown until at this time the dormitory is overcrowded and there are many who would enter who cannot be accommodated.

CARPENTER BROS.' LICENSE AGAIN

Matter is Scheduled to Come Before the City Fathers.

The proposed revocation of the Carpenter Bros.' saloon license, in Oneota, will come before the council this evening. Judge Dibell, last Saturday, vacated the restraining order intended to keep the council from voting on the revocation of the license of a week ago, and the city fathers are now free to act, unless the saloon men's attorney has some more surprises to spring.

The council will meet again tomorrow night to perfect its organization for the coming year. A president will be elected, and city clerk appointed. Mayor Haven will also announce several political appointments. So far as can be learned, a president of the council has not yet been decided upon. The Democrats are in the majority, and the contest is said to lie between Aldermen Getchell and Shartell. A caucus will be held tonight, following the council meeting, unless a decision is reached before that time.

POLICE WANT A GYMNASIUM

Fund for Starting One at Central Station $200 Short.

Members of the police department are trying to raise a fund of $250 for equipping a gymnasium on the second floor of the police station. The men themselves have contributed $50, and are now ready to receive contributions from their friends about town.

It is expected that friends of the department in different parts of the city will come forward with the amount needed. The sum is a very small one, and individual contributions would not have to be very large if all the business interests receiving police protection would help a little.

PLAN TO ESCAPE IS FRUSTRATED

Discovery of Bar Sawed From Window Reveals Plot.

Chicago, March 8.—The confinement of five trusties in cells and the threatened dismissal of guards in the county jail here today, followed the discovery of an attempt to allow the escape of a prisoner, said to be David Anderson, under sentence of death April 3, for the murder of a policeman. Discovery of the conspiracy is due to carelessness on the part of the man or men who sawed a bar from a fourth story window. The bar was completely severed, instead of being allowed to hang by a "thread" until the moment for escape came.

DECLARES JOHN REDMOND MIGHT BE PRIME MINISTER.

New York, March 8.—Two celebrations, commemorative of the one hundred and thirty-first anniversary of the birth of Robert Emmet, were held in this city last night—the United Irish league had a meeting in the Lyric theater, and the Clan-Na-Gael gathered in the Herald Square theater. Michael J. Ryan of Philadelphia, president of the United Irish League of America, said during the course of an address at the league celebration:

"John F. Redmond has done more to advance the political, material, intellectual and industrial interests of Ireland than any other man in the last century. Never since the days of Emmet has the future of Ireland looked brighter, with the promise of victory than it does today under the leadership of Redmond. If Redmond would today forget the cause for which Ireland is fighting, he would become the prime minister of England."

A VAGRANCY LAW NEEDED

Duluth Police Put Stamp of Approval on Allen Bill.

Situation Is Inadequately Covered By the City Ordinance.

Chief of Police Troyer says the present city ordinance governing vagrants and clairvoyants is not comprehensive enough to suit the police, but is of the opinion that the Allen bill, now before the legislature, making it possible for the police to place a vagrancy charge against all undesirable residents of big cities, will more adequately cover the situation.

"Such a bill as this, introduced by Mr. Allen of Hennepin, will give us the power to run out of the city not only the clairvoyants and mindreaders, who have been doing a fat business here, but all the crooks and confidence-men who have operated under the fortune telling guise," said Chief Troyer.

At the present time clairvoyants pay a monthly license fee of $50 to the city, and as long as they keep within bounds, the police do not bother them, on the principle that the people who patronize them would find some way to get rid of their money if the clairvoyant business did not exist.

An inquiry into the laws of other states shows that a large proportion of them have vagrancy laws similar to that proposed by the Allen bill, and that in those states which lack such laws, the leading cities have passed ordinances covering the points in question. In the states in which such a law is in effect, it is of the greatest aid to the authorities in keeping their cities free from the horde of undesirables, who would otherwise flock in, and be a constant danger and menace to law and order, without fear of legal restraint.

In most states vagrancy has been given, by state law or city ordinance a wide range of application, so that under it the police may deal with persons known to be habitual criminals, whose presence in a city means no good to any one.

At present "vagrancy" in the cities and towns of Minnesota is used in its old common law sense—the condition of being without visible, lawful means of support. The old law covering the term is so vague that it is difficult to apply it to all classes of undesirables, and is therefore considered entirely inadequate to meet conditions which daily confront the police in Duluth, as well as elsewhere in the state.

JAIL HIS FUNERAL PYRE.

Inmate of Elroy, Wisconsin, Lockup Forfeits His Life.

Elroy, Wis., March 8.—Elroy was the scene of a shocking tragedy early yesterday morning, when a prisoner in the city lockup, named Torge Juve, set fire to the detention station, and in the fire that ensued lost his life.

His body was burned beyond recognition and was a terrible sight when efforts were made by the coroner's jury to have the remains removed from the ruins. The building destroyed was a frame structure containing four cells, and the loss is not very large, being in the neighborhood of $2,000.

MAY MAKE STEEL CARS.

Brainerd, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The news that the Great Northern railroad has announced that it will construct steel cars in its new Superior shops has strengthened the hope that the Brainerd Northern Pacific shops would do that class of work.

Such was the rumor last fall, when the construction of a new foundry building was under consideration. While there has been no announcement of the intention of the company to erect a new foundry here, yet the persistence of the rumors to that effect lead many to believe that there will be a large foundry erected here in the near future.

NINETY-FOUR POISONED BY FRICASSED CHICKEN.

Berlin, March 8.—Ninety-four nurses and attendants of the Virchow hospital are today suffering slightly from ptomaine poisoning following the eating of fricassed chicken.

ITALIAN MINISTRY IS WINNER AT THE POLLS.

Rome, March 8.—Definite returns from the general elections held throughout Italy yesterday for a new chamber of deputies show the present ministry has been given a large majority. The Socialist and the Republicans have scored successes, each gaining six seats. The Clericals, who participated in the elections for the first time since 1870, gained several seats, but they did not show the strength and the organization with which they had been credited.

BRITTON AND SCHROEDER ARE SENT TO SING SING.

New York, March 8.—Convicted of the larceny of $4,000 from the Eagle Savings & Loan company of Brooklyn, Col. Edward E. Britton and Quarantine Commissioner Edward H. Schroeder, formerly president and second vice president, respectively of the institution, were given indeterminate sentences in Sing Sing today by Justice Jay Cox in the supreme court, Brooklyn. Col. Britton's sentence was from fourteen months to four years and six months; Schroeder's sentence was identical except that the minimum term was placed at one year.

SPOONER VOTES BONDS FOR SCHOOL BUILDING.

Spooner, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—School District No. 112 held a special election Saturday afternoon for the purpose of voting $25,000 bonds for the erection of a school building this spring. A sufficient number of votes were cast in favor of the proposition. Spooner will have a school building that will be a pride to this North country.

Sticking to the Disagreeable Job.

It is the man who can stick to the disagreeable job, do it with energy and vim, the man who can force himself to do good work when he does not feel like doing it—in other words, the man who is master of himself, who has a great purpose, and holds himself to his aim, whether it is agreeable or disagreeable, whether he feels like or does not feel like it—that wins. Many people keep up their energy and vim by taking regularly at meal time a good malt tonic, such as golden grain belt beer. Most grateful when fatigued or run down. Order of your nearest dealer, or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company.

HOUSE VOTES AGAINST ABOLITION OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT IN STATE

Flood of Oratory Against the Bill to Abolish Hangings.

New Workingmen's Compensation Bill Fathered by Senator Durment.

The Senate Favors C. J. Gunderson for United States District Judge.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—By a vote of 85 to 31, the house this morning went on record in committee of the whole, against the abolishment of capital punishment, indefinitely postponing the Bendixen bill, which provided that hereafter there should be no more hangings in this state.

Representative Bendixen, author of the bill, talked earnestly in favor of it, and Representative George A. MacKenzie of Gaylord, who introduced a similar bill four years ago, spoke eloquently and potently against the practice of judicial murder, against which he protested in the name of humanity and of civilization.

All the other speeches—and there was quite a flood of oratory—were against the bill. Frank White said he didn't believe in it, unless it could be provided that there should be no pardons for murders. Bicknell thought it might be all right, if it could be amended so that the jury trying a murder case could secure the death

HIBBING WANTS STATE BUILDING

To House Records of the Mining Inspection Department.

St. Paul, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Martin Hughes, John A. Redfern, F. G. Jewett and Gust Carlson, all of Hibbing, are here in the interests of a movement to induce the state to build a state mines building at Hibbing, to cost about $25,000. It is said that the matter has had some support from state Auditor Iverson and others, who believe the state should have a suitable place for the records of the mining inspection department.

BOATHOUSE FOR NAVAL MILITIA

Commander Eaton Appears in Behalf of the Pugh Bill.

St. Paul, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Guy A. Eaton, commander of the Minnesota naval militia, appeared yesterday afternoon before the joint sub-committees on appropriations in behalf of the Pugh bill appropriating $5,000 for a boathouse for the state's sea forces. He explained that the state has been given a number of boats by the federal government, and the boathouse is necessary in order to give them proper protection. The committee indicated a favorable attitude in the matter, and apparently the only question is whether the boathouse should be built on leased land, or whether the state should purchase lots on which to locate it. Suitable lots are offered for $1,300, and it is probable that the state will make the purchase rather than construct boathouses on leased land.

TWO-CENT FARE BILL A FAILURE

Kansas Senate Seals Fate For This Session at Least.

Topeka, Kan., March 9.—The senate today adopted the report of the railroad committee, which recommended that the 2-cent fare bill be not passed.

This ends the 2-cent fare legislation in the Kansas legislature at this session.

CENSUS BILL IS CHANGED

Believed It Will Meet Approval of President Taft.

Language to Which Roosevelt Objected Has Been Altered.

Washington, March 9.—The passage of a new census bill during the special session, to take the place of the measure vetoed by President Roosevelt, previous to his retirement from office, is confidently predicted.

Representative Crumpacker of Indiana, chairman of the census committee of the last house, and author of the bill, disapproved, because it did not provide for competitive examination for the temporary census clerks, prepared the new measure. He believes it will not only meet with the approval of the special session of congress, but will receive the signature of President Taft.

The plan for the selection of clerks by non-competitive examinations, as provided for in the vetoed bill, has been abandoned. Judge Crumpacker has sought to apply the merit system of selection, modified to meet the exigencies of the census work. The new bill provides for "special test examinations," prescribed by the civil serv-

POPE RESUMES HIS AUDIENCES

Doctors Insist He Remain in Private Apartments, However.

Rome, March 9—The pope, who has been suffering from a cold, is much better. The beautiful spring-like weather has had a good effect on the patient. He has not yet been allowed to come down to the state apartments, but as he insists upon resuming his audiences he today received in his own private apartments Cardinal Richelmy archbishop of Turin and Mgr Trobec, bishop of St. Cloud.

The pontiff expressed the desire to descend soon to the throne to receive Cardinal Mercier archbishop of Mechlin, who is here with five Belgian bishops and a Belgian pilgrimage.

Earthquakes in Portugal.

Lisbon, March 9.—A number of light earthquake shocks, accompanied by subterranean rumblings, are reported from the province of Minro.

FACES MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE BECAUSE HE TWISTED MULE'S TAIL.

Tallulah, La., March 9.—Because he twisted the tail of a mule, a negro youth is in jail here charged with manslaughter. An aged negro riding the mule was thrown from the rearing animal, sustaining injuries from which he died.

YEGGMEN, ONLY EIGHT-YEARS OLD, ROBS MONTROSE, COL., POSTOFFICE

Montrose, Col., March 9.—Robert Oxford, an 8-year-old yeggman, broke into a number of the lock boxes of the Montrose postoffice and secured $168 in cash and drafts, and a considerable amount of jewelry. The boy opened the boxes, which are of the combination-lock pattern, by listening to the click of the tumblers. He secured the larger portion of his plunder from the boxes of the county treasurer of Montrose county and the Reynolds Jewelry company. He was arrested shortly after the theft was discovered. Accompanied by the police, he returned to the postoffice and opened a number of other boxes, to illustrate his methods.

THIRTY DEATHS ARE RESULT OF FIERCE TORNADO

Railroad Operator and Party Carry News of Storm.

Arkansas Town is Destroyed—Heavy Snow in Iowa.

Thirty to Forty Injured—Property Loss Exceeds $1,000,000.

St. Louis, Mo., March 9.—A special to the Post Dispatch, from Brinkley, Ark., says thirty persons were killed and thirty to forty injured, and more than $1,000,000 in property loss was caused by a cyclone which swept this city of 3,000 people last night. The city is a total loss. The cyclone passed over the city last night at 7 o'clock, and when daylight revealed its work this morning, it was found that the business district was in ruins and that nine out of ten residences had been destroyed.

Memphis, Tenn., March 9.—Eight persons were killed, several others seriously injured and practically the entire town of Brinkley, Ark., destroyed by a tornado and subsequent fire last night.

The same tornado passed into Baucum, where the extent of the damages is also unknown, and from there to Kerr in Lonoka county, where several houses were demolished, and E. B. Adams, a farmer, was seriously, if not fatally injured. He, with his wife, son, and three others were in the house at the time of the storm. They were buried in the debris, but all escaped alive. The home of Dan Wagner, a sawmill operator, was also destroyed, but he and his wife escaped with a few bruises. A gin and several negro cabins were demolished.

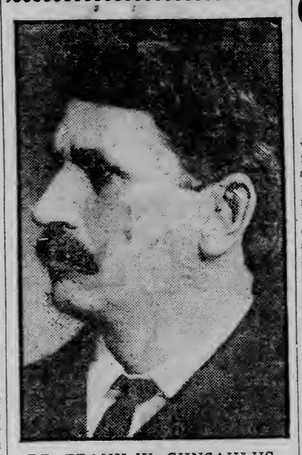

All the windows in a train, between Gurdon and Rester, were blown out. At Malvern, the Catholic church was destroyed, at a loss $6,000. The Baptist church was damaged, a portion of the courthouse was unroofed and other extensive damage was re-

THIS BILL PROVIDES AN "ECONOMY BOARD."

Lansing, Mich., March 9.—An economy commission to see that no state department or institution expends more money than it should is provided in a bill introduced in the lower house last night. Representative Farmer introduced a bill providing that bank directors must sign their names to the records of the directors' meetings they attend.

LECTURER HURT BY FALL ON ICE

DR. FRANK W. GUNSAULUS.

Chicago, March 9.—Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus, lecturer and preacher, has returned from Cedar Falls because of an injury to his right hip caused by falling on an icy railroad track while boarding a train at Marion, Iowa. Dr. Gunsaulus cancelled a lecture engagement at Cedar Falls because of the injury.

WIRELESS ON ALL THE BIG BOATS

Many Lake Steamers Will This Year Be Fitted Out.

Detroit, Mich., March 9.—Five of the large D & C. and D. & B. line boats are now being equipped with the Clark wireless telegraph apparatus and will be ready to use the system when navigation opens. The vessels being thus equipped are: Western States, Eastern States, City of Cleveland, City of Detroit and St. Ignace. Shore stations have already been established in Detroit, Cleveland and Port Huron and those in course of construction are at Toledo, Buffalo and Mackinac.

In discussing the wireless system today A. A. Schantz, manager of the D. & C. and D. & B. lines, said that several of the big transportation companies will install apparatus on their boats before the season has advanced far. The Buffalo & Cleveland Transportation company will be among the first to have the wireless. The steamers of that fleet will be equipped within a few weeks. It will not be long, adds Mr. Schantz, before every large boat on the lakes will be provided with the system and stations established at all important points along the shores from Duluth to Buffalo.

SEVERED HAND IS REJOINED TO ARM.

Kalamazoo, Mich., March 9.—The hand that was severed from the wrist of Charles Miller at a paper factory has been successfully rejoined to his arm with the prospect that he will regain full use of his hand. Only a small piece of flesh held the hand and arm together when the accident occurred, but doctors quickly bound them together.

CROWD IS A MENACE

Appeal Made to Judge Who Acts for Safety.

Gen. Meeks Opens In Defense of the Coopers.

Nashville, Tenn., March 9.—So great was the throng which tried to crowd into court this morning to hear the arguments in the Cooper-Sharp trial for the murder of Former Senator Carmack, that the architect of the building, appealed to the judge and declared there was danger of a serious accident. Long after the room itself could hold no more, the curious people continued to push into the corridors and up the stairways. So great became the crush that fears were expressed lest the railings give way and precipitate those on the stairways down upon those beneath them. Judge Hart hurriedly sent deputies to the corridors and soon had them cleared.

The judge again admonished the audience to refrain from any kind of demonstrations and Gen. Meeks began the opening argument for the defese. Gen. Meeks has been ill and seemed scarcely able to stand.

Cooper Listens Quietly.

During Attorney Fitzhugh's bitter arraignment the old defendant sat quietly with his eyes shut and his hands folded as though asleep.

Capt. Fitzhugh took up the fourth editorial entitled the "Diplomat of the Swelbund." It was introduced in the case by the state. This editorial accredits Mr. Cooper with bringing about the great condition with "Wielding the Fewter handle upon the Wooden Spoon."

Capt. Fitzhugh explained the phrase

Harrisburg, Pa., March 9.—W. T. Oliver of Pittsburg was today named as Republican candidate for United States senator, to succeed P. C. Knox, by the joint caucus of the senate and house.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY BARRED FROM MISSOURI BY STATE'S HIGH COURT

H. CLAY PIERCE.
Whose Oil Company May Continue Business in the "Show-Me" State, the Attorney General's Application for an Ouster Order Being Denied.

Republic Oil Company Also Expelled From Commonwealth.

Waters-Pierce May Continue to Do Business, However.

Sixty Per Cent of Its Stock Held by the Standard.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 9.—The motion by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and the Republic Oil Company of Ohio for a rehearing of the ouster suit recently decided against them, and for a modification of the judgment were overruled by the Missouri supreme court today.

The position of the Waters-Pierce Oil company was upheld, the motion of the attorney general for an absolute ouster of the Missouri company was denied, the compliance with the court order recently filed by the company was approved and the judgment of ouster against it was suspended.

The effect of these decisions is to expel the Indiana and Ohio companies from Missouri and to restore the Waters-Pierce company, 60 per cent of the stock of which is held by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the right to do business within the state.

No formal opinion in the premises was read, Chief Justice Valliant simply announcing the gist of the court's decision. Justices Lamm and Woodson dissented.

The Standard Oil interests are expected to appeal to the supreme court of the United States.

The decision is considered a great victory for the Waters-Pierce company

BARBER LIST GIVEN BOTH

But Cook Had to Pay More Than Did Hatton.

Latter Paid Senator Lockney $100 Campaign Expenses.

Madison, Wis., March 9.—W. H. Dick, manager for Republican Candidate W. H. Hatton, took the stand today when the senatorial primary investigation committee resumed its hearing. He said all moneys received from Mr. Hatton with the exception of one or two drafts, were turned over to Charles K. Lush. He knew nothing of expenditures made prior to the Chicago convention. Mr. Hatton paid $12 for a list of barbers of the state, that cost Candidate Cook $20. Henry Lockney, a "hold over" senator received $100 from the Hatton fund for "campaign expenses."

W. L. Houser, ex-secretary of state, received $29.50 for postage of a personal letter sent out for Hatton. Senator A. W. Sanborn received $100 which was turned over to J. W. Goode, to look after Hatton's interests.

In the assembly today Mr. Leroy read a message from United States Senator Isaac Stephenson thanking the honor conferred upon him in electing him United States senator.

The resolution of Assemblyman D. B. Stevens, requiring the senatorial investigation committee to report at once, was held over till tomorrow.

The senate laid over the assembly resolution calling for the appointment of four special committees to consider industrial insurance, insurance of bank deposits, income tax and good roads.

AERONAUT FALLS INTO OCEAN AND IS DROWNED.

Los Angeles, March 9.—Lester Elkins, aged 22, an aeronaut, who attempted a balloon flight and parachute jump at San Pedro yesterday, was carried by the wind out over the ocean and from a height of 4,500 feet dropped into the outer bay and was drowned. His home is in San Antonio, Tex.

Not the Missing Boy.

New Orleans, La., March 9.—A youth held at Slidell, La., who was believed to be Keith Edwin Dalrymple of Siloam Springs, Ark., for whom detectives have been looking, has proved not to be the missing boy.

PAYS FORTY DOLLARS TO EAT HORSE RADISH.

San Francisco, Cal., March 9.—For the privilege of eating horse radish Albert Pulitzer paid $40. He did not buy a garden where the terrid vegetable is grown, but invested the money in a cablegram to his physician in Vienna. Pulitzer has retired from newspaper work and is here writing his memoirs. The message to Vienna read as follows: "May I eat horse radish?" And back over the Atlantic cable came a laconic "yes" from the doctor, who regulates the diet of the former editor. The charges were $40, but as Pulitzer departed for the dining room with a smile it was evident he thought it was money well spent.

TO RIVAL HILL AND HARRIMAN

Canadian Pacific Soo Will Soon Run Into Portland.

St. Paul, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the Canadian Pacific-Soo railroad combination will soon be running its trains into Portland, Or., and will thus be able to compete with the Hill and Harriman lines for business to that point, is the report current among officials based on the statement made recently by a high official of the Soo railroad.

This plan, it is said, will be made possible through an arrangement with the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company, by which the Canadian Pacific will use the Oregon Railroad & Navigation tracks from Spokane to Portland.

Should the plan be carried out and the line which the Canadian Pacific is contemplating be built from Vancouver southward to Seattle and Tacoma, the Canadian Pacific will reach all the principal points on the coast touched by the Hill lines and will be able to compete with them with north coast business on an equal basis.

ZELAYA PLANS PEACE MEETING

He Calls Five Central American Countries Into Conference.

Mexico City, March 9.—According to private advices, President Zelaya of Nicaragua has called another conference among his own country, Honduras, Guatemala, Salvador and Costa Rica, with the view to arranging permanent peace for Central America.

The conference is to be held on one of the warships of the American Pacific squadron, now at Amapala.

No official advices of such a contemplated conference have been received.

SALMON PACKERS TO REDUCE THE OUTPUT.

Seattle, Wash., March 9.—Alaska salmon packers are preparing to reduce the pack of pink salmon about 300,000 cases the coming season, as the result of which reduction a number of canneries in the North will not be operated. The run of salmon on Puget sound will start July 10.

"HEE-HAW AND HER NAME WAS MAUD!"

SOCIALISTS SEVERELY SCORED BY BISHOP FOLEY OF DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., March 9.—Right Rev. John S. Foley, bishop of the Roman Catholic diocese of Detroit, in commenting on the course of Rev. Father Kubiszewski of Manitowoc, Wis., who intimated Sunday that members of his church, who were affiliated with the Socialist party, would have to choose between the party and the church, said:

"Catholics have always been called upon to choose between allegiance to their church and to the Socialist party, as it is conducted. The Socialist movement is founded upon rebellion, and the Catholic church upon authority; the party seems to be composed of revolutionaries, while the church favors submission."

First Showing of Authoritative Models in Advanced Styles, Spring 1909

(Note our display windows.)

Our preliminary showing of the new Spring models in Men's and Young Men's Suits and Overcoats embodies every style point and desirable wrinkle that clothing specialists of world-wide reputation have decreed to be prominent and proper in Spring and Summer fashions.

The styles are authentic—the materials are the best—the colorings are the newest—the weights just right—the patterns the very latest—in fact, smarter clothes could not be designed.

Investigate the garments—how they are tailored—how they fit and hang—and above all, note the distinctiveness of the style marks that always characterize the Oak Hall bench-made clothes. Every suit and overcoat is backed by our guarantee.

Come in tomorrow—or next business day—and let us show you the lines. If best is good enough, we'll hope to make a customer of you. Prices range, $10 to $45.

CONTRACTS RETURNED

Marine Engineers Refuse to Sign on Open Shop Plan.

Claim the Contracts May Force Them to Be Idle All Summer.

Marine affairs are badly muddled, and the opening of navigation on the lakes will in all probability be accompanied by labor trouble.

There are in Duluth eighty marine engineers and each one of them has returned his contract unsigned to the boat owners or their representatives. They say that the contract calls for the open shop, and that they will not stand for it. While the contract does not mention anything about decreased wages, and the engineers know that the owners are not thinking of cutting the wages, they say there is even more of a financial loss to them by signing a contract than if the wages were really cut. The contract, they say, binds them to a boat. No assurance is given them that they will have work and if the boat is not put in commission they are expected to wait until she is. That is, they bind themselves to the boat to which they are assigned by signing the contract. They are then bound to wait until that particular boat is put in commission. Maybe she will be used and maybe she will not. The engineer who has signed the contract is not allowed the privilege of working where he can get a job. Many of the engineers laid around all last summer, after signing a contract of this kind, and they say they will not do it again.

According to the contract they must also assist the owners and corporations in breaking up not only their own union, but all other unions with which they might come in contact during their duties aboard ship.

The Duluth engineers as well as those all over the lakes, say they will not sign up, and that the boats will this year lie idle not because of lack of work, but because there will not be engineers to run them.

The engineers claim that the contract is really no contract as it does not guarantee either work or wages.

The Contract.

The following is a copy of the contract as sent out to be signed by the engineers:

"You are hereby appointed for the season of 1909 chief engineer of our steamer ....., at the rate of .... per month, on the following terms:

"That the company reserves the right to dispense with your services at any time for reasons satisfactory to it. That you faithfully abide by and cooperate in carrying out the rules and regulations of the company in respect to all matters in your department.

"As we have decided upon the policy of open shop, you will be expected to, and by your acceptance hereof will agree to, fully co-operate in this policy and in keeping off the ship any representatives of other interests than the ship and owners, so far as your department is concerned. Also, if the company decides not to put or keep the steamer in commission, you agree to serve, if requested, as second engineer on any steamer of the company to which you may be assigned, without, however, any reduction in the rate of your salary above stated."

Circular Letter.

The following is a copy of the circular letter sent out from the engineers' headquarters:

"Contracts are unnecessary as between an employer and a marine engineer. The offer of employment by an owner or his representatives, the acceptance of same by an engineer and the continuance of employment as long as mutually agreeable are all that should be required. An engineer has no right to wrongfully refuse to serve as an engineer, but he has the right to nominate the conditions under which he will serve, provided they are equitable and legal, and this right should not be surrendered to employers. He also has the right to refuse to sign any contract other than the ship's articles and can legally and morally refuse to serve under an alleged contract that has been entered into through coercion or misrepresentation. An employer has no more legal or moral right to expect or to require an engineer to take a boat out with an incompetent, insufficient or indifferent crew than he has to require an engineer to take a boat out with her boilers, engines or other equipment in an unsafe or improper condition.

"The M. E. B. A. has no fight with the Lake Carriers, but simply want the members to live up to oath to the United States government and also stand by their obligations to the M. E. B. A.

Fraternally submitted in U. and F."

TEST FOR WRAPPERS.

Minneapolis Journal: "The hardest thing to wrap up," said a shipping clerk, "is a violin. A department store will often test a new wrapper by giving him a violin to do up. If he passes that test, he is all right.

"There is a parcel wrapping machine now. It threatens to do away with the human wrapper. It can't do up a violin, though.

"Abroad bags and string being expensive are rarely used and the young groceryman must be able to wrap potatoes flour and all sorts of things in sheets of paper alone. He gets a kind of knack. He lays his flour or beans in a square of paper, doubles the paper over and with an end in each hand swings the parcel round and round. Like magic then, it is done up and you can carry it safely quite a hundred yards or so provided you are careful."

YOUTHFUL MUSICIAN.

West Duluth Boy Will Go to Chicago to Study.

Ned J. Baldwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee W. Baldwin of 5801 Grand avenue west, left yesterday afternoon for Chicago, where he will take a course in music under A. F. Weldon, who is said to be the best cornet instructor in America.

Master Baldwin is 15 years old and has played the cornet since he was 12. For the past two years he had no regular instructor, learning what he could by himself and from suggestions offered by others. About a year ago he began to take lessons and learned so rapidly, that he was admitted to the Duluth Musicians' union last August. He is the youngest member of the local, and is popular among the musicians.

It is his intention to make music his profession, and has chosen Mr. Weldon to instruct him. Charles Helmer, local cornet soloist, who has often played before Duluth audiences, and Walter Lange, well known cornet player of Superior, were formerly pupils of Mr. Weldon. The boy's success thus far and his earnest desire to advance finally induced his parents to consent to his going to Chicago.

The members of the Baldwin family are all musically inclined, though Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin have never studied music. William, Ned's older brother, is one of the leading trap drummers of the city. He became a member of the union when he was 16 years old. His sister, Mrs. P. Curtis of Two Harbors, belongs to the musicians' local, and is a pianist of talent.

WANTS $5,000 FOR LOSS OF LIFE

Courthouse Contractors Sued as Result of Accident Last Fall.

Charles E. Hamill, administrator of the estate of Charles C. Nichols, one of the men who were killed while at work on the new St. Louis county courthouse last fall, has filed papers in a personal injury case against Landquist & Ilsley, the Chicago contractors, for $5,000.

Nichols was a structural iron worker and met his death, it is alleged in the complaint, by the falling of a defective boom, on which he was working at the time.

He was a married man, and besides his wife, leaves six children. The family live in Chicago.

ACCUSED HELD FOR KILLING

Grand Rapids Magistrate Refuses to Discharge Danielson and Brown.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Kearney has denied the motion of counsel for Emil Danielson and William R. Brown to discharge them from custody on the charge of having caused the death of John Johnson, who died suddenly in a Deer River saloon last Christmas day and the case against the accused will go before the next grand jury.

The accused will furnish bail tomorrow.

DEATH TOTAL IS NEAR FORTY

List of Victims of Southern Tornado Is Growing.

Memphis, Tenn., March 9.—A dispatch to the News-Scimitar from Brinkley, Ark., at 1 o'clock today, says fifteen white persons and more than twenty negroes were killed in last night's tornado, and it is variously estimated that there are between fifty and one hundred persons injured. As the day progressed, relief parties found the bodies of many negroes under the debris.

Among the injured whites are: Mrs. E. H. Mason, Mrs. Claude Leakey, D. V. Donnelly, Daniel Cummings and Robert Alexander and John E. Waddell of Memphis.

VIRGINIA CITY TODAY.

Outing: Virginia City is indeed a strange town—a living skeleton. In the height of its opulence is boasted a population of 30,000. Today there are less than one-tenth that many. Dilapidation and ruin are seen on every hand.

The chief streets terrace along a great hillside. Further up the slope are wastes of sagebrush growing in stunted clumps that half hide the earth with their gray twigs and foliage. Down below is a valley where the mines have dumped vast heaps of waste.

The entire region is a wild upheaval of hills and around the horizon are seen ranges of snowy topped mountains. The only trees are an occasional gnarled scrub pine or dwarf cedar a few feet high.

The town streets are rough and dirty and as I walked about I was constantly encountering old tin cans and getting my feet tangled up in wires from the baled hay. Buildings in good repair are rarities. There are tottering fences and ragged walls and broken roofs and smashed glass and many windows and doors are boarded up.

The search for gold has resulted in tearing the country all to pieces. Everywhere the hills are dotted with prospectors' holes. From any height you can see dozens—perhaps hundreds. They suggest the burrowing of woodchucks or prairie dogs. The region along the Comstock lode abounds too in deserted shafts.

DELIGHTED WITH SCHOOL

Committee Says Duluth Has Best Institution in State.

Are Anxious to See the Desired Appropriations Made.

The members of the normal school committee of the house of representatives, this morning, inspected the Duluth normal school, and the majority of the members of the committee are satisfied that Duluth has the best-conducted normal school in the state.

F. E. Gartside of Winona is chairman of the committee. The other members are Dr. David Graham, I. J. Lee of Glenwood, Charles L. Sawyer of Minneapolis, O. P. Doyle of St. Cloud, H. J. Emmel of Melrose, and J. J. Opsahl of Bemidji. The members of the committee reached Duluth this morning, coming here from Moorhead, where they inspected the state normal school at that city. They will return to St. Paul upon the evening train.

E. W. Bohannon, principal of the normal school, took the members of the committee in charge this morning, after they had breakfasted at the Spalding hitel. They were taken to the normal school, and gave that institution a thorough inspection.

The normal school committee has recommended the appropriations asked for by the Duluth and other state normal schools, so that the matter is now up to the committee on appropriations. The members of the committee in Duluth today are of the opinion that not only does the Duluth normal school stand in great need for the requested appropriation, but that it thoroughly deserves all of the money that the St. Louis county delegation has asked for.

Mr. Sawyer is of the opinion that Duluth has the best conducted normal school in the state. "It is just about the right size," said Mr. Sawyer, "as I am of the opinion that a normal school should not be too large. When you have a normal school too large, you will find that the pupils will not receive the attention that they would in a smaller school. I am in favor of having more normal schools, rather than having the present normal schools too large."

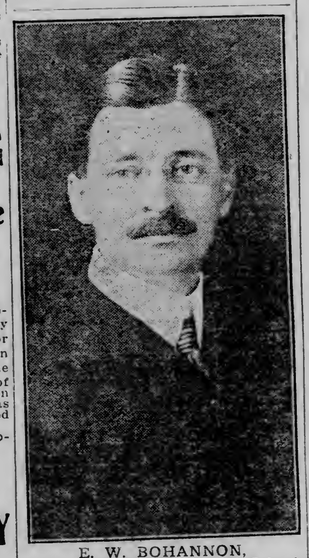

In this view of the situation, Mr. Bohannon is in perfect accord. He informed the members of the committee that he would be sorry to see the Duluth normal school have over 300 pupils. He believes, with Mr. Sawyer, that when there are more than that number of pupils, the chances of the student are injured.

Mr. Sawyer is inclined to the opinion that the St. Cloud normal is too large.

"We found everything very well conducted at the Duluth school," said Chairman Gartside. "You know that everyone is asking for appropriations. We have given the Duluth normal school all that it has asked for, and we hope that the school gets the money. It is in good shape, but it needs the improvements that will come with the appropriation. We have found all the normal schools we have investigated in good shape. We will visit the St. Cloud normal later. They are going ahead so fast down at the legislature that we will have to hustle back. We have found everything all right here, and are satisfied with the situation at Duluth."

The members of the committee state that the legislature is grinding out work, that most of the oratory has been cut out, and that the members are down to real business. Mr. Sawyer expressed the opinion that the session would be a longer one than was at first intended. He says there is a great deal of work ahead, and that it may be found impossible to dispose of all the bills in the limited time set in the resolution setting the time for adjournment.

The members of the visiting committee were the guests of the Commercial club for luncheon. This afternoon most of the members of the committee were looking up friends here. The inspection this morning ended the official duties of the committee in Duluth.

Club Not to Blame.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Considerable misunderstanding having arisen through the publishing of an article in Friday evening's paper, wherein the building inspector claimed that the Commercial club, through its building committee, had refused to comply with a city ordinance, we deem it necessary to make a brief statement in relation thereto.

A building is being erected on the corner of First street and Fourth avenue west, by the Commercial Building and Realty company, a Minnesota corporation, and the Commercial Club of Duluth has agreed to lease and occupy two floors of said building under certain conditions, when completed. This organization has nothing whatever to do with the erection of said building, other than to see that the space we occupy is laid out to meet our requirements. The aim of this organization is and always has been, the enforcement and observance of existing laws and ordinances. None of the officers of this club or any of its committees, have had anything whatever to do with the building inspector and did not know there was any controversy between a department of the city and the owners of the proposed building, until it appeared in the papers.

Upon investigation we find that the controversy between the interested parties arose over the question of putting a fire escape on the front of the building; adding an additional foot to the width of a corridor, and increasing the width of a rear stairway from three feet to four feet, all of which appears to us to be a very small matter and easy of adjustment.

HOLDS SHOOTING AS ONLY COURSE

Coopers' Lawyer Asks What Good Would Judgment Be?

Nashville, Tenn., March 9.—In his speech for the defense in the trial of the Coopers for the killing of ex-Senator Carmack, Gen. Meeks late today traced the alleged insults which the defense claims Carmack heaped upon Col. Cooper.

He denounced the alleged effort of the state to involve the liberty of the press but declared that when the liberty of the press was abused to defame a public citizen, it degenerated into license.

"We have proven," he went on, "that the meeting of the parties was purely and undoubtedly an accidental encounter. We hold that the guilt or innocence of the defendants must rest upon the state of mind they were in at the time the meeting took place."

Consel then read the three editorials introduced by the defense, phrase by phrase, and asked the jurors if they could imagine anything more insulting or degrading than the contents.

"You talk of the liberty of the press," he said, "why, no man lives who believes more firmly in the liberty of the press than do I. But when a man in an editorial position turns the liberty of the press into license and undertakes to defile you and your family, what are you going to do? The state will say go into court. Yes, and get a judgment for $25,000 against a man not worth a plug of tobacco. It is perfectly reasonable to believe that Col. Cooper was angry, that he used vile language."

THE BUNYAN MEMORIAL.

It is somewhat a surprise, when one comes to think of it, that England's shrine of her greatest dead contains no monument of the man whose writing, next perhaps to the Bible and Shakespeare, has most profoundly affected the thought and aspirations of English speaking people the world over.

Even that statement, broad as it is, says the Outlook, does not cover the whole of John Bunyan's influence. The "Pilgrim's Progress" has been translated into almost every language and has thus passed into the general literature of the world. In respect of his influence upon religious thought Bunyan's masterpiece may be said to have influenced the thought of English speaking people far more profoundly than Milton's "Paradise Lost" and to rival that great epic as an expression of the poetry of Puritanism.

Perhaps the fact that Bunyan has as yet no monument in Westminster Abbey may be due to the manner in which his fame grew, spreading at first only among the lowly and the deeply religious and gradually compelling the admiration of the learned and the great.

The movement to place a Bunyan memorial in Westminster was begun by Dr. Clifford as president of the Baptist World Alliance, but the request he drew up has been signed by leading men in all denominations and walks of English life and the request for the admission of such monument or memorial in the venerable Abbey has been granted by the dean. The form the proposed memorial is to take is that of a stained glass window depicting scenes from the "Pilgrim's Progress."

Women's Spring Apparel In Bewitching Array

These informal display days offer unusual opportunity to discerning women who are quickest to observe new style points. A little leisure time spent here, studying the new garments, will enable one to appear well-informed on the season style changes.

This, Duluth's best Fashion Store, is now filled to overflowing with garments that reflect the latest ideas from European and Domestic fashion centers. 'Tis a collection of garments, so completely new and stylish in every detail, they will remain the height of fashion when contemporary garments, shown by other stores, have become too common to be desirable.

One advance model after another shows new fields of possibility in the winsome hipless effects.

The irresistible charm that pervades each Gidding garment from collar to hem is such as requires the combined skill of the artistic eye, the inspiration of the gown designers, and the deft hand of the tailor. In short, Gidding garments represent the "Art Nouveau" of Tailor-craft.

You are cordially invited to view these new styles.

SIZE OF LOAD DETERMINED

Horse Must Not Haul More Than Twice Its Weight.

Drivers Violating Ordinance Subject to Arrest and Fine.

If an ordinance introduced at the council meeting by Alderman Moore last night becomes effective, any horse that attempts to draw a load of more than twice its own weight up a Duluth hill will be breaking the law.

The horse will not be arrested, but the driver or owner will be subject to arrest, and a fine of not to exceed $50, or imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed thirty days.

This is the much-talked of "overloading" ordinance. It took horse sympathizers some little time to determine just how much of a load one of the animals should be expected to haul along one of Duluth's hilly avenues, but it was finally determined that a load of twice the horse's own weight was heavy enough. The suggestion was made by C. S. Hazen.

The rule applies to teams as well as to single horses, and to four horse teams as well as to two horse teams. Any person has the right, under the ordinance, to call the attention of a policeman to a load that seems to be too heavy for the horses pulling it, and upon such complaint being made, it will be the duty of the policeman in question, safe the new ordinance, to conduct the team to a scale, and weigh both the team and the load.

The wagon shall be included in the weight of the load. Not only will it be the duty of the policemen to act in this manner when complaint is made, but they will be expected to act upon their own initiative, and do weighing on their own account whenever their watchful eyes encounter a wagon or sleigh that appears to be too heavily loaded. If suspicions that the rig is overloaded prove to be correct, the driver will be arrested and taken to the police station.

Once the ordinance becomes effective, if it does become effective, it is expected that the humane society, which has been an active worker for a measure of this description, will have agents on some of the hillside avenues to watch the teams toiling up the hill, and to insist upon horses and loads being weighed where overloading seems evident.

SWAMP FEVER OF THE HORSES

Cause Determined by the Bureau of Animal Industry.

Washington, March 9.—After much investigation by the bureau of animal industry of the United States department of agriculture the cause of infectious anemia or swamp fever of horses has been definitely determined as an invisible virus which is capable of passing through the pores of the finest poreclain filter, like virus of yellow fever, hog cholera, and similar diseases. The disease is found to be most prevalent in low lying and badly drained sections of the country, although it has been found in altitudes as high as 7,5000 feet, on marshy pastures during wet seasons. It is also more prevalent in wet seasons than in dry ones, and usually makes its appearance in June and increases in frequency until October.

From experiments conducted by the bureau it appears that the disease is more or less prevalent in Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, North Dakota and Texas. It begins to manifest itself by a dull, listless appearance and general weakness, the animal tiring easily, this stage being followed closely by a staggering, swaying, uncertain gait, the hind legs being mostly affected. The temperature remains high for several days and then drops, to rise again at irregular intervals. The horse may improve for a time, but usually this temporary improvement is followed by a more severe attack than at first. The quantity of urine passed is sometimes enormous, death finally occurring from exhaustion. If uncomplicated, the infection runs a chronic course, and usually terminates fatally in from two months to a much longer period. Veterinarians in different sections report a mortality of 75 per cent or even higher. Recovery takes place only when treatment is begun early or when the animal has a long convalescent period.

The bureau of animal industry has just issued a circular, No. 138, describing the disease and giving treatment and copies may be had upon application to the chief of the bureau, Dr. A. D. Melvin, Washington, D. C.

ONE CASE ON TRIAL

Several Cases Stricken or Continued in District Court.

Prisoners Are Arraigned on Indictments Returned This Term.

The fact that several cases were stricken from the calendar or continued, left the call rather bare this morning and two courtrooms were idle in district court during the morning session. Before Judge Ensign, the suit of M. M. Gasser vs. J. J. Wall for $1,500 on a stock deal was on trial, but no cases were ready for trial before Judge Cant or Judge Dibell.

The directed verdict in the case of Matt Taro vs. Louis R. Martin before Judge Dibell yesterday afternoon resulted in two other cases brought by Peter Russka and Andrew Mollanan against Mr. Martin being stricken from the calendar this morning. It developed that the defendant in the cases should have been the Martin Timber company.

It is understood that a settlement will be reached in the cases. Mr. Martin admitted having dammed the mouth of the Mudhen river last June, it is said, causing a jam of logs, to prevent the logs from going out into the St. Louis river, which had risen eleven feet on account of heavy rains. The damming of the mouth of the Mudhen resulted in a flood over the surounding land and some damge to grass and also to timber piled on the banks of the stream, the timber company will settle, it is said, and the cases will not be brought again, the only difference existing previously being as to the amount of the damage.

The prisoners in the county jail, against whom indictments were returned by the grand jury yesterday, were arraigned before Judge Cant this morning on the indictments. Attorneys were appointed in some cases, the time for pleading being tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Only two pleas were recived, Ed Malaney pleading guilty to grand larceny in the second degree and Howard H. Mutch pleading not guilty to a similar charge.

Ernest Stahl was brought into court on a bench warrant this morning and arraigned on an indictment charging him with indecent assault. He is accused of taking indecent liberties with Lillian Watt, a child 11 years old, in Duluth Oct. 15 last. He will plead to the indictment later.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS.
PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

MANY GAMES AT CURLING RINK

Events Are Being Pushed Off as Rapidly as Possible.

There are no delays these days at the curling rink. The games committee has taken matters in hand and it is either a case of forfeit or play. If a rink does not show up, the other side is awarded the game.

The events got so far behind that the games committee took affairs in hand and the events are now being run off as rapidly as possible. The committee figures on about ten days more of curling weather and they hope by running the games off in two draws each day, to finish events and leave nothing to carry over until next year.

Last night in The Herald event Dr. Catterson defeated Ailworth by a score of 10 to 8. West beat Richardson 13 to 7 in the Manley-McLennan and Deetz defeated Staacke 15 to 4 in the same event. In a double-header in the President's events and the Bagley, Dinham defeated Oldham by a score of 12 to 11.

Tonight Dunlop and Brewer will meet in the Manley-McLennan, Dinham and West will meet in the Manley and Bagley, Pugh and McLeod meet in the Manley, Nichols and Richardson in the Bagley and McLennan and Feetham in the same.

WATCH GAMES WITH COMFORT

Baseball De Luxe to be Furnished by Duluth Club.

The management of the Duluth baseball team is making arrangements whereby this season the fans can enjoy the games in every sense of the word. Chairs with backs to them will be provided in the grand stand, and many new cushions are being ordered. The old grandstand in its former state was anything but comfortable on the back, and the management is this year determined that the fans shall be made as "comfy" as possible, so that they may eat peanuts and enjoy the contests to the full.

The lease on the grounds was closed today when a contract for the coming season was received from the owner in Pittsburg. It was signed and sent back.

The grounds will this year be put in better shape than ever before. The diamond has been used for several years and is packed down as only a diamond that has been in constant use can be. It will this year be leveled off in the rough spots and the field will be improved in spots where it has been worn down and made uneven. The fence is to be repaired, and there are some repairs to be made on the bleachers.

THIS MAN OF MANY NAMES WAS WILLING TO PLEAD GUILTY TO ALMOST ANY OLD CHARGE

Edward Malancy, Edward Mahoney, George Edward Masnickels, or whatever else his name happens to be, thought possibly George Nicoll was charged with a less serious offense than he was by the grand jury. When "State of Minnesota vs. George Nicoll" was called out during the arraignment of prisoners on indictments before Judge Cant this morning, Malancy etc. responded.

The indictment charging George Nicoll with indecent assault on Lottie Bellinauve last Saturday was read and then the usual questions were put. When asked if his true name was George Nicoll, Malancy etc. responded that his name was George Edward Masnickels. He spelled out the last name and went through the performance without a wink. He didn't want a lawyer, wouldn't wait to plead, and insisted on pleading guilty right there and then. He retired to his seat and the next case was called.

In a few minutes, one of the deputies "fell" to Malancy's game and informed Judge Cant of his suspicions. Malancy etc., was called up once more, the turn was called on him, and he admitted he had been lying. Nicoll happens to be in the hospital with a bullet in his leg.

"I though that fellow might be accused of a less serious crime than me and I pleaded guilty to it to save my self-respect. I didn't want to give my right name either," he said in explanation.

"What's your name now?" asked Judge Cant.

"Edward Mahoney," said Malancy, etc., and Edward Mahoney it remained for a few minutes.

Malancy, etc., retired to his seat and the proceedings went on.

"State of Minnesota vs. Edward Malancy," called the court and Malancy, etc., appeared once more.

The indictment charging Edward Malancy with the crime of grand larceny in the second degree was read, Malancy, etc. standing quietly by.

"What is your true name?" asked Judge Cant.

"Malancy," responded Malancy, etc.

A subdued titter went around the room.

"That's the third or fourth name you've given," said Judge Cant. "What one do you choose as your true name. A moment ago, you said it was Edward Mahoney."

"Edward Mahoney," quietly said Malancy, etc., and Edward Mahoney he remained.

"Do you desire counsel before being required to plead?" asked the court.

"Naw, a lawyer won't do me any good. I took the horse; I intended to take it; I was caught with the goods on; a lawyer couldn't get me out of it," said Malancy, etc.

"What is your plea?" inquired the court.

"Guilty," was the reply, and Malancy etc. disappeared from the spotlight.

Mafancy, etc., is accused of stealing a horse from C. W. Sweee in the town of Meadowlands in January. When he was brought to the county jail at the time, he said he stole the horse because he thought the world owed him a living, and he couldn't see any other way to get it than by stealing. Though he is pretty shy on mentality, he isn't insane, and he will probably be given a term in prison for his violation of the law.

Cabot and Orphee Increasing Lead in Endurance Race.

New York, March 9.—After passing Dineen and Prouty shortly after midnight Cabot and Orphee steadily increased their lead. Dineen of the Boston team was showing the effect of hard work, but still asserted his confidence.

Fifteen teams remained in the race at 8 o'clock. Annable and O'Driscoll, the New Englanders, disagreed as to the time each should spend on the track and quit about 4 a. m. Albert Doms of the Belgian pair, retired at 7 a. m., and for a short time O'Driscoll paired with Navez. Then Spring of the New York team was forced out by the swelling of his left leg, and Navez and Adams composed a new team. Coleman of the Chicago pair fainted on the track early today, but soon revived, his partner taking up the race without loss of distance.

Fourteen teams were left in the race at 9 a. m.

Coleman of the Chicago team was unable to re-enter the race and, as Golden also withdrew, Albert L. Corey of Chicago and Peter Hegelman formed a new team. This left thirteen teams in the race.

TO RETURN TO AMERICA

Interest in Wife of the Reported New Russian Minister.

Professor Newcomb's Illness Arouses Concern in Scientific Circles.

Washington, March 8.—The report that Baron Rosen is to be transferred from Washington to some European capital, probably Rome, and to be succeeded here by M. George Bakmatieff, the present Rusian minister to Tokio, is of unusual interest to Washington society because of Mme. Bakmatieff. She was Mary Beale and passed her girlhood in Washington. Her father was Gen. Edward Fitzgerald Beale, a grandson of Commodore Thuxtun, one of the first six captains appointed by Gen. Washington in the early days of the navy to protect the commerce of the United States.

The Beales lived in the house on the corner of H street and Jackson place (built by Commodore Decatur, and where he died after his celebrated duel with Barren), which they acquired for purely sentimental reasons. Decatur had served as midshipman and lieutenant under Truxtun, with whom he was a great favorite. It was in this house shortly after it was that "Mamie" Beale, as her friends called her, made her debut, and it was there she met one of the secretaries of the Russian legation, George Bakmatieff. Their marriage followed a short engagement, not long after which Mr. Makmatieff was ordered abroad.

Previous to his service in Tokio, Mr. Bakmatieff was chief of the Rusian legation at Athens, where Mme Bakmatieff was a prominent member of the court circle.

Mme. Bakmatieff wears original clothes and most interesting, bizarre jewelry. Her favorite adornments are some superb turquoise, a wonderful necklace and great earrings, which hang nearly to her shoulders, the stones of which she has been years in selecting, and are most becoming.

Mme. Bakmatieff's only brother, Truxton Beale, is a man of parts, a succesful diplomatist, and an authority on Asiatic questions, his interest in which was awakened when he was American minister to Persia. After his divorce from Harriet Blaine, Mr. Beale married Marie Oge, a niece of the late Chief Justice Chase.

Mme. Bakmatieff's only sister is Mrs. John R. McLean, and a sister-in-law of Mrs. Dewey, wife of the admiral of the navy.

The announcement that Prof. Simon Newcomb was seriously ill aroused international interest in scientific circles, for he is one of the world's great scientists. In Washington the interest was general, for he is a man of great personal popularity.

His scientific work began here with a paper published in the National Intelligencer in answer to some upstart who endavored to refute the Copernican system of astronomy, which monograph brought him the recocognition of prominent men the world over and a lifelong friendship with Prof. Henry, who was then secretary of the Smithsonian.

It was through Prof. Henry's influence that he was appointed on the Natuical Almanac and Ephemeris (published in Cambridge) of which he subsequently became the head a position he held for many years. In Europe Prof. Newcomb's fame is quite as wide as it is in this country, and he never visits there that he is not made the recipient of all possible honors. Last year he passed his vacation abroad, and wherever he went was feted and received with distinguished honor. The account of the decorations, presents and letters of appreciation he has received would fill a volume, but among the most beautiful and best appreciated by him is a rare vase of jasper, an acknowledgment from the late Czar Alexander III, which he presented the eminent astronomer on behalf of the Conservatory of Pulkova, and two bronze vases from the Tokio observatory of wonderful design and great intrinsic value. Some of his other treasures are the gold medal and the Copley medal from the Royal Astronomical Society of London and the Huygliens medal from Leyden, which is given only once every twenty years for the most important work accomplished in astronomy; but by all odds the most distinguished honor that has come to Prof. Newcomb is his election to the place made vacant by Prof. Helmholtz's death, as one of the eight foreign associates of the Institute of France the first American to be so honored since Franklin's association with that body.

Prof. Newcomb has a charming home in P street, which he built several years ago to meet his especial needs. The most attractive room in it is his library, which is on the first floor between the dining and drawing rooms, and flooded with light as a library should be. The walls are covered with books, but in fact there is hardly a room in the house that has not a book case, as his library far outruns the limits of the wall space in the special room devoted to it. Everything in the room, the books, his desk and the few pictures, are arranged with mathematical precision and there is no useless furniture or bric-a-brac to take away its academic character. On a shelf by themeselves are the numerous text books of which Prof. Newcomb is the author.

The German embassy has been entirely overhauled and refurnished by the new ambassador, who has already established his Lare and Penates there, and will, it is said, entertain more lavishly even than did the von Stenbergs, who were royal hosts. The house is especially arrangeed for entertaining on an elaborate scale. On the main floor, besides several salons, there is a dining room of such proportions that fifty guests can be entertained at the table at one time, and a large ballroom.

The chief ornament in the drawing-room is a portrait of William I, which was presented to the embassy here shortly after he was proclaimed emperor of Versailles. The portrait of his grandson, the present emperor, adorns the dining-room and is surrounded by a circle of electric lights, which, when they are turned on, make it the most conspicuous feature of the room. The second floor is devoted to the living rooms of the family, and have been most attractively furnished since the Bernstoffs took possession of the embassy. The imperial government owns its own embassy at the American capital, but since the world of ashion has moved constantly to the westward it has bought a large piece of property in that portion of town and will erect another and a handsomer buildings, which will far exceed in splendor that of the British embassy, which was built in the late 60's, and while it is solid and substantial, imposing and admirably arranged, is not as handsome as many of the new houses near it.

There is one thing, however, in which the British embassy far outshines any of its contemporales, that is in the magnificance of its silver service, a gift of the late Queen Victoria. It contains more than a thousand pounds weight of silver and is worth $50,000. The British coat of arms is wrought upon all the large pieces, and about it birds, flowers and vines, conventionally arranged, are etched with exquisite skill. The centerpiece surpasses all the others, and is said to be one of the finest pieces of wrought silver in the world.

FALLS ON BOILER; BODY BAKED

Awful Predicament of an Employe of the Pewabic Mine.

Iron Mountain, Mich., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Trenary is slowly recovering from severe burns sustained in a peculiar manner. Trenary, who is employed in the boiler house at No. 1 shaft of the Pewabic mine, is subject to an affliction which is apt to seize him without warning at almost any time. Trenary had removed his garments after a day's work preparatory to cleansing himself of the coal dust. He was alone and fell onto a hot boiler. Unnoticed and helpless, he remained in this condition until fellow employes finally noticed his perilous position and hastily removed him. A considerable portion of his body was literally baked.

SUPERIOR NEWS

NO LICENSE PETITIONS

Fight to Make Superior "Dry Town" Is Begun.

Question Will Probably be Issue at Next Election.

The Superior Civic league today started circulating petitions for a no-license issue in the coming municipal election.

The league will have to get 500 signers for its petitions before the refusal to grant liquor licenses, can become an issue of the coming election, and be placed on the ballot. When the required number of signers are obtained the petitions will be filed with the city clerk and he will have the issue placed on the ballot.

President F. L. Frelstad of the Civic league, said today that there would be no difficulty in getting the required number of signatures, as the two petitions put on the street this morning were well covered with names early in the day. The league is hopeful of making a winning fight against the selling of liquor in Superior.

Four Sue the City.

Four personal injury suits of $1,000 each have been filed against the city of Superior by Archie R. Munro, John Berg, Laura Kreiling and Sophia Nikkill. The first three of the plaintiffs claim that on the night of July 19, 1908, while driving, their rig was overturned by a pile of dirt in the street, which was not protected by lights. Miss Nikkili claims that she met with injuries by tripping on a broken board in one of the city's sidewalks.

THREW LEMON AT "HOLY ROLLERS"

Small Boy Broke Up Meeting of Superior Religious Sect.

The way of those of the "Apostolic Faith Mission," better known as "Holy Rollers," of Superior is hard.

There are many, it appears, who attend the "Rollers'" meetings at 618 Ogden avenue, not to be converted to the creed, but to be amused. When the followers of the faith become "endowed with the spirit" and writhe in contrition, the spectators forget the solemnity of the occasion and grow playful. A small boy at a meeting not long ago, thinking to put a leader of the "Rollers" out of his misery, as he called on sinners to be converted, accelerated a large juicy lemon in his direction. The lemon turned the leader's thoughts from sinners in general to the particular sinner who shied the fruit at him.

The "Rollers" have called upon the police for protection and have been promised that they will not be disturbed in the future during their meetings.

Woman Held for Trial.

Mrs. John Curran, charged with stealing $75 from Paul Johnson, a bartender, was given a preliminary hearing yesterday in the Superior municipal court. She was held for trial in the county jail, being unable to put up the required $200 bail.

Livery Is Sold.

The Bowser Transfer company has bought the Hislop Bros. livery exchange at Ogden avenue and Eighth street. The consideration is said to have been in the neighborhood of $25,000.

It Is Not Because

Hood's Sarsaparilla contains sarsaparilla, simply, but because it is composed of more than twenty great specifics, so combined and proportioned as to be raised to their highest efficiency, that it effects its wonderful, radical and permanent cures.

These are the very specifics that successful physicians prescribe for diseases of the blood, stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and for low or run-down condition of the system; but they are not all found in any other medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is "Peculiar to Itself," and this is why there is no real substitute for it. There is no "just-as-good" medicine. Its cures of scrofula, eczema, eruptions, catarrh, rheumatism, anemia, nervousness, that tired feeling, dyspepsia, loss of appetite and general debility, are in many instances so remarkable as to surprise physicians, nurses, patients and all others having knowledge of them.

If urged to buy any preparation said to be "just as good," you may be sure it is inferior, costs less to make and yields the dealer a larger profit.

Get Hood's Sarsaparilla today. In usual liquid or tablets called Sarsatabs. 100 doses $1.

CHAIRMAN WAS CONVINCED

L. H. Johnson Satisfied by Showing of Steel Corporation.

L. H. Johnson, chairman of the special sub-committee which was in Duluth yesterday to investigate the site of the steel plant, expressed himself as satisfied that the steel company was sincere in its intention to construct a plant here, and also that the St. Louis county delegation presented the matter in its true form to the members of the state legislature.

"I can only speak for myself," said the chairman after the trip to Spirit Lake yesterday, "as we have had no opportunity yet to hold a conference. I am satisfied that the steel company intends to construct a plant here, and I believe that the St. Louis county delegation stated the case in the right light. The situation appears to have been properly represented. A large amount of preliminary work appears to have been done."

The members of the committee returned to St. Paul last night.

INVENTOR OF THE NOISELESS SLATE GOES TO PEN FOR FORGERY.

St. Joseph, Mo., March 9.—Samuel Marks, inventor of the noiseless slate, which netted him $110,000, was yesterday sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary charged with forging a deed of trust for $3,500. He was also sentenced to thirteen months in the federal prison at Leavenworth on a charge of using the mails to defraud. W. L. Boulware, indicted jointly with Marks, is a fugitive from justice, having jumped his bond. There are two more cases against the two men.

MUSCULAR RHEUMATISM

A Cure at Minneapolis Which Should Set Every Rheumatic Sufferer to Thinking.

The prospect of the return of the same old rheumatism every year is not attractive to anybody who has gone through one siege. Most treatments aim simply to "keep down" the rheumatic poisons in the blood. The tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has proved by hundreds of cures that it builds up the blood to a point that enables it to cast out these poisons through the regular channels of excretion, the bowels, kidneys and the skin. When this is done the rheumatism is permanently cured and as long as the blood is kept pure and rich the patient will be immune from attacks of rheumatism.

After suffering for a year Mrs. Ella Beatty, of No. 314 West Twenty-eighth street, Minneapolis, Minn., cured herself of muscular rheumatism by using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The permanent cure the pills made in her case was due to their purifying and building up of the blood. She says:

"The rheumatism came on me suddenly and, until the attack, I was feeling as well as usual. The attack seemed to settle in the cords of my neck. I had what the doctors called spasms of the muscles of the neck, which drew my head to one side. These spells caused me intense misery. The fingers of my left hand were affected until I was unable to use that hand. I was in bed for six weeks and during that time I had to lie in one position. If I moved my neck I would scream with pain.

"I could see no benefit from the doctor's medicine and gave it up to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills upon the advice of a friend. The pills soon had my blood in good condition and I have had no more of the pains. I am now the picture of health and can, therefore, recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Sufferers from rheumatism in any form, who have found their condition unrelieved or actually growing worse while using ordinary remedies, would do well to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are sold by all druggists or direct by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50c. per box; six boxes, $2.50. A helpful booklet will be sent free, on application to Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

ALDERMEN STAND FOR TRANSFER OF LICENSE

Postpone Action for Two Weeks to Let Carpenter Bros. Sell.

Three-Hour Fight in Council Over Saloon Case.

"The question is, not shall we allow the Carpenter Bros. to sell their license and quit the saloon business in Duluth, but shall we punish them for the most vicious of all liquor violations, the sale of intoxicants to minors.

"This is a clear case, and the council should not pass it by practically unnoticed, and thus give saloon men generally every reason to believe that they can freely violate the laws, whenever and however they please, with no danger of the council punishing them for their offenses.

"If we again postpone action on the Carpenter affair we will be placed in a silly and awkward position, and will make ourselves ridiculous in the eyes of the people. Such action on our part will simply be evidence to the public that we are trying to hush up this matter and pass it along until it is forgotten, and that the council is willing to stand for any form of liquor law violation without punishment to the violator, so far as action of the council itself is concerned, except when public opinion cries loudly enough for justice that we make a pretense at punishment by making him sell out his business, perhaps at a big profit to himself."—Alderman Moore.

The council last night voted to postpone action on the Carpenter Bros. saloon license affair for two weeks, the understanding being that before that time expires the Carpenters will have sold their place of business, 3741 Onota street, to William Meier, together with the liquor license, and that Mr. Meier will be allowed to continue running the saloon there, unmolested by the city fathers.

The aldermen fought over the proposition for three hours straight, and about 11:30 o'clock the motions came before the house were so many and so involved that President Getchell himself did not know where he was at, and the aldermen apparently didn't know whether they were voting for revocation, postponement, transfer of license, or something else.

Finally the tangle was straightened out sufficiently for the city fathers to realize that the motion was for postponement, and they expressed themselves as follows: For postponement—Boyle, Foubister, Hector, Hoard, Bloedel, Hogan, Jordan, McDonnell, Shartel, and Trevillion. Against postponement—McKnight, Moore, Merritt,, Olson and Getchell.

This postponement of two weeks is necessary because the law reads that a transfer of a liquor license cannot be made until two weeks after the application for transfer has been filed with the city clerk, and as the application in this instance was not filed until Saturday, the council cannot act upon the question until the meeting after next. Last night's vote showed there would be no question about making the transfer.

The council chamber, to carry on an investigation relative to the charges made against the Carpenters to the effect that they had sold liquor to minors, was turned into a court room last night. The aldermen acted as the jury; President Getchell appeared in the capacity of judge; Assistant City Attorney Kenney was attorney for the prosecution; and Attorney McMahon acted for the defense. A chair was placed on the raised platform beside President Getchell, and used as a witness chair while eight or ten witnesses were examined.

Good Sport for Crowd.

There was some sharp cross questioning, and the big crowd which packed the room almost to suffocation, found many things to laugh at and applaud. Aldermen McKnight and Moore occasionally took a hand in questioning the witnesses, and at one point brought the fact that one of the minors had also purchased liquor at another saloon. Alderman McKnight and Attorney McMahon repeated their specialty of last week, and engaged in a merry battle of words, greatly to the amusement of the crowd.

There was fight right at the start, when the investigation was proposed. Alderman Shartel, leader of the liberals, and his followers, were in favor of taking immediate action towards postponment, to give the Carpenters time to sell out, but the other element in the council argued that the Carpenter affair should at least be investigated, to put the city fathers right with the general public, if for nothing else. Aldermen Moore, McKnight and Merritt said if facts brought out in the Carpenter trial in municipal court were sustained, the license should be revoked, regardless of the application for a transfer. Finally, by a vote of 10 to 5, it was decided to hold the investigation.

When the Carpenter affair first came up, C. O. Baldwin, acting as attorney for William Meier, explained that the proposed sale of the saloon and license was to be a genuine one, and assured the aldermen that neither of the Carpenters would have anything whatever to do with the management or profits of the place. He said Mr. Meier would buy outright. He explained that Mr. Meirer owned the building, and that if he were not allowed to conduct the saloon, his building would be vacated, and he would suffer a considerable financial loss.

Somebody made a motion that Carter Bros. be heard. Attorney McMahon said the council had ordered an investigation and that the Carpenter Bros. could not be expected to appear until they had heard the charges made in the investigation. Alderman Moore said he understood they wanted a hearing, and Mr McMahon said that was not his understanding President Getchell declared it wasn't for him to decide. Alderman Shartel then moved that a postponement be taken for two weeks, and the matter be referred to the committee on police and license. Alderman Moore reminded him that the committee made a report on the matter last week. Mr. Shartel said a new phase had developed for the committee to work on. Mr. Moore remonstrated that, if carried, the Shartel motion took the investigation out of the council's hands again. Mr. Shartel said that forcing the Carpenters out of business, after fining Patrick Carpenter in municipal court, and sentencing him to thirty days in jail, was punishment enough, without revocation of the license, and argued that an investigation was therefore unnecessary. The other side then explained that an appeal had been taken from the municipal court decision and that the decision of the lower court might be reversed, on a technicality.

Alderman Merritt suggested that the investigation be carried on, to find out the facts in the case. Alderman Bloedel backed up Alderman Shartel in his stand. Alderan McKnight lined up his forces with Moore and Merritt. He said the Carpenteres were asking permission to sell for $325, a saloon license to which they had no right, having forfeited all rights. In other words, they were asking the aldermen to make them a present. He said he didn't believe, when the transfer came before the mayor, that he would stand by and see the aldermen made fools of.

McKnight Is Heated.

"Are we men or monkeys?" stormed the alderman. "Are we to be buffeted by wind and wave here, there and everywhere, absolutely helpless, like a ship at sea? We are intelligent men. Let us act for ourselves. We should be able to decide, without having two attorneys here to make up our minds for us."

At this juncture a vote on the motion to postpone for two weeks, without having an investigation, was lost, 10 to 5, and a motion to start the investigation carried.

Selmer Olson, Joe Furchett, Leonard Larson and Pacific St. Marie, ranging from 15 to 20 years of age, all testified that they had been sold drinks by Patrick Carpenter in the Carpenter saloon. Olson said he was 18 years of age. Larson testified that he had taken soft drinks himself, but that the other boys were sold several glasses of beer each by Carpenter. The testimony was practically the same as that given in municipal court, the boys testifying that they were in the saloon from one to three hours, and two of them admitting that they became drunk there.

Attorney McMahon brought out the fact that a crowd of boys outside the saloon had three bottles of whisky, and that the witness had drunk some of it. Patrick Carpenter swore positively that he had never sold liquor to minors, so far as he knew, and said he had on numerous occasions refused boys drinks. He did not remember having seen the boys named in his place of business the night of Feb. 5, although they testified that six of them lined up against the bar at one time and talked to Mr. Carpenter. After having said that he did not see young Furchette in the place the evening of Feb. 5, Mr. Carpenter was tricked by Alderman McKnight into admitting tha the saw the boy leave the saloon between 8 and 9 o'clock. Mr. Rogers, bartender at the Carpenter saloon, said he had once thrown Furchette out of the place because he was under age, and that it was a frequent occurrence for minors to be refused drinks there. W. H. Carpenter testified that it was strictly the policy of the saloon not to sell minors drinks. The fact was brought out in the testimony of these three men that thirty to forty laborers' checks were cashed in the saloon that evening, it being pay night at the Red Cliff mill, and, therefore, the evening was a busy one. The boys had said that ten to eighteen men were in the place most of the evening, but that the crowd was not so large they could not have been seen by Partick Carpenter.

Bribery is Charged.

Telof Olson, Selmer's father, said a friend of the Carpenters, a Mr. Bend, had offered him $1 if he would get his son to testify favorably to Carpenter in municipal court, and on the witness stand Mr. Bend did not deny the truth of this assertion, but declared he didn't do it without authority from the Carpenters. Half a dozen witnesses testified on the stand to the good character of the saloon, and all agreed that it was against the policy of the place to sell to minors.

While young Furchette was on the stand he said something about having gotten a drink at the corner of Garfield avenue and Superior street, and when Alderman McKnight began questioning him about it, Attorney McMahon jumped to his feet and asked that the investigation be confined to the Carpenter affair.

"That is my business," retorted Mr. McKnight.

"I object," shouted Mr. McMahon. "We should stick to the Carpenter investigation, and not allow our inquiries to wander all over the city."

"I suggest that Mr. McMahon be allowed to sit still," the alderman observed, and continued with his line of questioning, but the attorney "butted in" again, and Alderman McKnight arose and asked President Getchell to instruct Mr. McMahon to keep his seat until his turn to talk came.

"All I was going to say was this—" began the attorney.

"I object," cried Mr. McKnight. "He has said so many things now we cannot remember half of them."

President Getchell said he would hear what Mr. McMahon had to say after Alderman McKnight had finished with the witness. Mr. McKnight started in again, but evidently Mr. McMahon had not heard the ruling of the chair, for he again rose to his feet and started to talk, and the alderman again stopped him long enough for McMahon to correctly understand the ruling of the chair.

After the investigation was over with, Alderman Trevillion moved that action be postponed one week. He expressed the belief that the punishment inflicted in court, and driving the Carpenters out of business, was enough without revocation of the license. This motion started the fireworks again. Alderman Moore made an impassioned plea in favor of revocation of the license, saying it was a question of punishing the Carpenters for a vicious violation of the liquor laws, and not a question of transferring their license and letting them out of business. He said the testimony of the boys was undoubtedly true, and that everything brought out in municipal court had been shown to be true. Testimony showed, he said that boys were getting liquor in other places, and said something should be done to the Carpenters as a warning to others.

"Let the people of the community know that we stand for our boys," he said. "Mr. Shartel has said again and again that when we got a clear case of liquor law violation he would vote for a revocation of the license. Here is such a case. Let us show the people we stand for the enforcement of law and order."

Alderman McKnight delivered an eloquent plea along the same lines, and said that every vote for postponing action for two weeks, to let the Carpenters get out of business, was a vote in favor of a violation of the law. Alderman Shartel all the aldermen wanted to see the Carpenters punished, and agreed with Alderman Trevillion that the court fine and sentence, and forcing the men out of the saloon business, was enough punishment.

After a few more arguments along similar lines, Alderman Shartel's motion to postpone action for two weeks carried.

NEW TARIFF BILL GOES TO PRINTERS; INHERITANCE TAX PERPLEXES THE COMMITTEE

Washington, March 9.—Having been practically completed by the tariff framers, portions of the new tariff bill were sent to the government printers. It is expected that by tomorrow the entire measure will be in type.

Although no announcement has been made by the house committee on ways and means regarding any of the schedules of the tentative bill, it has been learned on unquestionable authority that as a concession to the shoe men because of the placing of hides on the free list, the duties on shoes will be considerably reduced. While no figures were obtainable regarding the steel schedule, it was stated on the same authority that a substantial reduction in the duty on steel rails, tools and similar products, is provided for. A duty of 4 cents a pound on coffee is levied. This is by way of compromise with the Porto Ricians, who demanded a tax of 6 cents a pound.

Whisky and beer will remain as at present. If the sub-committee recommendations are enacted into law. It was felt that whisky was already carrying all the tax it could stand, while in the case of beer the prohibition movement throughout the country, it was explained, had cut down the consumption of beer, and it was felt that it would be a hardship to impose any further tax.

It having become manifest to the committee that duties derived from customs under the new bill would not produce the revenue expected, they turned to the expedient of reviving the war revenue act of 1898, which placed a tax on telegrams, bank checks, playing cards and all stocks bought or sold. That feature of the war revenue act is incorporated in the measure as drafted.

A matter which is preplexing the committee is that of placing a tax on inheritances. President Taft wants it, it is declared, and is pressing the committee to take action along that line, and predictions are, it is said, that the committee will yield to the president's wishes.

President Taft is seeking to have a copy of the bill delivered to the senate committee on finance before the special session begins in order that they may begin work on it at once, believing that much time will be saved thus and that the extra session will be materially curtailed.

Cut in Lumber Duty.

A cut of one half in the duty on lumber and manufactures of lumber is understood to be one of the changes provided by the new tariff bill. During the hearings of the lumber schedule, the testimony was of such a character as to lead to the impression that lumber would be put on the free list. It was said that the forests of the country could only be conserved by admitting foreign lumber free of duty. Gifford Pinchot, chief forester, is preparing figures for the committee in a further effort to have lumber placed on the free list. Champ Clark declared at the hearings that the profits of the lumber interests were unduly large.

Representative Fordney of Michigan, a member of the committee, has championed the cause of the lumber men, and the latter have been working energetically to prevent the free entry of lumber. They contend that the rates of duty should be increased, in order that the American industry may compete with the cheaper labor employed in Canada, and because of the better facilities for trausporting afforded by the proximity of the Canadian lumber camps to waterways.

The effort to obtain free hides is made principally by the New England shoe and leather manufacturers, and is strongly opposed by the cattle men of the West. It is said that the tariff framers have agreed to a material reduction on leather manufactures.

Fixed in Conference.

An impression prevails that the plan is to have the hide and leather schedule fixed in conference after the questions have been thoroughly threshed out on the floor of the house, in the senate finance committee and on the floor of the senate.

Champ Clark, the house minority leader and the ranking Democrat on the ways and means committee, spent considerable time yesterday with Representative Underwood in laying out the plan to be followed by the minority in its fight on the floor. It is understood that the policy of the Democrats will be made to criticise the Republican bill and offer amendments to it. They will follow a tariff for revenue rather than a free trade policy.

The problem of financing the government—providing the necessary funds to carry on the projects under way and maintain the plans of the Taft administration, and making the demands square with a new tariff schedule—is the work with which President Taft, Senator Aldrich, Speaker Cannon and Secretary of the Treasury MacVeigh were engaged at two conferences at the White House yesterday.

The necessity for the enactment of a tariff bill at the earliest possible moment was discussed there being little reference to the details of the proposed legislation. Whether a definite policy was outlined at the conference could not be stated. That the manufacturers and other large interests are demanding early tariff legislation and that the business condition of the country is unsettled until the tariff schedules are fixed, were the reasons given for the desire to permit nothing to interefere with action by congress at the special session.

Pledged By Platform.

The possible delay which the house insurgents may cause by promulgating a fight on the rules, and the further difficulties that may be put in the way of getting the tariff bill through without delay, were thoroughly gone into. The conferees agreed that every Republican in the house and senate is pledged by the party platform to let nothing interfere with an immediate revision.

It is certain that since the conference yesterday there is a more definite understanding as to what may and what may not be desired of the proposed new tariff as a revenue producer. If the conclusion has been reached that the tariff revision must be radical, provision in the bill may be looked for which will have for its purpose the raising of revenue by other means than a tax on imports.

Notable Gathering of Farmers Expected at East Grand Forks.

East Grand Forks, N. D., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Next Saturday will be a red letter day in the history of East Grand Forks. Plans for the big farmers' institute are well under way, many farmers have signified their intention of attending and with favorable weather the city will be taxed to its utmost to take care of the visitors. The free dinner to be furnished the farmers in order to assure them of something to eat is meeting with a great deal of favor and will do much to increase the attendance. Some of the best authorities in the state on up-to-date farming will be heard.

The institute will be in charge of Forest Henry of Dover, Minn., assisted by Charles Brown of Elk River and C. O. Carlson of Erskine. These men are practical Minnesota farmers, working under Minnesota conditions and knowing what the farmers of Minnesota have to contend with. Each one is a good speaker and can be of much help to those who attend the institute.

WILL EMPLOY MANY AT INTERNATIONAL FALLS.

International Falls, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is understood that between 800 and 1,000 men will be given work on the dam and pulpmill here as soon as the season is far enough advanced to insure pleasant weather.

"BABY MINE"

Becoming a mother should be a source of joy, but the suffering incident to the ordeal makes its anticipation one of dread. Mother's Friend is the only remedy which relieves women of much of the pain of maternity; this hour, dreaded as woman's severest trial, is not only made less painful, but danger is avoided by its use. Those who use this remedy are no longer despondent or gloomy; nervousness, nausea and other distressing conditions are overcome, and the system is prepared for the coming event. "It is worth its weight in gold," says many who have used it. $1.00 per bottle at drug stores. Book of value to all expectant mothers mailed free.

FORTY-THREE INDICTED

Grand Jury Disposes of Big Batch of Criminal Cases.

Adjourns Without Making Report Outside of Indictments.

The grand jury returned its final report at 4 o'clock, yesterday afternoon and was discharged. Thirty-nine indictments were reported to the court, which, with four returned a few days ago, made a total of forty-three for the session. The grand jury made no report other than the indicements.

The indictments returned against people already in custody follow:

Ed Malaney, grand larceny in the second degree, in the theft of a horse valued at $175 from E. C. Speece.

Eugene Grolou, forgery in the second degree, in raising a check from 60 cents to $68.00.

Berger Mitby, burglary in the second degree, in beraking into a house at 601 West Fourth street, Feb. 14.

George Nicoll, indecent assault on Mrs. Lottie Billenauve at her home, Fourth street and Second avenue east, March 6.

Frank O'Donnell, forgery in the second degree, in attempting to pass an alleged forged check for $25, made out in the name of James Connors.

Howard H. Mutch, grand larceny in the second degree, in having apporpriated to his own use $165 belonging to E. W. Seavey.

Carl Anderson, grand larceny in the second degree, in the theft of $50 from Christ Peterson.

Alphonse Laurin, criminal assault on Miss Edna Stahlbrodt Feb. 19.

John Ripple, indecent assault on Lora Zinl, a 9-year-old girl, at Eveleth, Aug. 15.

Nestor Salonen, assault in the second degree in having beaten Eva Jarvinen with a chair.

Raymond Glenn, attempting to commit suicide in swallowing carbolic acid and shooting himself.

ice commission. The selection would differ from the ordinary selection under the civil service, in that the director of the census might when, the exigencies of the service required, give preference to ligibles immediately available, instead of selecting the appolatees, according to rating, as is otherwise provided.

The language of section 7, to which President Roosevelt objected, has been changed to read as follows:

"Section 7. That the additional clerks and other employes provided for in Section 6 shall be subject to such special test examination as the director of the census may prescribe, the said examination to be conducted by the United States civil service commission, the examination to be open to all applicants without regard to political party affiliations. Copies of the eligible registers so established and the examination papers of all eligibles shall be furnished the director of the census by the civil service commission, and selections therefrom shall be made by the director of the census, without regard to the law of apportionment in order of the rating, provided, however, that when the exigencies of the service require, preference may be given to eligibles who by reason of residence or other conditions, are immediately available; and that preference may also be given to persons who have had experience in census work, whose efficiency records are satisfactory to the said director, who may in his discretion accept such records in lieu of said examinations."

In the vetoed bill, the beginning of this section reads:

"That the additional clerks and other employes provided for in Section 6 shall be subject to such noncompetitive examinations as the director of the census may prescribe, the said examination to be conducted by the United States civil service commission; provided, that they shall be selected without regard to the law of apportionment or to the political party affiliations of the applicants."

word by word, and saying that it was humorous and bantering.

"Gentlemen, this editorial appeared Monday morning, Nov. 9 and before the sun had set that night the brilliant Edward W. Carmack had been slain for writing it."

Capt. Fitzhugh called the jury's attention to Col. Cooper's exclamation:

"Then, by God, this note goes."

"But it did not go, because they wanted to catch Carmack off his guard," declared the attorney dramatically, he did not send the note because it would have made Carmack believe that there was trouble coming and would have put him on his guard.

"They tell you they wanted peace, yet at noon that day Col. Cooper's own daughter, frantic with terror and wild with anxiety, telephoned Dr. Witherspoon that her father was armed and threatened to kill Senator Carmack on sight. They did not dare have the colonel back at Bradford's office that day at 4 o'clock, so they had him at home, but they forgot Miss Lee, a pure, good girl, who gave up a splendid position rather than that truth should be trampled upon. She says Col. Cooper was there and used language so vile that she would not soil or pollute her pure lips by speaking it, and wrote only under compulsion. And you saw how she shrank and covered her face as the words were read. Those were the words by this type of an old Southern gentleman, in the presence of a virtuous, helpless girl. Good men, are you not ashamed of such a man?

"But the significant part in this stage of affairs was that the only thing attempted was to keep Col. Cooper from sending that note. Was any attempt made to disarm the Coopers? Was any attempt made to notify Carmack of the change of heart? Was any attempt made to notify Carmack that the note Craig told him would be sent to him was not to be sent? No; the sole effort was to keep the note away from Carmack."

Meeks For the Defense.

Gen. Meeks, in opening for the defense, said:

"The state has appealed to you to enforce the law. And the state's idea of enforcing the law seems to be to convict some one, innocent or guilty. I want to say to you, gentlemen, that I never in my life, and in a broad practice, saw a witness so shamefully treated as was Col. Cooper by Capt. Fitzhugh. The prosecutor seemed careless as to whether he acquitted or convicted Col. Cooper of the murder of Senator Carmack, but he did seem determined to besmirch the witness' character. He accused him of not paying his debts. What has that to do with the killing of Carmack? They tried to make you believe that he embezzled funds as clerk and master of chancery. What has that to do with the killing of Carmack? You saw the witness on the stand. You heard him swear that no one ever lost a dollar through him. You heard him swear that his business methods always were unsuccessful. The whole scheme of the state was not to convict Col. Cooper of murder, but to disgrace him publicly on his record."

"And they tell you he is not a sample of the old school of chivalry; that he is not the type of an old Southern gentleman. I should say he is one of the grandest and bravest men I ever knew."

WANTS TO SELL HIS LEG.

Self-Confessed Failure Makes Offer to Rockefeller Institute.

New York, March 9.—The fame of the Rockefeller institute, where physicians transfer to utter strangers the most essential parts of animal economy, has reached Highland Park, Ky., and stirred a Kentuckian to offer to "part with one leg to relieve a sufferer."

The offer is made in a letter, which says in part:

"I need the money and am willing to part with one leg to relieve a sufferer if I can find him.

"I have been one continual failure at all attempts in everything from childhood up to 28 years of age, and at last, for the love of a child over whose future I was brooding, a thought came to me, 'why not sell one of my legs to the New York wealthy for grafting?'

"I have met about all the failures that are on two legs, and I won't have much to avoid on one leg, and I am anxious to try it, and really look forward to it, for I can but change my fortunes as I want to for this child, I'll gladly part with my leg and go to my grave happy with a peg leg."

HOBSON TO HAVE OPPOSITION.

Another Candidate Will Seek Election to Congress in 1910.

Montgomery, Ala., March 9.—William C. Davis of Jasper will oppose Congressman Richmond Pearson Hobson for re-election in the Sixth district in Alabama in 1910. This is one of the most interesting political developments in Alabama in recent months. Undoubtedly the speech which Congressman Hobson made in favor of the bill to restore some negro soldiers dismissed from the army because of the Brownsville affair will figure in the change.

IOWA MAN DROWNED.

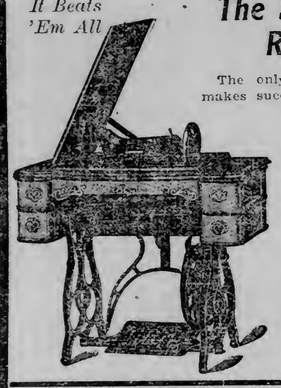

Clung to Bushes Until Overwhelmed by Floating Ice.

Rock Rapids, Iowa, March 9.—Michael McManus was drowned in the Little Rock river at a point three miles east of Doon. His body has not yet been found.

He was heard screaming and one of the neighbors ran to the river to see who was calling. McManus was then clinging to some bushes. The neighbor ran for a rope, but before he could get it to McManus a big cake of ice struck him and he went under.

Starving Won't Cure Rheumatism

Dieting will not help rheumatism—indirectly it is harmful. For by taking away the strengthening food you become less able to stand the pain. To diet simply means to "lock the barn door after the horse is stolen." The poisons which cause rheumatism must be dissolved before the pains will stop or you can expect to be well.

Hill's Rheumatic Pills are made from healing roots and herbs which quickly dissolve the poisons which cause Rheumatism. And then, by strengthening and gently stimulating Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, the poisons are passed from the body and every twinge, ache and pain along with them.

These Pills have never been advertised till now—merit alone has introduced and sold them. We have letters from over 18,000 grateful people who have been relieved from pain and made well by the wonderful remedy.

Hill's Rheumatic Pills

have been in use for 73 years without a single change in the formula. They are the only remedy we know which really cures Rheumatism without leaving trouble just as bad in its place. Hill's Rheumatic Pills are purely vegetable. They contain no harmful minerals such as iodides and salycilates, to upset the digestion or weaken the heart. They cure by aiding nature to throw off the poisons which cause Rheumatism. It only takes a short time, and you are free from every ache and pain and feel years younger as the deadly uric acid poison is dissolved and passed off as nature intended.

Determine to know today what the harmless but wonderful healing herbs and roots used in Hill's Rheumatic Pills will do for you.

TEST THEM FREE

We realize that there are hundreds of worthless nostrums on the market—that you may have been deceived into trying them and derived no benefit. If so, you have a right to be suspicious. To all such we will give a liberal sized package of Hill's Rheumatic Pills for a letter or postal describing their case. Address the letter to Behler & Copp, the makers, Dept. 108, Minneapolis, Minn. The package will come prepaid. Pay nothing then or at any time. When you find the aches and pains going, and see yourself becoming beter and stronger each day—then you will KNOW and BELIEVE, and will be as anxious to continue the remedy and be cured as we are to relieve your suffering.

You can secure these Pills from your home druggist. Lesox Drug Store, Lyceum Pharmacy.

DEMOCRATS ARE DIVIDED

Open Break on Election of President Is Anticipated.

Two Democrats and One Republican Candidates for Place.

Duluth's new city council will meet and organize tonight. A president will be elected, and action will be taken on several appointments to be made by Mayor Haven. None of the political jobs, which will be passed on tonight, have any considerable salaries attached. The board of public works position is the only one supposed to require a man's whole time, and that pays a "living" salary, while the others have only honor attached, or pay $25 a month.

Mayor Haven will not have his annual message ready for a reading this evening. The press of other duties has been so heavy, and he has been detained so much in his work by the critical illness of his mother, that he has not had time to complete the message. It will be read at the regular council meeting next Monday evening.

ALDERMAN SHARTEL, Who Appears to Be in Lead for Presidency of Council.

The matter of the most importance tonight will be the election of a president of the council. Up to this noon, it is learned for a certainty that no one had been decided upon for the place, despite the fact that the Democrats who hold the balance of power, have held numerous caucuses in a vain effort to get together on the proposition. Alderman Shartel has the most votes, but not enough, unless some of the Republicans come to his rescue to elect him, provided the Democrats, who are opposed to him, do not swing around before tonight. Alderman Getchell, present Democratic occupant o fthe chair, is a candidate for re-election, and is understood to have three votes, while Mr. Shartel has six.

The choice in all probability will lie between Alderman Shartel, Alderman Getchell and Alderman Trevillion. The latter will be a candidate put forward by the Republicans, and if the Democrats fail to agree on a man, Mr. Trevillion seems to stand a good show of being placed in the chair. He has served in the council fourteen years, and his party feels that he is entitled to the place.

He has some pretty good friends among the Democrats, and if it becomes evident that they cannot elect the man of their choice from their own party, it looks as if enough may swing to the support of Mr. Trevillion to elect him, with the solid Republican vote that will be behind him. The Democrats will make another attempt to get together before tonight, but it doesn't seem likely an agreement will be reached, and probably the matter of president will be carried as an open fight into the council.

The mayor's appointments tonight will be a member of the board of park commissioners, two members of the civil service commission, one member of the board of fire commissioners, one member of the board of public works. The council will appoint a sealer of weights and measures and a harbor master. It will also elect a city clerk. H. W. Cheadle, present city clerk, has no opposition for the place. A vice president of the council will also be elected. It is believed all the mayor's appointments will be agreeable to the aldermen, and that they will approve them without objection.

MRS. ROOSELELT TO TRAVEL, TOO

Will Meet Her Husband at Khartoum, April 1, 1910.

Oyster Bay, L. I., March 9.—According to the intentions of ex-President Roosevelt, his family, with the exception of Mrs. Longworth and Theodore Jr., will spend most of the time in Italy while Roosevelt is hunting. They will be guests of Mrs. Roosevelt's sister, Miss Carew, at her villa near Rome.

Mrs. Roosevelt will remain at Sagamore Hill only about three months after her husband and son, Kermit, sail for Africa. She and her three children will leave for Naples the latter part of June or the first of July. During the nine months intervening until the arrival of Roosevelt at Khartoum, Mrs. Roosevelt and her children will visit various parts of Italy and Europe. It has been planned to have Mrs. Roosevelt leave Italy early in March 1910 and journey across the Mediterranean to Alexandria and thence by boat and rail up the Nile to Khartoum.

Here Mr. Roosevelt and his party will arrive about April 1.

A system of automatic signalling, worked entirely by electricity, is being installed on the Metropolitan railway in London. The system is said to be less cumbersome than the electro-pneumatic one in use on the "Tubes." The new system provides for the brakes of the train being at once automatically applied if a driver should pass a signal set at danger.

CLEANING DAY IN MAY

Mayor Will Name Day for Annual Spring Clean-up.

Patton Wants to Buy Just One Little Garbage Wagon.

Mayor Haven will set aside a day during the spring for a general clean-up of the city, following out the custom established last year.

The date has not been set yet, but he said this morning that it probably will be early in May. It will depend upon weather conditions. Usually May is considered about the best month for spring cleaning in Duluth.

Cleaning day last year was considered a success, although weather conditions were not all that could be desired. The date this year will be fixed at a time when the school children of the city can help in the work, and they probably will be organized into squads to add to the efficiency of their labors.

The custom of having cleaning days has come to be an annual one in several big cities of the country, and in most cases a good deal of public interest is taken in them. The people enter into the spirit of the thing, and do all they can to help the city authorities put the municipality in a more presentable condition.

The new garbage ordinance in effect this year will help greatly in keeping the city clean during the spring and summer. Under this ordinance rules for keeping things clean, particularly as applies to back yards and alleys, are much more stringent than they ever were before.

Water tight receptacles must be provided for holding garbage, and the wagons collecting garbage must also be water tight, and covered, so the old trouble of spilling contents of the vehicles promiscuously over the streets and alleys will be done away with.

Health Commissioner Patton hopes the city will allow him to purchase one garbage wagon for the city and allow city funds with which to provide for a team and a driver for collecting garbage. He hopes ultimately to have a municipal garbage collection system established in Duluth, and thinks this will be the first step in that direction. He says that with the one wagon he will be able to demonstrate the desirability of municipal collection.

A Religious Author's Statement.

Rev. Joseph H. Fesperhan, Salisbury, N. C., who is the author of several books, writes: "For several years I was afflicted with Kidney trouble, and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment and I passed same frequently day and night. I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the pain gradually abated and finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy." Sold by all druggists.

ECZEMA FROM HEAD TO FOOT

For Six Months his Suffering was Beyond Words—One Mass of Irritation and Itching was Dreadful—Slept Only from Sheer Exhaustion—Almost Out of His Mind—After 24 Hours' Use of Cuticura Slept Like an Infant and Then was

CURED IN ONE MONTH BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I am seventy-seven years old and one day, some years ago, I fell from a step-ladder, bruising my heel. In a few days I could not walk. I called in a doctor and inside of a week erysipelas set in. The doctor had not cured me of that when I was taken with eczema from head to foot. I was sick for six months and what I suffered tongue could not tell. I could not sleep day or night because of that dreadful itching; when I did sleep it was from sheer exhaustion. I was one mass of irritation; it was even in my scalp. The doctor's medicine seemed to make me worse and I was almost out of my mind. I read of Cuticura and sent my wife to the druggist, who was a member of my lodge of Odd Fellows, for a set of the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent. I used them persistently for twenty-four hours. That night I slept like an infant, the first solid night's sleep I had had for six months. I was not afraid to use plenty of Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap with hot water and in a week's time I was able to put on my clothes again. In a month I was cured. From that day to this I cannot praise the Cuticura Remedies too highly. I may add that I have a very heavy head of hair which I owe to Cuticura. W. Harrison Smith, R.F.D. 2, Mt. Kisco, N. Y., Feb. 3, '08."

A single set of the Cuticura Remedies is often sufficient for the treatment of the most torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning and scaly humors, eczemas, rashes and irritations, with loss of hair, from infancy to age, when all other remedies fail. Guaranteed absolutely pure and may be used from the hour of birth.

WEST END

WOULD FILL IN GULCHES

West Ender Will Bring the Matter Before Republican Club.

Says They Are a Menace to Health During Summer.

Now that the West End Republican club has taken to considering propositions of general improvements in that section of the city, one member is planning to bring up at the next session plans to abate the nuisance caused by the gullies in many well-populated districts filling with stagnant water during the spring and summer, and constituting a menace to health.

This proposition is one that has bothered West enders for years. Perhaps it has bothered the West enders more than any residents of the city.

There are many places where the grading of streets has left four-sided hollows from which there are no outlets for the accumulations of filth and water which the warmer weather brings.

"In the neighborhood of Twenty-second avenue west and Superior street there are two which have in the past been filled for months at a time with slimy, ill-smelling water, and there are any number more of them," said a member of the club today.

"Last year two children were nearly drowned in just such pools. The youngsters make rafts and small boats, and persist in playing in these dangerous puddles, and it is time that something should be done, as the gullies are dangers to the general health of people, as well as the lives of the children.

"It seems to me that at a comparatively small cost these places could be filled well enough, so that they would cease to cause any trouble. We might invite teamsters to make dumping grounds of them. The owners of the property could certainly find no fault with that method of improving their property.

"The matter is one that should be considered by every resident of the West end."

DRILL IS POSTPONED.

St. Luke's Cadets' Visit to East End Given Up.

The fates seem to have decreed that the cadets of St. Luke's Episcopal church and Trinity pro-cathedral shall not drill together, as they have planned.

The St. Luke's boys were to have gone to the East end last evening to drill with the Trinity cadets, in the latter's barracks, but the affair has been indefinitely postponed.

It was originally planned to have held the drill a week ago last evening, but it was postponed until last night.

AMERICANS HAVE MADE CUBA

Railroad Man Says It Is Becoming Great Winter Resort.

A. J. Lytle, northern passenger agent for the Queen & Crescent Route, who is in Duluth today, calling upon the local railroad men, says that Americans have made Cuba one of the greatest winter resorts in the world, simply by introducing American methods in the Cuban metropolis, Havana.

At the time that the Americans entered Cuba, Mr. Lytle says that Havana had only the old, dilapidated Spanish hotels, which were conducted upon a plan to get the money, and get it quick. When the Americans began coming to Havana, the Spanish proprietors of these hotels advertised that they had waiters who could speak the English language. These waiters spoke a very convenient language. If they overcharged the American tourists, they couldn't understand the protestations; if they did not receive sufficient pay, they could speak the English language very well.

Now things are very much different, according to Mr. Lytle. They have two modern American hotels in Cuba, which cater to the American tourist trade, and as a result of these and other improvements afforded the visiting Americans, the present winter has seen the heaviest Cuban travel in the history of that country.

"The railroads out of Chicago have enjoyed a very heavy Florida travel this winter," said Mr. Lytle, "and the Cuban travel has been the heaviest in the history of railroading. The Americans have begun to go to Cuba for their winter seasons, since they have found that the proper kind of accommodations have been provided for them. It is getting to be one of the big winter resorts for American travel, and this is the result of the fact that Americans have gone to Havana and improved conditions for American tourists.

"The railroad business is not any too good at the present time, but the passenger travel has not been so bad. The Southern travel has been very good; many people are going to the Southern summer resorts and that is a very good indication that the people have money. The tourist travel is very much heavier than it was last year. When the tourists begin to travel, it is a very good indication that things are going to open up."

THE ESSAY CONTEST

Interest Aroused in The Herald's Theater Party for School Children.

Mayor Haven Gives the Plan His Enthusiastic Indorsement.

"The plan is a fine one and displays a commendable progressive and public spirit on the part of The Herald," said Mayor R. D. Haven this morning. "Very few children, in the ordinary run of circumstances, ever get a chance to see a first-class theatrical production, and there are hundreds who never witness one until they are old enough to earn money with which to pay their own way. A play like 'Ben Hur' is educational in a way, besides its general interest, and no child can witness the performance without being benefited, as well as entertained. The opportunity to attend the play will have a tendency to broaden the views of the fortunate juveniles of the city included in The Herald's list, and will allow them to see things which heretofore they have heard of only through books or their elders."

The Herald's "Ben Hur" contest is the talk of the town.

According to the librarians at the public library, there has been a constant demand for "Ben Hur" since the announcement was made in The Herald Saturday night, and every book on the circulation list is kept busy. The Sunday school libraries are besieged with demands for the book, and many parents are telling their children of the story so that they may write their essay, and enter the contest.

It must be kept in mind that there are in all 150 of the choicest seats in the Lyceum to be given away free to the winners of the contest. A child does not necessarily have to land first place to obtain a ticket, for there will be twenty-five first prizes for each grade, including the seventh and eighth grades in the public schools, twenty-five in the freshman class in the high school, and so on up to the senior year, each class getting twenty-five tickets. The papers will be judged by a committee of Duluth public school teachers who will be appointed by Supt. Denfeld.

For the benefit of any who have not read of the conditions, they are repeated again tonight. They follow:

CONDITIONS OF THE CONTEST.

All those who wish to become members of the big theatrical party should keep in mind the following conditions:

Each essay should be about 150 words in length, although more or less will not disqualify the writer. The writers of the 150 best papers will receive tickets. There are no coupon conditions attached to the contest, and no requirements that the contestants shall be subscribers to The Herald.

In this contest it must be understood that the seventh grade pupils will compete with the seventh grade scholars, the eighth grade with the eighth grade, the first year high school people with the members of their own class, and so on up to the senior class in the high school.

Each contestant must be a regularly enrolled student in the Duluth public schools, and must write his or her name, grade, teacher's name, the name of the school and class to which he or she belongs, and his or her address on the upper left hand corner of the paper. Only one side of the paper should be used on which to write. The writing should be as neat and as legible as the contestant can make it, as both these will count when the paper is judged. The essays should then be mailed to the "Ben Hur" editor at The Herald.

All essays must be in the hands of the "Ben Hur" editor not later than 6 p. m. Wednesday, March 17.

For those who will not be able to get the book at the libraries, The Herald is printing a condensed story of "Ben Hur." Tonight the second installment appears, and the story will be finished in the issue of Friday evening. The second installment follows:

The Story of Ben Hur.

Three years have passed, and Ben Hur, in ignorance of the fate of his mother and sister, is a slave on the Roman war galley Astrea. A rover commanded by the Roman Tribune, Arrius, had been sent with a fleet to exterminate the Aegean pirates who preyed upon the commerce of Rome with her rich provinces. The cavernous interior of the galley, or trireme, is dimly lighted by ancient lanterns. The slaves at either side, each handling a single great ore, are as white as the cloth wrapped about their half-naked bodies. A big, brutal Roman sits on a low platform and beats time for the stroke of the oars. And here these slaves, "caitiffs and cut throat from all the earth," toil at the creaking oars, Ben Hur among them.

The Tribune Arrius comes in and looks indifferently at the crew. His careless gaze stops at the figure in front on the left. He notes that Ben Hur is a man of gentle blood, and asks him of what crime he has been accused. The young Prince tells his story, protesting his innocence.

"They all say that," replies the Tribune. "Go back to your oar—but forward there, unlock Ben Hur's chains." This he has ordered done because of his friendship for Prince Ithamar, the father of Ben Hur. When Ben Hur hears the Roman say that he has been stationed in Jerusalem, and had known his father, he pleads with Arrius: "Oh, noble Tribune! Think of me what thou wilt—but if thou knowest aught of my mother and sister, tell me—I beseech thee, tell me!"

The fog which has enveloped the trireme lifts and discloses the piratical enemy. Arrius attacks them, but his own galley is boarded and sunk. In the struggle the Tribune is wounded, but his life is saved by Ben Hur, who takes him in his arms and leaps with him into the sea. Thus the dark picture of human misery is relieved by a dash of generosity and a bit of gratitude. Adrift in the open sea, Ben Hur, supporting the wounded and helpless Arrius, clings to a fragment of the floating wreck until a Roman trireme comes to the rescue. Arrius, in his gratitude, adopts Ben Hur, whom he designs to make a great soldier. To this end Ben Hur enters the Palestrae at Rome and becomes a noted gladiator and charioteer.

Arrius having died, freed from the restraint imposed upon him by his adopted father, Ben Hur seeks Simonides, his dead father's steward in the city of Antioch, hoping to learn from him the fate of his mother and Tirzah. Simonides questions him as to what followed his seizure in Jerusalem, and Ben Hur, after relating his experiences as a galley slave, ending with the story of the shipwreck and the rescue of Arrius, who adopted him, continued: "From that night I was no longer a slave except to the kindness of Arrius, who adopted me as his son. Hence the Roman garb in which thou seest me. Nothing did he deny me, save the one thing my heart most hungered for—to leave to search for my people."

When we first saw Simonides he was a strong man in the full vigor of life; now he is a cripple, distorted by the tortures of Gratius, who after his recovery from the accident of the falling tile, sought to force Simonides to give up the vast fortune of the Hur family in his keeping as the steward and confidential slave of the dead Prince Ithamar of Hur. Great is the wealth of the crafty merchant, but of all his treasures his daughter Esther is the dearest, and jealously he has guarded her from the eyes of men. Ben Hur is charmed by the youthful beauty and filial devotion of the Jewish maid, and Esther admires the manly vigor and high resolves of the long-absent Prince of Hur.

Simonides refuses to acknowledge Ben Hur, although secretly he believes his story. To test Ben Hur Simonides mentions that Messala is to compete in the forthcoming chariot races in the Circus of Antioch. Ben Hur is in a rage on the instant and demands to know where Messala can be found. He is told that Messala is training his steeds in the Grove of Daphne and, as he rushes away, Simonides sends Malluch, a faithful servitor, to follow him and watch the meeting. If Messala recognizes Ben Hur, then he is really the son of Ithamar, Prince of Hur, and heir to the great property which Simonides houds.

HOUSE INSURGENTS SCENT A PLOT IN RECEPTION PLAN

Washington, March 9.—A reception to the new members of congress by the Republican congressional committee Friday, at which Speaker Cannon will be present, is one of the latest developments in the maneuvers preliminary to the fight on the rules to take place when the house meets next Monday.

The insurgents are also preparing a preliminary move. Representative Davis of Minnesota today declared that the plan for obtaining changes in the rules includes the bringing about of a deadlock on the election of the speaker through the scattering of votes by the insurgents.

Other insurgents, however, declare there will be no fight against Mr. Cannon, but that their efforts will be concentrated on a plan to vote down the motion for the usual questions on the motion to adopt the rules of the Sixtieth congress. The insurgents are bringing pressure to bear on other members to vote with them in defeating the motion.

It is understood Cannon will make a speech at the reception, in which he will advance arguments in favor of the present rules.

While it is stated the reception is tendered by the congressional committee for the purpose of having the new members meet the speaker and some of the old members, the insurgents claim the object is to make sure of the new members' co-operation in defeating the plans of the insurgents.

There will be a meeting of the agitators for reforms in the rules before the Republican caucus meets on Saturday.

ROOSEVELT TO BE ENTERTAINED

At Informal Breakfast and Thirty Others Are Invited.

New York, March 9.—Theodore Roosevelt, will be the principal guest at an informal breakfast at the home of Robert J. Collier, on Saturday morning next. Thirty others will be present and they are men prominently identified with magazine work. Among the more prominent guests will be William Dean Howells, Dr. Albert Shaw, Richard Watson Gilder, Walter H. Page and the Rev. Father John J. Wynne, editor of the new Catholic Review. Other guests who have no connection with the press will be Maj.-Gen. Wood, Truman H. Newberry, ex-secretary of the navy and Clarence H. Mackay.

When Mr. Roosevelt leaves New York on March 23 on the steamship Hamburg, he will have the distinction of occupying the imperial suite which was used by the German emperor when he went to the Mediterranean during the winter of 1905-06. The Hamburg is due to arrive at Naples on April 4, when the first leg of Mr. Roosevelt's journey will be finished. The imperial suite is situated on the upper promenade deck, on the starboard side of the liner, and includes a parlor, two bedrooms and two bathrooms.

Although on shipboard, the ex-president will not lack means of taking vigorous exercise, for the Hamburg has a well-equipped gymnasium, with an electric "horse" and a rough-riding "camel." Any degree of jolting may be obtained by the manipulation of these devices and Mr. Roosevelt, if he wishes, may repeat his famous ninety-eight mile ride while 1,000 miles out at sea.

RAILROAD'S BIG ORDER.

Burlington Road Sends for Twenty-Five Locomotives.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 9.—On the heels of President Taft's inauguration the Baldwin Locomotive works has received an order for twenty-five locomotives from the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad. While the order will not necessitate the employment of any more men at this time it may bring work for more when the plans have been completed.

Asked concerning the order, Alba Johnson, a member of the firm, said: "It means that the force we now have will be continued at work. It will not be necessary, however, to employ any more men at this time. We have been enabled to keep the force going because we have been receiving orders from one source or another. This new order will keep the shops busy for a month."

NEW BARBER FOR TAFT.

Filipino Valet Will be Paid Out of President's Pocket.

Washington, March 8.—President Taft is to be shaved by a valet paid out of his own pocket.

The valet is Mnico Lopez Lara, a Filipino, who was brought to this country by Mr. Taft from Manila when Mr. Taft resigned from the office of governor general of the Philippines to become secretary of war in Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet. It became known today that Lara would not be placed on the government payrolls

William Dulaney, who shaved President Roosevelt at the White House for most of Mr. Roosevelt's service as president, has been sent over to the treasury department to perform the duties of an accountant to the office of the auditor for the navy department.

He was appointed to the place about a year ago at a salary of $1,600 a year.

FISH INSIDE OF A FISH.

Piscatorial Experience That Raises Rather Novel Legal Point.

Brainerd, Minn., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A peculiar fish story is vouched for by J. H. Givern, chief of police of this city.

William Thompson, a veteran Lake Superior division engineer and John Gablou, a local devotee of Isaak Walton, on Saturday, so the chief vouches, captured a pickerel which weighed twenty-seven pounds, inside of which they found a black bass which weighed five pounds, which had evidently just been swallowed. The chief and the deputy game warden are perplexing themselves over the question of whether or not the captors of the two fish have violated the state game laws in taking black bass out of season.

THE SQUARE DEAL IN MINNESOTA.

Every man who honestly wants to arrive at a just decision as to the tonnage tax proposal has got to ask himself two questions: is such a tax fair to the people of the country in which the iron ore is mined, and will such a tax benefit the state? If we can get an honest affirmative answer to both of these questions, a tonnage tax law ought to be enacted at once. If the true answer to both or either of these questions is "No," the effort to enact a tonnage tax law ought to be forever abandoned.

As to the first question, Is the tonnage tax fair to the people of the ore producing territory? The people of that territory themselves answer this question in the most emphatic negative. Most of the tonnage tax advocates at first, and still a few at the present time, credit all opposition to the tonnage tax to the "steel trust." Such statements and insinuations are unworthy of the men who make them. They are not fair and are not true. There is not a newspaper published in the iron ore region of Minnesota that is not most vigorously opposed to the tonnage tax. Surely our friends who want this tax cannot believe that all the newspapers and their proprietors and their editors in the iron country have sold themselves? Moreover, we have yet to find the man who has one interest or one dollar's worth of property in the iron country who is not vigorously opposed to the tonnage tax. Are all these people dishonest? Is the entire population of the Minnesota iron ranges purchasable? But the accusation that it is the "steel trust" alone that is opposed to the tonnage tax is now made but infrequently. The thinking people of the state have long since realized that the people of the iron ranges are a unit in their opposition to the tax because of the evils they fear it will bring upon them. Although they are unanimous, it is of course possible, in reason, that they are mistaken, but no man who has attempted to draw a tonnage tax bill has yet been able to do so and at the same time to satisiy himself that the measure may not bring down upon the people of the ranges the very evils they fear. If the people of the ranges have not been able absolutely to prove to the rest of the state that the dangers they fear will inevitably follow the tonnage tax, they have been able to show that it is at least quite possible that such evils will follow. In other words, the state has not yet been able to say "Yes" to the question: Is the tonnage tax fair to the people of the iron ore country.

As to the second question, Will a tonnage tax benefit the state? The tonnage tax is wanted to the end that the state may get more money without increasing the burdens of the great majority of the people of the state. It is proposed by means of the tonnage tax to make a comparatively small fraction of the people of the state put into the state treasury the funds which it is proposed to get. Will such a means of getting money be profitable to the state? The weightiest of reasons have been advanced to show that it will not, but that on the contrary, money procured in such a way will be the source of the greatest dangers to the state. While all the iron ore of the state is not confined to one county, it is confined to a comparatively few counties of the state. If millions can be taken from the few counties by the many counties at pleasure, especially, if by so doing, what the many counties have to pay into the state treasury may be decreased and even entirely wiped out, the strongest possible temptation is constantly with the many counties to careless expenditures of state funds. Anything can be had for the taking and that without cost to the many. What causes us to be wisely conservative in the expenditure of public moneys? Nothing so much as the consideration that such moneys come out of our own pocket. If eighty out of eighty-five counties know that a proposal does not call upon them for a cent of money, but that others will have to provide the funds, what inducement is there left to care and economy? Solely upon this consideration and neglecting the main fact that the tax in itself is unjust, the second question is answered in the negative.

Thus no one is able to carefully examine the proposal for a tonnage tax and to honestly believe that it is fair to the iron ranges or profitable to the state. Either negative is enough to defeat it, but here are both.

ROOSEVELT'S FIRST EDITORIAL.

The views of Theodore Roosevelt upon public questions are pretty well known; he has never hesitated to express himself frequently and emphatically upon every subject upon which he has thought, and there seems to have been very few subjects upon which he has not thought. His first formal utterance as a private citizen, however, appearing the next day but one after his leaving the presidency, and his first actual editorial work, is naturally of interest in that it may tend to show what will be the general character of his writings as an associate editor of the Outlook.

Roosevelt's first editorial is entitled, "Why I Believe In the Kind of American Journalism for Which the Outlook Stands." The subject gives Mr. Roosevelt the opportunity to brand certain kinds of journalism as undesirable and he does the branding with a vigor and a completeness which leaves nothing to be desired in the way of condemnation. Yellow journalism is defined as that which "deifies the cult of the mendacious, the sensational and the inane." A theory which would justify the existence of yellow journalism would also justify 'the existence of every keeper of an opium den, of every foul creature who ministers to the vices of mankind." That class of newspapers and periodicals which offers nothing creative but practices an insidious untruthfulness and affects a cynical, carping criticism is likewise condemned as a dangerous but lesser evil.

It is evident that what Mr. Roosevelt says of the journalism of the Outlook is indicative of the kind of journalism he himself hopes to practice in his editorial work. "It stands for the things of the spirit, yet it remembers the needs of the body." It shows "a fine scorn of untruth in every form." It endeavors to "find out what the facts are before passing judgment." "It believes that things in this world can be made better." "It champions the rights of the many." It has "no sympathy with moral weakness or sentimentality." "All that it can do it does and will do for the cause of labor; but it will in no way condone violence or disorder. It stands for the rights of property, and therefore against the abuses of property." It believes "that every man must earn enough to support himself and those dependent upon him; but when once this has been accomplished, money immediately becomes secondary to many other things."

In these specifications of the editorial structure which Mr. Roosevelt expects to raise there is nothing new, perhaps, but there is much that is absolutely vital in this day and generation and to this day and generation. Backed by the weight of his great personality and his great services to his people and to the world, and with the widespread distribution and attention which all of his utterances receive, Mr. Roosevelt's experience, vigor, peculiar directness and soundness of heart should be, and doubtless will be, written into editorials that will be in the highest degree helpful to the world's uplift.

ECONOMIC LIBERTY AND BRASS-HEADED NAILS.

If liberty consisted in the right of everyone to do just as he pleased, what a fine time the criminal classes would have until chaos put an end to things!

The Herald is in receipt of a letter from a high school student, asking for an editorial on "economic liberty." The young man who prefers this request has struck a very live wire and if he gives diligent heed to it he may come to be a very great force in this nation some day, for it is upon economic liberty that the thought of this country must be fastened for a good many years to come. But we can't bring this mountain to our young Mahomet; instead we beg to be permitted to offer by way of suggestion this dream that John Ruskin once had: "Meanwhile, the children in the house had been making themselves happy also in their manner. For them there had been provided every kind of indoor pleasure: there was music for them to dance to; and the library was open, with all manner of amusing books; and there was a museum full of the most curious shells and animals and birds; and there was a workshop, with lathes and carpenter's tools, for the ingenious boys; and there were pretty fantastic dresses for the girls to dress in; and there were mocroscopes, and kaleidoscopes and whatever toys a child could fancy; and a table in the dining room loaded with everything nice to eat. But in the midst of all this it struck two or three of the more 'practical' children that they would like some of the brass-headed nails that studded the chairs, and so they set to work to pull them out. Presently the others who were reading or looking at shells, took a fancy to do the like; and in a little while all the children, nearly, were spraining their fingers in pulling out brass-headed nails. With all that they could pull out they were not satisfied; and then everybody wanted some of somebody else's. And at last the really practical and sensible ones declared that nothing was of any real consequence that afternoon except to get plenty of brass-headed nails; and that the books and the cakes and the microscopes were of no use at all in themselves, but only if they could be exchanged for nail-heads. At last they began to fight for nail-heads. * * * Only here and there a despised one shrunk away into a corner, and tried to get a little quiet with a book in the midst of the noise; but all the practical ones thought of nothing else but counting nail-heads all the afternoon, even though they knew that they would not be allowed to carry away so much as one brass knob with them." Here John Ruskin woke up, but if he had been living in a later generation he might have dreamed a little longer and seen how the practical ones organized themselves into combinations for getting brass-headed nails, and how a comparatively few of them finally succeeded that afternoon in cornering nearly all the brass-headed nails in the room.

There is a suggestion in this dream of brass-headed nails which our high school student and all the rest of us may make use of as a basis for some thinking upon the matter of economic liberty. Brass-headed nails have their use, but it is comparatively a very limited use, and the first thing necessary for us, if we are to achieve economic liberty, is to appreciate the value of other things in the room as compared to brass-headed nails. Then we have to remember that the children finally fell to fighting for nail-heads. If John Ruskin had not waked up just then we suspect that some person wiser than the children would have entered the room, have punished some, reasoned with others and by a beneficent control put the brass-headed nails back where they belonged and got the children busy again with the things that were really worth while.

There have been some great fights for liberty in this country and they have been gloriously won. The fight for economic liberty is now on; it is a fine thing if the young men of our high schools know that the fight is on, for they are the young men who have got to win it.

Senator Teller was counted out March 4.

What's the use of congress reconvening when its occupation is gone?

The federal court's decision in Missouri makes passenger rates look like 3 cents.

Senator Stephenson slips one over on tradition by achieving re-election on the twenty-third ballot.

The report that there is anything soothing or tactful about Mr. Taft is denied by ex-Collector Fowler of the port of New York.

Now they're giving Roosevelt credit for riding back to Oyster Bay in a public car just like ordinary folks. The wonder is that he didn't walk.

The New York World devotes a whole page, in a single editorial, in its issue of March 4, to the damnation of Theodore Roosevelt, who is thus enabled to break another record.

Roosevelt was a hit with the bleachers all right. They liked his delivery, his base running and his stick work and the way he fielded his position brought them up standing every time.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Senator P. R. Vail, at the St. Louis last evening, stated that business in general was improving, and that the people at Virginia believed that the coming season would be a very prosperous one in the ore business. The senator was in Duluth on his way to St. Paul.

W. F. Lawrence of Two Harbors, who was registered at the St. Louis yesterday, says well-informed iron men believe that there will be a large amount of ore shipped from Two Harbors this year, and others believe that trouble with the vessel employes will cause a late season.

Frank Coventry of Hibbing was at the Spalding yesterday. Mr. Coventry stated that some of the mines had been fairly busy all winter, and that work was opening up well this spring in certain of the mines. However, like most of the iron men who are asked for an opinion upon the possibilities of the coming ore season, Mr. Coventry stated that he could not tell just how the season would materialize for the ranges.

He stated that more than the usual stripping had been done this winter, and that right at the present time there was a good deal of preparation being made for the opening, but that there were so many conditions affecting the ore season that no one could predict at this time just how successful it would be.

J. V. Mairlag of Swan River, at the McKay yesterday, is one of the citizens of that part of the state who is working for better roads. Mr. Mairlag, like the farmers who attended the meeting of the St. Louis Farmers' club, stated that until the roads of the northern part of the state are improved, the settlement will be very slow.

Mr. Mairlag says the roads in the vicinity of Swan River are not as bad as they are in some places in the northern part of the state, but they are bad enough to cause farmers no end of trouble in getting over them in bad weather.

If they were the best roads that the people could get, it would not be so bad. But the citizen from Swan River, like the other citizens who attended the meeting at the Duluth Commercial club this winter, is of the opinion that the best return has not been secured for the money.

Mr. Mairlag states that better roads are one of the great needs of the northern part of the state, and that until better roads are secured for most of the communities of this section, the settlement of the northern part of Minnesota will be slow.

W. S. Hart, who plays the part of the Virginian in the play of that name, and who is at the Spalding, has lived in the Western country and passed through many of the scenes that are portrayed in the play. He used to be a cowboy in the Bitter Root valley of Montana, and has had some of the experiences that befell the cowboys of the days of Montana.

Mr. Hart enters one objection to the cowboy who is generally portrayed upon the stage. For instance, he says that the cowboys who ride the plains do not half the accoutrements that the stage cowboy gets upon his person. He points out that the Western cowman must ride for miles, must be out in all kinds of weather, and that everything that he has with him is simply for protection against the elements. It is necessary for him to carry as light an equipment as possible, according to the actor, and the things the cowboy carries with him are of the utmost use to him. The silk handkerchief is to put over his eyes and nostrils when the alkali dust is choaking him. If he wears caps, they are for warmth and protection. There is nothing that is assumed for effect or appearance. The business of the cow-puncher is one that requires nerve and hardihood, and he generally dresses for the part.

Mr. Hart says that few of the real cowboys of the plains pack guns today. He says, furthermore, that the real article in the way of the cowboy is rapidly disappearing. He is going with the old history of the West, and some day in the near future, in the opinion of the actor, there will be but a few of the cow-punchers left upon the plains of the Western cattle country. The rapid settlement of the country by farmers, and the cutting up of the land, is what Mr. Hart says will drive the cowboy out of business.

The Common People.

We're a humble legion, we,
Heroes all;
Every folly that we see
Gets the call;
We've been Fletcherized, and eke
Oslerized until we're weak—
For each smooth faddistic geek
We always fall.

We've gone barefoot in the grass
To our neck;
Eaten shredded oats and glass
By the peck;
Till our stomachs are estranged
And our hide is thick and manged,
Yet we query, nigh deranged:
"What's the next?
—Buffalo News.

THE WEATHER.

Snow and colder weather are predicted by the weather man for tonight. Last night's snow storm did not materialize, although it has been threatening snow for the last twenty-four hours.

A year ago today it was bright and fairly cold.

The sun rose this morning at 6:33 and will set this afternoon at 6:05, making eleven hours and thirty-two minutes of sunlight.

R. E. Clark, acting forecaster, makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the past twenty-four hours rain or snow has fallen over all districts, except over California. Middle Western states and the extreme Southeast. This precipitation was generally quite light except over the Lower Missouri and Ohio, and the Central Mississippi valleys, where it was quite heavy These conditions were due to the influence of the large area of high pressure central over Missouri and overspreading the entire lake region and Central valleys. Temperatures have risen somewhat over all districts east of the Mississippi river and in the extreme Northwest, while those over Texas, Manitoba, Montana, the Dakotas and along the Pacific coast are lower. These latter conditions are due to the movement of the areas of high pressure central over the extreme Northwest and over the Texas Panhandle."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures:

Abilene	32	Memphis	58
Atlanta	50	Miles City	24

Department of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Duluth, March 9.—Forecast for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday: Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermillion iron ranges—Snow and colder tonight and Wednesday; brisk northeast to north winds.

R. E. CLARK,
Acting Forecaster.

Chicago, March 9.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Upper Michigan—Heavy snow tonight and Wednesday; colder in east portion Wednesday.

Wisconsin—Rain or snow tonight and Wednesday; probably heavy tonight; colder Wednesday and in west portion tonight; high northeast to north winds.

Minnesota—Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday, with snow or colder in northeast portion.

North Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday; colder tonight in west and central portions.

How Germany Saves.

William H. Tolman, in the Century: Regarding the accidents in the United States, it is the opinion of the engineering profession that one-half of them are preventable. If so, the next question is, how? A conservative estimate of the number of annual accidents which result fatally, or in partial or total incapacity for work, is 500,000. Reckoning the wage-earning capacity of the everage workman at $500 a year (this makes no allowance for the professional men, railroad presidents, industrialists, and other high-salaried officials who are injured or killed by the railways, mines, building trades, and other occupations), we have a social and economic waste of $250,000,000 a year. What we are thus losing in work efficiency Germany is saving. "One billion marks in wage-earning efficiency annually we conserve for Germany through our sanatoria, museums of safety, convalescent homes, and other forms of social insurance, by which we safeguard the lives and limbs of our workmen and prevent the causes and effects of diseases which would lesson their economic efficiency," stated Dr. Zacher, director of the imperial bureau of statistics, in reply to my inquiry as to how much Germany saved each year.

Minnesota's Governors.

Hutchinson Leader: Two documents have recently been published of different character and from different sources, the one issues from under the auspices of the State Historical society. It is a summarized sketch of the eighteen governors of Minnesota, and it opens with the biography of Alexander Ramsay, the first territorial governor, and the second state governor.

When Lincoln made his call for 75,000 men, Ramsay was in Washington, and hearing of the call, he went at once to the White House and offered a regiment from Minnesota, which was the first response and the first offer of troops. This body of soldiers proved to be the First Minnesota, known to fame as the regiment that turned the tide of battle in the heat of Gettysburg, saved the day and won the field.

The essential facts of each governor's career are duly noted, and the book closes with a lively sketch of Governor Johnson, whose life's story reads not greatly unlike that of Honest Old Abe, so far as humility of birth, poverty of family and obscure, hard hand to hand conflict with adversity and singular courage of endurance, a son of Minnesota's soil and toil. The second document is Governor Johnson's last message. It is full and ample, setting forth of the natural resources of the state, in lands, mines, forests and our accumulated trust funds for the public schools, State university and elemosynary institutions.

No governor of our manifold states has ever yet issued a document like this or equal in telling the people at home or abroad the wonderful and increasing opulence of our state of but one half century's growth. As depicted by his graceful hand and glowing pen, dipped in some of the radiant colors of the rainbow, it reads like the story of Aladdin's Lamp and the thousand and one tales of Arabia. Not a citizen should fail to read it, certainly not one in this section whose homes and interests are here.

Of these two documents of official sanction it may be said they contain what every liberal reader and thinker in the state ought to know and must know to realize the standing of our commonwealth and its relative worth in the sisterhood of states. Two, not unwieldy documents, the one by Gen. James H. Barker, former lieutenant governor of the state, and the other by John Albert Johnson, which bring Minnesota into the lime-light of publicity and furnish such reliable and general information as each good citizen should acquaint himself with.

The Lobby.

Birmingham Ledger: The idea of forbidding lobbying is a futile one and wrong in principle. Any man has a right to go to any member of a legislative body and urge him to vote for or against a bill. There is no wrong in it. Bribery and corruption is wrong, but lobbying is not. It would break down any administration in the world to enforce a law forbidding men to lobby with legislators. It is not only right, but it is a duty to lobby for some bills and lobby against others.

The Greatest Sensation.

Albert Lea Tribune: The latest sensation in New York is a dancer who dances with her clothes on.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1889.

Senator Whiteman's bill for another judge for the Duluth district has been passed by the state senate.

The Chapin-Wells Hardware company began business yesterday, with office headquarters in the Ferguson block store. The officers are: A. B. Chapin, president and treasurer; F. C. Stone, vice president; A. B. Chapin, C. C. Prindle, C. W. Wells and H. C. Crawford, directors.

It is now practically decided that the Manitoba road will put into effect milling-in-transit rates on wheat from Dakota points to Duluth via Minneapolis, making the same rate to Duluth as to Minneapolis.

M. M. Gasser will open a grocery store on Superior street near the La Pearl hotel in a week or two. He has made a lease of a store in the Chamber of Commerce building, now under construction.

Miss Metcalf of St. Paul is in the city visiting Mrs. Peyton.

H. C. Howard of the dairy commission is in Duluth looking up bad butter, pseudo cheese and watery milk.

The new firm of Sundeen & Johnson will open a grocery store at 2005 West First street about March 15.

Dr. F. C. Vilas, brother of ex-Secretary Vilas, purchased four lots in West Duluth yesterday from Richardson & Day. He will make further investments before returning to his home at Stambow, Wis.

Senator Whiteman has introduced a bill to prohibit the dumping of sawmill refuse in St. Louis river.

J. A. Mannheim and Mathias Haug have bought the east half of the lot on the lower side of Superior street, between the Exchange building and the Merchants' hotel, on which the Burlington's little office stands, and will erect a three-story brick store and office building 25 by 115 feet, this season.

John S. Pardee and sister leave Duluth next week for Saratoga Springs, where Mr. Pardee will take charge of the Daily Union, a paper which he is expected to resuscitate.

At 7:10 o'clock this morning E. A. Humble, junior member of the firm of Raeder & Humble, architects, died from heart failure in his room at the Merchants' hotel. He was 38 years of age. He will probably be buried at Des Moines, Iowa.

The minimum temperature in Duluth this morning was 19 degs. above zero.

The rumor of the consolidation of the Wisconsin Central and the Northern Pacific lines is again revived, but it is believed that a passenger service arrangement is the only basis for the story.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The Minnesota senate killed the bill for the nominating of United States senators by direct vote of the people, through fear that Governor Johnson might win if referred to the people. This might have been obviated by having the law so drawn that each party could nominate its candidate for senator, and have the members of the legislature vote for the candidate of their own party. For instance, if Moses E. Clapp was the choice of the Republican voters and John A. Johnson was the choice of the Democratic voters, the Republican voters in the legislature would vote for Clapp and the Democrats for Johnson. Voters would understand that the election of legislators was directly involved in the choice between a Republican and a Democrat for United State senator. The Journal-Press believes that the people should be given a chance to express their choice on so important an office, and the legislature should give the people such a law while preserving the party system.

Willmar Journal: What! Do the Minnesota Democrats think that John A. Johnson has a life tenure of the office of governor of Minnesota, that they are laying plans for a fourth term? Yet, if the Republican party persists in over-riding the wishes of the people composing it they may let Johnson have another term. The candidate wanted by the people is the only one that can be elected by the Republican party—not the candidate wanted by the Republican politicians. It's time the lesson was learned.

Buffalo Journal: Governor Johnson probably did the state a great service when he appointed Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway company, a member of the state highway commission, of which he is chairman. If he will divert some of the Hill energy to the public service good results are sure to follow.

Two Harbors Iron News: Roosevelt has gone, but about 300 pounds of his shadow still remains with us.

Walker Pilot: It isn't to be expected that young married couples should never quarrel. There is a certain amount of brimstone to every match.

Moorhead Independent: Teddy to the tall timber—to cut some more big sticks—maybe.

Le Sueur News: President Taft says the four great professions are law, medicine, journalism and teaching. If he is not about time to do something for the faithful long-neglected teacher? The others can care for themselves.

Albert Lea Standard: One of the best ad noblest acts of President Roosevelt in the latter days of his administration was that setting aside nearly a million acres of the timber and stone lands in St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties in the northeast corner of the state, as a national forest reserve. If it is so maintained it will become a national blessing.

An Revoir, Teddy.

Wheelock's Weekly: We'll not say good-bye, for we may need you again. You have done well by us, Teddy, and we've tried to do well by you in return. If you had said the word we'd have elected you again, but we honor you all the more that you were true to yourself and did not say the word. We think you are better than your party, Teddy, meaning not the everyday men who cast the votes, but the bigger ones who give the orders and steer things. We think you have fought such men hard, and whether you have made much headway or not, we credit you with pluck and honesty, and loyalty to the people; and we think you have made as much headway as any man could have made under the same state of facts. We glory in your spunk, we love your Americanism, we respect your ideals, whica are high, and we revere your democracy, which we know you will not take amiss, because most men are Democrats today, whether they think so or not. In Africa among the wild beasts and in America among the tame ones, Teddy, here's wishing you "Good Hunting."

Who Are the Lawless?

Lowell Courier-Citizen: We have heard a great deal in the past few years about Theodore Roosevelt's despotism, usurpation, arbitrary disregard of law, imperial ambition and all that —every word of which we must still regard as the most absolute nonsense. A good many things have been done by this president that hurt the comfortable few, and of course, they have suffered and taken on terribly about it—but it was right. Mr. Roosevelt has doubtless refused to be hindered by senseless precedents and by red tape, and in so far as he has done this has been "lawless" in a way. But have those who cast the first stone at him for these things themselves been without sin? The lawlessness of Mr. Roosevelt has been negligible beside the lawlessness of those who have shouted the loudest against him. The result of it all is that the public stands for Roosevelt today, with all his faults and failings, rather than for the Willetts and Cooks who make this puny bid for notoriety by their defamation of a strong and vigorous personality. Disgusting as the pettiness of congress in general has been of late, those bitter tirades of little men are more disgusting still.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

Puck: Little Lester Livermore—Papa, what is the difference between a vision and a sight? This book says—

Mr. Livermore—The difference between a girl before and after she is married.

Chicago News: Clarence (at the races)—The favorite won't run today; he's been scratched.

Clarice—Must be a pretty bad scratch to keep him from running.

Houston Post: "She thinks men are fools."

"Did she say so?"

"Not in so many words, but she said she could marry any man she wanted to."

Sidney Bulletin: "Did he say he knew me when I was a girl?"

"No; he said he knew you when he was a boy."

Florida Times-Union: Fame is the reward some men get for dying.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "Hubby, what shall I do with the old Christmas tree?"

"Can't you put it on your new hat?"

New York Sun: Stella—How can a man get into society?

Bella—Have a wife and an auto that are both good climbers.

Washington Herald: "The village sot is going to plead emotional insanity as an excuse for robbing them hen roosts. What do you think of that?"

"I think his public spirit ought to get him an acquittal. Ain't we aiming at making Pinkville a metropolitan town?"

Chicago News: Some men would rather own an automobile than have nothing to worry them.

The Drama.

In silken shoes and ragged dress,
Forlorn she stands.
A neck of diamonds, more or less,
Adorn her hands.
Yet she must beg, she doth confess,
In foreign lands.

The canvas grove is dark and vast,
The wintry breeze
Comes whistling in a bitter blast
Through canvas trees.
The paper snow is falling fast
And she will freeze.

And now the wolves are on the run;
We hear their whoops.
To yelp and howl have they begun
In sullen groups.
I undersatnd the trick is done
Outside by supes.

The hero dashes from the wings;
The wolves skidoo.
The leading lady to him clings;
They bill and coo.
We may as well put on our things;
The play is through.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: And the unfairness of the fair sex is proverbial.

That man who is unable to master himself is a slave.

The smile that won't come off soon gets to be monotonous.

Much reading of modern books maketh a man full of nothingness.

Most people want what they want till they get it, and then they don't want it.

There are many men of many minds—but a lot of them are unable to mind their own business.

Truth may have hid at the bottom of a well because it was unable to make falsehood ashamed of itself.

Some men seem to be as anxious to separate you from your time as others are to separate you from your money.

Some people act as if they were afraid they might forget their troubles if they didn't talk about them all the time.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A girl can always fool a man about what she thinks of him, because he does it himself.

The man who would rather stay home and lay offcloth for his wife than go to a baseball game hasn't got a wife.

The mean thing about a holiday is all the disagreeable things you have to do then because you don't have the time other days.

The time a girl feels she can really trust a man not to kiss her is before her father, and that's why she never lets him stay around.

Lots of people who pray for a thing they want tire themselves all out that way, so they can't help it along with a little work.

A Lawyer's Administration.

Philadelphia Press: The habits of thought, the cautious spirit, the logical mind, and that deference for well-established precedent which mark the successful judge are ingrained in the president-elect's nature and would assuredly characterize his administration even if he stood alone. With five of the greatest lawyers of the country holding up his hands and excuting the government's policies, we may look for an administration that will avoid legal pitfalls, that will enforce the law, so far as it is enforceable, and obtain results that will stand firm after the severest judicial scrutiny.

Why They Favor It.

Ohio State Journal: Some Congressmen never would have realized how strongly they favor the sea-level type if the president hadn't made it perfectly clear that he prefers the other variety.

NEW PEDDLERS' ORDINANCE

Council Would Replace Law Declared Invalid By Courts.

Alderman Trevillion, at the council meeting last night, submitted for its first reading, a new peddlers' ordinance.

Last week the ordinance governing peddlers in Duluth was declared invalid in police court, because of exorbitant license fees charged, and the new ordinance proposed by Alderman Trevillion is to replace the old, with smaller fees.

City Engineer McGilvray submitted a profile of a proposed new road over the hill, to connect with the Hermantown road. He made a preliminary survey in accordance with instructions given him by the council, a short time ago.

Mr. McGilvray says the worst grade on the new road will be 11 per cent, and that will be for a distance of only 300 feet. The survey runs from the Miller creek bridge at Twenty-fourth avenue west, to a junction with the Hermantown road, over the hill.

DR. HENRY JONES, VETERAN MILITARY SURGEON, DIES.

Oakland, Cal., March 9.—Dr. Henry Isaac Jones, a veteran surgeon of the Confederate and British services, is dead in his home in this city, where he has practiced for years. He died from a complaint which he contracted while he was with the British army in India. Dr. Jones was a native of Wales, and received his medical education in Glasgow. Shortly after he received his degree, he accepted the position of assistant surgeon on the Confederate cruiser Florida, and later he was transferred to the Georgia. After the close of the Civil war, he entered the service of the British army. Afterwards he returned to the United States and practiced in Connecticut and Pennsylvania, until his removal to this coast, twenty years ago.

An Ideal Cough Medicine.

"An an ideal cough medicine I regard Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in a class by itself," says Dr. R. A. Wiltshire of Gwynneville, Ind. "I take great pleasure in testifying to the results of Chamberlain's Cough Medicine. In fact, I know of no other preparation that meets so fully the expectations of the most exacting in cases of croup and coughs of children. As it contains no opium, chloroform or morphine it certainly makes a most safe, pleasant and efficacious remedy for the ills it is intended." For sale by all druggists.

SOME CRACK SPELLERS.

Crystal Falls and Iron River Teams Are Up to Snuff.

Crystal Falls, Mich., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Participating in a spelling contest, neither one of the two teams representing the Crystal Falls and Iron River high schools missed a single one of the more than 700 words propounded by the umpire, Prof. Darling of Florence, Wis.

The match was declared a tie, and on Friday evening the teams will again strive for the honors. The winner of the contest will meet the high school team of Florence, Wis., in an interstate match for the spelling championship of the Menominee iron range, claim to which title is laid by the Florence school as the outcome of a contest conducted last year.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The second biennial convention of the Young Women's Christian Associations of America will be held next month in Minnesota, St. Paul having been chosen as the place of the meeting of the convention. The opening session will be held Thursday afternoon, April 22, and will continue until Tuesday morning, April 27, 1909.

Interesting programs are being prepared for the five days of the session, and many prominent association workers and people prominent in the educational life of America, and in theological circles, will be present. Miss Mary E. Wooley, president of Mount Holyoke college, will present an address on the association movement. Prof. Walter Rauschenbusch of the Baptist Theological seminary of Rochester, N. Y., will be a speaker, with "The Social Teachings of Jesus" as his topic. Rev. Samuel M. Zwemer of the student volunteer movement, will talk on "Missions," and the president of DePauw university, the Rev. Francis J. McConnell, D.D., will speak on "The Church." The Rev. John Douglas Adam, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at East Orange, N. J., will give a series of three addresses on some spiritual theme.

The business of the convention will take up much time. The reports of the national board and the president's message, and the recommendations from the national board will be considered. Sectional meetings will be held, and Mrs. Thomas S. Gladding of the national board, and Miss Agnes Gale Hill of India will be among the the speakers.

One voting delegate may be sent to the convention for every 100 members. The delegates from the local association have not yet been named, but it is expected that Duluth will be well represented at the meeting.

DIES ABROAD.

Mrs. H. James of St. Paul Dies in Athens.

Many Duluthians will be shocked to hear of the death of Mrs. Howard James of St. Paul. Mrs. James' death occurred at Athens and her brother at St. Paul has received merely the announcement of her death. Mr. and Mrs. James were traveling in Europe with Mrs. James' father, Eben R. Ayers of St. Paul. Both Mr. and Mrs. James were known in Duluth, where they had often visited and the former lived here.

"KING LEAR."

Miss Sanford Presents Fine Lecture on Play.

The library club room was well filled last evening with the audience gathered to hear Prof. Maria Sanford of the faculty of the Minnesota university in a discussion of Shakespeare's great tragedy "King Lear."

During several years Miss Sanford has been heard in Duluth in discussion of the great dramatist's plays and to them she brings a lifetime of study and finest appreciation of their great art. Her reading of many scenes from the play last evening was given with fine spirit and power. Without the aid of any artifice she presented Lear with a sureness and beauty which the stage rarely achieves in this tragedy. The magnificent rage and passion of the man at the insults offered the king, his first doubts assailing him as to his own sanity, his passing into mental oblivion—"a grand ruin"—his broken hearted sorrow at the death of Cordelia and his death were thrillingly presented with a voice which realized every demand upon it, from the curses of kingly passion to the weakness of the old dying man.

"Lear," said Miss Sanford," is accepted as one of Shakespeare's four great plays, but to many is the most unsatisfactory. In its stage presentations it arouses our pity, perhaps, but leaves us untouched as to the admiration and sympathy which should be called forth at such tragedy. It lends itself better to study and it is by this closer study that we come to realize the vast intellect and art of the drama."

By her discussion Miss Sanford brought many of her audience to an admiration and sympathy with the play and its characters which it had not, perhaps, aroused before.

The lecture last even, under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club and to that organization Duluth is indebted for one of the finest lectures of the winter.

Social Afternoon.

Mrs. Z. D. Scott will be hostess tomorrow afternoon at a social for the members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Baptist church at her home, 2125 East First street. A musical and literary program will be given, and the women of the church are invited to attend.

Bible Class.

The Bible class of the Lake Avenue Bethel will meet tomorrow afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, with Mrs. Jensen of 1023 Minnesota avenue.

Philathea Club.

The Philathea club of the First Presbyterian church was entertained last evening by the Misses McGuire of 25 East Third street. An informal business meeting was followed by a social evening. The decorations throughout the rooms were the club colors, green and white, and thirty-five guests were entertained.

Stag Dinner.

Mrs. W. W. Butchart entertained at a stag dinner last evening in honor of her son, Allan Butchart, at their home 1532 East Third street. The guests were:

Messrs.—

Charles Crawley,	Roy Bridgeman,
Roy Murnian,	Robert Hensen,
Alton Palmer,	Albert Wheaton,
Allan Murray,	Raymond Crawley,
Milton Volner,	Mitchell Norsky,
Harley Ditzel,	E. Gustafson,
Norman McDonald,	Harry Tilton,
Ed Fisher.

Club Meetings.

The art history class of the Twentieth Century club will meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the club room of the library. Mrs. H. Dancer will read a paper on "Raphael." The election of officers of the class for next year will take place and the program of work will be discussed.

The German literature class of the Twentieth Century club met this afternoon at the club room of the library. The reading of Hauptmann's "The Sunken Bell" was begun.

The evening Shakespeare class of the Twentieth Century club will meet Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the club room of the library. The study of "Richard II" will be continued with L. A. LaVole as leader.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. W. L. Johnson of Missoula, Mont., who has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hubbell will leave tomorrow for a visit at St. Paul before her return to her home.

Miss Lucille Jacques of Superior is visiting friends in this city.

Mrs. Edward E. Martell of 719 West Second street, left Monday afternoon for Rochester, Minn., where she will undergo an operation at St. Mary's hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Windom of London Road will leave tomorrow for a visit with Senator Hawkins at his winter home at Tarpon Springs, Fla.

Mrs. J. W. Comstock of 1020 East Second street left yesterday for a week's visit at Chicago. She will be joined there by Mr. Comstock who has been at French Lick Springs, Ind.

Miss Ruth Wilcutts is visiting friends at Holyoke, Minn.

SPRING FASHIONS.

The Windows Bright With Season's Showing.

Hats that are harbingers of spring continue to appear in the shop windows. Felt has been very little worn all winter, and for the past month or so there has seen little but taffeta and net combined with coarse straw braid or crin. Big flowers of every variety are fashionable, and violets are used in abundance, but usually in combination with other blossoms.

Most of the new shapes are not particularly pretty, but they are extremely quaint, and when the hair is attractively and appropriately arranged, the effect is not bad. The Normandy caps are quite the most fetching of the new models, and when worn by girls with pretty young faces, they are much admired. The Normandy cap is worn slightly off the forehead, but as no bandeau lifts them they look rather flattened on the crown.

In the spring showing there seems to be no diminution of popularity in the line of jabots and other fluffy neckwear. It is said, and it is doubtless true, that the Dutch neck will remain the first favorite in the eyes of the summer girl, but when she is forced by stern necessity to wear the high collar with her tailored suit she will turn to the hand-embroidered and slightly tinted bow of linen, or she will wear a graceful arrangement of baby Irish lace.

Swinging stoles, or tabliers, richly embroidered or incrusted with beads and weighted with fringe, are a feature of new Paris frocks for ceremonious wear. They should hang straight from the bust or high girdle, and should be at least four inches wide at its narrowest part. The lower edge, near the foot, is rounded off in broad tab fashion and is weighted by fringe. The tablier is embroidered with soltache braid or coarse silks, and the Pharaoh, or Egyptian patterns, are most popular.

Wide net lace, having a fine fancy mesh of gun metal, with a rather narrow lace design in silver worn into the border, is shown with numerous variations and, of course narrower widths of the lace and band trimmings to match are supplied.

Shaded plumes are in high popularity, and the old-fashioned navy blue feather, flecked with red, yellow and a variety of other tints, also has a special claim to consideration.

TO FIX FISH.

Attractive Ways of Serving Lenten Standby.

Asa fish is called upon to play the leading roll in the dietary of most people at this season, suggestions for varying its service may be timely and welcomed, says Emma Paddock Telford.

If one is observing Lent in spirit as well as in letter, he may feel called upon to eschew the extravagant fish dinners, where terrapin, pompano, green turtle soup with entrees of oysters, crab or caviars furnish quite as luxurious living, as anything else he could devise. These, however, are not for the most of us, who find ourselves quite content with the humbler cod, haddock, herrings and their near kin.

Finnan haddie is simply our old friend haddock in his Scottish dress, the smoke from a peat fire. Not that the smoke is always peat, however, nor the fish always haddie, for in New York, at least, a large proportion of the chefs and maretmen substitute plain cod for haddock while it still retains its more illustrious name.

Connoisseurs in haddie say to wash the fish thoroughly, but not soak it. Wipe dry and broil over a clear fire or under the gas flame. Place on a hot platter and dress with a quarter cupful each, melted butter and hot cream and keep in the oven until ready to serve. Others prefer their broiled haddie served with sauce tartare. In this event it is spread with lemon juice and butter or olive oil before broiling, then mashed with sauce tartare, made by seasoning mayonnaise with chopped pickles and minced red and green peppers. Still others like their finnan haddie baked in equal parts milk and water for twenty minutes, then drained and spread with butter, while others think that no way is so good after all as the haddie parboiled for fifteen minutes in hot water, then flaked and served au gratin with equal quantities of white sauce or individual ramekins, cover with the sauce, top with buttered crumbs and brown in a quick oven.

Codfish croquettes are simply codfish balls egged, crumbled and fried in deep, hot fat. At a popular hotel restaurant they are served with slices of crisped bacon, which supplies the richness codfish lacks.

BLOSSOMING TWIGS

Make Spring Indoors Before the Calendar.

The quickest way to kill old winter and hurry the coming of spring is to bring to the window sill short branches of fruit trees and early blooming shrubs. Don't have a big mixture in a big vase: It will only be a clutter. Have one jar of one kind of flower in one window sill, another in another, three altogether may be enough for the first trial, says Country Life.

In this way you can have a good look at elm and maple flowers, which most people never see at close range. It is pleasant to watch catkins of alder, aspen, birch, and poplar elongate and shed their golden pollen. Peach and forsythia are about the showiest blossoms that can be easily raised in a vase of water. Don't try bigger flowers until you have had experience; it takes more time and skill to force dogwood, lilac, magnolia, azalea and rhododendron.

Leaf effects are the easiest of all to get. Among the prettiest are horse chessnut, beech and popular.

If you want flowering effects, choose flower buds, as many plants have separate buds for leaves and flowers. You can soon tell the difference. Leaf buds are long and pointed; flower buds short and fat.

Cut all twigs with a clean, slanting cut. Keep receptacles perfectly clean and sweet. Change the water every other day. Put a little charcoal in each jar. Once a week cleanse the twigs of dust by dipping them bodily in cool water.

A Skin of Beauty is a Joy Forever.

DR. T. FELIX GOURAUD'S Oriental Cream or Magical Beautifier.

Removes Tan, Pimples, Freckles, Moth Patches, Rash and Skin Diseases, and every blemish on beauty, and defies detection. It has stood the test of 60 years, and is so harmless we taste it to be sure it is properly made. Accept no counterfeit of similar name. Dr. L. A. Sayre said to a lady of the haut ton (a patient): "As you ladies will use them, I recommend 'GOURAUD'S CREAM' as the least harmful of all the skin preparations." ON DRESSING.

Cheap Things in End Most Expensive.

I would like to speak on the subject of "tacky" dressing. It is usually the woman of small means who fails in this way, while she who can afford all the rosettes, laces and fancy sashes in the world dresses in the simplest manner possible, says a writer in the Washington Star.

"Oh, but simplicity of that sort is expensive!" I hear some one exclaim. It is? Well, let us see.

I have two friends. One, Mrs. A, has a couple of new dresses a year. These are made in the best shops. The material is excellent in quality and the style conservative. The other woman, Mrs. B, has half a dozen or more flimsy frocks made in the style usually affected by cheap dressmakers and ready-made shops. Her dresses, it is true, come to less than Mrs. A pays for her two, but what is the result? Mrs. A can wear her gowns for two or three years, often longer, because the cut and fit are irreproachable and the materials well chosen. Mrs. B, is perpetually ripping and making over her things, and as the flimsy materials can't stand that sort of treatment, she looks shabby all the time.

Mrs. A's gowns are very plain. There are no cheap net gulmpes to break and soil, no sashes or tulle jabots that grow mussy and have to be replaced. She depends entirely on the good cut and good fit of the dress to give her style.

My friends, if you haven't much money give up all idea of having dress accessories. Shun the ribbon and the fancy belt counters as you would the plague—no cloth top shoes for you, no chiffon veils, no cheap satin jumper effects, no lace berthas. These things all cost a lot of money, and they make a woman look like a fancy pincushion, all odds and ends and little bows that stick out all over her, meaning nothing.

When you have a dress made, try to see how much trimming you can take off, instead of how much you can add.

It is the cheap dressmaker who costs the most in the end. She wants a lot of lace and ribbon to cover the indifferent seams that she makes. If you take my advice you will go to a more expensive modiste, whose method of fitting is absolutely correct and who takes pride in revealing lines rather than in concealing them.

THE SEASON'S BAGS

Are of All Dyes, Skins and Sizes.

Grandmothers of reticule days would open their eyes could they see this season's offerings in bags. Such colors! No frock need go unmatched, so fascinating are the dyes of the new English morocco, suede, and beaver skins.

A large yearly allowance could be spent in handbags. They are to be found for all occasions, in all styles and sizes. The woman who loses things can have a bag of the carpet-bag variety whose handle can be anchored over her wrist, or of the pocketbook type, with a strap to slip over the back of the hand. Both are smart.

The woman who cannot exist without her powder puff, her hairpins, and toilet paraphernalia, can find them compactly placed in small bags not more than six or seven inches space. Should she want to go shopping these compartment bags come in black leather, brown alligator, dark green, red or blue leather.

To insure beautification at the theater, her accouterments are incased in wonderful, ornate bags of brocaded suede, gold or silver mounted. Often gold or silver thread is used to embroider conventional motifs on the leather. This raised tinsel work is considered much smarter than the beaded motifs of other seasons.

In the Nursery.

In arranging the nursery it should be borne in mind that this room of all others should have an eastern or a southern exposure, where the little newcomer, who is always an early riser, up and dressed long before other members of the family, can be a privileged character and enjoy the morning sunshine, both of which make for health and happiness.

The furnishing may be artistic and yet suggest simplicity.

White woodwork throughout with an enamel finish wears well, though the dull is more pleasing to the eye, is the best to choose. With this finish use a "sketch scenery" nursery paper in delft blue and white.

The furniture should be painted white to match the wood work, and the small bureau, the chest of drawers having glass knobs, as well as the chairs and tables, bascinet and baby basket of wicker should be in pure, clean white.

To Clean Silver.

Cleaning the entire stock of family silver has lost its terror since it has been discovered that it may be accomplished in a comparatively short time by the use of soda. Place over the fire a clean tin dishpan half full of water; when it has reached the boiling point throw in a handful of ordinary washing soda; put in all of the silver, boil ten minutes to loosen the tarnish, remove it and wash in hot, soapy water. Some of it may require a hasty scrub with moistened silver polish, and all of it will need the dry polish rubbed on with a flannel cloth.

While this method may be safely employed for silver, it is a dubious process for plated and oxidized ware, since the very purpose of it is the loosening of the surface coating, be it dirt or plate. Sterling silver is not injured by it.

To give silver the antique or satiny surface which is again in vogue, rub it with old-fashioned bar sand. Ground corundum is not bar sand, although it often passes as such, and is to be avoided, having a sharpness that may be detected under a microscope, and which is much too rough for silver.

BIJOU—New vaudeville bill. (Notice below.)

"THE VIRGINIAN."

Western Play Has Not Deteriorated Since Farnum Left Company.

It is not an easy matter, no matter how capable he is, for an actor to follow a successful actor in a successful role and not suffer from odious comparisons, so W. S. Hart had no easy time playing "The Virginian" to a representative Duluth audience at the Lyceum last evening, for Dustin Farnum, the originator of Owen Wister's hero on the stage, has a large and faithful following in this city.

That notwithstanding the handicap aforesaid, Mr. Hart succeeded in creating an exceedingly favorable impression and did not cause a critical audience to reflect that "Oh, he's not as good as Farnum," proved without a shadow of a doubt his right to the role of "The Virginian" and his worth as an actor.

Often times when a well known star casts aside a successful vehicle that is becoming a bit frayed by time, the piece falls into incapable and less expensive hands, but "The Virginian" has suffered no such fate, for the first quality of the production has been preserved in every detail—for which the Kirke-La Shelle company deserves a vote of thanks from theater-goers.

The stirring picture of the West in the '80s—a growing somewhat primitive West is still presented with the vigor which characterized it the first season, and last evening's audience followed now with bated breath and now with smiles, the fortunes of the Virginian, his sweetheart transplanted from effete Vermont to rugged Wyoming, and all the homely characters of Bear Creek. Many members of the cast have been in the company during most of its preceeding visits, the costumes are still faithful to the locality and the period, and the scenery is remarkably well-preserved. Perhaps it is new altogether.

Something has already been said about Mr. Hart's art and his claim to the western role. He comes honestly by both. They say he used to be a real cow-puncher, and he made a name for himself as Cash Hawkins, a Western man, in William Faversham's original production of "The Squaw Man." Matinee girls may bemoan the fact that his hair has not the proportions, or the raven gloss of the crop that adorns the head of Mr. Farnum, but it can be conscientiously claimed that that is the only particular in which Mr. Hart fails to equal his predecessor's performance.

Another good reason why "The Virginian" has charms to please Duluth theater-goers is that Frank Campeau still plays Trampas, the role he has had ever since the play was staged. No one else has ever played it, and Mr. Campeau's remarkable portrayal makes it seem exceedingly improbable that any other actor could effectually supplant him. The shifty movements, the nervous stealth, the harsh laugh of the villain, Trampas, as played by Mr. Campeau, will always make up one of the strongest characterizations the American stage has brought forth in recent years.

Bennet Musson is still playing Steve, the Virginian's plucky friend, who "goes wrong," but when caught with a comrade, and about to be hanged as a cattle-thief, calmly comments on the local news of the community, and urges his cowardly pal to "brace up, take your medicine gracefully." Next to the Virginian and Trampas, Steve is the strongest part in the play, and in Mr. Musson's hands nothing is lost.

Frank Vail is an amusing Honey Wiggin, Uncle Hewis is still played by Harry Holliday, J. R. Furlong is a convincing Judge Henry, and all the rest of the male roles are intelligently played, many of them by the originals.

Mabel Wright is a winsome Molly Wood, and in the only scene where she is called upon to do much acting, when she beseeches her lover not to kill Trampas, she displays intelligence and talent. Marie Dante is Mrs. Henry, and Eleanor Wilton is Mrs. Hewis.

There are others in the company, which is a big one, and they all fit well into the familiar pictures.

AT THE BIJOU.

First Night Audiences Enthusiastic Over This Week's Bill.

Judging from the appreciation given by the "first nighters," the bill at the Bijou this week will be a source of wholesome entertainment to the patrons of the popular playhouse. Every act was greeted with more than usual applause yesterday afternoon, and all of it was merited, as the bill is an exceptionally good one.

Once more a sketch is the top liner. Miss Nita Allen and her company put on a comedy sketch, "In Car Two, Stateroom One." Funny situations and complications keep the audience in an uproar of laughter. Miss Allen, riding on the pass of a director's wife, is put in the same stateroom with Frank Erwin, riding on the director's pass. The comedy is wound around the explanations and the efforts to get out of the difficult situations. The setting is true in detail, the entire car being shown as well as the stateroom that is the scene of the trouble. W. J. Wilton acts the part of the conductor, and Harry Wilson appears as the porter.

Harry Le Claire does an entertaining series of burlesques and impersonations of famous actors and actresses. Mlle. Madje, "the queen of equipoise," does a hand-walking and dancing act.

Hasse and Mariette are novelty whirlwind dancers with some new steps and much grace. Ed Barto has a stock of sleight of hand, with a strong side of talk. Isadore Silver sings "Minnie Ha Ha Donahue," and the moving pictures wind up a splendid bill.

How can any person risk taking some unknown cough remedy when Foley's Honey and Tar costs them no more? It is a safe remedy, contains no harmful drugs, and cures the most obstinate coughs and colds. Why experiment with your health? Insist upon having the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar. Sold by all druggists.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

PLAN TO CONSOLIDATE TWO CLUBS IS CARRIED

Boat and Yacht Clubs Decide to Join Hands.

Yacht Club Buildings Now Being Moved to Oatka.

COMMODORE JOHNSON
Of the Duluth Yacht Club, Now a Part of the Boat Club.

Instead of having two water clubs, Duluth will now be the home of one mammoth club, the result of the consolidation of the boat and yacht clubs.

The matter of joining forces with the boat club was thoroughly gone over by the members of the yacht club at a meeting held last night at the Y. M. C. A. At the close it was decided that they should accept the boat club's proposition and H. R. Spencer proposed that the directors of the boat club be asked to change the name of the organization from the boat club to the Duluth Boat and Yacht club.

About 125 members of the yacht club attended the meeting at which Commodore Johnson presided. He explained the plan and talked in favor of it. All the members present fell heartily in with the plan, and the audience grew enthusiastic as the plans were enlarged upon, and the details explained.

Julius H. Barnes, president of the boat club, spoke briefly explaining the advantages that would come to both organizations as a result of the consolidation and promised that sailing interests would not be neglected. Others who spoke were Leon E. Lunn, L. B. Knox, E. F. Baker, O. L. Mather, Elmer White, A. H. Kreiger and H. H. Borgan.

Just before the adjournment a resolution was passed thanking Commodore Johnson for his work in the interests of the club for the past seven years, and three rousing cheers were given him with a will. Mr. Johnson will retire from office this year, as he feels that he has not time to devote to an office and give it the time it deserves.

A joint meeting of the board of directors of both clubs was held shortly after the yacht club meeting adjourned. The deeds were signed and other plans talked over.

So that the building may be moved with the least expense, work was begun this morning, the buildings being taken down on the ice. The dancing hall will be moved to the site of the branch boat club, at the end of the car line on Park Point, and the main clubhouse of the yacht club will also be moved to that place.

The launch houses will be moved to the site of the main buildings of the boat club and moorings, and additional launch houses built.

The Duluth Yacht club was organized in 1888. It was incorporated in 1905. Since 1903 nearly $40,000 has been invested in equipment. The club had a membership of 400. The boat club was organized about the same time and its membership is over 800. The membership limit of the two clubs will probably be set at 1,200. The boat club takes over the life members of the yacht club and its indebtedness.

Members of both clubs are delighted at consolidation and ever since the announcement first came out in The Herald, the plan has been enthusiastically talked of. The joining of the two clubs means that the members will get just twice the advantages that they enjoyed when the clubs were separate bodies. There will be both sailing and rowing, and all other water sports. The yacht club always made a specialty of sailing and the boat club encouraged rowing.

There will now be much more material from which to pick the crews and this in itself is a great advantage. On windy days sailing will be the thing, and on calm days it will rowing. No matter what the weather, there will always be some sport that will fit the occasion.

Both sailing and rowing regattas will be featured during the summer and with the additional sports the Saturday afternoon programs which proved so enjoyable, will be made all the more so, by having a greater variety of sports with which to frame up a program.

MAROONS BEGIN FOOTBALL WORK

Coach Stagg Calls Out Candidates for Spring Practice.

Chicago, March 9.—Spring football was ushered in at Marshall field yesterday. The maroon gridiron aspirants in charge of Assistant Coach Walter Steffen, begin their early work with a good turnout and the prospects of the largest squad the midway ever turned out for this purpose, Steffen announced yesterday that the candidates would get a stiff workout in the initial session.

The squad will consist mostly of new varsity material, the freshmen making up most of the bunch. The majority of the varsity football men will be occupied in basketball and track this week, and Steffen expects to have mostly first-year candidates as a result.

Capt. Page of the 1909 eleven will be busy with the basketball practice for the rest of this week, and will not have a chance to help Steffen out, while Crowley, Kelley and the other varsity players now in school will be kept hard at work with the track athletes in preparation for the A. A. U. track championships to be held at Bartlett gymnasium April 20.

NO MORE SUNDAY BALL IN ST. PAUL

Manager Kelley Transfers Sabbath Engagements to Other Cities.

St. Paul, Minn., March 9.—Manager M. J. Kelley of the St. Paul Baseball club, has announced that there will be no Sunday games played in St. Paul this season, at least not until after July, and probably not at all. Failure to get permission from the city council to build a new park, which would necessitate the closing of a street, and failure to reach an agreement with the owner of Lexington park, the only present available place in the city to play Sunday games, are the reasons given. Manager Kelley announces that he has already made arrangements to transfer the games scheduled here for Sundays to the other cities in the association. Manager Kelley states positively that the teams will not play at Lexington park this summer, and if a new park should be built, which now seems improbable, it would not be possible to play games in its until after July.

Releases: By Boston to Pittsburg National league, Mike Simon; by Brooklyn, unconditionally, A. J. Farmer; by New York to Rochester, Eastern league, E. C. McDonald, and by St. Louis to Memphis Southern league, William Ludwig.

BOWLERS HAVE VERY BUSY DAY

"Detroit Night" Is Celebrated at the Big Bowling Congress.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 9.—The session last night of the ninth international tournament of the American bowling congress was in honor of bowlers from Detroit, Mich. But while it was "Detroit night," teams also from Maryland, Tennessee, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Wisconsin, New York and Canada participated.

Throughout the day and until late last night play was in progress, resulting in the day being the heaviest for matches since the opening of the tournament. The second week of the big event was inaugurated, and while no national records were broken, a number of high scores were made. Ward of Chicago rolled 627 in the individual events, making the highest mark in this class on the tournament alleys.

The breaking of the world's record for five-men teams by the Lipmans of Chicago Saturday night served to bring a large crowd of spectators to the Duquesne garden last night.

The ten highest scores in all events of the bowling tournament yesterday follow:

Two-Men Teams—McQuown-Hengan, Braddock, Pa., 1,179; Daly-McCormick, Toledo, 1,161; F. Schindhutte-Frankenberry, McKees Rocks, 1,159; Swift-MacPherson, Pittsburg, Pa., 1,140; Hutter-Murray, Washington, Pa., 1,132; Orth-Schumacher, Pittsburg, Pa., 1,131; Lipman-Simons, Chicago, 1,120; Kalchthaler-Bauer, Pittsburg, 1,120; Wolfe-Ward, Chicago, 1,107; Rouse-Cook, Toledo, 10,96.

Individual—Dan Ward Chicago, 627; L. Ebner, Pittsburg, 615; H. G. Littlener, Pittsburg, 601; Joe Locks, Braddock, Pa., 597; Martin, Pittsburg, 593; Harry Walker, Chicago, 585; C. W. Catley, Pittsburg, 596; Schumacker, Pittsburg, 592; McCormick, Toledo, 586; Ludwig, Toledo, 585.

CHRISTY JOINS NEW YORK TEAM

Giants' Great Pitcher Finishes Coaching Work at Harvard.

Boston, Mass., March 9.—Christy Mathewson finished up his work with the Harvard baseball squad yesterday and took the train for Marlin, Tex., where he will join the Giants in their spring training stunts. Mathewson is late in joining the team, but he says he is in about twice the shape he would have been had he gone along.

"Let me tell you that this coaching of a bunch of husky college men is what gets a man in shape like nothing else will. Say, they have had me jumping all around a 10-acre lot trying to teach them the game. I've been pitching, catching, batting and running bases until right now. I'm in shape to go in and pitch a full game."

Mathewson has been taking great care of himself since he took charge of the Harvard squad three weeks ago, and he says that he believes that he will pitch the best baseball of his life this year.

GEORGE KRICK, DULUTH PITCHER, SIGNS WITH THE NEW BEDFORD CLUB OF THE NEW ENGLAND LEAGUE

George W. Krick, known to many of his Duluth friends as "Josie," has signed up for the coming season with New Bedford, Mass., in the New England league, a class B organization. Krick received word yesterday that his terms had been accepted and he will leave Friday for the East. He will report to the management of the New Bedford team April 4.

Krick has always been a favorite with the fans and players alike. He was with Sioux City for two years, going from that city to Burlington, where he played another two years. He then played with Elizabeth, N. J., and Macon, Ga. He was also with Grand Rapids, Mich., for a while. In 1906 Krick went to St. Paul for a tryout. In the few games that he was given a chance, he worked out well, but Dick Padden, who was managing the team at that time, had more twirlers than he could use, and it was a case of somebody having to go. Krick was let out. He came to Duluth and has worked in this part of the country since.

Krick was the man who introduced the spitball into the Northern league. He was one of the few pitchers in the league last year who could use the spitter with any degree of effect.

"Josie" is a college man, Knox college having sheltered him when he divided his attention between baseball, football and some study. He played upon the football and the baseball teams, and used to flirt with the track work a little bit. He played upon the same football team with big France, the chap who later went to Michigan and was placed upon the All-Western team.

Krick has made excellent terms with the New Bedford management. He is in excellent condition at the present time and his friends here hope that he will burn up the New England league. Krick intends coming back to Duluth at the close of the playing season.

FRENCHMAN TAKES THE LEAD

Louis Orphee Leading in Go-As-You-Please Race.

New York, March 9.—After having gamely struggled all the afternoon to catch P. J. Dineen and W. E. Prouty, the Boston team, in the six-day-go-as-you-please race at Madison Square Garden by a wonderful burst of speed, Louis Orphee of the French team took a lead of two laps over the Americans shortly after midnight last night.

All records for the twenty-four hours went by the board ten minutes before midnight when Dineen had covered 165 miles and one lap and exactly on the stroke of midnight, the French team equalled the figures set by Hegelman and Cavanaugh, when they made the record in 1902.

With several laps between them and the Frenchmen, Dineen plunged methodically along, but Orphee then began pressing him. Suddenly the Frenchman opened with a wonderful burst of speed and circled around and around the track amid the plaudits of the spectators, graduany creeping up on the American. Dineen pressed forward gamely, but the Frenchman would not be denied and at 12:20 he passed the Boston runner and then circled the track again and again until he had obtained an addition of two laps over his mark.

The score at 8 a. m. was as follows: Chbot and Orphe, 294 miles 8 laps; Dineen and Prouty, 199 miles 1 lap; Feegan and Curtis, 188 miles 2 laps; Spring and Adams, 187 miles 1 lap; Davis and Metkus, 186 miles 8 laps; Loeslein and Kluberianz, 177 miles 9 laps; Hegelman and Golden, 174 miles 3 laps; Corri and Coleman, 165 miles 6 laps; Guignard and Rovere, 164 miles; Shelton and Frazer, 164 miles; Blake and Kellar, 153 miles 1 lap; Someran and Wooledge, 148 miles 1 lap; Quackenbush and Edelson, 147 miles 4 laps; Hartly and Palanti, 146 miles 9 laps; Navez and O'Driscoll, 144 miles 9 laps.

NOT IN TRAINING PARTY.

Hans Wagner Has Not Yet Signed Up With Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 9.—A dozen members of the Pittsburg National league baseball team, in charge of Thomas Leach, left last night for their spring training quarters at West Baden, Ind. They will be joined by half a dozen other players on their arrival at West Baden. Hans Wagner is not in the party, not having signed yet for the coming season.

WOULD HANG BELLBOY.

New York Pitcher Was Going to String Up "Buttons."

Macon, Ga., March 9.—Following the theft of valuables from the room of George McConnell, a pitcher for the New York Americans, who is in practice here, McConnell and several of his companions secured a rope and threatened to string up a negro bellboy on whose person the stolen articles were found.

Detectives Smith and Harrison interfered and locked the negro up. McConnell is from Anderson, S. C.

Bill Prohibits Football.

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 9.—A bill prohibiting football at all state institutions passed the house of representatives yesterday, but it has small chance of passage in the senate.

"Phillies" in Training.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 9.—The Philadelphia baseball team of the American league left over the Pennsylvania railroad last night for New Orleans, the training quarters. There were twenty-one players in the party. Pitcher Krause and outfielder Heitmuller will go direct from California. and Outfielder Jackson and Infielder Barr will join the team at New Orleans.

Pitchers Dygart, Coombs, Schlitzer and Stowers are already on the grounds.

"Jim" Stewart Defeated.

New York, March 9.—Jack (Twin) Sullivan last night defeated "Jim" Stewart, the Brooklyn heavy weight, in a fast ten-round bout at the Marathon Athletic club in Brooklyn. Sullivan forced the battle from the start, and with the exception of two rounds, had the better of his opponent throughout.

Rules Committee to Meet.

Chicago, March 9.—The intercollegiate football rules committee will meet at the Murry Hill hotel in New York, March 25 and 26, acording to word received by Coach A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago last night. Only minor changes in the present rules are expected to be made.

Auto Driver Dead.

Paris, March 9.—Leon Thery, the automobilist who won the Gordon Bennett cup in the International automobile race over the Auvergne course, France, in July 1905, died yesterday.

Burns Getting Weak.

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 9.—Farmer Burns of Iowa failed to throw Mike Yokel of Salt Lake City after an hour of wrestling last night and the match was awarded to Yokel. Burns undertook to throw the Salt Lake City man twice in one hour. Yokel is in the welterweight class.

Wrestling in St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., March 9.—Theodore Peters took two straight falls from Dan McLeod of Waterloo, Iowa, in a wrestling match here last night, the time being 5 and 17½ minutes respectively.

"Chick" Fraser Signs Up.

Chicago, March 9.—"Chick" Fraser of the pitching staff of the Chicago National League team, whose desire for a higher salary has kept him in Chicago, instead of with his teammates in Arkansas, signed his 1909 contract yesterday. Whether the requested salary raise was preliminary thereto is not stated.

IS A HOME AFFAIR.

A. O. U. W. of North Dakota Keeps Money in State.

Bismarck, N. D. March 8.—(Special to he Herald.)—The Ancient Order of United Workmen of North Dakota has made its annual report to the insurance commissioner of the state, showing:

Total amount of collections during 1908, $208,609.51; death claims paid, 47, amounting to $90,357.40; amount of new business written during 1908, $677,000; assets at close of 1908, $309,-264.46. Only one death claim amounting to $1,000 was unpaid at the close of the year, and this for the reason that no beneficiary can be found to whom the payment can be made.

This order is the only fraternal beneficiary society doing busines in this state (except its auxiliary, the Degree of Honor) which is incorporated under the laws of North Dakota. It makes its collections from the people of North Dakota alone, and disburses its funds to the beneficiaries of North Dakota members only.

BILLS ARE AIMED AT IMMORAL THEATERS.

Albany, N. Y., March 9.—Two bills aimed at immoral theatricals and posters are introduced by Assemblyman Murphy of New York. The bills will make guilty of misdemeanor every person who in any capacity advertises or participates in any indecent play or entertainment, every owner, lessee or manager of any place who owns or permits it to be used for such an exhibition and every person who prepares or posts in any public place posters tending to demoralize the public morals or calculated to shock the sense of decency or propriety.

ON THE IRON RANGES

JOHNSON'S DEATH VERY MYSTERIOUS

Trying to Learn Whether He Died From Violence or Accident.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Did John Johnson die from violence sustained at the hands of Emil Danielson and William Brown in Chris Johnson's saloon at Deer River last Christmas day, or was death the result of natural causes?

This is the question that County Attorney C. L. Pratt of Itasca county is trying to answer by a preliminary hearing being held before Magistrate Charles Kearney in which Danielson and Brown are ostensibly charged with murder in the third degree.

The case is one of the queerest ever presented in this section, and the outcome is naturally being watched with interest. Considerable testimony was offered yesterday and the hearing was resumed today with a possibility of a conclusion being reached late in the day.

The attorneys for the defense claim Johnson's death was the result of heart failure due to drink and undue excitement and are hopeful of clearing their clients of the serious charge over them. Danielson, Brown and the deceased, Johnson, had been drinking freely Christmas day and during the evening, the tragedy occurred,

According to the evidence at the hearing, Danielson started after Johnson for the purpose of taking a pair of brass knuckles from him. Johnson ran into a restaurant in the rear of the saloon, being followed by Danielson and Brown.

Johnson continued his flight and ran into a washroom in the restaurant, which occupied a space leading to the second story of the building, it being claimed that the space alloted the washroom was in a dark corner of the first floor. Immediately after Johnson entered the washroom a sound was heard as of a body falling to the floor. Danielson and Brown followed Johnson into the washroom.

The first witness to arrive in the washroom found Johnson stretched on the floor, breathing hard, and unable to arise. He was taken into the restaurant, where he expired in a few moments.

An autopsy was performed on the body of Johnson by Dr. Russell of Grand Rapids, assisted by Doctors Fairall and Hanley of Deer River, the attorneys for the state and the defense being present.

The surgeons were unable to find any cause for the sudden death of Johnson from violence. There were no fractures, the organs of the body were all normal and the deceased was pronounced in perfect health. The surgeons were apparently at a loss to account for the death of Johnson, which was so sudden.

It is stated that all three men, including the deceased, Johnson, had been drinking considerably and were more or less under the influence of liquor.

PUT CHECK ON PEDDLERS.

Ely Council Requires Transients to Apply for Privilege.

Ely, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Before plying their trade in this city, transient peddlers must first apply to the city council for such privilege, according to regulations now in force. The regulations provide that peddlers must proceed in the following manner:

The application must be accompanied by a fee of $25 per week for such privilege. The ordinance goes into effect at once, and is the result of the agitation of the Business Men's association for better protection against this nontaxpaying class of merchants.

Polling places and judges for the election on April 6 were named as follows:

First ward—City hall; judges, John Cowling, Henry Chinn and George L. Brozich.

Second ward—Finnish temperance hall; judges, James Sheridan, Olaf Knutson and Herman Perttula.

Third ward—Kochevar building; judges, John Dinsmore, James Conan and M. Harris.

CRAZY OVER RELIGION.

Itasca County Farmer Has to be Committed to State Asylum.

Grand Rapids Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Possessed of religious mania, Mike Bergman, a farmer living six miles north of Deer River, was examined here yesterday before Probate Judge H. S. Hudson and ordered committed to the state asylum at Fergus Falls.

Bergman, who is about 50 years old, lived with his family on their farm, first showed violent symptoms of his mental malady last Friday, when he visited the home of John Nyberg a brother-in-law, and startled the latter by stating the Lord had told him that there were only two religions, Lutheran and Baptist. He had Nyberg's baby in his arms at the time and said that two babies must be sacrified, one for the Lutherans and one for the Baptists. Nyberg got his child away from Bergman and notified the authorities.

FIGHT ON RECORDER.

Otherwise Grand Rapids Election Appears to be Lifeless.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Interest in today's village election seems to center around the race between H. E. Grafam and W. C Yancy for village recorder.

Beyond the contest between these two, there appears to be little interest shown.

TIME IS EXTENDED ON SOME SEWER CONTRACTS.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night extended the time on the sewer contracts of Haugstein & Johnson on Cedar street to June 15.

The committee on streets and alleys was instructed to have the surplus of rocks on Third avenue removed to where most needed.

At the meeting of the council on March 22 it is expected that the grading and macadamizing of Fourth avenue will be considered.

NEW FIRE ENGINE IS TESTED AGAIN

Virginia's New Steamer is an Up-to-Date Apparatus.

Virginia, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new steam fire engine, the "Elmquist," was given another test yesterday afternoon, and it again made good. Three lines of hose, of 550 feet each, were stretched, or, scientifically speaking, simsed to a 2-inch Eastman nozzel. The nozzel pressure averaged from seventy to eighty pounds. The steam pressure was 130 to 140 pounds, and pump pressure, 180 to 200 pounds.

Another test was then made with three lines to a No. 8 Eastman, and 1,000 feet of 2½-inch hose, with one and one-fourth-inch Eastmen nozzel. The nozzel pressure was sixty pounds, pump pressure 300 pounds, and steam at 140 pounds. The engine was placed on the bank of the lake, and was given a thorough test, pumping 1,200 gallons of water per minute.

Fire Chief A. F. Thayer acted as engineer, and showed his skill in this line, it being the first time he has handled an engine in about eleven years.

HIBBING ELECTION LIVELY.

Fight Over Recorder and Township Treasurer is Absorbing.

Hibbing, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The polls opened at 9 a. m. today for the village and township elections, and interest appears to be pretty keen in the outcome of both. Barring Dr. H. R. Weirick, who has no opposition for re-election, as president, there are candidates galore for trusteeships and most of the other offices.

The race between Miles Gandsey and A. H. Kieffman, for recorder, will be a hot one right up to the time for closing the polls. Probably next in interest is the race between O. J. Tucker and B. J. Somers, for treasurer of Stuntz township.

There are seven candidates for village trustees: Max Rogalsky, Frank Ansley, G. N. Butchart, Peter McHardy, P. M. Bardessono, Thomas Roddy and W. C. Barrett. Ansley and Bardessono appear on two different tickets. The race between Mike Farrel and Harry Olson, the caucus nominee for overseer of highways, is also a lively one, the first-named having the support of the mining employes.

CURLERS HAVE SPORT.

Members of Virginia Club Continue to Enjoy Games.

Saturday night—Quinn, Elliott, Bellman, Lenont, 9; Sigel, Eaton, McNeil, Miller, 10; Osterberg, Johnson, Cowen, Stebbins, 12; Gill, Watt, Murphy, Deering, 8.

Monday night—Bond, Johnson, K. McDonald, D. B. McDonald, 9; Bellman, Tredgway, Moore, Stevens, 5; Murphy, Roberts, Simons, Gill, 11; Peterson, Sigel, Eaton, Pollock, 13.

RECORDER AND ASSESSOR.

Contests Over Those Offices Features in Chisholm Election.

Chisholm, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village election today seems to center around the contest over the offices of recorder and assessor. Alex Koivanen is the candidate for the recorder on the Citizens' ticket, R. S. O'Nell is the Peoples' candidate and A. J. Abbey is an independent.

For assessor, B. Blough is the candidate on the Peoples' ticket, Oscar Pohganen is the Citizens 'candidate and Joseph Stierna is an Independent candidate. O. G. Hakee, who was mention for supervisor, refused to become a candidate on any ticket.

When the candidates on the Citizens' ticket went to local livery stables yesterday to engage rigs for the election they found that their rivals on the Peoples' ticket had engaged every rig in the city two weeks ago and had to secure rigs outside of Chisholm.

VIRGINIA PREPARING TO ENTERTAIN COUNTY CLUB.

Virginia, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club is arranging for the reception and entertainment of the representatives of the St. Louis County Commercial club, early next month.

F. B. Myers of Biwabik, secretary of the county club, will issue invitations shortly, and it is expected that a full representation will be present at this meeting, as matters of vital importance to the whole county will be taken up.

BAILEY LUMBER COMPANY PREPARING FOR OPERATIONS

Virginia, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The W. T. Bailey Lumber company is making some repairs and improvements about its mill here, preparatory to starting up within a short time. The company has several hundred thousand feet of logs piled up in the yards and pond and more are coming in from the camps daily. The company expects to operate its plant steadily during the entire season when it once begins to run.

EVELETH SCHOOLS ARE LIBERALLY PATRONIZED.

Eveleth, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The schools are quite full, the attendance at the beginning of the second semester being the largest on record, despite the fact that there is no regular high school building, and all the teachers are working under handicap of lack of rooms. The examinations for the first term are all over and the pupils are in the final stretch of the school year.

Eveleth Charter Commission.

Eveleth, Minn., March 9—(Special to The Herald.)—The charter commission will meet Thursday night at the city hall, when the committee composed of P. E. Dowling, James Robb and Mayor Smith delegated to outline the work will report. The committees for the various lines of work will also be appointed.

HAVE GRADING NEARLY ENDED

Work on Sorting Yards at Two Harbors Progressing Nicely.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jones Brothers, the Cincinnati contractors who have been working a large force night and day during the winter grading for the new ore sorting yard for the Duluth & Iron Range here, yesterday laid off their night crew as they are nearing completion of the job. After they are through there will be several weeks' work laying the tracks and ballasting same before the yard will be ready for use.

The Duluth & Iron Range bridge gang Saturday completed work on the concrete piers from the bridge over the Cloquet bridge at Brimson, where the present bridge is to be replaced with a steel one, as soon as the tracks there are raised about eighteen inches which is to be done the coming summer. They are also putting in concrete abutments for a steel bridge to replace the present wooden structure over the St. Louis river near Skibo.

CIVIC LEAGUE IS MAKING PROGRESS

Meeting of Eveleth Organization Shows Something of Its Work.

Eveleth, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the Civic league meeting last night the chairman of the finance committee reported that he had written to all the local temperance societies and that most of them promised to add the league with donations of $25, or more.

Rev. Mr. Pickard of Hibbing wrote about the organization of a league in that town and recommending the organization of a range civic organization. The local league is in favor of this, but as Virginia has no league at present, the matter will have to rest a while.

At the next meeting officers will be elected. A banquet and entertainment will probably be given to celebrate the anniversary of the organization.

The meeting was very appreciative of the work done by the Adams location people in having the house being built for questionable purposes moved, and the lumber has been hauled away.

THREE CANDIDATES

For Mayor to be Voted for at Two Harbors March 16.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following are the candidates to be voted for at the city election next Tuesday:

General caucus ticket: Mayor, Axel Essen; aldermen at large, G. S. Raper, F. E. Evans and A. O. Hulberg; ward aldermen, first, L. P. Christenson; second, J. W. Brownell; third, Joseph Engstrom; fourth, E. M. Owens; treasurer, Thomas Martin; assessor, August Tabor; justices of peace, W. B. Woodward and T. E. Phillips.

Socialist: Mayor, L. D. Rose; aldermen at large, Martin Peterson and Louis Anderson; first ward, William Roleff; third ward, C. E. Bergren; justice of peace, Alex Holliday. (No nominations for the other offices.

James Cantrell, who recently disposed of his meat market interests here to Emil Peterson, contemplates opening a meat market at Knife River in the near future. Emil Anderson, a local barber, also contemplates opening a barber shop there.

Examining All Pupils.

Eveleth, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. P. T. Brown, health inspector for the school district is making a complete examination of all the school children beginning with the kindergarten pupils.

Eveleth Night School Plans.

Eveleth, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. B. O. Greening, in charge of organizing a night school, has called a meeting of those interested for Wednesday night at the Fayal building.

THIRTY DEATHS RESULT OF FIERCE TORNADO

ported, although the extent of the damage in the surrounding country was not known.

L. M. Kimmell, a railroad operator at Brinkley, one of the first to reach a point of communication to summon aid for the devastated town, graphically describes the scenes immediately following the passing of the storm. Together with several companions, Kimmell was in the Rock Island depot when the storm struck. As if it were a toy, the substantial structure was twisted and broken, the occupants being caught among the falling timbers, bruised, but otherwise unhurt. Extricating themselves after half an hour's effort, they found the town in darkness, the street filled with a terror-stricken throng, their shrieks mingling with the moans of the injured. Intermittent flashes of lightning revealed wreckage everywhere, a portion of a building standing here, and again only a tangled mass of debris. As Kimmell and his companions made their way through the streets, they identified two of the dead and stumbled over others who were wounded.

As the party started to leave Brinkley, intending to walk to Wheatley, the nearest town, the added horror of fire appeared. When two miles from Brinkley, Kimmell and party were forced to retrace their steps, because of the gale. As they returned the fire had gained headway, and, fanned by the stiff wind, was spreading, but the prompt work of citizens suppressed the conflagration.

Boarding an engine, Kimmell and his companions, J. M. Wojanski, Richards, a lineman, and Conductor Gale, made a quick run to Wheatley, bringing the news of the storm and an appeal for aid.

Severe Snow In Iowa.

Des Moines, Iowa, March 9.—All Iowa awoke this morning to find one of the severest snow storms of the season in progress. Snow began falling in the central portion of the state shortly after midnight and it continues with severity. Luckily the wind is not strong, while the thermometer is above zero. Trains are being moved with some difficulty and street cars are running intermittently.

White Blanket For Kansas.

Topeka, Kan., March 9.—The heaviest snow storm of the year prevailed here today and was general over the state. Trains were from one to two hours late. The temperature was about freezing. The snow was wet and heavy, and in Topeka was sufficiently heavy to tie up street car traffic.

JUDGE WARNS THAT THE CASE AGAINST STANDARD MUST BE A STRONG ONE

Chicago, March 9.—The government attorneys in the retrial of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana have been told by Judge Anderson that unless they introduce further proof sustaining their contention that the oil company accepted a rebate from the Chicago & Alton road, they may as well cease their efforts to convict.

Judge Anderson, after considerable argument from both sides, admitted tentatively tariff No. 1203 of the Chicago & Alton, and tariff No. 4 of the Wiggins-Terry company. Before admitting the documents in this way, the court spoke of the "Fatal discrepancy" in parts of the indictment against the Standard Oil company.

"If the government can furnish no further proof," said he, "in support of its contentions than the tariff sheets already introduced, it may as well stop."

Judge Anderson argued with the defense in that no evidence had been adduced proving connection between the Chicago & Alton and the Terminal railway.

"In the event it is proven that a joint agreement existed between these two railroads, the indictment would stand," said the court at one point. "It might also be said that if it is shown that the two companies offered concessions."

Attorney James H. Wilkinson of the government insisted that his object in introducing the tariff sheets of these two roads was to show proof of publication, and the intent on their part of the defendant.

CONVICTED BANKERS FIND DISCREPANCIES IN PEN ACCOUNTS

Pittsburg, Pa., March 9.—Convicted bankers, now prisoners in the Western penitentiary here, have discovered an apparent discrepancy of more than $26,000 in the accounts of the penitentiary, and the amount may be found to be even larger. The board of visitors of the Western penitentiary some time since appointed Henry Reiber, formerly paying teller of the Farmers' Deposit National bank, now an inmate of the penitentiary, to audit the books of the institution. Finding an apparent discrepancy and being unwilling to assume all responsibility, Reiber secured the assistance of William Montgomery, former cashier of the Alleghany National bank, and J. B. F. Rhinehart, former cashier of the Farmers' & Drovers' National bank of Waynesburg, Pa., both convicts in the Western penitentiary, who are said to have agreed with him in his findings.

Reports of the alleged discrepancy was made to the board of visitors, who are awaiting the return of Warden William Johnson before making further investigation. It is said to be probable that the alleged discrepancy mays be accounted for by bad bookkeeping.

ROOSEVELT TO CARRY ALMOST A WHOLE DRUG STORE WITH HIM

New York, March 9.—Medicine enough for a regiment and surgical instruments enough to do the work of an ordinary hospital, will be carried by Theodore Roosevelt to Africa, all condensed so as to fill a suit case. There are 15,000 doses in the tabloids, nearly 40 per cent of them quinine. The other medicines are to ward off diseases most prevalent in equatorial Africa, chemicals to make swamp water pure and palatable, cures for snake bites, stimulants, opiates, knives and bandages.

The supplies packed in unbreakable and air-tight bottles of a vulcanite composition, fit into an aluminum case 15 by 10 by 8.

This outfit has been made for the Roosevelt expedition by an American firm whose principal offices are in London, though its plant is in New Jersey. The firm supplied Livingstone, Stanley, Emin Pasha, Peary, the Due D'Abruzzi and other explorers with medicine chests.

Maj. Edgar A. Mearns, United States army, retired, medical director of the Roosevelt expedition, dictated the selection of the medicines to be carried. Liquids find no place in the assortment nor in the outfit for developing photographs prepared for Kermit Roosevelt by the same firm and put up in equally condensed form.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY BARRED FROM MISSOURI

and, incidentally, for the minority interest of that concern, who claim to have been making unavailing efforts to free the company from control by the New Jersey corporation. With this object in view, they declined to approve the proposition made by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, that that company be allowed to continue business in the state under a trusteeship, composed of representatives of the court and the company.

This proposition would have given to the state a measure of direct control of corporation affairs, had it been adopted by the court. But it was ignored in the announcement by the chief justice which simply stated that the motion for a notification of the ouster decree had been over-ruled.

Must Pay Fines.

With the judgment of ouster made absolute against the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and the Republic Oil company, these concerns must now pay their fines of $50,000 each and cease business in the state.

The $50,000 assessed against the Waters-Pierce company has been paid. In connection with the certified check which the Missouri company filed with the clerk of the court there was presented a document "accepting" the court's original decree which carried a conditional permit to continue business. These provisions included one that the company must be reorganized so as to be free from the Standard Oil company's control. There was nothing in the document to show that this had been done and on this basis, the attorney moved that the ouster decree be made effective at once.

When informed of the court's action today, Attorney General Major said:

"The supreme court's decision simply means that the Waters-Pierce company will not be ousted from the state at this time. However, the original judgment of the court will stand against it, so that if it violates the court's decree, the state can renew its application for ouster."

HOUSE VOTES AGAINST ABOLITION OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT IN STATE

Good Cough Medicine for Children.

The season for coughs and colds is now at hand and too much care cannot be used to protect the children. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when he has a cold. The quicker you cure his cold the less the risk. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the sole reliance of many mothers, and few of those who have tried it are willing to use any other. Mrs. F. P. Starcher of Ripley, W. Va., says: "I have never used anything other than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for my children, and it has always given good satisfaction." This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a child as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

ANNIVERSARY OF BLIZZARD

Great Storm of 1892 Killed One and Injured Three.

Today is the anniversary of one of the worst blizzards that Duluth ever experienced. On this day in 1892 snow fell during the entire day until a foot of the beautiful was covering the earth. The wind was high, blowing at the rate of thirty miles an hour until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when it increased to fifty miles, and at occasional five-minute periods it blew at the rate of sixty miles. The air was filled with snow and it was impossible to see across the street.

Traffic was stopped and almost everything but the storm was at a standstill. At West Duluth a smokestack was blown down killing one man and injuring three, and it was estimated that $50,000 worth of damage was done in the city while the weather carnival lasted.

In two days there was a drop of 39 degs. in temperature, it registering 34 degs. above zero on March 8 and being down to 5 degs. below on the morning of the tenth.

In comparison with this, the promise of the weather man for tonight and Wednesday sounds balmy. He says it will be colder and there will be snow. There will also be brisk to high northeast winds.

RAIL WAGE LOSS MILLION A DAY

Theodore Shonts Tells What Is Matter With Country.

New York, March 9.—"Six months ago there were 1,675,000 railroad employes in active service, and they received nearly $1,110,000,000 in wages during the year. Fully one-quarter of these men are now idle, at a loss of wages approximating $1,000,000 a day."

Theodore P. Shonts, soldierly in "set up," quick of move, terse and accurate of speech, thus opened his discussion with a reporter of the question put to him: "What is the matter with the country?"

In addition to the great responsibility entailed by the presidency of the Interborough Metropolitan Railroad company of New York, Mr. Shonts is president of the Chicago & Alton and the Clover Leaf railroads. He has studied profoundly that complex business and its relations to the industrial peace and progress of the country as have few men of the time. He declares that it has progressed from a mere commercial enterprise to a science demanding skill of the highest order for its proper management.

Tens of Thousands Out.

"A little over a year ago the railroads were spending $1,250,000,000 for supplies; now they are not spending more than $500,000,000. This means a falling off in railroad expenditures of nearly $2,500,000 a day. And it is impossible accurately to state the number of men in forests, mines and factories who have been thrown out of employment by the shrinkage in the demand for railroad equipment and supplies, but it is safe to say that they are numbered by the tens of thousands."

Mr. Shonts thinks that quite as large a number of men are employed in working on the materials needed by the railroads as are on the payrolls of those corporations.

Fear Government Control.

"What is it that has taken the heart out of railroad managers; that has chilled their laudible ambitions; that has frightened away our financial support; that has shadowed our horizon on every side; that has made us cease to act and only wait?" he asked. And he answered:

"The answer is clear. It is the fear of the government operation of railroads through commissions that have no financial responsibility which has produced the results.

"I think every business man knows there can be no return of prosperity that will stay with us until the railroads are fairly treated."

Stiff Neck.

Stiff neck is caused by rheumatism of the muscles of the neck. It is usually confined to one side or to the back of the neck and one side. While it is often quite painful, quick relief may be had by applying Chamberlains' Liniment. Not one case of rheumatism in ten requires internal treatment. When there is no fever and no swelling as in muscular and chronic rheumatism, Chamberlain's Liniment will accomplish more than any internal treatment. For sale by all druggists.

TENNESSEE FARMER IS KILLED WHILE AT SUPPER.

A Tonic or a Stimulant?
Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a tonic. It does not stimulate. It does not make you feel better one day, then as bad as ever the next. There is not a drop of alcohol in it. You have the steady, even gain that comes from a strong tonic. Ask your doctor all about this. Trust him fully, and always do as he says.

THIS IS CERTAIN

The Proof That Duluth Readers Cannot Deny.

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills cure permanently.

Home endorsement should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test.

J. E. Watte, 918 Tenth Ave., West Duluth, Minn., says: "I have no reason to withdraw anything I said about Doan's Kidney Pills when I endorsed them through the local papers several years ago. Prior to using this remedy, I was subject to acute attacks of bachache, so severe at times as to oblige me to stop work. I could not stoop and though I wore plasters and tried various remedies, I did not find much relief. When Doan's Kidney Pills were strongly recommended to me, I procured a box and upon using them, was freed from my trouble. I endorse Doan's Kidney Pills at every opportunity in return for the benefit I received from them."

NEW IDEAS ARE SHOWN

Meeting of Farmers in Western Beltrami County Well Attended.

Manager of Famous Farm Is Illustrating Up-to-Date Methods.

Bemidji, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farmers' meetings which are being conducted by F. B. McLeran, of the Maple-Wood farm, at Wrenshall, Minn., in western Beltrami and eastern Clearwater counties, are being well attended and much enthusiasm manifested, according to W. R. Mackenzie, who has accompanied Mr. McLeran on his trip through the two counties.

Mr. Mackenzie, while here, stated that meetings would be held every evening during this week, and that Mr. McLeran was greatly pleased with the attendance and the interest shown by the farmers and their willingness to learn of the advanced, up to date methods of farming on cut-over lands, and also as to the best methods of dairying.

"We desire to hold a meeting in Bemidji Wednesday evening at which Mr. McLeran will speak on the subject: 'What Can We Do to Better the Condition of Our County Agricultural Neighbors?'" said Mr. Mackenzie. "I desire to have the members of the Beltrami County Agricultural society hold their meeting that same evening and elect officers for the ensuing year. There should be as large an attendance as possible, as Mr. McLeran is a splendid, fact-relating speaker, who can assist in doing much good for both the city and the farmer residents of Beltrami county.

"Mr. McLeran will hold a meeting at the school house on the Buena Vista road, six miles north of Bemidji, Friday evening, and we desire a large attendance at that meeting, as many matters of great interest to the farmers will be discussed, and it is desirable to form a strong organization of farmers that evening."

SAY LUMBERJACK ROBBED A FRIEND

Alleged to Have Taken Money While Victim Slept at Cass Lake.

Cass Lake, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Oscar Maede, a lumberjack, arrested here Monday on the charge of grand larceny, was given a hearing before Judge Ives and bound over to the grand jury.

Maede, in company with an acquaintance, Isac Knkzn, arrived in town Sunday night and put up in one of the local hotels, where they succeeded in getting rooms near each other. When morning came Knkzn found his partner had disappeared, and after investigation he found that $6 of the money he had in his pocket had also disappeared. Suspicions were at once turned on Maede, and the police were put on his trail. Officer Brewerielte located him after a brief search and took him to the lockup. Upon their arrival there the officer told him to show how much money he had. The prisoner dug up $20 and swore that was all he had. The officer then searched him, and was about to give up the task when he found a roll neatly tucked in one of his socks. There was about $60 in the roll. The man was then locked up and soon after brought before Judge Ives. He refused to enter a plea, but the judge thought the evidence against him strong enough to bind him over to the district court.

He was taken to Walker to await the action of the grand jury.

DIG WAY TO LIBERTY.

Two Federal Prisoners Break Out of Jail at Fargo, N. D.

Fargo, N. D., March 9.—By digging under a thin brick wall in the Cass county jail, Frank Morrison, indicted by the federal grand jury for several North Dakota postoffice robberies, and George Dean, charged with the robbery of the Mapleton, N. D., depot, last evening, between 7 and 8 o'clock, gained their liberty.

The men are classed as among the craftiest as well as the most desperate men ever held in jail. Rumors of assistance from the outside are afloat, it being believed that they belong to an organized gang which came to their rescue.

ALUMINUM COMBINE PLANS ARE PUBLIC.

Manitowoc, Wis., March 9.—Official confirmation of the reported combination of aluminum manufacturing concerns of the West is made public, the deal having been closed at a meeting called in New York, the name under which the new company was organized being the Aluminum Goods Manufacturing company.

The combination includes the Manitowoc Aluminum Novelty company, the Two Rivers Aluminum company and the Jersey Aluminum Company of Newark, N. J. The company is incorpodated under the laws of New Jersey, with a capital stock of $250,000. G. A. Kruppschnitt of Newark, N. J., is president and Joseph Koenig of Two Rivers and George Vits of this city are vice presidents.

Operate Extra Trains.

Channing, Mich., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—To care for its heavy traffic in transporting forest products, the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad is operating a number of extra trains on its Lake Superior division. Some 230 carloads are now being handled daily. Of this aggregate, 150 cars are loaded with sawlogs and the remaining eighty with cedar posts and poles, railroad ties, pulpwood and cordwood.

Aged One's Third Marriage.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—William E. Denham, 72 years old, has entered upon his fourth matrimonial venture with Mrs. Manda Stysa, 63 years old, livin gat Eau Galle. This is the third time the bride has been married The groom is the father of Dr J. F. Denham of Downsville, who was one of the witnesses to the marriage ceremony.

BIG LOGGING CONTRACT.

On the Odanah Indian Reservation Near Ashland, Wisconsin.

Ironwood, Mich., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Operating on its own account, and htrough jobbers more than a score of camps and employing some 3,000 men, the Stearns Lumber company is conducting the most extensive logging operations on the Odanah Indian reservation, midway between Ironwood and Ashland.

Approximately, 120,000,000 feet of timber will he cut, last summer's forest fires which scorched much valuable timber and thus made imperative the immediate felling of the trees in order to prevent heavy loss, having necessitated logging on a considerably greater scale than otherwise would have been the case. The logs will be deposited on the shores of Lake Superior and will be thence distributed to various sawmills on Chequamegon bay, a contract for this latter work having recently been awarded to the Lake Superior Towing company.

BITTEN BY VICIOUS DOG.

Boy Nearly Killed by Attack of Enraged Animal.

Sebeka, Minn., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hansen of Rockwood was badly bitten by a dog recently, and but for the presence of his grandfather, A. Astrum, he would have been killed by the enraged animal. The scalp was nearly torn off and the sharp teeth of the dog had entered clear to the bone. Dr. Johnson was obliged to take several stitches in sewing on the scalp, it being torn so badly. The boy's face was scratched considerably, but not seriously.

The unfortunate little fellow is getting along fine, considering the seriousness of his injuries.

OLD PRUSSIAN SOLDIER

Passes Away at Mankato Almost 100 Years of Age.

Mankato, Minn., March 9.—A. Henry Leader, one of the oldest men in the city, and believed to be the oldest Prussian soldier living, died Saturday at Immanuel hospital, where he had been receiving treatment since Dec. 3. last. Death was due to a general breakdown incident to old age.

Mr. Leader was born in Mecklinburg, Germany, and was 92 years of age. He was a soldier in the Prussian army in 1836, and in 1848 came to America, locating in Milwaukee. He rose to prominence there, and served as county superintendent of the poor. In the fall of 1869, he came to Mankato, and located on a farm in Belgrade township, where he remained until twenty years ago. Since that time he has divided his time among his children in Mankato and Sioux City, Iowa. His wife died eighteen years ago, but he is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Warren, Mrs. Emily Smith and Mrs. E. J. Himmelmen. The body was buried at Sioux City, Iowa.

DEATH FOLLOWS PROMOTION.

Northwestern Employe Stricken at Ironwood on Eve of Departure.

Ironwood, Mich., March 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward Laughrey, road clerk in this city for the Chicago & Northwestern railway, died at his residence in the Donovan hotel at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon of heart failure. He had been promoted to a more responsible position at Antigo during the past week, but was taken ill at the office Saturday forenoon. He claimed to be well enough to attend supper and conversed with a number of his hotel associates. Another attack came on Sunday morning and medical assistance was called, but in vain.

Mr. Loughrey was a single man, 34 years of age, and had been employed here for the past year. The railroad company appreciated his capable and faithful service and promoted him. During his short residence here Mr. Loughrey has made many friends, who sincerely regret his sudden demise. Relatives of the deceased arrived from the Loughrey home in Iowa Monday, to which place the body was taken.

A HEART TO HEART TALK TO SICK MEN

From The Progressive Medical Specialists

Again and again you have read about us. We have not been silent about the work we have done in curing thousands of sick men. Today we appeal to you, sick man, that we can cure you of any of these diseases you have read of us in the newspapers.

MEN'S DISEASES COMMAND SPECIALISTS' KNOWLEDGE.

A man, if he belongs to the building trade, cannot be a carpenter, a bricklayer, pulumber, at the same time. He who knows everything knows nothing in special, and so in the art of healing. A doctor who tends to men in fevers, to children and women, and takes all different kinds of diseases, is no specialist in any disease. This affords a special preparation and years of special study. We have studied and thoroughly mastered a single line of diseasee, those peculiar to man, and no other doctor but the specialist can master and thoroughly cure men's diseases.

There are plenty of quacks who claim to cure, but if you come to us we can show you letters from people who will tell you what we have done for them. Many of these people came as cripples, some wrecked in body and soul, others came with diseases for which they could find no cure nowhere, and we cured them.

WE DON'T TAKE ALL CASES, BUT WE CURE ALL THOSE WE TAKE.

And those are disease which no ordinary doctor has any knowledge of and don't pretend to, either, but we do cure these special and hard cases, and there is not one man who ever was disappointed by us, for we keep our promises, and if your case is not curable we will not take you at all, but if you suffer secretly of that awful habit which destroys your body and soul, come to us; we will cure you. Or if you have any Syphillis, don't think it is incurable. We will give you a written gaurantee that we can cure you of these and the following diseases: Varicocele of all kinds and form we cure without knife or pain; Hydrocele, Rupture, Cancers and Tumors, Bladder, Kidney, Stomach, Rectal and Heart Diseases, Nervous Debility, Sexual Weakness, Lost Manhood, Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Melancholia, Impure Blood, Blood Poison and all Skin Disease, Nose, Throat and Ear Trouble, Rheumatism, Liver Diseases, Diabetes, Gallstones, Indigestion, Nervousness and all Chronic diseases. Do not neglect your troubles may cost you many a precious year of your life. If don't cost you anything to consult us. You are always welcome from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. daily, except Sundays, when our hours are from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. No. 1 West Superior street.

SYSTEM IS A SUCCESS

"Visiting Nurses" Necessary Adjunct to Every Children's Dispensary.

Crusade Against Disease and Dirt Among Tenement Children.

New York, March 9.—A new crusade against disease and dirt among the tenement children of New York city has been begun during the past year in an experiment conducted by the physicians in the children's clinics in Bellevue, Roosevelt and Flower hospitals, the Universit yand Bellevue dispensary and the social workers of the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.

Supplementing the work already done by the establishment of model tenements, and the strict enforcement of health ordinances in New York's congested districts, these institutions have introduced a system of "visiting nurses" to co-operate with the physicians in the children's clinics and work among the poor in their homes. So successful has the experiment been that hospital men and charity workers familiar with the results declare that visiting nurses have come to stay, and will soon be recognized as a necessary adjunct to every children's dispensary.

Dispensaries for children, not equipped with visiting nurses, are characterized by Dr. Mathias Nicoll of University and Bellevue dispensary as "travesties on charitable and medical practice, places where students acquire clinical knowledge, and physicians give a number of harmless medicines and some advice, which is seldom followed." Dr. Nicoll speaks from an experience of ten years in dispensary work.

Each of the visiting nurses is an experienced social worker and a member of the regular relief staff of the A. I. C. P. For a part of each day she assists in the clinics, the remainder of the time she visits these patients in their homes to see that the physician's instructions are carried out. Mothers' bungling the doctor's orders are set right, families induced in many cases to move to cleaner quarters on the plea that the baby's recovery is impossible without less dirt and more fresh air. Food and clothes and other forms of material assistance are furnished by the nurse from the relief fund of the A. I. C. P., where recovery without such aid would be impossible.

The tremendous success which has attended the work since its beginning and the necessity of its further adoption are testified to in a statement by Dr. Nicoll:

"Clinics are usually held only on alternate days and consequently, each patient, however much in need of daily care receives treatment but three times a week. When a patient's condition is too desperate to warrant removal to and from the clinic, treatment must be continued by a blind reliance on vague reports by ignorant relatives. More often, the patient simply disappears to die without proper care.

"Measles is a disease which does badly in hospitals, but in the home, even a poor one, usually ends in recovery with suitable nourishment, a good supply of fresh air, medicine and intelligent care. These things can be given by a dispensary equipped with a visiting nurse, but otherwise are impossible. The same is true of whooping cough.

"Again, in the so-called 'feeding cases' which constitute so large a part of dispensary work, of which milk is pure milk if left to spoil, or fed in dirty bottles, or not modified to suit the individual needs of a delicate infant? Such cases cannot be properly cared for without visiting nurses.

"There is probably a great sufficiency of dispensaries to meet the present needs of the city, but in order that the work performed should be at all efficient, it is absolutely necessary that at least one capable visiting nurse be attached to each dispensary. Thus equipped, the dispensary will become a powerful factor in the fight against disease, filth, ignorance and preventable suffering, the extent of which is known only to those who work among the children of the poor."

CABINET HAS FIRST MEETING

New President Will Do Own Talking About Proceedings.

Washington, March 9. — President Taft's first cabinet meeting convened at 11 o'clock today. All the members except Mr. Dickinson, who is to be secretary of war, were present.

President Taft has determined not to permit the members of his cabinet to discuss the business transacted.

"The president has decided to pursue the policy of his predecessors and do his own talking," said Secretary Knox, and Secretaries Wright, Meyer, Nagel and Wilson confirmed the statement.

THE EVENING STORY

SAUCE FOR THE GANDER

By Mrs. D. E. Cooper.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

Bobson was a good citizen, an indulgent husband, a boon companion; but he positively could not resist a practical jokee.

His wife was indignant when he on their wedding day, notified her by 'phone that he had broken a leg and could not come to be married; and when, as she was about to tearfully dismiss the guests, he appeared, jaunty, unconcerned and whole, he never knew —she was a woman of spirit—how near she came to dismissing him.

Then there was the time that he pretended that his sister Dora and her husband had been killed in a railroad accident and that he and his wife would have to rear the six cildren.

"Brutally coarse," she called it.

Mrs. Bobson never laughed at her husband's jokes—not considering them funny—and on one particularly gloomy day in early spring after a shock that aggravated her almost past endurance, she decided that he had reached the limit.

To Whom It May Concern: Parties are hereby notified that I am not responsible for debts contracted by my wife. ROBERT BOBSON.

With eyes flashing danger she dashed the little local paper on the dining table, where Robert had, with unusual good humor, left it.

"So this is his idea of a joke!" she exclaimed, with compressed lips that deepened her dimples. "This! Well, it is his last.'

"I'll teach him a lesson he won't soon forget," she confided to the hall mirror as she viciously thrust a hat pin through her hat and auburn tresses.

Shortly after noon Bobson appeared at his sister Dora's home. Dora was serving dinner for the hungry children.

"Tessie always hangs the foliage plant in the window as a signal for me to come home to dinner," he explained, "and I tell you what, Dode, I'm afraid to go home, for she has not signalled me today. Guess she's a bit upset," he laughed a little lamely, "about the ad—just did it to get little Joke on her, you know."

"I don't know what you mean,' replied the busy Dora. "but I did hope, Rob, that you would settle down when you were married. You are 25 now, and I declare, act with no more judgment than my own Rob, who is less than half your age."

"Where she is now!" called Bobson, pulling Dora to the window. "Mad as a March hare. Gee! but she looks fine in that new suit!"

"The boa is a beauty," replied Dora. "It shows off well when she walks."

"Yes, she is making the fur fly, so to speak," chuckled Bobson. "I say, Dode, just give me some dinner with the kids. I'll get none at home today."

Along in the afternoon, Will Rathbone, of Rathbone, Sutton & Streets, came into Bobson's office.

"Good boy, Billie," called the effervescent Bobson. "You look like Fox's book of Martyrs. Anything happened to the horse?"

"It's about the advertisement," said Will, hesitatingly.

Bobson leaned back and laughed uproariously. "The best ever," he exclaimed. "But I guess Tess is mad," said he, sobering somewhat.

"I wanted to say," continued Rathbone, unsmilingly, "that you can hardly expect to be unaccountable for the debts contracted before the notice was published."

Rathbone, noting the look of dumb astonishment on Bobson's face, added, "I hate to speak of it, Bob, but we are in for about $600, and can ill afford to lose it. You know I am somewhat in debt—my wife's father, you understand. The new department was my idea, you know. So Sutton and Streets blame me, for I was the one to let the account run; knowing you and Tessie so well."

Bobson rose, in a towering passion. "Rathbone, if you say another word I'll throw you out."

Rathbone straightened perceptibly. "I hardly think so, Bobson. Better consider a moment, first. Remember, you tried that on me at school some 15 years ago and it didn't work just as you anticipated."

Bobson's hair stood on end. Was this the end of their David and Jonathan affection? And through what ghastly freak of torture had Tessie not told him? Six hundred dollars! Somewhat blindly, he put out his hand. "Don't let us quarrel, Billie," he said a little thickly. "I will fix it some way. I only put it in as a little joke on Tess. I thought every one would know."

Rathbone took his hand and tried to hide the scorn in his voice: "All right, Bob; but if that is your notion of fun I am sorry for you."

"I'm sorry for the little girl," he returned simply, as Rathbone left him.

Alone he sat, unable to fix his attention on business, ashamed even to glance through the window.

Along in the afternoon his sister Dora's husband, a man several years Bobson's senior walked thoughtfully into the inner office. Though on the best of terms, Bobson had a profound respect for Stewart.

"This is bad, Robert," said Stewart, "but it seems that for decency's sake you might have taken some other way."

Bobson, the chills playing sportively down his spine, felt what was coming. "But you can't expect me to waive my rights," continued Stewart.

Bobson raised his head to speak but at his visitor's hand, lifted to enjoin silence, he waited.

"It is not right of you," resumed Stewart. "You always bragged, you know, even to Dora, that Tessie was the best dressed woman in town. I don't deny that she is; but I meant to get Dora one or two things to make her work lighter—a new sewing machine and a gas range, when you paid me, and it is hardly fair that she should go without these things in order to satisfy Tessie's love for dress. It is $400, you know."

Four hundred dollars! Indeed, he did not know. Bobson sprang from his chair and paced the small office, while Stewart grimly waited. He would not betray Tessie even to the family, but why, why—

"Man alive," he exclaimed, "I'll make it right. Even if it ruins me," he muttered. But see here, Stewart," he continued, "I only put that ad in for a joke."

"Well, I hope you will enjoy it," returned Stewart unfeelingly.

Bobson sat stunned. "Business can go to thunder," said he between his clenched teeth, as flinging on his hat and coat he went by the back way to his home. Finding the house locked he entered by the way of the cellar—a trick that he knew.

"Tess, Tessie girl!" he called loudly, softly, pleading, as he searched each nook of the tiny house. Going to the telephone he rang up his wife's mother.

"She's not here," was the curt reply, and he heard the click of the receiver as it was hung up. Dismayed, he stood motionless. Tess' mother was clearly vexed at him. She, who had always taken his part—then he was indeed forlorn.

For hours he walked the floor or flung himself groaning into a chair to wait and to plan how to pay a debt of $1,000 when he had invested all that his business would permit in their little paradise of a home.

When the midnight train from Chicago pulled into the little station, Bobson, who had hitherto been ashamed to show himself, was madly pacing the platform, questioning a party of returned theater goers, the only passengers to get off, whether his wife had been on the train.

"Yes, she has left me and I richly deserve it," he muttered as he returned home and staggered blindly into the house. Haggard and worn he reached his room and switched on the light.

"You're out late, Bobbie," said a voice, sleepily, and Bobson started and almost cried out from sheer nervous exhaustion.

"Tess, girl!" he cried, dropping on his knees and clasping the sleepy bundle of lacey whiteness and vainly seeking her face, which seemed hidden by the abundant auburn hair, "can you ever forgive me? I didn't know that you owed anything. On my soul, I didn't. It was one of my cursedly idiotic jokes. It is my last, you may be sure."

"Yes, dear, never mind"—the slim hand passing lovingly through his hair—"and, Bobbie, boy," she tried to raise the bowed head, "I don't owe a cent!"

"Tess!" The burden of years seemed lifted from his soul. "Oh, but I shall make Rathbone and Stewart smart for this!"

"Why, Bobbie Bobson!" she exclaimed, naively aggrieved; "that was a practical joke!"

Following in some ways the general lines of the car dumpers in use on the Great Lakes, an apparatus is to be built in Philadelphia for the Lehigh Navigation company which will take hold of a canal boat, elevate it sixty feet in the air, and empty its contents either on the wharf for conveyance to a storage pile, or into the hold of another vessel.

Walking one misty night through a street in a Scotch village, a minister fell into a deep hole. There was no ladder by which he could make his escape, and he began to shout for help. A laborer passing heard his cries, and, looking down, asked him who he was. The minister told him, whereupon the laborer remarked, "Weel, weel, ye needna kick up sic a noise. You'll no be needed afore Sawbath, an' this is only Wednesday night."

WHEAT HAS A REACTION

Market Is Oversold and There Is Scramble to Buy Back.

Flax Is Nervous and the Closing Prices Are Easier.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 9.—It became apparent during the latter part of the session in the American markets today that wheat had been oversold and immediately there was a scramble on all sides to buy back again. In the face of this demand, prices rallied well from the low point of the day and closed higher than yesterday.

Bradstreet's reported a decrease of 1,500,000 bu in the world's visible supply of wheat, in the United States and Canada there was a decrease of 3,300,000 bu, and allout and in Europe an increase of 1,800,000 bu.

Liverpool closed ½d to ⅝d lower, Antwerp ⅝c lower, Berlin ⅞c lower.

The May option closed 1c higher in Duluth, ⅞@⅝c higher in Chicago, 1⅛@1¼c higher in Minneapolis, and ⅞c higher in Winnipeg. The closing prices were not received from the other markets, on account of wire trouble. The July option closed 1c higher in Duluth, ⅞@1c higher in Chicago, 1⅛c higher in Minneapolis, and ¾c higher in Winnipeg.

May corn closed 1½@⅝c higher in Chicago and ⅝d to ¾d higher in Liverpool. May oats closed ⅛@⅜c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—The market here made a feeble response to the break in the American markets yesterday, occasioned by the bearish government showing, and values at the opening were ¼@½d lower. The heavy American and Winnipeg receipts and the easier La Plata offerings, had very little influence and although prices further declined during the morning ⅛d, the distant months were supported and showed a slight rally from the opening. There was an undertone of strength and shorts appeared nervous. At mid-day, the market was dull and ½d lower than yesterday.

"Corn was quiet at the start and ⅛ to ¼d lower, in sympathy with the easier American cables. Later, prices advanced ¼ to ⅜d on the dearer American offerings and the advance in spots."

Car receipts of wheat were 182 against 56 last year. Chicago received 93 against 43 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 557,000 bu, last year 445,000 bu. Shipments 288,000 bu, last year 254,000 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour were 48,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 949,000 bu, last year 489,000 bu. Shipments 585,000 bu, last year 293,000 bu. Clearances of corn were 478,000 bu.

In Duluth, wheat was quite active, May wheat opened unchanged at $1.11¾, declined to $1.10⅜@1.10⅝, rallied to $1.12⅜@1.12⅝, and closed at $1.12⅜, a gain of 1c over yesterday. July wheat was inactive, sold at $1.11⅛@1.11⅜, rallied to $1.13½ and closed at $1.13⅝, a gain of 1c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ¾c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 1½c over May for No. 1 northern.

May flax was flighty. Small offerings caused fluctuations of two and three points. May flax opened ¼c lower at $1.63¾, declined to $1.61½, rallied to $1.64, declined to $1.63½ and closed there, a loss of ½c from yesterday. July flax was inactive and closed unchanged at $1.63. September flax closed unchanged at $1.42 October flax sold at $1.36 and closed at $1.36½, a loss of ½c from yesterday.

Oats closed ½c higher and barley 1c to 1½c lower.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Effect of the Government Report is Shown in the Pit.

Chicago, March 9.—The effect of the government report, showing unexpectedly large farm reserves, was still felt in the wheat market today, sentiment in the pit being bearish early in the session. Several of the leading longs were moderate sellers and the demand was light. Liberal receipts in the Northwest inspired some selling. Prices at the start were ¼c higher to ⅝c lower, which was the range on the May delivery, initial quotations on which were $1.13¾@1.14¼. Later, May sold at $1.13⅝. July opeend at $1.02⅝@1.03, sold at $1.03@1.03⅛, and then reacted to $1.02½.

The market broke sharply toward the end of the first hour, May dropping to $1.12⅝ and July to $1.01⅞. The slump was due to renewed profit-taking by leading buils. In the last half of the day the market became exceedingly strong and May advanced nearly 3c from the low point, the market being vigorously supported by bull leaders. The top for May was reached at $1.15½, while July rose to $1.03⅞@1.04. The close was strong at almost the top, May being up ⅝@¾c at $1.15@1.15½. July Closed at $1.03⅞, a net gain of ⅞@1c.

Wet weather in the corn belt caused a firm opening in the corn market, but an easier tone developed owing to selling by commission houses, based on the bearish showing of the government report. May opened a shade lower to ⅛@¼c higher, at 67⅛@67⅜c, and for a time held within that range.

The low point for May was touched at 67¾c. The market rallied in sympathy with wheat and on support by bull leaders, May advanced to 69¼c. The close was strong, withMay up 1⅛@1⅜c at 69¼c.

Profit-taking by leading longs caused weakness in the oats market, there being little demand early in the day. The large reserves still in the farmers' hands, as shown by official statistics, were the basis of the selling pressure. May opened ¾ to ⅞c lower at 55¾c to 56⅜c, and held within that range early in the session.

Provisions were quiet and steady. Local packers were inclined to take the selling side of the market. Prices at the start were 5c lower to 5c higher.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Bears Knock Down Wheat Price, Bulls to the Rescue.

Minneapolis, Minn. March 9.—Flax—Receipts, 16 cars, against 32; shipments, 12. Demand was strong again today. Prices were the same as Duluth May Receipts were light and the market was too limited to be active. Close, $1.63¼.

Barley—Receipts, 67 cars today, against 14; shipments, 81. Today's market was easier. Lower grades were ½c off. Both malsters and feeding interests bought sparingly. Close, 61½@62½c.

Local elevator stocks of wheat increased 10,000 bushels for three days. At the opening the bears knocked the price of May down 1c. At this point the Chicago bulls acted, and the price advanced 2c above the day's low point. The advance in the local market just followed the Chicago quotations. Minneapolis today received 187 cars, against 204; Duluth, 182, against 56; Winnipeg, 226, against 181. May opened $1.11½; high, $1.12½; low $1.10⅝; close, $1.12⅜. July opened close, $1.12¾. No. 1 northern, $1.14¼ to arrive, $1.13¾; No. 2 northern, $1.11¾@1.12½; to arrive, $1.11¾; No. 3 wheat, $1.08¾@1.10¾; No. 3 yellow corn, 62¼c; No. 3 white oats, 52@53c; No. 2 rye, 72¾@75¾c. Cash wheat was in only fair demand. No. 1 sold for 1½c over May, and some choice sold as high as 1¾c over. No. 2 was quoted at ¾c to ½c under May. Both elevator interests and millers bought a little.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,420 tons. Demand was strong and in excess of the supply. Prices were firm and shipments. Bran in bulk, $23.00@23.50.

Flour—Prices were lower on account of the decline in wheat. Shipments showed a decrease. Demand came entirely from domestic trade. Shipments, 37,075 barrels. First patents, $5.55@5.65; second patents, $5.45@5.55; first clears, $4.40@4.50; second clears, $3.15@3.25.

MRS. LEAVITT GETS DIVORCE

Lincoln, Neb., March 9.—Ruth Bryan Leavitt, eldest daughter of William J. Bryan, was this afternoon granted a divorce from W. H. Leavitt.

REWARD RAISED FOR MISSING BOY'S RETURN.

Flint, Mich., March 9.—Citizens of Flint today raised $1,000 to be paid as a reward for the return alive to his home here of Harold Moon, a 10-year-old boy, who disappeared from here Feb. 27, and who is supposed to have been kidnaped. A lad answering the description of Harold was seen last Thursday in a freight car at Pontiac, Mich., in company of a man of whom he seemed to be afraid. The chief of police and several men from the sheriff's office are now in Canada investigating reports which have come from there. Half tone pictures of the boy are being sent to newspapers throughout the country in the hope that he may be located.

HUGE BOND ISSUE WILL BE OPEN TO COMPETITION.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 9.—At today's annual meeting of the Pennsylvania stockholders, a resolution offered by Moorefield Storey of Boston, an attorney representing a syndicate of stockholders, to the effect that a proposed issue of $50,000,000 of bonds or securities be open to competitive bidding by responsible banking institutions, was referred to the incoming board of directors for consideration.

This ended what has been widely advertised as a sensation to be sprung. Storey urged the directors not to shut their eyes to present conditions. He said there is no idea that whenever securities are issued by public service corporations, there is a rake-off, but if the Pennsylvania railroad would open its forthcoming issue of securities to competitive bidding, this feeling would be allayed.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Market Started Out Narrow and Weakness Soon Developed.

Stocks Came Out Freely Near Close of the Session.

New York, March 9.—Eighths and quarters measured the extent of the changes for the majority of prices in the opening quotation for stocks today. The amount of business done was also trivial. A rise of ¾ in Wabash was the most conspicuous change.

Some of the stocks that were heavy at the outset went lower, particularly Reading and Amalgamated Copper. Purchases of the Western stocks then began on a rising scale and eventually all of the active stocks responded with a good rally. Union Pacific, St. Louis, Southwestern, Texas & Pacific and Erie first preferred advanced a point above yesterday's closing, before the market began to sag again.

The stock market was at standstill between 12 and 1 o'clock. Colorado Fuel, preferred, sold at a decline of 5 points. Prices dropped on very light dealings. American Ice lost 2⅜ and Twin City Rapid Transit 1. Bonds were firm.

The dullness of the market invited selling and prices declined. Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie declined 1½. Western Maryland and Amalgamated Copper 1⅜ and Reading, Kansas City Southern, Brooklyn Rapid Transit, and International-Metropolitan preferred 1. Northwestern preferred also declined 4½. Bethlehem Steel preferred advanced 1.

The market closed weak. Stocks came out more freely and declines were extended in many cases to a point or more. Western Maryland fell 2. Denver & Rio Grande 1¾. Cleveland, C. C. & St. Louis, United States Steel and American Smelting 1½. American Locomotive 1⅜, and Chespeake & Ohio, Erie, Missouri, St. Paul, Great Northern, Atlantic Coast Line, Kansas & Texas, Kansas City, Southern preferred, Wisconsin Central, Ontario & Western, Colorado Fuel, Lead and Great Northern ore certificates a point or more. Minneapolis & St. Louis preferred sold at a decline of 7.

New York Money.

New York, March 9.—Close: Prime mercantile paper, 3½@4 per cent. Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.86@4.86,10 for 60-day bills and at $4.88@4.88,10 for demand. Commercial bills, $4.85⅝@4.85⅞; bar silver, 50⅝c; Mexican dollars, 44c. Government bonds, firm; railroad bonds, irregular. Money on call, easy, 1½@2 per cent; ruling rate, 2 per cent; closing bid, 1¾ per cent; offered at 2 per cent. Time loans, dull and easy; 60 days, 2½ per cent; 90 days, 2½@2¾ per cent, and 6 months 3 per cent.

St. Paul Livestock.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., March 9.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Market less aggressive in tone than a week ago. There is an oversupply of plain and second class horses on the market, which must be sold before the market assumes a healthy condition. Dealers from the Dakotas are buying a better class of horses than they did ten days ago. Good, general purpose horses have the call. The Canadian buyers are very particular and buy on a close margin. Several loads of mixed consignments arrived for the big Wednesday auction sale. Forty head of extra choice, big ragged mules arrived during the day. Lee Eleener, John Montgomery, S. M. Williams and W. B. De Laney were among the shippers on the market.

Chicago Livestock.

Chicago, March 9.—Cattle—Receipts estimated at 2,500; market steady; beeves, $4.70@7.25; Texas steers, $4.50@5.50; western steers, $4.20@5.65; stockers and feeders, $3.50@5.50; cows and heifers, $2.00@5.80; calves, $6.25@9.00. Hogs—Receipts estimated at 18,000; market steady; light, $6.30@6.70; mixed $6.35@6.80; heavy, $6.45@6.80; rough, $6.45@6.65; good to choice, heavy, $6.65@6.80; pigs, $5.35@6.15; bulk of sales, $6.55@6.75. Sheep—Receipts estimated at 11,000; market steady; native, $5.40@5.80; western, $3.60@5.85; yearlings, $6.00@7.00; lambs, native, $6.00@7.75; western, $5.75@7.80.

Gold For London.

New York, March 9.—An engagement by the National City bank today for export to London of all the suitable gold here at the assay office awarded the first actual transaction looking toward a movement of gold Europewards which has been forecasted by the recent rise in sterling exchange. The amount engaged by the National City bank, while not exactly stated, is estimated to be somewhat under $2,000,000.

So-called "hard-headed business men" read the classified ads every day—looking for opportunities, for men. "Hard head, full purse."

MARCH 9, 1909.

The local curb market is strengthening considerably all around.

Butte-Montana is strong at 42c bid. This is the best buy on the whole list at the present time. We received a wire from Butte this morning saying that they have made another big strike on the 1,100-foot level.

Butte-Ballaklava closed at $16.25 to 16.50.

Calumet & Sonora is firm at $14.25 bid. There is very little of this stock offered, and with an upward turn in the market this one should advance from 4 to 5 points.

Denn-Arizona closed at $4.00 bid. It was rumored around yesterday that they were going to sink the shaft down one hundred feet deeper, and also do considerable drifting. If this should be true, Denn should have a good advance.

Carman is trading at $1.37 to $1.50.

Copper Queen closed at $1.62 to $1.75. There was considerable trading in this stock as high as $1.75. We understand that there will be some good news from the mine at almost any time. They have their mill completed, but it always takes some time to get the machinery adjusted just right, consequently the delay.

DIRT CHEAP
Are you looking for a good safe investment? If so, let me show you some of my lands in the Carlton County Valley, along the Great Northern and Soo lines; none better for general Farming, Dairying and Stock Raising.
Twenty years ago these very same kind of lands around the Twin Cities were selling at from $5.00 to $10.00 an acre; today they are selling from $75.00 to $125.00 an acre. The same applies to lands in this vicinity, but instead of waiting 20 years for the raising in value, I expect to see it within the next 5 years, as good lands around the Head of the Lakes are getting scarce, and will command a fancy price in the very near future. I have 10,000 acres for you to select from.

CASS LAKE WINS OUT IN SENATE OVER GENERAL BILL ON NORMAL SCHOOL

Bill Placed on General Orders and May be Passed.

New Mining Lease Law Offered by the State Auditor.

Ore Tonnage Tax Bill Made Special Order for Wednesday.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cass Lake won out in the senate this morning, gaining a clean cut victory over the general bill by a vote of 35 to 24. The result was that the Cass Lake bill, short of yesterday's amendments, was advanced to the calendar, and if it can hold 32 of the 35 votes it got this morning, it will pass. At the opening of this morning's session, Senator Witherstine, chairman of yesterday's committee of the whole whole, in which the bill was amended, moved the adoption of the committee's report.

Senator Laybourn of Duluth asked for a call of the senate, and this continued more than an hour and a half, while absent members were searched for. Shortly before noon the call was suspended and a vote was taken on the motion to adopt the report of the committee of the whole, which was turned down, 24 for and 35 against.

Then Senator Laybourn moved that the Cass Lake bill, unamended, be placed on the calendar, and his motion prevailed, 35 to 25.

Representative Bendixen, at the request of the state auditor, this morning offered the house a bill providing a new mining lease law to take the place of the one repealed two years ago. It provides for royalties based on units of iron. Below 49 per cent the royalty is to be 25 cents, 49 per cent is to be 80 cents, and 5 cents is added to each additional unit of iron up to 72 per cent ore, which is to be 90 cents a ton. The old royalty was 8 flat 25 cents a ton. The minimum output under the proposed mining lease

BUILDING AT HIBBING

For State's Mine Inspection Bureau Favored by House Committee.

Swanson Bill Destroying Tuberculin and Mallein Tests Is Killed.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A building at Hibbing to accommodate the state's mine inspection bureau and its records, was asked for by a committee from the Hibbing Commercial club, which appeared yesterday afternoon before the house committee on mines and mining accompanied by State Auditor Iverson, who supported the proposition and made a speech in favor of it that was full of telling points.

As a result of the hearing it was decided to have Chairman C. M. Bendixen of the house committee, Senator P. R. Vall of the senate committee, and State Auditor Iverson draw up a bill providing for the building, which will probably be introduced in both houses as a committee bill. After its introduction it will be referred to the appropriations committee, which will have the task of finding the money needed for the work. The delegation from Hibbing asked for an appropriation of $25,000, and State Auditor Iverson said that $20,000 to $30,000 should be devoted to this purpose.

Martin Hughes of Hibbing headed the range delegation, and made the

BIG SHIPS IN COLLISION

Wireless Reports Horatio Hall and Dimock in Accident.

Location Is Unknown—Steamer Massachusetts Is Grounded.

Boston, Mass., March 10.—A collision between the iron steamers Horatio Hall, bound from Portland, Me., for New York, with passengers and freight, and the H. F. Dimock, from New York to Boston, with freight, occurred in a thick fog about 8 a. m. today, somewhere between Cape Cod and Point Judeth.

Officials of the lines operating the steamers received wireless messages telling of the collision, but no details were given, nor was the place indicated.

Every effort was made to locate the two vessels, but owing probably to the disabling of the wireless on the Hall and the fact that the Dimock carried no such equipment, neither steamer has yet been found.

Steamer Is Grounded.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., March 10—The steamer Massachusetts, owned by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, and bound from Boston for New York, grounded early today near Cedar Tree Neck, Vineyard Sound, while groping her way through the fog.

The Massachusetts is a new boat, of three placed on the recently established freight line of the New Haven road, between Boston and New York. She left Boston yesterday afternoon with a general cargo, but no passengers, and ran into the fog bank just before she came abreast of this port, and losing her course, she struck at Cedar Tree Neck, which is on the Martha's Vineyard side of the sound.

STORM HALTS THE ST. PAUL TRAINS.

St. Paul, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—All trains from Chicago, Omaha and Kansas City, due here during the early hours of the morning, were two to five hours late. This was due to the storm which raged in Wisconsin, Southern Minnesota, Iowa and South Dakota yesterday. Trains from Chicago on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, due here at 9:55 a. m., were two hours late, the Chicago-Great Western five hours and on the Omaha from Chicago and Kansas City four and a half hours late.

SIX DROWN WHEN CAGE IS BROKEN

Jamaicans Lose Their Lives in the Reventzon River.

Port Limon, Costa Rica, March 10.—Six Jamaicans were drowned in the Reventzon river when the cage in which they were being transferred across the stream broke loose from the cable.

The apparatus was constructed for the transfer of fruit.

SIX STATES IN FARM LIFE MEET

Southwestern Country Commission Considers Suggestions.

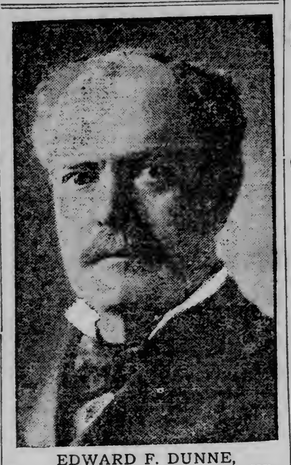

Guthrie, Okla., March 10.—The Southwest interstate commission on country life, called to consider the suggestion of the national commission "to create new interest in farm life and to improve social conditions in the country," began a two-days' meeting here today. This state, Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, Texas and Louisiana are represented.

Among the subjects to be discussed are those of better housing and better environment for the man of the soil, good roads and civic improvements.

POPE DOWNSTAIRS FIRST TIME SINCE HIS ILLNESS.

Rome, March 10.—The pope, who has been suffering from a severe cold, continues to improve. He came downstairs to the state apartments this morning for the first time since his illness and received several Belgian bishops. He also held mass this morning.

The Tennesseean Is Banquetted By Iroquois Club of Chicago.

Chicago, March 10.—That Republican President Taft has a lusty Democrat in his cabinet, and a Democrat at that who intends remaining one, was fully demonstrated by J. M. Dickinson of Tennessee, at the Iroquois club banquet, given in his honor last night.

Dickinson, who has just been appointed secretary of war, addressing the Democratic banqueters, declared

STIRLINGS DIVORCED

Husband Gets Decree and Custody of the Children.

Scotch Court Unmercifully Scores Both Man and Wife.

Edinburgh, March 10.—The sensational Stirling cross divorce suits were decided today by Lord Guthrie, who granted the husband's petition, awarded him the custody of his children and denied the cross petition of Mrs. Stirling.

John Alexander Stirling, laird of Kippendaire was married three years ago to Clara Elizabeth Taylor, an American show girl, who came from New Jersey. Last fall cross suits for divorce were filed, Mr. Stirling naming Lord Northland, and Mrs. Stirling, Mrs. Atherton as co-respondents.

In giving his judgment Lord Guthrie said the case had no legal interest and that it should not have any public interest. Most of the evidence had been

No Telling How Long Rules Fight Will Last.

Washington, March 10.—The new tariff bill will probbaly see the light for the first time next Tuesday. The desire of the members of the house committee on ways and means is to have it introduced in the house on the first day practicable. The probabilities are that there will be so much to do in the way of getting ready for business that it will be impossible to have it presented on the first day.

There is much detail in getting a new congress started off. Ordinarily the ceremony which attracts the most attention is the election of the speaker, but so far there is only one candidate. However, it is necessary to elect all the other officers of the house, to ad-

The Famous $29,000,000 Fine Case Comes to Abrupt End.

Anderson Shuts Off Proceedings With Order to Jurors.

Rockefeller Trust Thus Gets Out of Rebating Trial.

Chicago, March 10.—Judge Anderson today decided to instruct the jury in the Standard Oil case to find the company not guilty.

The prosecution which today ended in failure after having once been tried by Judge K. M. Landis, whose decision was reversed by the court of appeals and the case remanded to the district court for a second trial, had its beginning Aug. 27, 1906. On that date ten indictments were returned with a federal grand jury charging the Standard Oil Company of Indiana with accepting concessions from railways on shipments of oil from Whiting, Ind. Demurrers to two of these, involving shipments over the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad and connecting roads to Grand Junction, Tenn., were sustained and the indictments were quashed shortly after they had been returned. The eight remaining bills were demurred to, but the demurrers were overruled.

Two of the eight indictments involved shipments over the Chicago & Alton railroad from Whiting, Ind., to East St. Louis, Ill., and St. Louis, one containing 1,903 counts, and the other 134 counts. It was the 1,903 count indictment on which the oil company prosecution was based. With 146 counts allowed to stand, the case went to trial, first before Judge Landis, March 4, 1907. The trial consumed six weeks and resulted in a verdict of guilty April 13, 1907.

Arguments for a new trial were heard in May and a motion for a new trial was denied. On August 3, 1907,

ARGUMENT BY GARNER

The Attorney General Addresses Jury in Cooper-Sharp Trial.

Says Evidence of Three Defendants Shows They Are Guilty.

Nashville Tenn., March 10.—So dense was the crowd inside the rail at the Cooper-Sharp trial today that Judge Hart could not reach the bench from his chamber until two husky deputies pushed open a narrow path. He mounted the bench and said:

> "Ladies and gentlemen, I am glad to see you this morning and sorry there are not more of you. As I said before, there must be no demonstration. If you follow my orders everything will be lovely. If you do not we will fall out right away."

Half of Maury county came to Nashville to hear Attorney General Garner's argument for the state. That is Gar-

MURDERER KILLS SELF IN A CELL

Ury Jones Hangs by Strips of His Bed Clothing.

Muscatine, Iowa, March 10.—Ury Jones, on trial for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. William Van Winkle, Dec. 3, 1907, hanged himself from the top of his cell door between midnight and 7 this morning.

He cut the clothes of his bed into strips and formed a rope.

The prosecution finished the introduction of its testimony in the case yesterday and Jones was to have taken the stand today.

The murder was exceptionally brutal. Mr. and Mrs. Van Winkle had only been married a few weeks when one night Jones entered their bed room and beat the brains of both to a pulp with a club. The county was searched and he was located in Milan, Kas. His real name is supposed to be Frank Beatty, under indictment in Washington county, Pa., for the murder of his wife five years ago.

EMBALMERS FIND THROAT IS CUT

Investigation Made of Death Supposedly Due to Bronchitis.

San Francisco, Cal., March 10.—When a firm of local undertakers received the body of Cornelius Goodrich, who died in this city yesterday, they were told that the man had died from bronchitis, but while preparing it for burial they disovered that the throat had been cut. The undertakers telephoned to the coroner, who started an investigation which revealed mysterious circumstances.

Neighbors of the dead man asserted that he committed suicide by cutting his throat.

A physician, said to be Dr. Thomas W. Connelly, was summoned, but the man died before his arrival. The police and coroner say no report of the suicide was made to them. A blood stained razor was found at some distance from the shack in which Goodrich died.

MASKED MEN SLAY PRIEST

Father Ansion of Newark, N. J., Killed in Rectory.

Housekeeper Wounded in Abdomen by One of the Bullets.

Newark, N. J., March 10.—Father Erasin Ansion, rector of the Polish church of St. Stanislaw, was shot and almost instantly killed by three masked men in his rectory early today.

Miss Antonia Sewrzytska, his housekeeper, who attempted to prevent the assassination, was slightly wounded in the abdomen. As there has been a dispute among the leaders of the church over its affairs, the shooting was at first believed to have been the outcome of that disagreement.

Three men, who were unknown to the servants, called at the rectory while the rector was celebrating mass in the church. They were admitted to the parlor, and Father Anslon was notified of their presence as soon as he returned from mass. As the rector entered the parlor, the men opened fire on him. One bullet penetrated the breast, near the heart, and the two others lodged in the abdomen. Father Ansion died in the ambulance while on the way to the hospital.

The housekeeper was wounded in the abdomen, but not seriously. Other priests in the rectory, hearing the shots, rushed toward the parlor, whereupon the assassins fled from the house and escaped.

Four suspects have been arrested, but the housekeeper was unable to identify any of them.

The tragedy is believed to be the culmination of a series of factional fights which have disrupted the church for many months. Father Anison was assigned to the church by Bishop O'Connor last fall after the former rector had been terrified into fleeing from the city. Strong opposition developed to Father Anison and he was threatened many times. The police said that Father Anison had been collecting funds for a new church and that this was the cause of the trouble.

TAFT SENDS HIS CADDY TO COLLEGE.

Washington, March 10.—President Taft has sent his caddy to college. Elmer W. Loring, who carried the distinguished golfer's sticks around the links at Hot Springs, Va., last summer and exercised such discretion that the president brought him to Washington as his special messenger, left today for Charlottesville to matriculate in the University of Virginia. He will take a course calculated to fit him for work Taft has in view for him and the president will defray all his expenses, allowing him $2 a day.

Thomas A. Merritt, Robert A. Kerr, Martin Rosendahl of Duluth, John Trendenick of Eveleth, Max Stevens of Ironwood, Mich., and J. A. Mineer and J. A. Fisher of Calumet have returned from Butte, Mont., where they went to inspect the properties of the Butte-Alex Scott Copper company, which has taken over Butte-Montana.

"The property is looking very well indeed," said Mr. Merritt, who is general manager of the Alex Scott company, today.

"Just before we left Butte, a rich strike of new ore was encountered in the east end of the stope No. 1 on the 1,200 foot level in Butte-Montana. It averaged 8 and 10 per cent ore and is all filled with covilite. The streak of copper glance has widened out to fourteen inches and will average 50 to 70 per cent copper.

"They hoisted eighty cars of ore the day we left, with only three miners working. The stope is improving very much."

A NEW GENTLEMEN'S CLUB.

Charles Langbridge is the proprietor of the new Merchants' Buffet, Sellwood building, which will open to the public on Thursday morning, Feb. 11th. This is without question the finest gentlemen's club in all Duluth. The fixtures are all oak, made from special drawings of very artistic design, while the furnishings are in keeping. The front bar measures twenty-six feet, ornamental panel front, and back bar, twenty-six feet long, with bevel French mirrors running full length, ornamented with colored glass medallion in the center, and with clusters of electric bulbs, in colored glass standards. Some fifty additional electric light gives the Merchants' Buffet a radiant effect, casting myriads of colored rays, reflected from the Belgium cut glassware that decorates the back bar, adding splendor to the settings; the leathered upholstered settees, the two gentlemen's club rooms, private telephone booths, both 'phones and long distance; the tile laid floors, with marble base and oak wainscoting, giving a very rich effect. The back bar is fitted up with the most improved refrigerator system, while the work board has sanitary, solid German silver fittings; another innovation is that the draft beer is drawn from the back bar direct from the keg, the only known system to preserve the beer in its virgin purity. Then there is the wine cooler rack, with ice chest, an approved method of preserving the original flavor and fine qualities of the old vintages. One of the attractive features of the Merchants' Buffet will be the daily delicatessen lunch, from opening to closing. Spread on a seven-foot lunch counter. None but straight whiskies will be served, while the famous Fitger beer will be on tap.

Mr. Charles Langbridge is to be congratulated on getting a long-time lease in such a central location as the Sellwood, the best office building, every room of its eight floors being now occupied. Theer are three entrances to the Merchants' Buffet, besides the best of elevator service. Mr. Langbridge, for fifteen years, has been one of Duluth's live business men, eight years of which have been spent as proprietor of the Hotel McKay Buffet, which he will continue to run in addition to the Merchants' Buffet, in the Sellwood building.

MINNESOTANS AT HARVARD ELECT

Cambridge Mass., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a recent meeting of the Minnesota club of Harvard university, held in the rooms of W. K. Earle, the following officers were elected: President, H. G. Clemans, St. Paul; vice president, W. K. Earle, Minneapolis; secretary, W. B Strong, St. Paul; terasurer, A. J. Powers, Granite Falls.

A letter from Governor Johnson replying to an invitation tendered him to a dinner to be given in March or April, and a letter from E. P. Davis, secretary of the Harvard club of Minnesota, were read. There are forty representatives of Minnesota in the university this year, most of whom are members of the Minnesota club.

STEAMSHOVEL MEN ARE BUSY

T. J. Dolan, general secretary and treasurer of the International Brotherhood of Steam Shovel and Dredge Men, is at the St. Louis hotel today. Mr. Dolan has been upon the iron ranges looking over the situation there, and says that it looks as though there will be more men employed this year than upon the ranges at the present time, upon th ranges at the present time, and the outlook for a very busy year is good, according to Mr. Dolan.

The lake dredge men signed up with their employers over two months ago, so there will be no fight from their standpoint as to the open shop question. Mr. Dolan says the dredge men signed closed shop contracts.

Mr. Dolan was at Panama two months ago, and says that the work is being done wonderfully well, considering the great obstacles in the way. He made a thorough inspection of the work, and believes that it will be completed in 1915. The brotherhood extends to the shovel men employed upon the canal, and it was in connection with his official work that Mr. Dolan paid a visit to the canal.

He says that the stories about the blunders in the canal work are not correct, that the work under the government engineers is going ahead in an orderly way, and that at the present time there is no disease on the Panama. Mr. Dolan says there hasn't been a case of yellow fever in two years, that the laborers are well paid, and that there is no reason to believe that the greatest engineering feat of the century will not be carried through to its completion.

Jury Considers Stock Deal.

The dispute between M. M. Gasser and J. J. Wall, over a stock deal, was again given to the consideration of a jury in district court this morning, and at 3 o'clock the jury had not reported.

Mr. Gasser claimed that Mr. Wall made false representations, which induced him to enter a stock deal, and he asked that he be reimbursed to the extent of $1,500, the full amount he put into the deal.

Mr. Gasser claimed that the deal was a joint purchase of 10,000 shares of stock at 20 cents a share, he and Mr. Wall each to put in $1,500. They were to hold the stock together. He claimed that Mr. Wall paid only 15 cents a share for the stock. Mr. Wall admitted the payment of only $1,500 for the entire block of stock, but asserted that the sale to Mr. Gasser was of 5,000 shares, and he denied making any representations to Mr. Gasser as to the price he paid for it. He claimed it was an out and out sale, in which cost price did not figure.

Back From East.
Mr. Cook of the Union Clothing company returned today after a three weeks' absence in the Eastern markets where he completed his purchases of clothing, furnishings, etc., for the spring and summer trade. In New York he met a former Duluthian, Vic Johnson, who is on the road for Stein-Bloch and doing well. Mr. Cook says business conditions are none too good in the Eastern cities, but that he was told by wholesalers in Rochester, N. Y., that their Western trade was very good. Duluth is a very much talked about place, he says, and every one is confident that it will be the largest city in Minnesota within a few years.

Will Talk on Harbor.
At the meeting tonight of the Park Point Improvement club at the Mission hall on Park Point, John R. Darling will speak upon the history of the Duluth harbor, giving its past development, and going into the possibilities of the future.

Wharton Gets First Pin.
James A. Wharton, who has long been a prominent member of North Star lodge, No. 35, Knights of Pythias, was presented last evening with what is said to be the first Knights of Pythias pin ever worn. Members of the lodge picked the pin up in the East and it is a rare old emblem. J. L. Cromwell and William Marx presented the emblem and Louis Dworshak pinned it on the recipient.

Mrs. Ida Paul, 42 years of age, died at St. Mary's hospital this morning. The body was shipped this afternoon to her home at Hugo, Minn., for interment. She is survived by a husband. There were no children.

PERSONAL

Mrs. Emily Chambers of Fond du Lac, Minn., who lived in that village when it was larger than Duluth, and who remembers well the history of the early development of this section of the state, is at the Lenox today. Mrs. Chambers is visiting friends in Duluth.

John Orr of Hibbing is at the St. Louis.

Thomas Owens, superintendent of motive power of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, is at the Spalding today.

George W. Watts of Two Harbors is at the Spalding.

N. J. Cornell of Hibbing is at the Spalding.

ENGINEERS IN NO WAY ALARMED

The marine engineers say that the list of engineers published in the morning paper contains many names of engineers who have returned their contracts to the company and many who are engineers in no sense of the word. They say that some of the names in the list are those of men who are working about the shipyards overhauling the boats, and at odd jobs. This is done, according to the engineers to pad the list and make it seem that the companies have all the men they requlre.

The engineers still claim that only a very few of the Duluth men have signed up, and they refuse to believe that the lower lake engineers have given in, as according to them, the lower lake men have always been the most enthusiastic of all the lake labor organizations.

They are investigating the names of the Duluth men who appeared in the list, and will furnish a report as soon as they have examined them, and found out just how many of them have signed up, if any.

The big steamship companies have, according to their officials, all the engineers they want, and are ready to begin the season at any time things are ready to open up.

The engineers say they will not sign the open shop agreement and that the boat companies are much harder up for men than they are willing to admit.

City Wins Case.

The suit of the Duluth Public Market against the City of Duluth, which was put on trial before Judge Dibell in district court yesterday, went to the jury about 10 o'clock this morning, and a verdict for the defendant was returned this afternoon.

The proprietors of the Public market sued for $525. They claimed that a horse and delivery wagon owned by them went over an embankment on Twelfth avenue west on June 8, 1908, as the result of a defective railing at the embankment. The horse backed over, spilling out a quantity of groceries, breaking the wagon and injuring the horse.

PLEADS GUILTY TO FORGERY

Before Judge Cant, in district court this morning, Eugene Croulot admitted the raising of a time check from $6.90 to $68.90. He was indicted on a charge of forgery in the second degree by the March grand jury and his plea of guilty to the charge was entered. Sentence was deferred.

Croulot was employed by John Colbroth's foreman in a camp, and after his work was complete, he was given a time check for $6.90. He was arrested Feb. 13 while attempting to cash the check, which had been raised to $68.90.

On his arrest by the police, Croulot admitted his crime, and again at the preliminary hearing he confessed to having raised the check. The crime to which he pleaded guilty carries with it a penalty of not more than ten years' imprisonment.

Company Settles Case.

Stipulations of dismissal were filed with the clerk of the district court this morning in the case of Mary Cameron, administratrix of the estate of Alexander Cameron, against the Standard Salt & Cement company. The company has affected a settlement with Mrs. Cameron, who sued for $5,000 for the death of her husband, who was killed by being buried under a fall of sand in the sand pit of the company about a year ago.

INSANE FROM TOO MUCH DRINK

After nearly a month in the county jail, Andrew Peterson, who was brought down from the village of Fall Lake Feb. 19 to be examined for insanity, will be given an examination in probate court this afternoon.

The examination has been delayed because it was hard to determine whether Peterson was suffering from delirium tremens or a mental derange-county jail he was undoubtedly suffer-county jail he was undoubtedly suffering from the effects of a spree, but they have all worn off and he still appears to be deranged.

Peterson is 46 years old and has a wife and six children at Fall Lake. His insanity is believed to have been brought on by excessive drinking, and it took form in attacks upon his wife and children. They feared for their lives and they sent Peterson to Duluth to be examined.

ESTATE WILL ENRICH COUNTY

The estate of John J. Murphy will pay into the treasury of St. Louis county, as inheritance tax, the sum of $4,141.68, according to the estimate of inheritance tax filed by the appraisers of the St. Louis county property contained in the estate. The appraisers filed their report this morning and Judge Middlecoff issued an order fixing the amount of the tax.

TAXPAYERS' NOMINEES WIN.

J. L. Preston Chosen President of Proctor at Tuesday's Election.

Proctor, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Taxpayers' party made a clean sweep in the village election yesterday, all of their candidates with the exception of R. K. Welch, for recorder being elected. Mr. Welch made a strong run for the office and lost by only a few votes. Over 250 votes were cast the largest in the history of the village.

The campaigning of Mike Lachance, a saloon keeper, who worked hard for his friends was one of the features of the day. The following were elected: J. T. Preston, president; John Doyle, P. L. Ronayne and H. I. Schell, trustees; C. W. Ramshaw, recorder; H. Peyton, treasurer; M. S. Dockstader, Thomas Holder, Sr., justices of the peace; John P. Murray, Allen Bousckner, constables; P. M. McCabe, assessor.

WANTS $3,000 FROM THE CITY

West Duluth Boy Injured By Fall on Broken Sidewalk.

The damage suit of George A. Toor vs. the City of Duluth was taken up before Judge Dibell in district court this morning. The boy claims to have sustained a broken leg by reason of a defective sidewalk on Central avenue in West Duluth April 29, of last year.

The plaintiff is 10 years old and a son of George Toor of West Duluth. He claims that on the day of the accident he was going south on Central avenue, and in stepping from the sidewalk to the road near Main street, his foot was caught in an open space between the end of the walk and the curb, causing him to fall and fracture his leg.

He asks $3,000 damages for the injury.

POLICEMAN RESIGNS.

Marble Setting is Better Than Working for the City.

Henry Bentson, who became a member of the Duluth police force last June, has resigned from the force to return to his trade of marble setter.

Bentson joined the force in West Duluth, and was transferred after a short time to Duluth. Later he was again returned to West Duluth, where he has served the past four months. Officer A. Noren of the uptown police force, has been assigned to Bentson's position on the West Duluth force.

Curling Scores.

Only three more games are left to be played in the Henricksen trophy event at the Western Curling rink. Last evening two games were played for the trophy and there was one practice game. Mickish, in defeating Meldahl 15 to 12, placed his rink in the finals. Tonight the first games in the Bagley stickpin event will be played. The scores last evening were:

Henricksen Event.

McDonnell,		Meldahl,
Buckley,		Winnis,
Hoag,		Holland,
Mickesh,	skip—15	Meldrum,	skip—12
Winton,		Kriedler,
Ransbottom,		Brown,
Ferguson,		Flischer,
Hewitt,	skip—18	Donald,	skip— 5

Practice Game.

Barnes,		Sullivan,
Smith,		Mallory,
Wade,		MacAuley,
Keyes,	skip— 9	Martin,	skip—10

Tonight Wade will play Zauft in the Henricksen event, the winner will play Hewett, and the winner of that match will meet Mickish for the trophy.

DIES FROM INJURIES.

West Duluth Man Never Recovered From Effects of Fall.

George Ayotte, age 58 years, died last evening at his home, 5111 Wadena street, after an illness of about four months.

About four months ago Mr. Ayotte fell, sustaining an injury to the head. Since then he has rapidly declined in health. He is survived by a wife and three children, and was a member of Old Hickory Camp No. 1555, M. W. A. The funeral will take place Friday morning from the St. Jean Baptist church, with interment at Calvary cemetery.

Abramson-Liebermann.

Miss Fanny Grace Abramson became the bride of B. L. Liebermann of Grand Rapids last evening, at the home of the bride's brother, M. B. Abramson, 606 North Fifty-seventh avenue west. The bride was accompanied by Miss Frances Light, and the groom's brother acted as best man. The home was prettily decorated with carnations and maiden hair ferns. La Brasse's orchestra played. Mr. and Mrs. Liebermann will be at home at Grand Rapids.

Special Lenten Service.

There will be special Lenten service Friday evening at the Holy Apostle Episcopal church. A. W. Ryan of the St. Paul's Episcopal church will preach. The service will begin at 7:45 o'clock. Sunday morning Rev. Frank E. Coolbaugh of Cloquet will preach at the Holy Apostle church, and in the evening at St. Luke's church.

RAILROAD NEWS

RAN THROUGH A BLIZZARD

South Shore Train Bucked an Old Time Snow Storm.

The Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic train reached Duluth one hour late this morning. The train is scheduled to pull into Duluth at 10:30; it reached here some time after 11:30 a. m. The train fought a regular Western blizzard all through the Copper country.

Engineer John Hood, who was in charge of the engine, shook his head, looked at his watch for the 'steenth time, brushed the snow from his jumper, and remarked that since the days of his early Western railroad experiences he had never seen anything fiercer than the blizzard that he bucked all the way through the Copper country.

It reminded one of the early days when the train used to pull into the stations with rotary snow plows ahead of the engine, the cab and other parts of the engine looking like a log cabin after a snowstorm.

The engine was covered with snow, the cab of the locomotive was filled partially with snow, and the clothes of Engineer Hood and his firemen, were literally covered with the beautiful. Engineer Hood stated that it was the worst storm he had ever bucked, and the passengers of the train confirmed his statement with vivid descriptions of the storm.

According to the members of the train crew and some of the passengers you couldn't see ten feet from the cars. The snow seemed to be driven as if from a fine sieve. It whirled and blew, covering the tracks, and making progress a matter of extreme difficulty. It was simply a case of giving the engine a full head of steam and watching the check register to see that the iron brute didn't "blow up."

If you have ever seen a tired athlete struggling home, blown all in, and simply finishing on his nerve, you may glean some idea of the condition of the engine of the South Shore. It was a fight all through the storm-bound Copper country, and the train crew is wondering why they weren't more than an hour behind their schedule time.

DEPOT WILL COST $150,000

Plans for the union station of the Wisconsin Central railroad, which will be constructed in Duluth, some time this year or early next year, are almost completed. Bids for the contract for the construction of the building will be asked for in the near future.

It is probable that some local contractor will be awarded the work. The plans call for a structure costing approximately $150,000, modern in every detail, and upon the latest lines of railroad architecture. The work upon the tunnel is proceeding so rapidly that it is probable that work upon the depot may be started in the course of the present year. It is almost definitely settled that the Soo and the Wisconsin Central will use the same depot in Duluth, and for that reason the structure will be a very imposing one.

GOOD DEMAND FOR NEW CARS

E. W. Summer, president of the Summers Steel Car Construction company is in Duluth today looking after the order for modern steel ore cars which is being filled by Mr. Summers' company for the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company.

The order that was placed by the Summers company, was for 500 ore cars of the latest type. They are constructed upon a plan, that will enable a train of ore cars to be unloaded in a remarkably short time. The ore is emptied through an opening in the bottom of the car, and it requires but a few men to unload a train of cars.

The cars constructed for the Iron Range railroad are of the very latest type, and the Duluth road will be the first railroad to use them. If the cars prove a success here, and repeated experiments have shown them to be very practicable, the new pattern car may change the type of ore car construction.

Mr. Summers says that, from the viewpoint of the manufacturer, the present year will be an improvement over last year, in the number of cars constructed for the railroads of the country. There are more orders for cars in at the present time than there were a year ago at this time, and the demand for cars promises to be steady throughout the year.

The Pittsburg manufacturers are receiving a fairly large number of orders from the railroads, and Mr. Summers says that it looks as if the railroads of the country will have use for a large number of new cars during the present year. From the manufacturers' side of the railroad situation, Mr. Summers says that the outlook is much better right now than it was at this time a year ago.

WELL REPRESENTED.

R. B. Jones, traveling passenger agent for the Pennsylvania lines, is in the city today. Mr. Jones says that Minnesota did herself proud in the matter of being represented at the inaugural of "Big Bill." There were two special trains from the Twin Cities, and there were quite a few Duluth people at Washington during the inauguration ceremonies.

According to Mr. Jones, there were 200,000 outsiders in Washington to attend the ceremonies.

Mr. Jones says the Western traffic situation, from the passenger standpoint, should be very good this year, owing to the fact that it is anticipated that there will be a heavy travel from all the Western cities to the Pacific coast, for the Seattle exposition.

WOMAN DIES AT ADVANCED AGE

Although 96 years of age, Mrs. Mary Constantine of Waukesha, Wis., came to Duluth last month to visit her son, J. H. Constantine, and daughter, Kate Constantine. She said she wanted to see them again before she died.

Her wish was gratified. This morning she died at the home of her son of old age. The remains were shipped this afternoon to Waukesha, Wis., for interment. The son and daughter living in Duluth are her only immediate relatives who survive her.

The deceased was born in Ireland, but had lived most of her life on this side of the Atlantic.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

At the regular meeting of the art history class of the Twentieth Century club, which was held this morning at the club room of the library, the election of officers for next year, the second year of study for the class, was held. Mrs. E. A. Silberstein was re-elected chairman of the class and Mrs. H. A. Dancer was elected secretary.

It was decided to study again next year the outline which was prepared for this year. The class began its work a little late in the autumn and many of the members did not enter the class until after the first few lessons. For the benefit of those members and to get a thorough basis for the further study of art history, the class will next year follow the same outline on the Italian renaissance from 1400 to 1700.

The meetings will be discontinued for this year.

Mrs. Dancer presented a very able paper on "Raphael" before the business meeting.

CHINESE SUPPER.

William White, Jr., Host at Unique Affair.

William White, Jr., was host last evening at a most delightful outing party, followed by a Chinese supper at his home, 1421 East Superior street. After a few hours of skiing the guests were entertained at his home, and in the dining room a miniature Chinese kingdom was established. Decorations of Chinese lanterns, fans and flags helped create the illusion, and a smiling and interesting, and very real celestial presided. "Chow nern" was the principal feature of the supper and that and the anecdotes and dialect of the Chinaman in charge were particularly enjoyed. All of the appointments carried out the interesting plan of entertainment. The guests were:

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hubbell.

Misses—
Currier of Lynn, Mass., Hartley, Irma Hartley, St. Clair, Griffin, Marshall, Hunter, Richardson, Hubbell, Whisler.

Messrs.—
Spencer, John Peyton, James McLennan, Charles McLennan, Charles Fitzgerald, Joseph Morrow, Telford, Congdon.

SUFFRAGE CLUB.

Meeting to Complete Plans to Be Held.

A meeting will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening, at Kalamazoo hall, to complete the organization of the Political Equality club. The first plans for the club were made at a recent meeting, at which the speakers were Mrs. Raymond V. Phelan and Miss Elsie Eueland, the former of the faculty of the State university, and Miss Eueland, a member of the Senior law class. Dr. Mary McCoy was elected the temporary chairman of the Duluth club, and at tomorrow evening's meeting the permanent organization will be effected.

PUPILS' RECITAL.

Students of Flaaten's School to Present Program.

This evening the pupils from the classes of the Flaaten Conservatory of Music will appear in a recital at the auditorium of the school on West First street and an interesting program of piano and violin numbers in solos, duets and trios has been arranged for the pleasure of the parents and friends of the pupils. The string orchestra of the school under the direction of Gustav Flaaten is always one of the interesting and most enjoyable features of the school's musicales. The orchestra will appear in two numbers on tonight's program.

An invitation is extended to the friends interested to attend the meeting.

Women's Meeting.

At the Women's meeting tomorrow afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, at the Lake avenue Bethel, Mrs. A. E. Gooch will conduct the Bible lesson from the book of "Esther."

Party at Store.

Miss Barnes was the guest of honor at an informal social evening last night, at which the employes of the L. Freimuth establishment entertained at the store. Miss Barnes, who has been with the company for several years will leave soon to enter a nurses' training school. Supper was served on the top floor to sixty guests and was followed by an informal evening of games and music.

Informal Evening.

Miss Signie Anderson entertained informally last evening at her home, 211 East Fourth street. Music and games were the amusement of the evening an dthe guests were:

Misses—
Laura Richards, Florence Ryan, Laura Luttes, Ellen Anderson, Dolana Gauthier, Potterfield.

Messrs.—
Clemans Hanson, Sexton, Van Buren, Arthur Berg, James Powers, Arnold Fleer.

Bundle Shower.

Mrs. William Bradley entertained at a bundle shower yesterday afternoon at her home, 621 East Sixth street, in honor of Miss Adalla Oppel. Cards were played and the favors were won by Mrs. T. Kruger and Mrs. Stang, and the guest prize was given Miss Oppel. Sixteen guests weer entertained.

Star Circle.

The members of the Star Circle of the Pilgrim Congregational church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of Msr. R. A. Webster of 22 West Third street.

Aid Society.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's German Evangelical church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Lawrenz of 9 East Fourth street.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Abraham, who are now in Berlin, will go later to London and will sail from there March 21 for America.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Cucumbers, 25 cents each.
Green peppers, three for 25 cents.
Pineapples, 10 cents each.
Fresh cocoanuts, 10 cents each.
Cuban oranges, 70 cents a dozen.
Potatoes, $1.10 a bushel.
Milk-fed broilers, $1 each.
Pork tenderloin, 30 cents a pound.
Spare ribs, 12½ cents a pound.

It seems rather too bad that cucumbers are so expensive during Lent, when they taste better than at any other time of year. Cucumbers with fish are a little better than any other vegetable, and they add a taste of green sharpness that is most welcome with the very fishy taste of fish.

Russett oranges, with an easily peeled skin, like tangerines, are 70 cents a dozen, and come from Cuba. The other oranges ranging in price from 30 to 60 cents a dozen, are especially good.

Y. M. C. A. ACTIVITIES

Dr. S. Banks Nelson, pastor of the Park Street Congregational church, Minneapolis, will be the principal speaker at the regular Sunday afternoon mass meeting for men to be held Sunday in the gymnasium of the central building.

Dr. Nelson is known throughout the state as a brilliant Irish orator. He will take for his subject next Sunday, "Our Old Elevator." Dr. Nelson spoke at the state convention of the Y. M. C. A., and Mr. McGaughey at once invited him to speak in Duluth.

There will be music.

Plans for the bowling tournament have been completed. There are more than thirty-five entries and the tournamnt will begin next week. There are two events, the singles and doubles. The singles will begin the first of the week and continue for two weeks. The doubles will be begun at the end of that time and they will continue for the same length of time. The prizes in the single event are: First, a gold association watch fob; second, a silver association watch fob, and third, an oxidized fob of the same pattern.

For the winners in the doubles there are offered as prizes two gold association pins, two gold tie clasps and two silver association pins.

In the singles each man will roll three games and the total number of pins made will be the score that will count when the winners are determined. In the doubles by choosing different partners, the men may roll three times upon the same registration.

Last night there was a meeting of the foreign extension committee. F. D. Rank and George Willliam, who were members of the committee, have resigned and William Wells and C. S. Prosser have been elected to fill their places. The committee is now composed of Judge Edson, George Wells, C. S. Prosser, George Wilson, T. E. Upham, Bert Wheeler and W. H. Shackel. The object of this committee is to stimulate interest in foreign missions. Last year they raised $1,500 for the use of their foreign representative, B. A. Shuman. This year they wish to go that amount just $500 better.

Interest now centers on the big minstrel show which is to be given at the Lyceum theater Friday evening. August Frey, who has the affair in charge, has added several acts to the second part which will greatly strengthen the cast. C. L. Paul, who was at one time on the stage with "The Runaways," will give a monologue and Harry Hall, the Swedish story teller, will endeavor to entertain the audience during the second act. These two additions will lengthen the entertainment somewhat. Practice is being held every night this week and the chorus and other parts are rapidly rounding into shape.

OLE HENRIKSON IS NOT SO GREEN

Hibbing Man Beats Bowery Con Artist at His Own Game.

Ole Henrikson of Hibbing failed to bite on a story handed him by a Bowery con man yesterday, and instead of paying $5 for a 50 cent watch, as requested, just "to help a man who is broke," he dropped the watch to the pavement and it broke to pieces.

The con man showed him the watch, thinking him an easy mark, and said that while it had cost him $25, he was willing to sell it for $5. Evidently he was working with a man inside a nearby second-hand store for he told Henrikson to take the watch there, and ask what it was worth.

The Hibbing man examined it carefully and then dropped the timepiece on the pavement. The second-hand man rushed out, and he and the con man were very much excited. A policeman was called, but he was wise to the game, and refused to make an arrest. Henrikson walked up the street, smiling happily.

DIES AT NORTHFIELD.

Mrs. R. W. Woodville Formerly Taught School in Duluth.

Mrs. R. W. Woodville, 50 years old, died last Thursday morning at Northfield, Minn. from cancer of the stomach. Before her marriage the deceased taught school in Duluth. That was eight years ago. She was then Miss Catherine E. Brown. She had many friends here.

Miss Brown was born Feb. 1 1859, at Shene, Staffordshire, Eng., and received her education in London. She taught school in England about fifteen years, and in 1890 went to Canada. Later she taught school at Duluth, Canon Falls, Minn. and Eureka, Utah.

The funeral was held from her home at Northfield last Sunday afternoon.

CINCINNATI DAY.

Ohio Bowlers Are Featured at International Bowling Congress.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 10.—The sessions today of the ninth international tournament of the America Bowling congress are in honor of Cincinnati, Ohio. Bowlers from many other cities will however, participate. Play started at 8 o'clock this morning and will continue until after midnight.

The executive council of the American Bowling congress will meet during the day. The election of officers and the selection of a city to hold the 1910 tournament are the matters of importance to be considered.

Points holding the attention of the bowlers are the score of 660 made in the singles yesterday by Ebert of Milwaukee and the world's record five-men score made by the Lipman team of Chicago Saturday night.

Today five double ten single and two five-men events will be rolled.

French Team Leads.

New York, March 10.—The score at 1 o'clock of the five leading teams in the endurance race was: Cibot and Ornhee, 347 miles, 7 laps; Davis and Metkus, 330 miles; Feegan and Curtis, 320 miles; Dineen and Prouty, 317 miles, 4 laps; Loesleln and Klubertanz, 310 miles, 4 laps.

Spring Valley Pastor Dead.

St. Paul, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. John C. BAILEY MAKES SECOND VISIT TO WHITE HOUSE.

Washington, March 10.—Senator Bailey of Texas came to the White House today for the second time in his life, he said, the first time being many years ago.

"I simply called to pay my respects to President Taft. He is a delightful personality."

Senator Bailey's visit was brief.

CROWD BENT ON LYNCHING JUNKEN, FINDS HIM GONE.

Ottumwa, Iowa, March 10.—Just at midnight last night a mob of 100, most of them masked, visited the county jail and demanded of Sheriff Jackson that he turn over to them, John Junken, the confessed murderer of Clara Rosen. The sheriff told them that Junken was not in the jail. The crowd would not agree to leave until the sheriff permitted it to go through and see if what he said was true. When it had finished the inspection the crowd dispersed. Junken is in Sigourney, where he will remain until Judge Roberts takes up his case next week.

Care of Lamps.

The bowl of the lamp should be kept full of oil, but when not in use the wick should be turned low to keep the oil from oozing out on the burner. The burners should be cleansed occasionally by boiling them for half an hour in a strong solution of Gold Dust washing powder. Wipe on a cloth and they will be as good as new. To clean the chimneys, wash them in warm water to which has been added a teaspoonful of Gold Dust washing powder and wipe dry on a soft towel; polish with an old newspaper. Lamp chimneys are made more durable if they are put into a pan of cold water and allowed to heat gradually till the water is boiling and left in the water until cold again.

ALL READY FOR MINSTRELS

The Program for Amateur Show Is Now Complete.

The heavy seat sale at the Lyceum box office indicates that the Y. M. C. A. minstrels will be greeted Friday night by one of the largest audiences that ever attended an amateur show in Duluth.

Rehearsals have been held every night this week. Thursday night a dress rehearsal will be held at the Lyceum and Friday night, at 8:15 p. m., the curtain will go up on the big show. The end men have worked up a good line of local hits. George C. Cowing will be interlocutor. The end men will be John Doran, John Tresise, Charles Applehagen and Oswald Sellars. The soloists will be George Suffel, John Koneczny, Donald Alexander and a mysterious veiled lady, whose identity is completely hidden, but who is said to have a wonderful voice.

The company has been rehearsing under the direction of Prof. A. F. M. Custance and Prof. Leo has been instructing the dancers in their steps. The soloists are all well known Duluth singers and the well-drilled chorus has some good voices.

The program follows:

First Part—Opening chorus, "Pajamas;" "Dixie Dan," Oswald Sellars; "Bewitching Hour," John Koneczny; "Front Door Key," John Tresise; "College Sweetheart," mysterious veiled lady; "Snuggle on My Mind," John Doran; "Family Tree," George Suffel; "Under the Willows," Donald Alexander; "Right Church," Charles Applehagen; closing chorus.

Second Part—Dialogue, Stinchfield and Jamar; cornet solo, Charles Helmer; singing and dancing specialty, Mr. Free; horizontal bar, Lindblom, Grochau, Mapp and Frey.

SICKNESS AND FALL KILL HIM

Ole Anderson Unconscious for Twenty-Four Hours, Dies.

Ole Anderson, 25 years old, a woodsman, fell down stairs at the Chicago lodging house, 206 South Lake avenue, Monday night, and died at St. Luke's hospital last night. He had been unconscious for nearly twenty-four hours.

Dr. Robert Graham, who attended the man, says his death was more due to kidney trouble than to the fall. The proprietor of the hotel, who found Anderson at the foot of the stairs, thought he had been under the influence of a drug, but Dr. Graham says there is no evidence of a drug having been used.

The only means of identification was his name, written in a little paper-covered notebook, found upon his person. Anderson had been a frequent lodger at the Chicago hotel, but little is known concerning him.

STIRLINGS DIVORCED

taken up with the petty questions of selfish and idle lives which contained little or nothing romantic and little that was even mock heroic.

Mr. Stirling, he said, in meeting Mrs. Atherton had welcomed an introduction he should have shunned. Continuing, Lord Guthrie discredited the idea of a plot to get rid of Mrs. Stirling by forcing her to a guilty affection for Northland, but he thought her letters to Lord Northland were indicative of guilty relations.

Lord Northland's counsel immediately gave notice of an appeal. Lord Northland and Mrs. Stirling were in court when the decision was rendered.

TARIFF BILL VERY SOON

minister oaths to all the members, to decide upon the preliminary rules, and, more tedious and time-consuming than any of these proceedings, it is necessary to allot seats to all the members.

This year a fight on the adoption of the old rules is to be waged, and there is no telling how long it will last.

It is believed that these various ceremonies will consume the entire day Monday and that the receipt of the president's message and the introduction of the tariff bill will necessarily be postponed until Tuesday. If the rules should be changed there would be greater delay.

DICKINSON, GIVEN PLACE IN TAFT'S CABINET, CLINGS TO THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY

that, with the approval of the Southern Democracy behind him, in accepting the cabinet post, he "could bear with equanimity the criticism that may come from individual Democrats elsewhere," referring to ex-Mayor Dunne of Chicago and others, who have criticised him for accepting a cabinet place at the hands of a Republican president, and who have scored the Iroquois Democratic club for banquetting him. Mr. Dickinson said:

"When I accepted the compliment of a farewell dinner from my friends of the Iroquis club, I understood that it had no political significance, was in no sense an indorsement of my going into the cabinet of President Taft, and that it was merely an expression of personal good will. If I had anticipated that it would offend any member of the club, I would have taken my leave of my well wishers in an informal way. When it was brought to my notice that objection had been made, I at once requested that the function be given up, but that did not meet with the approval of those who had undertaken it. I shall not now let the objction of absentees, however distinguished, mar my enjoyment of this generous testimonial of your friendship.

Sought No Reward.

"As publicity has been given to a protest made on political grounds, I feel that it will not be indelicate for me to refer to my own status. For nearly forty years and much of that time with great activity, I have been in the ranks of the Democratic party. I have never sought of it the reward of office, nor any other benefits, direct or indirect. Like many Southern men, I have at times disapproved its policies; but on account of local conditions, did not actively oppose it. It is an abnormal condition when almost all those who represent the property and best citizenship of ten contiguous states act together politically. It is certain that all of them do not think alike on all questions, and that differences of opinion would lead to opposite party affiliation in the Southern states, as in the other states, but for a constant and powerful, compacting force. It is a misfortune to the South, a misfortune to the whole country, that inexorable conditions are such that differences on all other questions have been subordinated to one question. When such action of those best qualified to represent their people extends through, not so long a period and so constantly, it would be like indicting a nation to affirm that it was either unwise or unpatriotic. Whether these conditions will operate in the future as they have in the past, I do not claim the wisdom to predict. All lovers of our country should unite in the hope that this may not be true,—not so much on account of the political result, as on account of the conditions themselves, which are a constant menace to the South, and in reflex action, operate with unhappy effects upon the entire country.

"On account of the causes to which I have referred, all of the Southern states at the last election cast their electoral votes against President Taft, as they have hitherto done with respect to other Republican presidential candidates. Therefore, politically there was no bond between him and the Southern states. He is now, after the battle has been fought, entering upon the duties of his office as president of the entire country. He has been much in the South, and for years has counted many Southern men within the closest circle of friendship. His jurisdiction as judge extended over Kentucky and Tennessee. Through a long period he was in close association with the people there, visited their homes, was always an earnest student of everything affecting the general welfare of the country, and came to know more about the Southern people and the causes controlling their social and political action than any man of the North who has been called to high national office. Moved by no obligations to the South, but by strong friendship and sympathy for the Southern people, and still more by a patriotic love for the entire country, whose welfare is necessarily bound up with that of the South, he determined to invite into his cabinet a Southern man, thereby giving assurance to the Southern people that, although their solid electoral vote was against him, he wanted them to feel that they were in close relations with his administration and would be in no sense alien to it.

Republican Would Not Do.

"If he had selected for the purpose a Southern Republican, however well qualified to discharge the duties of the office, it would not have fulfilled the purpose he had in mind. If he had selected a Democrat who had voted for him, there would have been room for carping criticism to say, however unjustly, that the appointment had been tendered and accepted as a reward for such support; and besides, such an appointment might have lacked that ligament with the Southern people which would exist between them and one who had not left the party. I am confident that the great purpose of the president was to establish the relationship I have indicated. It would belittle the broad patriotism which inspired him, to assume that his purpose was to achieve political results. Having known me for a long time and intimately, and having conferred with Southern men whose opinions he valued, he came to the conclusion that my qualifications and my relations to the Southern people were such as to justify putting me in his cabinet.

"Having accepted the position, I shall bring to the discharge of the duties of the office my best efforts, and shall of course, carry out his policies. I cannot conceive that any duty can arise in connection with that office that will be incompatible with any views I have hitherto entertained. Certainly if such an occasion should arise, I would not embarrass the president by holding a position, the duties of which I could not heartily discharge.

"That the purpose operating in his mind was broad, magnanimous and patriotic, no one can question. The wisdom both of the purpose and of his selection is to be tried by time. I have every assurance, from letters and expressions in the public press, that this action in appointing me and my my action in accepting, are approved by the South, and having the approval of the Southern Democratic states, whose judgment was especially appealed to in this matter by the president, I can bear with equanimity any criticism that may come from individual Democrats elsewhere."

ner's home county. Few of them got into the courtroom, however, and those only on cards issued by Garner. The rest of the visitors sat on the sidewalk outside and caught, now and then, a few sentences. Garner began his argument at 9 o'clock. He said:

"I want you, gentlemen of the jury, to consider the condition of mind of these defendants. It is impossible to believe that three men on trial for their lives should tell anything that would injure themselves, except by accident. Remember, too, that no matter what Senator Carmack said on the stump, or wrote in the Tennesscan about Col. Cooper, there was no justification for the murder. The law gives another recourse. The defense introduced three editorials.

Where Is the Justification?

"Even if the law permitted the slaying of a man for defaming of another, on what editorial, on what sentence in these editorials would they seek justification?

"Gen. Meeks says that murder for the editorials is justifiable. He, a lawyer, applies the unwritten law to editors, and says this is not the first time that the streets of our city have run red with the blood of men who offended against this self-made law. Is there anything in the law or the evidence of this case to justify this statement? If so where is it?

"They say that Senator Carmack accused Col. Cooper of having reconciled Governor Cox and Governor Patterson. And there is not a word to show that this reconciliation was improper or that it was degrading to have effected it. Yet they consider it justification for murder. If so, what in the name of God should be the punishment meted out to John Sharp and Robin Cooper for the vile epithets applied to Senator Carmack?"

Cooper's Message to Carmack.

Gen. Garner took up the message Cooper sent to Carmack, "that if my name appears in the Tennessecan again, one of us must die, and followed Cooper down to the first conference in Bradford's office the morning of the killing. Did he tell his own son he would expose Senator Carmack's private life? Not a word about it. We know that whatever he said caused his daughter in fright to telephone frantically: "Papa is armed and threatening to kill Senator Carmack on sight." And when his son expressed a fear that Carmack might resent the note, what did Col. Cooper draw from his pocket? A pen to write the exposure of Carmack's life?

"No, a revolver—a deadly weapon.

"Col. Cooper's own son believed the father was in a homicidal mood. He went on the streets and searched for him. Governor Patterson, in his own testimony, advised Robin Cooper to remain near his father. Why? Because the governor in his heart feared that just what did happen would happen."

Gen. Garner then turned his attention to Judge Bradford and declared that the latter's testimony had been impeached.

"This is the man who said: 'I could have killed Senator Carmack with as little remorse as I would kill a rattlesnake.' The evidence of the three defendants in this case, gentlemen, shows that they are guilty just as completely and as surely as does the evidence of Mrs. Eastman."

STANDARD OIL IS INNOCENT, JUDGE INSTRUCTS JURY

Judge Landis imposed his famous fine of $29,240,000.

On appeal the case went to the United States circuit court of appeals, and was argued over a year ago. The decision of the court of appeals reversing Judge Landis', and remanding the case for a new trial, was given July 22, 1908. Attempts of the government to obtain a rehearing of the case before the appellate court, as well as their endeavors to secure a review of it before the United States supreme court, failed. The second trial was begun before Judge Anderson, Feb. 23.

The decision of the court was announced at the close of a long argument by Assistant District Attorney Wilkerson, and the jury was immediately summoned and instructed to return a verdict of not guilty. This means that all but two of the pending indictments against the Standard Oil Company of Indiana are void, and will be abandoned by the government. The two cases not affected by today's decision are cases involving the shipment of 1,915 carloads of oil from Whiting, Ind., to Evansville, Ind., via Dolton Junction, over the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad.

Missouri Appeal Allowed.

THE AUTO SHOW.

Minneapolis Event is Attracting Widespread Attention in State.

Society is busily preparing for the Minneapolis automobile show, which opens at the new Minneapolis armory Saturday afternoon, March 13, and continues for a week, during which the leading American cars and many European makes direct from Eastern exhibits will be shown for the first time together in the Northwest.

The fact that so many American cars and foreign cars are to be brought together for mutual comparison under one roof gives society an unusually good opportunity to inspect the cream of American and European automobiles.

At no time in the history of the automobile in this state has there been manifested so much interest in the big automobile show of Minneapolis as there has this season. It has been two years since the public of this and adjoining states has had an opportunity to attend a motor car show, and the attendance will unquestionably be unprecedentedly large.

That the Minneapolis automobile show has become an important society event is demonstrated by the announcement that many of the leading hotels and cafes in the city will be decorated specially for the occasion. This will be the first time in the history of automobiling in this section that the Minneapolis hostelries and other places of entertainment have been decorated for an automobile event.

FIVE PERISH IN RISING WATERS

Alabama Has Heaviest Rainfall in Twenty Years.

Montgomery, Ala., March 10.—Five persons were drowned today in the Alabama river here in the rising waters which followed last night's storm. Three whites and a negro were drowned from a ferry, and William Dillard, a white boy, playing near the river bank, fell in.

Last night's rain was the heaviest here in twenty years. Five and a half inches fell in a little more than five hours.

PLANS TO RAISE BEST ALFALFA

Hansen Has Some From Four Continents, to Help.

La Crosse, Wis., March 10.—With three varieties of Siberian alfalfa, a clover which grows north of the arctic circle, and 300 other varieties of seeds suitable to the semi-arid regions of the West, Prof. Niels Ebbsen Hansen, chief plant explorer of the department of agriculture, has returned from a nine-months' trip in lands rarely visited by an American.

Hansen was the first man ever sent out by the government on such work. This was his third trip to the northern portions of Siberia, and his fourth to the highest latitudes of European Russia.

With the alfalfas of four continents and all climates in his possession, Prof. Hansen will now combine the best elements of each in a plant intended to withstand the coldest winter and make this country the greatest producer of beef and mutton in the world.

WILL TAKE APPEAL.

Lumber Company Will Ask Supreme Court to Set Aside Verdict.

The Red Cliff Lumber company has filed notice of an appeal to the supreme court from the order of the district court denying the motion of the company for new trials in two actions brought by A. W. Holmes.

In one case Holmes ws given a verdict of $10,750 and in the other he was declared the owner of a logging outfit, the title to which was also claimed by the lumber company.

In the first case, Holmes sued for $26,775, claiming that amount to be due as the balance on a logging contract. The company claimed that he had been paid the full amount due on the contract and it was responsible for no more. The court held that in view of unforseen weather conditions, Holmes had a reasonable right to abandon his contract, and the promise of the company to pay him a reasonable amount for his work was given on a valid consideration, and the verdict of the jury should be upheld.

HOLD FIRST MEETING.

Members of New Tent of Maccabees Initiate New Members.

Glen Avon Tent No. 12, Knights of the Maccabees of the World, held their regular review last evening in Maccabee hall. It being the first meeting held since the tent was organized two weeks ago, a large number of visitors from other tents were present to get acquainted and assist the members in the work. Deputy Great Commander D. McNamara presented the following applications: Carl A. Knutson, Sterling How, George E. Orr, Max M. Klein, B. M. Quigley Albert H. Wheaton, Andrew C. Keenly, William H. Norton, William Chadwick, M. J. Murray and Arthur Robinson. The candidates were given the first and second degrees The iniatory work was exemplified by the new officers in a very creditable manner.

A short program of songs and an informal smoker followed the initiation. Commander William A. Anderson and R. C. E. Eckstein sang a duet, and were encored. John W. S. Irvine entertained the audience with a recitation. The others taking part in the program were Sir Knights Simon Clark, T. P. C Maguire, J. B. Gelineau, A. J. Bawden William Marx, D. H. Fredine, R. C. E. Eckstein, Dr. E. L. Cheney, Thomas Clark, Vincent M. Grady and A. J. Anderson.

Glen Avon tent is in a most flourishing condition. It was organized only two weeks agon and has now a membership of sixty-two, all young men, who are determined to make it the banen rtent of the state with the assistance of Deputy Commander McNamara.

NEW YORK PLEASED

With the Reported Attitude of the Taft Administration.

There Is No Disposition to Hurry the Prosperity Wagon.

New York, March 10.—Notwithstanding the new railroad orders for rails and cars, the new construction already ordered by the Chesapeake & Ohio and other systems, there is a disposition here to not hurry the prosperity wagon until the actual intentions of the new administration on tariff revision, antitrust legislation and interstate commerce affairs are fully known and clearly defined. There is a universal opinion that Roosevelt policies will not be abandoned, but that there will be more calmness, deliberation and consideration to the interests involved in carrying them out.

This view, whether correct or not, pleases New York, and if it is verified by future events the operators will be once more happy.

Money Continues Easy.

Money continues very easy in this city despite the return by the banks of the government deposits, the heavy shipments of gold to Argentina and the necessary preparations made at the beginning of March to care for the interest and dividend disbursements.

The comparison of the sales of stocks and bonds since Jan. 1, 1909, with the same period of last year discloses a wonderful change in the sentiment of investors. It also gives an idea of how successful have been the many flotations of railway securities in the last few months.

From Jan. 1, 1908, to March 2, 1908, exchange sales of stocks were $29,998,400 in value; of bonds in same period, $44,862,000. From Jan. 1, 1909, to March 2, 1909, the stock sales amounted to $28,116,300, while the bond sales run up to $234,901,000. This shows conclusively the great change in the quantity of money available as compared with last year and the growing regard for the steady returns of interest with corresponding diminution of the speculative fever in stocks. It is essentially an investors' market, and the same feature is the most prominent one in the securities markets in Europe. The markets for metals are seemingly the weakest of all markets in the world today.

The country is familiar with the cuts in steel and the dullness in iron.

Made Large Profits.

True, those interested in those industries have made abnormal profits for many years, and it was against all rules of legitimate supply and demand to expect a continuance of such enormous profits.

True, again, that those now in business can continue to do business and still make fair profit at greatly reduced rates from those in use for the past five years.

Notwithstanding the truth of both the above paragraphs it is not pleasant for iron and steel manufacturers to face conditions which demand reductions in price.

It goes against the grain of business views of profit to have returns upon capital invested, or in the majority of instances in the steel business, upon capitalization reports, reduced.

The volume of business could not be had without reductions in price. The prices became prohibitive of consumption under existing financial and industrial conditions.

Once the tariff revision is settled the conditions will change, the demand will increase, the tonnage needed by consumers will exceed all prior records, but it will be many months before the iron and steel men get over their feeling of disappointment as to loss of the high prices and huge profits of the days gone by.

Action Was Justified.

The action of the steel men for years, keeping up a price list that afforded them such magnificent profits, was more than justified in a business view by the immense business they did thereunder and the long years they were able to secure a market for ever-increasing output.

The end was inevitable, but the resultant profits in the interim proved their knowledge of the absorbent nature of the home and foreign markets and stamped them as masters of their trade. They were and are cool calculators, not plunging speculators.

The men who controlled the copper business of the world are not the same class of men as those who deal in steel and iron.

They were plungers of the leather medal class. By storing products instead of selling them; by reporting shipments abroad and classing them as legitimate demand from actual customers, by all the means that are known to educate the public in the belief of actual sales of a product when fully 50 per cent of the reported sales were simply transfers of storage receipts, the copper magnates may have made millions of dollars, but they have for years crushed the copper markets of the world.

Sales in Copper.

For two weeks past there have been statements put afloat as to tremendous sales of copper metal that have just been made or are about to be made—50,000,000 pounds it is said one day, 100,000,000 pounds it is said the next day. But the buyers of coper metal and the holders of copper stocks place but little credence in these tales. They fear the transfers, if such are made, are but to other speculative holders. They cannot perceive at this time a copper situation which would justify such a purchase of copper by actual consumers.

The market demand for copper must be shown to be active and general before any such immense sales are made to others than speculators. The copper men have no such hold upon the natural deposits of copper ores as have the iron and steel men upon the ore supplies of iron. They cannot in years approximate a control of such deposits. When they make a high price on their metal they bring into competition with their own holdings and their own output the stocks of metal and of ores from a thousand mines of the red metal.

Offered Premiums.

With 25 cents per pound copper they were offering premiums to open up great deposits of copper ores in every portion of the world, and they were thus insuring bottom prices upon their products. They are now facing a copper situation of their own creation, and under the circumstances it will be a long, a difficult and possibly an unsuccessful task to ever attain 18 cents per pound for copper.

I have alluded to the great increase in construction and building work in this city and throughout the United States. The report of Building Inspector Murphy for Manhattan borough alone covering the month of February, gives some idea of the work in the building line which is being carried on. The record for the first two months of 1908 showed a total cost of expenditure of $7,035,870. For the two months of 1909 the total investment is $24,209,000 in new buildings and alterations, nearly four times as much as in the same period last year. This report does not include Brooklyn, Queens or the Bronx, and buildings in all of them are being put up in great numbers and represent investents of many millions in the last six months. Spring promises the most active building season for years in the greater city.

Ben Hur, Mother and Sister, the Principal Personages in Lew Wallace's Mighty Drama, "Ben Hur."

KINGDON GOULD FAILS TO GET ENGINEERING DIPLOMA, BUT IS ELECTED A RAILWAY DIRECTOR

New York, March 10.—Kingdon Gould, 22-year-old son of George J. Gould, yesterday was elected a director of the Missouri Pacific railway. He left Columbia university last year after pursuing the engineering course for four years. He failed to receive his diploma and since then has been studying practical railroading in the Southwest and Mexico.

George Gould has trained both his sons almost from infancy to take up his railroad business. His idea has been that Kingdom will eventually succeed himself as he himself succeeded Jay Gould, his father.

It has been said that the principal study of the young Goulds, as children, was the geography of the Gould lines and the geography of the rest of the world as it related to the Gould lines. Jay, the younger son, is still a student in the engineering course at Columbia. He holds the world's amateur tennis championship.

MAN ADMITS HE SLEW GIRL, BUT SAYS ACCIDENT

Baltimore, Md., March 10.—Under searching questioning by the police John J. Mueller confessed it was he who shot and killed his sweetheart, Miss Regina Reed, and that there is no truth in the story he told immediately after the shooting, that he and Miss Reed were held up at a loney spot near Mount Washington, a suburb, by a highwayman, who, after securing Mueller's money, demanded a necklace worn by Miss Reed. Mueller stated that in response to this demand Miss Reed slapped the highwayman's face and that thereupon the fatal shot was fired. Following the investigation of the coroner Mueller was held. He then made and signed a statement in which he said when the electric car upon which he and Miss Reed were riding reached South and Hilltop avenues, near Mount Washington, Miss Reed, whose marriage to Mueller was set for April 14, said she must leave the car. They did so and, according to Mueller's statement, after they had walked a short distance, the girl preceding him, he thought he saw a man emerging from behind a tree and, believing himself to be in danger, fired, but owing to the unsteadiness of his aim on account of fright, the bullet struck and killed Miss Reed.

Mueller declares the shooting to have been accidental, but the police say the killing was premeditated. They believe that Mueller wished to break off his engagement to Miss Reed and had not the courage to tell her.

At the coroner's inquiry a number of points were brought out that contradict Mueller's original statement, as well as a part of his confession. It was shown that the place where the shooting took place was dark and that a highwayman could not have seen the necklace worn by the girl, and that Mueller could not have seen the alleged highwayman's pistol gleam, as he claimed in his original story. Further, as against details of Mueller's confession, there are no trees at nor near the scene large enough to conceal a man. It also developed that Miss Reed was shot twice and three witnesses have testified that there was an interval of at least two minutes between the shots. Mueller is under arrest and the police are making further investigation.

Mueller and Miss Reed figured last December in an episode in which an anonymous threatening letter and a box of poisoned candy were incidents. The letter received by Mueller threatened him with harm if he did not cease his attentions to Miss Reed. He also claimed to have been made ill by eating a portion of the candy, likewise received by him through the mail, and which, upon investigation, was found to have been poisoned. The police believe that Mueller sent both the letter and candy to himself, and that even at that time was planning to get rid of Miss Reed.

Doctors Prescribe

Doctors of all schools in all parts of the country have used and prescribed Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for many years. Read the following letters selected from a large number received and note the uniform good results obtained by each and every one of these skilled physicians.

Prescribed It For 14 Years.

"Permit me to say that I have prescribed Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in my practice for the past fourteen years. I have been familiar with this medicinal whiskey for over 25 years, and specify Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in all cases." L. L. Hertel, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

Recommends It As Pure.

"I have often prescribed your article, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, in my practice, and can recommend it most highly as a Pure Whiskey." Dr. F. A. Kittinger, 97 Main Street, Lockport, N. Y.

Prescribed In Hospitals.

"For a number of years I have used your whiskey in the various public institutions of this city, of which I was attending physician, and it is still being used in them. I have your product at my private hospital, and I am perfectly satistied as to its merits. I also use it in my private practice, and as I have been practicing for upwards of forty years, I consider that I am able to judge of its good qualities." J. C. Beard, M. D., 638 Canal Street, New Orleans, La.

A Pure Stimulant.

"I have obtained the most satisfactory results from the use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey when a pure stimulant is required in my practice." J. E. Gendron, M. D., 35 Washington St., Worcester, Mass.

Prescribes It As Best Whiskey.

"When my patients require a stimulant I prescribe for them the best whiskey. Duffy's Malt fills all requirements." E. S. Siggins, M. D., North Yakima, Washington.

Upholds Vital Strength.

"That pure alcoholic stimulant is essential in many cases when nature is tardy or inefficient, to assist in upholding vital strength in exhaustive diseases is a fact of urgent importance. Judiciously advised by the experienced physician, the results are such as must commend Duffy's Whiskey to the intelligence of those who have witnessed the recovery of very ill persons, the trend of whose condition seemed hopeless. I speak from abundant observation, and only from a physician's view point. I can duplicate the most flattering statement you have received concerning Duffy's." F. L. Peiro, M. D., 72 E. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

Surpasses Any Other Product.

"I have thoroughly tested the merits if Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and find it surpasses any product of the kind that I have ever used or prescribed professionally." Chas. T. Mitchell, M. D., Canadaigua, N. Y.

Prescribes It.

"I have been aware of the merits of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for a number of years, and do not hesitate to prescribe it in my practice." J. L. S. Hall, M. D., 4733 S. Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Uses It In His Own Family.

"Replying to your communication of recent date wherein you ask my opinion regarding the Malt Whiskey put out by your firm, will state that have both prescribed it and used it personally in my own family, and consider it of great value in cases where a stimulant is required." A. T. Livingstone, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children. It strengthens and sustains the system; is a promoter of health and longevity; makes the old feel young and keeps the young strong.

If you wish to keep young, strong and vigorous and have on your cheeks the glow of perfect health, take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey regularly, according to directions. It tones and strengthens the heart action and purifies the entire system. It is recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

CAUTION—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. It's the only absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold in sealed bottles only—never in bulk. Look for the trade-mark the "Old Chemist" on the label and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Price $1.00. Write Consulting Physician, Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y., for a free medical illustrated booklet and free advice.

"I have been somewhat costive, but Doan's Regulets gave just the results desired. They act mildly and regulate the bowels perfectly."—George H. Krause, 306 Walnut avenue, Altoona, Pa.

COLONIES FOR THE DRUNKARDS PROPOSED.

Albany, N. Y., March 10.—The establishment of state land colonies for the custody and reformation of vagrants, habitual drunkards and tramps, proposed in a bill by Senator Grattan, was advocated at a hearing before the senate finance committee by a large delegation representing leading charitable societies and interests in New York City.

MONSTER TIMBER LOAD.

Two Record-Breaking Cases Reported in Upper Michigan Woods.

Corinne, Mich., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two remarkable records in the way of monster sleighloads of timber, each hauled by one team of horses, have lately been registered at Upper Michigan logging camps. One load consisted of 2,700 cedar posts, each 7 feet long and ranging in diameter from 3 to 7 inches, and was loaded at the camp of George Roberts, who is operating near Garden, Delta county. It was hauled a distance of two miles to the banking ground.

The second load consisted of 16,500 feet of hemlock logs, loaded at the camp of Westling & Johnson, near Rapid River, Delta county. This load weighed upwards of ninety tons, and there were enough of the logs to fill three railroad flat cars.

FINISH BIG CONTRACT.

St. Cloud Parties Have Concluded Irrigation Ditch in Montana.

St. Cloud, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Don Freeman and J. R. Cornell have returned from Glendive, Mont., where for the last three years D. H. Freeman & Co. have been engaged at digging a part of the large government irrigation ditch. The latter was accepted by the government Saturday.

The ditch has a total length of seventeen miles, of which length D. H. Freeman & Co., had three miles to dig, their contract coming in the neighborhood of $700,000. The ditch will irrigate about 67,000 acres.

TAKEN TO PENITENTIARY.

Walker, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff Daniel DeLury of Cass county left Monday with James Hurley and P. H. Cavanaugh, both of Cass Lake, for Stillwater. Hurley pleaded guilty before Judge Wright to the charge of grand larceny in the stealing of a watch, Cavanaugh pleaded guilty to entering a box car and stealing a case of goods.

Both crimes were committed at Cass Lake and each was given a sentence of one year in the penitentiary at Stillwater.

GHOULS ROB GRAVE.

Janesville, Wis., March 10.—The grave of Miss Hendicka Hingvold, a young woman buried in Luther Valley cemetery, in the town of Avon Rock township, Feb. 15, has been broken into and robbed of its contents. Every effort to locate the ghouls thus far has failed, though the district attorney, the sheriff, and the chief of police of Janesville have been working on the case.

Ladies' Furnishings and Millinery

We are now entering the spring season when every woman in Duluth and vicinity begins to think about what is going to be the correct thing to wear. Ladies, the hats that have come to light from Paris and New York are indeed pleasing to the eye. They may be properly called creations—modest—attractive and not extreme. They are becoming to most faces, and the trimmings are so varied that any taste can be suited.

Ostrich, wings and quills are good. Fruit, foliage and small flowers are shown very extensively as trimmings for the early hat.

This store will be the place to see the very latest. Our trimming room will have at its head one of the best designers ever brought to Duluth, and we cordially invite the ladies of Duluth and vicinity to call.

DIRECTORS ARE DUMMIES

The Island Copper Company Is Organized in Michigan.

Will Explore Isle Royale for Extension of Keweenaw Lode.

An Associated Press dispatch from Lansing, Mich., says that the Island Copper company, a $1,000,000 corporation, has filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of the state of Michigan. The offices of the company are at Houghton and Duluth, and its operations will be confined to Houghton and Keweenaw counties, Michigan. Isle Royale is part of Keweenaw county.

The Island Copper company is the outgrowth of the recent purchase by American people of the holdings of the Isle Royale syndicate, an English corporation, which held title to the greater part of Isle Royale in Lake Superior. The transfer was recently effected by a trip to England of Oscar J. Larson of Duluth, F. W. Nichols of Houghton, Mich., and others, but the people behind the deal have not yet become known.

The name of the company indicates that the purchase was made for the purpose of exploring Isle Royale for copper. Years ago it was thought that the copper bearing lodes of the Keweenaw peninsula of Michigan extended under Lake Superior and might be encountered on Isle Royale. Some exploration work was done by the English syndicate, which purchased the island for that purpose, but the results were disappointing and the work was abandoned.

The theory that there is copper on Isle Royale has never been disproved, as the work done there years ago was not extensive enough to determine conditions at depth. It is believed in Duluth that the deal just consumated is for the purpose of making a more thorough exploration—one that will definitely determine the worth of Isle Royale as a copper proposition.

The incorporators of the new company are F. W. Nichols, J. C. Stone, Albert Bauden, C. H. Frimodig, J. C. McKee and Edward McKee of Houghton, Herman A. Wieder and James D. Looney of Hancock, Mich., and Oscar J. Larson of Duluth. It is believed that the majority of the incorporators are merely figurehead directors. When the organization of the company is perfected, the real backers of the enterprise will doubtless come out. The rumor that the United States Steel corporation is the real purchaser of the island is denied by all sources of possible confirmation.

MARINES CANNOT BE REASSIGNED

Navy Secretary Gets Ruling From the Attorney General.

Washington, March 10.—Marines may not be reassigned to duty to battleships and armored cruisers, despite the recent provision of congress that money appropriations for the maintenance of the marine corps must not be used unless the marines are aboard the warships.

Secretary of the Navy Meyer has asked the opinion of the attorney general regarding the constitutionality of the restoration provision.

AIR AND FOOD THROUGH A PIPE

Men Entombed In Tunnel Are Thus Kept Alive.

Salt Lake, March 10.—The rescue of George and Jerry Peterson, who have been entombed in a tunnel of the St. Patrick mine for the past forty hours, has not yet been affected.

The rescue party is encountering great difficulty on account of frequent slides, due to the looseness of the surrounding ground.

Air and nourishment is furnished the men through a two-inch iron pipe.

CHEAPER ELECTRICITY.

Fargo Expects to Benefit by Offer of Fergus Falls Company.

Fargo, N. D. March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Considerable interest is shown in the trip to be made this week by members of the council to Fergus Falls, Minn., to inspect the power dam. The company offers to furnish electric power at 2½ cents per kilowat. It is claimed that Fargo can wire the city and use and sell the electricity at 7 or 8 cents. The present price paid the Independent company in Fargo is 15 cents. The city could also operate the municipal waterworks plant with the power more cheaply than by fuel. A cheap rate could be made to factories for power and the plan, if found feasible, is regarded as a big boost for the city.

Receipt That Cures Weak Men—Free

Send Name and Address Today—You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man, who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So, I have determined to send a copy of the prescription, free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope ,to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men, and I am convinced it is the surest-acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor-failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence, so that any man, anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop dragging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what, I believe, is the quickest-acting, restorative, upbuilding, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so, cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 4671 Luck Bldg., Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid receipt, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope, free of charge.

PROBE FOR SOCIAL EVIL

Grand Jury Investigated Disorderly Resorts on the Range.

First Arrest Under Several Indictments Is Reported.

The first result of the recent grand jury's investigation of the "social evil" on the range was made evident this morning when Glenn Seville was arraigned in district court on four indictments covering charges of selling liquor without a license and conducting a disorderly house.

Under one indictment Seville is charged jointly with Cora Taylor with conducting a disorderly house in the town of Stuntz. Another indictment charges Seville alone with a similiar offense and the other two are for selling liquor wihtout a license. He is charged with having sold liquor without a license Jan. 21 and again on March 2.

It is understood that Seville and the Taylor woman are not the only ones to be hit by the grand jury's investigations. The inquiry into conditions in the range towns is said to have extended to several of the towns and to have resulted in several indictments, under which the accused have not yet been arrested.

The Civic League is understood to have been active on the range for some weeks organizing branches and looking into conditions. The league has been especially active at Hibbing, and it is said that a determined movement to drive out the disreputable houses is contemplated.

CANDIDATES SCARCE.

Not Single One After City Office in Brainerd Thus Far.

Brainerd, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the city election four weeks away, there is not an avowed candidate for a single city office. The Republican party and the Public Ownership party have issued calls for city conventions, and will doubtless both have full tickets in the field. The Democrats had no ticket in the field last year and so far have called no convention.

The Carnegie library is growing in popularity. Last Saturday 268 books weer taken out and twenty-five cards were issued to new patrons. The library board has added 144 books to the library this week and is hoping in the near future to be able to keep the library and reading room open every day and evening instead of two afternoons and three evegs, as at present.

John G. Llen of this city, formerly a soldier in the Third United States Regulars, has been summoned to Washington, to appear as a witness in a hearing in the war department. Mr. Lein, who has been out of the army for the past nine years, is somewhat at a loss to know the reason of the summons, but surmises that it may have some connection with a deserter whom he wounded while on duty at Fort Snelling.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

Ladies who are afflicted with superfluous hair growth should be careful in choosing a remedy. Always learn first what authorities know about a treatment before using it. Dr. Rhodes, the well known physician, says: "In regard to DeMiracle I find it the most satisfactory article for the removal of superfluous growths of hair on any part of the body that I have ever used. I have used it in a great many cases for the removal of objectionable growths of hair on the faces of ladies, and in no case has it ever failed to give me the most perfect satisfaction. It fulfills all the claims made for it by the manufacturers.

Better take a doctor's advice, don't be deceived with fake free treatments. Remember DeMiracle is the only method in the world which is endorsed by physicians, surgeons, dermatologists, medical journals and prominent magazines.

DeMiracle mailed, sealed in plain wrapper, for $1.00. Your money back without question (no red tape) if it fails to do all that is claimed for it. Booklet free in plain sealed envelope, by the DeMiracle Chemical Co., Desk 1, 1909 Park Ave., New York. For sale by I. Freimuth, corner Lake Ave. and Superior St., and all good stores.

STOLE FROM THE PRIEST

Lone Burglar Later Is Caught Stripping Altar In Catholic Church.

Escapes After a Sound Beating From the Janitor.

A lone burglar entered the Polish Catholic church parsonage, 325 East Third street, Sunday morning, and stole $65 in gold. The following afternoon the same man was caught stealing valuables from the altar in the church, a few doors away, and was released, after receiving a sound thrashing at the hands of the janitor. The matter was not reported to the police until today.

The theft occurred while all the occupants of the parsonage were at church. A woman of the parish saw the stranger walk boldly up to the door and enter, but supposed from his actions, that he had a right there, and thought nothing more of the incident until she learned of the theft. The money was in a locked desk in the priest's room. The burglar broke open the desk, appropriated the cash, and calmly walked out of the house.

At 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon the janitor, working in the basement of the church, heard some one moving about on the first floor. He quietly mounted the stairs, and saw a strange man at the altar. Watching him a moment, he saw him taking articles from the altar and placing them in his pocket. The janitor rushed forward and grabbed him by the collar, dragging him back.

The robber, a strongly built man about 35 years of age, was as big as the janitor, and put a vigorous fight, but he was no match for the protector of the church. He was dragged unceremoniously towards the door, fighting step by step, and receiving much the worst of it. By the time the door was reached, he was pretty well battered up. By a last muscular effort, the janitor turned the unwelcome visitor's face towards the street, and landed a swift kick on the seat of his trousers, sending him sailing through the air.

He landed on the bottom step, slipped and fell on his face, cutting a great gash in his forehead. Hastily scrambling to his feet, he bound a handkerchief around the wound to staunch the flow of blood, and ran off down the street. Later it was found that his description corresponded exactly with that of the man seen entering the parsonage. The janitor forced him to give up the booty stolen from the altar before ejecting him from the church. Because of the delay in reporting the case, it is doubtful if the police will be able to find the man.

Near Death in Big Pond.

It was a thrilling experience to Mrs. Ida Soper to face death. "For years a severe lung trouble gave me intense suffering," she writes, "and several times nearly caused my death. All remedies failed and doctors said I was incurable. Then Dr. King's New Discovery brought quick relief and a cure so permanent that I have not been troubled in twelve years." Mrs. Soper lives in Big Pond, Pa. It works wonders in Coughs and Colds, Sore Lungs, Hemorrhages, LaGrippe, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough and all bronchial affections. 50c and $1.00. Citizens of Third Ward Enthusiastically for Improvement.

Brainerd, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The citizens of the Third ward held a large and enthusiastic meeting Monday night, presided over by Mayor Crust at which it was decided to circulate a petition for the organization o fa sewer district i nthat ward, an dthe putting in trict in that ward, and the putting in of a system of district and lateral

There will also doubtless be sewers constructed in the Fourth and Fifth wards, the preliminary steps in those wards already having been taken. The city council will probably authorize the sale of $30,000 revolving fund improvement bonds and all indications point to greater activity in the line of municipal improvements this year than ever before. In addition to these improvements there will be a good-sized sum expended by the park board on the parks and boulevards of the city.

JAIL FOR GAMBLERS.

There will be no honest men in Duluth who will not applaud the announced decision of the judges of the Eleventh judicial district to inflict upon convicted gamblers a punishment that will be a punishment and not merely a license to continue gambling.

The sentence of two gamblers in this city to ten days at hard labor in the county jail is a punishment that hurts. Such men, men who allow and invite young men holding positions of trust to come into their dens and gamble with the money which belongs to their employers—such men have no fear of the fine. A fine to them is merely a license to continue to make money by ruining the good name and the lives of others. A fine to them involves no moral obliquity. They are not disgraced in their own eyes. So long as they are merely compelled to pay fines they think that they are "honorable and respected," in the language of their counsel, but when they are sent to jail they think that they are disgraced. To corrupt a young man, undermine his character, blacken his reputation and ruin his life, to bring misery and lifelong disgrace upon his mother or wife or sisters is not dishonorable in their eyes, but to spend ten days in the county jail at hard labor is a terrible disgrace. To do all manner of evil is "honorable" but to spend some days in jail is so dishonorable! Men who care nothing for the disgrace they scheme to bring upon others are yet greatly moved to shame by being branded for what they are!

What leniency do men deserve who have such conceptions of what honor is? What sort of a business is it that such men practice? They cunningly appeal to one of the most subtle temptations that beset men and they enlist that alluring devil as their solicitor of business. They send him out into the highways and byways and he compels men to come in to them. They do not promise their victim anything but they are most careful to employ an agent who does, the most eloquent promiser of wealth and pleasure and all the good things of this life that satan ever dispatched from hell to help men drag their fellows down, the gay, the alluring, the so devilishly attractive gambling devil. He points you to the elysian heights of sudden fortune and when he gets you there his fellows in human shape strip you and push you off into the bottomless pit.

Such is the business which these men regard as "honorable," although their very souls shrink from the dishonor that lies behind the door of a jail. If the jail is the only place that such men fear, the jail is the one and only place for them.

Human nature in Duluth and elsewhere ought to take a lesson from this little incident. How much better would business be, for instance, in Duluth if not a business man in the town ever gambled, if every man in business, every head of a department, every clerk, every stenographer, every school teacher, every professor, every doctor, every messenger boy, every lawyer, every editor and very other person quit gambling in copper stocks and other stocks and other things? How many more square meals, how many more pleasures, comforts, luxuries would there be for us? Ten thousand fail in gambling where one is lucky. Indeed, is anyone ever lucky? The one who wins once risks again and always loses in the end. So the money that ought to go into business to be usefully used for the benefit of the owner and for the good of his fellows is tossed into the lap of the gambler, whose only idea of dishonor is what lies behind the door of a jail.

THE BIG STICK STILL NEEDED.

There has been a good deal of comment, and some rejoicing, over the alleged fact that William Howard Taft as president will be more tactful and ingratiating than was Theodore Roosevelt. Mr. Taft has come to be regarded as a man who will not lack force, but as one who will apply that force more quietly, less roughly and with more consideration for the feelings of the persons to whom it is applied than was the wont of his predecessor. March 4 has been hailed as the end of the reign of "the big stick." Possibly there is a good deal of truth in this estimate of Mr. Taft's character. Few men have known the new president as intimately as has Mr. Roosevelt and the latter declares of Taft: "He has won an enviable reputation and succeeded to a remarkable degree in combining entire fearlessness in stating and upholding his own convictions with the ability to avoid giving heedless offense to those whose convictions differed from his. It is one of Mr. Taft's great gifts of usefulness that he possesses exactly the ability, unflinchingly, to stand by the right, and yet to do it with the minimum of offensiveness toward those who do not see matters as clearly as he does."

The quality of tact is a very admirable quality and the country hopes that President Taft has it to the degree with which he is popularly credited with having it. The "soft pedal" is all right upon occasion—but it will be a calamity if it takes the place of the "big stick." There is a wholesome roughness about the laying on of the big stick that this country is not yet ready to do without. The big stick was good medicine. It was a tonic under which public morality has thriven and grown strong.

But while the public health has been bettered by the use of the big stick, the body politic has not yet been made whole and it still needs the timely application of that remedy, unpleasant to take but of extraordinary efficacy. It is quite possible that the strenuous Roosevelt swung the big stick at times when it would have been more courteous, if not more wise, to have been fair spoken, or not to have spoken at all, but such times have been few, and the service which Roosevelt has rendered his country by his plain speaking of men and things is a service the timeliness, necessity and far-reaching effects of which the present day senses in some measure but which future ages will doubtless declare to have given the nation new life and virility. The blows of the big stick have been sounding calls to the manhood of the people. It was righteousness sitting in high places and administering justice with an even hand. They that did well had praise and they that did evil had the lash! Wrongs were not mildly deprecated but soundly chastised. Wrongdoers were not merely whipped but were chastised with scorpions, and that in the public place!

It was a very wholesome treatment and we want to see it continued until we are made well. We much mistake the temper of President Taft if he does not wield the big stick and do healthful execution with it upon occasion. Let there be honor for whom honor is due, and respect for high position, but when men entrusted with great duties and grave responsibilities treasonably betray those whom they should serve, let the conscience of the nation, incarnate in its president, call all such forth to public condemnation. Welcome tact and good feeling but let us not forget that those who will not do right because they ought, must be made to do right because they must. There is still work for the big stick to do.

PUNISHING WIFE AND CHILDREN.

One lone newspaper in Minnesota—we have forgotten which one, we are glad to say—has raised its voice in opposition to the bill now pending in the legislature providing that a portion of the convict's earnings in the state prison shall be paid to the convict's family for their support. This single voice against the plan of providing for the family of the criminal is raised because of the expense to the state which the plan will cause. Evidently the newspaper referred to is one of those which are constitutionally opposed to any measure that will in any way decrease the state's income or increase its expenses, without regard to the justice of the measures that are responsible for such decreases and such increases.

Minnesota is now making a good deal of money out of its convicts. It employs them in various ways. In particular, they are compelled to make binding twine which is sold to the farmers of the state at less than the market price. Thus a very large proportion of the people of the state profit from the labor of the state's convicts. Yet the profits which the state has made on the sale of binding twine have been piling up in the state treasury until the state now has hundreds of thousands of dollars of this money on hand. All this time that the farmers and others are using the convicts to put a profit in their pockets and to store up gold in the state's strong box, the families of the convicts, in many instances, are starving. Yet we hear an objection, on the ground of economy, to paying to the families of convicts what belongs to them.

It is possible that by sinning against society a man may forfeit his right to the fruits of his labor. It may be proper in such a case for the state to take his earnings and devote them to the use of society which has suffered through the criminal's acts. But in no case has the state any right to confiscate that portion of the criminal's earnings which belong to the criminal's family. It should rather be the duty of the state, it is its duty, to compel the criminal to support his family. If a man must be restrained and his liberty denied him because of the fact that he is a danger to society, society may recompense itself for the cost to which it is put in so restraining him. The residue clearly belongs to those who are dependent upon the criminal for support.

The operation of our penal system in Minnesota at present is such that it is not the criminal who is punished, but the criminal's wife and children. The criminal is merely kept from society, but from the mouths of the wife and the babies of the criminal is taken the very bread by which they live. It may be a punishment to the guilty criminal to deprive him of his freedom, but how terrible is the punishment that is inflicted upon the innocent wife and children! They have done no wrong but they must bear the heaviest penalty. The proposed bill will relieve them in a measure of this injustice. It ought to pass, and it will pass. Every consideration of right and justice demands it.

Not much legislation of this kind has yet been enacted in the United States. Minnesota is one of the pioneers of the movement. But various courts have applied the principle most effectively. Judge De Lacy in Washington, has inaugurated an effective method by which every man who is sent to the workhouse has paid to his wife 50 cents for every day's labor that he puts in, while others are released on probation and compelled to pay into the court certain sums for the support of their families. In the last fiscal year 559 such offenders, released on probation, paid into the court a total of $21,888, which was distributed by the court to the families of the men. Similar methods are being employed in other parts of the country and a notable reform in our criminal court practice and in our penal system in this respect is under way.

SHOULD BE DRIVEN OUT.

Duluth appears to be drifting back to conditions that existed about twenty years ago, when the city was filled with alleged pugilists of all colors and so-called wrestlers and a crowd of satellites—all living at the expense of the people who are duped into attending their fake pugilistic or wrestling exhibitions. It was found necessary years ago to run this disreputable crowd out of town by using the provisions of the law against vagrancy, and the time has again arrived when the chief of police should give this matter his prompt attention.

These disreputable and lawless creatures have no visible means of support, outside of their successful attempts to "skin the public," and they clearly come under the designation of vagrants. The police department has been quite active in arresting a few unfortunate women but has permitted these lawless prize-fighters and fake wrestlers to work their schemes for swindling the public. It is time to rid the city of their obnoxious presence, and the quickest way is to give them the alternative of leaving town or working on the rockpile.

Now for a weatherless inauguration day.

The honorable navy of the United States is well pleasing to Japan—in the honorable Atlantic.

Anyhow, Taft preferred his snowsorm in March rather than in November.

Man is usually not very successful in accomplishing good by bad methods, but there are occasional exceptions, as witness the historic attempts of Mr. Thomas C. Platt to put Theodore Roosevelt out of the way.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Charles L. Sawyer of Minneapolis, who is a member of the sub-committee on normal schools, which visited Duluth yesterday to inspect the Duluth normal school, is one member of a committee upon state schools who has made a study of the needs of the students of these schools.

At the Spalding yesterday, Mr. Sawyer explained some of the things which he believed were to the best interests of those who are attending a normal school.

"For instance," he began, "you can take the large school as an example. That has been opposed for some time, on the theory that the pupil does not receive the attention of the teacher. That theory, to my mind, is quite correct. But the theory is even more pertinent in the case of the future instructor.

"As I said at the Commercial club, I am of the opinion that the St. Cloud is too large for the best interests of the students. I am one who believes the education of teachers is a very serious affair. You can readily see that upon the proper education of the instructors depends the right and proper education of the children in the public schools, even if they proved more expensive to the state, than to have a few, and have too many students to receive the individual attention of the instructors of the school.

"Even if it should cost the state more in the end, and it probably would, the state should make it one of its first principles to see that every facility is afforded to give the teachers of the state the very best instruction. That is one of my hobbies. I woul rather see a small, well equipped school, than an imposing, big school, that was overcrowded with students. The smaller the school, that is, of course, within reason, you will find the better the students can work.

"I stated that I was very much pleased with the Duluth school. That was not mere jolly, you understand. I think that with a few more students you will have a school of just the right size. Mr. Bohannon agrees with my views upon this point. Your school will grow and Mr. Bohannon says that the high schools up here are increasing in attendance, and that more schools are being opened. This, of course, means that the attendance of the Duluth normal school will be increased. But I would be loath to see the Duluth school increase beyond the 300-mark, and Mr. Bohannon has informed me that he would not care to have over 600 students at the Duluth school.

"The normal school committee has been very good to the normal schools of the state. If the committee on appropriations carries out the views of the members of the normal school committee, there should be no complaint about the money expended upon education. All we hear is appropriations, but we have tried to do the best we knew how."

Thomas F. Rodwell, the Indian agent at Tower, was at the St. Louis yesterday. Mr. Rodwell stated that the wards of the nation were doing very well in the northern part of the state, and that what land they owned was of good value, if the Indians cared to do any work, which, by the way, Mr. Rodwell says, is not unusual. He says that poor Lo is not the lazy, shiftless person that popular opinion would make of him and that industry is a growing habit among the modern Indians.

F. W. Lowrie, who for some time was local agent for the Canadian Pacific company at Skagway, Alaska, was at the Lenox hotel last night. Mr. Lowrie is enroute to Seattle from Winnipeg. Talking about Alaska, he stated that although most of the large mineral tracts had been secured by the large companies and the big moneyed interests, that nevertheless Alaska would remain a poor man's country for years to come.

For instance, he pointed out that the small storekeeper and the small merchant of every kind were the rule in the land of the North. For this reason Mr. Lowrie pointed out that many poor men with but small capital were coming to Alaska because they believed that they had a better chance than they have in the states.

"You see, here in the states you have so many combinations of all kinds of business, that the small merchant every year is finding that his chance is becoming less," said Mr. Lowie. "I am of the opinion that the money of the United States is steadily passing into the hands of a few, powerful, business men, who through combinations of capital are compelling the small merchants to become the employe. You will admit that this has become more or less of the tendency of modern business. The poor man is finding that he must become an employe. That is the very condition that is increasing the population of Alaska. "Up there, there are not many combinations as yet. No doubt they will come some day. But right at the present time Alaska is the home of the poor man; it is the place for the poor man to come.

"The men who are looking at the future of Alaska, and we believe that the country has a great future are not counting upon the mineral development of Alaska to make it great. Gold never made any country great It is the agricultural resources of the country that make it great, and it is upon this that we are depending. The small farmer is coming to this country, and in the future you will find that the agricultural resources of the country are developed to their fullest capacity through the small farmer.

THE WEATHER.

Once again the threatened snowstorm failed to materialize, although a few straggling flakes fell last evening. This morning the cloudy weather again yielded to the bright rays of the sun, and there was a snap to the air that has been missing for many days. The weather man looks for fair, cold weather.

A year ago today it was fair and cold.

The sun rose this morning at 6:31, and will set this afternoon at 6 o'clock, making eleven hours and thirty-five minutes of sunlight.

R. E. Clark, acting forecaster, makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The Missouri disturbance has moved northeastward since Tuesday, it being central this morning over Michigan and overspreading the lake region, Ohio Valley and North Atlantic coast states. Another barometric depression is approaching over the southwest, being central this morning over the Upper Rio Grande valley. The movement of these two areas of low pressure has been attended by rain or snow over the entire country except over Manitoba and the south border states. The northwestern high pressure area has increased considerably in intensity since Tuesday, but is still central over British Columbia, and overspreads the entire Upper Rocky Mountain plateau. The approach of this area of high pressure has been attended by falling temperatures over the upper lake region, the Missouri, Mississippi and Lower Ohio valleys, the Rocky Mountain plateau and in Canada."

A Vanderbilt Philanthropy.

Portland Telegram: It is announced that Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt is to erect a number of newly designed sanitary tenement structures in New York city with the purpose that they shall meet the special hygienic requirements for tuberculosis patients. Air and light and cleanliness are to be the predominating features. It is said that the sites for these buildings rule from $20,000 to $50,000, and that the buildings themselves will cost at least $250,000 each.

Philanthropy has had much to do of late years with city housing, and it has been said that philanthropy has been at times more concerned in the revenue end of the venture than in any manifest desire to better the condition of those who were the victims of misfortune. The Vanderbilt venture, as we understand, is concerned primarily with the latter consideration, entertaining the hope that loss will be avoided rather than that profit shall be made. It is the belief of Mrs. Vanderbilt that tubercular patients who are unable to go to sanitaria outside the city may mend their condition by proper living conditions in the city itself. It is demonstrated from the cost of these buildings and the charges to be made for their occupancy that speculative considerations are entirely aside. The object is to reach the people who really need to dwell in such buildings and who cannot afford to pay the price which speculative consideration would demand. This philanthropy is the application of millions accumulated from the growth of the community, to the relief of an evil for which that growth is more or less responsible. In this matter, Mrs. Vanderbilt evinces the highest sense of stewardship in the disposition of, at least, a portion of her fortune. She sets a good mark for other millionaires.

"Kill the Foreign Devils."

Louisville Courier-Journal: Extremes meet. But a scant ten yers ago a polyglot army, hydra-headed, crept and fought its way through a horde of bloodthirsty Orientals toward Peking. The real China wrapped itself like a python around the legations. Men of the Christian world fought as they had swapped generals for a time; women made bandages and prayed, each with her ration of poison hanging about her neck against the hour it should be needed. The world looked on, alternately shuddering and raging, and even when the coils were cut and the barbaric sack of the treasures of five thousand years began the Western nations piously praised heaven for the enlightenment and sense of human brotherhood, the cosmopolitanism, with which they had been endowed. A scant ten years. And now the youngest of the civilizations, alleging a motive just the opposite from that which animated the oldest a decade ago, is shouting in long crescendo: "Kill the foreign devils." First it was the negro, then the Chinaman, then the Japanese, then the Italian and now the Greek—as witness the scenes in Omaha.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1889.

A few days ago the Boston firm of H. A. Gould & Co., dealers in India rubber, indigo, dystuffs, camphor, etc., failed for $1,000,000. The firm has been doing a large import business on a small capital and had suffered severely by the failure of other companies. Mr. Gould is well known in Duluth, having been one of the early boomers of this city and in 1879 was president of the first chamber of commerce organized here, Charles M. Cushman being secretary. Gould was in the building business and dealt in real estate and was also a money loaner. He built the Miller building on Lake avenue and Superior street, as well as a number of dwellings opposite the First Presbyterian church. Among those affected by the failure is Ezra Farnsworth, who was on Mr. Gould's paper for $300,000 and who is also well known here personally.

Hon. R. A. Costello, formerly a member of the legislature from the Forty-second district, when he was a resident of Graceville, but who is now making his home at Duluth, is an aspirant for the governorship of Alaska, and his claims will be presented to President Harrison, backed by Governor Merriam and other prominent Republicans of Minnesota. Col. Plummer of the Casselton, Dak., Bl zzard, is also a candidate for this office.

The business men of Tower are taking steps to secure the erection of a hotel to cost about $40,000. D. H. Bacon, C. L. White, Charles McNamara, Neil McInnis, Charles Oppel and James Grierson have been appointed a committee to take charge of the project.

President Bacon says the Minnesota Iron company will donate the necessary land and $5,000 in cash, and the Duluth & Iron Range railroad will also probably help the project. It is likely that E. E. Partridge of the Hotel Sheridan will be the landlord.

D. T. Denton was given a reception last night at Tower by his many friends, previous to his departure for Cuba, his future home.

A. L. Plaisted, formerly proprietor of the Oriental cafe in Duluth, is now in Worchester, Mass., where he is proprietor of the Whitcomb house and doing a good business.

Blue water is visible now only about a mile from the base of Minnesota Point. The open water channel from the canal now reaches half way from shore to uninterrupted navigation, and a strong tug could get through, if necessary. In the bay, open water extends from the canal to Sixth avenue west, and around the channels at the ends of Rice's and Grassy points the ice is very weak.

C. W. Wilding of Fort Wayne, Ind., who has been the guest of W. A. Foote for several days, left for home yesterday.

W. E. Cash, formerly of Duluth, but now manager of Coulter & Brown's interests at West Superior, was in the city yesterday.

Word has reached here of the death at Crookston of Judge Reynolds, father of Fred Reynolds, the Duluth attorney.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Princeton Union: Duluth is experiencing a deal of trouble in deciding what weight should constitute a fair load for a horse to haul up its hilly streets. One way of settling this perplexing problem would be to cut down the hills!

Albert Lea Standar: The Duluth Herald, Northfield News and other enlightened papers put the question like this: "Minnesota is spending hundreds of thousands of dollars each year in aid of its town and city schools. What is it doing for its rural schools?" The expenditures for the town and city schools is certainly well intended, but until they can graduate or equip scholars who can spell and write and cypher as well as those of the rural schools, it would seem to be the greater problem to so improve the flagrant inefficiency of the first-named in the respects mentioned that they will be at least on a par with those taught by the country schoolma'ams.

Le Sueur Sentinel: Every member of the Duluth Woman's Label league has pledged herself to see that the men of her acquaintance smoke union label tobacco and cigars. Unless Duluth women are different from the average women, they will have to considerably improve their knowledge of grades before they will be able to tell the difference.

Eveleth Star: The extinguishing of the red light district in Duluth has proved a failure. The better citizen, the Christian citizen, is willing to confess that the Civic league blundered when they insisted upon the mayor driving them out all over the city.

Brainerd Tribune: Good, sensible talk by The Duluth Evening Herald: "Supporting the home institutions, doing business with your neighbors, buying at home, is not merely a sentimental concern for those who know the best, but a hard-headed business policy that means dollars to your own pockets."

Cambridge Independent Press: There seems to be a few politicians attempting to make political capital out of the fight for a tonnage tax. Here in Isanti county the farmers and others are interested in the growth of Duluth and St. Louis county. The prosperity of the people at the Head of the Lakes means much to us. Every quarter of the state should receive fair treatment and no heed should be given to a handful of would-be political bosses.

Lake Crystal Union: And if he (Roosevelt) gets away with Zenith City bears, the friends of the ex-president will have no fears of the result of his African hunting trip.

Stillwater Gazette: Increase the bounty on the fox and the wolf. These untamed animals of the forest have once more invaded Duluth, and there is quite a revival of business at the hardware stores.

DEADLOCK IN COUNCIL

Aldermen Fail to Agree Upon Question of President.

Cheadle Again Chosen City Clerk—Mayor's Appointments.

The new council, at last night's meeting, held for the purpose of organization, failed to agree on a president, and along towards the midnight hour, after taking fifty ballots, adjourned until next Monday evening, when the matter will be taken up at the regular meeting.

H. W. Cheadle was re-elected city clerk, and Mayor Haven sent in his appointments to different boards of the city. Action was also postposned in the way of electing a sealer of weights and measures. There were five candidates for the position, and the first ballots were taken without any of them receiving enough ballots to elect. Thomas Burke was again chosen harbor master, defeating Daniel Mahoney and Patrick McDonald. Mayor Haven made no attempt to appoint a successor to City Engineer McGilvray, Democrat.

There are nine Democrats and seven Republicans in the council, and with their majority of two, the Democrats had enough to elect their man, could they have decided upon one. President Getchell was a candidate to succeed himself, and Alderman Shartel was also after the place, with the latter in the lead. The Republicans, to prevent a

H. W. CHEADLE,

Chosen City Clerk for Twelfth Term.

Democrat winning out, scattered their votes among aldermen who were not in the race at all. Alderman J. J. Moe of the Seventh ward was absent, and this left fifteen members of the council to vote. It required nine votes to elect.

The uptown aldermen objected to Mr. Getchell on the grounds that he was from the western end of the city, and they say that part of Duluth is getting more honors than is due. West Duluth and the West end now have the mayor, president and vice president of the council, the incoming president of the board of public works, and the member appointed to that board by the mayor last night. In addition to this, it got the new fire commissioner appointed by the mayor last night. The uptown members of the council thought this was enough, without putting Mr. Getchell back in the president's chair.

Deal Falls Through.

An attempt was made to make a deal with West Duluth, whereby, if Alderman Shartel was elected president, the vice presidency was to go to West Duluth or the West end. Mr. Shartel came within one vote of getting the place on five different ballots, obtaining eight out of the fifteen votes. A recess was taken several times to give the aldermen a chance to caucus, but this availed nothing, and it finally became necessary to adjourn without deciding upon a president. None of the Democrats would support a Republican for the position, so the Republicans could do nothing but act the part of onlookers, for their seven votes were insufficient to put a man in the chair. They were equally obstinate about voting for a Democrat.

Usually the mayor reads his annual message at the organization of the new council, but Mayor Haven announced last night that his message would not be ready before Monday evening. The critical illness of his mother, Mrs. C. F. Sawyer, has taken up much of his time during the last few days, delaying work on the message.

H. W. Cheadle had no trouble in getting appointed city clerk. There was no one to oppose him, and every alderman gladly cast a vote in his favor. His new term, beginning today, will be his twelfth.

There were five candidates for the position of sealer of weights and measures. They were B. F. Forestal, Noble Sampson, George E. Durham, Charles McEwen and Anton Wicklund. The first ballot failed to elect, and the matter was put over to next Monday.

In accordance with a request of the mayor, the council voted $20 for a fireproof door between the police headquarters and the new building where the municipal courtrooms are to be located, adjoining the police station on the west.

Mayor Haven sent the following appointments to the council:

Member of the park board—F. A. Patrick, president of the F. A. Patrick Dry Goods company. This appointment will be subject to the approval of the judges of the Eleventh judicial district court.

principal talk before the committee. He pointed out that about 130,000,000 tons of iron ore have been shown up on state lands on the Mesaba range, and that the state is the largest fee owner in the iron country. Other fee owners, controlling property of much less value that that owned by the state, have established headquarters at Hibbing for the storing of records, and the state should do the same. Questions are constantly arising between fee owners and operators as to mining methods, and without proper safeguarding it is possible to waste enough ore in one mine to pay for half a dozen such buildings as is proposed. The state should look after its mining interests as carefully as private owners. Hibbing is the center of the greater part of the state's holdings of iron ore, and it is the natural location for such a building.

Mr. Hughes said that increasing activity in the production of ore from state lands would be seen, as the terms of outstanding leases are growing shorter. There are cases where fifteen years have elapsed on leases covering deposits of 40,000,000 to 60,000,000 tons, and that means that if the ore is to be removed within the life of the lease, the lessees must be getting at it. Therefore it is time that the state took proper steps to safeguard its interests.

State Auditor Iverson said that it is a simple business proposition. Holding ore lands is not properly a governmental function, but since, thanks to the foresight of former legislatures, the state owns vastly valuable mineral wealth, it should use business methods in taking care of it. When the legislature enacts a law providing for the leasing of state iron lands to take the place of the law repealed two years ago, unquestionably the royalties will be based upon a sliding scale according to the units of iron in each variety of ore, and in that event the state will need assayers to see that its royalties conform with the value of the ores. When that time comes, whether the leasing law is enacted at this session or the next, there will be increased need of a state mines building as headquarters for the assayers, and as a depository of their records. The state owns enormous bodies of ore, and on the university lands alone there are 160,000,000 tons, which will one day bring the university fund an income of $1,500,000 a year.

The committee from the Hibbing Commercial club consisted of Martin Hughes, John A. Redfern, Gust Carlson and F. G. Jewett.

Another round in the fight for a Northern Minnesota normal school was fought yesterday afternoon, without any distinct advance being made by either side. In this case the advantage, though slight, was in favor of the general bill. In the former fight, which was in the house, the advantage was in favor of the Cass Lake bill.

The senate yesterday afternoon twice defeated motions to adjourn in order to reach the normal school bills, which were on general orders. First came the Cass Lake bill, which Senator Gunn of Grand Rapids moved be recommended for passage. Senator Clague offered an amendment, substituting for the provisions of the Cass Lake bill the provisions of the general bill, leaving the selection of the site to the state normal school board. The general bill was not in existence in the senate until this amendment was offered, as the committee had reported out only the Cass Lake and Bemidji bills.

Senator Clague advocated the general bill because he said the senate had no means of knowing what is the best place for the school. He had no doubt Cass Lake was a nice little town, but he was in no position to decide which of the several communities should have the school. Senator Peterson also approved the amendment, saying that though the normal school committee had sent a sub-committee to look over the several proposed sites, it had made no report that he knew anything about.

Senator Robinson said the sub-committee had reported to the committee, though not to the senate, and it was divided equally, two and two, for Cass Lake and Bemidji. There was no report for the general bill. Senator Robinson did not believe the legislature should delegate its powers in this manner and thus confess its incompetence to do its manifest duty.

The amendment was adopted, 24 to 23, on a standing vote, and the amended bill was then recommended to pass. After the committee rose, the normal school bill was excepted from the report, and the normal school matter was placed on the table ready to be taken up again this morning for another fight.

There was another tight squeeeze in the vote in committee of the whole on the Swanson bill, practically destroying the tuberculin test, which is used to determine the existence of tuberculosis in cattle, and the mallein test for glanders in horses. On a motion to indefinitely postpone the bill, there was a tie vote, and Senator Witherstine, chairman of the committee of the whole, had to cast the deciding vote, which was in favor of indefinite postponement. This kills the bill, which has greatly concerned health officers and others, who feared that the legislature might destroy these tests.

The senate in committee of the whole came very near killing Senator Pauly's bill, providing that certain commodities, including various fruits and vegetables, should be sold by weight, instead of by measure. The bill was saved by the failure of the senate to act, progress being reported upon it. To meet objections from commission men, Senator Pauly offered an amendment, which was adopted, cutting out sweet potatoes, tomatoes, green apples, cranberries and bananas. When consideration of the measure ceased, the senate was considering an amendment, proposed by Senator Moonan, designed to kill the bill, providing that it should not apply to sales by producers.

The house committee on express, telegraph and electric lines recommended for passage, yesterday afternoon, the MacKenzie bill, requiring railroads to keep operators at all stations of 500 inhabitants or more.

The sub-committee of the house committee on taxes and tax laws, sent to Duluth to investigate the status of the proposed new steel plant and the adequacy of the present assessed valuations of the iron mines, returned to St. Paul yesterday morning, after a hard day's work in Duluth.

The committee will formulate its report late this week or early next week, so that it will be submitted to the house before the tonnag tax bill comes up for consideration.

There is no question that the members of the committee are convinced that a steel plant is to be built at Duluth, and that it will be upon a scale much larger than that promised to the legislature two years ago.

C. M. Bendixen, the member of the committee who took the place of Representative Bjorge, author of the tonnage tax bill, said to The Herald yesterday afternoon that he had no question of the good faith of the people of Duluth or of the Steel corporation in regard to the steel plant.

"The steel plant is coming to Duluth," said Mr. Bendixen, "and while I do not know what report the committee will make, I shall be willing to sign a report to the effect that the Steel corporation means business, and that the plant will be located at Duluth, as promised."

Unless the senate adopts the house resolution providing for adjournment April 6, which it is not likely to do, the session will end by constitutional limitation April 22. April 21 will be the last day for passing bills, and the legislature will meet on the morning of April 22 to approve the journal and await the hour of noon, when the session will adjourn sine die. The last day for introducing bills, except at the written request of the governor, will be March 29. This session will be a day longer than usual, because Good Friday is a legal holiday this year, and it does not count in figuring the ninety days allowed by the constitution.

The senate, under suspension of the rules, passed the house bill providing that non-residents must take out licenses and pay $10 for the privilege of catching mink, beaver and muskrat in this state.

Senator L. O. Cooke of Wabasha is the author of a bill creating a state textbook commission, to pick out the textbooks to be used in the schools of the state, and to support his measure, which fixes maximum prices to be paid for the books, he has been getting together some figures concerning the present cost of school books.

For instance, he finds that the average price of books in this state is 41 per cent higher than the average price charged in Kansas for the same books. An algebra that sells for 50 cents in Kansas brings 80 censt here, an increase of 60 per cent. A primary geography that costs 30 cents in Kansas costs 52 cents in Minnesota, an increase of 73 per cent.

A first reader sells for 10 cents in Kansas and 21 cents in Minnesota, a gain of 110 per cent. A second reader is listed at 17 cents in Kansas and 30 cents here, or 76 per cent higher. Another reader costs 20 cents in Minnesota and can be bought for half that in Kansas, etc.

Another table compares the prices paid by the state for certain textbooks, and the prices recently paid in a certain school district in this state for the same books. The state gets an arithmetic for 52 cents, and the district was stuck for 65 cents. For a geography, the state gets off for $1, while the district paid $1.25. There was the same difference on a Latin grammar. A civil government cost the state 80 cents, and the district $1, and an ancient history brought $1.20 from the state and $1.50 from the district.

The house, in committee of the whole, yesterday, advanced to the calendar the bill by Representative Nye of Minneapolis, providing that in Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis draymen must report to the city authorities all removals of household goods. This is intended to help creditors keep track of the sort of people who hope to evade debts by stealthy removals.

The Dolzell bill, increasing from $100 to $200, the exemption of household goods from taxation, was advanced to the calendar by the house. The exemption applies, however, only to heads of families, thus preventing a family from escaping taxation altogether by dividing the ownership of the household goods.

3,000,000 ACRES TO BE OPEN TO THE HOMESTEADERS.

Washington, March 10.—By order of the interior department 3,000,000 acres of land in the counties along the eastern border of Wyoming are to be thrown open at once to homesteaders, who will be allowed to take either 160 or 320 acres. The land cannot be irrigated and will be of use, therefore, for dry farming only. Those who take the full 320 acre entries must make an attempt to cultivate the land, while those who go in on the smaller holdings will not be compelled by the law to do so. The throwing open of this land is somewhat in the nature of an experiment to see what can be done with such land.

MRS. STAFFELBACK, NOTED MURDERESS, DIES IN THE PEN

Leavenworth, Kan., March 10.—Mrs. Nancy Wilson, generally known as Mrs. Staffelback, one of the most notorious women prisoners in the Kansas penitentiary, is dead from pneumonia in a cell in the women's ward. Mrs. Staffelback was 79.

When she realized her serious condition she asked that her son, George Staffelback, a life convict and Charles Wilson, her second husband, another convict, be brought to her bedside. They were taken over by the prison officials, and told they could remain with her until she died.

Mrs. Staffelback was brought to the Kansas penitentiary in May, 1897 to serve a 21-year sentence for murder in the second degree murder. At the same time two of her sons were brought in under life sentences, a third to serve seven years, and Charles Wilson, her husband to serve twenty-five years. One of the sons serving life sentence died four years ago. The third one served out his sentence of seven years and it is reported he is serving in the Missouri penitentiary at Jefferson City.

The Staffelbacks lived near Galena, Kan., and were accused of numerous and atrocious murders. They ran a hotel and it was alleged that they murdered guests, who had money, and threw the bodies into a deserted mine.

How to Reduce Fat Proportionately

Proportion is the thing. A fat woman yearns to reduce her abdomen, but she doesn't want to produce a scrawny neck. This fact condemns the dieting method of reducing. You can't starve the fat off one place and not off another. Simply impossible. But why try dieting, or even exercising, when there is a better way of reducing fat than either.

Try the following: One-half ounce Marmola, ½ ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, 3½ ounces Peppermint Water. Any druggist will fill the above cheaply. Take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime and see if in a few weeks you are not losing about a pound of fat a day—not from places where you are normally plump, but from those that are overly fat. The results works like a charm, I am told, and though it produces delightfully apparent results, yet it is perfectly harmless. Doesn't even cause wrinkles, they say who have used it, nor interfere with one's diet, which are two other exclusive and important differences it possesses over all other fat reducers I ever heard of. Instead of being harmful, in fact, as so many of the advertised remedies are, it improves the health and appetite and complexion.

Physicians, for instance, practice what they preach in wearing hygienic DR. A. REED CUSHION SHOES. They do not want rheumatism and the known list of foot ailments any more than you do. And they also wear good looking shoes just as you want to do.

ON THE IRON RANGES

CUTLERY WAS USED

Considerable Knifing Alleged in Hibbing's Hot Village Election.

Reform Element Triumphs in Bovey; Other Range Election Notes.

Bovey, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The reform element won a victory in the village election here yesterday, President Bottleson being defeated by Mike Brovinski along with all the present councilmen excepting Nels Lexon. These councilmen were elected: Nels Lexon, Fred Garner, Andy Nelson. Others elected were: Fred Garner, recorder; C. M. Vermillyea, treasurer; C. J. Frantl and H. J. Heikalla, justices of the peace, Thomas Kingston and Harry Coppings, constables.

Iron Range Township.

Coleraine, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Iron Range township election yesterday resulted as follows: Case Downing, supervisor, three years, 434; A. S. McCullough, clerk, 434; D. M. Vermillyea, treasurer, 223; C. J. Mott, 212; H. L. Koontz, assessor, 434; Henry Zilke, road overseer, 211; E. L. Ramquist, 223; Dan O'Connell, justice of the peace, two years, 435; Thomas Kingston, constable, two years, 435.

Mr. Downing lives at Taconite, Mr. Vermillyea, Mr. O'Connell and Mr. Kingston at Bovey, the others, here.

Considerable feeling was engendered over the action of the Bovey element in voting themselves a $10,000 town hall to be paid for by the township.

Hibbing Election Warm.

Hibbing, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—What at first was expected to be a very tame election turned out to be a very lively one.

At an early hour yesterday many tickets appeared with many names thereon. It is the consensus of opinion that more knifing was done even among the candidates themselves than has occurred at any election in recent years.

President Weirick of the village council and Charles Calligan, candidate for township clerk, had no opposition. The hottest fights were between O. J. Tucker and P. J. Somers for township treasurer, and Miles Gandsey and A. H. Kleffman for village recorder, the results of most of the contests being in doubt until the last minute. The following vote was received by the various candidates:

Village officers:

President—Dr. H. R. Weirick, 1,221.

Trustees, the three highest being elected—Peter McHardy, 742; Frank Ansley, 1,024; Dr. G. N. Butchart, 672; Max Rogalsky, 640; P. Bardessono, 573.

Recorder—Miles Gandsey, 662; A. H. Kleffman, 563.

Treasurer—A. D. Smith, 662; F. A. Klass, 569.

The township vote follows:

Supervisor—Al Dixon, 842; William G. Close, 389.

Treasurer—P. J. Somers, 545; O. J. Tucker, 697.

Overseer of highways—Mike Farrell, 684; Henry Olson, 547.

Clerk—Charles Calligan, no opposition.

Assessor—H. J. Moran.

Rapids Election Quiet.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following village officers were elected yesterday: President, A. C. Bossard; trustees, Henry Hughes, Leo Leroux and E. N. Remer; recorder, W. C. Yancy and treasurer, John E. McMahon. The only contest was for the office of recorder, Yancy winning out by 17 votes over H. E. Graffam. A total of 341 votes were cast. The election was very quiet.

The township officers elected are: Supervisors, W. P. Nisbett; treasurer, James Connell; clerk, Joseph McMahon; constable, A. Seamans; assessor, P. C. Warner.

Missabe Mountain Township.

Eveleth, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Out of 272 votes cast in Missabe Mountain township yesterday, D. M. Mouser for supervisor received 270, S. E. Helps for town clerk received all the votes cast, H. S. Sherman for assessor 271, while H. B. Keller for constable for two years received 270.

There were contests for treasurer and overseer of highways, in which William Burke received 173 for treasurer, John Turiff 61 and S. N. Anderson 38. For overseer of highways Anton Mustar the present occupant received 220 and J. E. Bonning 45. The Missabe Mountain town hall was the only polling place in the township so that sleighs had to be used in taking voters from Sparta and the other distant places in the township. D. H. Springer, Thomas Treggove and E. W. Burbeck acted as judges of election and Milo Cooper and Alfred Raumer were the clerks.

Result at Gilbert.

At Gilbert ninety-eight votes were cast and the following were elected: Village president, D. T. Caine; village clerk, C. F. Linscomb; justice of the peace, G. Pittsley; trustees, David Hogan, George Rattenbury, Martin Masterson. For treasurer there was a close fight between A. J. Noble, the independent candidate and J. B. Thompson, the county candidate. The former won out having sixty-seven votes to thirty-one for his opponent.

Outcome at Sparta.

At Sparta twenty-three votes were cast and there was little opposition to the caucus candidates. The following were elected: O. H. Haenke, president; L. Rubenstein, S. B. Keller, G. Indehar, trustees; D. M. Mouser, recorder and Carl Frederickson, treasurer. This is the last election that will ever be held in Sparta as the town will be off the map in a couple of months.

Result In Chisholm.

Chisholm, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The People's ticket scored a victory in yesterday's election, the ticket headed by Charles Nealy for president, winning by twenty-seven majority.

The election was duly celebrated last night, the winners doing the honors. The result of yesterday's election follows: Charles Nealy, president; James Rosewall, A. Anderson and C. D. Purple, trustees; Colin Monroe, recorder; R. S. O'Neil, treasurer; "Deac." Blough, assessor; Charles Shubert, constable.

On Vermilion Range.

Ely, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The results in Morse and Fall Lake townships and Fall Lake village, yesterday, were as follows:

Morse—David Utter, W. J. Madden and J. F. Simpson, supervisors for three years, two years, and one year respectively; John P. Jacobson, clerk; Thomas H. Williams, treasurer; P. S. Murray, assessor; F. W. Byshe, justice of the peace for two years; A. J. Nordquist, constable for two years; William Byers, overseer of highways in First district; Jacob Isaacson, overseer of highways in the Second district.

Fall Lake township—W. F. Shoop and Robert Fritz, supervisors for three years and one year respectively; J. C. Russell, clerk; August Lindahl, treasurer; A. A. Good, assessor; G. H. Alexander and A. C. Oakes, justices of the peace two years; W. J. Carson, constable, two years.

Fall Lake Village—L. B. Hagen, president. Mr. Hagen has been chosen president for ten years in succession without opposition. Charles G. Nilson, clerk; John Hall, Charles Erickson and Louis Barto, trustees; Gust Johnson, treasurer; Ture Gustaford, assessor; Peter Hilbert, constable two years; Valentine Thrune, justice of the peace, two years.

Two Harbors Township.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—There were ninety-eight votes cast in the Two Harbors township yesterday, these being chosen without opposition: Charles Anderson, supervisor for three years; George W. Glass, supervisor for one year; John W. McCormick, clerk; John Marshall, treasurer; Louis Larson, justice of the peace for one year; S. Sloan, town superintendent of schools. Archie Bissell received 84 votes for assessor and A. O. Nelson 13. Gust Olson received 57 votes for recorder and John Olson 41.

Biwabik, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—This village voted yesterday to reincorporate under the law of 1905. Fourteen of the votes cast favored the proposition, sixteen not signifying a choice.

In the village election, H. H. Salmon received 93 and H. J. Millbrook 58 for justice of the peace. The other candidates were elected without opposition and were elected without opposition as follows: N. B Shank, president; F. B. Myers, Frank Thomas and J. E. Riley, trustees; J. S. Hopkins, recorder; Barney Kinney, treasurer; William O'Hara constable.

There was one contest in the Biwabik township election, H. H. Salmon receiving 108 votes for justice of the peace to 58 for H. J. Millbrook. The other officers elected are J. A Kinney, supervisor; D. J. Cameron, clerk, and Barney Kinney, treasurer.

Result at McKinley.

McKinley, Minn., March 10.—The caucus ticket won out in the election here yesterday without opposition, the following officers being chosen: J. C. Farmer, president; W. G. Gundas, Anton Skoda and Joe Ahlin, trustees; Peter Holland, recorder; Thomas Thompson, treasurer; Guy M. Bracklin, justice of the peace; Otto Johnson, constable.

Keewatin Village.

Keewatin, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village election here resulted as follows: J. H. Rush, president; Gust Johnson, George Olson and Patrick McGuire, trustees; Charles F. Good, treasurer; T. A. McEachin, recorder; A. G. Peterson, Toney Chott, justices of the peace; Matt Krison, constable.

Independents Carry Aurora.

Aurora, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Independents won everything in yesterday's election, with the exception of one councilman, the result being as follows: Charles Olson, president, 106; A. K. Sedgwick, 78; trustees, Thomas Nicholas, 111; Charles Hill, 104; Edward Darrow, 94; Tony Passage, 70; B. Christianson, 83; J. Versich, 68. C. H. Graham won out for recorder over Clarence Vanderpoel, the incumbent, receiving 97 to his opponents 88 votes. John Lang was victor over Harry L. Nicholson for treasurer by 15 majority. I. O. Anderson was chosen justice of the peace without opposition and Fred Witte and Dan Lang were chosen constables.

In the township election the result was as follows: J. J. Hudson, supervisor; Olaf Hellstrom, assessor; Joe Hemmet, constable for two years; Andrew Thompson, constable for one year; Lewis Tillman, justice of the peace for two years; John Lang, clerk; Charles Olson, overseer of highways.

S.S.S.
CURES RHEUMATISM

In this short talk we want to tell you something about the cause of Rheumatism, and what is necessary for its cure. We hope to be able to show you exactly what brings the disease about, and then to tell you, in a plain, honest way, just why S. S. S. cures it.

Rheumatism is really an internal inflammation—a diseased condition of the blood cells which supply the nourishment and strength necessary to sustain our bodies. The disease is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood, which gets into the circulation because of indigestion, constipation, weak kidney action, and other irregularities of the system, which are sometimes considered of no importance. This uric acid produces an inflamed and acrid condition of the blood, and the circulation, instead of nourishing the different portions of the body, continually deposits into the nerves, muscles, joints and bones the irritating pain-producing acid with which it is filled. Then follow the painful and torturing symptoms of Rheumatism. The very life and vitality of the blood is being destroyed by the uric acid poison, and every muscle, nerve and sinew of the body suffers in consequence.

We do not claim for S. S. S. that it is anything more than a first-class blood purifier and tonic, and that is all you need to cure Rheumatism. It is true that liniments, plasters, and other external applications, often temporarily relieve the pain and agony of the disease, and it is well enough to use them for the comfort they afford, but such treatment does not reach the seat of the trouble and of course can have no permanent good effect. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism permanently because it purifies the blood. It goes down into the circulation, removes the excessive uric acid from the blood, purifies and revitalizes this life-giving stream and causes it to nourish and strengthen the system instead of gradually hardening the muscles and stiffening the joints by destroying the natural oils and fluids with this uric acid poison. Rheumatism is a blood disease and S. S. S. cures it because it purifies the blood. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.

HELPLESS FROM RHEUMATISM.

I was terribly afflicted with Rheumatism for eighteen months, and during my sickness tried the skill of many good physicians, all of whom pronounced my case hopeless. I was for a year in such a helpless condition that I was unable to dress or feed myself. I had filled at different times fifty-two prescriptions suggested by friends, none of them giving me any relief. I finally decided to include S. S. S in my list, and took the first dose while hobbling about on crutches. After taking two bottles I found so much relief I was able to relinquish the use of one crutch, and a faithful continuance of the medicine relieved me of the other crutch and shortly afterwards enabled me to go to my work, at which I have been ever since. I have had no return of symptoms of Rheumatism, although this was five years ago.

Yours very truly, J. O'MALLEY.

OFTEN CONFINED TO BED.

Raleigh, N. C.

For several years I would be completely broken down with Rheumatism in all the bones and joints of my body. I was several times confined to my bed for weeks and weeks. The pain was excrutiating and I was fearful that I was going to become a hopeless cripple. About three years ago I commenced the use of S. S. S. and I commenced to improve from the first. I continued the medicine until I got my blood pure and the Rheumatism was entirely cured. Since S. S. S. restored me to health I have not had an ache or pain. LUCY CARR.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM.

I was severely troubled with Rheumatism. I had it in my knees, legs and ankles, and any one who has ever had Rheumatism knows how excrutiating the pain is and how it interferes with one at work. I was truly in bad shape—having been bothered with it for ten years, off and on. A physician advised me to use S. S. S. I did so. After taking a few bottles I noticed the soreness and pain were greatly reduced. I continued the medicine and was thoroughly cured; all pain, sorcness and inflammation gone. I recommend S. S. S. to all Rheumatic sufferers. J. L. AGNEW.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM.

Newport News, Va.

Last summer while recovering from illness of fever, I had a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism in the knees, from which I was unable to leave my room for several months. I was treated by two doctors and also tried different kinds of liniment and medicines which seemed to relieve me from pain for awhile, but at the same time I was not any nearer getting well. One day while reading a paper I saw an advertisement of S. S. S. for Rheumatism. I decided to give it a trial, which I did at once. After I had taken a few bottles I felt a great deal better, and I still continued to take it regularly until I was entirely cured. I now feel better than I have for years, and I do cheerfully recommend S. S. S. to any one suffering from Rheumatism. CHAS. B GILDERSLEEVE.

Judge Wright is Hearing Some Right-of-Way Proceedings.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Wright is here today at an adjourned term of district court to hear notions and arguments in various matters, the principal item of business being the hearing in condemnation proceedings brought by the Great Northern to determine valuations of lands through which will run its right-of-way on the extension from Nashwauk.

WILLIAM WISEMAN DEAD.

Well-Known Citizen of Tower Expires Very Suddenly.

Tower, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Wiseman, a prominent business man of this place died at his home Tuesday after a short illness of pneumonia, having been sick only twenty-six hours. Wiseman went to work about 7 o'clock Monday morning but was taken very sick at 9 o'clock and removed home at once. He died at 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

Wiseman was born Sept. 22, 1868, in Southern Iowa, being little more than 40 years of age. He is survived by his father, a wife and four children, several brothers and a sister.

RUMOR ABOUT HOEPNER.

Man Murdered at Devils Lake May be Old Iron Range Employe.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is reported here that A. J. Hoepner, agent for the Great Northern railway at Devils Lake, N. D., who was shot and killed Monday by his cashier, F. M. Bryant, is Otto J. Haeper, a former Duluth & Iron Range employe, who worked here and at other points on their line for a number of years. He formerly attended the New Era Business college at Superior.

The home of W. R. Coleman on Second avenue has been placed under quarantine, on account of Mrs. Coleman being ill with smallpox.

GILBERT STIRRED UP.

Much Interest in Question of Electric Lighting Franchise.

Gilbert, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was considerable excitement at the village council meeting Monday night when the granting of the electric lighting franchise was brought up.

The Virginia Light & Water company, the Gilbert Light & Power company and the Eveleth Electric company are all in the field for the franchise. The matter had been put off from the last meeting, and there was a great deal of discussion. There was a large turnout of citizens, and opinions were freely expressed. A number were not in favor of giving a franchise, which is taken to mean that there is strong sentiment for a municipal plant. Village Attorney McGilvery has had the applications and has looked them over carefully. As it was very late and the matter had not been thoroughly thrashed out, the council adjourned until Thursday night, when they expect to settle the franchise matter one way or the other.

Alleges Husband Is Cruel.

Virginia, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Emma Fisher, who formerly resided on a homestead near Gheen, but who is now making her home in this city, has brought suit in district court for divorce from her husband, Henry Fisher, alleging cruelty. Mrs. Fisher is 28 years old, her husband 42, and they were married at Fergus Falls, Minn., Feb. 11, 1896. There are three children.

SCHOOL ELECTION AT VIRGINIA SATURDAY.

Virginia, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Saturday next, March 13, there will be held at the Roosevelt high school building, a special election for the purpose of electing a board of six directors for the Independent school district of this city. Candidates have already been placed in nomination for members of this board, and are as follows: Charles C. Butler, Capt. Joseph Roskilly, J. H. Fleming, C. E. Moore, Mrs. N. K. Coffman and N. A. Holmes.

The question of building a new, absolutely fireproof high school building will be one of the matters which the new board will handle and it is just possible that the sentiments of the electors may be shown at the close of the election, Saturday night.

VIRGINIA STORE IS VISITED BY BURGLARS.

Virginia, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The store of Shanedling Bros. was burglarized Sunday night and over $100 worth of ladies' waists taken. The thieves extracted the goods by way of a rear window, which was broken, and the articles taken out through the broken window panel by the use of a wire hook.

BIT THUMB DURING FIGHT

The Assailant Is Fined $75 in the Municipal Court.

Nick Running tried to eat C. R. Koenig's thumb last evening at a rooming house conducted by Mrs. Shea at 613½ West Superior street. The meal was not a very satisfactory one and it cost Running $75. He didn't have the money, so will have to spend the next sixty days in the county jail. Judge Cutting told him this in municipal court this morning.

Hjalmer Peterson, a friend of the would-be thumb-eater, appeared before Mrs. Shea yesterday afternoon and rented a room, saying that he would occupy it alone. It is claimed that he was drunk at the time. He hadn't been in the place more than a few minutes before four or five friends dropped in. Among them was Running. All were more or less intoxicated, and Running acted as if he had absorbed numerous glasses of the cup that cheers.

The visitors stayed some time. It began to look as if they intended to camp there for the night. When Koenig, another roomer of the house, came home, Mrs. Shea asked his advice and assistance. A council of war was held and it was decided that Koenig should ask the visitors to leave. He stated the case to them. All but Running pulled stakes like gentlemen. Running refused to go. Arguments failed, and finally Koenig took hold of him by the coat lapels and dragged him toward the door. Peterson interfered. There was much excitement.

Suddenly Running stooped and caught the thumb of Koenig's right hand between his teeth. He bit it through to the bone, and he continued to chew it viciously. Blood flowed freely. Enraged, Koenig struck him several times in the face with his free hand, and was about to kick him downstairs when Mrs. Shea interfered and called a policeman. Running and Peterson were both arrested and taken to headquarters. In police court this morning they were found guilty on a drunk and disorderly charge. Peterson was fined $25 and costs or thirty days in jail, and Running was fined $75 and costs or sixty days in jail.

On motion of its author, Representative Bjorge, the tonnage tax bill was made a special order for 1:30 Wednesday afternoon, March 17.

On motion of Chairman Dalzell of the house tax committee, the several tax measures requested by the tax commission, including the county assessor bill and the bill providing for assessing all property at 40 per cent of actual value, were made a special order for Tuesday morning next.

The house killed the bill abolishing capital punishment again this morning, when it voted down, 41 to 39, Bendixen's motion to reconsider the vote by which it was defeated yesterday.

* * *

On motion of Representative Stuart the special committee's workingmen's compensation act was made a special order for Thursday March 18, at 11 a. m.

The house adopted a motion by Representative Conley that a committee of fifteen go out and look over the New Brighton packing site and report to the house. The packing plant fight took on spectacular proportions this noon when a monster petition, signed by 25,000 St. Paul folks, praying the legislature to forbid the building of the plant, was presented to the house, mounted on a continuous roll of cloth, carried on sticks by a long row of people accompanied by many other people who were either sightseers or anxious citizens of St. Paul appealing for relief from the threatened evil.

The house, this morning, overturned a motion of the temperance committee and place on general orders, against the committee's adverse report, the Adams bill including cities of 10,000 and less with towns and villages in the local option law. Representative Adams' motion to that effect carried, 54 to 47.

The house took a recess for five minutes to hear Congressman Tawney say that one reason government expenditures are getting too large is that the necessity of regulating big business had led lawmakers into the habit of trying to regulate everything. He said, too, that it was wrong in times of peace that 70 per cent of our gigantic expenditures go for war purposes, including pensions.

The house passed the drainage committee's bill providing for a topographical survey of the water sheds of the state, on which to base a uniform system of drainage.

Representative Grant offered a bill increasing the salary of the St. Louis county probate judge to $3,600 a year, and making his clerk hire $4,200 a year.

Representative Rosenwald proposed a bill making the penalty for burglary with explosives twenty-five to forty years.

Representative Thayer returned to his old love, the tax ferret law, with a bill allowing county commissioners to hire people to search out property that escapes taxation, and to pay not to exceed 25 per cent of the taxes thus received for the service.

MAY BE HANGED ON GIRL CHARGE

Joseph Janer Elects to be Tried Without Jury.

Towson, Md., March 10.—The circuit court of Baltimore county today took up the case of Joseph M. Janer, removed for trial from Baltimore. Janer, whose home is in Brooklyn, is charged with having ill-treated Catherine Loerch, 11-year-old daughter of his friend, Ernest Loerch of Brooklyn. It is charged Janer brought the child here from her home in Brooklyn and lived with her in Baltimore in a disreputable place.

Should he be convicted, the court may sentence him to prison for from eighteen to twenty-one years, or to imprisonment for life, or to be hanged.

Exercising his right of choice in the matter, Janer elected to be tried without a jury. The trial began shortly after 10 o'clock before Judges Burke and Duncan.

TORNADO KILLS SIX NEGROES

Persons Returning From Revival Meeting Find Homes Destroyed.

Cuthbert, Ga., March 10.—Six negroes were killed by a tornado last night. Twelve business buildings were almost totally destroyed. The tornado also damaged many other buildings, and several white persons were injured.

A revival meeting was in progress during the tornado which passed some distance from the church, which occupants mistook the storm's roar for thunder and remained at service throughout the passage of the "twister." Later many of the worshippers went home to find their homes destroyed.

Death Total, Thirty-Nine.

Brinkley Ark., March 10.—Twenty-nine persons dead and seventy-four injured is the local casualty list as the result of the tornado Monday night. Governor Donaghey, who has arrived, has declared martial law and placed the situation in the hands of the sheriff. All of the dead and injured have been cared for and large forces of men are at work clearing away wreckage. The citizens express a determination to rebuild the town and work will begin at once

CALIFORNIAN ATTACKS THE COMMITTEE SYSTEM.

Berkeley, Cal., March 10.—In an address here Prof. O. K. McMurray of the law department of the University of California, scored the inefficiency of congress. He said, "Congressional government is no longer responsible or representative. As legislative power proves not infallible, the faith of the people in executive power concentrated in the hands of a few increases." He maintained that the committee system in congress is its worst evil.

LOOK OVER NEW ROAD

Highway Will be Built to Rice Lake and Arnold.

May Ultimately be Route for Suburban Trolley Line.

A committee of the county board consisting of Commissioners Tischer, Fraser and Cummings made a trip yesterday to look over the proposed route of a road, which is desired by settlers in the vicinity of Arnold and Rice Lake, and which will probably be legalized at the May meeting of the board, which is the time set for the hearing on the petition. The trip of the commissioners was for the usual inspection to determine whether or not the road is desirable.

The proposed road is to be laid out on the section line between section 26 and 27, 51-14, running south from the quarter post to join the Calvary road, a distance of about a mile and a quarter. It will provide a shorter route between the city and Arnold, and a direct line between the end of the Woodland street car line and the settlements on top of the hill.

Ultimately, it is believed, the road will open a way for a street car line, running from the Woodland car line to the towns of Rice Lake, Canosia and Gnesen, bringing an extensive farming district into direct and close touch with the city. The farmers in that district have long looked forward to a car line connecting them with the city, and it is believed the proposed road is the first step toward reaching that end. The present route is too circuitous for trolley purposes, but with the new road in, no such difficulty will be encountered.

There was at first some opposition to the proposed road and it has been hanging fire for a long time. Last August, a committee was appointed by the county board and an inspection made of the proposed route of the road. A date was set for a hearing, but the opposing faction succeeded in getting several postponements, so that the old county board went out of office before the matter was definitely settled. The opposition to the road has died a natural death, and when the hearing is held May 4, it is expected no remonstrance will be met. It is estimated that about $1,500 will build the road.

Eucalyptus ties in Hawaii are said to last fifteen years. East of Albuquerque, N. M., one road is using Georgia pine. At present certain California roads are using many thousands of redwood ties on the coast. They are also getting oak ties from Japan.

TEACHERS WILL JUDGE

Committee Will be Appointed to Mark "Ben Hur" Essays.

Herald's Contest Is Being Indorsed on All Sides.

"The plan outlined to me some days ago by representatives of The Herald whereby they entertain 150 school children at a theater party at the opening performance of 'Ben Hur' on the night of March 22, is a most excellent one.

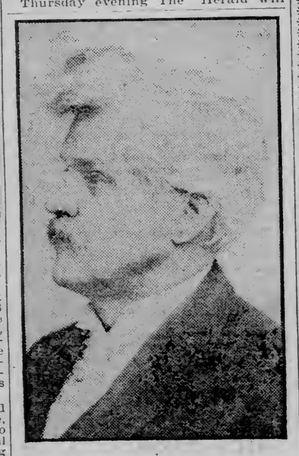

"'Ben Hur' is the greatest historical and religious play of the age, and its influence on the mind of the child is great. I consider it a modern classic.

"It is seldom that we fall into a contest scheme of any kind, but this one seems to be of great educational benefit and I will do all I can to help make it a success."—R. E. Denfeld, Superintendent, Duluth Public Schools.

On every hand The Herald is being congratulated on its "Ben Hur" contest. Public officials, school officials and ministers of the gospel are adding their good word from day to day and the amount of interest being taken in the affair by the teachers and children themselves is sufficient proof that the contest is popular.

Supt. Denfeld of the public schools will Thursday place in the hands of the teachers of the grades included in the contest, copies of a condensed story of "Ben Hur" and they will take the time necessary to devote a few minutes each day to reading it to the children and explaining it to them. There will also be copies of the story for the children to take home with them.

Thursday evening The Herald will

R. E. DENFELD,
Who Indorses the "Ben Hur" Essay Contest.

print a list of the eighteen teachers who are to judge, mark and decide which essays are entitled to prizes. They are to be selected by Supt. Denfeld, who is himself enthusiastic over the test of gramatical skill, and anxious that every pupil in the included grades write an essay, whether he wins a prize or not.

So many inquiries have come in by letter and over the telephone asking whether or not the Catholic schools were to be included, that it might be well to make this point clear. The Catholic schools are not in on the contest. As the show comes to the city during Lenten period, and it is against the teachings of the Catholic church to attend the theater during this time, The Herald deemed it unwise to invite the Catholic people to go directly contrary to the laws of their church. The Herald, therefore decided to include only the public school children in the contest. It is hoped, however, that something equally enjoyable can be arranged for the pupils of the Catholic schools, in the near future.

The conditions of the contest are printed again tonight for the benefit of those who have not yet had a chance to look them over. They follow:

All those who wish to become members of the big theatrical party should keep in mind the following conditions

Each essay should be about 150 words in length, although more or less will not disqualify the writer. The writers of the 150 best papers will receive tickets. There are no coupon conditions attached to the contest, and no requirements that the contestants shall be subscribers to The Herald.

In this contest it must be understood that the seventh grade pupils will compete with the seventh grade scholars, the eighth grade with the eighth grade, the first year high school pupils with the members of their own class, and so on up to the senior class in the high school.

Each contestant must be a regularly enrolled student in the Duluth public schools, and must write his or her name, grade, teacher's name, the name of the school and class to which he or she belongs, and his or her address on the upper left hand corner of the paper. Only one side of the paper should be used on which to write. The writing should be as neat and as legible as the contestant can make it, as both these will count when the paper is judged. The essays should then be mailed to the "Ben Hur" editor of The Herald.

All essays must be in the hands of the "Ben Hur" editor not later than 6 p. m. Wednesday, March 17.

THE STORY OF "BEN HUR."

The third installment of the serial of "Ben Hur" follows:

Ben Hur has left the house of Simonides to search for his old enemy, Messala, in the Grove of Daphne, where he hears the Roman is training his steeds for the forthcoming chariot races in the Circus of Antioch.

Realizing that Ben Hur is really the son of Ithamar, the grand prince of Hur, and therefore the real owner of all the wealth he controls, Simonides resolves to reveal to Esther, his beloved daughter, the secret he has so carefully kept from her all these years—that they are both slaves of the prince of Hur, whoever he may be. The very magnificence of their surroundings seems to shriek at him: "Slave! Slave, you are! In spite of all?"

It seems that Esther's mother was a bondwoman to the family of Hur, and refused to marry the steward, Simonides, unless he took upon himself her condition in life. Therefore he declared himself the slave of the prince, who had thrust an awl through the ear of Simonides, pinning him to the lintel of the door, thus making him a boudman for life, according to the law of Moses. Esther's father and mother being slaves for life, she became a slave at birth. Simonides has not told Esther this story, for long before she was of an age to understand, the entire family of Hur had been blotted out, and Simonides thought the family of his master extinct.

Calling his daughter to him, he tells her the history of the family of Hur, and says: "Rich as we are, you and all this belongings belongs to the house of Hur." In broken words he tells her the pitiful story of their slavery, falteringly: "Since the child followeth the condition of the parent, if I be not free from my bondage, thou—even thou, my precious one—in all thy modesty, thy purity and thy beauty, art a slave!"

The Grove of Daphne.

Ben Hur seeks his Roman enemy, Messala, in the Grove of Daphne, the most noted pleasure ground of antiquity. Before the Temple of Apollo in the Grove of Daphne troops of young girls come tripping to a song of Anacreon. Damsels of mature years, bearing garlands and hymning in praise of the Daphne, smile on Judah, prince of Hur, and beckon to him enticingly. He turns in aversion, but only to face a tinselfully bedecked throng which is enacting the Masque of Eros, symbolizing the dedication of a youth and maiden to a life of pleasure. Ben Hur turns away and asks to be directed to the race course near the Fountain of Castalia, where Messala is accustomed to practice running his horses. He finds a willing guide in Malluch, the secret agent of Simonides, who is following him to watch his meeting with the Roman.

They pass on to the Fountain of Castalia, followed by the revelers, reinforced by the devadisi, who whirl in voluptuous dances. Finally, the merrymakers disperse and the horses of Sheik Ilderim, "The Generous," attract the admiring gaze of Ben Hur. A herald approaches and makes proclamation of a reward for a driver to handle these horses in the forthcoming chariot races. A camel, bearing in its houdah Balthasar, the Egyptian, and his beautiful daughter Iras, is led in by an Ethiopian, and Ben Hur, admiring the beauty of the maiden, fills a cup for her at the fountain. Suddenly a cry of alarm is heard. With a clatter of hoofs and a rumble of wheels, Messala, erect in his chariot, plunges by, urging his horses through the flying throng. Ben Hur springs to the rescue of Balthasar and Iras, and meets and recognizes his enemy. Sheik Ilderim comes seeking Balthasar, who is his guest, and thanks Ben Hur for saving his friends. Having heard the proclamation of the sheik's herald, Ben Hur begs the privilege of driving Ilderim's fleet horses telling the Arab that for the past three years the champions of Home have had their crowns at this pleasure. The sheik hesitates, not because he doubts Ben Hur's ability, but the applicant is apparently a Roman, and the crafty Arab suspects his good faith. Ben Hur declares he will win the chariot race not for gold, but for revenge. This convinces Ilderim and he consents, and Ben Hur goes at once to the dowar of Sheik Ilderim in the Orchard of Palms to begin the training of the Arab's horses for the mighty struggle in the arena of the Circus of Antioch.

Robert C. Ray Extends Paternal Blessing to Young Actor.

Palo Alto, Cal., March 10.—After a long estrangement from his millionaire father, Robert C. Ray, formerly of Duluth, caused by his elopement with Miss Leslie Preston, an actress at the Belasco theater in Los Angeles, James C. Ray, former Stanford student, has received the paternal blessing. Ray is traveling with a Shakespearean company, which produced the "Merchant of Venice" at Stanford Saturday night.

His father is spending the winter in Palo Alto. The elder Ray, unknown to his son, attended the performance in which young Ray took the role of Gratiano. After the curtain went down, he visited his son in his dressing room, and there a reconciliation was effected.

Largest Drydock on Canadian Side to be Started.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., March 10.—As a result of a vote on a bylaw to bonus the Soo Drydock company, in the Canadian Soo, the concern will build at once a drydock large enough to accommodate all vessels on the lakes and follow with a shipbuilding plant at which six 600-footers can be built for the new Canadian line. The town gives the company $5,000 a year for twenty years, and the Dominion government guarantees 3 per cent on the investment for ten years. Several allied industries are to follow and 2,000 men will be employed. The bylaw carried by almost a unanimous vote. Men behind the deal are John O'Boyle, contractor; J. J. McFadden and M. J. O'Brien, owners of mines at Cobalt. The Soo plant will be the largest shipbuilding plant on the Canadian side.

STOLE SOCKS

To Impress Best Girl, and Get Hard Labor Sentence.

Montgomery, Ala., March 10.—C. Burton, of Gadsden, was sentenced to sixty days on the county roads at hard labor for stealing a pair of socks with which to go calling on his best girl. The socks were valued at 12½ cents and were stolen from the clothesline of J. Peters, who lives at Rogers Mill. The prisoner said that he might as well be a convict as without socks, for Mary Gattack, on whom he was calling, refused to let him into her house until he wore socks. He declared socks were an expensive luxury, which he could not afford when contemplating matrimony.

TAFT WILL NOT LINE UP ON EITHER SIDE IN THE HOUSE FIGHT

Washington, March 10.—Maximum and minimum rates of duty are provided in the tariff bill to be introduced by the house by Chairman Payne of the ways and means committee, when the special session convenes.

A paragraph will be included in each separate schedule providing for the minimum duties on articles under that schedule. Twenty per cent is understood to be the average reduction made for the minimum duties.

Some articles will be excepted from the provision of the minimum duty and greater or less rates of reduction will be placed on others.

The United States was the first country to adopt maximum and minimum rates of duty when it provided for reciprocity in its tariff law for a few articles, such a sugar. Germany and France, however, have extended the reciprocity to cover their entire tariff law, and it is to make the American tariff more pliable in accordance with the tariff of foreign countries that the maximum and minimum provisions were incorporated.

President Taft has been given an opportunity to declare himself on the insurgent movement to revise the house rules. Diplomatically he sidestepped announcing how he stood, but in doing so he missed luncheon and about half the concert of Mme. Eames, which he was scheduled to attend in company with Mrs. Taft and their guests.

Representative Payne of New York, chairman of the committee on ways and means, sought the support of Mr. Taft for the existing order of things, and the insurgent case was advocated by Representatives Gardner of Massachusetts, Madison of Kansas and Nelson of Wisconsin.

The visit of the insurgent delegation to the executive offices consumed most of the afternoon yesterday. The three insurgents heard it charged that Taft intended to join hands with the house organization in the interest of getting the tariff bill through as soon as possible. Disturbed by these reports, they hurried to the White House to urge Taft to take a soft seat on the fence and leave the fighting to them. When they came out of the executive offices, Mr. Gardner declared with an exhibition of confidence that the insurgents were no longer in a compromising mood.

"We are firmly impressed that Taft is not opposed to any change of the rules," said Mr. Gardner, "but is a little fearful that a contest now would cross the lips and interfere with the passage of the tariff bill."

An effort was made by Mr. Madison to show that there is no such danger in the fight they are conducting. He said that he had told Mr. Taft that he had told Mr. Taft that he and his colleagues were not disposed to interfere with the continuance of the present ways and means committee, and that he thought he could promise that no objection would be made to the continuance of the old committees on any subjects that the president feels inclined to ask legislation at the present session.

Another promise made by the insurgent delegation was that they would not filibuster against legislation if they made their fight and lost. They argued that the fight could be brought to an end in one day. By these conciliatory promises Mr. Madison said he did not mean that the fight would be abandoned if lost now. He said the insurgents would wait, however, until the proper time to renew it.

Mr. Payne was with the president only a few minutes. When he left the White House he said that he had told Mr. Taft that the tariff bill would be ready to report on the first day of the session, but that he could not prophesy what would happen if the present chaotic conditions in the house were to continue.

SAVED NEWSBOY'S LIFE; NOW GETS A FORTUNE.

Chicago, March 10.—Saving two small boys—one the son of a wealthy Italian, but disguised as a newsboy—from the hoofs of a wild runaway nine years ago, has now brought a legacy to Mrs. William M. Reese Lake Bluff, Ill., whose husband is connected with the National Bank of the Republic. At the time of the rescue, she was Miss Adella Lawrence, residing with her parents at 1224 Wilcox avenue. The newsboy, whose gratitude stood the test of passing years, was Dominez Todelska and his relatives are of Italy's finest families, residing in Messina, the lad's life being crushed out by the recent earthquake. Before death he had arranged that his personal property go to the Chicago woman. Not long ago a personal in one of the Chicago newspapers requested the address of Mrs. Reese. She sent it to the place requested and now she receives notice that an agent of the dead newsboy would call upon her for the proper transfer of property, some time in April. Mrs. Reese was so shocked at her experience at the time of the runaway that she was ill for many months. The reward that now comes is a complete surprise.

CAST FOUND.

Hart's Statue of "Woman Triumphant" Can be Reproduced.

Lexington, Ky., March 10.—It has been settled beyond the peradventure of doubt that a reproduction of Joel T. Hart's "Woman Triumphant," which was destroyed in the courthouse fire here fourteen years ago, can be made. Miss Lizzie A. Lyle is in receipt of letters from United States Minister Erutus J. Clay, stationed at Berne, Switzerland, which will enable the Daughters of the American Revolution to carry out their plans to have the masterpiece of the famous American sculptor reproduced. George H. Saul, the American sculptor and friend of Hart, whose home and studio is at present in Florence, Italy, advises Mr. Clay that he has a cast of Hart's "Woman Triumphant" which was made by him (Saul) from the original model in plaster and from the marble which he finished after Hart's death.

"Mr. Hart wished the original in plaster destroyed after the marble was finished," writes Mr. Saul, "and I destroyed it, but not before I had made a copy in clay."

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

SANDSTONE TO BE DRY

Saloons Voted Out of Business by Majority of Thirty-Three.

Cass Lake Re-elects Lange President; Other Village Election Results.

Sandstone, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The "drys" won a complete victory over the "wets" in the election here yesterday, carrying the day by a majority of thirty-three and electing every man on their ticket in the village and town, with the exception of town assessor, which they lost by a small majority.

This is the first time in the history of Sandstone that it has gone dry, and the result was quite a surprise. The village is $28,000 in debt and has not a dollar in the treasury, and the financiers are in a quandary as to how running expenses are to be acquired, with no income from saloon licenses.

In Pine River.

Pine River, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village election yesterday resulted in the following being elected: President, Dr. Bickford; trustees, C. J. Chyrklund, Harry Hill, W. C. Crommett; recorder, Fred Monastes; assessor, W. H. Ellwood; justice of the peace, H. P. Hanson, W. H. Ellwood; constables, Dave Wark, R. C. Spencer. Crommett was then nominated by Dr. L. Forbes, but a drawing resulted favorably for Crommett. All of the old council who were candidates were successful.

Carlton Election Quiet.

Carlton, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village election yesterday passed off very quietly, there being no opposition to the present incumbents, who have made an enviable record during the past year.

The following officials were elected: President, H. S. Lord; trustees, Emil Magnuson, S. S. Johnson, Robert Mattson; recorder, J. A. Gilles-pie; treasurer, D. A. Hultmann; justice of the peace, C. H. Shaver; constable, John Geddic.

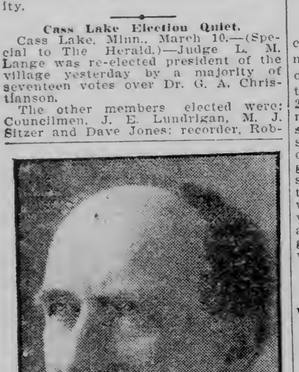

The following officers were elected for the town of Levin Lakes: Supervisor, Ed Watson; clerk, H. McKinnon; treasurer, James Dunphy; assessor, William Shiels; justice of the peace, J. B. Thompson; constable, Alex Beattie. The vote to separate the town of Twin Lakes from the village of Carlton, carried by twenty-five majority.

Cass Lake Election Quiet.

Cass Lake, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge L. M. Lange was re-elected president of the village yesterday by a majority of seventeen votes over Dr. G. A. Christianson.

The other members elected were: Councilmen J. E. Lundrigan, M. J. Sitzer and Dave Jones; recorder, Robert Koehn; justice, Cyril Duff; assessor, F. L. Gorenflo; treasurer, J. F. Niels; constable, Mack Kennedy. Lundrigan, Sitzer, Niels and Kennedy were without opposition. The vote polled by the candidates who had opposition was as follows: Lange, 144; Jones, 137; Koehn, 149; Duff, 152; Gorenflo, 145; Christianson, 127; Koeneman, 136; Hough, 120; Cummings, 118; Swanberg, 124.

The election was very quiet, there being practically no ill feeling among any of the candidates, and the interest in the election was of such a small degree that a large number of the voters did not exercise their suffrage. There were only 277 votes cast.

MAYOR L. M. LANGE.

Result in Aitkin.

Aitkin, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. O. Erickson was elected president of the village council at the election held yesterday and the following were also chosen: Trustees, J. A. Casey, D. M. Falconer, Dennis McMahon; recorder, H. C. Beecher; treasurer, Olaf A. Olson; assessor, W. B. Walmsey; justices, W. H. Harrison, George T. Williams; constable, J. A. Cameron.

Bagley Votes Against Saloons.

Bagley, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village election here yesterday resulted in the election of the regular nominees. The surprise of the day was the result on the question of license or no license. The "drys" carried the day deciding by a vote of 11 to 53 to put the eight saloons in the town out of business.

Result in Bena.

Bena, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village election yesterday resulted as follows: William Marse, president; William Quinn, M. Jordan and A. Potvin, trustees; W. A. McFarland, recorder; James D. Middleton, treasurer. Forty-eight votes were cast.

Floodwood Votes "Dry."

Floodwood, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The "drys" won out here yesterday when John Stokke, their candidate, defeated J. W. New, the nominee of the liberal element by a vote of 52 to 45. R. W. Wilkin, Carl Sandboe and J. C. Arnold were chosen trustees; John Auger, recorder; S. H. Gate, treasurer; A. Hollenbeck, justice of the peace; W. Stevens and B. M. Crist, constables for two years and one year respectively.

Walker's Close Contest.

Walker, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contest for mayor in the election yesterday resulted in Henry Drummond defeating John Baker by a majority of seven. It was a battle between the "drys" and the "wets," and the latter won.

Spooner Elects Berg.

Spooner, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following ticket was elected in the village election here yesterday by a vote of 76 to 18: President, Albert Berg; trustees, A. E. Noble, J. E. Everett, J. Albert Peterson; clerk, C. H. Dodds; treasurer, C. L. Isted; assessor, George E. Erieson; justice of the peace, John Kyler.

License Fight in Baudette.

Baudette, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following ticket was elected yesterday: President, J. U. Williams; trustees, J. A. C. Lindsay, J. A. Heinberger, John Stone; clerk, S. M. Koefod; treasurer, Leonard Larson; assessor, William Cathcart; justices of the peace, H. M. Evenstad, I. R. Severtson; constables, J. R. Dundas and W. R. Spencer.

The election of this ticket was made on a fight to reduce the liquor license from $750 to $500.

MALPRACTICE CHARGE MADE

Burial Permit Refused; Spooner is Torn Up Over Affair.

Spooner, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Spooner is all torn up over the sensations developing from the death of George W. Toomb, a popular young man, assistant manager of the Cross-Doss Lumber company who died from injuries received by being thrown from a load, as the funeral was halted pending an examination of the case by the coroner.

Dr. J. E. Corrigan was first called in attendance and afterwards Dr. G. Oppliger. Toomb never regained consciousness after the injury. All arrangements for a funeral had been completed to be held Tuesday, but it developed that Dr. Oppliger has developed that Dr. Oppliger has evidence of death alleged malpractice on the part of Dr. Corrigan and as a result Dr. Corrigan who is chairman of the board of health refused to issue a burial permit, necessitating the calling of the coroner from Bemidji. It is expected that he will arrive here today and than an inquest and postmortem examination will be held.

George W. Toomb was 24 years of age and a son of Alonzo Toomb and was born and raised near Stephen, Minn.

The postponement of the funeral has raised an enormous furore in the village, as Toomb was one of the most popular young men of the village and nearly everyone is arrayed on the side of one or the other doctors.

BONNIE MINE CLOSED.

Manganese Ore Running Too Low to Profitably Mine.

Ironwood, Mich., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The shaft, commonly called the Bonnie mine, property of the Newport Mining company in this city, shut down Monday. About 200 men were thrown out of employment or were transfered to work on some other part of the Newport. This shaft has been working two shifts, but on account of the low grade of manganese ore being mined, the officials shut down until a greater demand is to be had for this product. The pumps will continue to work and the mine will be in readiness to resume operations when this ore will have a greater value, which is to be hoped will be in the near future.

BEMIDJI'S NEW SCHOOL.

Work Must be Rushed So Building Can be Used Next Fall.

Bemidji, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the school district expect to have the new high school building completed and ready for occupancy in time for the opening of the 1909 fall term of school, and with that end in view will insist that when the contract is let for the erection of the building the work be rushed as expeditiously as possible.

The contract will be let this evening. The money derived for the sale of the $35,000 bonds, voted to be issued at a special election has arrived and has been deposited in a local bank. The sum amounts to $36,278, which includes the original amount of the bonds, $35,000, $1,200 premiums and accrued interest from Feb. 15, 1909.

The building will be erected according to the original plans, with the exception of a few alterations agreed upon afterwards whereby the heating plant will be placed outside the main building, allowing the use of the basement as a first floor.

INJURIES PROVED FATAL.

Crookston Man Dead From Hurt Sustained Last Fall.

Crookston, Minn., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Bergum died yesterday afternoon at St. Vincent's hospital from injuries sustained last fall, when he was hit on the head by a piece of scantling while working in a sewer manhole for the city.

The deceased, for a time after the accident, which was caused by an icy scantling slipping from the hands of a fellow-workman who was standing on the surface above him, seemed to be improving, but later a change for the worse took place, and his condition has grown worse steadily till the end came.

Mr. Bergum was one of the old residents of Crookston and resided with his family at 111 Summit avenue. He leaves a widow and eight children.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The final meeting of the present board of regents of the state university will be held on March 17, at which time all of the business of the board will be taken up and disposed of, leaving a clean slate for the new board, which will probably hold a meeting on the same day.

Fargo, N. D.—Some forty members of the Musicians' union of Fargo gathered around the banquet board at Pirie's hall Sunday afternoon and enjoyed the first semi-annual banquet of the organization. E. R. Wright acted as toastmaster in a most agreeable manner.

Fargo, N. D.—A report from Bismarck is to the effect that W. D. Austin of Fargo, who has been chief clerk of the house, is in line for the position of deputy treasurer succeeding Mr. Falconer.

Minot, N. D.—A feature of the Dr. Moeller case was considered in the district court here Monday afternoon, resulting in Judge Goss denying a motion for an arrest of judgment, as well as ordering an increase in the bond from $5,000 to $10,000.

Dickinson N. D.—After traveling over 1,000 miles to place Mrs. Elizabeth Welh in an Illinois insane asylum, Sheriff Barry of Minot, was compelled to bring the woman back home this week from Chicago. The Illinois authorities refused to take the woman.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Among the new corporations that have been chartered to do business in this state is the Sims Automobile company of Grand Forks. The incorporators are C. D. Lord and F. C. Lord, both of Park River and others, and the company will do a general automobile business in this city. The capital stock is $10,000.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ashland—Charles Potter was fined $1 and costs by Justice McDonald Monday morning for disorderly conduct. Complaint was made by the night operator of the Home Telephone company that he tried to enter the office about 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

Eau Claire—W. H. Tyler and son, Clifford Tyler, of the town of Delmar, were brought to the city by Sheriff Walker and arraigned in the municipal court on the charge of killing deer out of season. Both men pleaded guilty. Judge Jenkins imposed a fine of $25 and $17.20 costs, a total of $42.20, which W. H. Tyler paid.

Baraboo—The general store of P. L. Barnes, at North Freedom, was destroyed by fire with a loss of $25,000; partly insured.

Eau Claire—Solon Darling killed himself at the home of his daughter in the town of Lynn. He came to this section of the state nearly half a century ago, and was one of the founders of what is now the city of Spring Valley. He also established the first stave and heading factory there.

Madison—With the exception of a few small railroads, all the lines in the state have paid their taxes, and State Treasurer A. H. Dahl reports nearly all of the $1,500,000 due from this source is now in. The largest fee came from the Northwestern, $343,77783.

Chippewa Falls—Citizens have presented to Mrs. Samuel Brown and family a residence in memory of the late Mr. Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church. Those who contributed to the fund for the memorial are among members of all churches and classes.

Milwaukee—Signal honors were given Detective Arthur Burns, who returned Monday from Washington, where he represented the Milwaukee police force in the inauguration ceremonies. He not only shook hands with President Taft, as a Taft and Col. Roosevelt, but he was also introduced to Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, who was Alice Roosevelt.

Beloit—Henry White, until recently a resident of this city, was killed in a runaway at Pecatonica.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

BIG NEGRO ON WAY HOME

Jack Johnson, Champion Heavyweight Pugilist, Lands in America.

Says He Will Fight Jeffries or Any Other Man.

Victoria, B. C., March 10.—Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion pugilist, and his white wife, a former Philadelphia woman, who threw in her lot with him after his fight at Sydney, and Sam Fitzpatrick, who is no longer manager of the big black champion, having severed relations with him, arrived yesterday by the Canadian Pacific-Australian steamer Makura from Sydney.

Johnson unreservedly declared his willingness to meet Jeffries or any other man. In an interview just before leaving for Vancouver, Johnson said to an Associated Press representative:

"I am willing to meet Jeffries; I am willing to meet any man in the world, and I do not think anyone can get a decision over me, much less put me out. It tires me to hear this talk about Jeffries claiming the championship. Why, when a mayor leaves office he's an ex-mayor, isn't he?

"When a champion leaves the ring he's an ex-champion. Well, if Jeffries wants to try to get the championship back, I'm willing to take him on.

"No, I'm not making any prediction. What's the matter, though, in the talk of arrangements of a fight with Jeffries?"

"What will Johnson take? In all the notices I have seen it's all what Jeffries will take. What's the matter with what Johnson will take? I'm the champion, ain't I? I want a winner and loser's end. I don't care what it is, 60 and 40 or 75 or 25, but there's got to be a winner and loser's end. That's how I met Burns.

"I knew I could get him, and I followed him around the world before I got on with him at Sydney, to show the people that I could do it. If Jeffries wants a go, as the papers says, he's got to see me, and there's got to be a winner and loser's end."

It is doubtful, according to the arrangements made by Johnson, whether any fight could be brought on with Jeffries, Ketchel or any other man within six months. While his plans are not absolute, he hinted at willingness to change them if anything big was hung up for a match with Ketchel.

Johnson intends to devote several months to a theatrical engagement, having signed with a syndicate in England for the London halls, and after an English tour, to tour France and Germany.

Johnson will leave the Makura at Vancouver, and proceed this morning to Chicago, arriving there Saturday. He will continue his journey to Galveston on Monday, arriving at his Texas home on Wednesday.

Parade at Galveston.

When his attention was drawn to the Galveston dispatch, announcing the formation of committees to arrange a parade at Galveston, his eyes sparkled, and he showed his gold-tipped teeth with a grin, and said:

"Tell them I'll be there."

Asked whether he intended to arrange a match with Ketchel, he said everything depended on the offers. It was doubtful, though, he said, if anything could be brought off until after his theatrical tour.

On the way from Australia Johnson took part in two concerts on board and was warmly applauded. He played selections on the bass violin and often at night when the rolling of the steamer was not too much to make him indisposed—for Johnson admits this sea got the decision over him a couple of times—he was heard practicing on his violin. He admitted he had intended giving some selections at church entertainments in Australia.

"I am a church man, belong to the Methodist church, but they did not seem to have much use for a colored man in the Methodist churches of that White Australia. They are good sports though. They treated me fine and I've got no kick coming. But, on the square, they seemed to think more of Tommy Burns after I had licked him, giving him such a licking as anybody ever had, than they did of me, and me the champion. That was a funny stunt about me finding comfort in Shakespeare's books and the Pilgrim's Progress, but on the level, I do read Shakespeare."

Fitzpatrick when asked about his split with Johnson, said it had begun soon after the fight. "Johnson was a different man before the fight," he said. "He would feed out of the hand then, but he is a hard man to handle now," said Fitzpatrick. "We decided to split soon after the boat left. Anyhow, he doesn't need a manager now. He has got Mrs. Johnson as his manager."

When Johnson was in Australia an Australian paper printed a story about his intended marriage with an Oakland woman, who entered suit against the paper and is said to have received a verdict foor $7,500.

After his theatrical engagement in Europe, Johnson will return to the United States.

Mrs. Jack Johnson, who was Nellie O'Brien of Philadelphia, says she is proud of her dark husband and thinks he is the greatest man in the world. She was much disappointed herself at not being permitted to see the fight but contented herself with the statement that "anyhow Mrs. Burns did not see it either."

Mrs. Johnson plays the piano, accompanying Jack in his bass violin solos.

"MAGNER'S MISFITS" AS SEEN BY THE HERALD CARTOONIST

"NOTHING TO SAY," SAYS JEFFRIES

Big Jim Hears Johnson's Story, But Only Grunts.

New York, March 10.—When James J. Jeffries was seen last night at the theater where he is playing a vaudeville engagement, and shown the Associated Press interview with Jack Johnson, in which the negro champion declared himself ready and willing to meet Jeffries or "any other man in the world," the big fellow only grinned and said nothing.

The Victoria dispatch was read to Jeffries, a paragraph at a time, with the loud pedal on that part of it which had particular reference to him, but after each pause, the big Californian rubbed his chain and muttered: "Nothing to say."

When that part of the interview in which Johnson declared that talk of Jeffries being still the champion tired him, was read to Jeffries, he leaned against the door of his dressing room and laughed. The parallel drawn between an ex-mayor and an ex-champion by the negro fighter also elicited a chuckle from Jeffries, but when asked to dilate on the point, he refused, reiterating his stereotyped "nothing to say."

The possibility of a match being arranged between Johnson and Ketchel, mentioned in the interview, roused Jeffries, however. He had the passage read to him twice and then remarked with a grunt:

"Why, Ketchel is a little bit of a fellow."

"You do not consider it likely, then?" Jeffries was asked, "that Johnson and Ketchel will ever be matched?"

"I don't know," he replied, "and I don't care. I have refused to say anything concerning that party, and I ain't going to say anything except when I get god and ready."

"By that party you mean Johnson?"

"I do."

It was explained to the retired champion that his persistence in allowing his attitude in the matter of a match with Johnson to remain a mystery would encourage the negro champion to issue pronouncements and challenges at evry stopping place. To this Jeffries laconically remarked: "Let him."

The news of a parade being held in Galveston in honor of Johnson almost drew an impulsive reply from Jeffries. He checked himself, however, and his grin became a sneer.

JEFFRIES ARRESTED.

Sparring on Stage is Against the Law in New York.

New York, March 10.—A summons was served yesterday on J. J. Jeffries, retired heavyweight champion pugilist, and another on James Solly, manager of the theater where Jeffries is appearing, directing them to appear in police court today and explain why Jeffries indulges in a sparring act on the stage of the theater in violation of the anti-prize fight law. The court orders were secured yesterday by Police Capt. Reidy of the precinct in which the theater is located.

KUBIAK KNOCKED OUT.

"Sandy" Ferguson Turns the Trick in the Fourth Round.

Boston, Mass., March 10.—"Sandy" Ferguson of Chelsea knocked out Al Kubiak of Michigan in the fourth round last night at the Armory Athletic club. The Chelsea man showed surprising form and had the better of the bout from the start.

Ferguson secured an advantage by flooring Kubiak with a right to the jaw in lieu of shaking hands in the initial round. During the first two rounds Ferguson kept up a series of left jabs on Kubiak's left eye.

In the third round Ferguson slowed down somewhat, but near the middle of the fourth he delivered three straight lefts to the face, followed quickly by a right hook to the jaw, which laid Kubiak on the floor for the count.

HIGH SCORES IN SINGLE EVENTS

Fred Ebert of Milwaukee Rolls 660 at Pittsburg Congress.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 10.—One of the most successful days since the opening of the ninth international tournament of the American bowling congress was experienced yesterday. Starting at 8 a. m., play was in progress until after midnight, there being rolled five doubles, ten individuals and two five-men events. No nacional records were broken, but bowlers from thirty-one cities in the East, West, North and South ran up a number of high scores.

A meeting of the executive council of the American Bowling congress was held. A majority of the resolutions, having for their purpose the betterment of bowling throughout the country, were favorably received. A meeting will be held today at which the resolutions will be acted upon. The nomination of officers and suggestions as to the next tournament will also be taken up. While the matter of the next place of meeting has not been officially settled, on account of a misunderstanding regarding facilities at Detroit, it is said the Detroit boomers will have satisfactory arrangements to present to the meeting today. The general opinion is that the 1910 tournament will go to Detroit. Little change of importance will be made in the election of natianal officers.

The Cincinnati delegation arrived here last night. It is the largest coming to the tournament and was given a royal welcome.

In the singles events late yesterday afternoon Fred Ebert of Milwaukee rolled 660 and J. Rosendahl of Chicago made 633, the highest marks in this class.

In the first five-men event last night, the Melrose team of Chicago made 2,863 and the Glenwoods of Chicago rolled 2,754.

Following are the highest scores in five-men events since the tournament opened: Lipman, Chicago, 2,962; Melrose, Chicago, 2,836; Klondike, Toledo, 2,796; Glenwood, Chicago, 2,754; Blue Ribbons, Buffalo, 2,739; Brewmalts, Sioux City, 2,736; Plaza, Baltimore, 2,725; Columbus, 2,703; Webers, Toledo, 2,686; Valpey, Detroit, 2,680.

The scores in the second five-men events, the last ending at 12:50 a. m., are as follows:

Brewmalts, Sioux City, Iowa, 2,667; Reynolds, Columbus, last year's champions, 2,703; Tosetti, Chicago, 2,685; Kis-me-gum, Louisville, 2,659; Acme, Canton, Ohio, 2,618; Sands Diamonds, Cleveland, 2,596; Colonials, Madison, Wis., 2,618; Actives, Cleveland, 2,545; Hardy-ables, Canton, Ohio, 2,436; Unions, Washington, D. C., 2,476; Jolly Fat Men, Washingtin, 2,472; Brunswick, Canton, 2,414; Bureau, Washington, 2,382; Piqua, Piqua, Ohio, 2,381; Stetson, Caton, 2,318; Stagg, Tiffin, Ohio, 2,293.

Yusiff Fails Again.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 10.—Yusiff Mahmout failed in his attempt to throw Charles Olson of Indianapolis, two falls in forty-five minutes here last night. Olson proved a much harder contender than Mahmout anticipated.

Players Transferred.

Chicago, March 10.—It was announced here yesterday that the Chicago National league baseball club had secured waivers on Outfielders Jimmy Slagle and Jack Hayden. Hayden will be returned to the Indianapolis American association team, with which he played last year. It is not known what team will get Slagle. Slagle will be the first of the regulars of three time pennant winners to be sent to the minor leagues.

MAY FINISH WITH ONE MORE GAME

Hockey Enthusiasts Determined to Play One More Contest.

If the weather permits, the Bryants and the Northern Junior hockey teams, the two teams that are tied for the championship of the Amateur Hockey league, will clash at the Central rink Thursday night.

It now looks as though the boys would be lucky if they get a chance to play one game for the championship of the league, as the weather keeps so persistently warm. The officials of the league wish to play off the three games, if possible, but if the weather stays warm it will be impossible to play more than one.

The teams have been trying to get together and finish up the season for the past two weeks.

ARE FIGHTING RUGBY FOOTBALL

Eastern Coachers Will Teach American Game in Coast Schools.

San Francisco, Cal., March 10.—At the second meeting of the American football association, held here last night, plans were made to import a coach from one of the "big four" colleges in the East to teach the high school of this state the revised American game of football. This will be the most important step in the campaign which is now being waged under the leadership of William Reid, former head coach at Harvard, to prevent the introduction of Rugby football into the secondary schools on this coast. The University of California and Stanford university have been playing the English game for three years, and an effort is now being made to substitute it for the revised intercollegiate game in the high schools.

NORTH DAKOTA RACES.

Dates for the Southern Circuit of State Are Announced.

Valley City, N. D., March 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting held here, the following dates for the Southern circuit races were decided upon:

Fargo—June 1, 2, 3 and 4.
Casselton—June 8, 9 and 10.
Courtney—June 15, 16 and 17.
Carrington—June 22, 23 and 24.
Fessenden—June 29, 30, July 1.
Valley City—July 6, 7, 8 and 9.
Jamestown—July 12, 13, 14 and 15.
Grand Forks—July 19, 20, 21, 22, 23.
Fargo—July 26, 27, 28, 29, 30.

Harry Baker Outclassed.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 10.—Ad Wolgast completely outclassed Harry Baker, winning by a good margin in their ten-round contest last night. Baker appeared to be afraid of his man and was on the defense throughout the bout. Referee Eyton, in the eighth round, insisted that he fight. Wolgast forced the fighting, boring in with left and right to the face, when Baker's nose began to bleed. Baker had little difficulty in finding Wolgast, but his blows lacked force.

COLUMBIAS LOSE TO THE FITWELLS

Herald Printers Are Also Beaten at Bowling by Tribune Team.

On the Central alleys last night, the Fitwell bowling team took two out of three games with the Columbias. The result of the games played last night puts the Fitwell team well inthe lead in the league.

George Massey of the Columbia team got both the high schore and high average. His high score was 256 and his average was 200.

The game between The Herald and News Tribune was won by the Tribune team. They captured all three games. Curyer of the News Tribune team got both the high score and the high average. The high score was 190 and the average was 160.

FOOTBALL RULES MAY BE CHANGED

Intercollegiate Committee to Meet in New York March 25.

Chicago, March 10.—Director Stagg of the University of Chicago announced yesterday that the annual meeting of the intercollegiate football rules committee would be held at the Murray Hill hotel, New York, on March 25 and 26. Mr. Stagg, who is a member of the legislative board, will be present, but said, as far as he was concerned, the rules could rest the same as last season.

"So far," declared Stagg, "I have heard nothing but enthusiastic compliments for the present rules. Here in the West the sentiment seems to be in favor of retaining them intact. All the coaches I have talked with have expressed themselves as satisfied with conditions during the last season, and I see no reason for making any great alterations.

"Of course, the opinion in the East may be altogether different, but I hardly believe such is the case. The new game was quite as much a success among the Eastern universities as in this section. The forward pass worked well under the regulations imposed under it last fall, and I anticipate no modification of the ruling concerning that feature. There has been some complaint against the ruling requiring a gain of ten yards for every three downs, especially by the stronger teams, which have found it hard to make the distance against an eleven clearly their inferiors. Almost every one admits, however, that the ten-yard rule has given the teams from the smaller colleges a chance against their larger rivals, and that is a great point in its favor."

PEDESTRIANS LIMP PAINFULLY

Cabot and Orphee Have a Lead of Over Sixteen Miles.

New York, March 10.—Painfully limping over the sawdust-covered clay and cinder track, the surviving pedestrians in the six-day go-as-you-please race, in Madison Square Garden, were today reduced to eleven and a half teams. Louis Semeran of Brooklyn, who for the second time since the race started was without a partner, composed the half team. The first man who drops out today will be replaced by Semeran, who has shown a lot of gameness.

The Frenchmen, Cibot and Orphee, seemed to possess an inexhaustable store of energy, and had a lead of over sixteen miles on Davis and Metkus, a reconstructed team. Davis and Metkus in turn were nine miles in front of the Irish pair, Feegan and Curtis, who have made heroic efforts during the last twenty-four hours to get to the front.

Dineen of the Boston team seemed quite exhausted today, but pluckily plodded along.

The score at 8 a. m.:

Gibot and Orphee, 333 miles 2 laps; Davis and Meckus, 316 mile s5 laps; Feegan and Curtis, 306 miles 2 laps; Dineen and Prouty, 303 miles 7 laps; Leslein and Klubertanz, 295 miles 9 laps; Correy and Hegelman, 281 miles; Shelton and Frazer, 276 miles 8 laps; Guignard and Revere, 263 miles 8 laps; Navez and Kellar, 250 miles 8 laps; Hartley and Poilanti, 244 miles 7 laps; Quackenbush and Edelson, 225 miles 8 laps; Semeran and Sapsford, 199 miles 7 laps.

HESTON OR COLE FOR BAIRD'S JOB

Former Michigan Athletes After Berth at Wolverine Institution.

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 10.—Charles Baird, director of athletics, yesterday afternoon affirmed the statement that he will sever his connection with the University of Michigan in June.

"I have heard the names of Philip Barteime of Chicago, King Cole of Toledo and Heston, a Detroit lawyer, mentioned as probable successors to myself," said Baird. "There seems to be some doubt as to whether it is necessary that the holder of the office be a graduate. I am almost positive that he need not be."

The new holder of the office will not have Baird's title. It was decided some time ago to call him director of outdoor athletics. When Director Baird first came into office there was a $3,000 debt over the association, and it had neiher credit nor property. Now it has almost $250,000 worth of property and money in the treasury.

GOPHERS TO MEET CHICAGO FIVE

Minnesota Boys Will Be Given Chance to Redeem Themselves.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 10.—The great Chicago five will line up against the Gophers in the varsity armory Saturday night. This will be the last contest of the season for the Maroon and Gold quint, and it will have a famous adversary to play against. The Maroons have defeated practically everything in the Middle West in intercollegiate circles, and barring the unforeseen, they will come here as the pennant-winners of the 1908 season.

The Chicago team is practically the same as that which defeated the Pennsylvania team last year, and which thereby won the title to the collegiate championship of the United States. The probability is that if the Windy City team had played Eastern quints this season it would have repeated its last year's experience, as the team is stronger than ever at this time. On the team is Schommer at center. He is now playing his fourth and last year of collegiate basketbill, and is undoubtedly the best man in the basketball game today. Others of the "champs" who played in former years and are among the college basketball leaders are Georgan, Page and Hoffman. Page will captain the Chicago football team next season.

Welsh vs. Young Donahue.

New Orleans, La., March 10.—Freddie Welsh, the English lightweight champion, and Young Donohue of Boston, have signed articles to meet in New Orleans, on the night of March 16, for a bout limited to ten rounds.

Champions Defeated.

Des Moines, Iowa, March 10.—Grinnel, the state collegiate champion basket ball team, was defeated by the Des Moines Y. M. C. A. here last night, 26 to 15.

EVENT NEARING FINAL ROUND

Five Rinks Will Play Off for President's Trophy.

Walter C. Hall's C Class rink was put out of the president's event last night by Dinham's C Class rink. The game was a good one. The score was 10 to 11, and the contest required thirteen heads.

Walter Hall's A Class ring is the winner of the A Class, and has no more games to play except the finals with the winners of the other classes.

Dr. Catterson and Will Dinham's B Class rink will have to play a game before the winner of the B Class is decided. Deetz and Dinham's C Class rink will play for C Class honors.

WHEAT HAS WEAK CLOSE

The American Markets Sell Off During the Last Hour.

Flax Is Quiet and Fractionally Lower in Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 10.—Wheat was fairly firm until the last hour of the session today, when a selling movement took prices below yesterday's closing level, and they were there at the end of the session. At one time values were higher than yesterday, but not for long. Receipts at Duluth were liberal.

Liverpool closed ⅞d higher, Berlin ⅝c higher, and Budapest, 1¼c higher.

The May option closed ¾c lower in Duluth and Minneapolis, ⅝@¾c lower in Chicago, and 1⅛c lower in Winnipeg. The July option closed ⅞c lower in Duluth, ⅞@1c lower in Chicago, 1@1⅛c lower in Minneapolis, and 1¼c lower in Winnipeg. Comparisons are impossible upon the New York and Southwestern markets, as the closing prices were not received yesterday.

May corn closed 1c lower in Chicago, and ½d to 1d higher in Liverpool. May oats closed ⅝@¾c lower in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"Wheat—The market here had a firm undertone at the start and values were ⅛d to ½d higher. There was liberal buying in this market both last night and today, thought to be for the Chicago bull account, and sellers were few. A further slight advance occurred after the opening, with offerings light, but the market was generally dull in anticipation of liberal La Plata shipments this week. At midday the market was dull and frim d to ⅝d advance from yesterday.

"Corn was firm at the start and ½d higher. Offerings were light, influenced by the firmness in America yesterday and a better demand for spot. Following the opening the market was extremely dull at the advance."

Car receipts of wheat were 72 against 19 last year, and at Minneapolis 155 against 300 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 227, against 319 last year. Chicago received 105 against 22 last year. Winnipeg received 219 against 91 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 515,000 bu., last year 592,000 bu. Shipments, 222,000 bu., last year 363,000 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour were 150,094 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 744,000 bu., last year 488,000 bu. Shipments, 547,000 bu., last year 548,000 bu. Clearances of corn were 1,625 bu.

Wheat was fairly active in the Duluth market. May wheat opened unchanged at $1.12¾, advanced to $1.12⅝, declined to $1.12, reacted to $1.13⅛, declined to $1.11⅞ and closed at $1.12, a loss of ¾c from yesterday. July wheat opened late at $1.13½, went to $1.13¾, declined to $1.12½ and closed there, a loss of ⅞c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ¾c lower and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was quiet and easier. May flax opened unchanged at $1.63½, went to $1.61 asked, without a trade, rallied to $1.63½, declined to $1.62¾, reacted to $1.63¾ and closed there, a loss of ¾c from yesterday. July flax was inactive and closed ¾c lower at $1.62¼. September flax was inactive and closed 1c lower, at $1.41. October flax was inactive and closed unchanged, at $1.37½.

Oats closed ¾c lower and barley was 1½c higher.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Early Weakness Despite an Advance in Wheat Price.

Chicago, March 10.—Despite an advance of ½d in the price of wheat at Liverpool, the market here today was weak early in the session on profit-taking by local holders. Receipts here were 105 cars, which was a much larger amount than had been estimated yesterday. Prices at the start were ⅛@¼c higher to ⅛@⅜c lower, May being at $1.14¾ to $1.15¼ and July at $1.03⅞ to $1.04. For a time May held within the opening range, but the July delivery sold off to $1.03½.

The market was nervous the greater part of the day. The high point for May was reached at $1.15½. Late in the session a weak tone again developed, on renewed profit taking, and May declined to $1.14¾, and July to $1.02⅞. The close was weak, at almost the bottom, with May down ⅞@¾c at $1.14⅝, and July off ⅞@1c, at $1.02⅞@1.03.

Liberal receipts and lower temperatures in the corn belt caused weakness in the corn market. Many of the smaller longs were disposed to sell, and the demand was not urgent. May opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 69c to 69¼c, and declined to 68⅝c.

The market slumped severely in the day, in sympathy with wheat, May declining to 67⅛c. The close was weak at the bottom, with May down 1c, at 68⅛c.

Oats displayed greater weakness than either wheat or corn, the market being subjected to liberal realizing sales. May opened ⅛c lower to a shade higher, at 56c to 56@⅛c, and declined to 55⅝c.

Profit taking sales by influential holders had a depressing effect on provisions, prices at the opening being 5c to 12½c lower.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Flour in Fair Demand—Prices of Barley Advanced.

Minneapolis, March 10.—Local elevator stocks declined 5,000 bushels for four days. Cables weer firm. The local market depended almost entirely on the Chicago market. May closed at $1.11¾, ⅞c lower than the opening. Minneapolis received 155 cars against 300; Duluth 72 against 19; Winnipeg 219 against 91. May opened $1.12⅝; high, $1.13; low, $1.11⅝; close, $1.11¾. July opened $1.13⅝; high, $1.13¾; low, $1.12⅝@1.12⅝; close, $1.12⅝@1.12¾. Cash wheat was in a little stronger demand today. Receipts were light and there were not many offerings. No. 1 northern sold for 1⅛@1¾c above May, and No. 2, ⅛@¼c under. Millers were the principal buyers. Close: No. 1 northern, $1.13¼; to arrive, $1.13¼; No. 2 northern, $1.11¼@1.11¾; to arrive, $1.11¼; No. 3 wheat, $1.07¼@1.09½; No. 3 yellow corn, 62½@62¾c. No. 3 white oats, 51¾@52¾c. No. 2 rye, 72¾@75¾c.

Millstuffs shipments, 1,780 tons. Demand was again strong and in excess of the supply. Prices held firm and shipments showed an increase. Bran in bulk, $23.00@23.50.

Flax receipts, 15 cars today against 40 a year ago. Shipments, 2. The offerings were very light and the market was rather inactive. Prices were the same as Duluth May, closing at $1.63.

Barley receipts, 42 cars today against 24; shipments, 69. Demand was good and prices advanced half a cent. Receipts were fairly heavy and the market was very active. Closing range, 61½@63c.

Flour was in fairly good demand. Shipments, although larger than yesterday, do not compare favorably with those of a week ago. Country millers reported a better business. Prices held firm. Shipments, 42 615 barrels. First patents, $5.50@5.60; second patents, $5.45@5.55; first clears, $4.40@4.50; second clears, $3.15@3.25.

The Chicago inter-Ocean says today: "After looking over the government report on farm reserves, as shown by states in these columns yesterday, and considering the supplies, visible and invisible, a good many traders do not construe the stocks of wheat as at all bearish, as the United States and Canada has 2,000,000 bushels less than a year ago in second hands, and farm reserves are only 5,000,000 bushels."

LeCount wired from El Reno, Okla., that the weather was cool and that two inches of snow, which fell last night, would partly relieve the drought situation for a while.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., March 10.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Owing to an oversupplied market values rule uneven and fail to make the usual spring advance. The present offerings of common and plain stuff must be moved before the market assumes a normal tone. A large number of country buyers have arrived for the big Wednesday auction and a good sale is expected. There are 300 head of medium grade horses on the market, which will be sold for the high dollar regardless of country cost.

Copper Gossip.

Boston wired Paine-Webber: Copper report shows gain in surplus supplies of 29,000,000 pounds only for February. This is offset by large sales since March 1, and should be a bullish point.

FOR DRAWING A REVOLVER

John Shoburg will be arraigned in municipal court late this afternoon, charged with carrying concealed weapons. It is claimed that he pulled a gun on Officer Root last night.

Shoburg was raising a disturbance at the corner of Garfield avenue and Superior street late last night, and when Officer Root appeared on the scene and went to arrest him, he drew a revolver from his pocket, but before he could bring it into play Root knocked it from his hand. The man was arrested and was locked up in the city jail.

PERISHED IN FIRE AT MINE

John Mestnik, as administrator of the estate of Joseph Mestnik, whose life was lost in a fire in the Malta mine at Sparta, is suing the Malta Iron company for $5,000 for the death of his brother.

A fire, which started in the mule barn, underground, at the Malta mine, cut off Mestnik's escape to the shaft, and he perished in the flames.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Movement Was Narrow and the Close Was Rather Easy.

Some Gains Recorded, But Prices Yielded in Final Hour.

New York, March 10.—Opening prices of stocks receded today under brisk selling pressure, and affected by sympathy with earlier declines in London. Canadian Pacific and Denver & Rio Grande preferred fell 1, and Anaconda ⅝. Otherwise the declines were made up of small fractions.

Prices made some further slight declines before small buying orders were executed and a recovery followed, led by Reading, Union Pacific and the copper stocks. The movement was of little consequence either way and was conducted on very restricted dealings.

Prices receded before light selling orders until Reading lost a point, Colorado & Southern 1¼, and Toledo, St. Louis & Western, and Republic Steel preferred, 1½. After large transactions in United States Steel at 43, the market steadied and became semi-stagnant. Bonds were steady.

After another reaction in United States Steel, when it touched 42⅞, the market rallied with the general tendency considerably assisted by the strength of Chesapeake & Ohio, which advanced 1⅝. American Ice yielded 1½.

The market closed rather easy. The recovery went further on dull trading, and established gains in International Pump of 2½; Northwestern, 2; American Locomotive and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault. Ste. Marie preferred, 1¾; Hocking Coal, 1⅝; Amalgamated Copper, American Car, 1. Minneapolis & St. Louis preferred declined 1¾. Prices yielded in the final dealings.

SUPERIOR NEWS

DIDN'T WANT HIS WIFE TO GO AWAY

Walter Whitehead is in wrong with the Superior police.

Walter is the negro pugilist, who has been defeating all comers hereabouts, in a pugilistic way, for some time past. Yesterday he was locked up in the Superior city jail on a charge of disorderly conduct and later released on $25 bail.

It seems that Mrs. Whitehead after visiting with friends in Superior determined to take a trip to St. Paul. Walter heard of the plans and made his way to the depot hotfoot.

He seemed anxious that she should not go, and she seemed determined to finish what she started. He used force to detain her and she screamed. When arrested later in the evening he was carrying his wife's overcoat and hat which he had taken from her during the struggle at the depot to prevent her leaving the city.

PLAYED HIDE AND SEEK.

Ever since last Friday a merry little game of "hide and seek" has been played in Superior between John H. McDonough and Constables Woods and Baker. The constables were "it" until yesterday noon, when they "spied" their man. It was only by means of a put-up job that they at last tagged him.

Mrs. Mac McDonough of 225 west Third street filed a divorce suit against her husband last week, and Judge Smith issued an order directing the husband to appear in court. Then the game commenced. McDonough was determined that the papers should not be served on him, and the officers of the law were just as determined that they should.

In despair, Constable Baker directed Mrs. McDonough to pack up her part of the furniture and put it on a dray to be moved. He then hid in a nearby alley and waited. Soon McDonough was on the scene demanding of the drayman that he put the furniture back in the house. Then Constable Baker stepped from under cover and read the papers to his man.

The suit is filed on the ground of over-indulgence in intoxicating liquors and cruelty.

Speaks at Smoker.

Solon R. Perrin, attorney for the Omaha road, spoke last evening at a smoker at the Superior Commercial club. He praised the club for its work in boosting Superior.

Jail Cook Jailed.

Charles A. Williams, a war veteran 66 years old, yesterday pleaded guilty in the Superior municipal court to being intoxicated, and was sentenced to a term of ten days in the workhouse. Ten days in the workhouse was in reality not punishment for the old man, as he has been employed as cook at the jail for some time.

Appointed Court Reporter.

Julius Cohen was appointed yesterday by Judge Smith to the position of superior court reporter, from which position Congressman-elect Lenroot resigned March 1, after sixteen years of service. Mr. Cohen has been clerk and reporter of the municipal court for several years.

May Settle Cases.

The three suits of Alphonse A. Maxim, May Maxim and Grace Maxim Miller against John H. Brigham, were called for joint trial before Judge Dibell in district court this morning, but just before they were brought to trail negotiations for settlement were opened between the attorneys, and, pending the issue, the cases were held up. The suits were brought to recover about $3,000, which the heirs of Eliza Maxim claimed to be due them on account of a land deal, in which Mrs. Maxim and Mr. Brigham were involved. The cases were tried once before, but a new trial was granted by the trial court.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10, 1909.

From now on Butte-Montana should be the greatest success of any copper mining company now before us, when mine is in its development stage. I returned from Butte last night and have proxies from all big holders even the president of the Butte-Montana Mining company to vote in favor of reorganization on the 20th and I control about 850,000 shares of the stock therefore everything should go through in fine shape. Butte stood by me almost to a man. Now then I will tell the stockholders a few other things that we found out in our visit to that city and this is that we own the biggest independent proposition on the hill outside of the Clark mines. Our mine on the 400, 500, 600, 700, 800, 900, 1,000 and 1,200 is certainly something to look at. From the 400 to the surface we should have enough to pay $2.00 a share on the million now outstanding. To make a long story short I will tell you in my own way; we dropped down to the 1,200 first and there saw several veins; one was over 40 feet wide and was almost green as grass, the drift was cut through it but no ore taken out, but was nothing but a mass of ore. Then we went into a cross cut over 38 feet all in ore and no hanging wall yet reached. We then went a little farther and went up into a stope in another vein where three miners were working taking out ore that ran from 70 per cent copper down to lower values and on Sunday they opened it up rich the full width of the workings and hoisted 80 mine cars of high grade ore out of the face of the drift. I went up to the mine at 10 o'clock and took samples from the ore pile; we did not have time to go down, but Mr. Kerr and Mr. Stone came out of the mine at that time and told me what they had. I asked Mr. Charlton to get assays on Monday from ore in drift and here is a message I received on the train at Mandan Tuesday night at 12 o'clock.

Butte, Mont., March 8, 1909.

Ore body seven to eight feet; will average 8 to 10 per cent.

S. W. CHARLTON...

Out of this vein we could take big chunks of copper ghance that would assay up to 70 per cent copper. The three miners working in this mine put over 200 tons of ore on the stock pile in about three days. You could pick almost every kind of high grade ore out of this pile from copper glance down.

I believe the Butte-Montana mine will have bigger ore bodies than the Minnie Henly when shaft is down to the 1,600, and we are now down 1,245 feet. We have ore shown up that would take over ten years to mine. I believe the Butte-Montana mine has more ore in those big veins that apex on her property than the Toulomne, East Butte and Butte-Hinkhinan mines all put together and if you do not believe me you can easily get permission to go into all these mines and then I will leave it to you. There is nothing but a huge mass on the lower levels and it would not surprise me if some of our veins are over 100 feet wide. It is not for us to show that we are as big as we are. We have the real mine and I have known it ever since I first saw the mine.

Mr. James T. Fisher of the State Savings Bank of Laurium, Mr. J. A. Minnerer, Mr. John Frederick, Mr. Pierce, Mr. Thomas A. Merritt, Mr. R. A. Kerr and Mr. Max Stevens of Ironwood all were in the mine with me and if we had two train loads of people they could all visit other mines in their development stage but when they would get into those drifts of the Butte-Montana mine they would simply stand and stare for this is a mine in ten thousand. We invite you all to go to this property and see it. We do not pick samples and send assays but our stock pile is full of ore and every round of holes in the mine at this time is blowing out real ore. When the Butte-Alex Scott takes over the mine on the 20th it will be the best financial property on Butte Hill for we will have a call on $750,000 and a mine already developed.

Those who now own this stock all I can say if you sell Butte-Montana stock this side of $2.00 a share you are fools, for I believe we have a $12,000,000 mine and it is now up to you to believe me or GO TO BUTTE AND SEE THE MINE. I have made good and have spent money to do it. Again I say we have delivered the real goods to our friends. Not hot air, but a real mine.

FOR THE PURPOSE OF ORGANIZING a corporation under Revised Laws 1905, of Minnesota, and amendments thereto, we subscribe the following Certificate:

1. The name of this corporation shall be "McNiven Land Company." Its principal place of transacting business shall be Duluth, Minnesota. The general nature of its business shall be to buy, hold, lease, let, mortgage, sell, transfer, improve, convey and deal in, real and personal property of all kinds, in Minnesota and elsewhere, and to cultivate, explore, mine and handle all products of, such real estate in such manner as may seem to the directors of this company to be advisable; to borrow and to loan money, and to make, endorse and guarantee commercial paper; and to do any and all other things authorized by law that the directors may deem necessary or advisable for any of the aforesaid purposes.

2. The period of duration of this corporation shall be thirty (30) years from and after March tenth (10th), 1909.

3. The names of the incorporators of said corporation are: Francis W. Sullivan, Sara L. McNulty and Hans B. Haroldson, all of whom reside in Duluth, Minnesota.

4. The management of said corporation shall be vested in a board of three directors, who shall be elected annually, at the annual meeting of the stockholders, which shall be held in Duluth, Minnesota, on the second Monday in January in each year. Until the first annual meeting of the stockholders, said Board of Directors shall be composed of Francis W. Sullivan, Sara L. McNulty and Hans B. Haroldson, all of whom reside in Duluth, Minnesota. The officers of said corporation shall be a President, a Vice President, a Secretary and a Treasurer, who shall have such powers and duties, as may be prescribed by the by-laws; any two of said offices, except President and Vice President, may be held by the same person.

5. The amount of the capital stock of said corporation shall be fifty thousand ($50,000) dollars, divided into five hundred (500) shares of the par value of one hundred ($100) dollars each, which shall be paid for, in cash or in property, at such times, in such manner, and in such installments, as the Board of Directors shall determine.

6. The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which said corporation shall be subject at any time, shall be the sum of twenty-five thousand ($25,000) dollars.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, We have hereunto subscribed our names this sixth (6th) day of March, A. D. 1909.

ORDER OF HEARING ON PETITION FOR ADMINISTRATION.—
State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis.—ss.
In Probate Court,

In the matter of the estate of John Rus, defendant.

THE PETITION of Franciska Rus having been filed in this Court, representing, among other things, that John Rus, then being a resident of the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, died intestate, in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, on the 4th day of September, 1908, leaving estate in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, and that said petitioner is the widow of said decedent, and praying that Letters of Administration of the estate of said decedent be granted to her.

IT IS ORDERED, That said petition be heard before this Court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House in Duluth, in said County, on Monday, the 5th day of April, 1909 at ten o'clock, A. M., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required at said time and place to show cause, if any there be why said petition should not be granted.

ORDERED FURTHER, That this Order be served by publication in The Duluth Evening Herald, according to law, and that a copy of this Order be served on the County Treasurer of St. Louis County not less than ten days prior to said day of hearing.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., March 9th, 1909.

By the Court,
J. B. MIDDLECOFF,
Judge of Probate.

LOCAL GOVERNMENTS IN ST. LOUIS COUNTY TO GET THOROUGH CHECKING UP

Bill For Auditor's County Examiner Has Passed the House.

Enforcing the Compulsory Education Law in Rural Districts.

Erroneous Impression Regarding the Basement School Room Law.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A thorough, systematic and regular checking up of the financial affairs of the local governments in St. Louis county is provided for in a bill which the house passed yesterday afternoon, and which will undoubtedly go through the senate and become a law, creating the office of "auditor's county examiner" for the county of which Duluth is the capital.

The bill is by the St. Louis county delegation, and the examiner which it provides for is expected to include in his scrutiny the affairs of charitable and benevolent institutions in the county existing in whole or in part upon private donations.

The need of such an official has long been recognized, owing to the unusual

Joseph Bray Makes Initial Filing at Land Opening.

About 100 Landseekers Besiege Cass Lake Land Office.

Cass Lake, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—At exactly 9 o'clock this morning the doors of the United States land office opened, signifying that the officials were prepared to take filings for township 67-25.

Waiting before the doors were about one hundred eager homeseekers. They previously were present to see there was fair play, but there was no trouble.

Joseph Bray of Blackduck was the first to file, and it took him three minutes to accomplish his aim. He came out happy, saying everything was "bully." Ernest Toupan and Theodore Bissioniere of Red Lake Falls were Nos. 2 and 3.

The land thrown open is in Kooch-

NO WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE

House Votes Against the Idea in Two Different Forms.

Distance Tariff Bill Is Favored by Senate Railroad Committee.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house this morning killed women's suffrage in two forms. First was Ware's pretty scheme of a referndum at the next general election, at which the women were to be allowed to say whether or not they wish the right to vote. This was to settle the vexed question of whether women really do clamor for the ballot. This was indefinitely postponed by a vote of 79 to 27. Next was J. N. Johnson's bill proposing a constitutional amendment allowing women to vote, which suffered the same fate by a vote of 59 to 46.

The senate railroad committee, at a meeting held this morning, voted to recommend for passage the Cashman distance tariff bill, which would undoubtedly cause a greater disturbance

MINERS AND OPERATORS SEEK INDUSTRIAL PEACE; HASTEN WAGE AGREEMENT

Lewis and Labor Representatives Insist on Their Demands.

Conference In Baer's Office Alert Against Work Suspension.

Both Sides Hope for Early Settlement of Issues.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 11.—With a desire to reach an early decision and thus avoid suspension of work, the representatives of the United Mine Workers of America and the presidents of the coal-carrying railroads met today in the Reading terminal building here and began negotiations for a new agreement to go into effect at the expiration of the present working arrangement March 31.

It is safe to say that not since the present organization of miners became active in the anthracite regions of Pennsylvania have the workmen and the employers entered upon negotiations with a better feeling and understanding and with better prospects of reaching a settlement without resorting to radical action.

Thomas L. Lewis, national president of the miners' union who meets the hard coal operators in formal conference for the first time, arrived here from the West early today and before going to the Reading terminal held a final meeting with the officers and executive board members of the three anthracite districts. There was a final exchange of views, and Mr. Lewis was given certain information he desired regarding mining conditions by the practical men in the miners' delegation.

Most of the presidents of the coal roads and representatives of the independents arrived during the morning and at once went to the offices of President Baer of the Reading company where the meeting was held.

Demands of Miners.

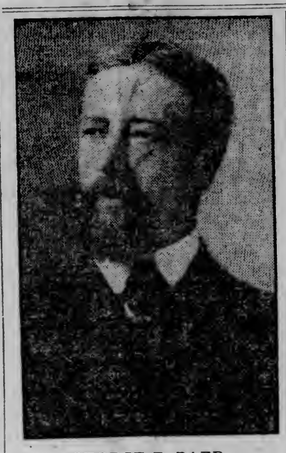

The demands of the anthracite miners as drafted in a convention in Scranton last October and approved by the national convention at Indianapolis in January, are as follows:

First, that an agreement shall be negotiated between the representatives of the miners and the operators of the anthracite region, and all disputes arising under the contract shall be adjusted as provided for in the said agreement.

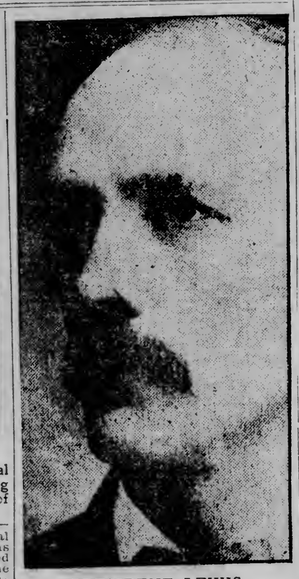

Second—We demand the complete recognition of the United Mine Workers of America as a party to negotiations in wage contract, and the United Mine Workers of America shall be recognized in our right to provide any method we may adopt for the collection of revenue for the organization.

Third—That we demand an eight-

WAVE OF PROTEST AT PROPOSED TEA DUTY FORMIDABLE

Framers of Tariff Bill Deluged With Remonstrances From All Over Country.

Petroleum Men Rampant---Prospect That Iron Ore Will Go on Free List.

REPORTED ITEMS IN THE NEW TARIFF BILL:

Duty on coffee of 5 cents.
Duty on tea, amount unknown.
Changes in pulp paper schedule.
Maintainence of countervailing duty on petroleum.
Copper, lead, sugar, no change.
Iron ore, on free list.
Billets and rails, substantially reduced.
Pig iron, 25 per cent reduction.
High grade cotton, graduated tax.
Silk goods, increased tax.

Washington, March 11.—With the Payne tariff bill practically in readiness to be introduced on the first day of the special session, newspaper correspondents anxious to learn what has been done with schedules affecting the sections in which their papers circulate and manufacturers and others who have interests that will be affected by the new measure, gather daily in the ways and means committee room to learn something regarding the new bill. No legislative measure has ever been so carefully guarded as the document now being framed.

The proposition that has given the committee the most concern and which has been the most difficult to determine is the plan to tax coffee.

RULING IN LABOR BOYCOTT CASE IS UPHELD BY COURT OF APPEALS

Washington, March 11.—The court of appeals of the District of Columbia today modified and affirmed the opinion of Justice Gould of the supreme court of the district, enjoining the American Federation of Labor, Samuel Gompers and other defendants from publishing in the "We Don't Patronize" list the name of the Buck Stove & Range company of St. Louis.

It was in connection with this case that President Gompers, John Mitchell and Morrison were given jail sentences, their appeal from which is still pending.

The opinion which was handed down by Justice Robb, holds that the decree of Judge Gould should be modified to the extent that there should be eliminated from the decree the restriction of the labor organization and the other defendants from "mentioning, writing or referring" to the business of the Bucks Stove & Range company or its customers. Otherwise the decree is affirmed.

The court holds that the "combination" and boycott in furtherance thereof the publication in the "We Don't Patronize" list in aid of the boycott is illegal.

APPEALS TO RED BLOOD

Lawyer For Coopers Says Ox-Goring Makes Difference.

Devotes an Hour to Denunciation of Carmack's Editorial.

Nashville, Tenn, March 11.—The attendance today at the Cooper-Sharpe trial, for the slaying of Former United States Senator Carmack, showed a decrease at the opening hour and when Gen. Washington resumed his arguments for the defense, there were many vacant seats. These filled up, however, as the day advanced, but there was not nearly the demand for admission that made yesterday the red-letter day.

Mrs. Lucius Burch, Robin Cooper's sister, who collapsed yesterday, was in court this morning, pale and wan, but bravely attempting to cheer and encourage her brother. Mrs. Carmack did not appear and it was stated that she was too ill to leave her room. She fainted in court yesterday afternoon.

Gen. Washington in his argument, admitted that Carmack had a right to write an editorial about public men. "But when he stepped over the bounds," he asserted, "and began an attack upon a private citizen, then he exceeded his rights. The state would have you believe that these editorials were harmless. Oh, yes, it is all right to put John Smith or Bill Jones or Sam Brown's name into a paper on the same page with the name of a horse thief or a convict. It's all right. But when they put your name in that position, why it does make a difference and if you have any red blood in your veins you are going to resent it. It makes all the difference in the world whose ox is gored."

ARE WISELY CHOOSING THEIR SPRING APPAREL FROM THIS REMARKABLY LARGE AND VARIED SHOWING OF OUR CELEBRATED

BENCH MADE CLOTHES

The Spring Showing of these matchless clothes-creations is assuming proportions never before known in the history of this store. Choosing now is a positive pleasure here—just when stocks are approaching the full tide of completeness—just when these masterpieces are fresh from the hands of the master tailors who fashion them for us.

We want you to see them early—to note the quality and distinction which has always characterized them is more pronounced than ever in the present showing. The details of style, the distinguishing points of exclusiveness and the plainly evident excellence in materials and craftsmanship at once place them above all other ready-for-service garments—"in a class by themselves."

And yet—note well—they cost far less than the finest garments of the very best custom tailors—which alone are even worthy of comparison.

Prices Range From $15 to $45

Men's Spring Trousers.

A splendid assortment of the new trouserings—new dark effects as well as fancy worsteds—custom tailored in the latest fashions for spring—$2 to $10.

HALTS IN OIL CASE

Government Ponders Over What Step to Take Next.

"Four-Horse Rebate Team Can Go Through Elkins Law."

Washington, March 11.—The officials of the department of justice today again declined to discuss what further action will be taken by the government with respect to the several other criminal cases against the Standard Oil company for accepting rebates, now pending in the courts for the Northern district of Illinois. It is understood, however, that Messrs. Wilkerson and Elmo, government attorneys in the case, will come to Washington within the next few days for a conference with Attorney General Wickersham, when it is presumed a course of action will be decided on.

Consideration already has been given by government counsel to the case of the United States against Standard Oil, which shortly is to come to trial in Jackson, Tenn. The indictment in that case contains 1,500 counts, the specific charges being that the Standard shipped from Whiting, Ind., to various points in the South, 1,400 or more carloads of oil on which concessions in rates were made by the railroads.

The decision of the circuit court in Chicago is not binding as a matter of law on the Tennessee judge, who may try the case, as he is not in the same circuit; but it is considered likely he will follow the Chicago court, as the two cases have similarity. The Tennessee case probably will be heard by Judge John E. McCall of the western district of Tennessee.

"A four-horse rebate team can be driven through the Elkins law as it stands now, after the decision of the United States court of appeals and that of Judge Anderson in the Standard Oil company case at Chicago. An attorney who could not protect a client from a charge of rebating, if these decisions are sustained, would not be worthy of his hire." This is the opinion expressed by a law officer of the government in the course of a discussion of the Standard Oil company's case now pending in various parts of the country.

The law officer pointed out that Judge Landis, who imposed the $29,240,000 fine upon Standard Oil held it was the duty of a shipper to make reasonable inquiry as to whether the rate he was using was lawful. Judges Grosscup, Seaman and Baker of the United States court of appeals reversed that statement of the law, and held substantially that the government had to prove that the shipper knew he was getting an illegal rate. In the opinion of government officers, that rarely if ever could be done. The Elkins law is practically nil in this view.

FEARING MOB, SHERIFF TAKES PRISONER AWAY.

Sigourney, Iowa, March 11.—Fearing a mob would seize John Junken, the negro who confessed to the murder of Clara Rosen, the Ottumwa choir singer, Sheriff Grimes of this place took the prisoner away from the jail. Fred Rosen, brother of the dead girl, and four other men from Ottumwa, appeared at the jail and attempted to see the prisoner. They were searched and four revolvers taken from them.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 11.—Louis Decker, former member of the St. Louis house of delegates, whose sentence of five years in the penitentiary for bribery, was affirmed by the supreme court Tuesday, surrendered to the warden of the state prison today. Decker's assistants, who were indicted at the same time as he, have served their time and are at liberty. A motion for a rehearing of the Decker case is pending.

OVERLOADING OF THE HORSES

Scenes That Are Witnessed Daily on Duluth Avenues.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have just now been watching one of the dreadful scenes that Duluthians must daily see. A small horse, fit for a buggy only, or at least a very light load, came struggling up one of the avenues with a heavy wagon on which were two large trunks, part of a bed, and some other things in the bottom, not discernible, besides two big, yes, and lazy men, for they might have walked, having only themselves to carry. I wish that all good people in this city who are interested in the rights and feelings of our most faithful creatures, the horses, could have seen this one brave little animal struggling, slipping, painting, doing its very best so willingly and nobly in trying to reach the top of the hill with its awful load. I am sure they would have felt very indignant toward its owner and very sorry for the horse. But that would not help matters any. Why cannot this inhuman, brutal practice be stopped? Who can solve the problem and who will? Let us not become so demoralized as to be indifferent to this thing that occurs so often every day in our city.

Of course, one must admit that the streets here necessitate hard work on the part of the horses, but it does not necessitate burdens too heavy too bear, and those who impose them should hide their faces for shame.

There is a young man in the city who drives a noble team. I have seen him often with different loads, and he is always so patient and kind to them. I have seen him get stuck in the mud with a sleigh and have his patience tried to what must have been almost the limit of endurance, yet he didn't beat his horses until they were covered with sweat, but he took part of the load off, got out of the rut, and after taking away what remained on the sleigh, came back and got the rest.

To my mind, any good mother would be proud to own this young man. I think he must be a good citizen and most of all, a man with a heart that feels for dumb brutes who cannot resist brutal treatment or plead their own cause.

POISONED WHEAT TO PRAIRIE DOGS

Will be Used by Stockmen as Pest Riddance.

Washington, March 11.—Poisoned wheat is to be used as bait to kill off the prairie dogs, the stockmen's enemy, that now infest Arizona and New Mexico, and have become a menace to the forest ranges there.

On ranch lands prairie dogs have proved destructive to a variety of crops, including wheat, grain, potatoes and sugar beets, while on grazing lands they destroy so much grass that the grazing capacity of the land is reduced 50 to 75 per cent. The forest service is employing every effort to prevent range deterioration.

Last spring a successful campaign was made against the prairie dog and this year it will be waged on a large scale. The poison is prepared by coating the wheat with a preparation of strychnine, cyanide of potassium, anise oil and molasses.

MAY STAMP OUT THE EVIL

Alleged Resort Keepers in Range Towns Are Indicted.

The Movement Is Partly Economic and Partly Moral.

Whether the movement be economic or moral, the investigation of the "social evil" at Hibbing had its results in indictments. Whether the result extends to convictions and a stamping out of the disorderly houses in the range village is a question. Four men and four women have already been brought down from the range on bench warrants to answer to indictments on various charges connected with running immoral houses and there are said to be others still to come.

Mike Dumford and Birdie Dumford, May Whitney and George Layer and Fred Powell and Mrs. Powell of Hibbing and May Fisher of Chisholm, were brought to Duluth today and they will be arraigned before Judge Cant this afternoon to answer to the indictments. Yesterday, Glen Seville was arraigned on four indictments, two charging him with keeping a disorderly house and two charging the sale of liquor without a license.

Mike and Birdie Dumford were taken in on three separate indictments. One charges selling liquor without a license Jan. 8, one charges the keeping of a disorderly house, and the other alleges the keeping of an unlicensed drinking place. May Whitney and George Layer have two indictments against them, one charging the sale of liquor without a license and the other keeping a disorderly house. Fred Powell and his wife were indicted on similar charges. May Fisher of Chisholm has been in district court before. She is said to have been engaged in the nefarious trade in the range town for some years and is well known to the officers.

Hibbing people attribute the conditions existing there since the first of the year to the closing up of the "red light" district in Duluth. Prior to Jan. 1, there was only one recognized immoral house in the village, that being at the Mitchell location, off the regular line of travel, and somewhat secluded. Recently, three or four houses of ill repute have been erected at the end of Third avenue, just off the residence portion of the village, and near the cemetery. They are between the Brooklyn location and the Roosevelt and Western additions to the village, and to reach them the people traveled on Third avenue, the main street of the town.

There was an immediate howl from the citizens, and it resulted in the grand jury investigation. The noisy visitors to the places traversed Third avenue at all hours of the night, directly through the residence district, and the condition wasn't taken any too kindly by the people having homes on the avenue. The owners of lots in the Roosevelt and Wesetrn additions saw trouble ahead in the sale of lots, on account of the proximity of the houses, and they, perhaps, were the most active in bringing the matter to the attention of the grand jury.

The Civic league has also been at work on the range, and has thrown considerable fuel on the fire of indignation at Hibbing. The economic reasons for desiring to suppress the houses, combined with the moral reasons, have brought results thus far, and on the issue of the cases now in court probably depends the ultimate result of the agitation.

GROWTH OF THE LOCAL HARBOR

J. H. Darling Gives Talk Before the Park Point Club.

The growth and development of the Duluth-Superior harbor was discussed by John H. Darling of the United States engineering corps at a meeting of the Park Point Improvement club last night. He announced that yesterday he received notification that the rivers and harbors bill, passed by congress March 3, provides a large sum for the continuance of the harbor improvement work. Probably the local harbor's part of the appropriation will be $500,000.

Mr. Darling has been on the government work in Duluth for twenty-four years, and was able to make his talk interesting. He told the story of the Duluth ship canal from the time the first opening was made through the point. He said the saving in freight rates on tonnage through the Soo canal in 1907 was sufficient to defray the cost of all the government improvements for the benefit of navigation on the Great Lakes.

The amount of money which will be available for the work at the Head of the Lakes his year will provide for the completion of the work of dredging the harbor basin under the contract with the Great Lakes Dredge & Dock company, the north breakwater at the Superior entry, and also for the continuation of the government plant in operation at the Superior entry, and for removing any shoals in the channels in any part of the harbor. The work to be done will greatly increase the anchorage area in the harbor.

It is believed, also, that instructions will be received from Washington directing that preliminary surveys be made for a deep water channel from the upper limits of the present improved harbor to the quarries near Fond du Lac.

WEST END

ITCHING FOR THE CAMP LIFE

"The Four of Us" Are to Begin Season Early.

"The Four of Us" are making great plans for summer.

"The Four of Us" comprise William E. Cummings, Hugh Gordon, Caleb Ives and Floyd Smith, and all are busily engaged in making preparations for the coming of the warm weather and the opening of navigation on the bay and the St. Louis river.

At present, they are spending a part of their time building a hunting and fishing lodge on the Pokegema river, not a great distance up from the St. Louis river. They expect to have this finished in a short time.

As soon as the ice breaks up, to permit boats to run, "The Four of Us" are going to move up to the Pokegema camp. They have a flotilla of boats, so they can get down to their work every day.

The fleet includes a gasoline launch, a rowboat and two canoes.

The plan of "The Four of Us" to hold forth all summer in camp, has fired other West End young men with the same idea, and it is probable that more hunting lodges will be erected before the season is well under way.

Infant Wails at Entrance to the Catholic Orphanage.

Some one left a blue-eyed baby boy on the doorstep in front of the Catholic orphanage at Twentieth avenue west and Third street, and the Sisters are caring for it. They will make an effort to secure a home for the tiny stranger.

There is no clue to the parentage of the child nor is it known who left it on the doorstep. The baby was wrapped in cheap but neat baby clothes and there was no note of instructions or anything of the kind to be found.

Two pedestrians, a young man and a young woman, heard the baby crying and rang the doorbell of the orphanage, notifying the Sisters. The young people had nothing to do with the leaving of the child.

Annual Reception.

The annual reception of the Epworth league of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church will be held this evening in the church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street. It is expected to be the most brilliant function in the history of the society.

West End Shortrails.

Rev. W. E. Gratz preached to a large congregation at the revival services in Grace M. E. church last evening. Dr. Kirtley gave an interesting discourse to a large congregation in the Central Baptist church, where revival services are being held this week.

Miss Ruth McNamara of St. Paul, who was in the city, the guest of her sisters, Mrs. Frank O'Connell of the Osborne flats and Mrs. John Simons of Piedmont avenue, was called home this afternoon to attend the funeral of a friend killed in an accident.

Lenten services were held last evening in St. Luke's Episcopal church. Rev. Roderick J. Mooney preached a short sermon. After the service the St. Luke's cadets had a drill.

Mrs. R. A. Mordaunt of West Second street will entertain at a luncheon tomorrow afternoon in honor of Miss Frances Prenevost of Lake Linden, Mich., who is visiting in the West end.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church is meeting this afternoon with Mrs. Roy M. Prytz of Twenty-first avenue west.

The Ladies' Missionary Society of the Second Presbyterian church met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. L. C. McBride of Piedmont avenue.

Fred Crane and Wm. J. Meldahl left last night for Seattle, Wash., where they will probably locate permanently.

Mrs. George Hanson has gone to Virginia, Minn., to visit her daughter.

Edward Ranson of Hibbing is visiting his parents in the West end.

A SCRAMBLE FOR STORES

Moving Day Will See Many Changes on Superior Street.

Business Locations and Offices Are in Great Demand.

The rental problem is always a source of worry to the householder when May 1 approaches, but this year, it has spread in all its enormity to the business interests on Superior street. No small number of people, to whom the annual "moving day" has been a subject for but passing notice, are now engaged in active scurrying for new locations or preparations for removal.

The number of new buildings planned for Superior street is responsible for the condition. Similar conditions have not existed for a good many years in Duluth. There is always a demand for good business locations and none remain idle for any longer than it takes to sign a lease, but this spring the rental agents are swamped with demands, which cannot possibly be met by the supply.

When the new buildings are erected, the situation may settle back to its former level, but there are other new buildings to be built and more tenants to be turned out looking for locations in coming years. There is bound to be an extension in the business district eastward on Superior street, and around the corners to First street.

Rental agents with leases open aren't having any trouble securing signatures at their own terms. Six or eight tenants of the northwest corner of Second avenue west and Superior street have been ordered to look for places. The tenants in the Alworth building must vacate by May 1. The corner of Fifth avenue west and Superior street must be cleared for a new building, and in several other places the same situation exists. Big enterprises coming in have driven little ones to the troublesome hunt for locations, and it is all working to build up and make more important East Superior street and First street.

R. R. Forward & Co. some time ago signed a lease for the entire new Folz building on the corner of Third avenue east and Superior street. The Dunlop-Moore company, now located at 111 West Michigan street, will move into one-half of the first floor of the new McDonald building, just west of the city hall. Madam Warde, who is to vacate her present location on account of a St. Paul millinery firm coming in, will take Gidding's annex, Gidding & Co. to extend so as to take up the other floors of the Columbus block. Miss Mehning will move from 3 West Superior street to the New Jersey building, taking a portion of the store room now occupied by H. G. Gross. Fred Scott & Co., will move from 7 West Superior street to 3 West Superior street, Miss Mehning's present location.

The offices of the Duluth Edison Electric company will be moved from their present location to the new Edison building at 216 West First street. Ten tenants of the Columbus block, who have been ordered to vacate on account of the extension of J. M. Gidding & Co., will move to the Edison building. Miss Horrigan goes to the Christie building. The Consolidated Abstract company will move from the Alworth building to the First National bank building, and Gay & Sturgis will go from the Alworth building to the St. Louis hotel building, in the store room now occupied by Charles Schiller's cigar store. Edwards & Co. will move from the Columbus block to the rooms over the Troy Laundry, on East Superior street.

None of the tenants now in the buildings on the corner of Second avenue west and Superior street are known to have secured new locations. They are W. A. Abbett, Frank Sandstedt, Campbell & Doran, Vienna Bakery and George Holmes. The North American Telegraph company, Pittsburg Coal company and upper floor tenants of the Alworth building must find new locations. The Singer Sewing Machine company and the Keystone Investment company have been given orders to move May 1, the property occupied by them having recently changed hands. It is understood a new building is to be erected there.

The demand for locations on Superior street will affect rents very little, it is said, as far as the majority of agents and owners are concerned. Some tenants have complained that renewals of leases are at "steel plant" prices, but rental agents deny that there is any material boosting of rents on business property. Rents have been high for years on account of the restricted boundaries of the business district and there is little disposition to send them higher because the demand for locations is so insistent. The only noticeable effect, real estate men say, is the moving of the Eastern boundary of the business district farther East and the increasing inquiry for First street locations.

Office rooms are scarce, it is said, and room in new office buildings to be erected will be readily taken up. Office rooms are always in demand and the increase in supply seems to make no material difference. New office buildings are always readily taken up and the agents have inquiries in never-diminishing number for desirable rooms.

HANSBROUGH GIVEN JOB.

North Dakota Ex-Senator to Aid in Federal Investigations.

Washington, March 11. — Senator Hansbrough of North Dakota, with his retirement from the senate, has by no means dropped out of Washington public life. The North Dakota ex-senator has been selected to act with ex-Senator Hemenway of Indiana in carrying on the investigation of the secret service organization, and to make a general investigation of Federal departments, with a view to reducing expenses. The work of the investigations will take the entire summer. The senatorial committee is expected to have its report ready for the senate when the latter convnes in regular session in December.

THE Store of Fashion is blossoming forth in the new beauty of spring styles. If you will but take the trouble to step in during this Informal Spring Week, you cannot help but be impressed with the magnitude and beauty of this garment collection.

The Predominating Style Points of Spring Suits are the long, straight, hipless effects, with long, narrow sleeves. Beautiful, softened colors; fine lustrous materials, and new serge weaves. And rich, but quiet diversities of cut and finish, sometimes seasoned with touches of color, that re-appear in the linings. Skirts are most graceful, some being in the new high-waisted Princesse effects. Smart Suits range from $25.00, $29.50 and $35.00 to $97.50.

Lovely Dresses for theater, dinner, card, and street wear, are developed in the new golden Tussah silks, shimmering Messalines, new Ottoman Soleil, Satin Prunella, Eoliennes and Foulards. The colorings are exquisite, and the new textures lend themselves admirably to the graceful lines of the season styles. We show charming models in one-piece Messaline Dresses at from $22.50 to $80.00.

Linen Street Frocks and Lingerie Dresses develop possibilities heretofore unthought of. The styles are most charming and dainty. Sheer dresses range from $15.00 to $135.00. Tailored Wash Dresses range from $8.75 to $39.50.

Exquisite Waists in Real Irish Crochet, and Princess Laces, are the most beautiful blouses that Milady of good taste could desire. SEES RETURN OF GOOD BUSINESS

Croxton Hopes for 25 Per Cent Rail Cut.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 11.—"With the pig iron tariff cut only 25 per cent, and if only a similar cut is made in billets and arils, the prompt return of business activity is assured."

This statement is made by President D. T. Croxton of the Cleveland Furnace company in reference to the reductions proposed in the new tariff bill prepared by the ways and means committee of the house of representatives.

"It will take fully two years to allow the Canadian ore properties to be developed to the point that brings the ores from the northern side of Lake Superior into competition with that mined in the United States," said William G. Mather, president of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company. In speaking of the removal of the entire duty on iron ore.

These statements represent the opinions of the Cleveland interests in iron and steel lines.

DOCTORS SAID INCURABLE--RELIEVED BY PE-RU-NA.

Robust and Strong---Splendid Appetite.

Mrs. E. West, 137 Main St., Menasha, Wis., writes:

"We have used Peruna in our family for a number of years and when I say that it is a fine medicine for catarrh and colds, I know what I am talking about.

"I have taken it every Spring and Fall for four years, and I find that it keeps me robust, strong, with splendid appetite, and free from any illness.

"A few years ago it cured me of catarrh of the stomach, which the doctors had pronounced incurable.

"I am very much pleased with Peruna."

Bowels and Stomach.

Miss Mary Jones, 7018 Reynolds Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I can recommend Peruna as a good medicine for chronic catarrh of the bowels and stomach. I have been troubled severely with it for three years.

"One year ago I began to take Peruna, the wonderful tonic for women and I noticed a wonderful improvement at once. I took six bottles in succession and I always have it on hand to take some now and then when my cough is bad.

"Words cannot express my praise for your tonic. I weighed only ninety pounds before taking Peruna, now one hundred nineteen pounds.

Catarrh of Internal Organs.

Mrs. B. H. Jackson, R. F. D. 5, Newman, Ga., writes: "I have had catarrh of the internal organs for more than a year. I tried other medicines without any benefit.

"I was persuaded to give Peruna a trial, and the first bottle proved a godsend, and after taking ten bottles I have received a permanent cure."

HOUSE BURNS ON HILLSIDE

Spectacular Fire Visible From All Parts of City.

Fire Horses Have Long, Hard Run to the Boulevard.

A spectacular fire, which could be seen from all over the city, this morning completely destroyed the residence of William Cadrant, 615 Fourth avenue west, causing a loss of about $1,500. Mr. Cadrant is a carpenter by trade.

The house was built on the hillside, just a little below the boulevard, and there were no other buildings within a block of it, so a clear view of the blaze was afforded from the city proper, and thousands of people gathered in the office buildings, or along the hillside streets, to witness the blaze.

The fire started shortly after 8 o'clock, and in a few minutes one side of the dwelling was a sheet of flame. The alarm was turned in, but there is no direct street leading to the spot the horses could climb, and there was considerable delay in getting the chemical wagons to the spot, by a roundabout way.

The nearest hydrant is a quarter of a mile from the house, but a hose was connected with it, and water turned on the fire. The flames had gained such headway that all efforts of the firemen proved futile, and the house was a total loss. It was insured for practically its full value, however.

The flames leaped skyward, at times shooting 100 feet into the air, and a large column of smoke rose straight in the air. The spectacle was an interesting one to watch.

GIVE GASSER FULL AMOUNT

Jury Decides Right to Rescind Stock Deal Existed.

M. M. Gasser was awarded the full amount asked for from J. J. Wall, by a jury in district court this morning.

Mr. Gasser brought suit against Mr. Wall for $1,500 claimed to be due him on a stock deal. Mr. Gasser claims that they were partners in the deal, and that the amount he put up covered the full amount of stock purchased, whereas it was represented to him that it was but half the required amount. Mr. Wall claimed that there was no partnership arrangement, and that he had sold the stock to Mr. Gasser. The jury returned a sealed verdict last night, which was opened this morning. It awarded Mr. Gasser the full amount sued for, with interest, the total being $1,552.55.

The case was tried at the January term of court and the jury disagreed after being out twenty-four hours. The verdict returned this morning was reached after twelve hours' deliberation, the jury having retired at 9:30 yesterday morning, returning the sealed verdict about 9:30 last night.

NO WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE

of existing conditions in this state than almost any railroad measure that could be imagined. By putting all freight rates on a strict mileage basis, which the bill would do, towns on longer routes would lose the benefit of the present rule that the short haul fixes the rate, and many such towns would be seriously injured, to the advantage, of course of other communities having the advantage of a short haul.

The house had a fight over three bills committing the state to a policy of improving rivers as an expansion of the drainage idea, and it killed all three bills by a large vote. The principal bill authorized the state drainage commission to widen and deepen rivers which have been gorged by the diversion of waters, brought about by drainage ditches flowing into them, such as the Minnesota river.

The house committee on banking introduced a copy of the Thorpe senate bill creating a state department of banks separate from the public examiner's office. The governor is to appoint a superintendent of banks at $5,000 a year, who is to have a deputy and eight examiners at $2,500 a year. Banks are to be examined twice each year.

The big St. Paul petition against the Armour packing plant was received by the house this morning, but it was not lugged into the chamber. Speaker Rockne announced that it was there, and asked the house what it wanted to do with it. The house referred it to the committee on public health.

* * *

The house had the Kneeland bill for a convention to revise the state constitution up as a special order, and it failed to pass. It received 62 votes with 29 against it, but the constitution requires that it receive 80 votes, so it was defeated.

* * *

The senate has a special order this afternoon on the Moonan bill extending the primary election to state officers, and the Canfield bill destroying the primary election by substituting a convention system with a guarded primary election of delegates.

* * *

The senate killed, by adoption of a committee report, the Nelson bill declaring vacant public offices whose incumbents have been sick for six months.

Senator Fosseen introduced a bill providing a tax of $1 on all dogs, the money to go into a state fund to reimburse those who have animals or fowls killed by dogs. All over $25,000 each year is to go into the state school fund.

* * *

Senator Sullivan proposed in a bill offered today, a commission to investigate the workings of the indeterminate sentence plan of handling criminals, the commission to consist of a member of the board of control, the warden of the state penitentiary and the superintendent of the state reformatory.

* * *

Senator Foseen introduced a bill prohibiting betting on any horse races, ball game, football game or other sport, and making such bets recoverable by civil suit.

Senator White offered a bill providing that the state board of health may appoint five health inspectors with the right to enter homes and business houses.

The publication of reports of trials of children under 17 is forbidden by a bill by Senator Cashman, offered today in the senate.

* * *

Senator White's new bill, offered today, authorizes the state board of health to establish regulations to prohibit insanitary food conditions, under the direction of the dairy and food department.

ON THE IRON RANGES

WILL BECOME GREAT OPEN PIT

MAIN STREET, SPARTA, MINN.

The United States Steel Corporation Has Served Notices Upon the Owners of Property in Sparta Purchased by the Corporation That They Must Vacate on or Before April 30, as Mining Operations Under the Townsite Will Be Prosecuted Actively This Spring. An Open Pit Mine Will Soon Mark the Present Townsite.

INDEPENDENT BALL DESIRED

That Appears to be Wish of Baseball Fans of Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—"There is no need of arguing with Mr. Kuehnow as to the advisability of admitting Hibbing and Virginia into the newly formed league of Minnesota and Wisconsin towns,' said a local fan. "There is no doubt in the minds of the range people but what either town would make good from a gate receipts point of view. Mr Kuehnow undoubtedly knows that if Hibbing were to enter any league it would be forced to dispense with the services of some of the most popular and best players, and this, of course, is out of the question. The fans of Hibbing are perfectly satisfied with independent ball. They obtain a better article than is played in Class C leagues and get a greater variety of clubs to watch."

It is almost an assured fact that Lee Sage, the great twirler of last season's team will be back together with his brother George who set the Michigan Southern league afire last year with his sterling work in the box for the Kalamazoo club. Matt Hurley, who was in the Virginia outfield last year is now practicing law in Hibbing and will undoubtedly be found in one of the outfield positions for Hibbing this year. Dave Williams, who managed the Sox last year will also be with the team this year. Dave will play in the outfield and have his turn with the other pitchers on the slab. The rest of the team will practically be the same as last year and with old man harmony and the new faces Hibbing should easily have the best independent team in the Northwest. Upon the return of Dr. went for the inauguration, a meeting will be held and affairs put into shape for the ensuing year.

EXCITING TIMES; TWO ARE INJURED

Eveleth Woman Puts Explosive in Stove With Disastrous Results.

Eveleth, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—While trying to put some coal in her kitchen stove, Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Nick Servia, of Douglas avenue, in some manner got hold of a pail containing gunpowder, left by former occupants of her house, and when she dumped the contents into the stove flames and smoke flared up, burning her arms and caught in her clothes. Some rags in the room hanging up to dry, also caught fire, and seeing these she pulled them down and brushed the fire out.

Others in the house rushed in to see what was the matter, while Mrs. Servia threw the rags out of the window in her excitement, cutting herself with the glass. Frank Serantz, one of the men in the house, also became excited and jumped through the window, cutting his foot. The fire department had been called in the meantime by an outsider who saw the smoke and flames, and easily put the fire out with the liberal use of chemicals. The two injured were taken to the hospital, where their hurts were attended to.

This was the first time the new hook and ladder truck that was received in December, has been used at a fire, and it worked satisfactorily.

CURRENT HIBBING EVENTS.

Mrs. Booth's Five Hundred Party—Other Late Happenings.

Hibbing, March 11.—(Special to The Herald:)—Mrs. M. C. Booth entertained a party of friends last evening at five hundred. The house was very prettily decorated and a delicious lunch was served. Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Burnham captured the honors.

A new vaudeville program will replace the present one at the Power theater tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Surrier have left today for a month's trip through the East. After visiting New York and other eastern cities they will stop off on there way home and visit friends at Calumet, Mich..

John Sheehy, agent for the Great Northern here is having his share of hard luck. Mrs. Sheehy is very ill and three of his children are down with the scarlet fever.

The property on Third avenue, formerly occupied by P. M. Bardessono as a confectionery store is being entirely remodelled by James Morrisey, who intends to open a swell new cafe about the first of April.

The Swastika club is to be entertained this evening at the home of Mrs. E. C. Kleffman, on Third avenue.

Mrs. Eugene McCarthy of Virginia is visiting her son Eugene, Jr.

SPARTA WILL BE LARGE OPEN PIT

Notice by Steel Corporation to Vacate Property by April 30.

Eveleth, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The people of Sparta have only a short time within which to move, as the Steel corporation has given the business men whose places they have bought, until April 30, to locate. Most of the persons effected will locate at Gilbert, several having already let contracts for putting up buildings there. Cosgrove & McInnis were the first to start up in the new place, with a hardware store. Saari, Campbell & Kraker have let a contract for a two-story building. Frand Inderhar has let his contract and several others will soon be ready to move over.

It is understood that the Steel corporation will make a large open pit of the present town of Sparta.

RESUME DITCH WORK.

Operations Will Soon be Taken Up Near Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work on the nine miles of Ditch No. 53 to be dug will be started about April 15, according to S. B. Ratcliff, who is in charge of the work for Ward Bros., of Audubon, Iowa. Work on the ditch, which is fifteen miles south of here, was stopped by the winter weather. Ratcliff has just returned to resume operations. He has a small number of men cutting timber on the right of way. At Kelsey, fourteen miles of Ditch No. 54 is yet to be dug, while the same distance is necessary to complete Ditch No. 55 near Floodwood. These three ditches are the only ones begun in St. Louis county by the state, and all of the contracts have been let to Ward Bros.

ANOTHER ONE DEAD.

Making Third Victim of Mitchell Typhoid Fever Epidemic.

Hibbing, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The death in a Duluth hospital yesterday of George W. Lang, a Missabe brakeman, aged 26, and unmarried, makes three victims of the present epidemic of typhoid fever occupying the attention of the health authorities at Mitchell, the settlement near here.

The ownship board has been aroused by the serious nature of the epidemic and strenuous steps will be taken to prevent its further spread. The water used by the people living at Mitchell is under suspicion. Samples have been secured for analysis.

PROPOSED ROAD MATTER WILL BE POSTPONED.

Eveleth, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—From present indications the Eveleth-Virginia road it was proposed to build east of the present road, and without its steep grades, will have to be passed over by the Commercial club, as the Mesaba Mountain township voters, at their annual town meeting, failed to appropriate anything for such a road. As the road lies mostly in the township, the matter is at a standstill. The town meeting levied for the following amounts: Board of health and general fund, $10,000; roads and highways, $22,000; steam roller and plow, $5,000.

Prepare For Night School.

Eveleth, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting of those wishing to take up night school work was held last night at the Fayal school building. Classes will be held three times a week and lessons will be given in anything, from reading up to higher mathematics. As all those who want to take the work were not present last night, another meeting will be held Monday night.

CANTATA AT COLERAINE.

Will be Presented Friday Evening by Students of High School.

Coleraine, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—An elaborate program will be rendered in the auditorium of the Greenway high school tomorrow evening by the students of the high school. The operatic cantata, "Phyllis, the Farmer's Daughter," consisting of solos, choruses and semi-choruses will be given. The scene is laid in the country and depicts farm life intermixed with the farmer's city cousins. The cast of characters follow:

Phyllis, Farmer Meadow's Daughter, ... Alice McCarthy
Margaret, Farmer Meadow's sister, ... Harriet Hurley
Douglas, a young farmer.. Harry Binet
Farmer Meadow ..... David Barron
Chapleigh, a city dude ...Alva Wright
Semi-chorus of girls. Semi-chorus of boys, and full chorus of cillagers.

NEW HIBBING SCHOOL.

Bids for Its Construction Will be Opened Friday.

Hibbing, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several bidders are expected to be on hand tomorrow when the school board opens the tenders called for the construction of the proposed Second avenue school building. Four local firms as well as Duluth and Twin City firms are figuring on the work. The specifications call for a two-story building above ground, to be erected on the foundation already in. Contractors have been asked to figure on several different kinds of material. The building will be constructed either of solid pressed brick or of hollow brick. The cost of the building when completed will total between $100,000 and $125,000. It will be situated on Mahoning street just back of the Central school and will connect with it by means of a tunnel.

HIBBING IS ON "VELVET."

Receipts Exceed Expenditures About $2,600 for Past Year.

Hibbing, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the parlance of the knights of the green cloth, Hibbing is on "velvet," financially. In other words the expenses for the year ending Feb. 25, just issued, show that the receipts exceeded the expenditure by a substantial sum.

The village treasurer reports that during that period the sum of $226,609.06 was received and $224,022.78 disbursed leaving a profit of $2,600.23.

Independent of the tax levy receipts from the county, the largest for any one month were, $10,061.55 for last April.

The best month for the village light and water plant was the January last, when the plant earned $8,084.17. The largest amount to be disbursed during any month came in December, 1908. During that month there was $81,105.78 paid out on the village orders. Receipts during the same month including the second allotment from the county treasurer, were $83,312.26. The report shows a present balance in the village treasury of $2,600.23.

During the year, total revenues were collected from the water and light plant, $58,798.97, from liquor licenses, $30,930 from court fines, $4,032.29 and from taxes, $145,424.36.

HE LIKES CALIFORNIA.

North Dakotan Sells Farm to Reside in Land of Flowers.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jerry Enright who is well known on the Mesaba, Minn., iron range, where he has relatives, has just returned from California, and is very enthusiastic over the selection of a location in the vicinity of San Francisco, where he will undertake fruit farming.

Mr. Enright has sold his interests here, including a 460-acre farm just outside the city to E. C. Koch of Keystone, and will leave in a few months for his California home. Mr. Enright states that Los Angeles is booming but that San Francisco is rather dull. While at Los Angeles he met many from this vicinity who are visiting there.

Chisholm Personals.

Chisholm, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Ledoux has returned from Little Falls, where he went after Mrs. Ledoux, who has been visiting with friends for the past two weeks.

C. Humbolt, who has been visiting relatives in Michigan returned last night after being gone a month. He was timekeeper at the Clark mine.

DON'T TAX THE BREAKFAST TABLE, CRY AT WASHINGTON

Some Republican members declare the taxing of the breakfast table would make it impossible for the Republicans to carry their districts at the next election. The National Coffee & Tea association wrote to the committee that a tax on coffee or tea would be unjust to the consumer, detrimental to trade, irritating the masses and finally would fail to produce any material revenue to the government for nearly two years to come.

"A duty of 5 cents upon coffee would mean an immediate profit of at least $6.50 per bag upon every bag in the United States to the owners thereof," is the claim made in the brief. "There being nearly 4,000,000 bags at present held here by individuals, corporations and Wall street speculative interests, such a duty would mean a profit of $26,000,000 to the owners and holders thereof. But it would not mean $1 paid into the United States treasury."

Paper and pulp manufacturers express great alarm over a report that the committee will include in the bill the changes in the pulp paper schedule recommended in the report of the Mann committee, which investigated the pulp and paper questions. The American Paper & Pulp association, through its president, Arthur C. Hastings, has submitted a long brief urging changes in the recommendations made by the select committee.

"We cannot too emphatically state that the recommendations of the select committee fill us with alarm," says Hastings, "and we believe if adopted would inevitably be injurious to our industry, to the country, and ultimately to the consumer."

The Midcontinent Oil & Gas Producers' association, claiming to embrace in its membership the owners of 87½ per cent of the production oil wells in Oklahoma and Kansas, which produce 60 per cent of the high grade refining crude oil of the United States, has submitted a brief urging that the present countervailing duty on petroleum be maintained. The countervailing clause of the Dingley tariff imposes on oil imported from other countries the same duty which they collect on oil imported to them from this country.

It is authoritatively learned that the tariff bill will contain the following recommendations:

Lead and copper no change; sugar, no change; iron ore, placed on free list; rails and billets, substantially reduced; pig iron, 25 per cent reduction; graduated tariff on high grade cotton; silk goods, an increased tax.

Confer With Cannon

Speaker Cannon and Representative Kreeland have conferred with the Republican members of the ways and means committee regarding the provision of the bill. Cannon desires to become thoroughly familiar with the measure in order to speed its passage through the house in accordance with the understanding reached at the White House conference Monday. In order to compensate in a measure for the general reduction of duties contained in the bill, the sub-committee has incorporated several provisions which are expected to increase the revenues. These provisions are remedial in character, tending to prevent undervaluations and other methods by which the ambiguity of the Dingley bill is taken advantage of.

To prevent the practice by which goods imported are not assessed at their full value, the committee has incorporated a provision which will make it possible for the appraiser to base the value on artices according to the wholesale market prices here in connection with the wholesale price at the point of production abroad. The provision says that in the absence of advice regarding the wholesale price in the foreign country in which the article is manufactured, the appraisers may assess the ad valorem duty on a price which shall not be less than the wholesale price in this country, less the cost of transportation. This provision is in the nature of a compromise to those interests that sought to have all ad valorem duties assessed entirely according to the wholesale market price in this country.

During the tariff hearings, several instances were brought to the attention of the committee in which importers combined a purchase of two lots of goods, one of greater and the other of lesser value, and secured an invoice by which the duty which would be paid on the goods of lesser value was secured for the entire shipment. Cases where the commercial size of a package on which the duties of increased size have been made at a large saving to the importers, have been enormous. These conditions are to be remedies by the new bill and the committee believes that the revenue will be considerably increased.

oratory, Washington devoted nearly an hour to a wild denunciation of the Carmack editorial of Oct. 21.

Gen. Washington took up the editorials, one by one.

"The state says this is only a 'ridiculing editorial,'" he said, "well, what of it? you can drive a man insane with ridicule. You can send a man's son into a frenzy by ridicule, and ridicule is libelous and punishable with imprisonment. Now Carmack referred to Col. Cooper as 'major.' When he wrote Col. Cooper as a friend, he called him 'colonel.' But when he wants to insult him, he calls him 'major.' It was a gratuitous insult."

Gen. Washington read "Across the Muddy Chasm" editorial and laid special stress on the frequent use of the word "'major,' instead of "colonel," and called the jurors' attention to it.

"He used Col. Cooper's name four times in this editorial, gentlemen," the speaker shouted. "Four times in black type. The colonel was angry. He had a right to be. His family were ashamed, his friends annoyed, his name was handled over the state."

Washington here repeated, "now is the winter of our discontent," with great declamatory effect, but the jury did not seem impressed with the beautiful lines.

"This man was wild with anger over the insults. He wanted to do something, he knew not what. But that man is no murderer, and you know it. Murder does not run in that breed, that aristocratic old blue-blooded family.

"They say he had malice in his heart. If you went home and found your wife and daughter dead and the murderer at large in the neighborhood, and you seized your gun and went out to kill that murderer, would you have malice in your heart?"

RED NOSES

A Simple Treatment That Effects a Cure in a Short Time.

A red nose causes unfavorable comment. Women suffer as much as men from this annoying skin trouble, but close attention to a few simple rules will soon restore the nose to its natural color. Tight clothing and ill-fitting shoes must be at once discarded. So much for the external causes. The blood and stomach are the next things to look after, as poor surface circulation and faulty digestion are responsible for most red noses.

Avoid rich food and take Beecham's Pills after meals and on retiring, and the nose will soon lose its red and angry look. This is because Beecham's Pills strengthen the stomach, carry off all impurities and quickly improve the circulation of the blood. These pills cure red noses by removing the conditions that are responsible for these unsightly blemishes.

Wickham May Be Judge.

Eau Claire, Wis., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Every day the conviction grows stronger that Attorney James Wickham of this city is the logical candidate for the position of presiding judge of the new Nineteenth judicial circuit, comprising Eau Claire, Chippewa, Rusk and Sawyer counties, which was recently created by the state legislature.

Not only the Bar association of Eau Claire city and county, but the people as well, appear to be unanimous in their opinion that Attorney Wickham would make an ideal judge.

ASSOCIATED PRESS GETS STORY RIGHT OFF THE REEL FROM DARKEST AFRICA FORECASTING SPORT FOR ROOSEVELT

Thirty-Two Lions—Count 'Em, Count 'Em—Heard From in One Bunch, and Big Giraffes Stretching Their Long Necks and Just Aching to be Shot or Maybe Clubbed to Death by a Big Stick.

The following is the first direct cable dispatch from British East Africa on the subject of Mr. Roosevelt's trip since it was learned last year that he was going to Africa. It was filed about noon, March 10, by the Associated Press correspondent at Mombasa and it reached New York some hours later, on account of the several hours difference in time and the distance traveled. The message came over the deep-sea cables from Mombasa, around the east end of Africa to Aden, and thence by way of Suez, Port Said, Malta and Gibraltar to New York.

Mombasa, British East Africa, March 11.—Mombasa is preparing already to welcome Theodore Roosevelt when he lands here the latter part of next month on his much-heralded African trip, and the coming of the former president of the United States has given a decided impetus to the interest in the present hunting season. The governor of the protectorate, Lieut. Col. Sir James Hays Sadlier, is getting up a program of welcome and entertainment for the distinguished visitor, but in spite of these arrangements, the greeting to Mr. Roosevelt will be more to the great sportsman whose fame is well known to local hunters, than to the former president.

East African sportsmen were highly gratified to learn that Mr. Roosevelt had refused the offer of the authorities to grant him a special hunting license that would have permitted him to kill game to an unlimited extent instead of confining himself to the two elephants, two rhinoceroses, two hippotami, etc. of the regular license. Lions and leopards are classed as vermin and consequently no license to kill them is required.

Joke About Big Stick.

The white population of Mombasa has heard much of Mr. Roosevelt's personality and in a joking way frequent references to the big stick are being made.

The rains are late this year and a heavy fall is expected. The regular time for the big rains is from the end of January to the end of April. The prospects for good hunting this season are considered excellent. Many of the settlements in the outlying districts, realizing the increasing interest in the prospect for sport because of the coming of Mr. Roosevelt, are voluntarily sending in information about the movements of game.

According to a dispatch received here, a record group of lions, numbering thirty-two was seen on the Nandi plateau Tuesday, fifty miles north of Port Florence. (The Nandi plateau is on the west side of the Great Rift Valley). Among them were three huge males. Four families of giraffes have been seen at Makindu, 200 miles inland from here on the line of the Uganda railroad and elephants have been seen at El Burgen, 425 miles inland on the railroad and along the Sabaki river, not far to the north of Mobasa.

Guide Completes Plans.

R. J. Cunninghame, the noted English big game hunter and field naturalist, who is to be guide to and general manager of the Roosevelt party, has been here for some time completing the preparations for the trip into the wilderness as well as the shooting and collecting excursions along the line of the railroad. He is selecting and hiring native porters for the expedition; he takes only experienced men, who are known to be courageous and to possess great physical strength. The "Safari" kit, in other words, the camp equipment for the work in the open, is arriving from London, and all will be in readiness when Mr. Roosevelt arrives.

The railroad car used over the line as far as Port Florence by other distinguished visitors to Uganda, such as the duke of Mecklenburg, the duke of Connaught, the duke of the Abruzzi, Joseph Chamberlain and Winston Spencer Churchill is being refitted for the use of Mr. Roosevelt. This car is most complete in its detail and provides the traveler with every comfort.

Everything points to a successful stay in British East Africa and Uganda for Mr. Roosevelt, the natives are peaceful, game in plenty, and the people of Mombasa are waiting eagerly to extend him a welcome.

As A Private Citizen.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., March 11.—When informed that the people of Mombasa and British East Africa were preparing to welcome him, not as the former president, but as a noted hunter and sportsman, Mr. Roosevelt expressed much pleasure.

"I am glad to hear that," said he, "as I wish to travel as a private citizen. It is with the keenest anticipation that I look forward to my trip to Africa, which I am sure will be very interesting. My companions all are most enthusiastic and splendid naturalists.

"I shall be very busy during the remainder of the time I remain at Oyster Bay packing up and preparing for the trip."

MEN ENTOMBED FOR FIFTY HOURS, BREATHING THROUGH PIPE, ARE FINALLY SAVED

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 11.—After enduring the horrors of an underground prison with death very near for fifty hours, George and Jerry Peterson were dragged through an eighteen-inch hole to freedom and safety at St. Patrick's mine. The men were blindfolded, wrapped in blankets, refreshed with hot coffee and hurried home. They are little the worse for their experience.

Monday afternoon the roof of the tunnel in the St. Patrick property gave way and a huge mass of earth blocked the passage 160 feet from its mouth so that the Petersons were entombed. Warned by previous experiences they had equipped themselves with a long iron pipe two inches in diameter. They drove this slender tube through the debris and thus obtained air, until rescued.

DEMOCRATS FEAR CANNON WILL DICTATE MINORITY PLACES ON COMMITTEE

Washington, March 11.—Insurgents and Democrats are indulging in much speculation as to what will be the policy of Speaker Cannon in selecting the committees of the next house, if he is successful in the fight over the organization of the house in the Sixty-first congress.

The Democrats are apprehensive that the speaker will assume the right to fill the minority as well as the majority places on the committees.

Several Democrats have appealed to the speaker directly for appointment on certain committees. When John Sharp Williams was minority leader, Speaker Cannon referred all such applications to the minority leader, but he has taken no such action this time, and Minority Leader Clark's friends say Clark can interpret this course in but one way. There has been no conferences between the minority leader and the speaker. The Democrats will argue that this is another illustration of the despotic power of the speaker.

Another possibility that is worrying the Democrats and insurgents is that Speaker Cannon may classify the insurgents as minority members of the house and make up committees on that basis. That would reduce the Democratic representation on the committees and might prove embarrassing to the insurgents in the future.

Minority Leader Clark had a conference with Representatives Nelson and Gardner of the insurgents. All claimed afterwards that the fight on the rules is not to be abandoned, but it was denied that the Democrats and insurgents have entered into an agreement as to voting for any specific rule.

According to the present plans, the Democratic caucus to be held next Monday before the house convenes will adopt a resolution in favor of carrying out the pledge of the Denver platform to reduce the powers of the speaker. It is understood that the members will not be pledged to any specific amendment however.

On the floor of the house the Democrats will attempt to take the lead in the opposition to the adoption of the rules. They will not allow that honor to go to the insurgents.

The opposition of a large number of Democrats to the election of a committee to select the house committees will probably defeat that plan of the insurgents, if an opportunity arises to consider that amendment on the floor. The proposition to have the committee on rules elected by the house and barring the speaker from the committee, will have more support from the Democratic side.

As an evidence of their desire not to interefere with the tariff, the insurgent leaders yesterday announced they were willing for the speaker to appoint the committee on ways and means, the other committees to be selected by a committee on rules and committees.

BILL PROVIDES TAX TO REFOREST MICHIGAN.

Lansing, Mich., March 11.—The house of representatives, in committee of the whole, has agreed to a reforestation bill which provides that a tax of 5 cents an acre be spread against the state at large to provide funds for protecting forest reserves.

NORMAN E. MACK'S HOME DESTROYED BY FLAMES.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 11.—The beautiful home of Norman E. Mack, chairman of the Democratic national committee, was destroyed by fire last night. Mack's fine library was burned. He is in New York and his family at Atlantic City.

BEAUTIFUL HAIR FROM A HOME-MADE TONIC

Every woman desires beautiful hair and a good tonic is just as much a necessary adjunct to the toilet as is soap or tooth powder. But good hair tonics are expensive. Here is a recipe for a home-made preparation that will give as good or better results than the highest priced ready made tonics and not cost half as much. Mix half a pint of alcohol with half a pint of water, add an ounce of Beta Quinol. Simply shake well together and your tonic is ready for use. If you prefer you can use a pint of imported bay rum instead of the alcohol and water. Beta Quinol used daily will give vitality, health and attractiveness to the hair. Any woman who appreciates the value of luxuriant, soft and glossy hair cannot afford to be without this almost magical quinine hair tonic. Any druggist will sell you the Beta Quinol and alcohol or bay rum.

NEW LAWS NUMEROUS

Glance at Leading Bills Passed by North Dakota Legislature.

New Game Law and New Military Code Were Enacted.

Bismarck, N. D., March 11.—The Eleventh legislative assembly left several hundred new enactments for the statute books of the state, but little in the way of really constructive legislation. Much of the legislation was amendatory, and a good share of it had to do with the making of appropriations for the various institutions of the state.

The board of control bill was one of the few acts of constructive legislation, and that was finally passed was made effective in 1911 so that the members of the board will be named by the governor, who is elected that year.

The legislature finally got together upon a game law which provides for a state game "board of control" and two executive agents or chief game wardens. This bill is after the fashion of the Minnesota law, and it is believed will result in the better enforcement of the laws against killing game out of season. Spring shooting has been abolished, and the sportsmen of the state believe they have a better law than has been on the statute books of the state up to the present time.

In the way of creating new institutions and making new appropriations, the legislature authorized several new sub-experiment stations of the state agricultural college at Hettinger, Mandan and Harvey.

Tuberculosis Sanitarium.

A state tuberculosis sanitarium was provided for with an appropriation of $10,000 and a board of five trustees to select and purchase a site and beautify the grounds. It is believed this will be established in the Turtle Mountain country in the northern part of the state.

A new sub-experiment station of the state university and school of mines is established at Hebron in Morton county, to experiment with coals and clays of the state.

The appropriation for immigration literature has been re-enacted at $15,000 annually to be expended by the commissioner of agriculture, although the assembly refused to make an appropriation for the Seattle exposition nthis year.

The salaries of state officers were increased all along the line, the governor getting an increase of $1,500 annually and the other state officers $750.

The railroad commissioners get an increase of $400 a year, and the secretary an increase of from $1,000 to $2,000.

The salary of the clerk of the supreme court has been increased to $2,000 a year and of the state bank examiner to $3,000. Two additional examiners are provided.

The library board has been provided $2,500 a year each, to appropriation, and the attorney general's office with two assistants at with a considerable additional

In the way of anti-corporation legislation little has been done. The "dinky" caboose bill prohibiting the use of the little four-wheeled cabooses, has been passed to take effect another year.

A bill was passed providing against the blocking of crossings by trains, and several bills of a minor nature regulating corporations, but the sentiment of the assembly was not in favor of further assaults upon railroads or corporations.

Temperance Laws.

In the way of prohibition and temperance legislation, an anti-cigarette bill was passed and a bill prohibiting the publication of advertisements for liquors.

The law to prohibit the soliciting of liquor trade in the state by salesmen was further strengthened, and the definition of intoxicating liquors was strengthened up a little. A new drug permit bill was passed, putting the permits into the hands of the district courts, and stiffening up the regulations. A bill was also passed providing for the inspection of liquors by the state pure food commissioner's office.

The only bill affecting elections that was passed was the Doyle bill, providing for the non-partisan election of judges of the supreme and district courts. This provides that the names of all candidates shall be grouped without regard to party affiliations, and the voter shall make his selection as he chooses without regard to party lines.

Municipal legislation covered various grounds. There is a new law permitting cities to establish street lighting systems, after the manner of those in effect in St. Paul and Minneapolis, and several laws have been passed extending the rights of cities and adjoining properties to pave and improve with water and sewer. City councils are given the power to fix the rates for gas for lighting, this bill being introduced by Senator Nuis for the purpose of fixing the charges of the Grand Forks plant.

New Military Code.

An entire new military code was passed, being the longest bill introduced at the session, and covering the entire range of military subjects in the militia, and makes various changes in the present military law, as agreed upon by a committee of the National Guard officers.

The general probate code was changed with the passage of a new law.

The salaries of clerks of court and other county officers were readjusted.

The constitutional amendment establishing a new normal school at Minot was adopted for the second time, and now goes directly to the people.

Of legislation affecting warehouses, provision was made for the appointment of two special commissioners to sit with the board of appeals at Minneapolis and Duluth, and serve under such regulations as may be made by a law to be passed by the legislative assembly of the state of Minnesota. Provision has been made for the better investigation of complaints against elevators.

A new hotel inspection laws has been passed, which fixes the minimum length of bed sheets at eight feet, provides that all carpets must be beaton at least once a year, exterminates the bed bug, and makes other improvements in existing conditions, in addition to providing a good salary for a state hotel inspector.

A new oil inspection law has been passed.

The terms of the supreme court are located for all time at Bismarck, instead of having the court hold esssions at Fargo and Grand Forks.

A constitutional amendment has been proposed for a terminal warehouse at Minneapolis or Duluth.

Supreme Court Judges.

The term of supreme court judges has been extended from six to ten years, if a proposed constitutional amendment adopted goes through another legislature and to the people.

A new apportionment bill has passed to give representation to Sheridan, Mountrallie, Dunn, Hettinger, Adams and Bowman counties, which is now without representation.

A child labor bill also passed along the lines of the bill advocated generally by those interested in doing away with the employment of children under 15 years of age.

A provision was made whereby firemen in cities having organized departments may obtain pensions and relief in case of illness.

A new pure food bill was passed, strengthening the provisions of the present law.

An amendment was passed to the mechanic's lien law, requiring lumbermen to keep a separate account of the materials used in any building, and that the lien cannot exceed the amount of the original contract.

A pure seed bill was passed requiring labeling of all packets of seed sold, and requiring that any seed not free from weeds of various kinds must be labeled unclean.

Noxious weed commissioners were authorized to be appointed in townships for the purpose of clearing away certain weeds that have obtained a foothold in the eastern part of the state.

An osteopathy board has been created, consisting of five members, designed to put the practice of osteopathy on a better footing in the state.

Labor day was made a legal holiday.

The governor was empowered to authorize a reward for bank wreckers, the bill being designed to assist in the capture of "Andy" Jones of Rugby, the defaulting banker.

Schoolhouses of two stories were required to be provided with at least two stationary fire escapes.

Provision was made for better sanitary conditions in barber shops.

A legislative drafting bureau was created, by which all legislative bills hereafter will have to pass the scrutiny of a special bureau before being printed.

Mining Stock Sales.

Sales of mining stocks in the state are prohibited unless a statement is made and filed with the secretary of state showing particulars with regard to the mine for which stock is sought to be sold.

A number of social purity bills were passed, designed to provide proper punishment for crimes not provided for in the statutes.

Provision was made for a good roads experimental test at Bismarck by inmates of the state penitentiary.

An appropriation of $80,000 was made to pay for grandered horses killed in the last two years.

Milling experiments with wheat will be made at the state agricultural college.

An inquiry will be made into the carrying charges for grain to terminal with a view to presenting the matter to the interstate commerce commission.

The throwing of glassware on highways to the danger of horses and automobile tires has been made a misdemeanor.

Free kindergartens have been authorized as a part of the state educational establishment.

An anti-miscegenation bill has passed, forbidding the intermarriage of persons black and white.

A system of fire wardens for the forests for the northern part of the state has been provided, and there has been a large amount of amendatory legislation with respect to the duties and municipal corporation boards.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

NOW WANTED FOR MURDER

John Conoly Indicted For Killing Man in New York City.

Inmate of the Stillwater Prison Facing Dread Electric Chair.

Stillwater, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The electric chair, the method by which the state of New York puts to death those condemned by law to forfeit their lives for murder, may be the fate of John Conoly, the mysterious criminal of many aliases recently sent to the penitentiary here for attempting to pass a forged check, purporting to be signed by a local liquor dealer.

Under his plea of guilty, he was sent to the penitentiary for three years.

JOHN CONOLY.

That he made such a move to stave off more severe punishment elsewhere was the belief at the time. This is largely strengthened by documents just received from the East.

Indicted in New York.

A copy of an indictment from District Attorney Jerome of New York has been received by Chief R. F. Barnes, accompanying photographs of Edward Hoeard, alias Frank Murphy, in which the man known here as John Conoly is accused of the unlawful killing of Herbert Joseph Beins.

The tip that led Chief Barnes to make inquiry about Conoly in New York was secured from a newspaper clipping in the possession of Conoly when arrested here.

It is said that Beins, died in a New York hospital the same day that Conoly was arrested in this city, the alleged shooting having been some time before that.

The copy of the indictment will be turned over to Warden Wolfer by Chief Barnes, and with it a communication from District Attorney Jerome, in which he indicates that he wants the man in New York when his term of three years in the Minnesota state prison ends.

WANT ORDER RESCINDED.

Bad River Indians Object to Having Allowance Cut Off.

Ashland, Wis., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a council of the Bad River Indians, a petition was drafted and forwarded to the interior department asking that the order recently issued, discontinuing the $10 monthly allowance to these Indians from their trust fund, be rescinded on the ground that it works a hardship upon many of them. The four surviving chiefs of the Bad River reservation signed the petition. They are James Blackbird, Moses White, James Doolittle and George Messenger.

The department shut off these allowances because it was squandered by the Indians, as it was money that did not have to be accounted for in any way, so a large share of it went into the hands of saloonkeepers and others, as soon as it was received, and did the Indian practically no good. On the other hand, there are many of the older Indians who needed this money and put it to good uses. These will not be hurt at all by the change, as they can secure orders from the agency for any necessities they wish.

RE-ELECT HOUGHTON CLERK.

Veteran Official Pulls Through After Fight of His Life.

Houghton, Mich., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—After one of the liveliest election fights in his long experience, Casper Brand, the veteran city clerk, was re-elected Monday in the village election here. He got only a majority of 29 votes out of 691.

Of the 691 votes cast, 14 were thrown out as void. There were 243 straight nomination tickets and 48 straight Citizen tickets, the remainder being splits. The results follow: For president W. F. Miller, 591; clerk, Casper Brand, 354; Albert Corbeille, 315; treasurer, Andrew Weir, 592; councilmen, for two years, Stovle, 575; Michaels, 570; McCann, 578; for councilman for one year to fill vacancy Amedie Cornellier, 574; for assessor, Oliver Marion, 457; Harry Major, 199.

At South Range, the Nomination ticket was elected from top to bottom, with one exception, Jacob Uitti winning out for trustee. The results follow: For president, James Andrews, 77; Jacob Jarvis 69; for trustee, Jacob Uitti, 67; A. M. Santori, 29; Anton Stimac, 49; Dominic Zana and L. J. Brown were ere-elected to the council without opposition the former receiving 68 votse and the latter 91. For clerk, Sidney M. Goodfellow, 98; for treasurer, George Pastora, Sr., 82; R. L. Cook 61; for assessor, Jonas Pahti, 89.

GAVE REBATE TO A SALOONKEEPER

A Sensational Campaign Story Sprung Against Council in Election.

Cass Lake, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The election at Farris Tuesday was about the most exciting one held in this vicinity from all reports. Although the present council was re-elected, the margin was close and a whirlwind campaign was necessary for success.

There were several reports in circulation that the present council has been giving the only saloon keeper in the village, rebates on his license. This was one of the strongest arguments for the opposition. They lost out by four votes.

The council elected follows: President, O. B. Ostrom; trustees, Frank Sidels, Louis Zuff and Paul Johnson; recorder, Peter Smith; assessor, Gust Johnson; treasurer, Carl Swanson; justices, Frank Holbrook, D. K. Carpenter.

SMALL ROCK FATAL.

Drops Down Shaft of Tamarack, Fracturing Skull of Miner.

Calumet, Mich., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A piece of rock, probably less than an inch in diameter, dropping from a deep mine shaft, is a terrible missile, as has often been demonstrated in a mining country. The death of Matt Koski in a lower level of the Tamarack mine yesterday is said to have been caused by a small piece of rock becoming detached and dropping down the shaft, striking the unfortunate miner on the skull, causing almost instant death. Koski was 24.

BEMIDJI CHURCH RALLY WAS SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR.

Bemidji, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—An enthusiastic temperance rally was held Tuesday evening with a large attendance, in the Methodist Episcopal church, for the furtherance of the cause of temperance and for the purpose of raising part of the debt of the church.

It was an excellent success from a financial and literary point of view. The members of the Methodist Sunday school presented a fine program, and all of the numbers were well applauded.

JAIL-BREAKERS TAKEN.

One of Fargo Trio, That Escaped, Has Been Recaptured.

Fargo, N. D., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local officials feel some lation over the capture of William Dudley, the negro member of the trio of jail-breakers. While he is regarded as a less dangerous prisoner than the other men, and was in on a minor charge, the officials are in hope of landing the two white men, Dean and Robertson.

The negro was caught at Alexandria, Minn. Several clues have been received as to the direction taken by the white men. They seem to be traveling together and to have followed the North Dakota side of the Red river south of Fargo. It is thought the men had been attacking the jail walls for a week and concealing the dirt in Dean's mattress before finally getting the proper conditions for making their escape.

SEMINARY IS POPULAR.

Fargo Institution Must be Enlarged to Accommodate Patrons.

Fargo, N. D., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The board of incorporators of the Oak Grove Lutheran Young Ladies' seminary in this city is considering this afternoon the question of enlarging the buildings.

The school was started three years ago by the Scandinavian Lutherans of the eastern part of North Dakota and Western Minnesota, and was intended to form a select school for the girls of this section, but the attendance has increased so rapidly, not only from this territory, but from a half a dozen Northwestern states, that the buildings are entirely overcrowded.

ELECT AN ALDERMAN.

Crookston Council Has Disposed of a Vexations Problem.

Crookston, Minn., March 11.—(Specialto The Herald.)—The election by the city council of an alderman from the Second ward to fill the vacancy, caused by the resignation of Frank Zarracher, which has been rather a vexatious problem was finally disposed of by the council Tuesday night. Carl Reldesel was elected to fill the vacancy.

What is known as the Wright pool room ordinance was passed. Two aldermen voted against it—Harris and Sargent. The ordinance closes the places on Sunday, prevents minors from entering the places and absolutely prohibits all games of chance, imposing a heavy fine for violations of the ordinance.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLER TO BE BROUGHT BACK.

East Grand Forks, N. D., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas Flaherty, who was arrested at Seattle on the charge of embezzling money from the Gund Brewing company of this city, was taken in charge by Sheriff Daniels Tuesday at Seattle and will be brought back to this city for trial.

Flaherty was salesman for the Gund company and it is understood set himself up as collector also, in this manner procuring in the neighborhood of from $500 to $600 of the company's money. He went to Minneapolis about the middle of February and from that place he went to Seattle, Wash.

TRAVELING MAN SEEKS DAMAGES FROM FARGO.

Fargo, N. D., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fargo is asked for $5,000 damages by A. J. Piers, a traveling man, who resides in this city. He alleges serious injury Nov. 4, 1908, by falling into an unprotected trench that was being excavated for a water main.

STATE PRISON FINANCES.

Receipts for Last Month Were Nearly $40,000.

Stillwater, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The financial statement of the state prison for February, as disclosed at the meeting of the state board of control held Tuesday, showed receipts on account of the binder twine plant, $28,485.80, and $9,368.40 from miscellaneous sources. The latter sum included $4,103.73 charged to the warden for convict labor, in the twine factories, $3,892.21 for shoe factory labor, $122 collected by the usher from visitors. The funds turned over by inmates for custody amounted to $1,571.34.

STANLEY, N. D., SCORCHED.

Fire Does Damage Amounting to About $35,000.

Stanley, N. D., March 11.—Fire which broke out in the furniture store of Mark Miller Tuesday ewept the business district causing a loss of about $35,000.

The principal losses follow: V. F. Dale, cement block building, loss $8,000, insurance, $5,000; H. J. Solberg, general merchandise, loss, $8,000, insurance, $5,000; Mark Miller, furniture store, loss $6,000, insurance, $3,500; Paul Labrant, harness shop, loss $500; Dr. Conrad, loss on building, $800; Stanley Kovan, loss on building, $1,000; Theodore Everson, loss on stock, $300. The main business portion of the town was saved. The destroyed buildings will be immediately rebuilt. Stanley was recently made the county seat.

POOR FARM FOR SALE.

North Dakota County Has Such Proposition on Its Hands.

Bismarck, N. D., March 11.—Auditor I. W. Healy is advertising for sale the poor farm owned by Burleigh county, located north of the city about ten miles.

The voters four years ago, when the matter of sale of the farm was referred to them, voted in favor of the sale. The county commissioners plan to erect a building near the city and house the poor instead of paying rent grocery bills, continuously. They think it will check the pressure on the board for county assistance if they have a place where they may be able to send all the paupers applying for assistance.

BOY'S LONG JOURNEY.

New York to Dickinson, N. D., Wearing Tag Indicating Destination.

Dickinson, N. D., March 11.—Yesterday morning witnessed a happy meeting between L. Lenhardt and his 9-year-old son, Martin, who arrived on No. 1 from Hungary coming all the way alone from New York to Dickinson. The boy was tagged for Dickinson and being of a bright disposition he readily made friends and received careful attention from all conductors and railroad officials, notwithstanding the fact that he could not speak the English language.

Martin had not seen his father for four years and as the train arrived at 3:30 a. m., and the father was not expecting his son until the afternoon train, the boy was compelled to remain in the waiting room of the depot until daylight. He had never been in Dickinson and did not know where to look for the natural home. Mr. Lenhardt, who resides in South Dickinson, came over early in the morning, and the young man spied him as he was crossing the track and gave his father the greatest surprise of his life.

McGLADREY RE-ELECTED.

Will Have Charge of Grand Marais Schools for Another Year.

Grand Marais, Minn., March 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of the school board Tuesday evening, W. G. McGladrey was re-elected as superintendent at a salary of $1,000 per year.

Miss Maud Small was re-elected to teach the same grades as formerly and Miss Laura Pepple was re-elected to teach the primary. Miss Martha Linscog, of Good Harbor Hill, was re-elected, but next year will be given the seventh and eighth grades of the Grand Marais school. The salary fixed for the teachers engaged thus far is $65 per month. Peter Kluck and Peter Berg were the lowest bidders to furnish fifty cords of wood, and each will furnish half at $3.75.

ALDERMANIC ELECTION IN FARGO BEING DISCUSSED.

Fargo, N. D., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—With contests assured in three and possibly four of the seven wards of the city, considerable interest is manifested in the election. Only aldermen as to be chosen as the other city men as to be half the aldermen were elected a year ago for two-year terms.

The question of the issuance of $100,00 bonds for the proposed new mechanical filtratrion plant will also come up at the election. This plan includes a change in site of the present waterworks plant.

PLAN IMPROVEMENTS AT NEGAUNEE MINE.

Negaunee, Mich., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is reported that the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company is planning a great deal of building at the Negaunee mine some time in the future. It is not definitely known whether the work will commence this spring or next, but it is evident that the work will have to be done, as the company's men have been cramped for room for some time past.

It is probable that a new enginehouse and "dry" will be erected, and the latter will be equipped with the latest system of ventilating.

The Negaunee mine is one of the richest iron mines in this region, and its output, when times are good on the iron range, is very large.

CLOQUET MAN EXPIRES WHILE SEEKING HEALTH.

Cloquet, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Simpson, an old resident of this city, died of tuberculosis Tuesday at Denver, Colo. He was on his way to the Glenwood Hot Springs in the hope of regaining his health, but his strength gave out before he arrived there. He left here about ten days ago. He is survived by his wife. He was about 40 years of age. The body will be brought to Cloquet for burial.

QUINCY MINER KILLED.

Hancock, Mich., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Martinelli a Quincy employe, was killed while at work Tuesday in No. 7 shaft. A fall of ground occurred and he was fatally injured by being struck by some of the rock. He was 51 years of age and had been in this country six years. He was employed at the Quincy about a year.

GIBBONS TO PAY PRIEST'S DEBTS

Father Elbert, Removed, Is in Bad Financial Hole.

Baltimore, Md., March 11.—Since the removal of Father Casper H. Elbert from the pastorate of St. Catherine's Catholic church, there have been many rumors as to the reason.

Investigation into the causes for the deposition of the priest develops that he owes about $130,000, which he borrowed at banks, exclusive of a church debt of $28,000.

A statement by the cardinal through Attorney H. Gans says very little of this money, so far as can be ascertained, was used for church purposes. Some of it went to pay premiums on life and accident insurance, of which he had policies amounting to nearly $70,000. The balance went into visionary financial schemes. There is no indication, the statement adds, that the money was spent for any improper purposes other than as stated. He is now in Mount Hope retreat.

Cardinal Gibbons, though he may not be legally liable for Father Elbert's debts, has assumed the burden of paying them.

LESS ICE IN LAKE THAN LAST YEAR

Fields Are Light and Badly Broken—Detroit River Open.

The reports from the regular and display stations of the weather bureau indicate that there has been an increase in the area of ice fields over Superior, but the ice is light and much broken up. The winds have driven the fields to the south and west portion of the lake; there has been no change in the condition of ice in St. Mary's river. In Green bay the ice is solid and no change has occurred. Some small fields are reported over the extreme southeast portion of Michigan, but practically no fields have been reported south of Sturgeon bay on the west side and Glen Haven on the east side of the lake. At the Straits the ice averages about twenty inches and has not changed during the week.

In Huron over the extreme northern portion there are no fields, but from Presque Isle south to Thunder Bay island large fields are reported. Some ice fields moved into the mouth of the lake during the week, but moved out Monday morning.

The ice in Lake St. Clair is breaking up and some open water showing over the southern portion. Detroit river is open.

In Erie there is an increase in the area of ice fields along the south shore. The fields are broken up and the ice is light. In Ontario a few fields are visible over the west end, also over the eastern portion.

In comparison with same period last season there is less ice reported in all the lakes. The ice in Green bay is not as soft and honeycombed as reported last season.

PEOPLE IN PANIC OVER QUAKE PROPHESY; FIRST CAME TRUE.

Alicante, Spain, March 11.—The prediction of Emile Marchand, director of the observatory on the Pic du Midi, in the Pyrenees, that an earthquake would occur Feb. 21 having proved correct, the inhabitants of this district are in a panic, as a second severe shock is predicted for March 20. Many people are leaving the city and others have already begun to offer up prayers for deliverance in the churches. The authorities have obtained a letter from Director Marchand pointing out that his predictions are only based on probabilities, but the lower classes are most superstitious. They believe this letter is a forgery and they are convinced the prophecy will come true.

THE WIDER VIEW.

In days gone by there has been a marked disposition in Minnesota to resist state development on the ground that such labors should be the sole concern of those most immediately affected. Some traces of this narrow view still remain, but for the most part the people of Minnesota now take the wider view and are willing and anxious that the state take a large part in the development of its resources and in the realization of its tremendous possibilities.

The history of the drainage movement in this state is illustrative of the progress of thought in Minnesota in regard to state development. It is only a few years ago that the dramage of the vast swamp areas of Northern Minnesota was bitterly opposed by the southern half of the state. The matter was one which concerned the pocketbook of the people of Northern Minnesota. They said: Let those who are to get the profits, pay the expense. The reasoning was good, but the premises upon which it was based were bad. When it began to think the matter over Southern Minnesota discovered that the whole state, as well as its northern half, would benefit from drainage. Liberal appropriations for drainage were made with the result that state drainage is now an established policy, whose wisdom is disputed by no one. Northern Minnesota has profited enormously, useless land has been made richly productive, thousands of settlers have been brought in, farms, dairies, homes, factories and cities are multiplying. But the state has also profited. The money that it paid out for drainage it is getting back, and in time it will have every cent of it back with interest. In addition, it has so multiplied the value of its lands that its treasury has already been enriched by thousands of dollars of profit and its school funds will ultimately be increased, from this one source alone, by millions of dollars.

The longest step forward in a proper appreciation of the real work which Minnesota has to do for its own development was taken when Governor Johnson transmitted to the legislature last January his notable message in which the possibilities "of the most interesting, fertile and resourceful region yet undeveloped on the continent of North America" were so strikingly and so eloquently set forth. Governor Johnson's message, dealing for the greater part with this subject, may be said to be the summing up of what the people of Minnesota have been thinking in the past few years about their state. Thought is sometimes long held in solution; in this case the governor condensed it and precipitated it so that all may see it in concrete form. Some few have thought, in Southern Minnesota, perhaps, that he has gone too far and has said more than they really have had in mind, but for the most part what Governor Johnson has reduced to vigorous, attention-compelling words is what the state as a whole has been holding in solution in its thoughts for several years past. We have been gradually coming to the point where we are prepared to take a wider view of the material possibilities of Minnesota and of the work which it is necessary for the state to do in order that the whole state may the more quickly and the more effectively realize upon these possibilities.

Sectional feeling still prevails but in a degree far less marked. Partizan jealousy still holds back wise legislation. But on the whole there is the disposition on the part of all men and both parties in Minnesota to look at the development of the state in the light of the needs of the state as a whole. Those who live in the Northern half of the state are certain to profit more immediately and more largely but no more surely than the people of the southern half of the state. The benefits that the whole state will receive from a liberal policy of state development will duplicate in a score of instances the benefits which the state is now taking from its policy of state drainage. When every man's hand is against every other man's hand, none can prosper, but when all cooperate for the mutual good of all, all will prosper in an unprecedented degree.

WHAT HE GOES FOR.

Public interest in the plans of President Rosevelt for his trip to Africa is very great, yet it may be doubted if the people of the country really appreciate the president's purpose in making the trip.

It is the general thought, apparently, that Mr. Roosevelt has planned his hunting expedition into Africa from the standpoint of the great lover of the chase that he is well known to be, and that in the pleasures of the hunt he plans relaxation from the heavy burdens of official responsibility which he has borne during the past seven years. There is good reason to believe that this is a very mistaken view of the president's purpose. He is an enthusiastic lover of the chase, a mighty hunter, but it is not simply sport that has been his aim in his hunting trips in the past or that is his main purpose now. Mr. Roosevelt is declared by those who know him best to be a born naturalist; he is before all else a student of nature. His passion is not to kill for the joy of the chase, but to hunt out wild things that he may know them. Before he became a very prominent figure in politics, he had spent month after month in studying nature. He is the author of several works that have contributed not a little to what we know of natural history. It is as the naturalist, those who know him best declare, that he is going to Africa. He goes prepared to make the most serious and painstaking study of animal life in the dark continent. His preparations for the kill are not more complete than his preparations for the preservation of specimens and the recording of information which shall be the basis of valuable field notes on the fauna of the continent. The members of his party, with the exception of his guide and experienced hunter and his son, Kermit, who goes with him in the capacity of an expert photographer of animals and their native haunts, are all naturalists of established reputation. The expedition into Africa is far from being a mere pleasure trip; it is planned with a serious purpose to which the natural bent on Roosevelt's mind inclines him.

It has been said that Roosevelt has in mind in his African trip to remove himself completely from the sphere of American politics and to put himself in such a position that it will be impossible for any one to charge the Taft administration with Roosevelt dictation. He desires to give Taft an absolutely free hand. Doubtless President Roosevelt has considered this as a thing of value to be secured by the trip, but that the primary purpose of the trip is to enable him to prosecute his loved studies in the natural world there can not be much doubt.

GOOD STORY—POOR BUSINESS.

According to the Engineering News, a journal of established authority, the present outcry against the lock type of the Panama canal, which President Taft describes in his inaugural address as "fire in the rear," all originated from a newspaper story. "No question of the correctness of the decision in favor of the lock canal plan was raised," says the News, "until some three months ago, when a newspaper reporter happened to visit the Gatun dam site and noticed a place where some of the waste rock from the lock pits, dumped along one side of the dam location, had settled considerably where it crossed the old river channel. We can state from actual personal examination that this incident has absolutely no engineering significance. It made, however, an excellent sensational story. Telegraphed all over the United States and Europe, it was magnified into a catastrophe portending danger to the completed dam. Other stories followed on the heels of the first. The public was regaled with fanciful accounts of an underground lake beneath the Gatum dam site. The very precautions in testing the underground strata which the engineers were taking were construed as evidence that doubt existed as to the dam's safety."

Once started these rumors were eagerly seized upon by those who honestly prefer a sea level canal and particularly by those who wish to embarrass the outgoing administration as well as the incoming one, with the result that a very lively "fire in the rear" has been kept up during the past few months.

These stories, founded on imagination, may make good copy for the newspapers that started them and may be a very gratifying means of abuse to those who love to do abuse, but they are poor business policy. President Taft, in his inaugural address states the case very plainly when he says: "Some type of canal must be constructed. The lock type has been selected. We are all in favor of having it built as promptly as possible. We must not now, therefore, keep up a fire in the rear of the agents whom we have authorized to do our work on the isthmus."

Mr. Taft announces that he proposes to "devote all the energy possible and under my control" to standing by and helping those who are digging the canal. With the administration thoroughly committed to the lock type of canal, with nothing to warrant a change but unfounded newspaper stories, and with the unanimous desire of all to push the work to completion as rapidly as possible, there can be no good accomplished by bickering about the type of the canal. There is not the slightest doubt that the canal will be completed by this country as a lock canal. When once we have the canal, we can then dig it deeper and turn it into a sea level canal if we think best. At present there is no valid reason for a change of plans and no possibility that any change will be made. It is therefore time to quit our fire in the rear and turn to and help Mr. Taft finish the job.

THREATENING THE COUNTRY?

Sereno E. Payne, chairman of the ways and means committee of the house, called upon President Taft Tuesday and told him that while the tariff bill would be ready to report to the house at the opening of the special session, March 15, he "could not prophesy what will happen if the present chaotic conditions in the house are to continue."

This may not be a threat to the people that if they do not call off their insurgent dogs, there will be no satisfactory tariff revision, but it looks very much like it to most folks.

What are "the present chaotic conditions" in the house? They consist in a demand that such rules be adopted for the transaction of business as will give the people representation upon the floor of the house, something which under the present rules they have in name only. If the people, through their "insurgent" representatives, do not quit insisting on having their rights, declares Mr. Payne, maybe there will be no tariff revision.

If the demand for reasonable rules in the house embarrasses Mr. Payne, that embarrassment is no concern of the country, but of the Republican party, which he is running in the house. The Republican party has promised tariff revision and if it fails to fulfill its promises it will be held strictly to account by the country. If the Republican party is embarrassed in attempting to enact a tariff law by reason of its own despotic rules, that is purely a matter for its own concern. If it does not want the embarrassment, it had better get rid of the rules. Trying to cling to the rules by threatening the people with no tariff reform will not do at all. A failure to revise the tariff will cost the party a good deal more than will a revision of the rules.

Mr. Payne throws down the gage of battle. He wants to know whether this is a government of the people or a government of Payne, Cannon, Dalzell, et al.

Another proof that advertising pays—Roosevelt.

Your uncle is a tough old species of the genus homo and hard to beat.

Mr. Roosevelt having been disposed of, the knocker will now be able to devote his exclusive attention to the umpire.

Some of the people who are so uproariously glad that Taft is president have greatly changed since the Chicago convention.

March is a month that generally falls on evil days, but some people are inclined this year to look favorably upon March 4 and March 23.

Alfred Austin, poet laureate of England, wants us to forgive him all his faults—"be all my faults forgotten and forgiven," he pleads. We will do our best, but Alfred is asking a good deal of us.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

E. O. Shufelt of Hamilton, Mont., who is a guest of the St. Louis hotel, says there is a corporation that is formed for the purpose of improving the Bitter Root country, and that the so-called dry farming of Montana is nothing more than farming with the assistance of the water that is secured from Lake Como, at the foothills of the mountains.

According to Mr. Shufelt, in the Bitter Root country, the dry farming does not consist of mere intelligent crop rotation. It is more the intelligent use of irrigation. The present corporation, which absorbed a former company that has passed into the hands of a receiver, is composed of the farmers and land owners of the valley. Some of the stock is held by the heavy land owners, but the corporation is truly representative of the residents of the valley. This is the company that is improving the agricultural resources of the Bitter Root country, a section of Montana that, according to Mr. Shufelt, is one of the most fertile of all Montana.

Mr. Shufelt says the agricultural development is going ahead in the Bitter Root country with great success. Here it is being proved that land that was supposed to be arid can be made profitable to the farmer. The result of the experiments that have been worked out in Montana, according to Mr. Shufelt, is that hundreds of farmers have come to that state and taken up land. Montana is not known merely as a mining state, but also as an agricultural state of future greatness.

"The future greatness of Montana will not depend upon the mining industry," said Mr. Suhfelt, "but upon the agricultural development. Montana, which has never been considered much but a mining and cattle country, is going ahead fast in the matter of agricultural development. The fact that the irrigation and so-called dry farming have proven successful, will accomplish wonders for the state. You can take the Bitter Root country as an example. Here farmers have come from all parts of the country. Once they were assured that farming could be made successful in Montana, homeseekers and men looking for cheaper land have flocked to the state. They are still coming, and I am of the opinion that within the present year you will see a great growth in the agricultural sections.

"The government has done some work in the irrigation line in Montana. The work under the charge of the government proved so successful that other people were led to take it up. It was the successful outcome of the government work that led to the forming of the company that has charge of the work that is being carried on in the Bitter Root country.

"The railroads of the state have been enlisted in the work, and at the present time are assisting in the agricultural movement. They have a motive in the matter, naturally, for if farming proves successful in the state, it will result in many settlers coming there. The industrial activities are reopening in Butte and Helena. I am of the opinion that mining will be carried on upon a very active scale the present year. Before I left Butte the mines were opening up and more men were being put to work. Some of the mines that have not been worked actively for some time are being put in shape to resume full operation. It looks at the present time as if the mining in Butte and Helena will open upon a very large scale, and that there will be a very successful season ahead of the industries of the state."

Mr. Shufelt was asked if there remained any remembrances of the famous Clark-Daly feud. This was a political battle that resulted in Clark going to the United States senate. Mr. Shufelt says there is one Judge in Hamilton who refused $30,000 to vote for Clark. The money was thrown over his transom. With it was a note, saying that if the judge voted for Clark he could have the money. The offer was refused with scorn, and the money returned. However, Mr. Shufelt says there are many men who did not return the money that was given to them in that memorable campaign.

C. J. Ecklund of Biwabik, at the St. Louis last night, stated that the agricultural movement in the northern part of the state, was assured of success, and that the people of the farming community around Biwabik are thoroughly in accord with the desire of the Commercial club of Duluth to bring more farmers to the northern part of the state. Mr. Ecklund believes that within the next few years there will bo a large influx of farmers to the lands of Northern Minnesota, and that both the country districts and the towns and cities of the northern part of the state should lend every encouragement to this awakened interest in the agricultural resources of this part of the state.

Robert Lennon of Gilbert, at the Lenox hotel last night, stated that about all of Sparta has moved over to Gilbert, and that the growth of the latter town has been something remarkable. Property in Gilbert is going up, according to Mr. Lennon, and many plans are being made for the construction of stores and large office buildings. The mere fact that practically all of Sparta will be added to Gilbert is sufficient to make the latter town one of the most hustling towns in the northern part of the state, according to Mr. Lennon.

THE WEATHER.

Such weather as this makes the loyal Duluthian swell with pride, and wish that the city were full of tourists and knockers of Northern Minnesota climate. It's perfect—that's all. The weather man looks for more of it tonight and tomorrow. A year ago conditions were the same as they are today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:29 o'clock and will set at 6:07, making eleven hours and thirty-eight minutes of sunlight.

R. E. Clark, acting forecaster, makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The area of high pressure central Wednesday morning over British Columbia has moved rapidly southeastward, being central this morning over the Dakotas and overspreading all districts except the New England states and the Southwest. The movement of this high pressure area has been attended by slightly cooler weather over that entire country, except the Pacific coast and over the Southern Middle Western states, where the temperatures have risen somewhat. The Michigan disturbance is passing off to sea over the North Atlantic coast, while the Southwestern depression is central over Arizona. These two low pressure areas have caused snow or rain over Florida, Vermont, the lake region and Upper Ohio valley and along the Western Rocky Mountain slope. The indications for this vicinity are for fair and continued cool weather tonight and Friday."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures:

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: It's easier to pay compliments than bills.

When a woman means "yes" her "no" is not strenuous.

After a girl is engaged her mother ceases to revise her letters.

Many a self-made man expects his tailor to make the most of him.

An ounce of seeing it yourself is better than a pound of hearing others tell it.

Many a young man who thinks he is courting a girl is only courting a throw-down.

Men who say they were driven to drink would doubtless have arrived sooner or later anyway.

An old toper says it's a shame the way society women waste good alcohol by burning it under a chafing dish.

Income Tax.

Nebraska State Journal: If the income tax is really in the air in Washington, as rumor has it, the revenue plot thickens to an absorbing perplexity. This tax will go through with more difficulty than the inheritance tax. First it must get past the supreme court, which in the past has been on both sides of the question. To make an income tax not in conflict with the constitutional requirement that direct taxes must be levied on the state in proportion to their population is the problem. A supreme court justice is said to have let fall a hint that the five to four decision against an income tax law in the early nineties might become five to four in favor if the subject were put up to the present court.

Constitutionality aside such a tax has objections to meet. While theoretically the fairest of taxes, being based exactly on people's ability to pay, it meets a difficulty to find what people's incomes are. Liars have certain advantages here as with the personal property tax. Single taxers make it the point against income taxes that they do not reach wealth gained from unearned increases in the value of land. The wealthy object because it increases their taxes, and others incline to favor it for the same reason.

Save the Prairie Chickens.

St. Paul Pioneer Press: The South Dakota legislature, which adjourned last week passed a law providing that there shall be no open season on prairie chickens in that state until 1911. It would be an excellent idea for the Minnesota and North Dakota legislature to follow the example of of the South Dakotans. Such united action would result in a very material increase in the number of prairie chickens in the western part of this state and the eastern part of the Dakotas. There are some parts of Minnesota where such game is still abundant, but most sections of the state have been or soon will be despoiled of game birds if some action is not taken soon to protect them.

The fact that prairie chickens are protected in the state to the west of us will have a tendency to increase the unfavorable conditions in this state. The hunters from the protected district being forbidden to shoot at home will come to Minnesota. Furthermore, the birds along the western border of the state once over the line and are free from molestation will remain. Minnesota has none too many prairie chickens and does not want to lose any more than it can help. The present seems not only a good time to save what we already have, but to increase our supply by joining with South Dakota in a closed season period of two years.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Princeton Union: As the grave Geronimo was lauded to the skies. But this is no indication that the villainous old murderer will ever reach there.

Albert Lea Standard: St. Paul and Minneapolis are again in danger of getting into bad odor with each other if they are not careful.

Little Falls Transcript: Citing the fact that agricultural training in the public schols has made Denmark the richest country in proportion to its population, J. W. Olsen, former state superintendent of public instruction points out the advantages to Minnesota in adopting a system of industrial education in the schools. The city punils are well taken care of in this matter, but the 242,000 children in the rural schools are sadly neglected. The high schools received $35,228 last year for manual training and domestic science, while in 1906 the high schools were given only $5,358 Mr. Olsen urges that the normal schools of the state be given sufficient funds to offer these subjects and that permanent summer school be established at the agricultural school for superintendents and teachers, and that rural schools be consolidated and assisted in giving instruction in these branches.

Cannon Falls Beacon: The legislature has no more right to investigate the Citizens' league, the Shipmen' association or the Anti-Saloon league than it has to investigate the Republican and Democratic campaign committees. Nor is there a fraction of the need in the former cases that there is in the latter.

St. Peter Herald: A bill before the state legislature requires hunters to report to the state game and fish commission the number and kind of animals and birds taken by them during each year. If passed, it will prove fully as effective as the corrupt practices act.

St. Cloud Times: Taft's inaugural address is a plain, common sense paper. No spectacular display, no sensational propositions. He appears to intend to follow in the footsteps of his "distinguished predecessor."

Little Falls Herald: George Washington would have enjoyed the athletic sports of today. Marathons and all. He had a great deal of activity and once made a standing jump of twenty-two feet, besides throwing a dollar over the Rappahannock river. His fame as a wood chopper is also quite general, even if legendary.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: "Well they knew I was president all the time."—T. R.

Winona Independent: There is a new sect whose creed forbids its members to wear clothes. The New York theatrical managers will probably immediately absorb all the visible supply.

Philadelphia Press: "Notice how very thin that girl in the sheath gown is?

"Yes, it's astonishing. Her name is Skinner, and her mother was a Pole."

New York Sun: Knicker—I thought babies weren't allowed in your flat?

Bocker—They aren't; we only keep ours by calling it a phonograph.

Brooklyn Life: She—Is it true that Miss Blank is going to marry the Prince?

He—Er-well, they have issued a denial of the story which contradicted the report as to the falsity of the rumor that the account was untrue.

Cornell Widow: He—Are you really angry because I asked to kiss you?

She—Yes, because you asked.

Philadelphna Ledger: The palmist had been arrested for swindling his patrons. "Great Scott!" he exclaimed, impatiently, "what did they expect when they came to me?"

Washington Herald: "Mister," inquired the tramp, "would youse contribute a dollar to help beautify your town?"

"What's the idea?"

"Fer a dollar I'll move on to de next town."

CONCERNING WOMAN.

"Jove with us!" said the schoolboy member of the family. "Does Ish again appear upon the family table? I tell thee, mother, that this son of the house of Smith must needs look—"

"Talk United States, Billy," advised the frank member of the family.

"Slave!" retorts the member who is acquiring information for a Ben Hur essay, "wouldst say that English which issued from the mouth of Ben, son of Hur, is not fit for the dinner table of the American Smith! Say, wouldst?"

"I wouldst," said the frank member of the family.

"Teacher, read us the chariot race today," said the youngest member, who was eating with his arms frankly laid along the table.

"Take your elbows off the table," said the frank member of the family, "and keep your mouth shut."

"I won't," said the youngest member.

"Children," said the mother.

"Well," said the frank member of the family, "it's perfectly ridiculous the way that boy eats. And he never washes his hands before he comes to the table—"

"Did, too!"

"I should think you'd make him, at least occasionally—"

"She's always sayin' somethin' at me."

"And his g's. He never adds a 'g' to anything," said the irritable frank one.

"Oh gee! What's the use?"

"Tell us about the chariot race," gently suggested the arbiter of all the family's dissensions.

"Gee—"

"Don't let him say gee so much," protests the irritable one.

"You were just sayin' I never said 'G.'"

"And the chariot race?" asks the gentle arbiter.

"Fine! And Ben Hur wins, too, you bet."

"I always did like the chariot race. On, Prancer! On Dancer!" says the eloquent member of the family moving the cream pitcher into unsupporting space with a large easy gesture.

"You're thinking of the 'Night Before Christmas,'" says the critical member. "Ben Hur's horses were named for the morning stars."

"Not so," said the eloquent one. "It was Prancer and Dancer and one or two more like that who brought him on the victory."

"Not on your life! Prancer and Dancer took good old St. Nick across the snow fields into the lawn, where there was such a clatter I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter."

"I'm going up to the swimming pool tomorrow because if Ben Hur couldn't have swum he'd have been up against it all right, all right," said the youngest member of the family.

"Did Ben Hur ever get married?" asks the sentimental member of the family.

"Sure, he got married! Do you think he could escape with the gentle Esther and the beautiful Egyptian, both after him. I don't know which got him ,but you bet he got married. I could tell you that right after the first chapter."

"I ain't never goin' to get married," says the youngest member of the family.

"I wish somebody would make that boy use fewer negatives," says the irritable member of the family.

PUPILS' RECITAL.

Large Audience Gathers at Flaaten School.

Every available seat and all standing room at the auditorium of the Flaaten Conservatory were filled last evening by the parents and friends of the pupils who appeared in the second of the season's recitals. A most friendly and enthusiastic reception greeted the efforts of the students from the work of the youngest of the pupils through to the last numbers on the program. The string orchestra under the direction of Gustav Flaaten played two numbers in a manner of which many professional orchestras might be proud.

Gladys McAuby and Winnifred Mortenud, the two youngest piano students to appear, played well. "Le Secret" by Gauthers in trio form was delicately played by Ella Stenberg, Esther Brown and Agnes Drennan.

Miss Garda Hanson and Miss Florence Webb played their solos so well that they were both recalled. Miss Olive Capron, who is well known as a capable young violinist, played two fine numbers.

"The Pollacca," by Mohr, a difficult number, which was repeated by request was played at two pianos by Misses Moore, Honigmann, Molitor and Hanson with a string accompaniment.

The elocution department which is making great progress was well represented.

Agnes Nunan gave "Little Orphan Annie" in an attractive manner. "A Violin Fantasy" by Fletcher was beautifully read by Miss Nagle. Miss Capron accompanying her on the violin; Myrtle Johnson, represented the humorous by her clever interpretation of "Kelley's Dream;" Miss Evelyn Mortenud distinguished herself by her rendition of Van Dyke's beautiful and dramatic story, "The Lost Word." John Irvine and Harry Wheaton in the one-act sketch, "Nobody's Son," reflected much credit on themselves as well as their instructor, in the clever manner in which they developed the humor of the piece.

Th April recital will be given in large part by the violin classes of the school.

ENLARGE CLOSET.

Device to Make More Clothes Room.

The girl who boards and has but one closet in which to tuck away her belongings will be glad to know how to make the most of her small room, says an exchange.

Most every closet has, or should have, a shelf on which to store away lots of things which otherwise would be in the way. Well, on the shelf, or rather, under it, depends the rest of my story.

One clever girl in need of space bought a nickel bathroom towel rack and fastened it with screws an the under side of the shelf near its very edge. On this she has five coat hangers, each one holding a waist or two or a coat, and it will hold even five more on a pinch. In this way she can use all the hooks along the sides of the closet for skirts, bathrobe, kimono and nightie.

The advantage of the rack is that it is not necessary to take waist after waist off the hanger before the right one is found, for as many hangers may be placed on the rack as it will hold, and the owner will be able to see at a glance the waist or coat she wishes to don.

A very good substitute for the nickel rack is a piece of broom handle planed off evenly at each end and treated to a coat of white enamel, then placed in brackets which are fastened to the under side of the shelf.

SPRING FABRICS.

Colors and Weaves Are Most Alluring.

The pendulum is still swinging far away from white, and six months of gay colors lie ahead of us, says Mrs. Simcox in the April Delineator. For spring the new shades are quite strong, vivid and brilliant. One must walk among them carefully, for all of them are not universally becoming. But they are so varied—manufacturers tell me that there are 2,000 shades of blue alone—that any one can find a color and a tone that suit her. Personally I am not given either to superstition or psychology, but I do believe that every woman has a lucky color and should keep to it. I've seen women go off fifteen years in their looks the minute they put on a drab shade, and others, far older, preserve their look of youth-in-age by the soft, fresh colors that they affected. I could write a book, I feel quite sure, on "The Curse of Wrong Colors;" but, after all, it would do no good, for no two women are alike, and most of them must make the research for the foot of the rainbow by themselves. One can only sound a note of warning in a season like this when there are so many new and beautiful and tempting tones and half-tones, and a woman is more apt to follow her fancy than her reason.

There is less likelihood, fortunately, for one to go astray among the spring materials. One could choose almost at random, and, while it might be somewhat vexing to draw a sprigged muslin when one really needed a tweed suiting, you could hardly fail to admit the prettiness of the muslin. The cotton materials, however, have been pushed somewhat into the background for the present by the new silks and serges. The latter are no longer leather-faced, stiff or wiry. "Crepe serges," they call the new woolen weaves that are as soft and pliant as the most fragile silk, and yet have all the splendid wear-defying qualities of the old-time serges. "Silk serge" is another of the spring materials that will be new only to the younger generation. It is a reincarnation of the old-time diagonal twilled silk that went under that name years ago. It is a finer material both in weave and texture than the ribbed ottoman silks that were used this winter. It will be worn freely in suits and dresses, for it has the good qualities of both materials that give it its name, being firm but wonderfully soft and plant.

SOFT MATERIALS.

Silks to Be Popular During the Spring.

Among the silks which are shown in a large variety may be found some new kinds, which have distinctive features of advantage. In the shedwater foulards many chic and attractive patterns may be found. Colored back grounds with pin dots of black, or with pin stripes of the same color, are exceedingly attractive. The two-color effect is also given by little oblongs and groups of tiny dots scattered over the plain surface.

It is reported from Paris that silks of the Shantung variety will be very smart, and they well deserve popularity. Heretofore the difficulty has been that they would spot, the chance they became wet, but this has been overcome by a weave which is waterproof. It sheds dust just as it sheds water, and is ideal for tailored garments.

* * *

Mortora is a name given to another rough silk of the pongee character which is also guaranteed to be waterproof. It is a dyed-in-the-yarn material, and for this reason will keep its color indefinitely. Mirage is a semi-rough silk and is admirable for walking suiting for the reason that it wears like iron, and can be had in an unusual number of colors. For street costumes cotcline will be much used this spring. It resembles the old-fashioned Bedford cord and comes in various widths in plain and two or three-toned effects.

Rather uncommon and quite pretty are the new India and Arab silks, which closely resemble in texture those woven on hand looms. The Salome silk that is attracting attention displays marvelous beauty, with its irregular satin shading and close copy of the hand-woven materials. It may be had in all colors, and as it combines the practicability of the rough silk and the fashionable satin finish, its success is assured.

* * *

For warm weather frocks ginghams, next to linens, hold the most prominent place. The new imported fabrics are fascinating, combining effective coloring with soft and pliable weaves. Stripes and checks have a charm of their own, although plaids are also quite attractive. Tolleure is another desirable fabric for warm weather frocks. It is similar in texture to a sheer voile and is most attractive if made over a colored silk slip as lining. The latter comes in the most delicate tints and promises to become popular.

IN BARE PIGGIES

Lady Constance Danced for New York Society.

Perhaps we were a little startled with the terpsichorean exhibition of Lady Constance Stewart Richardson, who is visiting America for the second time. But one must remember that Lady Constance is nothing if not original, and her performance at the musicale given by Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., was quite in her line, says the gossip of Vogue. I was not present, but I have heard all kinds of stories. It seems that she did dance an Egyptian pas scul in bare feet and ankles, and well, an absence of hose—and that her gown was somewhat diaphanous. But Lady Constance is a true Scotswoman, and she likes to roam her native highlands in the tartans and conventional attire of a Scotch chief, so that anything like kilts even sans stockings, is not a novelty to her. I suppose one would call her a bra' lassie or "laddie," since she is married. She has always been devoted to the life in the open. She is a champion swimmer and diver, and when she was here visiting the family of the late William C. Whitney some seven years ago, she created no end of sensation by what was considered then daring conventionality. She was in those days the Lady Constance Mackenzie. Her extraodinary attire—or possibly, from an American point of view, a certain lack of it—in the surf at Palm Beach, caused much silly gossip, although I cannot remember that she did anything more terrible than to wear a sensible bathing suit and discard shoes and stockings. However, the Lady Constance has announced that she is going to give these Eastern dances for the benefit of a model school for boys in Scotland. In her own land she is adored by the people. She is a daughter of the second earl of Cromartie, and a sister of the present countess of Cromartie. She has traveled all over the world, and is one of the best shots in Europe, Asia and Africa, and has brought down big game in jungle and wilderness. One must let the lady have her fling, so to speak, and there is no doubt that she will do it well.

MRS. WADE CHANCLE, Formerly Mrs. Van Rensselaer Cruger, Well Known Society Woman and Authoress, Who Was Presented at Court Recently Held by King Edward.

Gay Umbrellas.

Colors in umbrellas are fashionable this year, and dark red, dark green, taupe and odd-looking grays are the most popular. Black is always in good taste, but if one has a gown that will harmonize with a dull-looking old rose or the catawba shades these tints in umbrellas, mounted with long handles decorated in gold, silver or ivory, can be secured.

Mother-of pearl handles or insets are entirely out of favor, ivory having superseded it, and some of the tops of handles are carvings of ivory for the depth of six and eight inches.

The correct size this year for women is twenty-six inches, and the rod and ribs of steel are so very fine that when the umbrella is closely rolled it can scarcely be distinguished from a walking cane.

Long slender handles of silver are extremely neat and may be carried at any time of the day and with any costume.

LENTEN DIET.

Attractive Methods of Preparing Fish.

Smelts skewered in rings, using a wooden toothpick to hold heads and tails together, dipped in milk, well floured and fried in deep fat, make an attractive fish course. The skewer can be removed before serving, as the fish will usually keep its shape. Garnish the plate on which the fish are served with cress and slices of lemon rolled in finely minced parsley. If the smelts are to furnish the main part of the meal, pile them in center of a hot platter and surround with a border of mashed potatoes, or mound the potatoes and circle with the fish for a border.

A can of salmon is one of the most reliable emergency helps that a housekeeper can have in stock, says Emma Paddock Telford in advising about Lenten foods.

It can be served as a bisque, diluted with a thin white sauce and strained; may serve as salad, picking the solid meat apart and arranging it on shredded lettace or lettuce hearts, dressed with mayonnaise and garnished with olives or hard boiled eggs, or may serve as the substantial part of a meal in a loaf or scallop.

Mince one can of salmon, removing all bits of bone. Odd to it a cupful of fine, stale bread crumbs, two beaten eggs, a half cupful of milk and salt, pepper, parsley and lemon juice to season. Put in a mold and bake or steam for half an hour. Turn out and serve hot with a white or Hollandaise sauce.

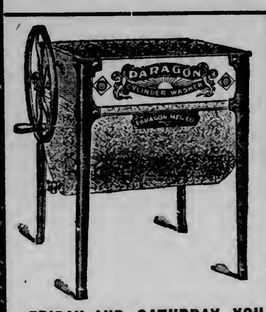

Put a layer of soft grated bread crumbs in the bottom of a baking dish that has been well buttered. Sprinkle the bread with salt, pepper and bits of butter. Cover with a layer of flaked salmon, seasoning with salt and pepper and pouring in some of the oil and liquor from the can. Over this spread another layer of the seasoned crumbs, then more salmon and so on until the dish is filled. Let the last layer be of buttered crumbs, moistening slightly with a little milk. Spread a little soft butter over the surface and bake in a hot oven to a rich brown.

the EVENING STORY

THE SUBDUING OF PHILADA

By Clara Haencher.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

"I have sent for you to draw up a new will," concluded Miss Asbury, seating herself and motioning her companion to do likewise.

"I heard it rumored—" ventured the lawyer.

"That I intended disinheriting Philada as too frivolous to be trusted with the Ashury estate?" she smiled.

"And I did not contradict the rumor. As Philada's aunt, and only living relative, I can hardly say I have had an easy time of it since becoming her guardian five years ago."

"You were too kind hearted, and spoiled her—making her self-willed and —and unmanagable," he faltered, catching a gleam of laughter in the gray eyes bent upon him. "The lawyer had been one of the first victims to fall before Philada's charms and had never forgiven her refusal of his heart and hand.

"Philada is a dear—when she has her own way," laughed the lady. "I soon realized my lack of control and therefore wished to see her safely married. I must admit it wasn't for lack of opportunity," and again the gleam flitted across her face.

There was Mr. Van Courtency—well-to-do and so sensible—until he met Philada. When she refused him he threatened to shoot her and himself, and what do you suppose the child said?"

"As Miss Philada never says or does what other people would be likely to do, it is useless to guess," he replied, stiffly.

"'Shoot!' she cried angrily 'but I'll have nothing more to do with you in the next world than I would in this.' Wasn't that clever?"

"Very," he commented dryly.

"Of course, that upset his gravity, and the would-be tragedy ended in a laugh. And so it went on—young men came admired, and were sent away until I was completely out of patience. Philada had refused, or was at outs, with every eligible man in town and time was hanging rather heavily on her hands when it was announced that Larry Drummond who had made quite a name for himself abroad as an artist, was to spend the summer at the old homestead. I told Philada that I would not stand for any carryings on with a long-haired artist; if a practical business man was not good enough for her I'd have no sprouting geniuses spooning around—and I meant it, too.

"Well, they met at a garden party—but he wasn't a bit like I had pictured him His hair was short and there was nothing about him or his clothing different from the other men, except, perhaps, his manners, which were more charming and deferential.

"He didn't call the next day as she expected, nor the next week, which rather surprised her, but she didn't say anything. Then he began dropping in casual like, but as far as I could see there was no love making."

"Perhaps someone had warned him," suggested the lawyer, with a smile of satisfaction.

"As you will see. Meantime I had grown quite fond of the lad and was sorry the time of his departure was drawing near. One afternoon I left them in the music room trying over some songs, and taking a book I went out into the arbor. I must have dozed, for the first thing I heard was a slight thump and Larry's voice saying: 'There, now, I want to talk seriously with you for a moment.'

"'Help me down this instant,' imperatively demanded Philada.

"'You look very graceful up there,' he replied, lazily.

"I rose to leave the arbor, but sank back at the sight that met my eyes. For there was Philada perched upon the high pedestal, from which the storm had blown the fern the night before, and on the grass facing her sat Larry. Larry is six feet three and no doubt had tossed her up as he would a child.

"'Help me down,' she commanded.

"'I must return to my studio next month, I have been thinking the matter over and concluded I should like to take you back with me as my wife,' he continued, not heeding her.

"'For a moment she was speechless.

"'No doubt you would,' she replied sarcastically.

"'That would give you a month to get ready. I loved you the first time I saw you, but after hearing how you treated the other boys I determined to make sure of a winning game. I know you love me—'

"'Such audacity! This looks like it,' she taunted.

"'You were too proud to show it when you thought I didn't care,' he went on relentlessly. 'How does Wednesday appeal to you as a wedding day?'

"'It doesn't appeal to me at all, and if you don't help me down immediately —I'll jump!'

"'Oh, I wouldn't do that,' he advised soothingly. 'You might sprain your ankle and that would delay our wedding journey. Where shall we spend our honeymoon?'

"'Such assurance I never heard! I will jump,' she cried angrily.

"'Give me your promise, dear, and I'll lift you down,' he pleaded tenderly.

"'Never!' snapped Philada, trying to turn on the pedestal

"'Don't do that You will fall,' he cautioned, 'You have caught up your dress in twisting and several inches of—of a very shapely ankle is exposed. There is a man coming. Promise,' he cried, rising and standing in front of her.

"'I won't,' protested Philada tearfully. 'You're a brute.'

"'He is almost here. It's the handsome minister. Quick!' he commanded.

"Philada gave one glance backward. 'Take me down,' she walled, 'but I'll—'

"He had her in his arms and closed her lips with a kiss just as the scandalized minister reached them.

"'Oh, Mr. Burnham, you're just the man we want to see,' exclaimed Larry joyfully. 'Miss Asbury has promised to become my wife a month from today and we desire you to perform the ceremony.'

"'Only too happy I am sure,' he stammered, offering his congratulations.

"Philada opened her lips to protest, but the humor of the situation overcame her anger, and that's why I want to change my will leaving half of the estate to Philada and half to her husband, for the man capable of subduing her so diplomatically has my sincere admiration and I feel sure will look after the property wisely."

Good Cough Medicine for Children.

The season for coughs and colds is now at hand and too much care cannot be used to protect the children. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when he has a cold. The quicker you cure his cold the less the risk. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the sole reliance of many mothers, and few of those who have tried it are willing to use any other. Mrs. F. F. Starcher of Ripley, W. Va., says: "I have never used anything other than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for my children, and it has always given good satisfaction." This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a child as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

MAY SAVE THE DIMOCK

the Hall just above the water in Pollock Rip slue, with the steamer North Star of the same line and the revenue cutter Gresham standing alongside the sunken vessel.

Fifteen miles away on the backside of Cape Cod lay the stranded steamer Dimock, her stern swung around broadside to the beach and the morning tide flowing through the great gap in her starboard bow. The passengers from the Dimock who came ashore early today, took a morning train from Orleans for their destinations.

The chances of saving the Dimock were regarded as being even. There was also a possibility of floating the Massachusetts, ashore on Martha's Vineyard, but the problem of raising the Hall from her position from the slue was difficult.

Whether an effort would be made to raise the Horatio Hall or to destroy it has not been decided.

The five men who remained on the Hall after the Dimoc kleft her were taken off by the Gresham early today.

Blanketed by a dense fog and protected by it, the steamers Horatio Hall of the Maine Steamship company, from Portland, Me., for New York and H. F. Dimock of the Metropolitan line met in the middle of the narrow channel known as Pollock Rip slue with a crash that sent the Hall to the bottom within half an hour and the Dimock to run ashore six hours later on Cape Cod beach, where the passengers and crew of the Hall were landed unharmed. A brief wireless message which the operator of the sinking Hall managed to send broadcast spread the news of the collision, which occurred at 5 a. m. but as he failed to give the position details of the disaster did not become known until the Dimock came ashore half a mile south of the Orleans life saving station shortly after 2 p. m. During the six hours of silence half a hundred wireless stations, governmental, commercial and amateur, from Portland to New London were vainly endeavoring to obtain some news of the wreck, while the revenue cutter Gresham scurried up and down the coast in a vain effort to render assistance.

The sharp nose of the Dimock went through the side of the Portland boat abreast of the mainmast, and had sufficient force to penetrate fifteen or twenty feet into the Hall's body. Capt. Thompson of the Dimock started to back his steamer, but seeing that he might save those on board, sent her full-speed ahead, held her nose into the jagged rent in the Hall, and as he pushed the latter over toward the shoal water on the side of the slue, the five passengers on the Hall were dragged over the tangled mass of wreckage to the deck of the Dimock.

As soon as the passengers reached the Dimock the latter backed out. Within an hour after the Dimock had gone ashore the tugs Orion and Underwriter and a wrecking outfit left Boston to assist her.

The Horatio Hall was built in Chester, Pa., in 1898, and registers 2,007 tons net. The Dimock was built at Philadelphia in 1884 and registers 1,780 tons.

TO SUBPOENA W. H. HATTON

He said game wardens did not get all of it. A lawyer named Fridley received aboue $175, which the witness explained was paid out of the $349.50 received after the primary to pay up old accounts. W. T. Porter, a retired farmer of Barron, was paid the remainder of the $349.50. Mr. Stone named John S. Craig, a deputy game warden of Superior, as having received perhaps $125 for the distribution of Stephenson literature, etc.

After a bitter fight in the assembly yesterday that body finally has voted to refer to the joint steering committee the senate resolution to extend to May 1 the time limit of the investigation of the senatorial primary. The steering committee is composed of five senators and seven assemblymen and being evenly divided, it is hard to forecast what the recommendation will be.

Speaker Bancroft left his chair and made a speech in which he showed that he had little sympathy with the investigation committee.

Assemblyman Leuch created a sensation by saying he would support the resolution because he was convinced that improper influences had been brought to bear upon certain members of the legislature. He did not mention any names.

Mr. Hughes, a Democrat favored continuation of the investigation as did Mr. Zimmerman. Mr. Hambrecht, one of the members of the investigation committee spoke against extending the time and Mr. Reynolds characterized some of the work of the committee as blackmail.

Gave Cash to Deputies.

Late yesterday it developd that two deputy game wardens were handed amounts of Stephenson campaign funds by State Game Warden J. W. Stone last August and told to spend it "as they saw fit." Deputy Warden H. A. Bowman of Waukesha county and Deputy Fred Gerhardt of Milwaukee were given $500 and $200 respectively by their chief, notwithstanding that letters were sent out by Mr. Stone to other game wardens telling them to "keep out of politics." These facts came out in the testimony of Stone. The information was given after a request by Stone for further delay had been denied by the committee.

A week or two before the money was handed to Bowman, Stone told him that he (Stone) was for Stephenson, and had asked Bowman to do all he could conscientiously and rightfully for Stephenson. Out of this developed the Milwaukee engagement. Neither Bowman nor Gerhardt ever made a report of the money spent. The rest of the total of $2,500 Stone took to Madison. When asked to whom he made the next payment, the witness stopped short and asked a postponement until tomorrow. Mr. Stone declared there was 90 per cent less politics done by the game wardens than at any time previous in the history of the state.

Divided Among Candidates.

An effort to get information from the witness as to details of his official trips between Aug. 19 and 23, brought only a statement that the object in every instance was to confer with different deputy game wardens. He would not tell whether any time was deducted from the time of the wardens doing political work. The sixty wardens were divided among the four Republican candidates, he said.

Stone said he spent all of the $2,500 given him from the Stephenson fund and more, too.

L. B. Dresser, chairman of the state board of control, who received $2,350 of the Stephenson fund, said he paid it out to various workers for expenses.

MINERS AND OPERATORS SEEK INDUSTRIAL PEACE

hour day with no reduction in wages.

Fourth—That all coal shall be mined and paid for by the ton of 2,000 pounds.

Fifth—That we demand a definite and more uniform scale of wages and prices for all classes of labor at all collieries in the anthracite region, and that all employes paid $1.50 or less per day shall receive a 10 per cent advance, and all employes paid more than $1.50 and less than $2 per day shall receive a 5 per cent advance.

Sixth—That the system whereby a contract miner has more than one bob or employs more than two laborers be abolished.

Seventh—That the employers be required to use uniform pay statements designating the name of the company, the name of the company, the colliery where employed, the amount of wages and the class of work performed.

Eighth—That the contract shall be made for a period of one year.

When the above demands became known to the operators several months ago, they made public a statement, through their New York agents, that the demands would not be granted, and strongly intimated that they would ask that the present three years' agreement be renewed. The present agreement is the same as the working arrangement made by the anthracite coal strike commission in 1903.

The conference adjourned at 12:45 after the miners had submitted their demands. A sub-committee consisting of seven from each side was appointed to take up the negotiations. President Lewis of the miners and President Baer of the operators head the sub-committees.

M. F. HUGO RETURNS.

Witnessed Inauguration of Taft and Return of the Fleet.

N. F. Hugo returned yesterday from an Eastern trip. Mrs. Hugo, who accompanied him, has not returned as yet, but is still in the East visiting friends.

While in the East Mr. and Mrs. Hugo witnessed the inauguration and the home-coming of the battleships. Mr. Hugo says the bad weather interfered very seriously with the inaugural ceremonies, and the brilliancy of the occasion was greatly marred by the stormy weather conditions.

Mr. Hugo is greatly interested in naval affairs, and had an excellent view of the home-coming battleships. He was on a boat that went almost as far as the capes that form the entrance to the harbor at Hampton Roads, and thus secured a very good view of all of the big war vessels. Mr. Hugo says the return of the battleships was the most inspiring sight he ever witnessed.

CHILDREN'S ESSAYS ON "BEN HUR" POURING IN Public School Pupils Enthusiastic Over Big Contest.

The 150 Seats For Opening Night Are Laid Aside.

T. W. HUGO,
Who Indorses The Herald's "Ben Hur" Essay Contest.

"The plan devised by The Herald whereby 150 school children are to see 'Ben Hur' free of charge is an excellent one, and one that anyone can heartily indorse. I am glad to add my good word to those who have gone before.

"If we can only get our children to discussing books like 'Ben Hur' instead of thousands of other things which they are likely to discuss, there will be no doubt that they will be started on the right way. The studying of the book and the witnessing of the play will be of great help and benefit to all the children. I repeat that the plan is most excellent."—T. W. Hugo, chairman of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club.

Enthusiasm is high among the school children in the big "Ben Hur" contest under the auspices of The Herald, whereby 150 are to see the opening performance of the big Klaw & Erlanger production free of charge.

The essays are now coming in rapidly and it looks as though the teachers who judge the work, would have plenty to do. The majority of the essays are not expected until after the final installment of the condensed serial The Herald is printing each night, is run. The story will be finished Friday night and Saturday and the days following, will bring the essays in large numbers.

Copies of the condensed story were today placed in the hands of Supt. Denfeld, and these he will distribute among the teachers, who will read and explain them to the children, so that they may write intelligent essays on the book.

In The Herald tomorrow night the names of the teachers who are to judge the papers, will be announced. The plan now is to have eighteen teachers do the work, but from the number of essays coming in it may be necessary to increase the number.

The fourth installment of the story appears in The Herald tonight, and Friday night the series will be finished and the children may then get busy on their essays as soon as they like.

The 150 seats that are to be occupied by the young guests of the paper on the opening night of the largest theatrical attraction that will appear at the Lyceum this season, were laid away this morning. They are the best in the house. It is expected that there will be quite a rush for seats for the big show, and The Herald had the seats laid away before the public sale opened.

For the benefit of any who have not yet seen the conditions governing the contest, they are reprinted in The Herald tonight.

All those who wish to become members of the big theatrical party should keep in mind the following conditions:

Each essay should be about 150 words in length, although more or less will not disqualify the writer. The writers of the 150 best papers will receive tickets. There are no cooper conditions attached to the contest, and no requirements that the contestants shall be subscribers to The Herald.

In this contest it must be understood that the seventh grade pupils will compete with the seventh grade scholars, the eighth grade with the eighth grade, the first year high school pupils with the members of their own class, and so on up to the senior class in the high school.

Each contestant must be a regularly enrolled student in the Duluth public schools, and must write his or her name, grade, teacher's name, the name of the school and class to which he or she belongs, and his or her address on the upper left hand corner of the paper. Only one side of the paper should be used on which to write. The writing should be as neat and as legible as the contestant can make it, as by these will the contest be judged. The essays should then be mailed to the "Ben Hur" editor of The Herald.

All essays must be in the hands of the "Ben Hur" editor not later than 6 p. m. Wednesday, March 17.

The fourth installment of the story of Ben-Hur follows:

Through the open door of the tent of Sheik Ilderim one gets a glimpse of the plain where Ben-Hur is training the Arab steeds for the chariot race. The joyous comments of Sheik Ilderim and the cheers of the Arabs announce the success of his efforts as he enters the tent, to be met with half-mocking congratulations of the subtle and designing Iras.

Simonides, borne in a litter and accompanied by the charming Esther, comes to the downr of Sheik Ilderim to acknowledge Ben-Hur as the son of the dead Prince Hamnar of Hur, for his secret agent had reported to Simonides that Messala had without doubt recognized Ben-Hur in the Grove of Daphne and that he had been made sure of Ben-Hur's identity by his friend Drusus, who told Messala the story of the Roman Tribune Arrius and the galley slave he had adopted after the battle with the Aegean pirates. After hearing this confirmation of his belief, Messala has posted on the walls of Antioch the announcement that Ilderim's driver is "Ben-Hur, a Jew," hoping thereby to inflame popular prejudice against him on account of his race. This is the proof of identity that Simonides sought, and he hastens to Ben-Hur to make restitution. Ben-Hur, under the law, cannot refuse it, and accepts, but assures Simonides and Esther of their maintenance in honor and dignity, saying that they shall go forth with him to Jerusalem and live in the ancient palace of the Hur family.

From the banquet which follows, Ben-Hur is lured away by the song of Iras, to the brink of the lake, where the fascinating Egyptian piles her "arts of Cleopatra." Her voice is low and sweet, with the wildness of the desert in it, and Ben-Hur, unable to resist her wiles, joins her in the luxurious shallop. Along the roadway that borders the lake come Simonides and Esther, returning to their home in Antioch. The song of the Egyptian is wafted from the distance; Esther hears and shudders. The shallop glides into view and the heart-broken Esther moans and her head falls upon her breast, for she loves Ben-Hur.

About the great gateway of the Circus of Antioch seemingly throngs all Antioch, watching the official procession as it enters. The consul passes, his insignia of office borne before him, and legionaries, in full panoply, their standards displayed; nobles, ladies and liveried servants; and finally the rabble—Romans, Greeks, Jews and Arabs—but all grouped into two factions and showing for their favorites, for Ben-Hur or for Messala. Messala, in racing garb, enters from the stalls to watch for Iras, upon whose conquest he is bent. She comes, accompanied by the modest Esther, followed by their fathers, Balthasar and Simonides, borne in litters. Iras, contrary to the custom of the women of Antioch, is unveiled, and as the people gaze at her curiously, she exclaims in anger, "What a strange people! Saw they never a woman's face before?" Ben-Hur begs her to veil her face, but she scoffs at him and they part in anger. Simonides gives Malluch, his secret agent, 50 talents to be used by Sanballat in the badgering of Messala into a wager against Ben-Hur at 6 to 1, which if Messala loses will nearly beggar him.

Over the course, through clouds of dust, with a sound as of muffled thunder, the chariots of Ben-Hur and Messala, each drawn by four blooded horses, speed in full career. The Jew and the Roman are driving for what to them is dearer than their lives—revenge. The walls of the Arena, the stalls and crowded galleries with their vast concourse of excited spectators, whirl dizzily by. Messala bends far over his chariot; his horses seem to have wings; he is ahead; he shouts triumphantly. Ben-Hur has been cold and passive until he hears that derisive shout. Now he too leans far out over his chariot. The four Arabian bays of Sheik Ilderim draw past the white and black Cappadocian steeds of Messala. At the turn Ben-Hur's horses plunge forward with a great "spurt;" the wheel of Messala's chariot spins from its axle—Messala reels in his chariot and falls headlong under the feet of the plunging horses. Ben-Hur has won.

The vast curve of the amphitheater stretches away in perspective with its wildly cheering throng. Ben-Hur, in his chariot, before the consul's great throne of state, receives the victor's crown amid the plaudits of the populace.

LOCAL GOVERNMENTS IN ST. LOUIS COUNTY TO GET THROUGH CHECKING UP

size of the county, and two years ago a similar bill was passed. It was invalid, however, because it provided that the examiner should be appointed since the judges of the district court, and the supreme court has held that this duty cannot be delegated to the judges. In the present bill the appointment is delegated to the county auditor and his selection is to be approved by the board of county commissioners. The examiner must give a $5,000 bond, and he will get $2,500 a year for his services. He is required to make an annual examination of the books and accounts of townships villages, cities, school districts and charitable institutions, with a view to determining whether their affairs are being conducted lawfully. His reports are to be submitted to the county board with duplicates to the county attorney for his information. If the examiner finds practices that violate criminal statutes, he is required to report them to the grand jury for its action.

A state forest reserve and experiment station in forestry on the old Fond du Iuac reservation, between Cloquet and Carlton, in Carlton county, is provided for by a bill introduced by Representative Ferguson of Carlton county, which the house passed yesterday afternoon.

The secretary of the interior has been authorized by congress to convey to the state 2,200 acres in Carlton county for $1.25 per acre and in order that Indian allotments in the area affected may be conveyed to the state, congress has removed all restrictions as to any Indian allottee holding land adjoining the area to be conveyed. These lands are well adapted for a "forest practice ground, demonstration forest and experiment station for the students of the forestry department of the University of Minnesota," to quote the preamble to the bill, and the Weyerhaeuser interests are willing to pay the $1.25 per acre asked by the government if the state will take care of the allotments.

The bill authorizes the board of regents of the university to examine the land, and if in their judgment it is found suitable for forestry experiments, they are authorized to accept the land for the state. The acceptance is subject to contracts for the sale of merchantable timber now outstanding, and the cutting of this timber is to be subject to such conditions as the university regents may see fit to impose. After the property is acquired by the state, the board of regents is to manage it as a practice ground, demonstration forest and experiment station for the forestry students at the university.

The bill carries an appropriation of $5,000 to buy the Indian allotments, which amounts to 480 acres, and $2,500 for each of the next two years for caring for the property, with the proviso that none of this money is to be available until the government land is given to the state free of all costs.

F. E. House of Duluth, president of the Duluth and Iron Range railroad, respresented the ore-carrying railroads before the house committee on railroads in opposition to the bill requiring all railroads to equip freight trains with full-sized cabooses, which are to have doubletrucks, proper doors, guard rails, and other appurtenances. Mr. House showed that the small cabooses have always been used on the ore trains, and that they have served all necessary purposes. In twenty-three years on the Iran Range road there has been but one accident that could possibly be attributed to the small cabooses, and there was a question about that one. The committee deferred action on the bill until a meeting to be held later.

The house railroad committee also heard arguments for and against the J. N. Johnson bill putting control of the issuance of stocks and bonds of roads incorporated in this state under the railroad and warehouse commission. The advocates of the bill say that it is only proper that the state which gives life to the railroad corporations should have the power to regulate their stock and bond issues, and that no railroad commission would withhold permission to issue stock for legitimate purposes.

The two railroads affected, the Great Northern and the Sault Ste Marie, say that as other railroads are not compelled to make such a showing of their plans as this bill would require, the passage of such a law would be a discrimination by Minnesota against its own roads, as it would compel them to disclose their plans for extensions so that competitors would know what they intended to do before they had a chance to do it.

The committee will act on the bill later. Two years ago Speaker Rockne was the author of a similar bill, and over it arose one of the hottest fights of the session, with the result that the bill was killed.

The house yesterday afternoon passed the Spooner bill accepting from the government the Indian school at Morris, to be used as a state agricultural school. There was but one negative vote, cast by Representative Gates of Kenyon, who had opposed the measure in committee of the whole. The gift involves property worth more than $100,000, including several fine buildings and nearly 30 acres of excellent farming land.

* * *

The bass season will open June 15 this year instead of May 29, if a bill by Representative McGarry of Walker, which the house passed yesterday afternoon by a unanimous vote, goes through the senate. Also, the taking of bass of less than ten inches will be forbidden and punished by the same measure. At present bass of six inches in length may be taken, which is very small indeed for a bass.

* * *

Another angling measure passed the house yesterday was the Mayer bill, providing that upon petition of 100 voters county boards in any county of the state may designate as trout streams suitable rivers and brooks in which trout have been planted. After streams have been so designated, nobody may fish in them, even if they are after other fish than trout, during the closed season for taking brook trout.

Besides the county examiner bill, four other measures originating in St. Louis county, and mostly local to that county, were among the thirty-two measures passed by the house yesterday afternoon.

Chief in importance among these was the courthouse commission bill, which places the new St. Louis county courthouse in full charge of a commission composed of the chairman of the board of county commissioners, the county auditor and the county treasurer. The county board is to have nothing to do with the courthouse except to levy a tax to meet the expense of caring for the building, which it is required to do on application of the commission. The commission is to have full charge of buying supplies, of disposing of office room, of employing help and of fixing the pay of employes.

A bill by Representative Grant was passed, providing for recording old instruments in the office of the register of deeds which have not yet been transcribed.

A bill for the St. Louis county delegation, increasing the clerk hire allowance in the office of the St. Louis county treasurer to $15,000 a year and that in the office of the county auditor to $22,000 yearly, was also passed.

So was a bill by the St. Louis county delegation authorizing county boards to direct county treasurers to advertise in one or more newspapers the time real and personal property taxes will become delinquent.

A method of enforcing the compulsory education law in rural districts where there are no truant officers is provided in a bill by Representative Mattson of Roseau, which the house passed yesterday afternoon. The last report of the state superintendent of public instruction showed that in many rural districts the average attendance of the public schools is much less than the number of children of school age, and at the time the report was made The Herald called attention to the fact, and urged that some action be taken to correct the disgrace of the empty schools which are costing the state so much to maintain. The Mattson bill meets this need by placing the duty of enforcing the compulsory education law in the hands of county attorneys. Clerks of school districts are required to make lists of children of school age and turn them over to the county superintendent of schools where there are no truant officers. Teachers are to check off the names of those who attend school, and the county superintendent is to turn over to the county attorney a list of children who do not attend. It is made the duty of the county attorney to notify the parents insuch cases that their children must attend school unless proper excuses are given, and if parents still neglect to send their children to school, the county attorney must begin criminal proceedings. Parents failing to obey the law may be fined $50 or sent to jail for thirty days.

The theory of the measure is that it is necessary to get somebody out of the home neighborhood, and therefore immune from local sympathies or fears, to enforce the law.

Among the other bills passed by the house yesterday were the following:

By Bicknell—Regulating the issuance of certificates of inspection and weight of grain or other farm commodity weighed or inspected under the laws of this state, and requiring certificates to be delivered to the local buyer of such commodity.

By Rosenwald—Requiring surveyors general of logs to make annual reports to the legislature, showing the number and character of logs and other wood products scales, and the fees received for the same.

By White—Allowing 50 cents per day for boarding prisoners in counties where the average jail population is ten prisoners per day, the measure not to apply to counties where the fees are regulated by special laws.

By Davis—Prohibiting the netting or seining of fish within fifty feet of fisheries.

By Senator Sundberg—Relating to the delivery of stored grain.

By the senate committee on grain and warehouses—Making it compulsory that special bins be provided at terminal elevators on application. As to this bill F. B. Wright of Minneapolis gave notice of a motion to reconsider the vote by which it passed.

By Senator C. A. Johnson—To exempt members of the legislature from attending court during sessions, either as witness, parties or attorneys.

The impression in Duluth that the passage by the legislature of the Fosseen bill prohibiting the use of basement school rooms in cities of 20,000 inhabitants or over will necessitate the immediate abandonment of basement school rooms in that city is not well founded. The bill provides that such roooms may be used for the purpose of teaching domestic science, manual training or physical culture, and that two basement rooms in each school building may be used during 1910 for general school purposes, and one basement room in each school during 1911. Beginning with 1912, however, basement school rooms will have to be abandoned except for the purposes named above. The definition of a basement room is broad enough: "For the purpose of this act a basement room shall mean any room the floor of which is below the surface of the surrounding ground." Any school director violating the law is to be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor for each and every offense.

The senate yesterday afternoon refused to approve of a state reward for chicken thieves. The Rowe bill, which had passed the house, provided for such a reward, but the senate killed it in committee of the whole.

* * *

The senate advanced to the calendar the Peterson bill increasing from $2 to $3 per day the fees of jurors, with an amendment to the effect that talesmen shall draw only $2 per day.

* * *

The bill by the house drainage committee, J. J. Opsahl, chairman, which the house passed without opposition in special order yesterday, is one of the most important measures put through the house thus far. It authorizes the state drainage commission to make a topographical survey of the various watersheds of the state, and to prepare a uniform system of drainage based upon the information thus secured. The object is to insure that drainage of one section will not injure another by diverting unwanted water supplies upon its low lands. The plan contemplates a general comprehensive system of drainage that will stake cognizance of watersheds and that will make each local drainage effort part of an intelligent whole that will prevent overlapping. On the completion of the report of the survey, a copy of that part of the report relating to each county is to be filled with the county auditor, and all subsequent drainage work must conform with the plan devised by the commission. The state drainage commission is authorized to co-operate with the department of the federal government in the execution of surveys wherever it is deemed expedient.

* * *

Representative Bendixen is receiving much commendation for his bill providing that the state shall increase the salaries of rural school teachers in certain cases. The bill provides that the state shall add $10 a month to the pay of teachers holding first grade certificates and teaching in rural schools holding eight months' school and paying such teachers $50 a month. Five dollars is to be paid montaly to holders of second grade certificates in such schools. It is said that the amount required to do this would be much less than the sum asked by the state agricultural society for a grandstand on their fair grounds, and the friends of the Bendixen bill believe the purpose they have in view to be of more importance to the state than the grandstand.

* * *

The senate railroad committee had a public hearing yesterday afternoon on the Cashman distance tariff bill. This measure proposes to reduce all freight rates to a mileage basis. This would be of great benefit to some communities, and would injure others, large and small, by destroying the present advantages on which their growth has been founded. Naturally, the measure is supported by the communities that hope to gain, and opposed by those that fear to lose. No action was taken by the committee, which will have another hearing later.

John Costin of Virginia and Charles Jesmore of Eveleth are in St. Paul in the interests of the Austin bill allowing cities and villages to take in surrounding territory. The bill is now before the senate committee on municipal corporation. The committee recommended it to pass after increasing the territory to be taken in to a mile and a half from the city limits, but opposition developed, resulting in sending it back to the committee for another hearing, which will be had this afternoon.

* * *

Frank E. McGray of Virginia has been appointed a general clerk of the house, vice Farley Dare, resigned. Mr. Dare, who is editor of the Walker Pilot, one of the brightest weeklies in Northern Minnesota, has served most efficiently as clerk of the house committee on taxes and tax laws, but the necessities of his private business made it necessary for him to return to Walker.

* * *

The senate, yesterday afternoon, passed two joint memorials to congress. One, by Senator Wels, opposes a national inheritance tax law, on the ground that it will infringe upon the province of the states. Senator Wels showed that since Minnesota adopted the inheritance tax law, it has taken in $365,000 from this source.

The senate also passed a resolution by Senator L. O. Thorpe, asking congress to take the tax off denatured alcohol, sold in small quantities.

The following bills came into the senate yesterday afternoon:

By Senator Nelson—Requiring dealers in fire arms to keep registers of all sales, to be open to the public.

By the senate judiciary committee—Providing that money paid into court shall, if uncalled for after five years, be turned over to the state. Owners, by proving their claims, can get the money any tnime within twenty years, after which the money is to be covered to the state. Most clerks of district court have money awaiting claimants, much of which will never be called for. This bill provides a way of making it useful.

By Senators Putnam and Dale—Authorizing county boards to establish county agricultural schools and experiment stations on county poor farms, and to levy a tax of not more than 1½ mills to maintain them.

By Senator Works—A redraft of his former bill, providing the commission form of government for Mankato and Winona.

By Senator Sageng—Providing a grain and flour testing laboratory in connection with the state grain inspection department, at Minneapolis.

By Senator Nelson—Providing for the expulsion from the public schools of pupils or teachers afflicted with tuberculosis.

By Senator Campbell—Requiring railroads to clean livestock cars, on penalty of $10 per car per day for failure to do so.

* * *

Senator P. R. Vail of Virginia appeared before the senate railroad committee yesterday afternoon and secured the adoption of a favorable report on his bill reducing ore freight rates on non-Bessemer ore, to 4 mills per mile, the present tariff on iron ore. This brings the bill before the senate with a recommendation that it pass.

BUSY DAYS AT THE POOR FARM

County Cares for 115—Number Will Soon Dwindle.

The number of people being cared for at the poorfarm has reached its maximum for the winter, 115 inmates now being at the farm. The high water mark will not remain long, however, for spring is approaching and, with the approach of warm weather, the number of inmates at the farm always begins to dwindle.

During the winter a number of men seek admittance to the poorfarm only to tide themselves over the severe weather period, when they cannot shift for themselves. With the coming of spring and the opening of summer work, many of them leave the quiet of the farm to earn their own living, out in the world.

The number of applications for assistance made to the superintendent of the poor this winter indicates that conditions have not been as bad this year as in former years. Last year at this time the calls were much more numerous, and the conditions existing at present indicate that this year may be a much better one for the poor than was last year, when the suffering was exceptionally great.

ORDINANCE ON PEDDLING

New City Measure Expected to Stand Test of Courts.

Persons Hawking on Streets Must Pay City $1 a Day.

Owing to the fact that Duluth's ordinance governing peddlers, hawkers and canvassers was declared invalid in municipal court two weeks ago, the city is at present without an ordinance of that kind.

This condition will not continue for long, however, for Alderman Trevillion has a measure before the council which will become a law before the end of the month. It covers all the ground covered in the old ordinance, and is believed to be constitutional.

Under this new measure it will be unlawful for any peddlar or hawker to attract attention to himself or his wares by crying out, ringing a bell, blowing a whistle, dancing, or singing.

That part of the ordinance which is of particular interest to the peddlers themselves relates to the license fees charged by the city. Wagon peddlers must pay $200 a year; $120 for six months; $40 for one month, and $5 for one day.

Push cart peddlers will be charged at the rate of $60 a year; $35 for six months; $10 for one month, and $2.50 for one day. Foot peddlers will have to pay a license fee of $100 a year; $60 for six months, and $15 for one month.

Those engaged in temporary or transient business, in store rooms, for a limited period, will be called upon to pay a license fee of $500 for one year; $300 for six months; $200 for one month, and $50 for one day.

Persons hawking on the streets, exclusive of peanut and candy vendors, must pay the city $1 a day. No hawking will be permitted after 7 p. m. on Superior street, from Second avenue east to Sixth avenue west; on Second or First avenues east, Lake avenue, or Third, Fourth or Fifth avenues west, from Michigan street to First street, nor on Fifty-fifth avenue west from the St. Paul & Duluth railroad tracks to Main street.

It will be contrary to law for any peddler, canvasser, or hawker to allow a crowd of sufficient dimensions to block the street, to congregate. Any violation of the ordinance will make the violator liable to a fine of $100, or a jail sentence of 100 days.

Stiff Neck.

Stiff neck is caused by rheumatism of the muscles of the neck. It is usually confined to one side or to the back of the neck and one side. While it is often quite painful, quick relief may be had by applying Chamberlains' Liniment. Not one case of rheumatism in ten requires internal treatment. When there is no fever and no swelling as in muscular and chronic rheumatism, Chamberlain's Liniment will accomplish more than any internal treatment. For sale by all druggists.

Danderine

GROWS HAIR and we can

PROVE IT!

A lady from Minnesota writes: "As a result of using Danderine, my hair is close to five feet in length."

Beautiful Hair at Small Cost

HAIR troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention if results are to be expected. It would do no earthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutriment; when baldness occurs the scalp has simply lost all its nourishment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon (a plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions.)

The natural thing to do in either case, is to feed and replenish the soil or scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

Knowlton's Danderine has a most wonderful effect upon the hair glands and tissues of the scalp. It is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is similar to the natural hair foods or liquids of the scalp.

It penetrates the pores quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities.

One 25-cent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy—try it and see for yourself.

PLANTS 30,000 YOUNG TREES ON CUTOVER LANDS

Practical Experiments in Reforestization Made By Z. D. Scott.

Wants State Aid to Reproduce Forests of Minnesota.

Z. D. SCOTT.

Z. D. Scott of Scott-Graff Lumber company, has undertaken the reforestization of the cut-over lands which his company owns along the north shore of Lake Superior, and already he has planted on twelve forties, approximately 30,000 young pine and spruce trees, a great many of which he imported for the purpose from Germany.

The starting of a baby forest of pine and spruce on the ridges of Lake county along the Alger-Smith railroad line where logging operations and forest fires have left nothing but barren wastes and devastation behind them, is an experiment on Mr. Scott's part.

Many have laughed at his theories, and asked him, even if his experiment proves a success, where he expects to be benefited by it as it will take close to half a century for the trees to mature. Mr. Scott naively answers this by saying that he would far rather look from the portals of heaven on green forests than on brown barren wastes here below.

Began Last Spring.

Mr. Scott made his first plantings last spring when he set out 30,000 infant spruce trees. These were set out about six feet apart over the cutover ridges of twelve forties. Many of the trees were placed in the ground by Mr. Scott's own hands. He says it is not much of a task to plant the little trees. One morning he and two other men started out at 6 o'clock in the morning and before 8:30 o'clock a little less than two and a half hours, he had placed by himself the roots of 300 trees in the ground. The other two men dug the holes with a hoe. The work as the holes need only be a few inches deep. Besides the young trees that he set out he scattered a large quantity of seeds, but he has little hope that anything will come of these.

Last fall Mr. Scott went over the ground where he had started the miniature forest in the spring, and found the great majority of the trees to be thriving. He figures that under ordinary conditions about 75 per cent of the trees set out should grow.

Orders More Trees.

To continue his work of reforestization, Mr. Scott has already ordered 60,000 more young trees from home and foreign nurseries, to be set out this spring on the north shore. He plans to plant several thousand more trees each spring on the lands which the company owns. There are many lands which the company has cut, which it does not own, and these Mr. Scott, says it would be folly to reforest, as the owners would not protect the trees.

Mr. Scott says that the cost of buying and planting the trees is very small, compared with clearing and preparing the ground to receive the trees. All the old slashings must be cleared and burned off, so as to protect the young trees from destruction by forest fires. The matter of planting the trees is harder on the back and the knees than the pocketbook. Mr. Scott says this from experience.

Mr. Scott has taken his forestry ideas from methods employed in the forest reserves of Saxony, Germany, where an almost model system is said to exist. It has been found there that 100 feet of lumber can be cut annually to an acre. Only trees of economical size are cut. The economical size is said to be about sixteen inches. When a tree is cut a new one is planted, and so on.

As Mr. Scott has his young forest planted, the trees, which are only six feet apart, would be far too close together, when they grow to be big trees. They will be allowed to grow standing thick, until they have reached a height of from twelve to fifteen feet, when they will be weeded out, so to speak, until less than half their number are left standing. The trunks of the trees thus cut can be used for posts and box lumber. Where there are now about 1,200 trees to an acre, only 600 will be left.

Mr. Scott admits all this will take time, and that he will not live to see the result of his work. It takes from twenty-five to thirty years for a pine to grow to be thirteen inches through the butt. However in the following twelve years it will double its size.

The operations of the lumbermen of this country have set the nation thinking of the future. From the report of the forestry department, it is learned that the annual consumption is greater than three times the annual growth of the forests. Some statistics state that at the present rate of cutting the forests of this country will last only twenty years. Others place it at seventy, but even at the last it is not a long time.

Hopes for State Aid.

In his effort to perpetuate the forests for Minnesota, Mr. Scott hopes eventually to get the help of the state in the matter of reforestation. If he can not get the state's assistance in the way of some provision to lessen or not require taxes to be paid on lands while being reforested, he will have to give up the undertaking, for in time the taxes would eat up the property. Mr. Scott admits that by replanting the forests he is increasing the value of the land, but not to such a great extent that he or anyone else can afford to pay taxes on it, while waiting for the trees to grow.

The Weyerhaeusers had Government Forester Gifford Pinchot come to Minnesota to see what could be done with the great areas of country they have cut over. He is said to have investigated the matter thoroughly, and advised them not to attempt to reforest them, if they ever expected to get any returns for their pains, for the taxes would make it a losing proposition. The Weyerhaeusers are also said to have offered the state large tracts of barren lands to be experimented with along forestry lines. But for some reason the state did not accept the offer.

Mr. Scott believes that the devastation of the forests is fast becoming a serious question. He believes that if logging had been carried on properly in the first place, there would be no danger of a lumber famine in the country. If the methods used in Germany would be followed in this country they would have no need to worry. Cut only the big trees, burn the slashings to prevent forest fires, and plant new trees, and the forests would be forever productive. That is the ideal way.

The reforesting of the north shore should have a beneficial effect on the climate at the Head of the Lakes, and it surely would regulate precipitation and erosion. Mr. Scott says that in the past twenty years since the trees have been cut from the hills back of Duluth, Miller's creek has carried more sediment into the bay than it did during the hundred preceding years. It is the same with all the streams along the north shore, where miles of country has been left naked by logging operations and by the forest fires that invariably follow in the slashings, burning year after year until all life is burned from the ground, and nothing but useless wastes will be left. The soil there, unprotected by the roots of trees, will be washed away down the streams in to the lake until nothing but the bald rocks are left. Conditions are even worse than this in China today, where streams spread out for miles over treeless plains. In the rainy season they are raging torrents, carrying destruction for miles, and in the dry seasons they are dry. Roosevelt has prophesied something like this for North America in years to come if some way of saving or perpetuating the forests is not devised.

There are thousands of acres along the north shore which are broken up, rugged and useless for agricultural purposes. These are now for the most part covered with forests which are disappearing rapidly. If as the trees on them now are cut, young trees are planted, and the slashings cleared and burned so as to prevent forest fires, the north shore will be perpetually covered with trees in every stage of growth.

Mr. Scott sees no reason why the state should not be willing to free from taxes these lands, already made barren by logging operations and fires, until a fresh forest can be nursed into existence. The lands, in a great many cases are no good for farming, and in fact, good for nothing, unless there is valuable mineral beneath them. If the lands were good for anything when they are stripped of their trees it would be all right to tax them, says Mr. Scott, but no one will pay taxes on them as long as they are worthless.

Mr Scott has made a start in the reforestization movement in this state, and he hopes that it will bear fruit, that others will take a hand, and that the state will pass laws to encourage the good work. What he is doing is a mere drop in the bucket, he declares, and he himself, never expects to benefit by it, but he hopes that posterity will, if others put their shoulders to the wheel with him.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: MARCH 14. Acts 9:31-43: Aeneas and Dorcas.

By J. S. Kirtley, D. D.

THE CONNECTION.

It is at last a time of peace, partly because of the conversion of Saul, of which we shall study later, and chiefly because the Jewish officials have something else to think of now. The Roman emperor, Caligula, has made an attempt to set up his statue in their temple and get himself worshiped there. That has aroused the Jews against him and they have no time to think of the Christians. Meantime, the Gospel is spreading out from Jerusalem.

THE LESSON.

I.

Aeneas Cured. 31-35.

"Then had the churches rest throughout all Judaea and Galilee and Samaria, and were edified; and walking in the fear of the Lord, and in the comfort of the Holy Ghost, were multiplied.

"And it came to pass, as Peter passed throughout all quarters, he came down also to the saints which dwelt at Lydda.

"And here he found a certain man named Aeneas, which had kept his bed eight years, and was sick of the palsy.

"And Peter said unto him, Aeneas, Jesus Christ maketh thee whole: arise, and make thy bed. And he arose immediately.

"And all that dwelt at Lydda and Sharon saw him, and turned to the Lord.

1. Peter's new work.

Peter is still the prominent figure in the church, but a greater one is coming in the person of Saul. Peter and the apostles had not been driven out of Jerusalem by the persecution. They were still observers of the law, and the Grecian born converted Jews had suffered most from the blow. The work done by the scattered Christians had gradually drawn them out, too. During the lull in the storm the apostles look after the young converts and the newly planted congregations all over the three divisions of Palestine. Peter makes a tour of visitation to comfort and teach them. He must have visited many places, but only three are mentioned, and the work he does in one leads to his work in another—Lydda, Joppa, Caesarea. When he gets back he will report work done that he never dreamed he could do; work that will almost take the breath of the saints at Jerusalem. He will have raised one from the dead—the first instance since Christ left, and more marvelous still, he will have unlocked the door to let in the Gentiles as such without requiring that they first become Jews. If Peter had suspected that he would have been guilty of such an un-Jewish-like conduct before returning he would probably have sent some one else. We see now why these two incidents are given, to the exclusion of many of his interesting experiences in other places. If you will look at the most modern map of Palestine you will see that this town of Lydda is only about eleven miles from Joppa, and that near its site now is a station on the Joppa and Jerusalem railroad. In Lydda there were disciples, probably won by Philip as he journeyed Northward after the conversion of the Ethiopian. They were called "saints" because they were "set apart" to discipleship and service—one of the four names by which Christ's followers were called before they came to be called Christians, disciples, believers, saints, brethren. The importance of this visit is indicated by the phrase "It came to pass," and its importance consisted chiefly in what it led to—the visit to Joppa and thence to Caesarea.

2. The cure itself

The cure of Aenenas, a palsied man, who had been helpless on his bed for eight years, was a wave started that never ceased spreading. Aeneas is a Greek name, and he was probably a foreign-born Jew or probably a proselyte to the Jewish faith, whom some refugee Christian had taught of Jesus. Peter seems not to have stopped long to learn how much he wanted to be healed, though he knew the man's state of mind. Peter was so conscious of Christ's presence and power and of his purpose to heal this man, that his words break in with a rather abrupt statement that Jesus was then making him whole. Christ is the real worker in it all. Christ is still with us. The immediate cure had an electric effect. The sight of the man making his own bed for himself, whereas someone else had been doing it for him, was startling and Peter showed wisdom in commanding him to do it. Upon Peter himself the effect must have been joy-out, thrilling him with the thought of the promised presence of Christ. No wonder he acted very much as Jesus did when he healed, for under the influence of Jesus and doing His work he would naturally adopt the manner of Jesus. In short, Christ, working through Peter, acted himself. Upon the people of that whole fertile vale of Sharon, stretching up the shores to Caesarea, the effect was striking and radical. They saw the man and accepted the miracle as a real "sign" and sought that which it signified the helping power of Christ. They turned in such large numbers to the Lord Christ, that by a liberty of speech the whole population could be said to have been converted. Aeneas was ever after a sign post pointing to Jesus.

II.

Dorcas Raised From the Dead, 36-43.

"Now there was at Joppa a certain disciple named Tabitha, which by interpretation is called Dorcas; this woman was full of good works and almsdeeds which she did.

And it came to pass in those days, that she was sick, and died; whom when they had washed, they laid her in an upper chamber.

And forasmuch as Lydda was nigh to Joppa, and the disciples had heard that Peter was there, they sent unto him two men, desiring him that he would not delay to come to them.

Then Peter arose and went with them. When he was come, they brought him into the upper chamber; and all the widows stood by him weeping, and shewing the coats and garments which Dorcas made, while she was with them.

But Peter put them all forth, and kneeled down and prayed; and turning him to the body said, Tabitha, arise. And she opened her eyes; and when she saw Peter, she sat up.

And he gave her his hand, and lifted her up, and when he had called the saints and widows, presented her alive.

And it was known throughout all Joppa; and many believed in the Lord.

And it came to pass that he tarried many days in Joppa with one Simon, a tanner."

1. Peter's Growing Work.

The work grows and he must go on to Joppa, a larger place to do a still mightier "sign." It is down on the seashore eleven miles further on. They send for him to comfort them in their loss of a good woman in their city. Her name in Aramaic was Tabitha, and in Greek Dorcas, and both meant "Gazelle," for a very graceful and beautiful animal. When her parents named her they may have meant to match the name to the face of the babe. Certainly the name suited her character, for she had put in her time making clothes for the needy and doing all kinds of works. When she died they performed the customary ablution and then laid her in a suitable room. She seems to have been without kindred of the flesh, for others performed the last ministries. The deeds which she outwardly did were but the expressions of the ideals of love and benevolence which filled her soul.

Why pause for the body to lie a while in the upper chamber when their custom was to bury the dead very quickly? Well, Peter is only eleven miles of at Lydda; they have heard of his wonderful doings and they must have a visit of consolation from him before they put her in the grave. They want him to tell them all he knows about the future life and the resurrection; and who knows but Peter may be able to—but no, hardly such happiness as that. The brethren go after Peter. Their request is urgent; if he come not at once they must bury her without seeing him. While they make ready for burial they make ready for whatever divine help might be given. They felt justified in urging him to come on at once because of the worth of the woman.

2. Invading the domain of death.

It required no persuasion to bring Peter, because it was probably in the line of his journey; it was certainly in the line of his sympathy, and it was in the direction of the divine prompting. Eleven miles are a short walk under such circumstances. What a natural thing it was that the poor widows whom Dorcas had aided should take him into that room of death; should weep noisily as was the Eastern habit, and should exhibit the garments she had made, some of which they were probably wearing at the time.

It is not unnatural that in this case Peter should do as Jesus had done once in raising Jarius' daughter. He probably may not know till he prays whether it is Jesus' will to raise her. He must pray as he never did before, and therefore must put them all out that he may concentrate his inquiring thought upon Jesus to know His will. He prayed till perfect assurance came. In this case he does not do as he did in the case of Aeneas. This was the first instance of raising one from the dead since Christ left. Christ must do it. Christ must give him to know that he will do it.

After praying he can speak with perfect confidence, as he bids her arise from her sleep of death. He imitates the method of Christ, in going alone, bidding her arise and giving her his hand to lift her up, though in praying he shows that he is dependent on Christ. The restoring her to life was Christ's act, not hers or Peter's; sitting up was her act, and Peter could assist her in that, as he had seen Jesus assist his wife's mother, and he had seen the friends of Lazarus "loose him and let him go," after Christ had brought him out of the grave.

3. Startling results.

We are left to imagine her surprise and the joy of her friends, but we are not left in any doubt about the effect of this miracle on the people. "Many believed" because they knew this was a genuine miracle. They had seen her dead before Peter reached town; they now see her living. The evidence is complete, they must believe or they are insane. Peter must stay "many days" because there are many people there, and they are in a state of excitement which will prove a preparation for receiving Christ, if they are taught aright, but will react into superstition or incredulity, if they are neglected.

But that Peter should stop with a tanner is a little surprising, for their business was half unclean because of the blood and hides of the dead animals. It was out by the seashore, because the people would never let them come into the city. The religious prejudice of the Jews was against the tanner, Peter is growing in grace when he can so far overcome his own stubborn prejudices and so far defy those of his nation as to lodge with a tanner. Surely Peter is being trained. We may hear of his taking the gospel to an outright Gentile before long. It is a good place to find him if the Lord wants him to do any work for the Gentiles. "You may be Christians without first becoming Jews." We will wait and see.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY

The "greater works" which the apostles had been promised had not been given earlier because they had not earlier set about carrying out the Lord's command to preach everywhere. They were impossible while the gospel was confined to Jerusalem. The paragraph here has a significant beginning, easily overlooked—"And it came to pass as Peter passed through all quarters." These great works were the outcome of the ministry at large. And they are recorded to show that the gospel had not lost any of its power in going abroad. It had increased that power. Indeed the record shows a deeper, sweeter feature. The faith of the saints had increased, for it is they who on Dorcas' death send for Peter to do the unheard of thing of restoring her to life.—Stifler.

A wonder, and yet not a wonder. A wonder when we look at Peter, the human instrument; but no wonder at all when we think of Jesus Christ, the divine agent. It is divine power that works in daily order, and divine choice can alter that order in an individual instance. Hence, let the deity of Jesus Christ be granted and the whole matter is explained.—W. M. Taylor.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS

1. What are the chief purposes of miracles?
2. Why do we not now have them?
3. By the medical science and art and by hospitals, are we fully carrying out Christ's command to "heal the sick?"
4. Have we prejudices corresponding to that of the Jews against tanners?
5. Have we availed ourselves of all the possibilities of prayer?

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

DREW THE COLOR LINE

The Hotel Keepers Threw Champion Jack Johnson Down Five Times.

Big Black Willing to Meet Jeffries on Three Weeks' Notice.

Vancouver, B. C., March 11.—Vancouver hotel proprietors drew the color line very strictly Tuesday night when Jack Johnson, the black heavyweight champion attempted to secure accommodations. Coming up from the steamer, the colored man with his white wife and friends went to the St. Francisco hotel.

Johnson was politely told that the hotel was filled to overflowing. The clerk was very sorry, adding: "Really Mr. Johnson, it could not be helped." They did not have any room and that was all there was to it. The fighter took the turn-down with good grace the first time, but when it was repeated in five other hotels and especially $2-a-day houses, he was abusive. Mr. Johnson said very little, but was plainly very much disgusted at the turn of affairs. Late in the evening, they obtained accommodations at the Dominion, a down-town hotel.

Johnson spent part of the night at the home of George Parls, a boxing instructor. This morning Johnson could not be found anywhere.

Sporting men here are inclined to comment on Johnson's lack of definiteness in making possible arrangements for a fight with Jeffries. He invariably replied:

"Oh, yes; I will take on anybody."

But when it came to pinning down the black man to details that brought up in mind a vision of himself in the circle with the big boilermaker, Johnson sidestepped to some more or less irrelevant story as to his treatment in Australia. Time and time again he refused to talk about Jeffries.

"I will fight Jim Jeffries any time on three weeks notice."

"You will fight this year?"

"I will fight this year or any other year."

This statement was made yesterday by Jack Johnson in reply to queries.

LEAGUE TO HAVE PROTECTION

President Elliott Asks Admission to the National Organization.

La Crosse, Wis., March 11.—President John Elliott yesterday applied to Secretary Farrell for admission to the Minnesota-Wisconsin league into the national organization, the plan to invade St. Paul and Minneapolis having been finally dropped. La Crosse yesterday signed Benjamin Barber, Auburn, N. Y., a first baseman, formerly with the Empire State league, and last year with the Utica team of the New York State league. He is a cousin of Matthewson and of First Baseman Storke of the Philadelphia Nationals. Joe Killian, Sterling, Ill., for four years catcher for La Crosse in the Wisconsin Illinois league, yesterday signed to manage Winona, of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league.

DULUTH SKATER AT CLEVELAND

Charles Rankin Enters Skating Races in Ohio City.

Charles Rankin, the Duluth speed skater is in Cleveland where he will enter the skating races being held there this week. Mrs. Rankin is with her husband and she will meet Miss R. Leonard, champion of Ohio in a speed contest on the ice. Mrs. Rankin was before her marriage a Calumet girl, and is said to be very speedy on the ice.

The skating abilities of Rankin are well known here. He has been seen in many races on local ice, and he has always put up a game fight, win or lose. It is in the shorter races that he excels, and it is likely that he will be near the leaders in the finish of the half and mile events. Rankin entered in the races recently held in Minneapolis and made a good showing. His friends here hope he will repeat at Cleveland.

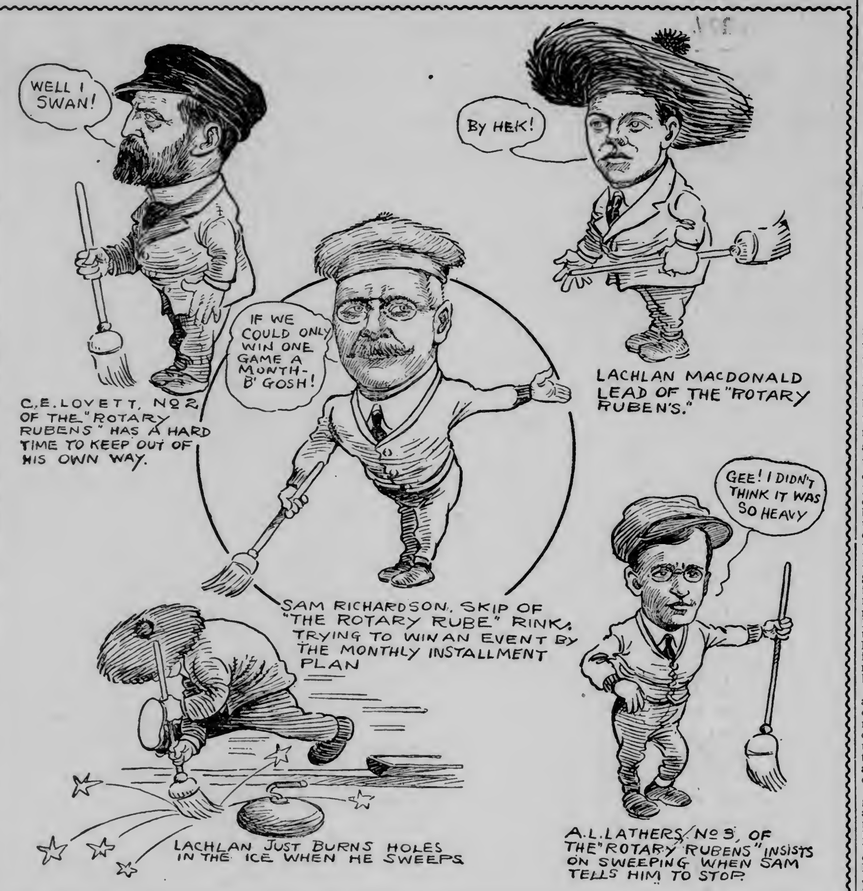

HOCKEY GAME.

Bryants and Northerns Will Meet at Hockey Friday.

The ryants and Northern Juniors will meet at the Central ice rink Friday night. The game they will play at that time has been often postponed on account of the weather. It will probably be the last game of the season and will decide the winner of the amateur hockey league. The three game idea has been given up on account of the warm weather of late, and the boys now think if they get weather for one contest they will be doing very well.

CENTRALS TAKE TWO OUT OF THREE

The General Electrics Lose Their Grip on Winning Streak.

The Central bowling team met and defeated the General Electrics on the Central alleys last night, two out of three. This General Electric team has been winning many games of late, and making its presence felt in the league. The team was a man shy last night, however, and had to use a substitute. This weakened them considerably.

A. McDonald made the high average 192 and C. Hale captured the high score by rolling 207.

NOTICE RULE IS SUSPENDED

Rinks Will Play on Forfeit During Remainder of Season.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Duluth Curling club held yesterday, the rule empowering the games committee to give deliquent rinks three days' notice to play off their game or forfeit, was suspended for the rest of the season. The games committee has been instructed to notify the rinks and to post the games to be played. If the games are not played according to the schedule they will be forfeited.

Four games were played last night in the Bagley event, Dunlop's rink defeated Smith by a score of 11 to 9. Dinham defeated Richardson, 16 to 9, in the Manley-McLennan and Bagley events. In The Herald event, Hall defeated Feetham, 13 to 6, and in the Manley, R. D. Bradley won from R. J. McLeod, 12 to 6. In the final game in the C class rinks in the Manley Dinham defeated Deetz by a score of 8 to 5.

YOUNG PIERCE KNOCKED OUT

Colored Boy Didn't Have a Look-In With Feather-Weight Champion.

Philadelphia, March 11.—Abe Attell last night knocked out Young Pierce, colored of this city in the sixth round of what was scheduled as a 15-round bout, before the Olympic Athletic association at Fassington.

Attell was the colored boy's master throughout, the latter at no time being able to land a favorable blow on the featherweight champion. The best Pierce could do was to jab light lefts to the face and these blows had no apparent effect on Attell.

FRENCH TEAM IS STILL IN LEAD

Strain Is Beginning to Tell on Contestants in Long Race.

New York, March 11.—A score of pedestrians, half of whom were Americans and the other half foreigners, composed the ten teams that were still in the running today, the fourth day of the international go-as-you-please race at Madison Square Garden. Only four of the original teams remained intact, the others being reconstructed.

Cibot and Orphee of France are the leading pair. Early today David Hartley of Kansas City, who was one of the original Canadian team and had been shifted three times through reconstruction, dropped out of the race, and Julius Edelson was substituted as Pallanti's partner. A few minutes later Quackenbush and Semeran retired.

The score at 8 a. m. was: Cibot and Orphee, 453 miles 6 laps; Davis and Meckus, 437 miles 1 lap; Dineen and Prouty, 416 miles 2 laps; Loeslein and Klubertanz, 411 miles 1 lap; Feegan and Curtis, 408 miles 8 laps; Corey and Hegelman, 397 miles 7 laps; Shelton and Frazer, 382 miles 2 laps; Guimard and Revere, 364 miles 4 laps; Navez and Kellar, 344 miles 4 laps; Edelson and Pallanti, 328 miles 6 laps.

FOUGHT WITH ONE ARM BROKEN

New York Fighter Shows a Remarkable Amonnt of Pluck.

New York, March 11.—The bout between Jack Dorman and Johnny Sawyer at the Sharkey Athletic club here last night was cut short at the end of the sixth round by the discovery that Dorman had broken his right arm. The plucky fighter insisted on going the limit of ten rounds, but was prevented from doing so by his seconds, on the advice of physicians called to examine the injury. As it was, the fifth and sixth rounds were fought by Dorman with his right arm hanging limply by his side useless. The crowd gave the plucky fighter a tremendous ovation as he was pulled struggling from the ring.

SKATING RACE.

Professionals Will Speed for Prize of $1,000 in Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 11.—The professional ice skating championship races will begin here today, with, perhaps, the greatest field of skaters ever seen in the country. Five fast men in the country have entered the events, and a purse of $1,000 will go to the winner.

The men entered are Norval Baptie, present champion of the world; John Nilssen, ex-champion of the world; Morris Wood, ex-amateur champion of the world; Peter Sinnirud, champion of Norway and Sweden; G. Belleville, champion of Canada, and Charles Rankin. The races will be the 220-yard, quarter-mile, half-mile, one-mile, two-mile and three-mile. Miss R. Leonard, champion of Ohio, and Mrs. Charles Rankin will meet in a series of races for the women's championship.

Will Try Hot Springs.

Pittsburg, March 11.—Finding the training grounds at West Baden, Ind., flooded and with little chance of practice for at least two weeks, the Pittsburg baseball team of the National league has been compelled to change quarters. Orders were sent from here yesterday to the team to depart from West Baden for Hot Springs, Ark., tomorrow.

Invitation for Jeffries.

New York, March 11.—James J. Jeffries yesterday received an invitation from Jack Johnson to meet him in the office of Johnson's lawyer in this city to arrange for a fight. The invitation was handed to Jeffries by an attorney for Johnson as Jeffries appeared in a magistrate's court to answer to a charge of violating the penal code by sparring three exhibition rounds with his partner in a theatrical performance. Jeffries would not comment on the note.

SAYS IT RESTS ON TARIFF ACTS

President of Lackawanna Steel Company on Trade Situation.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 11.—F. A. S. Clarke, president of the Lackawanna Steel company, who came up from New York to attend the annual meeting of that corporation, thinks steel prices are at rock bottom.

"The cut in prices has brought out some additional orders, but not any great amount," said Mr. Clarke, when asked about the steel situation.

"In my opinion the situation will remain about as it is for a few months, probably until it is known what will be done in the way of tariff legislation. As soon as the tariff is settled upon I look for better business."

A Religious Author's Statement.
Rev. Joseph H. Fesperhan, Salisbury, N. C., who is the author of several books, writes: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble, and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment and I passed same frequently day and night. I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the pain gradually abated and finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy." Sold by all druggists.

STANDINGS UNCHANGED

The Lipman Team of Chicago Still Has High Score.

Nineteen Cities Are Represented at the Big Bowling Congress.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 11.—"Cincinnati night was observed last night at the ninth international tournament of the American Bowling congress, which is 1 session at the Duquesne Gardens here. Several good scores were made by the team in the five-men events, but the record of 2,962 made by the Lipman team of Chicago still remains unapproached. The scores of the individual and two-men events of the day and early evening, however, are higher than those of any previous day of the tournament, the alley record in both events being broken once in the two-men and three times in the individual contests. The Frick-Novak team of Toledo, Ohio, rolled a score of 1,201, going into first place in the two-men events. The bowlers from Sioux City made a splendid showing in the individual games, F. Bruegmann and Henry Hoyer of that place rolling 691 and 683, respectively. F. Peterson of Chicago made 672, these three scores breaking the previous alley record. Five teams assumed places in the ten highest scores in the two-men events and six men entered the honor roll in the individual contests.

Nineteen cities in the United States and one in Canada were represented in events yesterday. Interest in the tournament is constantly increasing, the crowd last night being larger than usual. Delegations of enthusiasts made the evening interesting by marching around with various noise-producing devices.

The executive committee of the congress, at its meeting yesterday, examined the reports of the officers and renominated all the present officers. Fifteen new names were placed before the delegates as new members of the congress. They are: John Koerner, Milwaukee; Emil Schmidt, Cincinnati; Judge Howard, Chicago; George Metzger Pittsburg; J. G. Ennis, Wheeling, W. Va.; George Troth, Des Moines; S. L. Drake, St. Louis; O. V. Gilbert, Cleveland; F. B. Hull, Minneapolis; C. F. Botz, Columbus; D. P. Hueger, Louisville; C. W. Turner, St. Joseph, Mo.; George F. Francis, Omaha; W. J. Costa, Philadelphia; F. J Ryan, Detroit.

No action was taken by the committee on the subject of the next place of meeting of the congress, offers from cities still being accepted.

The prize committee of the American Bowling congress, made its report yesterday to the executive committee recommending a total of 562 prizes with a total amount of $21,331.

The committee recommends that seventy-six prizes be awarded in the five-men team events of the tournament, the first being $700 and others being graded down to $25, the total amount of the prizes being $7,422.

The winning team of the two-men events will receive $430, if the committees recommendations are accepted. There are 160 prizes provided for in these events, the total amount for the two-men teams is $6,582.

In the individual contests, the winner will receive $200. Three hundred and nine other awards very from $300 down to $5, the total amount provided for the event is $6,487.

An amount of $840 is set aside for winners of all events, sixteen prizes being awarded. The leading man will receive $180, the others getting sums ranging down to $25.

The total amount derived from entrance fees to the tournament amounted to $25,095.

The highest ten scores in all events are as follows:

Individuals—F. Bruegmann, Sioux City, 691; E. Peterson, Chicago, 672; Henry Hoyer, Sioux City, 663; Fred Ebert, Milwaukee, 660; J. Rosendahl, Chicago, 663; Matt Luecker, Chicago, 632; William Denny, Philadelphia, 628; F. O. Melay, Detroit, 627; Daniel Wards, Chicago, 627; George W. Keehl, Jamestown, N. Y., 620.

Two men teams—Kick-Novek, Toledo, 1,201; Selbach-Collins, Columbus, 1,192; McQueen-Seng, Braddock, Pa., 1,179; Brigham-Shea, Mansfield, Ohio, 1,178; Faetz-Horndorf, Chicago, 1,179; Edwards-Weisser, Buffalo, N. Y., 1,169; Oakes-French, Madison, Wis., 1,167; Sendhelm-Trope, Cleveland, Ohio, 1,166; Daly-McCormick, Toledo, Ohio, 1,161; F. Schindehuette-Franenberry, McKees Rocks, Pa., 1,159.

MOORHEAD WILL REFORM.

Clean-Up of Evil Resorts of City is Looked for.

Moorhead, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Evidences multiply that there is going to be a clean-up in this city, with something doing all along the line.

The first step was taken Monday evening when Chief Malvey and Officer Peter Pergstrom started out to round up women who have been maintaining apartments in different blocks in the city, and who are called street walkers. They rounded up four of these women and two alleged men who are known to be hangers-on at the rooms of the women. The offenders were taken before Judge Malloy and were given varying fines and ordered to leave the city.

MORE CUTS EXPECTED

Iron Age Says Wage Reductions Are Growing Numerous.

Irregularity in Prices Makes Situation Far From Clear.

New York, March 11.—The Iron Age toda ysays:

Announcements of wage reductions in the iron industry are becoming more numerous and others are expected. It is evident that this phase of the readjustment has only been entered upon and it may be expected that the process will be thorough, affecting every operation from the mining of the ore to the rolling of the finished product. The trade is facing the probability that the return of real prosperity may yet lead it over some rough ways. And in such a general re-adjustment as is now being discussed, it is hard to see how the railroad and other important interests can escape.

In the last week, announcement has been made of a ten per cent reduction in wages at a number of Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey blast furnaces. This was not a decision of the Eastern pig iron association, it should be said, as that organization does not demand that wage questions. No action has yet been taken on wages by the iron mining companies in eastern districts.

Iron Activity.

There is unmistakably more activity in the iron and steel markets now that the trade has been able to get its bearings in a measure. It may be said that more business has been done in some lines than might be judged from surface indication, yet there is such irregularity in prices as makes the situation in particular products far from clear.

Structural lines show increased activity, but fabricators would like better assurance as to new work that must take place of the long pending business just booked. March opened with about 80,000 tons of "live" projects, 60,000 tons having been marked off in February as indefinitely postponed while 50,000 tons was closed in that month. The contracts of the week include 11,000 tons for the Teeele smelter of the Anaconda company; 4,600 tons for the Vandome hotel, Chicago; and 6,000 tons for the Pennsylvania railroad elevated work at Philadelphia.

Prices Show Competition.

More than 30,000 tons of railroad bridge work is pending, including 8,000 tons for the New York Central terminal in New York. Prices show even sharper competition and the $1.30 basis on plan material has been cut.

The pig iron market is not being seriously tested, but is shown to be weak by transactions for early delivery. Accumulations of stock are heaviest in the central west, the new conditions in finished material militating against merchant makers of steel making iron. Shipments to foundries are being held up in many cases. Cincinnati reports the sale of 24,000 tons of southern iron to the leading ---ine interest.

After the buying spurt the copper market has settled into dullness. The stocks of marketable copper in the country was shown to have increased 29,000,000 pounds in February or to 173,284,000 pounds March 1.

LANDIS IS MUTE ON OIL DECISION

Judge Grosscup Says: Do Away With Classification.

Chicago, March 11.—It is the opinion of some of the federal attorneys that Judge Anderson's ruling will have the effect of invalidating class tariffs and will make it impossible to convict a shipper for violations of class tariff regulations.

Judge Peter S. Grosscup, who wrote the opinion of the United States circuit court of appeals upon which Judge Anderson based his action in taking the case from the jury, said:

"The thing for the government to do is to do away with classifications in the regulation of tariffs and make the railroads file tariffs that specify the rate on each commodity without regard to classification. This must mean a relief to the railroads, but I know nothing of that."

Judge Landis had nothing to say concerning the decision.

FORMER WIFE, SPIRITED AWAY, RETURNS; TESTIFIES AGAINST MAN CHARGED WITH MURDER

Chicago, Maerh 11.—A surprise was sprung on the defense in the trial of Truman C. Mann, charged with the murder last July of Mrs. Frances Gilmore Thompson, when th estate called to the stand Mrs. Maud Shanks, divorced wife of Mann., and whom it was alleged had been spirited away to New York by agents of the defense and held there in order to prevent her appearing as a witness against her husband. Her presence in court created a sensation, and was the occasion of considerable craning of necks by the spectators. As she stepped inside the enclosure on her way to the witness stand, the defendant rose to his feet, apparently greatly excited, and made a move as if to seize the woman by the arm. The woman, however, paid no attention to him.

On direct examination, the witness told of meeting her former husband at an amusement resort on the evening of June 27. "He told me," she said, "that he had a woman who was in love with him and who had lots of money and diamonds, and that he was going to get her diamonds if he had to choke her to do it."

The witness was shown the register of the Michigan avenue rooming house in which the murder was committed, and declared the name "J. H. Raymond and wife" to be the writing of her husband.

Mrs. Shanks, has made an affidavit to the state's attorney giving details of a plot by which she was abducted and taken to New York so that she could not testify in this trial. It is said she was taken to New York by an agent of the defense and given $100 before she left Chicago, and $25 a week while she remained in New York. Arrests probably will grow out of this revelation.

TO KEEP TAB ON THE DIRT

Health Department Will Have a Card Index System.

Experiment Will be Tried in Municipal Garbage Collection.

Health Commissioner Patton has devised a new system for keeping track of the cleanliness of the city. He will use a card index, one drawer of cards to every ward, and the cards will contain the names and addresses of the residents of the ward, together with information relative to the condition of their property, and other details.

There will also be diagrams of each ward, showing all the streets, alleys and avenues, and the lots facing them. The lots will be numbered on the diagram, as they are on the streets, and inspectors for the district represented will be supplied with the diagrams. It will be their duty to mark each lot with a sign, showing the nature of garbage there to be removed. There will be one sign for ashes, one for ordinary refuse, and so on.

With the card index and these diagrams, men in the health commissioner's office will be able to tell at a glance the exact condition as to cleanliness of any lot in the city limits. Where complaints are made that the premises are not clean enough, note will be made of the fact, together with dates, showing when complaint was received, when attended to, etc. In fact, all information that can be of any possible use to the inspectors will be placed on the cards and diagrams.

Health Commissioner Patton says that with the one garbage wagon he expects the city to purchase this spring, a regular district will be mapped out for the wagon to operate in. Municipal collection of garbage will be instituted in this district, and Dr. Patton hopes that he will be able to demonstrate the feasibility of the system with such success that the aldermen will see the desirability of enough city-owned wagons to establish municipal collection of garbage all over Duluth.

"I expect to be able to show that municipal collection is not only more efficient, but that it is much cheaper to the householder," said Dr. Patton this morning. "In the district to be established this spring, each housewife will be notified that the city purposes to dispose of all garbage about the premises at actual cost. She probably will be supplied with a ticket, costing $1, and for every load of garbage removed from the premises, a part of the ticket will be torn off, just like a milk ticket. The ticket may provide for ten, and it may provide for a dozen or fifteen cans of garbage, depending entirely upon the general cost of removal."

CALLS REVISION A HUGE FRAUD

Senator McLaurin Declares Republicans Are Not Sincere.

Jackson, Miss., March 11.—That the proposed revision of the tariff will result in the perpetration of a fraud on the nation is the opinion expressed by United States Senator A. J. McLaurin, who is back from the national capital to spend the congressional recess. Senator McLaurin said:

"It is not the Republican intention to reduce the tariff to any material extent. It is the purpose of the party in power to continue is at a protective tariff, and in many instances, even, make it prohibitive. They will make some immaterial reductions, to give it the appearance of a downward revision. But when it is summed up, the last state of the tariff will be as bad, if not worse, than the first."

TO DECLARE OFF DUTY ON WHEAT

Mexico Will Take Steps to Prevent Famine There.

El Paso, Tex., March 11.—Mexico will declare off all wheat duties by April in order to prevent a bread famine, according to customs officials here. For several years Mexico has had to suspend the duty on wheat each spring on account of shortage in that country. Wheat now costs $3.60 Mexican money per bushel in Mexico City, when imported from the United States and the home crop is exhausted.

American wheat at the border now costs $1.28 a bushels and with a duty of 20 cents gold a bushel and an additional freight rate to Mexico City, the price is exorbitant.

THE COMING OF THE C. N.

Col. Davidson Says It Is of Great Importance to Duluth.

"Duluth people do not yet realize the importance of the entrance of the Canadian Northern to Duluth," said Col. A. D. Davidson, who is in the city for a few days. "I believe that it is of as much importance as the coming of the steel plant, and in a few years this fact will be better realized. The men behind the road, McKenzie and Mann, are two of the greatest railroad builders of modern times, and through their boundless enterprise and perseverance are building up a great transcontinental line.

"The road is planning to build in to Seattle, and this will give Duluth another line to the Pacific coast."

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

THE LAST SKI TOURNAMENT

Hill Is in Great Shape and Riders in Fine Form.

All the old favorites will be in line for Sunday's big ski tournament to be pulled off under the auspices of the Duluth Ski club on the hill at Chester creek.

It will be the last tournament of the year and Duluth people will probably turn out en masse for a last look at the most thrilling of winter sports.

The recent warm weather has put the hill in first-class shape and the officials of the club say that if any records are ever to be broken on the new hill, they certainly will be Sunday.

Riders will be here from Superior and a number are coming from the range and Copper country. There is a good deal of rivalry between the several Duluth riders. As the winners of the different tournaments have been pretty well split up this year, each one of them will make an effort Sunday to demonstrate his superiority.

The events will be run off with no waits and a first-class entertainment is promised the lovers of this great sport.

BOWLERS VERY BUSY.

Big Pittsburg Congress Begins Early and Ends Late.

Pittsburg, March 11.—Today's contests of the American Bowling congress started at 7:30 a. m., and will continue until after midnight. There are scheduled six double, ten single and two five-men events. Bowlers from Washington, D. C., Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, New York and Wisconsin will take part.

At the call of President August Herrmann, all delegates and alternates to the congress will attend a general meeting late this afternoon.

Three individual matches were rolled first as follows:

Daisey, Cincinnati, 490; Isham, Cincinnati, 546; Townsend, Cincinnati, 511.

The high score in the first double event was:

Lewis-Slough, Canton, 1,152. High score, double event (second) Fields-Brosnan, Washington, 1,154.

INSURGENTS ARE BEATEN, HE SAYS

Watson Says They're Quitting Since Taft Entered Fight.

Washington, March 11.—Former Representative Watson of Indiana, who was Republican whip in the house, after a long conference today with President Taft estimated the strength of the Republican insurgents in the house at twenty-two.

"Since the president entered the fight," said Watson, "the insurgents have been dropping off one by one.

"We recognize that we have a hard fight to adopt the old rules and preserve the organization, but we believe that we have the matter in hand and that when Mr. Dalzell next Monday moves the adoption of the rules of the house of the last congress there will be votes enough to make his motion prevail."

TRENCH CAVE-IN KILLS TWO MEN

Third Is Rescued, But With Probably Fatal Injuries.

Hamilton, Ohio, March 11.—A sewer trench, eight feet deep, caved in this morning, burying three men. All available workmen were rushed to the scene and started digging out the men.

When the rescuers reached the bottom of the swere, they found the bodies of James I. Robinson, whose neck had been broken, and Alexander Howard, whose chest had been crushed. Thomas Revera was rescued alive, but is suffering from internal injuries and a broken leg and probably will die.

Read the Label.

Under the Pure Food Laws baking powder labels now show the ingredients of which the powder is made.

Those who appreciate the importance to health and good baking of using a purse cream of tartar powder will read the back of the label carefully and make sure that the ingredients mentioned include cream of tartar.

The food law does not force consumers; it merely helps them to protect themselves. All good housekeepers want cream of tartar baking powders, and will not use alum substitutes in the food, if they know it. As the ingredients are printed on the back of the label, all may know the facts.

Good baking powder is one of the most useful things in the kitchen; it is easily obtained at any store; the better it is, the more economical it is in cooking materials, and the more it conserves the health of the family.

AGED WOMAN'S WALKING RECORD.

London Standard: Miss Olivia Blamey Williams of St. Mabya, Cornwall, walked 2,358 miles last year, or an average of forty-six miles a week, and her record for the present year has already beaten that.

Last week she walked over fifty miles, visiting her customers in other parishes, where she helps with plain sewing. She is over 70 years of age.

FARO BANK IS BROKEN

Duluth Barber Makes Big Killing in an Idaho Town.

Lee Murphy, Formerly of the Spalding Shop, Wins $17,500.

Lee Murphy, a barber, who at one time worked in the Spalding barber shop, is reported to have broken a faro bank in Ferrell, Idaho, and to have left the town with $17,500 in real money.

According to a letter received from a man in Ferrell who signs himself Robert Stickney, the Duluth barber cleaned the town and three hours later boarded a train for a point in California.

Murphy, at one time worked in the Spalding shop, and left about a year ago for Idaho.

According to the letter, Murphy walked into the place, put a dollar on the ace and won. He then coppered the 10 and won. It seemed that the Duluth man could not lose and the owner finally surrendered the bank to him, announcing that it was broken.

An Ideal Cough Medicine.

"An an ideal cough medicine I regard Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in a class by itself," says Dr. R. A. Wiltshire of Gwynneville, Ind. "I take great pleasure in testifying to the results of Chamberlain's Cough Medicine. In fact, I know of no other preparation that meets so fully the expectations of the most exacting in cases of croup and coughs of children. As it contains no opium, chloroform or morphine it certainly makes a most safe, pleasant and efficacious remedy for the ills it is intended." For sale by all druggists.

TRY TO WORK SAME OLD GAME

Spaniard Writes Michael Amaturio About Trunk Full of Gold.

Michael Amaturio of 1102 West Third street this morning received a letter from Madrid, Spain, from a man who claims to be in jail, offering him $600,000 if he will claim a trunk now in the hands of railroad officials in France.

The game is an old one, and attempts to work it have been made in this part of the country before, but never successfully, so far as can be learned. Before the man selected is given the information which will supposedly get the trunk, he has to put up $50 cash, or sometimes more, and, of course, nothing more is ever heard from the men on the other side of the Atlantic.

The writer of Amaturio's letter says the trunk contains $1,200,000, and that Amaturio can have half if he will put himself to the trouble of getting it out of the baggage room. No preliminary sum is named, but Amaturio is told that if he will telegraph to Madrid, showing his good faith, a full letter of instructions will be forthcoming.

HIRED TO STAY AWAY

Former Wife of Defendant Tells Who Gave Money.

Luman Mann's Murder Charge Defense Will be Alibi.

Chicago, March 11.—Mrs. Maude Shanks gave sensational testimony in the trial of Luman Mann for the alleged murder of Mrs. Francis Gilmor Thompson today. Mrs. Shanks formerly was the wife of the defendant. She told of going to New York to avoid being a witness in the trial, and of changing her place of residence there when she learned that a detective was coming to compel her to appear as a witness here. While in New York she said she worked as a nurse for an organization known as the Home bureau. Money to visit New York, she said, was given her by Mrs. Myrtle Smith and Bert Cowdry, a former Chicago detective.

"Mrs. Smith gave me $75 and Cowdry gave me $25," said Mrs. Shanks.

The disappearance of the witness was connected with the defense by testimony elicited by Assistant States Attorney Day.

"Where did you get the money?" asked the prosecutor.

At this point Attorney Erbstein, counsel for Mann, reminded the witness of her constitutional right to refuse to answer any question which might incriminate her. Mrs. Shanks hesitated a moment, and then answered:

"I got it from Mr. Cowdry."

"Where did you first meet Mr. Cowdry?"

"In Mr. Erbstein's office in the First National bank building."

Mrs. Smith had admitted receiving a letter from Mrs. Shanks asking for more money.

"And didn't you answer her saying that you had seen Mr. Erbstein and that he said it was like pulling teeth to get money out of the Mann family?"

"I do not remember just what I said in the letter."

Erbstein then asked that all the testimony of the two women relating to the New York trip be expunged from the record and the court sustained the motion on the ground that the testimony was in answer to statements of counsel rather than to sworn testimony.

The prosecutor then announced that the state had closed. Mann's defense will be an alibi.

HE WOULDN'T INTRUDE.

Lady Duff-Gordon, says the New York Press, thus told this story of an ignorant Yorkshireman who came to London to see the British museum:

"Unfortunately the Yorkshireman chose a close day for his visit, and the policeman at the gate, when he presented himself there, waved him away.

"'But I must come in,' said the Yorkshireman. 'I've a holiday on purpose.'

"'No matter,' said the guardian. 'This is a close day, and the museum is shut.'

"'What! Ain't this public property?'

"'Yes,' admitted the policeman, 'but,' he cried excitedly, 'one of the mummies died on Tuesday and do you begrudge us one day to bury him in?'

"'Oh, excuse me,' said the Yorkshireman, in a hushed voice. 'In that case I won't intrude.'"

AUTO RUN IS FATAL

Horse Takes Fright and Its Driver Is Killed.

Paul Lacroix Is Taken From Endurance Contest by Police.

New York, March 11.—On an endurance run to Boston, twenty automobiles started from Columbus Circle in this city today, with the Chester I. Campbell trophy as a prize for the winner of the contest. The cars were sent away at minute intervals, headed for New Haven, the first checking station of the run. From New Haven the route lay through Hartford and Worcester. The first car was due to arrive in Boston at 6:30 p. m. The finish of the run will be in front of Mechanics' hall, where the Boston automobile show is in progress.

Jumps to His Death.

Bridgeport, Conn., March 11.—As the automobiles in the endurance run from New York to Boston were passing through Fairfield today, a horse attached to a closed carriage, in which Aaron W. Wallace was riding, took fright and ran away.

Mr. Wallace opened the door of the carriage, jumped out and was killed.

Word was sent to the New Haven police to detain the driver of the car that caused the runaway, who is thought to be Paul Lacroix.

Mr. Wallace was proprietor of the A. W. Wallace & Co. bakery.

Taken Into Custody.

New Haven, Conn., March 11.—Upon arriving at the checking station for the machines in the automobile run, Paul Lacroix was taken by the police to headquarters, to wait a formal order for his retention.

HEDGE OF ROSES.

Gardener: It is not generally known what a delightful features a rose hedge may become, even in the villa garden, or such would more often be planted in lieu of the ubiquitous privet.

Where the area of the garden is limited, or where only a moderately high hedge is desired for circling the rose garden or bordering a tennis lawn a selection should be made from the China or monthly roses, the Japanese or rugosa and the Austrian briars. If the garden is very sheltered some of the stronger growing of the dwarf teas could be utilized and from the free flowering polyantha group delightful little hedges can be made that would grow to a height of three or four feet.

COLORING AN ABYSSINIAN BRIDE.

London Globe: Western brides have an easier time than their Ayssian sisters. On the occasion of her marriage an Ayssinian bride has to change her skin.

From ebony she has to become the color of cafe au lait. To accomplish this the expectant bride is shut up in a room for three months. She is covered with a woolen stuff, with the exception of her head; then they burn certain green and fragrant branches. The fumes which it produces destroy the original skin and in its place comes the new skin, soft and clear as a baby's. The elders of the family feed the young woman with nutritive forcemeat balls

ARCHAIC JEWELS FOR HORSE TRAPINGS.

London Evening Standard: A very valuable archaeological discovery has been made by a native sportsman in the district of Kazalinsk, in Central Asia.

He found a snake in gold two feet long and one inch in circumference, presumably a torque; an arm band of gold over one inch wide and set with turquoise, twenty-five gold drops, apparently part of a woman's headdress, and a little rod of gold seven inches long.

Most of the things were rescued from the finder, and handed to the authorities, but all butt hree of the gold drops had been utilized to adorn his horse trappings.

If you will mark everything in this issue of the paper which is of real and direct interest to you, the chances are that the want ad columns will be more penciled than any others.

Men's Diseases

We strive to cure the thousands of young and middle-aged men who are tortured by the woes of nervous debility. I have evolved a special treatment for Nervous Debility and special weakness that is uniformly successful in cases where success was before and by other doctors deemed impossible. It does not stimulate temporarily, but restores permanently. It allays irritation of the delicate tissues surrounding the lax and unduly expanded glands, contracting them to their normal condition, thereby relieving all distressing symptoms. It tones up and strenghtens the blood vessels that carry nourishment, thereby restoring health and strength. Meanwhile the patient realizes a great blight has been lifted from his life.

We make no misleading statements or deceptive propositions to the afflicted, neither do we promise to cure them in a few days in order to secure their patronage, but WE GUARANTEE A COMPLETE, SAFE AND LASTING CURE in the quickest possible time, without leaving injurious after-effects in the system, and at the lowest cost possible for Honest, Skillful and Successful Service. We cure

Varicocele, Nervous Debility, Blood Poison, Rectal and Kidney Diseases

And all diseases and weaknesses due to habits, dissipation or the result of specific diseases, sciatica, neuralgia, bowel and stomach troubles, appendicitis, dyspepsia, syphilis, gonorrhoea, gleet, stricture, varicocele, hydrocele, lost manhood, emissions, piles, bladder trouble, rectal trouble, kidney, gall stones, catarrh of nose and throat, and many other diseases. MINING SUIT BEING HEARD

George Gamble Wants $20,000 From A. B. Coates of Virginia.

Claims He Was Promised That Sum of For Securing Lease.

Claiming that A. B. Coates promised to pay Capt. Harry Roberts $20,000 for services in securing a lease for Mr. Coates on a mineral property near Chisholm from the White Iron Lake Iron company, and had failed to do so when the lease was secured, George Gamble is suing Mr. Coates in district court to recover the money, the claim having been assigned to him by Mr. Roberts. The trial was begun before Judge Ensign in district court this morning.

The history of the transaction, as alleged by Mr. Gamble, is that Mr. Gamble was asked by the officers of the White Iron Lake Iron company to secure a sub-lease for the property at 60 cents a ton royalty. Mr. Gamble conferred with Mr. Chesebrough and Mr. Roberts was settled upon to find the sub-lessee.

It is claimed that on April 8 last year, Mr. Roberts was about to start for Cleveland to place the lease, when he met Mr. Coates. It is claimed Mr. Coates told him to go no farther, as he would take the lease, providing the property was all right. It was agreed, the plaintiff says, that on taking the lease, Mr. Coates was to pay the White Iron Lake Iron company $20,000 advance royalties and to pay Mr. Roberts $20,000 for the services of himself, Mr. Chesebrough and Mr. Gamble in securing the lease.

The lease was made Sept. 19 of last year, but the money has not been forthcoming. Mr. Coates alleges that he never promised to pay Mr. Roberts anything for his services and he owes neither him nor Mr. Gamble anything. H. B. Fryberger and W. B. Bonham appear for Mr. Gamble and A. H. Crassweller of Crassweller & Crassweller, and Oscar Mitchell of Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell, for Mr. Coates.

IS ATTACKED BY MADDENED HORSE

James Brodsky of Duluth Seriously Injured in St. Paul.

James Brodsky, 30 years old, an employe of Barrett & Zimmerman of Duluth, was attacked by a maddened horse at St. Paul yesterday, and is now lying in a hospital at St. Paul, in a critical condition.

While feeding a spirited horse at the stockyards, Brodsky slipped and fell in the stall with the animal. Before he could regain his footing the animal became excited and trampled Brodsky, inflicting bruises and internal injuries which may prove fatal.

The man was taken into the city hospital, and his relatives in Duluth were notified. Hopes are entertained for his recovery, but the doctors say he may die of his injuries.

ESTATE GOES TO MOTHER

Sister of James Sharpe Loses Odd Legal Battle Over Will.

Case Rested on Difference Between Canadian and Minnesota Laws.

The decree of Judge J. B. Middlecoff of the probate court, declaring Mrs. Lydia Sharpe, mother of James Sharpe, the sole heir at law to his estate, is upheld by a decree handed down this morning by Judge Cant in district court. The residue of the estate, which Judge Middlecoff declared should go to Mrs. Sharpe, amounts to $4,046.37.

The appeal from the decree of the probate court was taken by Mrs. Emma McDowall, sister of James Sharpe. She claimed that one-fourth of the residue of the estate should go to her as a sister, basing her claim on the contention that James Sharpe was a citizen and resident of Canada, despite the fact that he had lived in the United States for about ten years.

James Sharpe was a customs officer of the Canadian government in Duluth and he also conducted a retail cigar store on Superior street for several years. He died April 16, 1907, leaving a mother, Mrs. Lydia Sharpe of Owen Sound, Ont., a sister, Mrs. Emma McDowall, a brother, George Edward Sharpe, and three minor children of a deceased sister.

T. W. Hugo was administrator of the estate and his final report filed last spring showed a residue of $4,046.37. At the final hearing, Judge Middlecoff decided that it should go to the mother and now the district court upholds the decision.

The question raised was whether James Sharpe was a resident of Minnesota or of Canada. He had never taken out citizenship papers and had held office under the Canadian government during his residence in Duluth, so Mrs. McDowall claimed that he had never really given up his Canadian residence, but his residence in the United States was merely temporary. The attorney for Mrs. Sharpe contended that Mr. Sharpe's duties under the Canadian government took only a portion of his time during the year and the fact that he went into business here, made infrequent visits to his old home at Owen Sound, and those for short periods, and lived in Duluth all of the time otherwise, were sufficient evidences of his having established a residence here.

Had his legal residence been declared to have been in Canada, Mrs. McDowall would have been entitled to one-fourth of the estate, as under the Canadian laws, all heirs are heirs at law. Under the Minnesota laws, in such a case, the mother is the sole heir, the brothers and sisters not coming in for a share of the estate of a man, who dies intestate.

The case has been in the courts since Judge Middlecoff's final decree was entered May 9 of last year. Depositions were taken in Canada and Mrs. McDowall put up a hard contest to establish her point. A. N. McGindley appeared for Mrs. Sharpe and Reynolds & McClearn for Mrs. McDowall.

LAKESIDE LOT IN LITIGATION

City Claims the Property Where James McDowell's House Stands.

The defendant's brief in the case of the City of Duluth against James McDowell, which was heard by Judge Cant at the January term of district court, was filed with the clerk of the district court this morning.

Mr. McDowell bought a house and lot from the Lakeside Land company some years ago. The city of Duluth recently bought the adjoining lot. It was afterwards found that Mr. McDowell's house encroached some twenty-nine feet on the city's lot. The city brought action against Mr. McDowell to compel him to move the house.

The defendant claims that when the Lakeside Land company described the land to him and represented that the house was on the lot described in his deed, it relinquished title to the land, especially when no move was made to reclaim it for many years. Under those circumstances, Mr. McDowell holding the title, the Lakeside Land company could not sell the land to the city of Duluth and the city of Duluth as purchaser would have no better title and no better right of action than the Lakeside Land company.

RANGE MEN ARE ARRESTED

One Grand Larceny Charge---One First Degree Assault.

Charged with the embezzlement of $2,106.56 of his employers' money, Harry Cavallin, a former agent for the Fitger Brewing company, at Hibbing, was brought down from the range town today to answer to an indictment charging him with grand larceny.

The offense is alleged to have been committed Nov. 1, of last year. It is charged that as confidential agent of the brewing company he had in his possession the amount named, and he appropriated it to his own use. He will be arraigned on the indictment this afternoon.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Boy Wants $4,000 From Owner of the Machine.

Father Claims Chauffeur Was Driving in Reckless Manner.

Mary LaFlohic, also known as Mary Gain and Madame Gain, a former resort keeper in the "red light" district, and her chauffeur, Clarence Palmer, are defendants in a case brought on for trial before Judge Dibell in district court this morning.

Henry LaCrosse sues for $4,000 damages, claimed to have been sustained by his son, Clarence, who was struck by an automobile in charge of Palmer, near Seventeenth avenue west and Superior street, Dec 11, 1908.

Mr. LaCrosse claims that Palmer was driving Madame Gain's machine recklessly and carelessly, and when the boy, who is 10 years old started to cross the street, he was struck by the atomobile and injured. It is claimed he received severe cuts and bruises and his right leg was broken just below the hip. The boy was in the court on crutches this morning, and it is claimed that he will be unable to walk about for some months to come. It is also alleged that Palmer was operating the machine as a servant and agent of Madame Gain, and he had failed to take out a license for the machine from the city clerk.

Palmer's separate answer alleges that he was running his own machine at the time of the accident. He says he ran into the boy because the boy was careless in attempting to cross the street in front of the moving auto, which, he asserts, he was operating carefully and legally. Madame Gain, in her answer, claims that she did not own a machine Dec. 11 of last year and, if Palmer was operating a machine, it was his own and was not her servant or agent, and if anybody was injured through his carelessness, she is not liable.

STOLE SHOES.

Geraghty Couldn't Sell Them Because They Weren't Mates.

The police say that Martin Geraghty, who was arraigned in municipal court this morning on a charge of drunkenness, stole some shoes and tried to sell the mlater on the Bowery. He was fined $50 and costs or 60 days in jail.

Geraghty would not admit where he got the shoes. He had two pairs, and when he came to dispose of them to a second-hand dealer on the Bowery, the latter discovered that the shoes were not mates. A spirited argument followed, and when a policeman came along and inquired the caus eof the along and inquired the cause of the and Geraghty was arrested.

JOHN B. SUTPHIN'S SHADOW, "BILL," DIES OF BROKEN HEART

"Bill," a fox terrier, died of a broken heart this morning at the home of his late master, John B. Sutphin, 318 Third avenue west.

Few of the great many Duluth people who knew Mr. Sutphin did not know his dog, which, during the last years of Mr. Sutphin's life, followed him constantly. When his master left the house in the morning, "Bill" was at his heels. And there he remained all day. Everyone petted him, but the little dog would let no amount of caresses turn the least bit of his affection from his master. Few human beings are capable of greater loyalty than this little brute held in his shaggy breast. It was so great that, since his master passed away on July 15 last, "Bill" has mourned and pined and refused to be comforted.

Those who have seen the dog since his master's death say that he has not once been the same, but has seemed ill and lacking in ambition.

If any dog ever died of a broken heart, "Bill" did.

Miners Prefer Not to Accept Operators' Hospitality.

Will Call Convention If Their Demands Are Refused.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 11.—In the conference today in President Baer's office between anthracite mine operators and representatives of the United Mine Workers of America, President Lewis of the miners in placing the demands before the operators, made a brief speech explaining his position. He said he hoped both sides would get together and come to an agreement amicably. He had only the best of feeling toward the operators, he said, and wanted them to know that the bituminous interests of the country are not back of the anthracite miners, but that he was acting solely in the interest of the anthracite men of Pennsylvania.

The operators made no reply, but at once suggested that the business in hand be proceeded with. The miners have fortified themselves with statistics and other information to support their claims. It is the general belief that the operators will refuse the demands; in fact, some of the mine workers said today that they expected them to be refused. In the event that the operators decline to make any concessions, and make a counter proposal, that the present agreement be continued, it is probable a convention of miners will be called.

The Reading company had arranged a luncheon for the mine workers, who numbered about thirty-five, but most of them refused to accept the hospitality. One of them said:

"I don't want their grub, I can buy my own."

Tomorrow night the Market Basket will be full of valuable suggestions for the Sunday dinner and for stocking the pantry next week.

Woman Was Drunk.
A telephone message came into police headquarters yesterday afternoon to the effect that a woman was dying in the alley back of the old Masonic Temple. An ambulance was called, and when it arrived at the scene it was found the woman was only drunk. The ambulance took her to her home on East Second street.

Blocking Traffic.
A complaint was made to the board of public works this morning that the Wisconsin Central railroad was obstructing traffic on Michigan street, at Eighth avenue west. The road has no permit to pile lumber or any material outside the fence. The police were notified, and the company was ordered to remove the piles of building material on the street.

Concealed Weapons.
Charles Krebs was arrested last night and booked up at the police station on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Krebs said he lent a revolver to a man, and that when he went after it, and got it, he put it in his pocket, and immediately afterwards a man who saw the transaction went out and complained to Officer Brouillette, causing Krebs arrest. He will be given a hearing in police court late this afternoon.

SUPERIOR NEWS

CHOPPED UP BACK PORCHES

Joe La Lone Uses Private Property for Kindling Wood.

It seems that Joe La Lone did not buy any kindling wood this winter. What was the use as long as he had a big vacant three story building right handy to his shanty, from which he could chop an armful of wood anytime that he needed it?

The building from which La Lone got his wood supply is situated at 1118 Third street, Superior and C. Z. Highfield is the agent for it. La Lone lived in a hut at the rear of the building. Mr. Highfield planned on selling the building, so went to inspect it. He discovered that La Lone had chopped up the greater part of the back porch and had started tearing up the floors inside, to supply his kitchen stove.

La Lone was arrested, arraigned this morning in the municipal court and was given sixty days in the county jail for appropriating other people's property. It is claimed that he had damaged the building to the extent of $600.

FIFTY BARRELS OF OIL BURN

Warehouse Makes Big Blaze on Superior Water Front.

A most spectacular fire took place in Superior last evening, when the oil house of the Northwestern Oil & Grease company, together with about $500 worth of stock, burned. The estimated damage done to the building and stock was $2,500.

Nobody seems to have a theory to advance concerning the origin of the fire, which is a mystery. The oil house is located near the Lehigh dock, and about two blocks from the company's main plant. The quick response of the fire department, and their effective work, checked the fire so that it did not spread, but was confined to the oil house. The alarm was turned in at 7:14 o'clock.

The building, which is leased by the oil company, is owned by New York parties. No insurance is carried on the building.

The stock of oil in the house was low, so only about fifty barrels of kerosene burned. But that was enough to send the flames mounting to the skies, and made the fire a difficult one for the two fire companies called out to fight.

STRUCK HIS COMPANION.

Pat Dillon Held Up Friend, Sentenced on Assault Charge.

Pat Dillon, when he could find only two bits in the pocket of his companion, Emil Negel, yesterday afternoon, on Third street and Ogden avenue, Superior, took a wallop at him, and laid him flat on the sidewalk.

This morning, when he was arraigned, he was sentenced to ninety days in the county jail for assault and battery. It was brought out in the trial that Dillon, knowing his companion had $3 with him, tried to get it from him. Negel naturally not wishing to part with his money, when forced to let himself be searched, held all his money, but a quarter in his hand, so Dillon only found the two bits in his pocket. This provoked Dillon, and he knocked Negel down.

ASKS FOR $56,000.

President McCaskill Visits Madison to Raise Money for Dormitories.

President McCaskill of the Superior State Normal school, returned this morning from Madison, where he waited on a committee from the legislature in an effort to get an appropriation of $56,000 for the building of dormitories in connection with the Superior school.

President McCaskell said this morning, when asked concerning the result of his trip, that he believed that the appropriation would be made a part of the bill for funds for the state normal schools, and that the bill would be favorably passed on.

In case the normal school does get the appropriation, work will be started on the dormitories this spring so that they will be finished by next fall and be ready to be occupied when school opens.

Superintendent Appointed.
The new Douglas county insane asylum will be in charge of W. J. Conness, who was elected superintendent, at a salary of $1,200 per year. His wife was appointed matron of the institution, on a salary of $300. The board of trustees was organized as follows: James Bardon, Oscar Ely and Judge Charles Smith.

Pedagogues Feed.
The Schoolmasters' club held a banquet last evening at the Superior Commercial club. There was a program of speeches, the main address of the evening being given by Supt. W. E. Maddock. Each guest found his place at the table by a card bearing a cartoon of himself.

CANNOT ADJUST RATES TO FORCE

Commerce Commission Decides Chamber of Commerce Case.

New York, March 11.—It is unlawful for railroads to so adjust their rate schedules as to force commodities into a particular city or port, according to a decision of the interstate commerce commission, announced today.

The case was that of the Chamber of Commerce of Milwaukee against the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.

The commission held that the joint through rate on corn, rye and oats for the west and northwest ought not to exceed such rate to Chicago.

WANTS $1,999 FOR HIS BIG TOE

Driver Sues Employer as the Result of a Runaway.

One big toe, $1,999.

Frank Pinor thinks the big toe of his left foot was worth $1,999 to him. His left foot was caught under a wagon wheel last year and the big toe was amputated. He filed suit against A. P. Lovejoy, doing business as the Duluth Lumber company, in district court this morning.

Pinor was a teamster in the employ of Mr. Lovejoy, and he claims that on Feb. 22, 1908, he was driving down Eighth avenue west with a heavy load of lumber. He says the wagon crowded the horses, and he had no way to hold them back, as he had no seat, no footrail and nothing to brace himself on. He says he reached back to hold a stake in the wagon and the stake broke. The horses ran away, he was thrown off, and his left foot went under one of the wheels of the wagon.

He claims the company was negligent in not providing him with a safe wagon. He says there was no seat, no footboard, no brake, no frame to hold the load steady, and not sufficient ropes or chains to tie it on tightly. He says he was in constant danger of being thrown off the load on account of the negligence of his employer in not providing a safe wagon.

He says the bones of his left foot were crushed and the foot is very much impaired in its usefulness. The big toe was amputated at the second joint, and that he regards as the most serious loss.

SWITCH THROWN OPEN; ONE DEATH

Louisiana Wreckers Derail Express Train—Fireman Hurt.

Monroe, La., March 11.—As a result of the work of train-wreckers, the southbound express on the Arkansas, Louisiana & Gulf railroad was derailed twenty miles north of this city shortly before midnight last night. Engineer C. W. McDonald was instantly killed and Fireman J. B. Gowan was seriously hurt. No passengers were among the injured.

An investigation showed that a switch had been thrown and spiked, while the signal light had been turned so as to show white.

The train was bound from Little Rock, Ark., to Monroe, and traveling at a rapid rate of speed.

THAT TRIP TO MEXICO

Duluth Party Returns From an Interesting Expedition.

"National Dish of Mexico Is Cuspidor," Says C. A. Marshall.

Mart Adson, general passenger agent of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, and C. A. Marshall, manager of the Lyceum theaaer, returned today from their trip to the City of Mexico.

W. F. Fitch, president and general manager of the South Shore, in whose private car the trip to Mexico was made, returned to Marquette by way of Chicago. J. F. McCarthy and his bride, whom the Duluth people ran across in Mexico, came as far as Chicago.

Naturally, the first thing you ask any one who has been in the land once controlled by the Dons, is whether he has witnessed a bull fight. The Duluth crowd witnessed the banner bull fight of the season. It was a bargain attraction. There were seven bulls, all imported from Spain, and they put up the greatest fight that the Mexicans have witnessed during the course of the present season.

No Chance For the Bull.

"There is really no chance for the bull in one of these fights," says Mr. Adson. "They have no chance to kill one of the fighters, unless a misstep or a blunder is made. It is a very one sided affair in this respect. The horses and the bulls get all the worst of the fight, it is very seldom that a man gets hurt.

"The day we say the fight there must have been fully 35,000 people at the show. It was a week ago last Sunday. It was the big show of the year. They open the door of the little pen where the bull has been confined, which is in one corner of the arena, and out dashes the bull. The first thing they do is to stick the rosette into him. That is really the colors of the breeders. It is something upon the same plan as racing colors in this country. These colors, in the form of a rosette, are attached to a small spear-like arrangement, which is stuck into the rear of the bull's left shoulder. Sometimes it sticks to the bull all through the contest. That sabbing maddens the bull, and he rushes into the center of the arena as if he was shot out of some huge projectile. Then the fight begins.

"They have the man with the capes, who worry the bull, and the bull rushes at these fellows, and they sidestep and get him infuriated and crazy to kill one of his tormentors. Then come the chaps on the horses. They have spears, about ten or twelve feet long, and they are supposed to keep the bull away from the horses with these spears. They are encased in suits of armor, so there is really very little chance that they will get injured. With the horse, it is very different, however. The horses are blindfolded, and haven't the slightest chance in the world to escape being killed. It is simply a case of taking a horse into the arena to be slaughtered.

"That is the sickening part of the bull fight. It is disgusting to an American. I couldn't look at that part of the show. It is simply revolting and disgusting. Then come the banderillos. They do the prettiest work of the fight. They have little short spears, about the length of an ordinary walking stick. Their object is to stick these short spear-like dirks into the shoulders of the bull. The object is to stick one upon each side of the animal's back.

"The bull makes a blind rush at the man, whom you think will be surely crushed by the bull's horn. He steps aside at precisely the right fraction of a second, sticking the short spears into the back of the weakened bull. Sometimes these men misgauge their distance by the merest fraction of a second. They often lose their lives by these mistakes. It is what may happen that keeps the vast crowd keyed up to the proper pitch of excitement.

"After the banerillos get through with the bull, the matador, the real hero of the show, comes on to put an end to the suffering of the tortured bull. He has a sword, about the length of the ordinary sword, and the matador stick his sword in just the right spot, between the shoulder blades of the infuriated animal. When the bull is in just the right position, with his forefeet together, so that the shoulder blades will leave the matador an opportunity to reach the vital spot, he makes the plunge with his sword. If it is a perfect thrust, the sword sinks almost to the hilt in the back of the animal. If he has miscalculated in some way, the sword will glance off. Then the hero of the show is hooted. He has made a blunder.

"But you can see that there is very little chance for the bull. There is but a slight chance that any of the men will be injured. It is a one-sided game at the best. The horses and the bull are generally the only performers to get hurt. Sometimes a man gets bruised, and sometimes they are killed; but these instances are the exception."

Filth Is Disgusting.

Mr. Adson says that never in any country has he seen so much filth as he saw in Mexico among the peon class. These people are nothing more than serfs, lower in the poverty scale than our North American Indians, and more ignorant than our worst Southern blacks. They are happy in their ignorance, squalor, filth and poverty. They are the lowest class of Mexico, presenting a striking class contrast to the wealthy Spanish of the country.

The City of Mexico presents many striking cases of good municipal rule and lack of good city government. For instance, Mr. Adson says that next to the home of President Diatz, in the most beautiful residential district of the city, is one of the low saloons where they sell the liquor made from a native flower. There is no saloon lower or more vice-haunted than a Mexican saloon; yet here it is, tucked right in near the home of the ruler of the country.

Most of the homes look like entrances to livery stables or garages. Mr. Adson says about all you see is the entrance to the court. The house is closed in front, the living rooms all opening upon this court. So from the streets you get a very restricted view of the homes of the wealthy Mexican families.

Right at the present time, Mr. Adson says, they are beginning to build a few modern houses; that is, houses constructed upon American lines of architecture. This breaking away from the conventions of old Spain and Mexico is just beginning to exhibit itself.

Railroad Very Good.

Mr. Adson says the railroad of the country, that is, the one from Laredo to the City of Mexico, is surprisingly good. This is the line originally constructed by the government. It has always been operated by the government of Mexico. The Mexican Central has also been taken over by the government. These lines are known as the national lines of Mexico. The road from Laredo, upon the border, to the City of Mexico is the line that George Hibbard, formerly of Duluth, was connected with up to a very recent date.

Practically all of the houses of the City of Mexico are constructed of concrete. There isn't a frame building in the entire city, according to Mr. Adson. For that reason they have practically no use for a fire department. They employ many old fashioned ideas. They don't drive nails in their construction of scaffolding, when they are putting up a building. They tie the lumber with ropes. They don't wheel material in wheelbarrows; they carry it upon their heads. Workers upon the railroads don't wheel refuse away in wheelbarows; they cart it away in a sort of gunny sack arrangement.

But, although they have many out of date methods in Mexico, Mr. Adson says the country is developing rapidly, and has already made wonderful strides under the rule of President Diaz. He says it is an extremely interesting country, and—listen—that the women are not nearly as pretty as the American women.

Blondes a Hit.

"Blonde ladies are a big hit in Mexico," said Mr. Marshall in telling of the trip.

"Some young woman with light tresses did something for the Mexicans. I have forgotten the young woman's name, and also what she did, but anyway anything like a peroxide blonde is almost worshipped in Mexico, both for this reason and because they are so scarce.

"The national dish of Mexico, they tell me, is the cuspidor, and I believe it. You see them everywhere. The national question is: 'How will you have your eggs?' That's what the waiters ask you the first thing.

"The bull fights are a farce. They don't require any courage on the part of the matadors, and they are disgustingly cruel to the horses. Twenty-one were killed in the fight we saw, and just before we got there they gave a fight for the benefit of the Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The country has some of the best and some of the worst theaters I ever saw. The moving picture houses are nothing but firetraps, with only one entrance, and many of them lighted by gas with stairways in dark corners and unexpected places. But the government is taking hold of them since the recent catastrophe.

"Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy came there on their wedding trip after losing all their clothes on the Republic. They had only one suit apiece, and at that they were better off than most people in Mexico. You don't need any clothes there. They came back into Chicago to buy something to wear."

LONG HIKE IS PLANNED

Boys of the Junior Y. M. C. A. Will Tramp to St. Paul.

The Special Camp Fund Amounts to Over $200 Already.

The boys of the boys' department Y. M. C. A. have planned a long tramp for this summer.

Twenty of them, in charge of Norman D. McLeod, will hike to St. Paul soon after the close of school. At the meeting of the boys' cabinet held last night, plans for the hike were talked over and all the boys seemed very enthusiastic. William Eklund and Harvard Rockwell were appointed a committee to select a hiking route to St. Paul.

The boys will carry light packs and a small amount of food. They are depending largely on the good nature of the farmers' wives along the road for their food, however. They will carry blankets and sleep wherever night overtakes them.

A trunk of clothes will be sent down to St. Paul by train, so that the boys may enjoy themselves while in the Twin City. The crowd will return to Duluth by train, and while in St. Paul will be the guests of the St. Paul boys' department.

Russell McLean, Charles McKinley and M. Nelson were appointed a nominating committee to nominate the boys for the Lake Geneva boys' conference and also to nominate two older committeemen who will go to camp to act as special assistants. Commencing Satuday and lasting until Saturday, March 27, a special hustle will be made by the membership committee for new members. The hustle will take the nature of a "Get One" club. Every boy getting one member can join the club. On Wednesday, March 31, the "Get One" club will be entertained at the central building for dinner.

• • •

At the regular meeting of the cabinet last evening, at the central building, the following members were present: Eklund, Rockwell, Glass, Bevis, Jaques, McLean, McKinley, St. Clair, Nelson, Harris, Martin, Merritt and McLeod. The reports for the past month showed advancement in all departments of the boys' work. The camp committee reported that $200 had already been raised for the special camp fund. The cabinet this year will try to raise enough money to buy a camp site and erect a clubhouse. Several other entertainments will be given to raise money for this fund. The big indoor circus, April 2 and 3, will be for this purpose. Plans were perfected for the annual midwinter dinner of all committeemen, to be held Friday evening, at 6 o'clock. After dinner, a short conference will be held, when each committee will give a report of what it has done during the season. Short speeches will be given by William Eklund, president of the cabinet; Harvard Rockwell, Archie Glass, William Nelson, Russell McLean and General Secretary Phil Bevis. The date for the annual banquet has been set for Friday, April 16. P. Bevis, L. Jaques and H. Rockwell were appointed a committee to prepare the toast list and program.

AWARDED $1,400 FOR BROKEN LEG

George Toor Given Damages in Personal Injury Suit Against City.

After a short deliberation yesterday afternoon, a jury in district court returned a sealed verdict in the case of George A. Toor vs. The City of Duluth. The verdict was opened at the opening of court this morning. It awards the boy $1,400 damages for the injuries sustained by him by tripping on a hole in the sidewalk on Central avenue in West Duluth and sustaining a broken leg, April 29 of last year.

The suit was brought by George A. Toor on behalf of his son, George Toor. It was claimed that the city was negligent in leaving a hole in the sidewalk for a long period without attention.

The boy was stepping from the sidewalk on the east side of Central avenue near Bristol street on the evening of the accident and his foot went into the hole. He fell and his leg was broken. The complaint charged that he was laid up for a long period and damages in the sum of $3,000 were asked. Harry Lanners and John Jenswold were the attorneys for the plaintiff.

LABOR MEN SEE LIGHT

Hope They May Not Have to Go to Jail.

Find Consolation in View of Chief Justice Shepard.

Washington, March 11.—In its opinion given today, upholding the ruling of the lower court in the boycott case of the Bucks Stove & Range company, of St. Louis, against President Gompers and other American Federation of Labor officials, the District of Columbia court of appeals held, that the defendants could not be restrained from all publications referring to the stove company, but only to such as are made in furtherance of an illegal boycott.

In a partially dissenting opinion, Chief Justice Shepard took a strong position in upholding the freedom of the press. He says that even assuming that the publication of the complainants' name in the "We Don't Patronize" column of the Federationist, was a step in the formation of a conspiracy to coerce independent dealers into refusing to have further business relations with that company, he cannot agree that the publication can be restrained for that reason. Regardless of its character or purpose, the publication is protected from restraint in his opinion by the first amendment of the Constitution, which forbids any law abridging the freedom of the press.

The chief justice held that "the only remedy for libellous or otherwise malicious, wrongful and injurious publications is by civil action for damages and criminal prosecution. There is no power to restrain the 'publication.'"

The decision does not settle the appeal from the contempt proceedings in which Messrs. Gompers, Morrison and Mitchell were given jail sentences. That will be heard later by the appellate court.

The labor leaders claim that if the reasoning adopted by Chief Justice Shepard and Justice Van Orsdel is followed in the decision of the contempt proceedings, they will be able to upset the findings of Justice Wright and prevent serving terms of imprisonment.

BEEKMAN WINTHROP,
Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and the Man Who Is Said to Have the Longest Pedigree of Any Man in Public Life in Washington.

A CHANGE OF MIND.

Boston Herald: A Wellesley college student rushed into a telegraph office a few days ago and asked the clerk for a message blank. She immediately wrote a message, and after she had finished it she tore it up and began another blank. This was also torn in two and then she wrote a third, which she handed to the telegraph operator. After the lady departed the operator became curious and picked up the torn pieces of paper.

The first read: "It is all off. Never want to hear from you again." The second read, "Do not write to me again, as I never want to hear from you." The third message, which was sent, read, "Come at once on the first train."

TITLED WOMAN NOVELISTS.

Tit-Bits: There are many women among the titled classes who have joined the ranks of the novelists. One of the most successful of all is Lady Trowbridge, whose novels have attained great popularity. Another society woman who has written novels of note is Lady Helen Forbes, a sister of the duchess of Sutherland, who has also, by-the-bye, produced some very creditable volumes. The duchess of Leeds, Lady Henry Somerset, Lady Cromartie and Lady Napier of Magdala have all helped to swell the total number of titled lady novelists. The most successful of all, however, are two titled ladies who are not English, the Baroness Orezy and the baroness von Hutten.

SAILORS EDUCATED AT SEA.

Kansas City Star: The writing of letters and the reading of good books in the battleship libraries is a source of valuable information to seamen in the United States navy, officers at the recruiting station say.

"When I enlisted," a gunner's mate said one afternoon, "I couldn't write very well, and my ideas of literature were uncultivated. After a few months of painful scribbling to the folks at home and to a certain young woman, I began to be proud of my handwriting. To make my letters sound smooth I asked questions of the officers and read books on grammar and composition. Now I believe I am a first-class correspondent.

"The libraries on board the battleships contain books by the standard authors. There are many hours every day that a sailor can devote to reading."

FOREIGNERS BUY WHEAT

Export Demand Puts Northwest in Lead of the Advance.

Flax Is Dull, But Closes Firm in Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 11.—Wheat was stronger in the American markets today, all of them closing at high prices and with the Northwest leading.

The foreign demand in this market was very strong from the outset, considerable Manitoba and durum wheat being worked. The eagerness of the foreigners had considerable to do with the strength of the wheat in Duluth and Minneapolis.

It is estimated that Argentine shipments of wheat this week will be 5,200,000 bu.

Liverpool closed ¼d to ½d higher, Berlin ⅝c lower and Budapest 1c lower.

The May option closed ⅞c higher in Duluth, ⅝c higher in Chicago, ⅞@1c higher in Minneapolis, ¼c higher in New York, unchanged in St. Louis and Kansas City, and 1⅝c higher in Winnipeg. The July option closed 1⅛c higher in Duluth, ⅜c higher in Chicago, 1c higher in Minneapolis, ¼c higher in New York and St. Louis, ⅛@¼c higher in Kansas City, and 1⅜c higher in Winnipeg.

May corn closed a shade lower in Chicago and unchanged to ¼c lower in Liverpool. May oats closed a shade lower in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—There was a steady undertone to-the speculative wheat market at the start, although values were ¼d lower. Offerings were light, and the sentiment seemed bullish. What pressure there was came as a result of the disappointing American cables yesterday and the continued liberal shipments from Argentina, as indicated by today's forecast. Following the opening and during the remainder of the morning, the market was strong with values ¾ to ⅞d higher than the opening. There was heavy buying in this market by a prominent interest, and shorts grew nervous and covered freely. There was also a good demand for cargoes, which were more firmly held, and sellers were few. At mid-day, the market was strong and ⅜ to ⅝d higher than yesterday."

Corn was steady at the start and about unchanged. The increased American receipts were offset by the good demand for spot. At mid-day, the market was slightly lower but dull."

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 56, against 50 last year, and at Minneapolis 205, against 314 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 261, against 364 last year. Chicago received 68, against 20 last year. Winnipeg received 270, against 17 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 621,000 bu, last year 602,000 bu. Shipments, 176,000 bus, last year 270,000 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour were 131,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 599,000 bu, last year, 255,000 bu. Shipments, 522,000 bu last year, 372,000 bu. Clearances of corn were 102,000 bu.

Wheat was active in the Duluth market. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Turns Weak After a Moderately Firm Opening.

Chicago, March 11.—Following a moderately firm opening, the wheat market turned weak today, owing to free sales by several leading commission houses, the May delivery declining nearly 1 cent from the previous close. The firmness at the start was due chiefly to an advance of ½ to ⅝d at Liverpool. Poor demand for cash wheat at Southwestern markets and more favorable prospects for the fall sown crop, were bearish influences. Prices at the start were 6c lower to ⅜c higher, May being at $1.13⅞ to $1.14½ and July at $1.03⅛ to $1.03½@1.03¾. Early in the day May dropped to $1.13½, while July sold off to $1.02⅝.

The market became strong late in the session on buying based on damage reports from Missouri and Southern Illinois. May advanced to $1.15 and July to $1.03⅜. The close was strong with May up ⅞c at $1.15. July closed at $1.03¼@⅜, a net gain of ⅜c.

Increased receipts and clear weather were factors that caused considerable weakness in the corn market, commission houses being free sellers early in the day. Prices at the start were unchanged to ⅜c lower, with May at 67⅞@68⅜c. Later May declined to 67½@67c.

The strength of wheat lifted prices late in the day to about the opening level and the market closed with May a shade lower at 68@68⅛c.

Oats followed other grains in their downward course. The market was subjected to considerable selling pressure by a leading elevator interest. May opened ⅛c to ⅛@¼c lower at 55⅛@55⅜c, and sold off to 54½@54⅝c. Provisions were firm because of a sharp falling off in hog receipts compared with the corresponding day a year ago. Prices at the start were unchanged to 12½c higher.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Elevator Stocks Show Increase of 40,000 Bushels for Five Days.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 11.—Local elevator stocks showed an increase of 40,000 bushels for five days. Again, today the local market followed the Chicago quotations. The difference in the range of prices in the two markets has narrowed, Minneapolis being about two cents lower than Chicago. The undertone of the market was nervous. May advanced towards the end and closed at $1.12⅝@¾. Minneapolis today received 205 cars, against 314; Duluth, 56; Winnipeg, 270, against 17; May opened at $1.12⅛; high, $1.12⅞@1.13; low, $1.11½; close, $1.12⅝@¾. July opened at $1.12⅝, high $1.13⅞; low $1.12¼; close $1.13⅝@$1.13¾. Cash wheat was in fair demand. Prices were 1½@1¾c above No. 1 northern and ½@¼c under for No. 2. Millers were the principal buyers. The cash wheat trade was considered a little better today. Close: No. 1 northern $1.14@1.14¼; to arrive $1.14@1.14¼; No. 2 northern $1.12@1.12¾; to arrive $1.12@1.12¼. No. 3 wheat $1.08½@1.10½. No. 3 yellow corn 62¼@62¾c. No. 3 white oats 51¾@52¼c. No. 2 rye 62¾@75¾c.

Flax receipts nine cars today against 60; shipments, 2. No sales were reported today, either cash or to arrive. On account of this scarcity there was no activity. All the cars received today arrived on sale. Close: $1.63¼.

Barley receipts 30 cars against 17; shipments, 43. Demand was firm at yesterday's market. Prices held firm. Feeding interests were the best buyers. Prices were the same, 62½@63c.

Millstuffs shipments, 1,943 tons. Demand was again strong. The market held firm with the strength of the past few weeks. Shipments were quite a bit heavier. Bran in bulk, $23.00@23.50.

Flour shipments for the first time this week compared favorably with a week ago. Prices held firm. Shipments, 53,075 barrels. First patents, $5.55@5.65; second patents, $5.45@5.55; first clears, $4.40@4.50; second clears, $3.15@3.25.

Flax was dull in Duluth today, May being the only option that was traded in. After the first half hour, the price held firm, however.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., March 11.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: A prominent feature of today's sale was the urgent demand for good farm mares fo rbreeding purpose. Dealers from the Dakotas and Canada were active bidders. Charles Atkinson of Pembina, N. D., bought the best load of general purpose horses and mares that has been bought on this market in a number of years. A. P. Hall of Cralk, Sask., bought a load of 1,500-pound mares and draft horses for a big farm which he is opening up. Plainer classes of farm horses has been easy clearance at somewhat lower values.

WEAKNESS OF ERIES

Kept the Rest of the Stock Market at Standstill.

Market Was Stagnant Most of Session, Closing About Steady.

New York, March 11.—Very little interest was stirring in the stock market at the opening today. Considerable price changes were shown in a few special stocks, but the general market was sluggish and almost stagnant. Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie fell 1 and Erie and Toledo, St. Louis & Western ¾. American Sugar rose 3⅝ and Atchison ⅝.

A few specialties were indifferent to the liquidation in the Erie stocks and advanced steadily. American Tobacco preferred gained 2¾; American Sugar 3. Minneapolis & St. Louis preferred 2. American Beet Sugar 1⅝ and National Lead. Westinghouse Electric and Hocking Coal 1. Meanwhile the regularly active list was declining in sympathy with the fall in the Eries. Erie yielded 2, the first preferred 2½, the second preferred 1⅛, and the general mortgage 4's and Cleveland, C. C. & St. Louis 1.

The weakness of the Eries kept the general list at a standstill. Erie's decline reached 3, the first preferred 4 and the second preferred 2¼. Norfolk & Western lost 1. American Malting preferred rose 1½ and American Beet Sugar preferred 1. The tone of the market was firm at noon. Bonds were steady.

Prices were unaltered during the noon hour, that period being the dullest yet shown during the idleness of the market. Erie convertible "B" bonds dropped 3½. Consolidated Coal rose 7¼.

Special conditions were unchanged at 2 o'clock, the market being virtually at a standstill. Cleveland, C. C. & St. Louis extended its decline to 2 points.

The market closed about steady. The practical stagnation of the market was unrelieved. Usually dormant stocks were the only ones that moved appreciably. Hocking Coal advanced 2¾, and the St. Joseph and Grand Island stocks, General Electric and Bethlehem Steel about a point. Federal Mining sold at a decline of 15. American Cotton Oil preferred 2, and Allis-Chalmers preferred 1.

OSCEOLA MINE COMPANY ELECTS

Boston, Mass., March 11.—After months of litigation in the courts of Michigan, the annual meeting of the Osceola Mining company was held in this city today and six directors chosen, all identified with the interests of the Calumet & Hecla company.

The control of the Osceola company was secured about two years ago by the Calumet officials, but for months A. S. Bigelow and G. M. Hyams, the controlling directors of the Osceola company, fought the exercise of it in the courts. After several decisions adverse to the Osceola men, a compromise was effected two weeks ago.

The new directors elected were: R. L. Agassiz, George M. Flagg, F. L. Higginson, Thomas L. Livermore, James McNaughton and Quincy A. Shaw, all of Boston.

BIG MORTGAGE IS AUTHORIZED

New York, March 11.—The directors of the Wisconsin Central railway today authorized a refunding of first mortgage of $60,000,000, of which $36,000,000 is reserved to fund existing bonds and equipmnet obligations. The remainder will be issued during the next fifty years, under proper restrictions.

The directors also authorized the lease of the railroad and the property of the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie for ninety-nine years, and approved the guarantee agreement negotiated by the preferred stockholders' committee providing for the issue of the leased line certificates.

DIRT CHEAP
Are you looking for a good safe investment? If so, let me show you some of my lands in the Carlton County Valley, along the Great Northern and Soo lines; none better for general Farming, Dairying and Stock Raising.
Twenty years ago these very same kind of lands around the Twin Cities were selling at from $5.00 to $10.00 an acre; today they are selling from $75.00 to $125.00 an acre. The same applies to lands in this vicinity, but instead of waiting 20 years for the raising in value, I expect to see it within the next 5 years, as good lands around the Head of the Lakes are getting scarce, and will command a fancy price in the very near future. I have 10,000 acres for you to select from.

Do You Know That

Real estate is cheaper today in Duluth than in any town of its size in the United States?

And that in percentage of gain in building last year over 1907, Duluth was one of the few American cities that blossomed to the top!

And that there are fewer vacant houses in Duluth than in any city of its size. The city is growing faster than the residences go up.

Taking these things into consideration, do you fully realize what a splendid investment Duluth real estate is today?

BILL TO KEEP LEAVITT IN OFFICE IS RAILROADED THROUGH STATE SENATE

Many Senators Voted for It, Without Realizing Its Purpose.

Bill Limiting Saloons to Each 500 People Passes House.

Liability Bills Agreed Upon by Labor and Capital Conference.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was railroaded through the senate this morning, under suspension of the rules, a bill which might properly been entitled an act for the perpetuation in office of Silas W. Leavitt, member of the state board of control. It is well known that Governor Johnson will not reappoint Mr. Leavitt when his term expires April 1, on the ground that he has been a source and cause of dissension and friction prejudicial to good service.

Senator Peterson of Moorhead introduced a harmless looking bill, which he explained to be merely an amplification of the law requiring that preference in public employment be given to veterans of the Civil war. He asked that the rules be suspended and the bill passed, and this was done, 34 to 15. It is asserted that many senators, including Republicans, took the bill at Moonan and Canfield Election Measures Defeated After Debates.

"Midnight Lid" Bill Given Its Quietus by the House.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will probably be no primary election legislation at this session of the legislature.

There are just two measures remaining that have even a show for life. One is the amendment changing the primaries from September to June, which would give the farmers a better chance to attend. That measure, too, is very likely to go by the board, leaving the primary election law as it stands now unless the other measure is passed, that providing that parties that do not cast 30 per cent of their vote on the governorship at primary elections cannot put candidates on the ticket. This latter measure is intended to keep partisans in their own primaries and out of the primaries of other parties. Its show for passage is none too good.

The senate yesterday settled the fate of the two most important prim-

SHIP CANAL FROM LAKE

House Favors Waterway From Lake Superior to the Mississippi.

Resolution Passed Urging Congress to Act Without Delay.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house yesterday afternoon unanimously adopted a joint resolution by Representative J. H. Dorsey of Glencoe, urging congress to construct a ship canal from Lake Superior to connect with the Mississippi. The resolution is as follows:

"Whereas, for the transportation development of the great industrial interior of the continent of North America nature has provided, on the one hand, the Great Lakes chain which is the greatest inland sea in the world, and, on the other hand, the Mississippi river and tributaries, which have no equal as natural transportation channels for a great internal commerce.

"Whereas, the freight tonnage shipped from the port of Duluth-Superior exceeds that of New York or any other American port, while the net tonnage passing from Lake Superior through the Soo canal is three times that which passes through the Suez canal in the trade between Europe and the Orient, and the Great Lakes fleet is the greatest merchant fleet which floats the American flag;

"Whereas, Minnesota produces and ships to Eastern furnaces annually close upon 30,000,000 tons of iron ore, which exceeds one-half the iron ore product of America and one-fourth that of the world, and whereas this iron ore should be converted into iron and steel by Minnesota labor on Minnesota soil for distribution throughout the Mississippi valley and westward, and a great industrial plant for such purpose is now being established at Duluth;

"Whereas, Minnesota and the nearby Upper Mississippi valley states of Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, North and South Dakota annually produce about 300,000,000 bushels of wheat and 900,000,000 bushels of corn, oats and other coarse grains, besides a vast tonnage

MAY HAVE AN EXTRA

Special Session of Wisconsin Legislature is Contemplated.

Assembly May Not Agree With the Senate, However.

Madison, Wis., March 12.—The upper branch of the legislature today killed the Gaylord resolution relating to government ownership of public utilities.

The joint resolution providing for a special session to consider income tax, state aid for highway building, industrial insurance and insurance of bank deposits, which passed the assembly, was adopted by the senate today in an amended form which provides that good roads be exempted from postponement, and the question of water powers of the state be substituted in its place.

This means a special session of the legislature provided the assembly will concur in the senate amendment. Some doubt is expressed about the assembly concurring, as it is understood the governor is not in favor of this course.

TARIFF LEGISLATION MAY BE DELAYED BY REPUBLICAN SENATORS

They Do Not Intend Sacrificing "Protection" for Haste.

Copper Interests Alert Against Move to Discriminate.

Senate Finance Committee Expected to Make Many Changes.

Washington, March 12.—The Republican senators on the committee on finance will begin a systematic study of the new tariff bill as soon as copies are obtained. They feel the importance of pressing the measure to a speedy determination, and Senator Aldrich, as chairman of the committee, has said that he would make an effort to have the bill reported as soon as possible after its passage by the house.

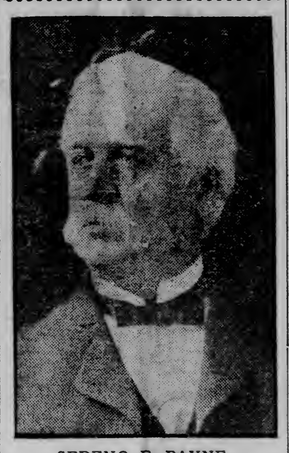

Unquestionably, the controlling desire in the senate will be to make the bill a distinctive protective measure, and it is not believed the Republican senators will permit even the desire for haste to cause them to sacrifice this feature of it.

The bill cannot, of course, be officially considered by the committee as a whole until after it has been passed by the house and transferred to the senate in the usual formal manner.

It is believed, however, that the

FUNERAL PARTY STALLED BY SNOW.

Wausau, Wis., March 12.—A funeral cortege was stalled in snow in Hamburg, this county, making it necessary for the mourners and their friends to desert their vehicles and make their way through the deep snow to a church a mile and a half distant from where the hearse became literally buried. The body was carried to the church. The mourners were forced to remain at farm houses over night. In reaching places of safety, several women were overcome and had it not been for the men some of them would have lost their lives in the snow. There is no way of freeing the vehicles except by shoveling them out. The snow in this section is three feet deep on the level and is the heaviest in years.

Watson Declares the House Insurgents Are Already Defeated.

Makes Statement After Conference With Cannon and Taft.

Washington, March 12.—President Taft today had a conference with Speaker Cannon, Senators Burton and Nelson and Former Representative Watson. At its termination Mr. Cannon said he had nothing to say for publication except "it's a very fine day and I am glad I am alive."

"We have got them licked. This is a statement of fact and not a prediction," said Watson, having reference to the position of the regulars in the house of representatives in their skirmish with the insurgents.

While President Taft has done some preparatory work on the message he will send to the special session of congress Tuesday that document was not in shape to be read to his second cabinet meeting today.

This was the first meeting of the full Taft cabinet, as Mr. Dickinson was made secretary of war in time to be in attendance.

CONTEST AT CARDS LASTED TWENTY YEARS.

Traverse City, Mich., March 12.—Two Civil war veterans, John W. Wallace and D. W. Lazelle, have just completed in their home village of Manceiona a card playing contest that lasted twenty years. Two decades ago an agreement was made that the village championship should be accorded to the one who won ten consecutive games. Night after night, alternating between the homes of the two contestants the contest has gone on. Several times Wallace had nine games to his credit only to lose the tenth to Lazelle. But patiently the score was kept, and in all the twenty years not an angry word was spoken by either man. When Wallace won his tenth consecutive game, Lazelle promptly challenged him to another series, but Wallace declined on the ground that neither he nor his opponent would live long enough to complete another contest.

Stephenson's Foes Will Continue Contest After Probe Ends.

Game Warden Stone Ill and Unable to Testify.

Washington, March 12.—The first business of importance to be taken up by the senate at the beginning of the extra session next Monday will be the admission of Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin.

Immediately after the senate convenes, the certificate of the governor of Wisconsin, declaring Stephenson elected will be presented and unless there is objection he will take the oath of office. There is no dispute as to the regularity of the credentials, and some of the older lawyers in the senate say he could not be prevented from taking his seat even from objection.

So far as can be learned the plan of Stephenson opponents is to postpone the presentation of objections until the investigation by the Wisconsin legislature into the Stephenson election is concluded.

PROTEST ON BLEACHING

Millers Make Senator Jones Spokesman and He Sees Wilson.

Secretary Suggests Taking the Flour Issue Into Courts.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The millers of the country are endeavoring to have the question of bleaching flour referred to a scientific board, in order to determine whether this method of preparing the product is injurious to the consumer and in violation of the pure food law, and the matter is being taken up vigorously on all sides with members of congress.

Senator Jones of Washington who, from his intimate knowledge of such matters is supposed to have considerable weight with the agricultural department, has been asked to take up the subject with Secretary Wilson, and he has done so.

Wilson informed him that while at a public hearing last fall, it was denied that bleaching was used to conceal inferiority, yet from letters he has received he is convinced bleaching can be used to conceal inferiority. He suggested that as the referee board of Johns Hopkins university of Baltimore, the only board of scientists to which the subject could be referred, has work ahead of it for over a year, it would be easier for those persons not satisfied with his decision of Dec. 9, 1908, to get a decision in the courts, as action would thus be taken long before the board could come to any conclusion.

President Lewis, Incensed, Says He Will Not Compromise.

Owners Will Not Receive Men as Union Delegates.

Confer With Them Only as Labor Representatives.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 12.—Anthracite mine operators and the United Mine Workers of America are deadlocked, with no prospect of settlement.

The principal cause of the deadlock is a dispute over the wage question, but the operators have flatly refused all the miners' requests. The operators insist on a renewal of the present agreement for three years.

This is the result of the deliberations thus far, which began yesterday under such seemingly auspicious conditions in the office of George F. Baer. If the miners fail to win their points they say they will call a convention, and a strike affecting thousands and thousands of anthracite coal diggers may result.

Regardless of strenuous denial by President Lewis of the Mine Workers, the operators continue to assert that the labor men are being influenced by the bituminous coal mine owners.

Those who have followed the trend of affairs in the anthracite region, believe it will be useless for the miners to further insist upon any material change in the present agreement.

So far as can be learned from the miners, a majority is opposed to a strike, because they feel they are not strongly enough entrenched to carry on a campaign of the magnitude of those of 1900 and 1902.

President Lewis is much provoked

Nashville, Tenn., March 12.—A bare handful of persons was on hand this morning when the trial of Col. D. B. Cooper and Robin Cooper, for the slaying of ex-Senator Carmack, was resumed. It was the fifth day of arguments, and the third day for Gen. Washington of the defense.

"I shall not delay you very long," Washington promised, as he stepped before the jury. "I want to direct your attention to James C. Bradford. He enters the case the morning of the tragedy at the Maxwell house, when the governor telephones to him, and at once his good offices are apparent in the effort to avert a tragedy. DUDLEY BUCK.

New York, March 12.—In his home in Brooklyn, where he has lived quietly since he retired several years ago from the active pursuit of his profession, Dudley Buck, the famous organist and composer, is receiving the congratulations of numerous friends on the occasion of his seventieth birthday. Since the death of Edward Alexander McDowell, Mr. Buck is, perhaps, the leading American composer. His works include a long list of cantatas for male and mixed choruses, a great deal of organ and church music, a symphonic overture called "Marmion," and a comic opera, "Deseret."

List of Teachers Who Will Mark "Ben Hur" Essays.

Last Installment of Serial Story of the Play.

"This 'Ben Hur' contest for school children being worked out by The Herald is the best enterprise of its kind worked out in the city for years and I heartily indorse it. There are many children who could not witness the performance in any other way, and The Herald provides them with a chance to see the biggest show on the road this year, for a very slight effort. Everyone enjoys the more that which he has worked for, and besides that the writing of an essay on 'Ben Hur' will help every child. The play is one that every child should see and The Herald gives every one of them a chance. It is a fine idea and The Herald is to be congratulated at having laid at the feet of each school boy and girl the chance it offers."

—Charles A. Marshall, manager of the Lyceum theater.

The serial story of "Ben Hur" finishes tonight. Now that the story has been told through the columns of the paper, and the teachers are reading it to the children in the schools, the essays will begin to pour in. Not that there have been none so far, for there are already about fifty essays in. These will remain unopened until the contest closes Wednesday night of next week, and they will all be judged at the same time.

Those who have studied carefully the story in The Herald and believe that they are now capable of writing intelligent essays on the book, are urged to get busy and send in their essays as soon as possible. The paper is desirous of having every school child in the city who is a member of the proper grade, have a chance to see the play.

"Ben Hur" has played to more people and made more money for its owners than any other play in history, proving conclusively how popular it is all over the country. The production this year is better than ever.

CHARLES A. MARSHALL, Who Indorses the "Ben Hur" Contest.

The List of Judges.

Supt. Denfeld of the city schools today gave out a list of the following teachers who are to judge the papers and decide which pupils are entitled to seats at the Lyceum on March 22. They represent nearly every school in the city, and are all either seventh or eighth grade teachers, with the exception of two who are members of the faculty of the high school. They follow: Mr. Sprague and Miss Shields of the high school; Miss Bechtel of the Industrial high school; Miss Helwig, Fairmount; Miss Abbott, Irving; Miss McArthur, Longfellow; Miss Dutcher, Bryant; Miss White, Lincoln; Miss Hicken, Adams; Miss Thompson, Emerson; Miss Beinhorn, Jackson; Miss Olds, Washington; Miss B. N. Calverley, Jefferson; Mr. F. N. Burrell, Franklin; Mrs. Hoover, Nettleton; Mrs. Murphy, Webster, Miss Pattison, Whittier; Miss Dace, Endion; Miss Porter, Lester Park; Miss Bell, Washburn; Mrs. Downs, Ely.

The Conditions.

All those who wish to become members of the big theatrical party should keep in mind the following conditions:

Each essay should be about 150 words in length, although more or less will not disqualify the writer. The writers of the 150 best papers will receive tickets. There are no coupon conditions attached to the contest, and no requirements that the contestants shall be subscribers to The Herald.

In this contest it must be understood that the seventh grade pupils will compete with the seventh grade scholars, the eighth grade with the eighth grade, the first year high school pupils with the members of their own class, and so on up to the senior class in the high school.

Each contestant must be a regularly enrolled student in the Duluth public schools, and must write his or her name, grade, teacher's name, the name of the school and class to which he or she belongs, and his or her address on the upper left hand corner of the paper. Only one side of the paper should be used on which to write. The writing should be as neat and as legible as the contestant can make it, as both these will count when the paper is judged. The essays should then be mailed to the "Ben Hur" editor of The Herald.

All essays must be in the hands of the "Ben Hur" editor not later than 6 p. m. Wednesday, March 17.

The fifth and last installment of the story of Ben Hur follows:

Ben Hur has returned to his ancestral home in the Holy City, bringing with him Simonides and Esther from Antioch. Inspired by the faith of Balthasar, who was one of the three wise men to whom the coming of Christ had been disclosed by the Star of Bethlehem, Ben Hur believes the Nazarene to be the temporal, but God-given king, whose coming has so long been foretold. To aid Christ when he shall declare himself king of the Jews, Ben Hur has raised three legions of armed Galileans to overthrow the power of Rome. As Christ approaches Jerusalem, Ben-Hur meets him secretly, with his Galileans, and guards him. Leaving the Nazarene resting for the night at Bethpage, Ben Hur returns to Jerusalem and relates to Simonides the wonderful miracles performed by the Christ.

Observation has convinced him that the Nazarene, in whom he recognizes the boy, now grown to manhood, who gave to him the cup of water in Bethlehem when he was being dragged to the galleys, does not seek temporal power. The Nazarene will enter Jerusalem the next day, but not in state; with a multitude, but not with an army. The Galileans may return as they came for there will be no swords drawn. Simonides inquires if the reports of him be false. Ben Hur admonishes him not to judge too quickly, and relates in detail the wonderful things he has seen. Again referring to his meeting with Christ as a boy, Ben Hur says: 'The same eyes, so full of pity; so mystic, so far seeing! The same brow, about which a halo seems to shine! But the face of a king? No! Meek, with the meekness of a woman! Sorrowful, but with the foreknowledge of martyr! The face of one born, not to rule, but to suffer, and, I fear, to die.'"

Amrah, the faithful servant of the house of Hur, overhears Ben Hur's recital of the wonderful miracles performed by the Nazarene. She has learned that the two mysterious leprous women prisoners leased by Pilate from the Tower of Antonia are the long lost mother and sister of Hur. Through Amrah, Ben Hur first learns the fate of his loved ones, for whom he has sought for eight years, and hears that they are in the tombs of the lepers in the Vale of Hinnom. The grief of the prince at news is pitiful, but he remembers that the Nazarene has healed such griefs as these.

After an all night's search, he sinks into unconsciousness, and as he lies sleeping he is discovered by his mother and sister. Amrah begs the mother and sister to leave the sleeper and go with her to seek the heavenly physician, who is soon to pass on his way to Jerusalem. The mother, realizing that if their hope in the Nazarene should fail, it will be the last time she will see her son on earth, kneels beside him and murmurs in anguish: "A hope! And if it be quenched, oh, my son, our eyes have seen thee for the last time on earth!" The joyful song of the multitude is heard in the distance, and they go to seek Him, leaving Ben Hur wrapped in the slumber of exhaustion.

A great multitude came out from the Holy City to greet Him, waving palm branches and singing anthems. They surge up the slopes to the Mount of Olives along the road to Bethpage, whence the Savior is coming, accompanied by a throng of followers. Among the crowd appear the lepers, guided by the faithful Amrah. Christ passes higher up the Mount; the afflicted ones raise their hands to Him in supplication, and a great white light falls upon their heads in benediction, suggestive of His presence, and they are healed. The light of a great gladness fills their eyes; they rise and proclaim themselves healed. At the foot of Olives, in the midst of the seemingly innumerable throng, the lives so long parted are reunited.

BIG STRIKE OF MINERS IMPENDS; OPERATORS ARE FIRM AGAINST DEMANDS

because the operators yesterday refused to receive him and his associates as officers of the Mine Workers' union, but merely as representatives of the coal miners.

"The only agreement I will sign with the operators will be as 'T. L. Lewis, president of the union,' hotly declared Mr. Lewis. "We will not be divorced from the organization but will insist upon our right as men. We will not qualify one of the demands we have made but will insist that everything we have asked for shall be granted."

"Then you look for trouble in the event that the operators insist upon the rejection of your demands and refuse to recognize the union?" he was asked.

"I am not predicting trouble or looking for it. All I have to say is that we will insist upon our demands and will make our attitude clear to the operators."

SLAIN IN FIGHT OVER A TERRIER

Small Dog Bites and Deadly Encounter is Result.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 12.—William Garrett of Portland, Ore. was killed last night by Harry English in a fight over a small terrier.

The principals were strangers. Garrett's dog grabbed the leg of English, a hotel keeper, and English kicked the dog. A fisticuff followed, in which Garrett was felled, the back of his head striking the cement walk, producing concussion of the brain. He died half an hour later.

English is under arrest.

FAMILY CURED OF SKIN TROUBLES

Two Little Girls had Eczema Very Badly—In One Case Child's Hair Came Out and Left Bare Patches—Father's Head Sore from Childhood—In All Three Cases

CUTICURA MET WITH ITS USUAL SUCCESS

"I have two little girls who have been troubled very badly with eczema. One of them had it on her lower limbs. I did everything that I could hear of for her, but it did not give in until warm weather when it seemingly subsided. The next winter when it became cold weather the eczema started again and also in her head where it would take the hair out and leave bare patches as large as a quarter of a dollar. At the same time her arms were sore the whole length of them. I took her to a physician and he said that she had two distinct types of eczema. I continued with him for several weeks and the child grew worse all of the time. Her sister's arms were also affected in the same way. My husband came home one day with a box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap. I began using them and also the Cuticura Pills and by the time the second lot was used their skin was soft and smooth as it had not been before for the winter. We keep the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment constantly by us and when any little roughness or irritation appears on their skin I quickly dispel it with the Cuticura Remedies. My husband has used them with most satisfactory results for a sore head which has troubled him from childhood. Mrs. Charles Baker, Albion, Me., Sept. 21, 1908."

Cuticura Ointment is one of the most successful remedies for torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin and scalp, including loss of hair, of infants, children and adults, ever compounded, in proof of which a single anointing with it, preceded by a hot bath with Cuticura Soap, and followed by mild doses of Cuticura Pills, is often sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing forms of itching, burning and scaly humors, eczemas, irritations and inflammations, permit rest and sleep and point to a speedy cure when all else fails.

Cuticura Soap (25c.), Ointment (50c.), Resolvent (50c.), and Chocolate Coated Pills (25c.), are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 137 Columbus Ave., Boston.

HARKS BACK TO THE WAR

thirsting for blood and plotting murder."

Washington read part of the testimony of John J. Vertrees, concerning his conversation with Judge Bradford about the note Cooper wrote Carmack. He argued that every line of Vertrees' testimony proved that Bradford's one object was to prevent any kind of trouble. Then he passed on to Adjt. Gen. Tulley Brown.

"If you were to look back years ago you would hear the roar of the artillery and see the seared lines. The ammunition is exhausted, the fate of the day is at stake. A beardless boy, mounted on a foam-flecked horse, rides madly down the line, haversack loaded with ammunition, and saves the day for the men in gray. I tell you, Brown is as much as a hero as Hobson. Yet they say he lied."

"And Miss Lee," continued Gen. Washington, "she and Mrs. Blake were exchanging idle gossip and discussing new hats. Of course she didn't hear the telephone ring—"

"We object to that and wish to call Mr. Washington back into record," said Gen. McCarn. "I want to do so now because he is going out of the record so often that I will not have time to correct him later. There is not a line in the record that Miss Lee or Mrs. Blake talked about hats, or that Mrs. Blake was in the office when the news of the tragedy came."

Judge Hart admonished Gen. Washington to keep in the record, and the latter continued his attack on Miss Lee. In a falsetto voice, he indulged in mimicry of the two young women. The crowd that lined up behind the defendants, previously referred to by Attorney General McCarn, as the defendant's rooters laughed repeatedly at the antics of the attorney. Judge Hart rapped for order, but the deputies made no effort to suppress the demonstration.

Disorder in Court.

These "rooters," climbed on the step to the bench, faced the jury, and apparently, endeavored to convey their approval over the judge's shoulders to the twelve men who are trying the case. Judge Hart repeatedly cleared them off.

Washington once more reached the actual shooting and called a messenger boy to help him to re-enact the tragedy. This was the third time the speaker has described the tragedy.

"You are Carmack," he exclaimed. Washington seized the automatic revolver crouched down with gleaming eyes and bristling mustache. The boy, frightened, began to back away as Washington stealthily advanced. The crowd laughed and the judge did too.

"A son who sees his father's enemy, revolver in hand, and does not kill that enemy as he would a mad dog, is not fit to be food for worms," the attorney declared. Something distracted Washington's attention and he wandered off into the testimony of a witness who found an empty shell. The boy took advantage of the digression to escape and when the attorney turned around to shoot "Carmack," "Carmack" was missing.

"And Carmack fell dead," he went on. "I do not care for all the monstrosities in surgery that are reported —men who have lived with bullets in brain and heart and spinal cord. I do not care for such neophytes as Dr. Glasgow and others, I say Carmack was dead the moment that first bullet entered his heart.

"Now let's see where Robin Cooper was."

Another boy had come in and Washington grabbed him.

"You are Robin now," he said. "You have been greatly worried about his shots. Why does he not shoot Robin again. Because Robin has shot Carmack and he is dead. Anyway to get away from those wounds in Carmack? Shakespeare calls them 'these dumb mouths with ruby lips.' These wounds cannot be rubbed out. We know that when he received those wounds he went down."

TAKE FIGHT TO CAPITAL

Warden Stone, today handed to the senatorial investigating committee, a certificate from a physician to the effect that Stone is suffering from acute indigestion and is unable to leave his bed.

Attorney George H. Gordon of La Crosse, was then called. He received $1,800 from the Stephenson campaign managers and met E. A. Edmonds in Milwaukee, who asked him about the senatorial situation in La Crosse.

Witness said that prior to this, a number of La Crosse men, including George Rayne, Frank Hixon, W. W. Cargill and Col. Holloway, "had been "feminist" the administration and had determined to support Stephenson. Later Edmonds called him up and asked him to disburse Stephenson money, and afterward sent him some negotiable checks for drafts or something like that. Mr. Gordon declared nothing was said regarding the election of members of the legislature and none of the money received was used for such candidates. The money, he said, was disbursed in circulating campaign literature, etc. He kept no record. Charles A. Vanauken, E. G. Perkins, G. D. Lang, A. F. Anderson and Mr. Larson received different amounts. The Chronicle and the Leader Press together received about $600 or more, for extra papers, advertising, etc., the money being paid to Editor R. B. Gelatt.

Witness said that Editor Gelatt supported John Mulder for the assembly. Mulder, he said, received some money but it was not to be used for his own candidacy. He thought Mulder received less than $100. While he did not fix the compensation for Mr. Gelatt he believed what he received was very inadequate. Some of the Stephenson money was used for workers at the polls on primary day.

COMMITTEE ON CHARTER WORK

The Eveleth Commission Apportions Work Among Its Various Members.

Eveleth, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of the charter commission last night, committees were appointed as follows: Judiciary, N. B. Arnold, G. A. Whitman, E. J. Millette; streets and alleys, John Murnik, Mayor Smith, James Robb; health, Dr. C. W. More, Peter Peterson, J. C. Poole; finance, G. A. Whitman, Jabes Robb, John Murnik; fire and police, W. J. Smith, S. Sax, Joseph Wilson; light and power, James Robb, J. C. Poole, Jacob Saarl; parks, J. C. Poole, W. J. Smith, Max Shapiro; library, S. Sax, Joseph Wilson, E. J. Millette; franchises, N. B. Arnold, Peter Peterson, Frank Campbell, Joseph Wilson, Jacob Saarl; duties and powers of officers, P. E. Dowling, W. J. Smith, John Murnik; initiative and referendum, Dr. C. W. More, S. Sax, Frank Campbell.

J. C. McGilvery was appointed attorney for the commission and he will also attend to the stenographic work. Thursday nights was designated as regular meeting nights for the commission. G. A. Whitman was designated to secure copies of various charters and have them ready at the next meeting.

EVELETH MAY BECOME VILLAGE

Failure of Missabe Mountain Township to Make Levy Prompts Idea.

Eveleth, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The failure of Missabe Mountain township to make a levy for the proposed road between here and Virginia, has started quite a discussion pro and con the idea of reverting back to the village form of government.

The matter was freely discussed at the charter commission last night. If it results, Attorney Arnold says this would be the first case on record to his knowledge, of a city reverting back to a village government. The question was also discussed whether the council would lose the right in changing, to having the same number of licenses for saloons as now, if the one saloon for 500 people bill goes through at this legislature. It is expected that the city government will remain as at present. Along similar lines was brought up the matter of annexation of contiguous territory. The general opinion is that if a suitable committee goes to the steel corporation officials and present the matter fully, that they will consider the matter carefully and do what is right. At present Eveleth has less advantages from the steel corporation than any other town of its size on the range. Other towns have depots, streets, large buildings and similar things from the corporation, while Eveleth has to be satisfied with nothing. If the Fayal, Adams and Spruce mines were all in the city limits, the taxation rate would be little more than the rate in the townships, and the corporation would be paying little more in total taxes for those mines than at present.

LAST ICE RACING.

Final Season's Events at Ely Lake Next Sunday Afternoon.

Eveleth, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sunday afternoon, at Ely lake, the local driving club will close the racing season. "Bessie S," owned by Mayor Smith, and "Persis," owned by Mark Eddy, the two horses that had a close race a little while ago at the lake, will again compete. There will also be a 2:30 pace and other good races. The club expects to have some horses over from Hibbing and Superior.

MANY HIBBING PUPILS.

February Reports Show Steady Growth in the Schools.

Hibbing, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the Hibbing schools are growing steadily in attendance is shown in the reports for February. During last month there was a total enrollment of 1,775 pupils, an increase over last year of more than 200. The attendance is also larger than the preceding month, numerous cases of grip and colds materially lowering the number of children, especially in the younger grades. At the close of February there were 1,531 regularly attending. Over 600 during the month were neither absent nor tardy. Twenty days were lost during the month by the entire corps of teachers.

GIVE DRESS REHEARSAL.

Coleraine Students Prepare for Friday Night's Production.

Coleraine, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A final dress rehearsal was given of the high school operetta, "Phyllis, the Farmer's Daughter," Thursday afternoon preparatory for tonight's production before an audience which was made up entirely of the teachers and school children of this district and their teachers. The school children of Coleraine, Bovey, Taconite and Trout Lake schools, numbering 400 filled the auditorium.

As the students have been working faithfully on the production of "Phyllis, the Farmer's Daughter" is it expected that the performance in the Greenway high school will be well attended and prove very enjoyable. The cast was printed in Thursday's Herald.

DEER RIVER QUIET.

Expected Trouble on Election Did Not Develop.

Deer River, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The expected trouble here election day, when it was feared the high state of feeling over the annexation proposition might result in a street brawl, which prompted Governor Johnson, on the representations made to Sheriff Riley, to preserve order, failed to materialize.

The sheriff and County Attorney Price both spent Tuesday here and good order prevailed, the saloons being closed all day and not a drunken man being on the streets.

The election resulted as follows:

President, W. C. La Croix; trustees, W. J. Shrewe, John A. McDonald and Joseph St. Peter; recorder, H. H. Herreid; treasurer, O. E. Hulehan; justices of the peace, J. D. Burgess and O. H. Sweum; constables, W. H. Obert and Leonard Scott; assessor, George A. Rich.

CANTATA IS ENJOYED.

Large Audience Witnesses Production at Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The production of the cantata, "The Seven Last Words of Christ," by the choral society at the high school auditorium was enjoyed by a large audience, many being present from other points. John Koneczy, a Duluth tenor, and George Edwards, a pianist of Fargo, a student of Paris, assisted and contributed materially to the success of the program.

The ladies of the Catholic Altar society will serve a 5 o'clock dinner at Village hall, Wednesday, March 17, St. Patrick's day. Elaborate preparations have been made.

The Very Rev. Dean Buechler of St. Joseph's Catholic church will speak at 10 o'clock Sunday on the subject: "Adversaries of Christ," at 7:30, the subject will be, "Sanctification of Lent."

George W. Meyers, deputy treasurer, will resign his position with Treasurer A. A. Kremer some time this month and go west. He is going to take a good look at the fruit sections in the Pacific coast states and will possibly make that country his future home.

Tuesday at 5:30 o'clock in West Superior occurred the wedding of Benjamin Lieberman of Grand Rapids and Miss Fannie Grace Abramson of West Superior, the ceremony being performed at the home of the bride's brother, Morris Abramson. Rabbi Kiffin of Duluth officiated. The wedding was a very quiet affair, only relatives and a few friends being present. After a brief wedding trip the young couple will be at home in Grand Rapids.

GRAND LAKE ELECTION.

H. Leisner is Chosen as Township Supervisor.

Twig, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the annual election in the town of Grand Lake, H. Leisner was elected supervisor, to succeed J. P. Larson. A. W. Kroll was elected town clerk, to succeed Andrew Godenius; Peter Haugan was elected town treasurer, to succeed John Wallen; Charles Forgerstrom succeeds Bernard Clausen for assessor; John Bollan was elected constable. These road overseers were elected for the year of 1909: Alex Bergstrom, First district; Joseph Briston, Second district; Victor Johnson, Third district.

A large number of young people from Duluth came out on a sleighride party last Saturday night, and attended the dance given at the Grand Lake hall by O. Nickelson. An enjoyable time was reported.

The Misses Hazel and Ada Haugan visited with relatives in Duluth last week.

Miss Elinor Bartholdi spent the week-end in Duluth.

George Nickelson is visiting with his parents this week, after a lengthy stay in the southern part of the state.

Miss Hilda Mehling has returned to Duluth.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph La Fave and daughter, Della, of Duluth, weer guests at the Haugan home for a few days last week.

Reginald Hood spent a few days with his parents in Duluth this week.

Mrs. Maude Leisner came home from West Duluth last week for a visit with her relative here.

OVER EIGHT HUNDRED.

Registration of Two Harbors Shows Interest in Election.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—There have been 843 persons registered in anticipation of next Tuesday's election. The registration by wards follows: First, 165; Second, 152; First precinct, 107; Second precinct, Third ward, 212; Fourth ward, 207. Total, 843.

The total votes cast at the last general election were 916.

TWO HARBORS LIBRARY.

Slate Roof on New Structure and Windows Are In.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work on the Carnegie library building is progressing favorably, the slate roof being on and the windows in and the interior work will soon be under way. Erickson & Haugstein have started work on the heating plant, which they have the contract for, and McAlpine & Sheehan have been awarded the contract for the electric wiring and fixtures.

MAY LEAVE HIBBING.

Three Well-Known Citizens Contemplate Living Elsewhere.

Hibbing, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is expected that three well known citizens will leave here soon to reside elsewhere.

President S. R. Kirby of the First National, who has long been identified with the growth of the city, expects to make Duluth his headquarters.

G. H. Thompson, who has been promoted with the Drake & Stratton company will also make the Zenith City his headquarters.

Dr. Hood, one of the old citizens, at the head of the hospital bearing his name, is said to be contemplating residence in another climate because of his health. Just where he will go it not announced.

INCORRIGIBLE YOUTH IS SENT TO RED WING.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Willie Fox, living on South avenue, became so incorrigible that his parents appealed to Judge Andrews.

The court after an investigation ordered the youth committed to the state training school at Red Wing.

Eveleth Militia Drilling.

Eveleth, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The militia had a drill last night that was very well attended. The company is working hard at present to make a good showing at inspection, which will be held this year April 18. Lieut. Col. Gerlach, U. S. A., retired, will be the inspectig officer.

Marble's New Bank.

Marble, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bank of Marble has been organized, with a capital of $15,000, and the following officers: W. C. Gibert, president; George E. O'Conner, vice president; Glen Strader, cashier. The directors are: John C. Greenway, D. M. Gunn, W. C. Gilbert, C. C. McCarthy, George E. O'Conner, M. Curley and H. C. Dudley.

Wood Contractors Busy.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the spring breakup close at hand the logging, tie and pulpwood contractors are making haste to get all their products possible cleaned up before the soft weather spoils the roads. The roads near town are already in poor shape for the use of sleighs.

DULUTH MAN HAS BEEN MISSING FOR EIGHT DAYS

goods for the firm. He started home last week, and the last seen or heard of him was a week ago yesterday, when he arrived in Pittsburg. He had a ticket all the way to Duluth, but records of the railroad show that it was not used beyond Pittsburg.

After the Duluth man had been several days overdue, his relatives and friends in the Zenith City became alarmed over his absence, and the matter was reported to the police and railroad officials. They began an active investigation, and succeeded in tracing both ticket and man as far as the Pennsylvania city. There all trace of him was lost. His disappearance was complete, despite all efforts to learn something of his whereabouts. The last trace of him was when he left the train in Pittsburg.

There appears to be no reason why Mr. Patton should not wish to return to Duluth. His standing with Panton & White is of the highest, and his very brief married life is said to have been a very happy one. It is understood that he had no financial worries. He is known, however, to have been greatly worried about his business while in New York, and feared that he was either buying too heavily or not the right kind of goods.

Mr. Patton was only recently promoted to the position of buyer, and this was his first trip east for the firm. He was very much afraid that he might not give satisfaction, because of his lack of experience in this line, and began to worry over his purchases. In talking with other buyers he expressed the fear that he perhaps was not buying in the right quantities, and that some of his purchases would not prove satisfactory to the firm. So worried was he on this point, the other buyers say, that he kept constantly walking up and down the floor of his room in the hotel, and talked about his purchases in his sleep.

Ten days ago he went into New York office of Panton & White and secured his ticket for Duluth. That is the last heard of him, until the matter was put in the hands of the police and railroad officials, who learned that he had left the train at Pittsburg.

At the store, it is said that there was no need for the young man to worry over his purchases, for he made an intelligent selection of goods, of the right quality and quantity, and his work in New York was entirely satisfactory to the firm. In fact, he had not bought up to the limit allowed him. He had also money coming on his letter of credit.

Mr. Patton never drank and was a young man of remarkably regular habits. His employers trusted him implicitly. He was married two months ago to Miss Eva Davis, and the two have been living happily together since then, with Mr. Patton's mother, Mrs. Langslow, in West Duluth. The grief of both mother and wife is very keen. They cannot imagine what could have happened Patton, and naturally are alarmed over his disappearance.

When last seen, Patton was dressed in light grey clothes, a brown overcoat, and a brown soft hat.

house will make few changes in the bill after it is reported from the committee on ways and means, and the Republican members of the senate committee on finance feel that they will have in the house committee bill as good a basis for their operations as they will have after that measure has received the consideration of the house itself.

It is expected that many changes will be made in the senate, and that most of them will be suggested by the finance committee. In the senate the smaller states have a greater proportionate representation than in the house, and if the bill, as it comes from the house, should fail to give what is considered adequate protection to some of their industries, there would undoubtedly be a strenuous effort by the senators from these states to restore the desired equilibrium. The thinly populated states of the West are especially interested in the protection of wool, hides, fruits, lead ore, copper, etc, and will unquestionably resist any effort to discriminate against them, and they would regard as such effort the placing of any of these articles on the free list.

As the committee on finance is at present constituted the Far West is without representation. There is little doubt, however, that in the reorganization this defect will be remedied, but even though there should be no change in this respect, the senators are still confident that the committee will take care of their interests. If it should fail to do so they will make their fight on the senate floor.

While Senator Aldrich's hope is to have the bill in shape to be reported soon after it comes from the house, much will depend upon the character of the house measure and the disposition of the members of the finance committee.

SEVENTY-TWO HOUR TRAIN, MONTREAL TO VANCOUVER.

Vancouver, B. C., March 12.—At a conference of Canadian Pacific railway general superintendents yesterday, it is reported that it was determined to put on this year a seventy-two-hour train between Montreal and Vancouver. The distance is 2,896 miles and a sustained speed of forty miles an hour would be required.

WASHINGTON STATE OFFICES MAY ALL BE INVESTIGATED.

Olympia, Wash., March 12.—The legislature adopted a resolution last night providing for a committee with power to investigate any or all state offices. The resolution is the outcome of charges in connection with the administration of the present insurance commissioner, J. H. Shiveley and Secretary of State Samuel H. Nicholas, filed in the house and senate.

VESSEL BURNS TO WATER'S EDGE

Fire's Origin Unknown---Man Forced to Jump Overboard.

Queenstown, Md., March 12.—The Chesapeake bay steamer Love Point, Capt. Clark, belonging to the Maryland, Delaware & Virginia railway, was burned to the water's edge while lying at the wharf at Love Point, at 11 o'clock last night. No lives were lost.

Allen Wilson, an employe of the railway was forced to jump overboard.

The cause of the fire is unknown. All the passengers had gone ashore and all the freight discharged before the fire broke out. The Love Point was formerly the steamer Emma A. Ford, and was built in 1884.

Women's Suits for Spring

Jauntiest Styles of the Season

$25, $29.50, $32.50, $35.00

The fashions shown hereabouts each succeeding season may be classed under two heads. First—"The authoritative modes," such as are produced by "the makers at the top," and which are consigned to the fashion leaders in a locality, such as are The S. & B. Co. in Duluth. Secondly—The "near styles" produced by a hundred makers and more, yet all as alike as two peas. And yet, the authoritative fashions may be selected here at prices no higher than is askt for the "indifferent" kinds elsewhere. A thousand suits aglow with spring beauty in tailoring and fabric will be shown here tomorrow to emphasize this assertion—the choicest creations from the finest tailors of America. Look thru at your leisure. You'll recognize superiority at a glance.

TAKE THESE FOR EXAMPLE:

Complete lines of strictly tailored suits, 36 and 38-inch coat styles, made from fine French serges, in the new shades of blue, oxford, taupe and black, large patch pockets. Skirts trimmed with buttons; and $25.00 is the price.

At $29.50 we will offer the output of styles produced by two of our best tailors—coat lengths from 36 to 40 inches—materials of glossy Venetian cloth with full linings of messaline satin—Skirts are the new gored, high-top model and trimmed with buttons. Such splendid shades as gendarme blue, navy, reseda, smoke, black, etc.

At $35.00 we offer those irresistible man-tailored models in the choice suiting novelties of the spring season, copies of the fairest models designed by the Parisian modistes.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Miss Juliet Capulet a young Italian girl who nourished such a crush for Montague, that the two families were driven nearly distracted, has always received more or less attention ever since William Shakespeare considered her love affair of sufficient importance to write a play about it, but it is safe to say that Juliet Capulet who wanted terribly to change her name to Mrs. Romeo Montague, never has received such attention as she will this spring. For the gown similar to the one that she wore when she started blithely off for the tomb, merely intending to play dead dog for a few minutes, never anticipating the sadly disastrous end which was in view well—that gown is "one of the tentative styles of the spring season," according to Miss Elizabeth White, president of dressmaker's convention.

That gown of Miss Capulet's had no waist line at all.

And as for hips!

The season approaching is to be known as an ecclesiastical season. Straight lines and flowing draperies like unto a friar's frock, are to be quite proper. A fat woman, says Miss White, is hopelessly lost unless she gets the proper make, of what in the early days of American literature was known as stays—or words to that effect.

The waistline which for many months past has been on an average, about fifteen inches below the chin has become a variable and it may now be anywhere, to again quote Miss White, "between the chest and the knees."

Shades of that former standard toward which all feminine beauty reached which had twenty-four inches as the ideal waist measurement, and other figures were thirty-six and forty-four. Away with them! By the spring fashions there is no waist, there are no hips, and no one would even have the temerity to suggest measuring it.

Friar automobiling coats, a Juliet costume worn with a Capulet cap, a costume "clerical in its scope and design" for the spring visit to Monte Carlo, all these are receiving the interested attention of the dressmakers' convention now in session in Chicago. And any morning you may see a smart Duluth matron in a little shopping costume in one piece effect like the one Juliet chose to wear to the tomb, hieing blithely from market to market ordering butter, eggs, and potatoes, and grape fruit and things like that. The flowing lines girdled with a silken cord to stimulate a waist line, and en touched up of course with a few dozens of buttons, or the application of much braiding, or the inserting of a lot of embroidery, or any little thing like that, to give it tone, are what the American dressmakers in convention have decided that the American woman shall wear this year.

Mrs. POTTER TO SPEAK

Will Appear Before Political Equality Club.

Mrs. Frances Squire Potter of the faculty of the Minnesota university will be invited to speak before the Political Equality club of Duluth in the near future. Prof. Potter is deeply interested in the extending of suffrage to women and appeared with other representatives from the university in the interest of the movement before the state legislature during its present term. She visited this city earlier in the year and spoke under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club on a literary theme. Her active interest for years has been with the suffrage movement and her speech in this city will be of interest to a large number of people.

It was decided to invite Prof. Potter to speak before the Duluth club at the meeting which was held last evening to perfect the organization of the society. The officers elected were: President, Mr. Mary McCoy; secretary, Miss E. C. Turrell; and treasurer, Sigmond Slonem. A committee consisting of the three officers named and Harry Weinberg, will draft a constitution along the lines of the Political Equality club of Minneapolis. Meetings will be held every two weeks, the place to be announced later. Morris Kaplan addressed the meeting last evening and urged the holding of public meetings to educate the public to an appreciation of the vital need of the work which may be accomplished. Mr. Nixon also spoke informally.

The next meeting of the club will be held Wednesday evening, March 24.

Y. W. C. A. Notes.

The speaker at the Sunday afternoon devotional service at the Young Women's Christian association will be Rev. J. C. Fairies of the Glen Avon Presbyterian church. The meeting is at 4 o'clock and there will be special music.

• • •

The Y. W. C. A. membership contest with the object of bringing 2,000 names upon the membership roll by May 1, when the new building will be ready for occupancy will open Monday morning of next week and will continue for one month. It is hoped that every member now enrolled will make a particular effort to bring three new members or renewals during the month devoted to the contest. The contest will be followed by a membership banquet one of the first social affairs to be held in the new building. The membership fee will not be increased with the greater opportunities offered in the new building but the equipment being greatly enlarged and the opportunities in every department of the work being increased, it is desired that as many Duluth women as possible be brought in touch with some department of the work. The directors and workers are hoping that each member will do her share in the coming contest and that every one will begin work early in the month.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

At a recent meeting of the West End Women's Christian Temperance union, which was held at the home of Mrs. E. Dahl, the speaker was Mrs. Ida Merritt, the district superintendent, who spoke on a temperance topic. It was suggested that a Temperance Legion be organized among the children and the union will probably undertake this work. A resolution was also passed, to be sent to the council, protesting against the renewal of the saloon license to the Carpeter Bros.

BABY'S FASHIONS.

Style Provides Pretty Conceits for Little Ones.

Perhaps the young mother may think that when she comes to make clothes for her baby she won't have to worry her head very much as to what's the fashion of the day, says Grace Margaret Gould in the Woman's Home Companion for March. Perhaps she thinks that baby clothes are always the same. If she does, she is a very mistaken little lady, for clothes for the littlest folks show from time to time many of the innovations which make the garments for grown-ups in the mode. This is especially so this spring. Even the long dresses for infants show the princess and Empire lines, and sleeves have diminished greatly in size. The vogue for hand embroidery is also emphasized in baby clothes; not only is it used on the little dresses, but on the long cloaks and the dainty little flannel wrappers and sacques.

It goes without saying that if baby's mother is the sensible little woman that she is quite sure to be, baby will have no frills and furbelows on his clothes. Simplicity is the fashion of today. And baby clothes reflect the trend of the modes. Generally speaking, the distinction between baby's every-day clothes and his dresses for best wear is merely in the quality of the fabric. When baby is expected to look his finest his dress is of the sheerest of nainsook, lawn or long-cloth, and sometimes washable cotton chiffon.

For Spring Wear.

Violet linen as a material for tailormades bids fair to be unusually popular. One of the large shops was entirely sold out of linen of this particular shade, after the rush south this winter. If the home dressmaker decides to wear violet linen let her first try its effect on her complexion. She should have fair skin and she must choose the material of a good deep shade of violet, so that much washing will not make it look faded.

• • •

There promises to be a good demand for old rose; this is quite unusual as yet in linen, but this soft warm shade has been very prominent in other fabrics throughout the winter.

• • •

Pepper-and-salt goods—the always favored black and white—has come into favor again. It is being shown in many shops for spring suits.

• • •

Stripes, of course, are well established. Gray and black are the most distinctive combination. There are wide stripes and narrow ones. Such designs even creep into the mohairs, which are excellent fabrics, for traveling.

• • •

White diagonal serge at $1.69 a yard, double fold, is shown for the smartest of summer tailor-mades. Plain serge, or that with a white ground and wide-apart pin stripes of black, is also wonderfully modish at $1.19 to $1.98 a yard.

• • •

Some exquisite batistes were seen at 39 cents a yard. The material was wonderfully sheer, yet had good body. The smartest design was in plain gray, with a deep set-in border of white dots which looked as if they might have been handwrought.

• • •

In all the smartest tailor-made suits, the sleeves are put in entirely plain just like a man's coat sleeve.

Rough Silks.

The new silks in rough weaves are exceedingly fascinating. Shantung, that smart and most practical silk, will be much worn this summer, as will the whole family of pongees, rajahs, mirage and mandarin.

Mirage is extremely glossy, which makes it equally desirable for day or evening wear, for dust is easily removed and the pretty sheen is attractive at night under artificial light.

There is no one particular color, for every imaginable shades is to be found in any and every weave.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Strawberries, 60 cents a box.
Asparagus, 25 cents a bunch.
Mushrooms, 80 cents a pound.
Brussel sprouts, 35 cents a quart.
Grape fruit, 15 cents each.
Tomatoes, 25 cents a pound.
Cucumbers, 25 cents a pound.
Cucumbers, 25 cents a pound.
Live lobsters, 40 cents a pound.
Beef tongues, 60 cents each.
Smoked tongues, 70 cents each.
Fish.

Grape fruit, great golden globes of luscious ripeness are a particular feature of the market. It would seem that grape fruit never was so nice. The other things in the market are attractive, but of a price that merely suggests to the taste of the great common people the things they may enjoy a few months hence. Spinach, that fine spring tonic is 50 cents a peck, and tomatoes, brussel sprouts, asparagus and strawberries may be named in the same list of desirable, but rather unapproachable edibles.

The market is a very attractive place these mornings.

Elaborate Showing of the New Styles in Women's Spring Suits

They are here, in an array of color and grace, such as the women of Duluth have seldom had opportunity to enjoy.

The Tailored Suit first. Naturally this gown—the one that must bear the brunt of the wear—cialms first attention. One may or may not have a silken frock, a frou-frou of lace and frills and things; but one must have a tailored gown.

Here it is: The dressy tailored or the severe type; the light colored, the dark, or one of those well-bred neutrals. The conservative styles for mother, or the long, slim clingy models for those who tread closest to Dame Fashion's heels.

The materials are of Serges, in plain Shadow Stripes, Silk Poplins, Prunellas, Marquisettes, etc., in very new cuts and in the usual colors, besides a charming run of the new shades, gray, coral, mauve, sage and blue, that are simply irresistible. Ask to see them when you come. The entire price range is from—

$18.95 to $75.00

In Planning for This Early Showing

We had the co-operation of several prominent makers, which enables us to offer a greater variety of styles as well as very exceptional values.

COATES PAYS COMMISSION

Virginia Man Settles the Gamble Suit for $1,500.

Case Is Dismissed by Agreement Between the Attorneys.

With the case almost ready to go to the jury, the attorneys for George Gamble and A. B. Coates got together this morning and settled the $20,000, by Mr. Coates agreeing to pay Mr. Gamble $15,000. On motion of the plaintiff, the case, which went on trial before Judge Ensign yesterday morning, was dismissed.

Mr. Gamble brought suit on a claim assigned to him by Capt. Harry Roberts. It was alleged that under an agreement made last spring, Capt. Roberts secured a sub-lease on a mining property, near Chisholm, from the White Iron Lake Iron company for Mr. Coates. Under the agreement, it was alleged, Mr. Coates was to pay Mr. Roberts $20,000 as commission.

Mr. Coates denied the agreement to pay the money. He said negotiations were dropped for a long time after the first conference between him, Mr. Roberts and the president of the White Iron Lake Iron company, and the lease was not finally signed and delivered until September. He denied any liability under the claim. After the evidence was in, he agreed to settle.

of flour, lumber, livestock and dairy products much of which seeks transportation to the markets of the world; and

"Whereas, the Great Lakes system, which connects with theAtlantic seaboard and the Mississippi river, which flows to the Gulf of Mexico, have their common source in Minnesota, the tributaries of the Upper Mississippi extending within fifty miles of Lake Superior, and the union of the Great Lakes and Mississippi watersheds by canalization would make the greatest internal waterway of the world;

"Therefore be it resolved, by the house of representatives, the senate concurring: that it is the sense of the legislature of Minnesota that the commerce of this great lake and river should be connected by a national waterways canal;

"Resolved, that such waterway is of the greatest importance to this state and nation, and we hereby pledge the co-operation of the commonwealth of Minnesota without Federal government in the construction of such canal and in canalizing the Upper Mississippi river;

"Resolved further, that our delegation in congress be and is hereby urged to impress upon congress the necessity for immediate action in constructing such canal, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to each senator and representative from this state." STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

WIRELESS SAVES BOAT FROM GALE

The Schooner Trainer Is Towed Into New York Harbor.

New York, March 12.—With only her foremast left standing above her decks the schooner Ann J. Trainer, of Philadelphia, was towed into New York harbor today, after a gale. Passing steamers were informed by wireless and two of them went to the assistance of the schooner.

Capt. Derrickson, of the Trainer, declined to be taken off and the steamer sent his request for a tug by wireless. Soon afterward a tug started from Delaware Breakwater in search of the vessel.

LUCKY BALDWIN'S PARTNER DIES

Sam Baird Was Unlucky, However, and Abandoned Comrades.

San Bernardino, Cal., March 12.—Sam Baird, 80 years old, who was Lucky Baldwin's side partner in the days of Virginia City, and an associate of Flood, Mackay and Fair during those days, was buried in a rude coffin on the desert Tuesday.

He died unattended save by his aged wife, at Gold Mountain, on Monday night. Baird lost his fortune, and thirty-two years ago was installed by Baldwin as manager of the latter's Gold Mountain mines. They never amounted to anything, but Baird lived there.

Civilization was distasteful to him because of being forced out of the group of millionaires, by unfortunate investments.

Woman's Body Identified.

Dayton, Ohio, March 12.—The body of a woman found floating in the canal yesterday is that of Mrs. Francis Doolittle, formerly of Akron, Ohio. She had been in Dayton a year and has been missing five weeks. The picture found in her stocking proves to be that of her son, who lives in Akron. The coroner was unable to find any trace of violence and is satisfied it is a case of suicide.

Cone Gets Promotion.

Washington, March 12.—Lieut. commander Hutchinson I Cone has been appointed head of the bureau of steam engineering of the navy with the rank and pay of rear admiral. He distinguished himself by safely taking the torpedo boat flotilla from Newport News to San Franscisco with the Atlantic battleship fleet and was fleet engineer under Admiral Sperry during the world cruise, assuming that duty at San Francisco.

AGED COUPLE ARE BEATEN BY ROBBERS.

Pineville, Ky., March 12.—Robbers, after beating David Smith and his wife into insensibility at their home near here last night, robbed them of $582. They are 80 years old. Mrs. Smith is in a critical condition and will not recover. Her husband's wounds are not as dangerous. The robbers are being traced by bloodhounds and excitement is running high.

NEWCOMB, 73, WORKS ON BOOKS ABOUT THE MOON.

Washington, March 12.—Prof. Simon Newcomb, the noted astronomer, who has been decorated by many governments for his scientific achievements, today celebrated his seventy-fourth birthday anniversary.

Newcomb is directing his attention to the completion of a work on the motion of the moon. Before his retirement as rear admiral he was regarded as one of the world's greatest nautical experts.

TICKET SCALPERS TO BE SUPPRESSED IN MEXICO.

El Paso, Tex., March 12.—Enrique Creel, governor of Chihuahua, announced today that the legislature of his state will pass a law prohibiting the scalping of railroad tickets. Scalpers who were driven out of Texas have resumed business in Juraez, opposite El Paso, and the railroads threaten to withdraw stop-overs on the border unless Mexico suppresses the ticket scalping operations.

TAKE AGED PAIR THROUGH ROOF

Policemen Rescue Tenants When Fire Attacks House.

New York, March 12.—Several persons were rescued by policemen and firemen and one old couple were carried to the roof in an unconscious condition from the effects of the smoke, at a fire which started in one of the old time New York residences, 271 West Seventeenth street early today.

Policeman Marrow broke a window, crawled in, and aroused the tenants. Marrow and another policeman groped their way through the smoke-filled halls to the second floor and found John Hulsman and his wife lying unconscious in the hall.

The policemen carried the old people up through a skylight to the roof and they were soon revived.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM FLAMES

Fourteen Christian Brothers Routed From Their Sleeping Quarters.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 12.—Fourteen Christian Brothers, instructors in La Salle college, had narrow escapes today when fire caused by a defective flue badly damaged the top floor of the college occupied by them as sleeping quarters.

The brothers were awakened by the superior who had arisen early, and were compelled to make their way down a stairway through dense clouds of smoke. Loss, $30,000.

Arnold-Forster Dead.

London, March 12.—The death is announced in London of Hugh Oakeley Arnold-Forster, secretary of state for war from 1903 to 1906. Arnold-Forster had been ill for a long time. He was born in 1855.

RUNAWAY HORSE JUMPS INTO AUTO.

Oakland, Cal., March 12.—The spectacle of a horse riding in an automobile was witnessed here yesterday. The horse, which had been attached to a light delivery wagon, ran away and jumped into a passing automobile and rode for almost a block before the machine was stopped.

NORTH BRANCH GOES "DRY."

Anti-License Element Wins Out by Only Four Majority.

North Branch, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—By the narrow margin of four votes, the temperance element carried the village election here, in one of the closest contests on record.

By a vote of seventy-eight to seventy-four, the drys won.

J. A. Rystrom was elected president of the council by a vote of 88 to 67 over P. Splittstoser, the independent candidate. The new councilmen are: O. W. Herreid, S. E. Edelstein, C. H. Westeman. Recorder Elmgren was chosen for another year, as was also O. W. Fagerstrom for treasurer, and Henry Smith for assessor. C. E. Havens, Sr., was elected constable for two years, and J. P. Holmberg, justice of the peace for two years.

WIND UP ITS BUSINESS

Chisholm Relief Committee Will Make a Final Report.

A Few Families Are Still Receiving Weekly Aid.

It is expected that before the end of the month the affairs of the Chisholm fire relief commission, appointed by Governor Johnson at the time of the big range forest fires last fall, will be wound up, and an accounting made of all the money spent.

The final adjustment of affairs of the commission has been delayed by the fact that the majority of members have been out of town for three or four weeks. They are returning now, however, and all of them will be in the city within a week or two, so that meetings of the commission may be called.

Most of the work, and there was a larger amount of it than almost anybody realized, fell upon Mayor Haven, chairman of the commission. In fact, he has done practically all the work, the commission meetings being for the purpose of approving work done, and mapping out future work. It fell to the chairman to see that the work planned was carried out. The commission had a fund of about $70,000 at its disposal, and the mere keeping track of where the dollars went in relieving the fire sufferers, was no small amount of work. The distribution of clothing and provisions and building material took much time.

The Chisholm and Hibbing committees did excellent work all through the relief campaign, and kept the central commission posted as to the needs of the people. Fortunately the different committees got along very well together, and worked along without any friction or criticism of each other's methods.

The relief work is now a thing of the past, except for a few families at Chisholm that are still receiving assistance. They will have to have assistance during the remainder of the winter, according to the local committee, and probably will be allowed so much a month from the relief fund, until they are on their feet again. The north shore relief work was finished up some time ago, as was the major portion of the work on the range.

The most important work of the commission yet remaining is the auditing, approving and payment of unpaid bills, and there are a good many of them. No bill can be paid without the approval of the commission. A meeting will be called within the next week or two, as soon as all the members are in the city, and then affairs of the commission will be rapidly closed up.

FAMOUS DANCER DEAD.

Countess de Chabrillan Rose From Music Halls to Royalty.

Paris, March 12.—The Countess de Chabrillan, who died a few days since in Paris, at the age of 85, was, during the reign of Louis Philippe, one o fthe most famous dancers of the French stage.

Of the very humblest origin, Celeste Venard, the name under which the comtesse started in life, first began obscure music halls in Montmartre, and later was engaged in the famous "Prado" balls, which were in vogue at the time. Her charm and beauty conquered fashionable Paris and her success was unprecedented.

She appeared in all the principal music halls and balls. In 1844, when she was 20, at the time of the Morocco war, she was given the name of "Celeste Mogador," in honor of the bombardment of Mogador by French troops and baptized with champagne by her admirers. She married the Comte de Chabrillan and left with him for Australia, where he had been appointed French consul in 1854. After two years of marriage the comtesse became a widow and returned to Paris, where she strove to live down the memories of "Celeste Mogador."

She wrote her memories, but the publication of them was stopped by the authorities at the third volume. She published several books, wrote a few plays, and undertook the management of the Theater Folies Marigny, where she lost nearly all her money. She lived in retirement after 1884 on the little income reaining to her and a pension allowed her by the Dramatic Authors' society, of which she was a member.

HALF FULL ELEVATOR DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Bismarck, N. D., March 12.—The Homestead elevator at Underwood was destroyed by fire early Wednesday. It is supposed the fire was caused by sparks from the Wyman hotel fire of the night before, and had smoldered for twenty-four hours. The elevator was half full of grain. It was one of the largest on the Soo line in this section. The loss and insurance are unknown.

SWEETHEARTS CAME TO AID

Soldier May be Saved by a Girl a Second Time.

New Bedford, Mass., March 12.—Love letters rivaling the emotional missives sent by Grace "Billy" Brown to Chester Gillette before the widely discussed tragedy of the Adirondacks hold the center of the stage in William C. Howard's fight for life. He is a young soldier of Fort Rodman, this city, and is being tried here on the charge of murdering his young wife, Ida, on the night of Sept. 19, last.

This is the second time within a year that Howard has been tried for his life. Last July he was arrested on the charge of having shot and killed Edward Dewhurst in Hazelwood park at New Bedford. No one saw the Dewhurst killing except Miss Grace F. Sturtevant, a girl of 18, to whom Howard had been paying much attention. The killing of Dewhurst remained a profound mystery for three years. Miss Sturtevant kept the secret. Throughout all this time Howard continued to pay attention to her. After his first three years of enlistment had expired he went to his home in Tennessee and was then married. This he kept secret from Miss Sturtevant.

Returning to New Bedford, Howard re-enlisted in the army. He had told Miss Sturtevant that his sister, Rhoda, would follow him.

A young woman appeared in New Bedford who was introduced by Howard as his sister to Miss Sturtevant. In reality she was his wife, Ida Howard. Last July Howard's wife revealed the fact, which had come into her possession that it was her husband who had killed Dewhurst. When Howard faced the electric chair, charged with this crime, Miss Sturtevant came to the front and swore that she was with Howard when he shot Dewhurst and that he fired in self-defense. Howard went free.

Two months later Howard's wife, who had posed as his sister, died mysteriously. Her body was found in the river. A few days afterward Howard was arrested, charged with having killed her. Witnesses have sworn that Mrs. Howard was seen going to Padanarium the evening of September 19 and one of them declared that she had said that she was to meet her husband there. Gardner T. Hart of that place swore that he had seen Howard at 11 o'clock on the night of the tragedy. Medical experts testified that Mrs. Howard had been choked to death and her body thrown into the water. Miss Lena Watson went on the stand in Howard's defense and swore that she and her mother spent from until 12 o'clock on the night of the tragedy at Fort Redman. Miss Watson was one of thirteen girls whose names were found in Howard's soldier handbook under the heading of "My Sweethearts." One of the others of the thirteen was Miss Sturtevant. If the jury regards the testimony of Miss Watson as true she will be the second of his sweethearts to step forward when he faced death, and save his life.

LABORER WINS $62,500.

Invested $1.50 in Ticket Which Bore the Lucky Number.

London, March 12.—It became known at Llanhilleth, a colliery town near Newport, on Saturday last, that a man named Arthur King, a "hitcher" at the Llanhilleth steam coal pits there, about a month ago sent a number to a German state lottery, accompanied by a remittance of $1.50. He was informed by letter on Thursday that his number had been drawn, and that he was entitled to $62,500.

King, who was born in London, where his mother still lives, has worked underground for eight years. His average weekly wages are about $10. He is a single man.

RETAIN LUMBER TARIFF SAYS FORESTER PINCHOT IN LETTER TO PAYNE

Washington, March 12.—Removal of the tariff on lumber would neither reduce the price to the consumer, nor preserve our forests, according to the opinion expressed by Gifford Pinchot, chief of the United States forest service. In a letter to Sereno F. Payne, chairman of the house ways and means committee.

Pinchot holds that the fundamental question at issue in the lumber tariff is forest conservation. He says he would favor a removal of the tariff if he were of the opinion, which he thinks, is the cause of the demand for free lumber, that it would offer a way to protect our forests. "But I am unable to see," he says, "how free lumber will promote forestry.

"There is only one way to save our forests," he adds; "that is to see that they are kept at work growing new crops of timber as the old are cut away."

Pinchot says that "most of the lumber we now import comes from Canada, as most of it would if the duty were taken off. We are importing from Canada only about 2 per cent as much lumber as we are cutting from our own forests. It is not likely that under free lumber more than 5 per cent as much would come from Canada as we would cut at home."

Slight Benefit to Consumer.

"Canada, as compared with the United States, has no great timber supply," he continued. "Her total amount of standing timber is probably not more than one-third of what is left of ours. In the end the Canadians will undoubtedly require for home use all the timber they can produce. Imports from Canada, therefore, would not be enough to limit the cutting of our forests, or to reduce the price of lumber in any important degree."

Pinchot is of the opinion that if the duty were removed there would be little if any benefit to the ultimate consumer in the United States. The waste in logging, according to him, is already enormous, being several times larger than the importation from Canada. "I do not believe," he says, "that the increased use of Candian wood under free lumber would equal the increased waste."

The chief forester thinks it "highly important that we should have free pulpwood in the future as in the past, and that Canada should impose no export duty upon pulpwood. In this respect, he continues, "the pulpwood and paper making industry is in a different position from the other great wood-using industries of the United States. The latter can be supplied wholly from our own forests, while the former must have free access to the Canadian spruce forests so long as spruce is the chief pulpwood." He declares that ground wood should be admitted free "provided that it comes from a country which does not in any way restrict the exportation of pulp wood or ground wood and that there should be a reduction in the duty upon printpaper providing that it comes from a country which does not in any way restrict the exportation of pulpwood, wood pulp or printing paper."

Will Force Clean Work.

The forester places the first duty for conserving the forests upon the lumbermen themselves, declaring that "by asking for the retention of the tariff in order to protect the forests, the lumbermen have in substance entered into an agreement which the people of the United States to perpetuate their forests by wise usages."

He declares that if the lumbermen do not make the most of this opportunity, legislation is coming, and coming very soon, which will force them to do clean work in the woods, and to leave their cut-over lands in a condition to produce a second crop."

It Saved His Leg.

"All thought I'd lose my leg," writes J. A. Swenson, Watertown, Wis. "Ten years of eczema, that fifteen doctors could not cure, had at last laid me up. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured it sound and well." Infallible for Skin Eruptions, Eczema, Salt Rheum, Boils, Fever Sores, Burns, Scalds, Cuts and Piles. 25c at all druggists.

GORKI SAFE IN ITALY.

No Prospect of the Socialist-Author Being Extradited.

Milan, March 12.—Maxim Gorki, the famous novelist and revolutionary, probably will continue to reside in his tranquil retreat in the beautiful island of Capri, as the Italian government has no intention of aiding the Russian authorities to execute the warrant for Gorki's arrest by granting an extradition order. Nevertheless the social reformer lives continually under the espionage of the secret agents of Russia, who have watched his movements closely since the day he first set foot on Italian soil.

When two years ago, Gorki accepted the invitation of the Roman Socialist party to participate in the first anniversary commemoration of Red Sunday in St. Petersburg, the Italian government persuaded him to desist under threat of expulsion, and its attitude evoked angry scenes in the chamber of deputies. The belief is current among Maxim Gorki's large circle of friends in this country that strenuous endeavors are afoot on the part of Russia to procure somhow or other Gorki's departure r temporary banishment.

Made of Forest Roots

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases, if we would properly investigate them; and, in confirmation of this conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator and blood cleanser known to medical science. Dyspepsia, or indigestion and torpid liver yield to its curative action.

The reason why it cures these and many other affections, is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all sending request for the same.

Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements is as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it, often after many other advertised medicines, and physicians had failed.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle-wrapper. Don't accept secret nostrums as substitutes for these medicines OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

SET TRAP FOR SERVANT.

Was Doused With Vitriol When She Opened Cash Box.

Paris, March 12.—Owing to the shortcomings of French servants, numerous families in Paris are giving up housekeeping and adopting the plan of taking apartments in residential hotels. Conflicts between servants and their mistresses make ever-increasing demands on the time of the judges of the civil and criminal courts in Paris.

A few days ago a man and his wife living in the Rue de la Grosse Norlogo, in Rouen, suspecting their domestic of dishonesty, laid a trap. In a metal cash-box they placed a shallow vessel containing vitrol. They then fixed a spiral spring inside the box and locked it. Next morning the servant, seeing no one about, opened the box with a duplicate key. The lid sprang open and she was cruelly burned by the vitrol.

Her employers had her arrested, and in her room the police found over $3,500 in cash, a superb pair of earrings, a gold watch and chain and a handsome necklace. The jewelry is supposed to have been stolen from previous employers.

Now for the First Time, We Announce a Select Showing of Distinguished Styles in Women's

Coats, Suits, Costumes

WE'VE done things rather better than ever this season! We never before have made such an attractive advance showing—and in the entire collection—there isn't a model which will not stamp its wearer as a person of taste and discrimination in dress!

You know how tasteless and insipid the first strawberries are—well, it's not a far-fetched comparison to rank the earlier showings of spring garments with the first strawberries. They may look all right at the time—but they can't stand comparison with the later arrivals! -:- : :-

This year we had two people in New York early, carefully studying styles and style tendencies—but they didn't buy a garment until quite recently, when styles became thoroughly established. The result is self-evident—you'll find no early season experimental styles at Gray-Tallant company's—instead, the very newest and best of the fully developed styles are here!

The New Colorings Carefully Fashioned.
The Correct Fabrics Superbly Tailored.
Coats, Suits and Costumes

We invite your inspection! Come if only to get posted on the grace, and refinement of the styles!

Women, who know, realize more and more each season how much better they can do in buying here! It costs nothing to look—and we're proud to show our splendid new stocks.

The Hats of Spring Are Here!

You know you are tired of that heavy winter hat—so why not be first to wear a new spring hat. Come in and try on, anyway.

Warner's Newest Directoire Corset is Long-Skirted

But it isn't a sixteenth part of an inch too long for the figure for which it is intended, which is that of the large woman, tall and stately—hose supporters all around, as you will note at the clasp, front, hips and depending from the back.

Not a part of the form can get away from the corset.

This is a corset that has been thoroughly tested and that has stood the test, the hardest we can give. It is a shape that the form is dignified by taking on. It is comfortable—quite as comfortable as any garment you have ever worn. Comfortable standing, sitting or walking. It is made to wear—not to rust, break or tear.

NO OTHER PLACE FOR MULE BARN

The trial of the case of John Mestnik, administrator of the estate of Joseph Mestnik, against the Malta Iron company, will probably be concluded in district court this afternoon. The defense was engaged in putting in testimony all morning and the argumets will probably be made late this afternoon.

Howard T. Abbott, attorney for the defendant company, yesterday moved for a dismissal of the case, on the contention that a settlement had already been reached and the company had been released by the plaintiff. He was overruled by Judge Cant.

As administrator of his brother's estate, Mestnik is suing for $5,000 for the benefit of the wife and two children of Joseph Mestnik, who met his death in the Malta mine at Sparta. He was suffocated on account of the burning of the mule barn in the mine, the fire cutting off the avenue of escape. The plaintiff claims a more suitable place could have been found for the mule barn, so the men in the lower levels would not have been cut off from escape in the case of fire. The defense alleges the mule barn was put in the safest possible place and the fire was caused by the carelessness of one of the workmen and not by its negligence.

ULTIMATUM TO ATTORNEYS

Cases for trial and not ready will be stricken from the calendar in district court. That was the ultimation given the attorneys of the county by Judge Cant this morning and delays occasioned by attorneys not being ready with their cases when they are called will not be booked in the future.

But few cases have been triad since the court took up the jury cases last Monday. Every day, at least one court room was idle because the attorneys weren't ready to on with the trial of their cases.

Cases are put on call three or four days before they are called for trial. Judge Cant says ample opportunity is given attorneys to get ready and if they arn't ready when their cases are called, they must take the consequences, not the court. The court is anxious to dispose of the calendar as soon as possible and in the regular order and clogs placed in the wheels by the dilatory tactics of attorneys will be removed by the cases being stricken.

MR. SING GOE OF HONGKONG

Sing Goe from Hongkong, a Chinaman of some distinction in the land of the queue, is at the Lenox today. Sing Goe is here visiting some of the members of the Duluth Chinese colony, some of whom he knew in their native land. He will remain here for a few days.

Sing Goe, who cannot speak English so that you can understand him, says that rapid progress is being made in China. Education and the infusion of Western ideas are accountable for the process of transformation that the celestial land is going through at the present time, according to Sing Goe.

Sing Goe is of the opinion that China will some day take her place with the nations as a world power. He says, furthermore, that the example of Japan's power and influence has had its influence upon the Chinese. They believe that they, too, can increase the this direction that the statesmen of the Chinese empire are working, according to Sing Goe.

RAILROAD NEWS

IN SEATTLE BY APRIL 1

Milwaukee's Pacific Coast Extension Will Soon be Completed.

More definite information concerning the progress that is being made upon the Pacific Coast extension of the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound railroad, has been received by C. L. Kennedy, commercial agent of the Milwaukee road at Duluth.

It is now stated by the engineers of the road, that rails will be laid into Seattle by the first of April. The first train may be pulled into Seattle on that date. This does not mean that the Milwaukee will operate regular service to the coast after the first of April. The line will require some additional work, such as ballasting, etc., after the rails are laid into Seattle.

If the rails are laid into Setttle by April, the Pacific Coast extension of the road, a stretch of road 1,400 miles in length, will have been completed in remarkably short time of three years. This will surpass all previous records in railroad construction in this or any other country.

Over 60,000,000 cubic yards of material will have been excavated, upon the completion of the extension to the coast; 360,000 yards of tunnel driven; twenty miles of bridges erected, and over 200,000 tons of eighty-five pound rails laid, at the estimated cost of $85,000,000.

The completion of the work west of the Missouri river, will complete a system of 9,000 miles of road. It will place the Milwaukee in the class of transcontinental roads, and will open up a new and fertile country, to the jobbers of Duluth and the Twin Cities.

One of the greatest engineering feats in the construction of the extension, according to the view of the practical railroad man, is the fact that no grade upon the new system, that passes through some of the most mountainous country in the United States, is more than .06. The road passes through the base of the Bitter Root mountains, by the famous tunnel, which has caused a great deal of comment in the engineering and railroad world. The tunnel is 8,751 feet in length, piercing the summit of the mountains and constructed at an enormous cost.

The bridge over the Missouri river is a steel span bridge, with three 423-foot spans. The bridge rests upon four concrete and stone piers.

From the Missouri river the road passes the Standing Rock Indian reservtion and through North Dakota passes through a comparatively new country. It enters Montana at Terry. Four miles to the east of Terry, the Milwaukee crosses the Northern Pacific. The Northern Pacific is again crossed at Lombard. At Lombard the road climbs the continental divide between Piedmont, on the eastern side of the Rockies, and Butte upon the western side of the Rockies.

Leaving Butte the Milwaukee will touch at Garrison and Missoula. At Missoula will be one of the division headquarters. At Hagan the road begins the climb over the Bitter Root mountain range.

At Beverly, Wash., the Columbia river is crossed. Through the Cascade mountain country the road passes through a heavily wooded district. The road's branch to Tacoma is completed, and both the Tacoma line and the main line to Seattle, pass through the growing farming country of Washington.

The information states that though the Milwaukee parallels the Northern Pacific through some parts of its extension to the coast, for the most part it will open up a new country that has been but little developed and which will afford a good market to the big jobbing cities.

WILL EXTEND THIS SUMMER

Canadian Northern Will Build Into Duluth This Year.

It has been ascertained that the Canadian Northern will build from Virginia to Duluth, some time during the coming spring or summer. This announcement, while not made officially, comes from a source very close to the headquarters of the road.

The plans for the extension of the road to Duluth are being worked out at the present time. The line is also being surveyed. The engineers of the Canadian Northern, which controls the Rainy Lake, have been working upon the plans and the survey, and things are getting to the stage where the actual work upon the extension can be taken up.

The work upon the Canadian Northern will be pushed through with all possible rapidity, when it is started. It is the desire of the Canadian Northern officials to have their terminals in Duluth completed as soon as possible, and with that idea in view the work will be pushed.

Expect Heavy Travel.

H. F. Carter, district passenger agent of the Union Pacific railroad, is in the city today. The Union Pacific is expecting to receive a great deal of benefit from the tide of traffic that is expected will move westward with the opening of the Seattle exposition.

Besides the attraction of the exposition at Seattle, Mr. Carter says that numerous conventions will be held in the cities of the West. Denver, Salt Lake City and Los Angeles will each hold a big convention.

Mr. Carter says when the cheaper rates go into effect, it is expected that many homeseekers will take advantage of them. It is believed that many people will go to the lands in Oregon, Idaho and the other Western states.

"The Thief."

There are only seven characters in "The Thief," which Charles Frohman will bring to the Lyceum next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The action takes place within twelve hours. The unities of place and incident are also observed. The plot is as startling as ingenious. There is no divining the denouements, or, for that matter, the next situation in "The Thief." The oldest playgoer goes as far astray in this regard as the youngest. The spectator thinks the climax of an act has been reached only to be aroused out of his complacency by another and more thrilling turn of the prolific and resourceful mind of the playwright. New York audiences—late to arrive at the theaters and early to leave—always came early for the performance of "The Thief" and stayed late. There was no hurrying for hats and wraps towards the end. The play held their interest to the very finish, and when this would come, not even the most inveterate frequenter of the playhouse could tell. No play produced in years has possessed this power of holding the spectator's interest so firmly fixed as has "The Thief." For the performance of "The Thief" here Charles Frohman has selected this cast: Charles Dalton, Edward R. Mawson, Margaret Wycherly, Leonard Ide, Arthur Lawrence and Mrs. Hillary Bell.

Mme. Eames Coming.

Emilio de Gogorza, whom the critics have frequently referred to as the "ideal baritone" of the country will sing here in the concert in conjunction with Emma Eames at the Lyceum, on Thursday evening, March 18.

Emelio de Gogorza is an American by birth, Brooklyn, N. Y., having been his native place. Mr. Gogorza passed the greater part of his life in Europe. His early education was received in London and he was known here as the famous boy soprano connected with the English church choirs. In early manhood he went to Paris, where he studied with M. Emilie Bourgeois, and also with the great Victor Maurel, whose protege he was and who gave him valuable training and advice which he followed to his success. Mr. Gogorza, through diligent study and close application to his art has become prominent as a baritone and his position in the world of music is most unique for his art possesses an individuality not found in another male singer of this generation.

Notice to the Public.

We wish to announce to the public that we have bought out all the interest of Mr. John F. Brander, who has handled our family trade business for the last six years. From now on we will handle this business ourselves. We have secured the services of Mr. Harry P. Hall, who will be pleased to see all of the old friends and customers of Mr. Brander. The office and warehouse still remain at the same place, 117 West First street. We will endeavor to give the public and customers the best possible service.

The telephone numbers are the same, 434 new and 1430-K old 'phone.

We shall be pleased to receive orders for family trade, either by 'phone or personal call, at 117 West First street, and such orders will be given the very best attention.

We invite all customers and friends to call at our brewery, Twenty-ninth avenue west and Helm, and inspect our splendid new bottle house, and see with what care and cleanliness we prepare our famous brands, the Rex and Moose.

Thanking all friends for past patronage, and soliciting your future business and orders, we remain,

BIG CEDAR LAND DEAL.

Finch Bros. of Superior Purchase 40,000 Acres Near Ashland.

Ashland, Wis., March 12.—Special to The Herald.)—Finch Bros., cedar and lumber men of Superior, have closed a deal at Ashland, wherby they become the possessors of all the cedar on about 40,000 acres of land in Ashland and Iron counties owned by the Foster-Latimer Lumber company, of Mellen.

The consideration is not given but it is understood that it is one of the largest deals that has been consummated for Ashland county for some time.

Finch Bros. will erect a mill at Mellen, at once and will begin the manufacture of cedar ties, posts and shingles. This will add one more industry to the flourishing little city of Mellen, which at present is one of the busiest places in Northern Wisconsin.

GUY EDIE TO BE TAFT'S PHYSICIAN

Major Will Take Place of Rear Admiral Rixey.

Washington, March 12.—Maj. Guy Edie of the United States army medical department, who accompanied Mr. Taft around the world, is to be the president's family physician, according to a well founded rumor.

He will replace Rear Admiral P. M. Rixey, who served as physician to Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt. Dr. Rixey entered the navy in 1874 and soon is to be retired.

Maj. Edie is the eighteenth man of his rank in the United States army and conducts the army dispensary in Washington. He has been an intimate friend of Mr. Taft for many years.

KICKED BY HORSE.

Ottertail County Farmer Sustains Probably Fatal Injuries.

Fergus Falls, Minn., March 12.—Odin O. Sletvold, one of the leading farmers of the town of Oscar, was kicked by a horse a few days ago, and fell backward striking the hard frozen ground so violently that the base of the skull was fractured and the brain injured by the shock. Dr. Sherping, who was summoned, says that the injured man's recovery is doubtful. The injury is so serious that the physician does not hold out much hope.

The accident happened outside Mr. Sletvold's barn at his farm about ten miles northwest from Fergus Falls. He was walking behind a span of horses, one of which kicked him, throwing him violently.

Mr. Sletvold is about 50 years of age and is one of the earliest settlers in the town of Oscar.

TWO MICHIGAN COLLEGES AFTER CARNEGIE PENSIONS

Lansing, Mich., March 12.—The University of Michigan at Ann Arbor and the Michigan Agricultural college here, are applicants for the benefits of the Carnegie foundation for the pensioning of retired professors. Both houses of the state legislature have passed a resolution directing the state board of agriculture to apply for the pensions for the agricultural college and a similar application made by the board of regents in behalf of the university was approved by the legislature several weeks ago.

GRAND TRUNK BILL PASSED BY CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

Victoria, B. C., March 12.—The Grand Trunk Pacific bill has passed parliament, providing for the ratification of the agreement between the provincial government and the railway respecting the division of their shares in the Prince Rupert townsite. Originally it was arranged that the water front should be cut into sections, the government taking one-quarter and the railway three-quarters in regular order. The Grand Trunk by the act passed today receives several large blocks fronting on the harbor, which will be used as the terminal point.

ZEPPELIN AIRSHIP GAINS ALTITUDE OF 3,000 FEET.

Friedrichshafen, March 12.—The Zeppelin airship, which went up from Lake Constance this morning, attained an altitude of over 3,000 feet a record height for steerable balloons. Varied and difficult maneuvres were carried out at this height with success.

WAS NOT "OUT OF A JOB" A GREAT WHILE

WILLIAM LOEB.

Washington, March 12.—William Loeb, until recently secretary to President Roosevelt, slept late the morning of March 5. This was entirely contrary to precedent. Billy Loeb, three and a half years old, couldn't understand it. His father had invariably appeared at the very earliest breakfast, the one that Billy is always ready for. He inquired of his mother where father was.

"Why, father's out of a job," she said. "He doesn't have to get up early."

When Mr. Loeb appeared. Billy was waiting for him.

"You are out of a job," he called up the stairs, when he saw his father.

"That's so, Billy," Mr. Loeb said, "but cheer up, we may get another one."

After the senate confirmed his nomination to be collector of the port of New York, Mr. Loeb said that he was going to hurry home and assure Billy that the head of the family again had work.

KILLED BY THE SENATE

ary election amendments before the legislature.

It killed the Moonan bill extending the primary election to the nomination for state officers, 28 for and 33 against.

It killed the Canfield bill, destroying the primary election system altogether and replacing it by a convention system with delegates elected at regular primary elections under the Australian ballot. This measure got 23 votes, and there were 34 against it.

Senator George H. Sullivan of Stillwater offered a compromise in the form of an amendment to the Canfield bill, making that plan apply only to the nominations for state offices, and leaving the present direct nomination system to apply to all the officers it now covers. That plan, too, went down to defeat, 23 for and 33 against.

The senate voted as follows on these three propositions:

Statewide Primary Bill.

Against—Alderman, Bedford, Briggs, Calhoun, Campbell, Canfield, Carpenter, Clague, Coller, Cooke, Dunn, Durment, French, Gunderson Gunn, Hall, Hinton C. A. Johnston, Laybourn, Nelson, Pugh, Putnum, Smith, Stephens, Sullivan, Thorpe, Vail, White, Wilson, Witherstone, Wright—32.

Absent and not voting—Farrington, Hackney, Swanson—3.

Senators Coller and Witherstone, Democrats, voted against the Moonan bill.

The Canfield Bill.

For—Anderson, Briggs, Calhoun, Campbell, Canfield, Carpenter, Coller, Cooke, Dale, Dunn, French, Gunn, Hall, H. E. Hanson, Hinton, C. A. Johnson, Johnston, Putnam, Smith, Stephens, Thorpe, Witherstine, Wright—23.

Against—Ahmann, Bedford, Canestorp, Cashman, Clague, Donaldson, Durment, Elwell, Fossecn, Glotzbach, Gunedrson, A. L. Hanson, Hardy, V. L. Johnson, Laybourn, McColl, McGowan, Naeseth, Nelson, Pauly, Peterson, Poehler, Pugh, Robinson, Sageng, Schaller, Seward, Sullivan, Sundberg, Vail, Weis, White Wilson, Works—34.

Absent and not voting—Alderman, De Tolt, Farrington, Hackney, Moonan, Swanson—6.

The Sullivan Compromise.

For—Ahmann, Canestorp, Clague, Dale, Durment, Fosseen, Glotzbach, Gunderson, A. L. Hanson, H. E. Hanson, Hardy, V. L. Johnson, Laybourn, McColl, Nelson, Peterson, Pugh, Robinson, Schaller, Seward Sullivan, Wilson, Wright—23.

Against—Anderson, Bedford, Briggs, Calhoun, Campbell, Canfield, Carpenter, Cashman, Coller, Cooke, Donaldson, Dunn, French, Gunn, Hall, Hinton, C. A. Johnson, Johnston, Moonan, Naeseth, Pauly, Poehler, Putam, Sageng, Smith, Stephens, Sundberg, Thorpe, Vail, Weis, White, Witherstine, Works—33.

Absent and not voting—Alderman, Du Telt, Elwell, Farrington, Hackney, McGowan, Swanson—7.

Senator Moonan of Waseca made an eloquent and appealing talk in favor of his state wide primary bill. He said that the newspapers have charged him with intending to make clear the pathway of Governor Johnson to the senatorship, but that that was not true. To prove it he had consented to strike out of the bill, at the urgent request of members of the elections committee, the provision extending the primary to the nomination of United States senators. He yielded to nobdy in point of admiration for Governor Johnson, who has made the state famous all over the nation, and who will be the first president the country has ever had from the territory west of the Mississippi. The bill is not in the interests of him, however, or of any other individual or of any party. It is no more a Democratic measure than it is a Republican measure. Senator Moonan quoted a number of Republicans in favor of the primary election system, including A. L. Cole and J. F. Jacobson, the latest Republican candidates for governor, and President Taft, Governor Hughes of New York, Governor Stubbs of Nebraska, Senator Crawford of South Dakota, Senator Beveridge of Indiana and Francis J. Heney of San Francisco. He quoted Dar Reese of St. Paul against the bill, representing him as having blamed the primary system for the election of a Democratic governor in this state.

"If the primary election system defeated the last three Republican candidates for governor," asked Mr. Moonan, "what elected the other Republican state officers?" The present bill, he said, met several objections that have been raised to the primary election system. The objection that it is limited is met by expanding it. The objection that it permits the intermingling of party voters is met by a provision that party affiliations of all voters shall be registered at primary elections, which would tend to keep the voters in their proper primaries.

Senator Canfield made an able and ingenious argument for his measure and against Monan's. Speaking of the provision in the Moonan bill allowig voters to write in names of candidates on the primary election ballot, he made the remarkable statement, which was greeted with applause and yells of approval from the Democrats, that if that plan had prevailed last election, the Republicans would have nominated John A. Johnson as their candidate for governor, and he would have been on both tickets.

Senator Canfield declared the primary election system to be a stupendous mistake. It was calculated to give the people no information or guidance in the selection of candidates other than that which they get from the press. The newspapers in primary elections are either silent altogether, or declaring for particular candidates because of personal friendship or pecuniary considerations. He said that the primary system "strikes at the most vital principles of our republic," and that its friends are enemies of a republican form of government. He meant republican with a small "r" too.

"Under the primary election system as it now stands," said Mr. Canfield, "if the only two candidates for a given office are horse thieves, the people have no alternative except to elect a horse thief to office, unless they care to go to the trouble and expense of nominating an opposing candidate by petition. He said that the primary election system is expensive to candidates, and that the time is coming, if it has not already arrived, when no man of moderate means can afford to run for office; which tends to create an official aristocracy of wealth. He objected to the system, too, because it destroys party organization; also because it produces poorer public service, as the members of the minority party go into the primaries of the dominant party and pick out its weakest candidates.

Senator Moonan replied that a repeal of the primary election system would be a step backward by a state that was a pioneer in election reform, and that the Canfield bill would revive all the vice and corruption of the old convention system.

Senator Coller, Democrat, said he had always opposed the primary election system because it gives too much power to the cities, where it is easy to attend the primaries, and because it enables the members of one party to select the candidates of the opposing party. Senator Witherstine, also a Democrat, said he introduced the "Canfield bill" four years ago, and to be consistent he could hardly do otherwise than vote for it now.

Senator Sullivan offered his compromise, saying that it would be all right to improve the system of nominating state officers by adopting the Canfield plan, while leaving the primary election to cover all the offices it now affects.

Senator Peterson of Moorhead approved the primary election law as it stands and as it was proposed to extend it by the Moonan bill, and said that the arguments of those opposing it all come to the conclusion that they do not trust the people.

The house in committee of the whole yesterday afternoon advanced to the calendar, where it will pass, the aldermans senate bill limiting the number of saloons in this state to one for each 500 inhabitants in each community. The prohibition element in the house made a fight against it, first by proposing amendments making its provisions more radical, and last by voting against it. All the amendments were adopted and the bill advanced by a very comfortable vote.

To say that the bill limits the number of saloons in each community to one for each 500 inhabitants, as it is usually described, is rather misleading, because it does not change the present number of saloons in any particular. After imposing the above limitation, the bill provides that "where a greater number of licenses may have been issued at the time of the passage of this act, it shall be lawful to grant and issue licenses equal in number to those issued at the time of the passage of the act," but no additional licenses in number shall be granted until the increase in population brings the community up to the proper population. This means that a community of 10,001 people, where there are thirty saloons, no more can be granted until the community attains a population of over 15,000. If any existing licenses go out of business, a license may be issued to take the place of the one thus lapsing.

One way in which the number of saloons may be materially reduced under this law is where a community votes "no license" under the local option law. If at any time thereafter that the community votes for license again, the new saloons cannot exceed one for each 500 people.

The measure is a concession not only to the temperance sentiment, but to the feeling that a good deal of the mischief arising out of the saloon business is due to the fact that the multiplicity of saloons with their competition for business breeds abuses.

There never was any danger that the legislature would repeal the anti-pass law, but just to make sure the house in committee of the whole killed the Brady bill repealing the law passed two years ago against the free pass. The votes in favor of the bill were very hearty, but not numerous.

• • •

The house shut the lid down yesterday afternoon on the so-called "midnight lid" bill, by Representative O'Brien of St. Paul, by recommending it for indefinite postponement in committee of the whole. The bill provided that in cities of the first class—over 50,000—the city councils might, by ordinance, make the closing hour for saloons midnight instead of 11 o'clock.

An amendment was adopted extending it to cover cities of second class.

Then another amendment was adopted taking in cities of the third class.

Then an attempt was made to let in cities of the fourth class, and when that was turned down, representatives of those cities joined with the temperance element in killing the bill.

The house advanced to the calendar Representative Brown's bill to prohibit the manufacture and sale of adulterated or misbranded drugs, after Donald Robertson had secured the adoption of an amendment taking the matter away from the dairy and food department and placing it under the state pharmacy board. The measure prohibits the sale of drugs differing in strength, quality or purity from the standard, unless the actual standard of strength, quality or purity of the drug be stated upon the label. It prohibits the sale of drugs weaker or less pure than the professed standard or quality under which it is sold, and of drugs containing methyl or wood alcohol. The prohibition of "misbranding" includes imitations, substitutions, or failure to state upon the label the presence of dangerous drugs. The bill provides for a drug inspector at $2,000 a year who is to go into stores where drugs are sold and size up the stock.

As a result of the work of a special committee appointed to consider the question of establishing a state legislative reference bureau, Representatives Washburn, Mattson and Burnquist, the members of the committee, yesterday afternoon introduced in the house a bill for a legislative reference department in connection with the state library. A director is to be appointed by the governor, attorney general and chief justice of the supreme court, with a salary of $2,500 a year and $2,000 annual expenses.

• • •

Representative Gartside provides $35,000 for summer sessions in the state normal schools by a bill introduced in the house yesterday afternoon.

• • •

The house committee on agriculture is the sponsor for a bill appropriating $2,000 to promote the culture of tobacco in this state, which was introduced yesterday afternoon and referred to the appropriations committee.

• • •

State sanitary inspectors, with power to go into any home, shop or factory, are provided for in a bill which the house committee on public health and pure food introduced in the house yesterday. There are to be five such inspectors, appointed by the state board of health, from a list of applicants who pass a competitive examination in hygiene, sanitation and other subjects relating to the public health.

• • •

Representative Stuart yesterday offered a bill in the house prohibiting the sale of ginseng roots or seeds imported from foreign countries unless the place of their origin is stated on the labels.

• • •

A repeal of the gross earnings tax on telephone companies, returning them to the old ad valorem system of taxation, is provided in a bill which J. T. Johnson offered in the house yesterday.

• • •

Bonds to the amount of $200,000 in each city of the first-class—Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis—to provide for paving street intersections and streets paralleled by property that is exempt from taxation—railroad property—are allowed by a bill which Chairman Lennon of the Hennepin county delegation put into the house yesterday afternoon.

• • •

A method of providing redress for shippers when railroad rates have been shipped excessive is provided by a bill which Representative Bicknell introduced in the house yesterday afternoon. It provides that where railroads refuse to adopt rates fixed by law or by the railroad and warehouse commission, and the matter goes into court, the railroads must keep track of the freights taken in under the contested schedules, and if it turns out that the rates are held excessive by the courts, the excess must be paid over the railroad and warehouse commission for the benefit of the shippers.

A graduated inheritance tax, instead of the present system, is provided in an interesting measure which Representatives Kneeland and Stuart introduced in the house yesterday afternoon. The rates are graduated, not only as to the remoteness of kinship, being low as to near relatives, and higher as the degree of kinship decreases, but as to the amount of the inheritances, being higher as the amount increases. After exemptions are taken out, starting with $10,000 for a widow, and decreasing with to degree of kinship, the tax rates are as follows: For a wife, 1 per cent; for a husband, child or parent, 1½ per cent; for brother or sister, niece or nephew, 3 per cent; for uncle or aunt or their descendants, 4 per cent; for relatives still further removed, 5 per cent.

Thees rates apply up to $15,000. Above that and up to $30,000, the rates are one and a-half times the primary rates upon the excess; from $30,000 to $50,000, the rates are twice the primary rates; from $50,000 to $100,000, they are two and a-half times the primary rates; from $10,000 up, they are three times the primary rates.

The house, by adopting a committee report, has killed the senate bill, prohibiting reinsurance of fire risks, in companies not authorized to do business in this state.

• • •

The house insurance committee has recommended for passage the senate bill allowing proportional rates for fire insurance, covering loss of rents and rental values, and to insure against loss or damage to automobiles or other vehicles.

• • •

The house, yesterday afternoon, reconsidered the vote by which it directed the speaker to appoint a committee of fifteen to look over the proposed New Brighton site for the Armour packing syndicate, and voted to go in a body to make the inspection. The members will go at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, in chartered cars, the expense of which is to be shared by the St. Paul and Minneapolis Commercial clubs.

DEFENCE OF BERESFORD

Row Over the Compulsory Retirement of the British Admiral.

His Supporters Say He Should Lead the Combined Squadrons.

London, March 12.—There are plenty of indications that the controversy over the compulsory retirement of Admiral Beresford is only in its early stages. Officially, of course, the incident is closed, but newspapers and magazines are tuning up for an extended exchange of polemics on this very interesting proposition.

Needless to say, the admiral, who has always been extremely popular, does not lack defenders. One of these is the Saturday Review, which asks for an impartial investigation of the whole matter. It then takes occation to review the events leading up to the row and pays its respects to Sir John Fisher in the following manner:

"Sir John Fisher, with all his information as to the personal advantages of being commander-in-chief, and its national disadvantages under our parliamentary system, joined the admiralty in October, 1904, and there immediately followed Lord Selborne's order in council, which virtually established the old war office system in a worse form at the admiralty, for all the members of the board except the first lord were placed virtually under the first sea lord. Autocratic powers in administration grow by what they feed upon, especially when it is power divorced from the necessary responsibility to parliament. The first sea lord became chairman of the designs committee, with all its wealth of material details dealing with the designs of mystery ships like the Dreadnought, Invincible and Swift. Still hungry for more material, he took on the chairmanship of the dockyards committee to overhaul establishments employing 36,000 men. By way of recreation he became senior naval aide-de-camp to the king, and his court attendance was assiduous. As chairman of the estimates committee he had the chief direction of the financial details which make up the bulky volume of naval estimates. This, then, was the officer who was supposed to devote his days and nights to the work which all successful leaders in war find more than enough for their whole exclusive energies—the preparation of war plans. It was because of this exclusive work of preparing plans of campaign that the first sea lord was made a member of the defense committee, with direct access to the prime minister and the cabinet.

Cause of the Quarrels.

"Here, then, lay the cause of all the quarrels. History has shown that the divided command of an army in the field or a fleet at sea is a mode of action doomed to utter failure. The admiralty divided the command in home waters between three independent admirals, all styled commanders-in-chief. It is nothing to the point to say taht they established Lord Charles Beresford as commander-in-chief by an official memorandum—and personal promises, if rumor is true—in which it stated that as he would command all the fleets in war all would be exercised under him in peace. They utterly failed to carry out their promise. They expressly designated two junior admirals as commanders-in-chief in order to accentuate their independence. Two years of deplorable dissension in which the so-called commander-in-chief pleaded for one fleet under one command, have now been followed by one fleet under one command and the dismissal of the man who pointed to the need. It was impossible that such a palpable slight would be lost on some officers. A subordinate publicly flouted Lord Charles Beresford by an insubordinate signal. The admiralty did nothing to maintain discipline. A charge concerning maneuvers was say that they established Lord Charles eresford had endangered two great armored ships with 1,600 lives.

"The charge was a trumped-up lie, and so acknowledged by the admiralty. It was communicated to the admiralty by a subordinate of Lord Charles Beresford, and it appeared in an in- Beresford, and it appeared in the paper at a time when Lord Charles Beresford was away on arduous work in the North sea. If true, it would deservedly have blasted his reputation as a great tactician. It was absolutely untrue, yet the admiralty with evidence in their possession as to the source from the accounts emanated did nothing to protect their gallant subordinate or to maintain his prestige beyond a long-delayed and perfunctory statement in parliament. No mention was made of the communication from Lord Charles Beresford's subordinate, though as a matter of discipline we should have thought that the commender-in-chief should be the exclusive channel for such communication to the admiralty.

Pledges Broken.

"Nearly all their public pledges concerning the strength of the channel fleet were broken. For a long time it never was a fleet, for it lacked all the subsidiary craft until parliament forced the government to grant them. Though reduced from seventeen to fourteen battleships on the ground that the admiralty would never take more than two battleships away at a time, its last exercising cruise was taken with six to nine battleships away. It is impossible to attribute all these things to malice, and it is evident that false steps in administration, originally caused by a bad system of distribution of work, have led to all the bad blood and to the demoralizing attempt to buttress up the errors by press inspiration and pamphlets distributed by the admiralty to the lower decks of the ships, so reaching the climax of bringing even the humbest sailors into the disputes of the admirals.

"We do not want to extend the newspaper polemics, but we are bound to deal with the attempt made to prove that the compulsory hauling down of Lord Charles Beresford's flag is a normal event. It is said that the subsidnary squadrons have had admirals for only two years. Yes, but the admirals go to higher posts, and not into retirement. Lord Charles Beresford's predecessor commanded the main fleet for four years, and no commander-in-chief has ever accepted a post except with the clear idea of a three years' tenure, unless expressly told by a new order that it was for two years. It so happens that in the Channel 'Squadron,' when the home fleet was the main fleet, the admirals were frequently given other commands. It also happens that the post was for vice admirals, and was vacated when they were promoted before their time was up. Even the time occupied by a man who died at his post, after he had held it for less than two years, is advanced as a reason for not regarding three years as customery.

Fleet Redistribution.

In all this discussion of the retirement of Beresford, we hear much about fleet redistribution and changes in naval peace strategy. In fact, they are often set forth as the cause of the suppression of the admiral. For half a century the most powerful war vessels were grouped as the Channel fleet, and the name implied defensive armaments against France. The establishment of the entente made it desirable to change the disposition of the squadrons, and the rearrangements were bewildering. Four or five years ago the Channel squadron was transformed into the Atlantic fleet, operating between the Irish coast and Gibraltar, and keeping in touch with the remnant o fthe Mediterranean fleet. What had been known as the home fleet was converted into the Channel fleet, and Lord Beresford was put in command of it. Simultaneously a new home fleet was organized for operations in the North sea, and this has been gradually strengthened, until under the new system of naval concentration the Channel fleet is to be merged with it, and two additional divisions of reserves with nucleus crews are to be attached to it. It might have been called the North Sea fleet, but the designation of the home fleet was preferred as less provocative.

This fleet, including as many as twenty-two of the best battleships and cruisers, fully manned for permanent service, will be under the command of Sir William May. In addition will be the reserves at the Nore, Portsmouth and Devenport, with as many as eighteen battleships, with three-fifths of their crews in service. In an emergency this powerful fleet can be re-enforced with a dozen battleships from the Atlantic and Mediterranean fleets.

Scheme of Peace Strategy.

"This is the scheme of peace strategy upon which Sir John Fisher has been concentrating his energies for a long time. It masses the most efficient resources of naval defense, so that there is an irresistible striking force for an emergency, with reserves and reinforcements close at hand. With Dreadnoughts, Lord Nelsons, Edward VII battleships, Indomitables, Minotaurs and armored cruisers, destroyers and submarine flotillas, there will be in the first line 124 12-inch guns, 100 9-inch guns and nearly 150 7 and 6-inch guns. It will be the most formidable fleet afloat, and at any moment it will be ready for war; and behind it are reserves which will become available with the least possible delay, the problem of rapid mobilization having been solved with nucleus crews for ships in reserve. The bases of this mighty fleet are on the North sea, from Dover to Cromarty Firth, and the best ships of every class are included in the muster. With a main line of naval defense so complete and so formidable for sudden attack, the "Englishman's home" is apparently safe, whatever may be the present state of the territorial forces, or the theatrical incidents portrayed at Wyndham's theater. Sir William May will command upon the outbreak of war every ship in commission in British waters. Reinforcements and reserves will be called up by Sir John Fisher's wireless telegrams from the admiralty, and there will be single control over all the sea power resources of home defense.

Should Be In Command.

"Lord Charles Beresford's devoted admirers assert that he ought to be in command of this splendid armada. Certainly no other admiral has a better reputation as a practical seaman, and an experienced disciplinarian. The creation of a main sea-going fleet in home waters has been the principal motive of his strenuous career, and he has unrivalled qualities for training it for scientific warfare. His premature dismissal when a work for which he is pre-eminently qualified is awaiting a great organizer is declared a public misfortune. Lord Charles Beresford's partisans consider it a final proof of Caesarism at the admiralty, when he has been exposed year after year to indignities and humiliation and constantly obstructed in his efforts to strengthen the naval defenses and to maintain a fleet of supreme fighting efficiency. They can hardly venture to deny that it is impracticable for Sir John Fisher and Lord Charles Beresford to co-operate in carrying out a masterly scheme of naval concentration. The retirement of either one or the other is necessary, and Sir John Fisher, who, in spite of his autocratic habits, is a great organizer, remains in command at the admiralty. His rival, when he retires from active service, will have the satisfaction of knowing that he has forced one government after another to reinforce the navy and to train it for fighting, and that he has done much to increase the enthusiasm of officers and men for the service."

Near Death in Big Pond.

It was a thrilling experience to Mrs. Ida Soper to face death. "For years a severe lung trouble gave me intense suffering," she writes, "and several times nearly caused my death. All remedies failed and doctors said I was incurable. Then Dr. King's New Discovery brought quick relief and a cure so permanent that I have not been troubled in twelve years." DEATH COMES TO W. W. DAVIS

Had Been a Resident of Duluth for Thirty-Eight Years.

W. W. Davis, 68 years of age, a resident of Duluth since 1871, died last night at his home, 109 East Third street. The deceased has not been in very good health for the last two years but did not become seriously ill until yesterday noon, when his condition took a turn for the worse, and from then on he sank gradually, until at 4 o'clock in the afternoon he lost consciousness. He died three hours later. Although he had long been a sufferer from Bright's disease, the immediate cause of his death was given as odema of the lungs.

Mr. Davis came to Duluth from his native state, Pennsylvania, thirty-eight years ago, and has been a resident of this city ever since. For the past fourteen years he had been cashier for the Barnum Grain company. The only Duluth society or organization he belonged to was the boat club. He is survived by a widow, two daughters and a son. The children are: Mrs. Robert R. Wells and Miss Julia Davis of Duluth, and Charles A. Davis of Bradford, Pa. Several brothers of the deceased reside in Philadelphia.

Funeral arrangements will not be made until relatives in the East are heard from. It has been decided that the funeral services will be private and the family has requested that no flowers be sent.

NOT A CANDIDATE.

Alderman Getchell Doesn't Want to be President of Council.

Alderman Getchell says he is not and has not been a candidate for re-election to the presidency of the council. He says he has no desire to hold the position any longer, and is more than willing that some one else should take a turn at it.

"I told my friends four months ago that I would not be a candidate," said Mr. Getchell, yesterday. "I am very thankful, however, for past honors in the council, and am obliged to members of that body for the consideration shown since I have been in the chair."

FAVOR OF JAIL TERM

Asked of Judge by Old Friend, and Request Granted.

New York, March 12.—Magistrate Fitch, who took office in Flushing on Jan. 1, obliged an old friend yesterday, committing him to the Queens county jail for sixty days. The favored one was Jacob Zecker, 58 years old, who went into court early and sat among the spectators until there came a lull in the proceedings. He then approached the bench.

"Hello, Joe," he said. "I heard you were a judge now, and I want a favor from you."

The court did not seem especially pleased.

"I want to go to jail for thirty days, Zecker went on. "I'm sick and the weather is bad. I've got no home."

Zecker reminded the court of the days when they were boys together and "fired snowballs" at each other.

"It is bad weather," the magistrate said. "Thirty days won't be enough; I'll make it sixty."

Zecker thanked him and was taken away to the pen. The destitute man was formerly a man of affluence in Queens.

YOU CAN HAVE A

Healthy Stomach WITH Kodol

In fact, it is easier than having an unhealthy one, without Kodol—for sometimes the stomach will keep healthy, of itself; but it will never be unhealthy—if you take a little Kodol occasionally. And yet Kodol doesn't do anything but digest the food in a natural manner, and effectually assist the tired and overworked stomach to do its work properly. But by doing just this, Kodol at once relieves indigestion and all the aggravating symptoms—and prevents dyspepsia. It accomplishes this just as surely as the law of "cause and effect."

Our Guarantee. Get a dollar bottle of Kodol. If you are not benefited—the druggist will at once return your money. Don't hesitate; any druggist will sell you Kodol on these terms. The dollar bottle contains 2½ times as much as the 50c bottle. Kodol is prepared in the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago

DAMAGE SUIT IS DISMISSED

Madam Gain Didn't Own Auto That Struck Walter La Crosse.

On motion of the attorney for the plaintiff, the personal injury damage suit of Henry La Crosse against Clarence Palmer and Mary La Flohic, also known as Madam Gain, was dismissed in district court yesterday afternoon.

The suit was based on the contention that Madame Gain owned he automobile that Palmer was driving when Walter La Crosse was struck and injured on West Superior street, near Twentieth avenue west, Dec. 11 last. Madam Gain went on the stand and swore that she did not own the machine at the time, but had sold it to Palmer some time before, and he was paying for it in instalments. Palmer made a similar assertion and other witnesses for the defense corroborated the testimony.

The suit was apparently dismissed to give the attorney for the plaintiff an opportunity to discover who is the true owner of the machine. The boy was badly injured, suffering a fracture of the right leg just below the hip.

CARMEN SYLVA ON CORSETS.

Disfigure Natural Beauty and Injure Health, Says Queen.

Berlin, March 12.—"Carmen Sylva," the queen of Roumania, has initiated a crusade against corsets by issuing a manifesto to the women and girls of Europe, appealing to them to boycott this injurious article of dress.

Telegrams received from Bukharest state that the queen appeals to women's vanity and common sense. She points out that the corset disfigures their natural beauty, beside inflicting serious injury to their health. She asks mothers to instill in their daughters a profound dislike of the corset.

"Carmen Sylva's" manifesto will be widely circulated in a dozen different languages.

CUBAN PRESIDENT FELICITATES MOTHER OF QUADRUPLETS.

HAVE RATIFIED CENTRAL LEASE

Soo Directors Approve Acquisition of the Wisconsin Central.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 12.—Edmund Pennington was elected president Horace Lowry a director in the place of Thomas Lowry, deceased, and the deal whereby the Soo line is to lease the Wisconsin Central for ninety-nine years was ratified at a meeting of the board of directors of the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie railway at the company's headquarters yesterday afternoon.

The position of vice president was left unfilled for the time. An additional stock of 24 per cent, or $6,048,000, was authorized to meet the financial needs of the company.

Mr. Pennington has been the vice president and general manager of the Soo and will continue the duties covered by the latter title in his present capacity. Horace Lowry, who was elected to the place on the board left vacant by the death of his father, is the superintendent of the Minneapolis division of the Twin City Rapid Transit company.

GRAVES TO BE REAPPOINTED.

President Taft Looks Favorably Upon Minister to Sweden.

Washington, March 12.—It is stated here that Charles H. Graves of Duluth, United States minister to Sweden, is to be reappointed by President Taft. Senator Clapp was in conference with the president, but would not state what determination had been reached. It is understod that Taft is favorable to the reappointment of Col. Graves, provided no opposition deevlops in the state department. Secretary Root will be consulted before the appointment is announced.

THE INHERITANCE TAX.

The consideration of the new tariff bill on the floor of the house and the senate will probably result in a lively discussion both in congress and out of it as to the inheritance tax. The inheritance tax, while not looked upon with marked favor for local reasons by the different members of congress generally speaking, is a proposition to which President Taft has given his recommendation. In deference to his wishes, if for no other reason, the inheritance tax will undoubtedly be offered as a part of the new tariff measure.

Opposition to the inheritance tax comes from two sources, from holders of wealth who object to any division of their wealth other than that which they themselves dictate, and from the various states, which have inheritance tax laws and which want the subject left to the states. The Connecticut general assembly on Tuesday of this week adopted a resolution urging congress to leave the inheritance tax as a means of raising revenue entirely to the states and it is quite probable that the pressure from the different states will be strong enough to defeat any attempt to make an inheritance tax law a part of the new tariff law. There are now thirty-five states and territories in which an inheritance tax is levied, Minnesota being among the number.

The inheritance tax is in some respects one of the most admirable of all the means of raising money for public purposes. In two respects it is exceedingly desirable. First, it in a measure conserves the wealth of a nation and utilizes it for the public good. The man who makes a great fortune actively employs his wealth in business, and no matter how much he may make for himself his wealth is constantly of some benefit to society at large. But when such a man dies and his wealth passes to widow and children who do not employ it in business, but who live lavishly off its proceeds, society is deprived of a great benefit. It is compelled to support "social drones" and to that end to have a large proportion of the public wealth withdrawn from business. In whatever degree the states takes inheritances, in that degree it relieves itself of the social drone and preserves to the public use the wealth of the nation. Second, the taxation of inheritance brings a revenue to the state without distributing business, an advantage possessed by few, if any, other methods of taxation. We are now having a very painful object lesson of the way in which the changing of tariff rates affects business, disturbing it so profounding that prosperity has been waiting now for more than a twelvemonth for the making of a new tariff law and it will be another twelve month and more before business adjusts itself to the new conditions. The inheritance tax, however, merely attacks accumulated wealth and does not therefore disturb business in the least.

Largely by reason of the opposition of the states we may doubt whether the national government will at this time enact an inheritance tax law. But there is a probability that it will eventually do so. There is no more effective way of reaching property which escapes taxation under all other systems than through the inheritance tax. Bonds and mortgages may escape during the lifetime of the owner but they cannot escape when the owner dies. If they are then taxed 10 per cent, such a tax is equivalent to an annual tax forever of 10 per cent upon the income of such bonds and mortgages. So efficacious in so many ways, the inheritance tax has need to be systematically applied over the whole country and this consideration will probably lead in time to the adoption of an inheritance tax law by the United States.

"HOW INTERESTING," SAID MR. FAIRBANKS.

The Hon. Mike Donovan, prize fighter, has written a book, wherein he has set down some of his recollections of Theodore Roosevelt. The Honorable Mike has been from time to time during the past ten years Mr. Roosevelt's sparring partner and what he has learned about Roosevelt in that time is quite interesting and valuable as throwing light upon some of the reasons for Roosevelt's popularity and his success in life, and his usefulness in this country.

One incident in particular which Mike relates is worthy of especial mention. On the day before Mr. Roosevelt's inauguration in 1905, Mike and the president sparred ten rounds during which time the former champion of the ring was obliged to use all his art to defend himself and then got floored with a blow that nearly put him out. After the bout Mr. Roosevelt, who knew that Mike was to march in the parade next day with the Irish band, asked him to see the leader and request him to play "Garry Owen," a famous Irish fighting air, as the band passed the reviewing stand. Mike did so and the band struck up the martial strain as it approached the stand. The president was delighted, and leaning out cried, "Good, boys, good," and spying Mike coming on behind the band, he shouted, "Good for you, Mike, good for you." Vice President Fairbanks was moved by this display of presidential interest to inquire who Mike was and was informed that he was the president's sparring partner, to which he replied, "How very interesting."

Mr. Fairbanks hit the nail squarely on the head. It was very interesting, indeed. It is such things as these that made, and still make, Roosevelt very interesting to the people of the country. The action of the president of the United States, reviewing a great parade upon the occasion of his inauguration, in noticing in his hearty way the man with whom he got his exercise, was not very dignified perhaps, but it was very human, and we are all of us, don't you know, more or less human.

Mr. Fairbanks, although a good man and an able one and a man of kindly heart, would not have done such an act. The necessity of upholding the dignity of his position would have been stronger in him than his sympathy with the marcher in the ranks. The impulsive, warm-hearted sympathy of Roosevelt, however, has been very interesting to the country, for as long as the country can have able public servants with such abounding sympathy with the condition of their fellows, it is sound at heart and sure to come out of all its difficulties with strength and health.

It is not given to all men to be unreserved as Roosevelt. Grover Cleveland was as much beloved by those who knew him as is Roosevelt, but the latter lets more people know him. George Washington was a stickler for etiquette but he could take off his coat and jump twenty-two feet upon occasion. Abraham Lincoln served the state by issuing the Emancipation Proclamation but no less truly by telling stories and by rubbing smartweed in a bully's eyes. Government does not exist for the purpose of dignities and gold lace but that folks may be bettered in their condition. Those who contribute most by deeds or by influence to this end are our greatest benefactors.

WHO THE REAL REFORMERS ARE.

The world is always out of joint; all of us are born to set it right.

The business of reforming the world will never be done this side of the millenium. No sooner have the reformers gained their point than there is something else that needs reforming. There is always a man's work for every man to do. It is very fascinating business this business of reforming the world, and the best men of all time have been busy at it. But of them all, which were the real reformers? Who were the most effective?

An interesting side light upon present day reformations, and one that may be helpful in answering this question, is found in President Taft's narration of how he first met his predecessor. "We found after discussion," says Mr. Taft concerning the early days of his acquaintance with Roosevelt, "that we agreed in quite a marked way in our views of proper political ideals and proper political methods. We were as emphatic in the judgment that the political reformer, who was not willing to accept conditions as they were as the basis for his action, and to work for the better things that were practical, without achieving all that he would like to achieve, was rather a hindrance than a help to progress, and merely assisted the permanent control of the boss and the machine. This, I think, has been the moving principle of Mr. Roosevelt's career. He has believed in practical progress and not in ideals which make for no real advancement." It is quite evident, from this statement, that "the moving principle" of Mr. Taft's administration will be this same working from things as they are to the next best thing which it is possible to secure.

Men who are animated by such ideas are the real reformers. Through them we get evolution. If it were not for such men, evils and abuses must pile up until there is no alternative but revolution. Certain it is that the world will go one reforming and reforming until the end of time. Better the reform that comes by evolution than that which comes by revolution.

Reformers who demand that the world mend its ways simply because its ways are wrong, without reference to the limitations of existing conditions, do not help very much in the reformation of the world—except in times of revolution. In the ordinary every day progress of this world of good and evil mixed, the man who is willing to take things as they are and to accept such reforms as he is able to bring about is the real, useful reformer. The man who refuses to accept the bettering of a condition because that bettering is only a partial righting of wrong conditions is, as Mr. Taft says, "merely assisting the permanent control of the boss" and fixing error more firmly in the saddle.

The man who refuses to accept the good that he can get and use it as a stepping stone to get something better justifies himself on the ground that his conscience will not allow him to compromise with wrong. Such a man is sadly out of sympathy with his human fellow creatures who can never be wholly right. Moreover where would a consistent application of his theory bring the world to? Growth would end, evolution cease and revolution universally prevail.

The world is a very practical, every-day sort of place and the real reformers in it are those who just do the best they can every day. If that is the kind of a reformer Mr. Taft is, more power to him!

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Melville E. Messenger, with the Stearns Lumber company of Odanah, Wis., which has a contract to cut 150,000,000 feet of lumber, was at the Lenox hotel yesterday. Mr. Messenger stated that the company was employing at the present time 3,000 men, was operating six camps, and during the present season would make one of the heaviest cuts in the Northwest.

Mr. Messenger explained the effect the forest fires had upon the operations of some of the lumber companies. For instance, the Stearns company did not intend to make such a heavy cut this year, but the fact that the fire passed over a section of the land where the timber that is included in the present cut is situated, decided the officials of the company to make a very heavy cut. Any trees that are killed by the fire must be cut at once or they will become wormy and rot away.

The old Thompson lumber mill at Ashland will be reopened. This mill has not been operated for some time, and it's reopening will mean a good deal to the interests of Ashland.

The Lake Superior Lumber & Box company of Ashland, will work upon part of the contract of the Stearns company. The Stearns company buys all of its lumber from the government, and the Lake Superior company will assume part of the cutting.

The logs will be floated down the Bad river to Washburn and Ashland. They will be floated down to the mouth of the river, and towed to their destinations. At Washburn is located one of the largest lumber mills in the West, and here the Stearns people will do a lot of cutting. The heavy operations of the Stearns company will mean a great deal to both these little cities.

Jack Doherty, with the Chicago Coal & Lumber company, was at the Spalding yesterday. Mr. Doherty sold a large amount of lumber to Duluth dealers yesterday, and expresses the opinion that the lumber business is undergoing some improvement. Mr. Doherty says prices are not what lumberman would like to have them, just at the present time, nor is the market as strong as the dealers would like to see it, but that there is an indication that the demand will show an increase and that the price of lumber will advance. Shipments are somewhat heavier than they have been during the winter months, with the indications pointing to a freer movement of lumber this spring.

According to J. E. Sullivan of Virginia, that city will have practically the same baseball team this year that it had last season. Virginia loses Oscar Graham, who has been sold to Indianapolis. They will lose one of the greatest pitchers who ever played independent ball, by the departure of Graham, but they expect to secure some youngsters who will compensate for the loss of the ex-Washington leaver.

Virginia, according to Mr. Sullivan, will stand pat upon its team of last year. It won the Healy cup and the fans of Virginia are confident that it can repeat it this year. With Hibbing however, it is somewhat different. The fans of that burg have always believed that they had a better team than Virginia, but this year they are going to make sure of this belief. With that idea in view, the Hibbing management is endeavoring in every possible manner to strengthen the team. With two such good teams as Virginia and Hibbing battling for the iron country championship, the fans up there are assured of some very good ball.

The squabble of St. Paul and Minneapolis, over the location of the Armour packing plant, has been of some benefit to Duluth, according to J. E. Plant, who is is at the Lenox. Mr. Plant says the interests of the two cities are so intent upon the various phases of the packing fight, which has included the members of the state legislature in its ramifications, that the tonnage tax question has been thrown in the shade. With the people of the two cities fighting mad over the question of the location of the plant, and the members of the state legislature called upon to have a say in the matter, the question that threatens Duluth and the iron country has been somewhat neglected of late.

"Had Something For Him."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Theodore Metz the man who wrote the words and music to that soul-stirring air, "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," is in town. He was telling about his visit to the White House some time ago. It seems that "A Hot Time" is a great favorite with Theodore Roosevelt, the well known ex-president. It was to the martial tune of "There'll be a Hot Time, etc." that the boys charged up San Juan hill.

Roosevelt heard the author of the grand old piece was in Washington and sent for Metz. The man who carried the message told Metz to hasten straightaway to the White House. "The president's got something for you," the man told him.

Metz didn't lose any time hustling to the executive chamber, wondering whether he would receive a bearskin, a gold mounted sword, a medal or merely a set of Roosevelt's works, each one autographed and tied up with a blue string.

The president clapped Metz on the shoulder with a vehemence that nearly dislodged a collar bone and four vertebrae, and exclaimed, "Bully for you!"

That was what the president "had for him."

THE WEATHER.

After several days of clear, mild, spring-like weather, the sky clouded this morning, and threats of snow are held out by the weather man. The temperature remains moderate. A year ago today it was damp and cloudy. The sun rose this morning at 6:28 and will set this evening at 6:09, making eleven hours and forty-one minutes of sunlight.

R. E. Clark, acting forecaster, makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the past twenty-four hours rain or snow fell in Canada, along the Mississippi, Missouri and Rio Grande valleys, and the Gulf coast and over the Southeastern states, due to the movement of the two barometric depressions central over Alberta and Western Texas. This precipitation was generally quite light, except over Alabama and Georgia, where the amount of rainfall since Thursday morning varied from one to five inches. The movement of these disturbances has also been attended by rising temperatures over the Northwest, the Missouri and Mississippi valleys, and in the Southeast. The weather is somewhat cooler over all other districts, due to the movement of the high pressure areas central over Wyoming and the Middle Atlantic states."

The Long Ago.

Oh, a wonderful stream is the River of Time,
As it runs through the realms of years,
With a faultless rythym and a musical rhyme
And a broader sweep and a surge sublime,
As it blends in the ocean of years!

How the winters are drifting like flakes of snow,
And the summers like birds between,
And the years in the sheaf, how they come and they go,
On the river's breast, with its ebb and its flow,
As it glides in the shadow and sheen!

There's a magical isle up the River Where the softest airs are playing,
There's a cloudless sky and a tropical clime,
And a song as sweet as a vesper chime,
And the Junes with the roses are straying.

And the name of this isle is the "Long Ago,"
And we bury our treasures there;
There are brows of beauty and bosoms of snow,
There are heaps of dust—but we loved them so!—
There are trinkets and tresses of hair.

There are fragments of song that nobody sings,
There are parts of an infant's prayer,
There's a lute unswept and a harp without strings,
There are broken vows and pieces of rings,
And the garments our loved ones used to wear.

There are hands that are waved when the fairy shore
By the fitful mirage is lifted in air,
And we sometimes hear through the turbulent roar
Sweet voices we heard in the days gone before,
When the wind down the river was fair.

Oh, remembered for aye be that blessed isle,
All the day of our life until night;
And when evening glow with its beautiful smile,
And our eyes are closing in slumber the while,
May the "Greenwood," of soul be in sight.

—BAYARD TAYLOR.

Mr. Fairbanks.

Indianapolis Star: Indianapolis extends greeting today to her most distinguished living citizen, whose occupation of the vice presidency has been marked throughout by dignity, kindliness, industry and honor. He has been, perhaps, the ablest presiding officer the senate ever had; he has been at his post with unflagging fidelity and leaves it with respect and affection of its membership regardless of party.

Mr. Fairbanks is a man without those arts of political popularity which belong to an impulsive and spontaneous temperament. Genial and companionable as host or friend in public office he is cautious, dignified, austere. But the honors that have come to him, in spite of his circumspect and deliberative habit, are the product of his own very great abilities and exceptional force of character. There are few abler men in our public life. He would have made a good president as he has made a good vice president, and while he would not have left the office with that measure of personal devotion which Mr. Roosevelt enjoys, he would have left a record of uniformly high and faultless conduct and would have sustained the presidency's most exalted traditions of fairness and decorum.

In his support of the Roosevelt policies, Mr. Fairbanks has been consistent, though not as zealous and enthusiastic as some of us would have wished; but this is largely a matter of temperament, and in his own way the vice president has stood as unequivocally for the results of the Roosevelt reforms as he stood for the gold standard in a day when politicians of weaker resolution were afraid to offend the fiat and silver sentiment. His public services have extended over many years and over many fields of varied duties.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1889.

•••This is election day in West Duluth. The "reform" ticket, headed by J. D. Boyd, is opposed by the following ticket: Lon Merritt, president; S. K. Duff, William Jeffrey and S. J. Johnson, trustees; Samuel Smith, recorder; A. F. Swanstrom, treasurer; C. M. Cushman and T. Harrison, justices; Thomas Clark and William Thompson, constables.

•••President Harrison today appointed Arthur C. Mellette of Watertown, Dak., to be governor of Dakota territory. Luther B. Richardson of Grand Forks is made territorial secretary.

•••J. Allyn Scott and wife have returned from their bridal trip and taken up their residence at Eighteenth avenue west.

•••Edward Maine, one of the old settlers of Duluth, who kept a saloon on West Michigan street, died this morning.

•••Minimum temperature in Duluth this morning was 24 degs. above. The day has been bright, with a chilly west wind.

•••John Gordon has been appointed manager of the Hill line of steamships on the lakes.

•••The steamer Stewart, formerly of Duluth, is said to be going on the Detroit and Port Hope run this spring.

•••Gjermond Olsen committed suicide by shooting at Minneapolis this morning. Letters from Norway were found in his pocket. Some from Stavanger, Norway, had been addressed to him at Duluth, and these readdressed to him at Minneapolis.

•••The employes are at work removing ice from the Soo locks. It is found that the ice is about 28 inches thick in the canal, the same as it was last year.

•••A story greatly to the credit of Col. Thomas Lowry of Minneapolis is going the rounds at Washington. Lowry was a great friend of Congressman Dick Townsend, whose funeral he will attend tomorrow. In the half delirium which preceded his death, Townsend repeatedly called for Lowry, and at last he was sent for. The dying man revived enough to make it known that he was distressed by the knowledge that his homestead was encumbered with a mortgage of $5,000, which might embarrass his widow. Stepping aside from the bed, Lowry wrote a check for the amount and held it before Townsend's eyes, asking if that made his mind easier. The dying man signified his relief, and the friends parted for the last time on earth.

•••At a meeting of the city council last night, the appointment of Patrick Doran as chief of police was confirmed after a red-hot debate.

•••James Grady, who has been on a visit at his old home in New Brunswick, has returned, much improved in health.

•••E. A. Leidel and family left last evening for San Lorenza, Cal., their future home. Mr. Leidel has bought a fine place there.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Albert Lea Enterprise: James J. Hill says that we have the resources to support a population of 200,000,000 to 300,000,000 and that he is confident that the American people will meet the situation. Mr. Hill is right in his confidence. The American people have always proved equal to the emergency confronting them. They will in this case.

Litchfield Independent: Roosevelt is now an ex-president. He made a considerable stir during the seven or more years that h ifelled the office of chief executive. His ideas were mostly good, and his ideals high, though he fell far short of accomplishing everything he started out to do. His course was erratic, and somewhat on the bombastic order, due to his impulsive nature, and economy was not his watchword. He did not do a mean or small act during his incumbency, but he made his mistakes. Theodore is a pretty good sort of a fellow.

Mankato Free Press: There is no profession or occupation so underpaid as that of school-teachers. And there is no profession or occupation that ought to be better paid. The average cook or housemaid gets a larger compensation than the average woman school-teacher, considering that they are provided with bed and board. And this should not be. The teachers are worth far more t othe community than they are receiving. They not only instruct the young along educational lines, but assist them in laying the foundation upon which can be constructed useful citizenship.

Red Wing Republican: That demijohn of old Kentucky whisky given to President Roosevelt before his departure from the White House may come in handy in Darkest Africa in case of snake bite. Boa constrictors are said to be dangerous.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Mr. Taft threw an awful jolt into the party worshippers by selecting two Democrats for his cabinet. Mr. Taft is evidently bigger than his party and that agurs good for the nation.

Little Falls Herald: Cass Lake and Bemidji are fighting hard over the proposed normal school, and can't be blamed for it. A lot of bright young folks such as most normal school student are, are valuable to any town.

St. Petter Herald: The departure of President Roosevelt makes it possible for Senator Nelson and Congressman Tawney to resume their White House calls, suspended nearly a year ago. This gives color to the rumor that masterly inactivity is to be the watchword of the Taft administration.

An Eternal Puzzle.

New York Evening Sun: It may be puzzling to the coarse masculine intelligence to find the same ladies who are clamoring for equal treatment with men one day demanding special treatment the next. But after all, that is only another riddle of the painful universe. Woman would not be nearly so interesting if she were not so surprising.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

London Opinion: "And did you enjoy your African trip, major? How did you like the savages?"

"Oh, they were extremely kind-hearted. They wanted to keep me for their dinner."

Chicago News: Green—"Know thyself" is an ancient behest, but how is a man to know himself?

Smith—You're right; but there are two of them.

Washington Star: "Why are the articles on how to raise children usually written by people who have no families of their own?"

Dr. Crum's Resignation.

Boston Globe: The letter which Dr. Crum wrote when he resigned his position as collector of the port of Charleston, S. C., should serve as a model of manliness to all men, white or black, under similar circumstances. It has not even the tract of a whine.

He might have made much ado about the opposition to him because of his color, and tried to evoke sympathy for himself because he was about to give up a job which he held only in opposition to the will of nearly all the white residents of his city. He might also have attempted to pose as a martyr for his race. Instead, he chose to conduct himself as an American citizen should, and thereby increased the already long list of testimonials to the fine spirit which animates his race.

It would have been easy for him to have appealed to his countrymen for vindication, on the ground that his color was the sole source of opposition to him, since his efficiency as collector had never been impugned. He chose, however, to put his own private interests aside, and do what he thought would least embarrass those to whom is entrusted the just settlement of a delicate problem.

If Dr. Crum represents the spirit of his race, and we think he does, then his race is destined to play a conspicuous and noble part in the history of our country.

MAKING OF THRILLERS

How Pictures Are Made in Paris for the Cinematographs.

Christian Martyr Torn Limb From Limb by Hungry Lions.

Paris, March 12.—Patrons of vaudeville theaters in the United States next winter will see pictured by the cinematograph or kinodrome the death of a Christian in a den of lions. The pictures will be so true to life that the spectators will shudder and timid women may be tempted to faint. Real lions will devour an innocent maiden and real blood will be spilled.

In a suburb of Paris is a factory where cinematograph films, to be exhibited in all parts of the world, are manufactured. The company operating the business has rented a large tract of ground and the blood curdling scenes destined to raise the hair of Americans and others are enacted in the immediate vicinity of the factory.

Pictures depicting the death of the young Christian were made only a few days ago. Vestal virgins and courtiers and knights marcher around the arena and then took seats safely outside a huge cage. A young girl was led within the cage and strapped upon a cross. After that—horrors! Seventeen lions were let loose.

The lions surely were hungry and they made short work of the poor young martyr. They had been borrowed from an animal show and had been kept without food for many days. They tore the maiden limb from limb and spilled her blood all over the cage. It was an intensely realistic scene, for the lions were all alive—very much so.

The maiden? Her flesh was papier mache, stuffed with raw beefsteaks.

A Taste Paris Alone Has.

"There are costumes designed in New York which are fully equal to any sent out from Paris, but, of course, they cannot be said to represent the general standard of American dressmaking work. Natural artistic taste is necessary in costume designing, and this the French possess to a remarkable degree."

These observations were made by Miss Jane Fales, principal of the School of Household Arts in the Teachers' college of Columbia university. The college has sent her to Paris to study French methods of dress designing.

The college prepares yearly large numbers of women who go to all parts of the United States to teach dressmaking. Miss Fale's mission in Paris is to study the designing of Parisian models and examine generally the systems of work of the Paris "couturiers," that the American standard of dressmaking may be raised.

"Though we have many expert designers I do not think that American models will ever take the place of those from Paris," said Miss Fales.

Miss Fales expects to enter, for a few weeks, one of the celebrated dressmaking houses of Paris, where she will have ample opportunity to observe the methods of work. She also has obtained permission from the prefect of the Seine to visit all the city's technical schools where dressmaking is taught. Miss Fales intends, too, to study the history of costumes.

"New fashions always follow certain general lines consecretated by centuries-old custom," she said. "An acquaintance with the history of costumes will be invaluable in the designing of fresh models or in their copyright, adaptation and modification by a dressmaker to suit a client's figure."

Miss Fales will remain in Europe until August.

More Foreigners Are Coming.

There is every reason to believe that this summer's season will witness a great improvement in the transatlantic shipping trade. Both on the continent and in England the liner companies report greatly increased bookings, as compared with the corresponding period of last year.

From Hamburg and Bremen the emigrants who left in January numbered 21,955, an increase of more than 15,000, and the prospects are said to be most promising. The German companies were affected more than any others by the financial depression in the United States.

American Couple in Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Alexander Gardiner of New York have come to Paris from London to pass part of their honeymoon. The bride was formerly Miss Norah Loftus and the marriage took place at St. Margaret's, Westminster, London, on Washington's birthday anniversary. It was interesting chiefly in the fact that the prevailing order of things was reversed. In this case it was the bride who was English and the bridegroom who was American.

Mr. Gardiner is a son of the late David Lyon Gardiner of New York. Mrs. Gardiner is a daughter of Mrs. Lindsay Coates of London.

Paris to See The Merry Widow.

Paris is to see "The Merry Widow" before long. M. Franck, the manager of the Gymnase, has acquired the French rights to the play from Henry W. Savage and has commissioned M. Robert de Flers and M. G. A. de Caillavet to write the book, which will be a free adaptation from the original. The music will be Lehar's. M. Franck has leased the Apollo music hall for the play and is practically rebuilding the interior of the theater, which he has promised will be ready in time for production in the spring.

Mlle. Mariette Sully will have an important part in the cast and French-speaking English comedians will be engaged for some of the other parts. The orchestra is to be under the leadership of a German, while the play will be staged by the Austrian stage manager who originally put it on in Vienna. The costumes and scenery will be made in Paris.

Umbrellas That are Purses.

Times have changed since umbrellas and walking sticks were regarded merely as articles of utility. Fashion has decreed many quaint and curious designs for their handles and the fertile mind of the Parisian shopkeeper has now turned to evolving out of their mountings a miniature portmanteau.

The smart Parisienne is being offered an umbrella whose elaborately chased silver or gold handle is made to contain a powder-puff, a mirror and a small tube of lip salve. Or she may buy one which carries a powder puff and a scent bottle.

For men there is one walking stick handle which holds a stylographic pen, a pencil, a penknife and a magnifying glass; another with scissors, comb, mirror and mustache brush, and yet another with pencil, penknife, comb, mirror and roll of notepaper.

To Fly for Big Prizes in France.

French interest in aerial navigation, which, for a long time, has been keen, has given a great impetus since Wilbur Wright brought his aeroplane to this side of the water. Prize money of $100,000 has been offered to aeronauts for this year.

A series of competitions for aeroplanes is to take place in Monte Carlo the last week in March. The prizes amount to $20,000. Following this, aerial races will be held in Rhiems and Angers. Besides the Michelin prize of $4,000 for a flight of 124 kilometers, the $20,000 voted by the French parliament will be divided into two special prizes. Other big events for this year are being planned.

FEIGNED ILLNESS; ABLE TO 'PHONE

New Piece of Evidence Is Heard Against Mme. Steinheil.

Paris, March 12.—The investigation of N. Andre into the charges against Mme. Steinheil, in connection with the murder of her husband, Adolph Steinheil, the painter, and her step-mother, Mme. Gapy, is about concluded. Interest in the case, which has been of the lagging sort for some weeks past, is revived by the discovery of an important piece of evidence against Mme. Steinheil. Remy Couillaud, a servant in the Steinheil house, who turned against his mistress after she had accused him of being implicated in the crime, testified before Magistrate Andre that the morning after the murder, when feigning prostration, Mme. Steinheil jumped out of bed to use the telephone. An examination of the records at the telephone exchange not only confirmed this, but show the communication for which she asked was the chateau of her lover, Maurice Borderel.

The magistrate has refused Mme. Steinheil's application for bail, and it is regarded as certain she will be placed on trial in the assize court for complicity in the murders.

HE GOES TO PEN ON GIRL CHARGE

Janer, Who Abducted Child, Gets Twenty-One Years.

Towson, Md., March 12.—Joseph M. Janer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was yesterday convicted of felonious assault upon Catherine Loerch, 12 years old, also of Brooklyn, and sentenced to twenty-one years in the pen. The case was tried without jury. It was in evidence that Janer, early in February brought the child to Baltimore, represented her to be his daughter, and during two nights, one spent in a disreputable house and the other in a boarding house, repeatedly subjected her to brutal treatment. The prosecution put witnesses on the stand to show practically every move made by Janer and the child after their arrival in Baltimore and physicians gave evidence confirmatory of the contention of the state. Janer denied his guilt. The judges announced their finding after about ten minutes deliberation.

When sentence was pronounced Janer showed not the slightest emotion. His wife was in court.

JOHN WILBUR DWIGHT TO BE REPUBLICAN WHIP.

Washington, March 12.—At the Republican house caucus tomorrow John Wilbur Dwight, of the thirtieth New York district, probably will be elected "whip." Representative Burke, who has been assistant "whip" during the Sixtieth congress, probably will consent to serve for another term in the same capacity. Dwight has been in the house eight years.

The first piece for the organ is the incidental music played during the play of "Peter Pan" as presented by Miss Maud Adams, and is very descriptive and expressive, including as it does the "Yo Heave, Ho," "Singing of the Fairy Bells," "Indian Dances," "The Boys in the Cave," "Flight to Nobody's Land," "Arrival of the Beautiful Mother," "Learning to Fly," "Building the House," and the "March of the Pirate Prisoners."

The storm of protests begun last Sunday when the announcement was made that the winding up of these concerts was under consideration, became a Maren blizzard and in self-protection it has been decided to present the regular programs until the first Sunday in May, after which they will be continued as informal organ recitals at the same time and place.

The program for the concert, after this one, will contain some of Beethoven's most notable compositions.

FRANKFORT MISS

Arrested on Complaint of Bank President for Alleged Forgery.

Frankfort, Ky., March 12.—Alleging that Miss Lemmy Cohorn, the pretty sixteen-year-old daughter of Hugh Cohorn, of this city, had forged the name of her grandfather, Adam Cohorn, to a check on the Citizens' Bank of Stamping Ground for $35. John Noel, president of the Farmers' Bank, of this city, had the pretty miss arrested and jailed. Noel also had John Cohorn, a brother of the young girl, arrested on the charge of forging the name of his father to a check.

Friends of the girl secured bail for her. She protests her innocence, and claims that if a check was forged it was done by some other Miss Cohorn. Noel, however, claims that an effort was made to cash the check at his bank.

HUNGARIAN IS TRICKED

Bogus Baron Got Him Phony Title at Large Expense.

Theater Manager Gets Into Trouble by Anticipating Verdict.

Paris, March 12.—From Nice comes an odd story of a trick alleged to have been played on a wealthy Hungarian, who has lost $2,000 in the transaction. According to this account he made the acquaintance in the Riviera town of a smart young man, who styled himself a baron, and who speedily captured the Hungarian's confidence. One day the Hungarian informed his new friend that there was only one thing that troubled him. In his native land he mixed a good deal with persons of the highest society, but it stung him to reflect that while they were all noble, he himself was merely a commoner. If he could have a title his dearest wish would be granted. The so-called baron promptly replied that this would not be so difficult a matter, after all. He thought he could find him some nobleman who might be willing to take him in hand, to adopt him, as it were, and so to pass his title down to him.

In his delight at such a prospect the Hungarian exclaimed that money would be no consideration, and that if a good round sum could introduce him into the ranks of the nobility with a high-sounding title, he would feel eternally grateful to his kind friend.

The "baron" set at once to work, and through the medium of a lady who was wont to winter in the Riviera, he was introduced to the widow of a Dutchman of first rate family and connections. The winter habitue of the Riviera simply considered this an excellent opportunity of doing the parties a good turn and herself as well, so she persuaded the widow to consent to the adoption of the rich Hungarian, who consented to pay $1,600 to his future "mother," $400 to the lady who was acting as go-between and $2,000 to his gallant friend, the "baron." In proof of his good faith he immediately put down half the money agreed upon.

Document Looked Good.

In the course of a few weeks the habitues of the Riviera received a magnificent document professing to authorize the Hungarian to assume the name of the Dutch widow's deceased husband. A huge coat of arms was engraved on the sheet, and at the bottom figured the professing signatures of some of the highest and mightiest officials in Queen Wilhelmina's kingdom. This document was duly handed over to the ambitious Hungarian, who transported with pride and delight, lost not a minute in paying over the other half of the sum which was to be given as a doucer to the two ladies and the "baron," whom he overwhelmed with compliments.

It so happened that one day the Hungarian told the story of his transformation to an acquaintance who was an authority on matters relating to heraldry and the history of great families, and who, after having scrutinized the wonderful document, informed him that it was simply a copy of the deported Dutchman's patent, and that the widow had no legal right to bequeath a name and a title which were not her own property. This was a terrible shock to the poor man, who lost no time in confiding his distress to the judicial authorities. Meanwhile, however, the "baron" had left the country with his $2,000. As for the lady who had acted as go-between and the widow, they have simply been asked to return their shares of the money.

Theater Manager's Enterprise.

The Paris police have been asked to interfere in a matter bearing on theatrical advertisement which interferers, or promises to interfere, with the course of justice. Mme. Steinheil is in prison and accused of being an accessory to the murder of her husband and that of her mother. But she has not been found guilty, for she has not yet been tried. In a little theater near the Montparnasse railway station a play called "Le Crime de l'Impasse," is being given, in which Mme. Steinheil's name and those of other people figure in very slight disguise upon the program. Immense posters are to be seen all over the neighborhood, which read: "If you want to know the truth about the Steinheil case go to the theater and see 'Le Crime de l'Impasse.'" In the play Mme. Steinheil takes a very active share in the murder, and the police are now being asked by Mme. Steinheil's lawyers to have the posters withdrawn.

Letters By Telegraph.

The French postal department has lately inaugurated a novelty in correspondence, which might be of considerable use in other countries. This is the telegraphic letter. There is always a time in France—it is between 9 p. m. and 6 a. m.—when the telegraphic lines are not overburdened with messages. It has occurred to the department that these off hours might be used to advantage. Therefore, if you miss the post for a provincial town in France today, you can, at the rate of 100 words for 20 cents, have your letter telegraphed and delivered by the first post in the morning. The scheme is so simple and is working so well here that there seemes no reason why it should not soon be adopted all over the world.

PENSION FOR FALLEN WOMAN.

Her Reward for Renouncing Claim to Her Lover Prince.

Paris, March 12.—Three years ago a wealthy Russian princess and her son, a youth of 20, visited Paris. During a reception the prince met a young widow of good family, who had been left almost penniless by her husband's death. He fell in love with her, but the prince's mother, on learning of the attachment, took him back to Russia. The two lovers exchanged letters for some time, but ultimately the correspondence ceased.

About a year ago the prince paid another visit to Paris, and at a music hall at Montmartre he encountered his old sweetheart. Her story was a sad one. Left without money she was driven to earning her living as best she could. The prince chivalrously wished to marry the woman, but his mother, in horror, vetoed the match. Through the police she brought pressure to bear upon the woman and induced her to leave Paris and renounce the projected union. Touched by her renunciation, the princess settled upon her a pension of $2,000 a year. She also gave M. Lepine a check for $30,000 to establish a fund for the rescuing of young girls who have taken the first false step. Mme. Rousseau, daughter of the director of the depot, is the administratrix of the fund, and M. Clemenceau has accepted the honorary presidency. The annual report was presented this week, the founder attending the meeting in person.

Severe Cold Cured

By Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

ELIZABETH CRITES

It is the personal recommendations of people who have been cured by it that has made Chamberlain's Cough Remedy one of the most popular cough medicines on the market. It is especially valuable for colds, and can always be depended upon.

Gets Quick Relief

"My attention was called to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy about two years ago," says Elizabeth Crites, 1228 So. Hill, Los Angeles, Cal. "I had contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs and caused a cough which not only troubled me, but worried me as it hung to me so persistently. I got tired of paying doctor's bills without getting relief, and upon the advice of a druggist tried Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It relieved me almost immediately, and in three weeks I was rid of my cough. I am most gratified for what this remedy did for me."

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

After a woman has tried half a dozen different remedies for a cold and received little if any benefit, she appreciates the quick relief which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy affords. This remedy acts on nature's plan, loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration and opens the secretions, effecting a permanent cure. It is not a palliative that merely allays the cough or depresses the action of the heart, but a cure that strikes at the root of the trouble and removes the cause. It contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given to children with implicit confidence. Price twenty-five cents, large size fifty cents.

WEST END

MAY PUT MISSION IN WEST END

Clergymen and Laymen Are Talking of the Project Now.

The West end will have a mission, where services will be held every evening, and where much evangelistic work will be carried on, unless the plans of a number of the clergymen and laymen of the neighborhood miscarry.

They are talking of establishing the mission if a suitable room can be secured, and F. L. Dunn, who had charge of the Star of HMope Mission, after Rev. John Callahan left it to enter a larger field, in New York city, may be placed in command.

A meeting of those interested was held last evening in R. R. Forward's store. A location that is not too expensive will be sought at once and another meeting will be held in the near future, to discuss plans.

Walter Cayo Surprised.

Walter Cayo was pleasantly surprised at his home, 2809 Helm street, Tuesday evening, by a number of his friends. Music and games were enjoyed. The affair was a great success. Among those present were:

Many at Reception.

The First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church was filled last evening, the occasion being the annual reception of the Epworth League. The affair was a brilliant function and reflected great credit upon the young people of the church.

West End Shortrails.

The West End Hillside Improvement club will meet this evening in Alderman Peter Olson's office, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street. The Piedmont avenue grading proposition will be the principal matter to come up.

The revival services in the Central Baptist church and Grace M. E. church will conclude this evening. Dr. Kirtley will speak in Central Baptist church and Rev. W. E. Gratz in Grace church.

Rev. Theodore Fossum, pastor of Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, has gone to Winnipeg. He owns a farm not far from the Canadian city and he will spend two weeks there His son, Magnus Fossum, is in charge at the farm.

The Epworth league of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church is planning to give a social next Wednesday evening.

The young people of Zion Norwegian Lutheran church will give a musical program in the church this evening.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Luke's Episcopal church is meeting this afternoon with Mrs. Grey of West First street.

Rev. Frank Cooibaugh of Cloquet will preach in St. Luke's Episcopal church at the regular services Sunday evening.

Magnus Bolne left yesterday for Minneapolis where he expects to remain for some time.

Mrs. Nels Wheeler of Garfield avenue has as her guests, Mrs. Charles P. Emmons and daughter of Cando, N. D.

Joseph Clayton will leave the first of the week for Seattle, Wash., where he will visit relatives for several weeks.

An Item of Interest.

In the museum of the San Francisco mint one sees a lump of gold like a large bean, stamped on one side with the rude outline of a crowned archer. It is a Persian daric, which has come down from the time of Darous. This suggests the interesting fact that in the gold coins of today are particles of precious metal which have come down from a very remote past, as considerable of the material that goes into the new coins come from old ones remelted. Another interesting fact is that golden grain belt beer, is served regularly at mealtime, will aid digestion and make rich, red blood. Keen appetite comes with its use. Order of your nearest dealer, or be supplied by Duluth branch, Minneapolis Brewing company.

BILL TO KEEP LEAVITT IN OFFICE IS RAILROADED THROUGH STATE SENATE

its face value, without realizing its purpose. The bill provides that old soldiers must be kept in state offices unless charges are made against them and proved before a commission composed of the governor, the lieutenant governor and the attorney general, a majority to govern and the official to draw salary, while the trial proceeds. Hall and Dutolt were the only senators who voted against the bill.

• • •

The house this morning passed the Alderman senate bill, limiting saloons to one for each 500 people, explained elsewhere, 74 to 57; also the Nolan bill requiring that liquor licenses shall only be granted to persons of good character and providing that public officials who fail to scrutinize the character of applicants shall forfeit their offices.

• • •

The house passed the Nye bill providing that draymen in cities over 50,000 must report to the city license inspector all removals of household goods.

• • •

The representatives of the employers, employes and lawyers, who are backing the commission plan of handling the workingmen's compensation problem, met last night and agreed upon bills which will be presented to the labor committees of both branches of the legislature with the request that they be introduced as committee bills. One bill creates a commission of three to investigate the subject and report to the next legislature, to be appointed by the governor from employers, employes and the bar. The other bills relate to providing the commission with the information necessary to its purposes. It will be requested that these measures be considered with the Stuart bill, which substitutes an immediate workingmen's compensation act for the commission plan.

• • •

The house killed the following bills this morning by adopting adverse committee reports: Providing a state home for the aged; providing that the state shall give extra pay to rural teachers and increasing the salaries of board of control members to $5,000.

• • •

The house voted this morning to hold no session tomorrow.

• • •

Representative Haugland offered a bill aimed at malt liquors that are sold as substitutes for beer. It prohibits their sale anywhere, except in licensed saloons.

• • •

Representative Nolan offered a bill empowering the governor to remove mayors and village presidents for malfeasance and nonfeasance in office.

• • •

Representative Salerud introduced a bill appropriating $20,000 to be spent in investigating drainage and subjugation of peat and swmp lands, drainage of farms, eradication of weeds, and for other purposes conducive to good farming.

• • •

Representative Graham introduced a bill authorizing counties to establish county insane asylums, with a view to adding a conuty system to help out the state asylum system.

• • •

Representative Duea introduced a bill requiring state banks to pay twice a year for examination instead of once a year.

• • •

Representative Spooner offered a bill requiring surety companies to file their rates with county auditors and providing that these rates shall be supervised by the insurance commission.

• • •

The house in committee of the whole advanced to the calendar, the bill allowing legitimate clubs to dispense liquor to their members without taking out licenses. They must have the approval of the mayor, city attorney and county attorney before doing so, in order to prevent the measure being used to foster blind pigs. Amendments were adopted providing that the measure shall not apply to dry towns, and that clubs selling liquor must give bonds to obey selling to minors, drunkards, etc. Amendments to cut out cities under 10,000, and to make the bill apply only to the three large cities, were defeated, as was an amendment providing that it should not apply to any clubs formed hereafter.

SHOWS BIG LOSS BY FOREST FIRE

Lansing, Mich., March 12.—Before the senate committee on forestry Carl E. Schmidt of Detroit has presented a resume of a report of Bradfield and Wynne, United States forestry experts, who investigated the effects of last October's forest fires in Northern Michigan. The experts estimated the loss at $28,502,697. This includes timber and property destroyed and money spent in fighting the fires.

The fires destroyed 1,000,000,000 feet of timber, which is equal to one year's cut at the present rate of lumbering in Michigan.

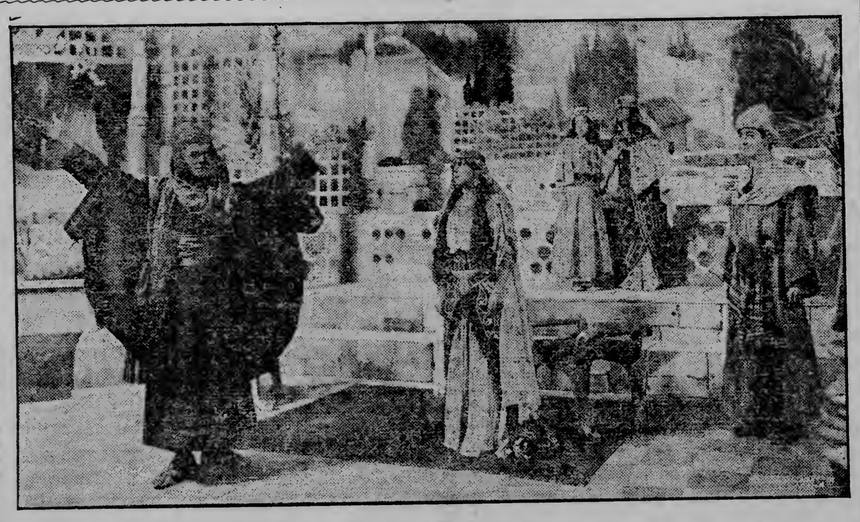

It is estimated that before the fires there were 11,000,000,000 feet of timber standing in the state.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

HERRMAN MAY RETIRE

President of the National Bowling Association Wants to Quit.

The Next Meeting Place Has Not Yet Been Decided.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 12.—The question agitating bowlers attending the ninth International tournament of the American Bowling congress here last night was whether August Hermann of Cincinnati, Ohio, president of the association will accept his old position. Mr. Hermann positively stated yesterday that he would not accept the presidency again under any circumstances. He believes, he said, that he can do more good for bowling in a minor office. The general opinion last night, however, is that Mr. Hermann will again be elected president today and will be forced to accede to the demands of the delegates.

Should Mr. Hermann persist in the desire to step out of the leadership among the men named to succeed him are Robert Bryson of Indianapolis, Frank Pasdeloup of Chicago, now treasurer, and Edward Meyers of Washington, D. C., vice president.

Over 100 delegates attended the meeting. It was finally decided that ten pins in the future are to weigh three pounds, which is two ounces less. The use of resin on shoes while participating in a national tournament will be prohibited. The executive council was officially increased from nine to fifteen members. A resolution introduced by Judge Howard of Chicago providing for the planing of alleys used for city association matches once a year, was tabled, following considerable discussion and an amendment that new pins be used for each squad in national tournaments, was killed.

The place for holding the 1910 tournament of the American bowling congress was not decided. The matter was placed in the hands of the executive committee, which will have the power to select the next convention city. Three months is allowed to make a decision.

Yesterday was the heaviest for matches since the tournament opened. Play was started at 7:30 a. m. and will be continued until after midnight.

Only a few high scores were made, but none were close to the national records. Teams from eighteen of the largest centers in the country participated in the games last night.

The highest score in the five-men event last night was 2,727 by the Kandy-Kids of Madison, Wis.

FITWELLS TAKE THREE STRAIGHT

Clothing House Bowlers Are Now Well in the Lead.

The Fitwells took three straight bowling games from the General Electrics on the Central alleys last night. Schultz got the high average, 203, and Hale got the high score, 225.

The games should have been played a week ago, but were postponed until last night. The Fitwells now look sure winners. They are many points in the lead, and if some one of the teams does not check their winning streak they will be very soon out of reach.

The scores follow:

General Electrics.
J. Burguson (25)	185	165	169
Lindfors (24)	158	135	145

TRIP AROUND THE WORLD FOR SOX

Chicago Team Will Take a Long Journey in 1911.

Chicago, March 12.—A dispatch to the Record-Herald from SanFrancisco says:

President Charles A. Comiskey of the Chicago American league club has announced that he will take his baseball team around the world after the season of 1911 is finished. The start will be made from San Francisco about Oct. 15, 1911.

The trip of the All-American baseball club to Japan, China, the Phillippines and Hawaii last winter led Comiskey to think that a trip around the world would be a success.

The trip of the old Chicago White Stockings around the world in 1889 was an unqualified success. In 1906 Comiskey took his team to the City of Mexico for its spring training.

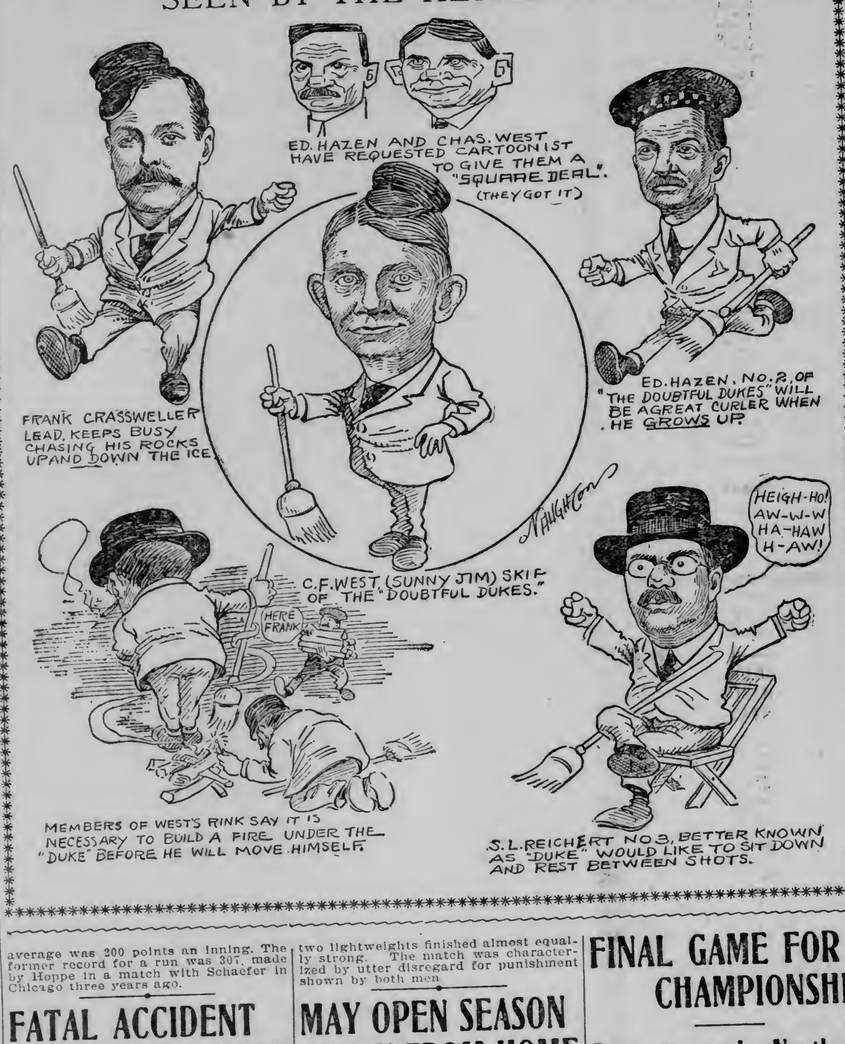

HIBBING AND CLOQUET TEAMS PLAY FRIDAY.

Cloquet, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hibbing high school basket ball team will clash with the local high school team here today in the last game of the season. The game will be fast as both teams have showed good form this year. Hibbing has a little the best of Cloquet in games that have been played but the boys hope to even up matters this evening.

New Billiard Record.

Kansas City, Kan., March 12.—In an exhibition billiard match here last night, Willie Hoppe established a new world's record fo rthe 18.2 billiard game for high runs and average. Winning the bank he clicked off 329. His average was 200 points an inning. The former record for a run was 307, made by Hoppe in a match with Schaefer in Chicago three years ago.

C. F. WEST'S "DOUBTFUL DUKES" AS SEEN BY THE HERALD CARTOONIST

WISHES HE WERE TWINS

Will Dinham Must Play Against Himself in Curling Event.

His Two Rinks Win in Their Respective Classes.

Will Dinham is now in a bad fix.

Mr. Dinham is an enthusiastic curler and skips both B and C class rinks. In his enthusiasm to have all his rinks make a clean sweep, he has placed himself in a difficult position. Both the C and B class rinks are winners in the Manley-McLennan event and it is hard for "Bill" to make up his mind which rink to play with. The two rinks meet each other to see which shall play Hall in the finals. Of course he thinks each rink is the best in the club and he hates to play one against the other. In the meantime Walter Hall who is the winner in the A class, is patiently waiting for him to make up his mind so that the final games can be played off.

The events are being rushed off at the rink every day and many of the events are nearly finished.

The C class rinks will hold a bonspiel for the Board of Trade buttons. The games committee will make the drawings and play will probably begin Monday night.

The scores made last night follow:

Manley-McLennan, Class C, Finals.

FATAL ACCIDENT MARS AUTO RACE

Fourteen Out of Twenty Cars Finish on Scheduled Time.

Boston, March 12.—Fourteen of the twenty automobiles which left New York at 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning on the endurance run to Boston for the Chester I. Campbell trophy, finished on schedule time twelve hours later, last night, with perfect scores. The tie will not be run off, but the holders of the trophy for the coming year will be decided by lot tonight.

One serious accident marked the run. Aaron W. Wallace was killed at Fairfield, Conn., by attempting to jump from his carriage, his horse becoming frightened at the automobiles and running away. Driver La Croix of Car No. 21 was detained at New Haven on a technical charge to await developments, it being alleged his car was nearest the scene of the accident at the time.

A car following the competing automobiles turned turtle in Marlboro, N. B. Blake of Boston was painfully bruised. F. B. Richards and F. F. Sponer, both of New York were slightly hurt.

BAPTIE UPHOLDS HIS REPUTATION

Loses in the Quarter, But Wins the One-Mile Event.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 12.—Norval Baptie of North Dakota, world's ice skating champion, last night surrendered the quarter-mile honors to Morris Wood of New York, in the opening series of professional skating races here. He retained, however, the one-mile mark, defeating Wood and Nilsson.

Charles Rankin retained his honors in the fifty-yard dash. No records were broken. The five professional skaters with world's records that will take part in the three-night events scheduled, include Baptie, Wood, Nilsson, Skinnerud and Rankin.

The summary follows:

Quarter-mile—Wood won; Baptie, second; Nilsson, third. Time, 40¼.

Mile—Baptie won; Wood, second; Nilsson, third. Time, 2:54 4-5.

Fifty-yard dash—Rankin won; Wood, second; Nilsson, third. Time, :05 2-5.

WOMEN.

Fifth-mile, purse — Miss Leonard, Cleveland, won; Miss Archer, Calumet, Mich., second. Time, 40 1-5.

A number of fancy skating events and other events in between filled in the races.

Pool Championship.

Chicago, March 12.—All arrangements have been made and the dates set for the match between Tommy Hueston and Charles Weston for the pool championship of the world. The match will be played here beginning the night of March 31, and lasting until April 3. A total of 800 points will be played for, 200 a night.

Fast Boxing Match.

New York, March 12.—In a fierce ten-round bout before the Whirlwind Athletic club last night, Frankie Madden of New York had the better of Kid Sullivan of Washington, although the two lightweights finished almost equally strong. The match was characterized by utter disregard for punishment shown by both men.

MAY OPEN SEASON AWAY FROM HOME

White Sox Will Meet the Nausau Team May 13.

According to a dummy schedule, the Duluth ball team will open the season this spring at Wausau, Wis., on May 13. The dummy is being prepared by A. W. Kuehnow, and will not be passed on until after the meeting of the league officials, which will be held in either Eau Claire or Duluth. At that time the schedule will be passed on, such changes made as are deemed necessary, bylaws adopted, and the league will finally be in working order.

On account of Duluth being the largest town in the league, the Duluth men are trying to secure as many holiday and Sunday dates as possible. The article of ball this year gives promise of being that which the fans will enjoy, and a brilliant season is forecasted for the first year of the new circuit.

All the Duluth players have been signed up, and they look well on paper. There will be much weeding out during the spring training trip, and when the team plays its first game in Duluth, somewhere along about June 1, it will probably comprise those players who will stick during the entire season. The team meets in Cleveland, April 15, and will put in practically an entire month playing through Ohio and Iowa.

FRENCH TEAM HAS BIG LEAD

Cibot and Orphee Twenty-One Miles Ahead Nearest Competitor.

New York, March 12.—With Cibot and Orphee twenty-one miles ahead of their nearest competitors, ten and a half teams of plodders were represented in the six-day go-as-you-please race in Madison Square garden today. The race has become a procession, with great odds in favor of the French team. Hartley was still struggling along without a partner, waiting for someone to drop out and give him a place.

The score at 8 a. m. was:

Cibot and Orphee, 573 miles; Davis and Metkus, 552 miles; Dineen and Prouty, 532 miles, 1 lap; Loeslein and Klubertanz, 519 miles, 3 laps; Corey and Hegelmon, 509 miles, 1 lap; Shelton and Frazer, 499 miles, 5 laps; Feegan and Curtis, 495 miles, 5 laps; Guignard and Revere, 467 miles, 6 laps; Navez and Kellar, 541 miles; Edelson and Pallanti, 416 miles, 2 laps; Hartley (alone), 346 miles, 4 laps.

Golf Meet.

Memphis, Tenn., March 12.—Announcement is made that the eighth annual tournament of the Southern Golf association will be held in Memphis, beginning May 26.

Johnson Leaves Vancouver.

Vancouver, B. C., March 12.—Jack Johnson, the pugilist, left yesterday via the Canadian Pacific for Chicago.

Bowling Record Broken.

Pittsburg, March 12.—The world's record for two-men bowling teams was broken today by Al Schwoegler and Tony Schwoegler of Madison, Wis., when they rolled 1,304. The previous record was 1,254, held by Chalmers and Klene of Chicago.

FINAL GAME FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Bryants and Northern Juniors Will Play the Deciding Contest.

After many delays, the Bryants and Northern Juniors will meet tonight at the Central rink to settle the hockey championship of the amateur hockey league.

The colder weather of the past few nights has put the ice in fair shape and as it is the final game of the year, both teams will make a determined effort to take the contest.

The rivalry between the teams is of long standing, and while at the time of their last meeting, the Juniors got the better of it, the Bryants think they are in a fair way to win out, now that they have had more experience in the game.

The plan has been up to this time to play three games for the championship, but the weather has interfered from time to time and the season is so far advanced now that it is likely that the contest tonight will be final, the winner taking the championship.

SOPHOMORES WIN THE PENNANT

Juniors Defeated in Second Basket Ball Game by 44 to 23.

The Sophomore basket ball team yesterday cinched the penanant in the high school Interclass league. The game was played in the gynasium of the boy's department Y. M. C. A., and the score was 44 to 23. This is the second game of the series of three games that were to be played by the Juniors and Sophomores for the championship, but as the Sophomores have won two of the games the third is not necessary.

The first game was played Tuesday afternoon and the score at that time was 53 to 21. Besides the pennant which goes to the class, each boy who played on the team is presented with a jersey by the Y. M. C. A.

The contest yesterday afternoon was a good one. Solheim and Harris started for the under classmen and Boyle filled a like position for the Juniors. This game finishes up the league basket ball season.

The lineup follows:

Sophomores.		Juniors.
Harris	forward	Boyle
Taylor	forward	Hutchins
Waldron	center	Merritt
Solheim	guard	Naslund
Johnson	guard	Stevens

The standing of the teams follows:

Club—	W.	L.	Pct.
Sophomores	5	0	1.000
Juniors	3	4	.429
Freshmen	2	3	.400
Seniors	2	4	.200

LOVED IN VAIN, KILLS SELF.

Italian a Suicide at His Cousin's Engagement Party.

Rome, March 12.—Disappointed suicide at Pavia a few nights since, love was the cause of a dramatic A supper party was given at the house of Signor Gargnati to celebrate his daughter's engagement to a young doctor.

In the midst of the gaiety one of the guests, a young man named Bartoidi, who was the girl's first cousin, stood up to propose the health of the happy pair. He then explained that he was about to die, as he loved the girl well to see her married to another man. Before any one could stop him he had sent a bullet through his heart.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN CANAL

Dayton, Ohio, Police Are Confronted by Another Mystery.

Dayton, Ohio, March 12.—Another baffling mystery confronts the police in the discovery of the decomposed body of an unknown white woman in the canal below the Apple street bridge. In the opinion of the officers, it must have been in the water about a month.

Harry B. Kechels, a colored boy, was rowing a boat on the canal when he noticed the body. Police headquarters were notified, and the body removed to an undertaker's.

The woman apparently was 30, and well dressed. She was attired in black. She wore Romeo slippers, but over these she had a pair of new rubbers. The woman's undergarments were in good condition. The decomposition will, it is feared, prevent the identification of the woman.

MAYOR RESIGNS; WON'T TELL WHY

Executive of Los Angeles Faces Charges of Misconduct.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 12.—Mayor A. C. Harper resigned yesterday. He declined to explain. The mayor has been a candidate for re-election at a special election called for March 26, under the recall clause of the city charter. He had been recalled from office by a petition, signed by 10,000 voters, because of various allegations of misconduct made against him.

MASCAGNI AND PUCCINI.

Warring Composers Hug, Kiss and Make Up.

Milan, March 12.—An amusing though impressive scene was witnessed during an important gathering of the Operatic Arists' Confederation in Rome.

The two famous rival composers, Mascagni and Puccini, who for some years have been notoriously at variance to such a nextent as to preclude even the ordinary exchange of salutations, happened to be present, and a number of mutual friends, yearning to put an end to the feud, skilfully contrived to fling the two into each other's arms.

Both Puccini and Mascagni, apparently, welcomed the unexpected situation for they hugged fraternaly, and, covering each other coplously with kisses and tears, swore eternal friendship upon the spot.

DEATH OF FRICKISM

Assured by Selection of George T. Oliver as Senator.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 12.—Pittsburg was greatly pleased when news came from Harrisburg that George T. Oliver had been practically unanimously indorsed as the next United States senator by the Republican caucus. On next Tuesday there will be a ballot, and Oliver's election is a certainty. The elevation of the Pittsburg publisher and steel king to the seat made vacant by the resignation of P. C. Knox means the death of Frickism in Pennsylvania politics. H. C. Frick worked very hard to defeat Oliver for this seat, going even to the extent of spending $100,000 to defeat Oliver's candidate for mayor of Pittsburg recently, hoping thereby to lessen his hold on Pennsylvania politics, but the defeat of Frick's man was so overwhelming that since that time Oliver has had matters all his way here. Senator-elect Oliver was a life-long friend of M. S. Quay, and could have succeeded to the seat of Quay on two different occasions had he but permitted ambition to override loyalty. He refused to oppose Quay, though the position was offered him. Mr. Oliver is a member of the Union League club of New York and president of the Duquesne club of Pittsburg.

LIKE MAMMOTH CAVE.

Cavern Discovered in the Adirondacks by New York Woodsman.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., March 12.—Seemingly as deep as the famous Mammoth Cave in Kentucky, and containing a succession of wonderful avenues, chambers and abysses, an enormous cavern has been discovered in one of the wildest portions of the Adirondacks by Capt. E. R. Thomas, a woodsman of wide experience. Already it has been explored in several directions for a distance of approximately 1,000 feet, and Capt. Thomas is of the opinion that it would require miles of travel to investigate all of the subterranean passages.

As an indication of the depth of some of the yawning chasms encountered, the captain says that twenty seconds elapsed before stones dropped into the pits were heard to strike.

NOT STINGY WITH HIS BRIDE.

Sir William Abdy Gave New Wife Check for $25,000.

London, March 12.—The marriage of Sir William Abdy and Mrs. Fanny Robinson, who gave their ages as 64 and 35 years, respectively, was solemnized in the local registry office of St. Pancras recently and caused great surprise to the friends of the bridegroom. This is Sir William's third venture in the maritmonial sea and his bride, too, has been married before.

In keeping with the rich presents he gave his former wives, Sir William's gifts to his bride were of remarkable value. They comprise: A freehold of a country house at Nedigate, near Dorking; furniture of the house; check for $25,000; tiara cornonet, set with diamonds and pearls; two motor cars, a Victoria and a pair of horses.

DR. HUBBARD PRESIDENT.

S.S.S. FOR RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood, which gradually gets into the circulation because of indigestion, constipation, weak kidney action, and other irregularities of the system which are sometimes considered of no importance. This uric acid causes an inflamed and irritated condition of the blood, and the circulation instead of nourishing the different portions of the body, continually deposits into the nerves, muscles, tissues and joints, the irritating, pain-producing acid with which it is filled. Rheumatism can only be cured by a thorough cleansing of the blood, and this is just what S. S. S. does. It goes down into the circulation, and by neutralizing the uric acid and driving it from the blood, effectually and surely removes the cause. S. S. S. strengthens and invigorates the blood so that instead of a weak, sour stream, causing pain and agony thoughout the system, it becomes an invigorating, nourishing fluid, furnishing health and vigor to every part of the body and relieving the suffering caused by this disease. S. S. S. being a purely vegetable blood purifier, is the surest and safest cure for Rheumatism in any of its forms. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.

READY FOR FIRST TRIP

Steamer C. W. Moore Waiting to Depart for North Shore.

The Harbor Front Generally Is Beginning to Look Busy.

As has been the custom for many years, the A. Booth company boats will open navigation at the Head of the Lakes the coming season.

Their steamer C. W. Moore has been thoroughly overhauled and is now waiting with steam up ready to depart at a moment's notice on her first trip to the north shore.

John Coventry, resident manager of the Booth company said this morning that the ice in the lake is weakening, and that the boat would probably start out on her first trip of the season in about ten days' time. The only ice on the lake that would bother the sturdy little steamer is directly in front of the ship canal. This sheet stretches down to Knife river, a point about eighteen miles from Duluth. Mr. Coventry says that a wind from the right direction would break it up in good shape, and soon as this happens, the Moore will start out. The first trip will be only as far as Grand Portage, unless the crew find the conditions would warrant them in going farther.

There are signs of activity along the harbor front. The Northern Pacific is repairing its docks and landings with new planking. The work on dock No. 4 was finished today.

Smoke is seen issuing from the stacks of the larger boats, a sure sign that the machinery is being overhauled. There is a lot of painting and general repairing being done, and the tugs of the Great Lakes Towing & Wrecking company are being thoroughly overhauled so that they will be ready for business at the first sign of a breakup. The tugs Record and Sinclair are being made ready to break ice. This work will begin about the last of the month.

ALL READY FOR MINSTREL SHOW

Final Rehearsal Held and Performance Goes Off Like Clockwork.

This evening, at the Lyceum theater, the black face artists from the Y. M. C. A., will endeavor to entertain the public with a home talent minstrel show. The cast, while including many old-time actors and some would-be knights of the limelight, is strictly home talent. There are a number of local hits in the show that are said to be good and they promise a first-class entertainment in every way.

The final dress rehearsal was held last night and everything went off like clockwork.

ALL ENGINEERS THAT HE NEEDS

G. A. Tomlinson Does Not Anticipate Trouble From Labor Unions.

G. A. Tomlinson does not believe that there will be any very serious trouble over the labor situation upon the vessels of the Great Lakes from th standpoint of the vessel owners. He says that the clause in the contracts of the marine engineers, which at the present time is causing so much agitation, will be enforced by him, and he is of the opinion that he will have all of the engineers that he can use upon his boats.

Mr. Tomlinson says that at the present time he has signed all of the engineers that he can use, and that the contracts of these engineers have the clause, the one asking the engineers to help the vesselmen enforce the open shop question. Mr. Tomlinson further says that the other vessel laborers, the affiliated unions that threatened trouble last year, will not be recognized as unions by the vesselmen.

He says that there was no trouble from these unions last year and that there is no reason to expect that there will be any trouble the coming season.

TUNNEL THROUGH SNOW TO STORES

Menominee, Mich., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Not in two decades has Menominee been visited by a snowstorm of such magnitude as the one which began Monday at midnight and raged for thirty-six hours, paralyzing traffic and communication until Wednesday afternoon.

Snow was piled in drifts twelve and fourteen feet high Wednesday morning, touching the second story windows of many of the business places on the Main street and dozens of merchants were obliged to tunnel their way through the obstruction before they could enter their stores. Those who lived in downtown buildings had even greater difficulty getting out.

Nearly 100 men and thirty wagons were employed by the city and the Light & Traction company to carting away the snow. The blizzard will cost the city and the company several thousand dollars.

IOWA HAS SNOWFALL LASTING TEN HOURS.

TO THE PENITENTIARY.

Minot, N. D., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nels Boe was given a term of fifteen months in the state penitentiary at Bismarck for a second offense in violating the liquor law of North Dakota.

This is one of the first penitentiary sentences on a blindpigging charge passed in Ward county for some time. State's Attorney Nash says that he intends to prosecute second offenses to the limit. The law is on the books, and he believes that it should be enforced to the letter.

Mr. Nash is also inclined to get after some of the big fellows and not confine the attention of the authorities to the small fry. He believes that the law should be enforced without fear or favor.

LAYS IN STOCK AGAINST STRIKE

Philadelphia, Pa., March 12.—The Reading company made a significant move today when it decided that instead of closing its collieries tomorrow, because of the slow demand for coal as contemplated earlier in the week, it will continue to operate them.

It is said the Reading's mines will continue to work uninterruptedly during the remainder of the month, in order to increase the amount of coal on hand, in case a suspension is ordered, either by the companies or the Miners' union.

President Lewis gave to the Associated Press this afternoon the following prepared statement:

"During the deliberations it developed that the operators are unwilling to treat with the miners' representatives as an organization of men and at the same time the operators claim they have no objections to the men being members of the United Mine Workers. This position is so inconsistent that it needs no comment.

"The question naturally arises, if the anthracite operators refuse to sign an agreement with the representatives of the United Mine Workers as such for the anthracite region, then an agreement adopted is binding only on whose signatures are attached to the document.

"Any proposition agreed on for the mine workers of the anthracite region to have the support of the United Mine Workers must be signed by representatives of the miners as representing the United Mine Workers in the anthracite region."

The Best Clothes in Duluth

The Columbia is the pre-eminent suit and overcoat store of this city because its stock and store are a credit to Duluth and would be to St. Paul or Minneapolis. It will be easy sailing and easy selling for the Columbia salesmen, if the Ad-Man can persuade you to come in tomorrow for a look and a try-on. The Merchant tailor will have a hard task to prove that he can produce better clothes at any price.

Here we are showing pictures of a few of the 1909 styles in Suits, Spring Overcoats and Raincoats which our wholesale tailors made up for us as well as they know how, and what man living in our day can gainsay that our Stein-Bloch and Sincerity tailors know better than any small tailor on earth.

Men's Suits $10.00 to $35.00. Young Men's Suits, $5.00 to $30.00.
Men's and Young Men's Top Coats and Rain Coats, $8.00 to $35.00.
Boys' Suits, $2.00 to $15.00. Children's Suits, $2.00 to $12.00.

IMPROVEMENT LEAGUE FORMED IN BEMIDJI.

Bemidji, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bemidji Study Club, a branch of the state federated clubs, appropriately observed civic rally day Wednesday for the first time in the history of Bemidji, by meeting for the purpose of forming a city improvement league.

About forty women attended the meeting, which was held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Wye on Bemidji avenue. Officers were elected as follows: Mrs. W. E. Neal, president; Mrs. A. P. White, vice president; Mrs. J. M. Richards, secretary; Mrs. W. N. Bowser, treasurer. Mrs. Neal has had considerable experience in this work in other parts of the state

ENGINE IS DISABLED, BLOWS OUT CYLINDER.

Brainerd, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota & International passenger train from the north was over two hours late yesterday being delayed by the engine blowing out a cylinder head between Littlefork and Big Falls.

Fargo Park Plan Popular.

Fargo, N. D., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.—The proposition to create a park commission in Fargo is receiving support and the committee to which the new ordinance was referred has agreed on a favorable report. The creation of the commission provides for the purchase of parks around the city and the establishment of connecting play grounds and boulevards.

EXTENSIVE FARM SALE IN RED RIVER VALLEY.

East Grand Forks, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the biggest realty deals made in East Grand Forks for some time was closed yesterday when Jerry Enright sold his property, consisting of 480 acres adjoining this city, for a consideration of $30,000 to E. C. Koch of Keystone.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

LOSES BY SIX VOTES

Mayor Berg of International Falls Beaten in Close Race.

Only One Member of the Old Council Elected Again.

International Falls, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the village election, held Tuesday, the following officers were elected: President, of the council, Dr. M. E. Withrow; trustees, M. Burton, Frank Keyes and Eric Franson; treasurer, N. L. Olson; recorder, Frank B. Green; justice of the peace, H. I. Bedell; constables, James Dawson and Charles Hall.

There were 131 votes cast in favor of separating the village from the township, to only five against. The newly-elected president of the council has served in this capacity here before. He is a man of good judgment and firm convictions. John Berg, who was president of the council last year, made a good race for re-election and only lost by the narrow margin of six votes. Frank Green has the honor of being the only member of last year's council who was re-elected.

MAYOR JOHN BERG.

The Koochiching township officers elected are: Supervisor, Herman Koeneke; clerk, J. H. Emerson; treasurer, F. G. Nelson; assessor, George Holler; justices of the peace, R. Roe and L. C. Nelson; constable, William Moyer. The tax levy amounted to $3,250, apportioned as follows: General fund, $900; road and bridge, $2,000; interest on bonds, $900; bond redemption, $700.

L. A. Ogaard returned Sunday from the state highway convention in St. Paul. He was appointed by the county board to attend the convention as a delegate from Koochiching county. Mr. Ogaard succeeded in convincing the commission that the appropriation of $500, which they had appropriated out of the state road fund for Koochiching county was entirely too small an amount, and persuaded the commission to raise it to $1,500. While in St. Paul he also set on foot some road and drainage legislation for the benefit of Northern Minnesota.

DULUTH CONCERN ACQUIRES BONDS

Pays Premium for $35,000 Walker School District Issue.

Walker, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The bonds of the Walker school district, in the sum of $35,000 were sold this week to the Commercial Investment company of Duluth for $35,550.50, being a premium of $550.50.

There were many bidders present and some of the bids were higher than the one accepted, but the higher bids were burdened with conditions, which made it possible that they would be rejected. The successful bidder took the bonds absolutely and without condition, being satisfied as to their legality. A number of architects have submitted plans for the new school, and the board is examining them all carefull before accepting any.

Ground will be broken as soon as spring appears, and it is expected that the building will be ready fir next year.

THE BIRD HAD FLOWN.

Prisoner Breaks Jail at Cass Lake Before Sheriff Arrives.

Cass Lake, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Oscar Meade, a lumberjack who was arrested here the first of the week for robbing a fellow lumberjack of $70, broke jail Wednesday night and made his escape. The sheriff arrived here Wednesday to take the prisoner to the county jail at Walker, but when he got to the jail he found his bird had flown. Meade succeeded in some unknown manner in removing a strip of the door casing. When this was off there was little trouble in getting out. The authorities along the line have been notified and Meade may be captured before he gets far away.

NONE CLAIMED DEAD.

Cloquet, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of John Bergman, who died while being brought to the hospital at Cloquet last Tuesday, was buried yesterday afternoon by the county. No friends or relatives of the dead man were located, and as there was no clue by which an investigation could be made the county was forced to take the body in charge.

SAVES FATHER FROM DROWNING.

Houghton, Mich., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Hosking and son, George, aged 12, of Houghton, broke through the ice while crossing Portage lake yesterday afternoon. The boy managed to clamber out. He then ran to the shore, secured boards and returned and rescued his father.

WILL BOOST BRAINERD.

Commercial Club of City is Planning to Reorganize.

Brainerd, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club last night spent considerable time talking over matters relative to a reorganization. It is probable that the dues will be raised from $5 per annum to at least $15 and possibly $20 or $25. This move, while reducing the number of members will, it is thought, result in a club composed of men sufficiently interested in the objects of the organization to make it a power in the building up of the community.

March 25, the report of the board of directors on the finances of the club and the suspension of delinquent members will be heard.

BROOKSTON'S ELECTION.

J. F. Ryan is Selected for President of Village Council.

Brookston, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—These officers were elected at the annual village election Tuesday: J. F. Ryan, president; W. A. Epperson, Ed Donley and W. J. DesJardin, trustees; W. C. Garland, recorder; Ed Harder, treasurer; Ralph Hanna, W. C. Garland; justices of the peace; C. W. Hendrickson and Dave Ruttle, constables; Frank McMahon, assessor.

In the town of Cutver, the following were elected for the ensuing year: Charles Carlson, supervisor; Karl Eklund, clerk; Frank Kelly, assessor; Karl Eklund, justice of the peace; Fred Steffen, constable; John Degerman, road overseer.

FOR BROKEN NOSE.

Man Worsted in Fight, Given Money Balm for Injury.

Minot, N. D., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A verdict for $4,000 for the plaintiff was brought in by the jury in the district court in the case of William O'Hara vs. O. D. McIntyre, in which the plaintiff sought recovery of damages for a broken nose.

The case has been on for several days and attracted a great deal of interest. O'Hara and McIntyre had a fight in Donnybrook and in the fray O'Hara sustained a fracture of the nose. McIntyre was tried on a criminal charge and convicted, and the civil suit is the sequal to the criminal prosecution.

SEVERS AN ARTERY.

Bartender's Close Call Opening Bottle of Charged Water.

Menominee, Mich., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ed Duchane, a bartender for John Kalinski, was seriously injured while engaged about his duties at the saloon. While he was opening a bottle of carbonated drink, the bottle exploded and the glass severed a large artery in the right wrist.

The wound bled profusely, and the man was weak from loss of blood before a surgeon could be summoned.

LOSES BOTH HIS HANDS.

Farmer Living Near Brule Meets With Horrible Accident.

Ashland, Wis., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Moses Muttonem, a Finnish farmer living near Brule, has been brought to St. Joseph's hospital, to be treated for fearful injuries received at his home Tuesday afternoon.

The unfortunate man was ransacking a cupboard for a small box of screws, and picking up the wrong box, he attempted to open it. The box contained dynamite caps which exploded, tearing off both hands at the wrists, and injuring both eyes, some of the fragments from the box entering his chest and penetrating the lungs.

CLOSING BIG LAND DEAL.

Former North Dakota Governor Selling Land Tract in East.

Hillsboro, N. D., March 12.—Ex-Governor E. Y. Sarles of this city is at Kankakee, Ill., closing the sale of 2,000 acres of land in Traill county, N. D. The sale is being made to a number of Illinoisians, who intend to move to North Dakota and make their permanent homes in this state.

KISSES HER RESCUER.

St. Paul Girl Shows Gratitude for Having Life Saved.

St. Paul, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—When Virginia Saigle was rescued from a terrible death under the wheels of a Rondo and Maria street car, yesterday afternoon, by Edward Riley, an 18-year-old youth, she felt so grateful that she threw her arms around his neck and kissed him full on the lips, to the boys' embarrassment and the amusement of the crowd that quickly assembled. Miss Saigle is 18 years old, and lives at 464 Edmund street.

She was running for a car, slipped and fell, and if it had not been for the quickness of young Riley, she would have been caught under the wheels and probably fatally injured.

NEW YORK MILLS "WET."

By Majority of Nine Voters, Favor Continuing Saloons.

New York Mills, Minn., March 12.—The liquor question figured conspicuously in the village election here Tuesday, the "wets" winning by a majority of nine.

The following village officers were elected: President, R. A. Williams; councilmen, H. C. Hanson, E. E. Hanling, Abe Johnson; recorder, William R. Pohtila; assessor, H. J. Haarala; treasurer, E. R. Rosser; justice, two years, H. J. Haarala; justice, one year, R. A. Williams; constable, Hugh Muckala.

SALOONMAN'S THROAT CUT.

Proprietor of Notorious St. Paul Resort Victim of Italian Feud.

St. Paul, Minn., March 12.—Michael Scavo, proprietor of the "Bucket of Blood" saloon on South Washington street, was attacked on the street yesterday afternoon by an Italian who cut Scavo's throat with a razor. Within fifteen minutes detectives arrested an Italian whose name is Fontanelli, whose clothes were spattered with blood and who had a blood-stained razor in his possession. Fontanelli did not deny attacking Scavo.

The crime is said to be the result of a feud between two factions in the Italian colony. The "Bucket of Blood" saloon has been the scene of many of their quarrels.

BOY FATALLY CRUSHED.

Windom, Minn., March 12.—A son of Helge Johnson of Aun township, in Cottonwood county, was killed by being caught in a gasoline engine.

Fargo Land Office Report.

Fargo, N. D., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following is the report of the business transacted by the local United States land office during the month of February:

Homestead entries (original) 13; final five-year proofs, 24; commutation proofs, 8; public land sales, 4. Total receipts, $6,982.27.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

W. N. Anderson Dies a Pauper in the Windy City.

W. N. Anderson, formerly prominent in Superior milling circles, died yesterday in Chicago, and was buried at the expense of his friends. He was struck by an automobile last week and was taken to the county hospital where he died of his injuries.

Mr Anderson's loss of his fortune is said to have been the result of an unfortunate love affair. He fell in love with a young widow, Mrs. J. Stuart Frasher, in Chicago, but her father objected to Anderson's attentions to his daughter, and forbade them. The young woman also begged him to cease his attentions to her.

This blow caused Mr. Anderson to neglect his business as head of the Star & Crescent Mining company. He left Superior eight years ago. Since his unfortunate love affair he drifted from bad to worse, until he was penniless at the time of his death.

In Superior Mr. Anderson was manager of the Listman & Anchor mills, and is said to have received $10,000 a year. He was president of the Superior Curling club at one time, and donated the Anderson medals, played for annually with Duluth. Mr. Anderson went from Superior to Milwaukee, to take a better position there, and later went to Chicago.

CAN TAX COAL.

Assessment Against Superior Coal Companies Upheld by Court.

It has been decided by the Wisconsin state supreme court, in the case of the City of Superior against the Pittsburg Coal company, that coal known as "railroad" coal, stored on the docks of Superior, is subject to local taxation. This decision involves an assessment of $82,000 against the Pittsburg people and another of $78,000 against the Hanna Coal company.

Temperance Meeting.

A mass meeting of laboring men was held last evening at the Superior Mission, to discuss the evils of the liquor traffic. The meeting was addressed by Rev. F. H. Harvey, pastor of the East End Methodist church, and several of the audience took part in the talk.

Switchman is Panned.

Judge Smith yesterday handed out a severe lecture to James A. McNutt, a railroad switchman, for the abuse of his divorced wife. The court said that McNutt should be publicly flogged, and that six months in the county jail was not severe enough punishment for a man of his sort.

Mrs. McNutt sued for divorce last November. At that time McNutt was directed to stay away from her. He was also directed to pay his former wife $40 suit money and $25 alimony. It is alleged that he has not followed any of these instructions. He has failed to make the required payments, and on Dec. 5 last, is said to have given his wife a quick thrashing.

DEFENDS SUIT ON NOTES.

F. L. Chandler Claims Evener Manufacturing Co. Was Misrepresented.

Claiming that the conditions of the Evener Manufacturing company were misrepresented to him by the man from whom he purchased fifty shares of its stock, and that J. H. Whitely, the present holder of some of his notes knew of the misrepresentations when he purchased the notes, Fred L. Chandler is defending an action brought by Mr. Whitely in district court to recover $325.

Mr. Whitely was secretary and treasurer of the Evener Manufacturing company. He claims he purchased Mr. Chandler's notes with no notice of defense, and he is entitled to recover as a bona fide holder. There are two suits, one on twelve notes for $25 each, and the other on a single note for $25. The two suits have been combined and are being tried before a jury as one suit.

WRECKERS THROW TRAIN; INJURIES NOT SERIOUS.

Peoria, Ill., March 12.—Chicago & Burlington passenger train No. 1, leaving this city at 8:15 last night, was wrecked by train wreckers at the Vicary coal mine switch, five miles from here. The lock on the switch was broken and the switch thrown. The train was going forty miles an hour and was thrown onto the siding into a cut of loaded freight cars.

The engineer reversed his engine when he saw the danger and with his fireman jumped. Both escaped with slight bruises. More than 200 passengers were aboard and the impact, which demolished the locomotive and several of the coal cars, resulted in several minor injuries.

FORAKER IS OUT OF POLITICS, HE ASSERTS.

Columbus, Ohio, March 12.—Ex-Senator J. B. Foraker arrived here today from Washington and will be tendered a dinner tonight by his friends at the Neil house. He called upon Governor Harmon and received his friends during the day.

"I am out of politics," he said, "and shall not enter politics again of my own notion. I have no political ambition. I shall practice law a little in Cincinnati, but I don't care to take up too much work."

EX-STATE TREASURER HELD AS DEFAULTER.

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 12.—James Christiansen, former state treasurer, who retired from office Jan. 1, is under arrest on the charge of being a defaulter to the amount of $70,000.

Gives Hebrew Manuscripts.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 12.—Judge Sulzberger has presented the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, in New York, with more than 200 Hebrew manuscripts, in honor of the eighty-eighth anniversary of the birth of the late Moses A. Dropsie, pioneer of higher Hebrew education in America.

MAYONNAISE FISH.

Take a pound or so of boiled fish (Halibut, Rock or Cod), cut into pieces an inch in length. Mix in a bowl a dressing as follows: The yolks of four boiled eggs rubbed to a smooth paste with salad oil or butter; add to these salt, pepper, mustard, two teaspoonfuls of white sugar, and lastly, six tablespoonfuls vinegar. Heat the mixture until light, and just before pouring it over the fish, stir in lightly the frothed white of an egg. Serve the fish with half the dressing stirred in with it. Spread the remainder over the top, and lay lettuce leaves (from the core of the head of lettuce) around the edges to be eaten with it.

BAKER'S GINGER SNAPS.

Boil all together the following ingredients: Two cups of brown sugar, two cups of cooking molasses, one cup of shortening, which should be butter, one large tablespoonful of ginger, one tablespoonful of ground cinnamon, one teaspoonful of cloves, remove from the fire and let it cool. In the meantime sift four cups of flour and pour part of it into the above mixture. Now dissolve a teaspoon of soda into a tablespoonful of warm water and beat into this mixture, stir in the remainder of the flour and make stiff enough to roll into long rolls about an inch in diameter, and cut off from the end into half-inch pieces. Place them on a well buttered tin, giving them plenty of room to spread. Bake in a moderate oven. Let them cool before taking out of the tins.

DESCEND AMONG DEADLY GASES

Champaign, Ill., March 12.—The conference on mining and fuel, in session in the University of Illinois, was today devoted to consideration of explosions of smoke suppression and of economy in the consuming of fuel. Experimenting in the use of new oxygen helmets and safety lamps in the work of rescuing miners overcome by gas, or a cave-in, are going on in a great glass case. The experts, wearing helmets, descend into the case, which is filled with deadly mine gases and, in view of the observers on the outside, go through the action of rescuing, sawing tangled timbers, digging through fallen earth and carrying dummies representing unconscious miners.

MILL SOON TO START.

Crookston Lumber Company Planning to Begin Operations.

Crookston, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Crookston Lumber company commenced to place pilling in the river for use in their operations this summer. This means that the big institution will soon be ready for operations and will relieve any doubt as to the fact of the company running the big mill the coming summer.

Work has been progressing satisfactorily upon the plant during the past few months and a crew of men has been at work looking after the placing of the mill in shape for the beginning of operations. It is said that the mill will start up on or about April 15, and that it will operate throughout the summer.

STRAUS AS AMBASSADOR IS WHAT JAPAN HEARS.

Tokio, March 12.—Special dispatches to the Japanese newspapers here stating that Oscar Straus, secretary of commerce and labor in President Roosevelt's cabinet, has accepted the appointment of ambassador to Japan, and that the Japanese society in New York is preparing to give him a farewell dinner, are causing much surprise in Tokio. It was generally believed in diplomatic circles that Thomas J. O'Brien, the present ambassador, would remain another year.

IGNORANT OF MOTHER'S DEATH

Though Mrs. John Bujold has been dead for three weeks, her 17-year-old son, Clifford, who has been seriously ill with diphtheria at St. Mary's hospital for some time, does not know that his mother has passed away, and that he has seen her for the last time.

The boy, whose mother was very ill before he was taken with diphtheria, asks constantly how she is, and if there is a chance for her recovery. His condition is so low and his heart so weak from the inroads of the disease that the doctors dare not tell the truth. When he asks about his mother they encourage him in the belief that she is improving and should recover. They say that the shock, if he were told of his mother's death, would be too great for his feeble heart to stand, and would probably result in his death. There is now some hope of his recovering.

Clifford is the son of John Bujold of 27 South Sixtieth avenue west, who claimed his son had been taken to the pesthouse without his knowledge, and who insisted on his being returned to the city hospital.

NO MORE NIGHTS ON SANDBARS

Under the direction of the officers of the Duluth boat club, a petition asking the government lighthouse board at Detroit, Mich., to establish channel lights on the St. Louis river, is being circulated in West Duluth and in Duluth proper.

The petition was first placed in the hands of Frank Wade of West Duluth, for circulation in West Duluth among the launch and boat owners. There are over 100 launch owners in West Duluth, and it is believed that there will be little difficulty encountered in getting all their signatures. The boat owners of the whole city are anxious for the improvement on the river.

It is asked that lights be placed and maintained by the government along the boat channel of the St. Louis river as far as Spirit Lake branch clubhouse. The channel up the river was one lighted, but in 1905 the lights were discontinued. Since then launch owners have had to find their way up the river as best they could, after dark, and it has often resulted disastrously for some of them. Several parties every summer, have spent the better part of a night or perhaps all of it, trying to work off a sand bar.

If light stations can be obtained for the river, it is hoped that excursion boats will be run up the river every night as far as Spirit Lake. As it is now, it is far too dangerous for a big boat to try the river except in the brightest moonlight.

One Game to Play.

All that remains to be played now in the Henrickson event is one more game between the rinks of Hewitt and Micklish. Hewitt defeated Zauft last evening by a score of 15 to 8, going into the finals. In the Esterly, Wade's rink won from Meldahl's in a close game. The score was 12 to 10. Though it was planned to start the trophy playing last night at 7 o'clock, it was impossible on account of the warm weather. The curlers had to sit around until 9 o'clock, waiting for the ice to harden.

Liebner-Kuchenbecker.

Miss Clara Liebner of Minneapolis, became the bride of Carl Kuchenbecker Tuesday evening, at the home of his parents, North Sixty-third avenue west. Rev. Walter Sievers, pastor of the St. Stephen's Lutheran church, performed the ceremony. The bride was accompanied by Miss Margaret Lang and Charles Brown acted as best man. The young people will make their home in Proctor, where Mr. Kuchenbecker is employed in the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad shops.

Exciting Runaway.

The horse which Al Overton was trying to tie to a post in front of Spencer's drug store last evening, became frightened, and gave an exhibition of one of the most thrilling runaways West Duluth has experienced in some time. Mr. Overton was knocked down at the first jump of the horse. The runaway was stopped on Central avenue and Main street. Little damage was done except to the runabout.

West Duluth Briefs.

Regina Letitia Sequin, the 1-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Seguin of 313 North Fifty-first avenue west, died last evening. The funeral will take place Monday.

James Carey of Cloquet was in West Duluth today on business.

The funeral of George Ayotte, aged 58 years, who died Tuesday at his home, 5111 Wadena street, was held this morning from St Jean de Baptiste church. Interment was at Calvary cemetery.

Rev. J. C. Gaughey will preach Sunday morning at the Westminster Presbyterian church.

Miss Mabel Johnson and Miss Irene Galbraith will lead the Westminster Christian Endeavor society Sunday.

Ole Bask of Zim was in West Duluth this morning. He will move with his family soon to Smithville, where they will make their home.

The West Duluth Commercial club will meet this evening at the club rooms.

C. Wheeler of Chicago was a visitor at the Zenith Furnace company today.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Westminster Presbyterian church was entertained last evening at the home of Mrs. L. A. Suicove, 418 North Fifty-eighth avenue west. The evening was passed at games and there was a short musical program. Miss Lozire Boutin, played a mandolin selection, Miss Mable Melin sang a solo, and there were readings by Miss Agnes Strand.

Tonight Rev. A. W. Ryan, rector of the St. Paul's Episcopal church, will preach at the Holy Apostles church. The Lenten services which have been held at the Holy Apostles church, have been well attended.

Old Hickory camp No. 1555, M. W. A. held a card party last evening. Peter McCormick and Frank Hamz, partners in the game, won the first prize, two silk ties. A. McAdams and Harry Tuskin tied them for the prize but lost on the cut. The consolation prizes went to John Connelly and Martin Christensen.

Bart Hosner of South Sixtieth avenue west, was severely scalded yesterday at the Virginia and & Rainy Lake mill. He is confined to his home today.

CHINA DECIDES TO COUNT UP

Washington, March 12.—China is about to take a count of the uncounted millions within her borders. The state department today received a copy of an imperial edict issued in accordance with the program for constitutional reform, directing an enumeration of individuals and families within the empire.

The returns for the census for families must be completed by 1910 and for individuals by 1912. All Chinese living in foreign lands must be enumerated.

MANSLAUGHTER, DECIDES JURY

Laurens, S. C., March 12.—Guilty of manslaughter with a recommendation for mercy is the verdict in the case of Wade Cochran Pinson, charged with killing his friend, Thorwell Boyce. The jury was out sixteen and a half hours.

Pinson shot Boyce Nov. 6. Boyce had taken supper with Miss Evelyn Brown, with whom Pinson was infatuated. Pinson's invitation to take supper with him had been refused by the girl and later when all three were driving in a buggy with Boyce sitting on Pinson's lap, the shooting occurred. The defense claimed the shooting was accidental.

Kills Girl; Gets Twenty Years.

Medina, Ohio, March 12.—Guy Rasor, convicted of manslaughter for the murder, Oct. 8, of his sweetheart, Orlo Lee, was sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary by Judge Hayden, today. The sentence was given after the court over-ruled a motion for a new trial.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Hugh Kennedy Acquitted in Little Falls, Only to be Re-Arrested.

Little Falls, Minn., March 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—After being acquitted in the district court here, on the charge of arson, Hugh Kennedy was rearrested on the charge of murder, it being alleged he was implicated in the Klintrop murder mystery of a few years ago, for the perpetration of which several suspects have lately been taken into custody, but all have been released.

The state claims to have a case against Kennedy and his brother, and the grand jury will investigate the charges.

WHEAT SOARS IN BIG BULL WHEAT MOVEMENT

Prices Go Up More Than Two Points in America.

Foreign Demand Is Strong —Flax Is Higher Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 12.—Wheat soared in the American wheat market today. Opening away up, there was scarcely a moment during the active session when the bulls were not bidding anxiously for wheat and when the quotations were not steadily climbing.

The foreign situation is very strong. Abroad, they are bidding well for American wheat and this fact was one of the stimulants to the market. The domestic demand was very strong. Chicago bulls apparently being as eager to purchase as they were three months ago when prices were not so high.

"I notice millers in Northern France are buying wheat in Paris to ship back. We are going to have higher markets," said "Jim" Patten in Chicago and the words of the bull leader seemed the sentiment of the entire market as well.

Argentine shipments were not large, being 5,096,000 bu., against 5,552,000 bu. last week and 7,176,000 bu. a year ago. The Modern Miller says of winter wheat conditions:

"Plentiful moisture in greater part of winter wheat belt with drought in Texas and Oklahoma generally relieved. Has been beneficial to wheat crop. Reports however are increasing, though are not general of damage by freezing and thawing weather. This is confined practically to soft winter wheat sections. Some plowing up of fields where the plant failed to germinate is reported."

Liverpool closed 1¼d to 1¾d higher, Antwerp unchanged, Budapest ⅜c higher.

The May option closed 2¾c higher to Duluth, 2½c higher in Chicago, 2¾@⅞c higher in Minneapolis, 2½c higher in New York and St. Louis, 2@1⅝c higher in Kansas City and 2⅛@1⅝c higher in Winnipeg. The July option closed 2⅝c higher in Duluth, 2⅛@¾c higher in Chicago, 2⅝@⅞c higher in Minneapolis ⅞c higher in New York, 1⅝@2c higher in St. Louis, 1⅜@⅞c higher in Kansas City, and 2c higher in Winnipeg.

May corn closed ⅜@½c higher in Chicago and ¼d to ½d higher in Liverpool. May oats closed ⅛@¼c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"Wheat—There was a strong opening in wheat and values were 1 to 1⅛ higher. Offerings were light and markets nervous, stimulated by the persistent strength in American markets and the disappointing Argentine shipments predicted earlier in the week. During the morning the market further advanced ⅛ to ¼d on the heavy decrease in the Argentine visible, firmness in spot market and the fact that the same character of buying was in evidence, that has characterized the buying since Monday. March slightly under pressure soon after the opening sold off ¼d due to the larger arrivals here and the fact that large firms were selling the effect of March had a tendency to stimulate some realizing and the whole market sold off from the extreme prices. At midday, the market was still strong and ⅜d to 1½d higher than yesterday with July strongly supported.

"Corn was steady and urged to ¼d higher at the opening and further gained ⅛d during the morning. The firmness in spot and the strength in wheat caused light offerings."

Car receipts of wheat were 107 against 31 last year, and at Minneapolis 166 against 290 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 173 against 321 last year. Chicago received 23 against 24 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 433,000 bus., last year 525,000 bus. Shipments 230,000 bus., last year 298,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 14,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 552,000 bus., last year 445,000 bus. Shipments 371,000 bus., last year 415,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 450 bus.

Wheat was active in the Duluth market. May wheat opened ⅝c higher at $1.13⅜ and ranged between that and $1.16⅝ during the rest of the session, advancing almost steadily. The closing price was $1.15⅝, a gain of 2¾c over yesterday. July wheat opened ⅝c higher at $1.14¼, advanced to $1.16¼ and closed there, a gain of 2⅝c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed 2¾c higher. Considerable durum was worked for export during the day.

Cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 1c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was rather quiet, but the tone was stronger. May flax opened unchanged at $1.63½, advanced to $1.65 and closed at $1.64⅞, a gain of 1⅜c over yesterday. July flax opened unchanged at $1.62¾, advanced to $1.64 and closed there, a gain of 1¾c over yesterday. September flax closed ⅝c higher at $1.43¼c. October flax sold up to $1.38½ and closed at $1.38, unchanged from yesterday.

Oats closed ⅜c higher and other coarse grains were unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Firm Cables Have Strengthening Effect on Corn—Oats Trade Dull.

Chicago, March 12.—Wheat prices were forced up about 1c at the opening of the market today, on a general rush to buy, based on a sharp advance at Liverpool, where the market was bullishly affected by Argentine statistics. Exports for the week from that country weer lighter than had been forecasted, and the visible supply there decreased nearly 5,000,000 bushels for the week. Prices here were up ⅝c to 1⅛c, at the start, May being at $1.15⅞ to $1.16⅛, and July at $1.03⅞ to $1.04¼. Early in the day May touched $1.16⅝, while July advanced to $1.04⅜@½.

Sentiment in the pit became extremely bullish during the final hour, owing to rumors of an enormous export business being done at New York. Prices advanced another cent, May selling up to $1.17⅛ and Junly to $1.05½.

The close was strong at the best marks, final quotations on May showing net gains of 2⅛c at $1.17⅛. July was up 2⅛@⅜c at $1.05½.

Firm cables and an official prediction of unsettled weather for the corn belt had a strengthening effect on the corn market, prices at the start being up ½c to ⅝c, compared with yesterday's close. May opened at 68⅝c to 68¾c. After touching 686@⅝c, the price dropped back to 68¼@⅜c.

The market rallied on the strength of wheat and closed firm with May up ⅜@½c at 68½c.

Trade in oats was comparatively dull but the market displayed moderate firmness because of the strength in wheat and corn. Cash houses were sellers of May delivery. That option opened ⅞@¾c to ¾c higher at 55⅝c to 55⅞@55½c, and later sold at 55¼c.

Selling by local packers caused moderate weakness in provisions, following a firm opening, due to light receipts of hogs. Prices at the start were 2½@7½c higher.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Elevator Stocks Increase 10,000 Bushels—All News is Bullish.

Minneapolis, March 12.—Local elevator stocks of wheat increased 10,000 bus., for the week. All the news was bullish. May opened nearly 1c above yesterday's close and continued to advance steadily. Minneapolis was 2c below the Chicago quotations again today, May closed $1.15½, 2c higher than the openinf. Minneapolis today received 106 cars against 290; Duluth 107, against 31; Winnipeg 232 against 106. May opened $1.13⅛@1.13¾; high $1.15½; low $1.13⅜@1.13½; close $1.15½. July opened $1.14⅝; high $1.16⅝; low $1.14⅜@1.14½; close $1.16. Cash wheat was in good demand today. Offerings were light and millers were ready to buy. Prices were 1½ to 2c above May for No. 1 northern and ½ to full May price for No. 2 northern. Close: No. 1 northern $1.17; to arrive, $1.17; No. 2 northern $1.15@1.15½; to arrive $1.15. No. 3 wheat $1.11@1.13½. No. 3 yellow corp 62¾@63c; No. 3 white oats 51⅜@52½c; No. 2 rye 73¾@75¾c.

Flax receipts 16 cars today against 34 shipts, 1. Offerings were light and the market was limited in its activity. Demand was good. Local crushers were the only buyers and they paid Duluth May prices. Close, $1.64⅝.

Barley receipts 40 cars today against 24; shipments, 24. Demand was strong and prices advanced ½c. Feeding grades were in strongest demand. Receipts were about the same. Close, 62@63c.

Millstuffs, 1,600 tons. Demand was again firm today. Millers reported that business was never in better condition. Shipments were heavy and prices held firm. Bran in bulk, $23.00@23.50.

Flour shipments again showed an increase both over yesterday and a week ago. Demand was fair, coming almost entirely from the domestic trade. Country millers reported general business better. Prices were the same. Shipments, 51,647 barrels. First patents, $5.55@5.65; second patents, $5.45@5.55; first clears, $4.40@4.50; second clears, $3.15@3.25.

It is expected that the stock of wheat in store at Duluth will increase 350,000 bu. this week and that stocks of flax will increase 35,000 bu.

Broomhall estimates the world's shipments of wheat this week at 8,000,000 bu., exclusive of North America. Of this quantity, Europe is expected to take about 7,000,000 bu.

* * *

September wheat was traded in here for the first time today. It sold at $1.02¾ and closed at that price.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., March 12.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: This was a great day on the horse market, all agricultural classes sold well with drafters in healthy demand. Mules meet with numerous requests with the supply limited. Receipts were heavy in all classes, but did not equal the outgoing shipments. Carloads were billed to Pembina, Beach, Minot and Williston, N. D.; Crookston, Warren and Duluth, Minn., Moscow and Battleford, Can. With the arrival of the spring demand values are expected to advance more or less in all classes. Buyers should fill their orders now.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Tone Was Firmer Early Until Erie Began to Decline.

Prices Tended Lower and Close Was Heavy and Lifeless.

New York, March 12.—The opening stock market today showed no defined tone. Dealings were too small to offer any notable changes. Erie recovered ¾ of yesterday's decline. Iowa Central preferred declined 1½ and Great Northern ore certificates 1.

Erie increased its advance as did a number of ordinarily obscure stocks which have been quite prominent of late. Elsewhere there was little change of consequence, but the tone was perceptibly firmer, until Erie began to react when the active list yielded in sympathy. Hocking Coal and Erie rose 1⅝ points and the first preferred, Bethlehem Steel and American Malting preferred 1. United States Reduction broke three points.

Reading rose 1¾, following reports of a threatened break in the coal wage conference. The whole market hardened moderately. American Malting, preferred, gained 2½. Louisville & Nashville and Tennessee Copper 1⅝. Atlantic Coast Line 1½, and Union Pacific, Norfolk & Western, Erie second preferred, Wisconsin Central, National Lead and Pacific Mail 1. International Pump and Détroit United Railway declined 1. Bonds were steady.

The demand of the forenoon was not continued, the market falling into stagantion again. Prices, however, were maintained.

The market closed heavy and lifeless. There was a rise in Colorado & Southern first preferred, and the second preferred 1¼. The general tendency of prices was to drop. Western Maryland lost 1 point.

EGGS AT A LOW LEVEL

They Are Selling at Twenty-Two Cents a Dozen, Wholesale.

Market Is About Unchanged—Strawberries Are In.

Twenty-two cents a dozen for fresh eggs.

That's the wholesale price on Michigan street today. Incidentally it is the lowest price at which eggs have sold since the big rise began last fall.

It seems a lot different from the prices which prevailed a couple of months ago, when one of the strongest egg markets this city had ever seen, and was the talk of commission row.

Many people who attained to a large extent from the consumption of eggs during the months when they were practically worth their weight in real money, are addicted to the omelet habit once more.

A lot of eggs are being eaten. People who shunned them when they cost so much are indulging quite freely and the Lenten season increases the demand for them. Many people observing Lent abstain from meat at a certain number of meals every week, and when they quit the packing house products, they turn very naturally to hen fruit.

However, receipts are quite liberal, and although the demand is good, there are eggs enough for all buyers in Michigan street at 22 cents

They say all the eggs are strictly fresh. They are quoted as such, because the storage eggs has disappeared from the market, to remain absent but unmourned until next fall.

Butter is also on a more reasonable basis, as compared with the values which reigned a short time ago. Creamery prints, the best are to be had at 30 to 32 cents a pound. Tubs are 28 to 30 cents. Renovated butter is 26 cents, ladies, 22 cents and packing butter 22 to 23 cents.

• • •

The rest of the produce market has been practically devoid of features during the week. This is a season of sameness. Nothing new has come in during the last few days, and the prices for the stocks on hand are about unchanged from a week ago.

• • •

Potaoes are still on a very firm basis, due to declining stocks and light receipts. They are quoted at 95 cents to $1 a bushel.

• • •

Sweet potaoes are still in the market. They are selling at $1.75 per bushel. The demand is not very heavy and the light stocks are ample to care for it at that price.

• • •

Cabbages remain uncompromisingly bullish, at $3 a crate.

Parsnips are $2.50 per hundredweight.

• • •

Florida strawberries are making their appearance in the local fruit houses. Receipts are, of course, light, and the prices high, although not abnormally so for this season. They are quoted at 50 cents a quart.

• • •

Fancy parsley is 40 cents per dozen. Green peppers are selling at 90 cents a basket. Home-grown spinach is $1.50 per bushel.

• • •

Extra fancy California tomatoes, in four basket crates, are quoted at $2.

Pie plant is offered in five-pound bundles at 60 cents.

Oranges are still the unquestioned kings of the fruit market and they are comparatively cheap and rich in flavor and color. They are quoted at $2.75 to $3.25 per box, which includes about every variety. Receipts are all from California now, however, which locality sends the best oranges to this market.

• • •

Bananas are a little more plentiful than they were. Importers are bringing in larger quantities and good fruit is being offered here at 4 cents a pound.

Some Malaga grapes in the market around $7.75 and $8.

California lemons are quite plentiful at $4 a box and all grades of grape fruit are offered freely at prices ranging from $2.50 to $4.50 per box, according to the size of the package and the quality of the fruit.

Apples are $4.50 to $5.50 a barrel.

The week has seen no change in fish or poultry prices. Receipts are steady and the demand about the same, necessitating no changes in quotations.

• • •

At the packing house branches, beef is selling at 7 to 10½ cents a pound and pork loins are 11 cents. Mutton is 9 cents and lambs are 12 to 13 cents. Lard is very firm at 11½ cents a pound.

MILK ALL UP TO STANDARD

Only One Cow Killed by Health Department in February.

The health department's report covering the month of February shows that twenty-one samples of milk tested all showed 3.5 per cent butter fat or butter. One cow out of 172 inspected was found to be afflicted with tuberculosis and was ordered killed.

There were no cases of typhoid fever of local origin reported. The total number of deaths during the month was sixty-three, ten less than the same month a year ago. Ten deaths were from pneumonia and three from tuberculosis.

The incinerator report show that 897 loads of refuse and garbage were burned at the city plant. This called for running the plant at about one-half its capacity.

CHINAMEN LEFT ESTATE

Young Nim, Young Yee, Hsu Ping Chen and K. Owang of San Francisco must establish by their testimony the heirs to the personal property of See Lin, who died in St. Paul last March and who was a resident of Duluth.

Young Sing, administrator of the estate of See Lin, made application this morning in probate court for an order directing that the depositions of the three Celestials named be taken by lawyers in California.

See Lin left personal property valued at $905.39 of which $867.39 was in cash.

ORE TONNAGE TAX BILL WILL BE DEFEATED IN THE HOUSE WEDNESDAY

Measure Would Not Have Twenty Votes on Its Merits.

Three Important Tax Bills Are Special Order for Tuesday.

Telephone Men Appear in Opposition to Several Measures.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Next week some of the most important matters before this session of the legislature will come to a head in the house, and the week will therefore be a busy and an interesting one.

Chief in interest and importance to Northern Minnesota is the tonnage tax bill, which will be voted upon in the house Wednesday afternoon, when it is a special order beginning at 1:30 p. m. The arguments will consume several hours, so that it will be late in the afternoon before the vote is taken.

Not only in Northern Minnesota, but in the legislature is there great interest in the outcome of the fight on this bill. At this writing it appears certain that it will be defeated by a comfortable margin, in spite of the fact that its advocates, assisted by several members whose motives are not those of unmixed patriotism, have been making preposterous claims in

GIRL-WIFE AND SPOUSE ARRESTED

Are Charged With Forgery and Making False Pretenses.

St. Louis, Mo., March 13.—Lewis P. Waggoner and his bride, who is 17 years old, were arrested here by Waggoner's brother, Horace, a deputy sheriff from Nashville, Tenn.

Waggoner and his girl-wife are charged with forgery and obtaining goods under false pretenses. Lewis Waggoner, until recently, was a post-office clerk at Nashville.

SUBSIDY BILL TO WORK BOTH WAYS

Jap Measure May Cause Abandonment of Some Service.

Victoria, B. C., March 13.—Advices are brought by the steamer Empress of China today that the new ship subsidy bill passed by the Japanese government will work greatly to the benefit of the new trans-Pacific line of the Osaka Shoshen Kaisha and Toyo Kisen Kaisha trans-Pacific line, but will be of great disadvantage to the Nippon Yusen Kaisha and may result in the abandonment of the European service.

WARSHIPS TO BE ON GUARD

Persian Situation Once More Causes Russia to Act.

Czar's Troops Reviewed at Baku Where Expedition Might Start.

St. Petersburg, March 13.—The situation in Persia is again attracting attention here. The government is sending a division of Cossacks to Teheran, and it has ordered the consuls at Resht and Astrabad to summon Caspian warships in the event of outbreaks threatening the interests of Russia.

The Novo Vremya today publishes a Teheran dispatch saying the situation is critical, that an insurrection is imminent, and that only a strong military detachment can prevent the sacking of Teheran.

It is significant that the viceroy of the Caucasus has just reviewed the Russian troops at Baku, which would be the natural base of departure for an expedition into Persia.

TON OF SHAMROCKS REACHES NEW YORK.

New York, Mass., March 13.—A ton of shamrocks arrived on the Oceanic from Southhampton. The ship carried 3,338 sacks of mail, principally St. Patrick's day missives.

THE SENATE IN SESSION

While the House Took a Rest From Its Arduous Labors.

Dr. McClaran of Duluth Again Named on the Osteopathy Board.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The senate had a drowsy but busy session this morning, with barely a quorum in attendance. This prevented the consideration of any very important matters, but it permitted advancing to the calendar in committee of the whole a large number of measures to which there was no opposition. The extent to which confidence in senatorial courtesy has been strained by yesterday's railroading of the Peterson bill for the relief of S. W. Leavitt of the board of control, was shown when Senator Nelson wanted to suspend the rules on a local bill of little importance.

Senator Hardy, Democrat, insisted on knowing all about it and said that if it was for the old soldiers he was suspicious. This was a reference to the fact that the Peterson bill was slipped through under the guise of being for the benefit of the veterans.

Senator Works had a special order made for next Thursday afternoon on the three pending bills creating a new

STAYS BLOOD AS HE RUNS ENGINE

Engineer on Wisconsin Run Proves Himself a Hero.

Marshfield, Wis., March 13.—James Delmore, an engineer, whose run is on the Omaha road between here and Merrillan, made himself a hero, almost at the expense of his life. He was forcing his engine at a forty-mile an hour pace through huge snowdrifts, which have almost completely blocked traffic for three days, when the window of his cab was broken by contact with ice, hurling a piece of glass against his throat, cutting a deep gash and nearly severing the jugular vein.

With one hand on the throttle and the other holding shut the wound, to stem the flow of blood, he brought his train safely to Granton, a distance of twenty miles.

There, nearly dead from loss of blood, he was taken to a hospital, where it is believed he will recover.

WAR VETERANS FIGHT FIRE TO SAVE SOLDIERS' HOME.

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 13.—Rapid work on the part of the men who fought fire yesterday afternoon as valiantly as they fought for the union in 1861-65, prevented the Soldiers' Home from destruction when fire broke out in the administration building. The blaze was in the quarters occupied by Company B on the third floor. Calls were sent to this city, two miles distant, for aid and several pieces of apparatus were hurried out. By the time the firemen arrived the veterans had subdued the flames.

TEXAS LEGISLATORS ACT TO PREVENT OVERFLOWS.

Austin, Tex., March 13.—A bill, adopted by the legislature, provides an appropriation of $50,000 for a topographical survey of the watersheds of this state by the United States geological survey. This is a preliminary step toward the building of leeves to prevent overflows and accomplish drainage.

POLICE LIEUTENANT OF NEW YORK IS KILLED BY BLACK HAND IN ITALY

Joseph Petrosino Was Terror to the Italian Criminals.

Had Been Sent Abroad to Fight Criminal Societies.

American Police Chiefs Asked to Join in Round-Up.

New York, March 13.—A special cable dispatch to the Herald from Palermo, Sicily, says:

"Lieut. Joseph Petrosino of the New York police department, was shot and killed early this evening near his hotel.

"His assassins are unknown. He had come here on an important mission, which had for its object the protection of peaceful Italians of America."

Joseph Petrosino was the Black Hand expert of the New York police department, and a terror to Italian criminals. He had more convictions for murder to his credit than any five policemen connected with the detective bureau. In his work it is but natural that he incurred the enmity of all Italian criminals, and the report of his death in Italy leads to the belief he at last fell a victim to those whom he had so relentlessly prosecuted.

He went to Italy more than a year ago to work on a plan suggested by Police Commissioner Bingham, the basis of which was to be the adoption of means to check the tide of undesirable Italians and Sicilians to this country, and particularly to New York city. A native of Italy and a man of great experience on the local police force Petrosino was the best all around man to accomplish the mission. A private subscription was started and $30,000 was raised. With this to defray

MANILA RAILWAY STRIKE REACHES LIGHT DEPARTMENT

Manila, March 13.—The street railway strike declared last week has extended to the workmen employed by the Manila lighting department, but the service remains unimpaired. The general agitation in labor circles continues, but no other strikes have been called. The writs of mandamus for habeas corpus sought for by Counsel Dominadour Gomez, sentenced to four months' imprisonment in Bilibid for inciting a strike, have been denied and the convicted labor leader has been taken to prison.

ARGUMENTS AT AN END

Both Sides Close in Trial of the Coopers.

Judge Hart Announces Charge Will be Completed Monday.

Nashville, Tenn., March 13.—When the trial of Col. D. B. Cooper, Robin Cooper and John D. Sharp, for the murder of Former United States Senator E. W. Carmack, was resumed this morning, Judge Hart announced to the attorneys that he could not complete his charge before Monday afternoon. This means there will be no verdict before Monday night or Tuesday.

Judge Anderson, in closing for the defense, rapidly sketched the main points in their case and explained that the state wanted some of them wiped out, while he wanted them worked out. He claimed that Mrs. Burch, the colonel's daughter, was a state witness,

LABOR PRESIDENT TO SHOW CAUSE

Sixty Other Hatters' Officers Also Haled by Court.

New York, March 13.—Papers in an injunction suit brought by the Samuel Mundheim company were served upon John A. Moffitt, president of the United Hatters of North America at Orange, N. J., today.

Moffitt and sixty other officers of the United Hatters are ordered to show cause March 29 in Trenton, why they should not be restrained from fining and intimidating union members who, it is alleged, desire to return to work at plants where a strike is now in effect.

ANTHRACITE MINE STRIKE CONSIDERED; MINERS MAY WORK MINUS AGREEMENT

Labor Forces and Operators Cease Their Joint Conferences.

Each Side Firmly Rejects Proposals of the Other.

General Convention of Coal Diggers to be Called.

Philadelphia, March 13.—The tri-district convention of the anthracite coal miners, to take up the matter of a new agreement with the operators, will be held in Scranton, March 23.

Philadelphia, March 13.—The full membership of the executive boards of the anthracite districts of the United Mine Workers of America went into session in Central Union Labor hall today, to act upon the report of the sub-committee, which had been in conference with the operators for two days trying to arrange a new working agreement to go into effect April 1. The report was brief, as all the members of the executive boards were familiar with the details of the conference.

The refusal of the operators to grant the demands of the men and the counter proposition made by the employers to renew the agreement for another term of three years will be fully discussed. The executive boards will fix a time and place for a convention of miners to take up any matters that National President Lewis of Insist on Peace Among Central American Republics.

Mexico to Join in Move to Compel Arbitration.

Washington, March 13.—The possibility of joint intervention by America and Mexico in the interest of peace in Central America is under consideration.

The question at issue is the exact extent of the obligation imposed upon the two larger republics under the terms of the last Central American peace pact. America and Mexico were not parties to this agreement although they were largely instrumental in bringing it about. The five Central American republics agreed to refrain from hostilities and submit any quarrels among themselves to arbitration. Such agreements have been made before, but they have never had any binding force. To remedy that fault in preceding agreements, in the case of the last convention, it was made the duty of America and Mexico

PREMONITION OF ROBBERY TRUE

Father and Son Foil Intended Looting of Bank.

Beloit Wis., March 13.—Having a premonition that their bank and elevator in Roscoe, six miles from here, was to be robbed, Charles Whiting and his son, Ivan, stood on guard.

Shortly after midnight they saw a flash of light in the office of the elevator, which also serves as the bank. Mr. Whiting took his stand at one side of the building and his son on the other, and then the elder man fired his gun.

Five men ran from the building, the younger Whiting shooting at each as they passed, using a repeating shotgun. He believes he wounded one of the men, but all escaped.

Hubig of Cincinnati Makes Charge in Flour Case.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 13.—"Concealed behind the millers in the fight to induce the government to reverse the ruling of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson against bleached flour, is a company that has the patents and manufactures the bleaching machinery," today declared Simon Hubig of this city, who is president of the National Association of Master Bakers.

"The final result of the government's course means life or death to this company," he added.

WOMAN STABS HER HUSBAND

Uses Knife Which She Had Hidden Under Pillow.

Chicago, March 13.—James Gibbons, 32 years old, was stabbed by his wife, Josephine, in his home here early today, and he has told the police that Mrs. Gibbons drew the knife which she plunged dangerously near his heart from the pollow of her bed.

Gibbons asserts that he came home late and found his wife in an apparent stupor. He asked her where she had been, as he sat down on the side of the bed.

Without a word of warning, he says, she seized the knife she had concealed under the pollow and stabbed him in the left lung. He shouted to neighbors for assistance and the police were summoned. The woman was arrested, but as yet has made no statement.

Gibbons is in the hospital and his wound may be fatal.

INVOLVED IN DISPUTE

Senator Marsh Contradicts W. L. Smith at Primary Hearing.

Declares He Did Not Receive One Cent for Expenses.

Madison, Wis., March 13.—W. L. Smith of Nielsville, who was before the senatorial investigation committee late yesterday, resumed the stand this forenoon. He said he supported Senator Stephenson because of the latter's stand on the currency bill and other questions.

Asked as to his knowledge of those who had supported other candidates, Smith mentioned Senator Marsh as having been a strong supporter of Hatton. He believed Marsh had told him he received money from the Hatton fund.

Marsh, who is chairman of the investigation committee, said Smith was mistaken.

"I told you I had not received a cent for my expenses," said the senator.

He is deaf, dumb and 47. Wood does not want anybody who does not love him, but a real affinity.

THIRD CAMPAIGN? "TIME WILL TELL"---ROOSEVELT

Oyster Bay, N. Y., March 13.—All Oyster Bay was out last night at Oyster Bay's reception to Former President and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt. And a great portion of Oyster Bay is talking today about a remark that is held very significant which Roosevelt made to the first guest that came to the reception. This guest was a negro youth, and he said to the former president:

"I've carried the Roosevelt banner in two campaigns and I hope I shall have the honor of doing so again.'

To this Roosevelt replied smilingly:

"Time alone will tell whether you are to be afforded that opportunity."

Roosevelt declared later that he is taking no part in politics. He made this statement when asked whether he is supporting the insurgents of the house of representatives in their fight against Speaker Cannon, as dispatches from Washington indicate.

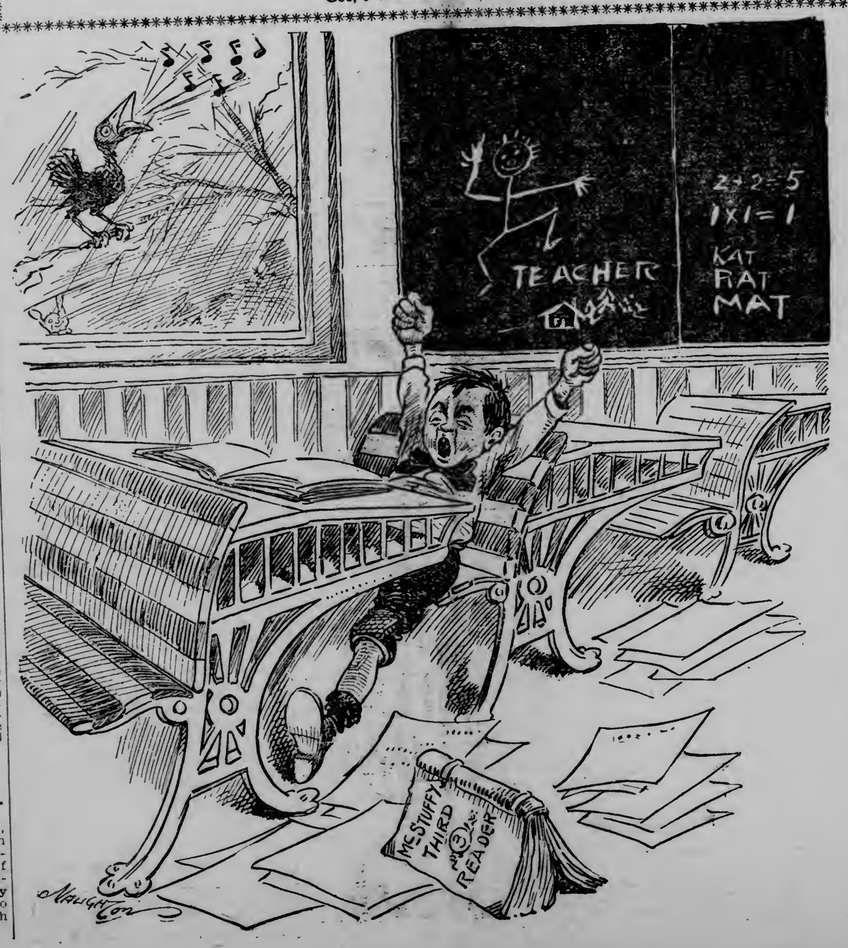

"So glad to see you again," was what the ex-president had to keep repeating. This he varied with "It's a great pleasure to see you," and other phrases.

One young woman passing through the line wore a Teddy bear pinned on her coat. This Roosevelt spied and it brought forth a merry laugh and the remark:

"All the Teddy bears are not dead yet, are they?"

SENSATIONAL CHARGES IN PERSONAL INJURY SUIT

Both Attorneys Claim That Witnesses Were Influenced.

Asserted That Jurors Drank Beer and Read Newspapers.

A flood of affidavits in support of and opposing a motion of Victor L. Power, attorney for Mrs. Anna Rober, for a new trial of the action brought by Mrs. Rober for the recovery of damages on account of injuries sustained by her little daughter, carry with them a number of sensational charges. The arguments on the motion were begun before Judge Dibell in district court this morning, but an adjournment was takent until next Saturday that Mr. Power might produce still more affidavits.

Mr. Power claims that Eli Marian, one of the witnesses in the case, was tampered with by agents of the Oliver Mining company, was threatened with refusal if he attempted to secure work on the range, and with a term of imprisonment if he testified against the company; was offered $400 if he would remain away from the trial, and finally he swore to a different story on the stand from what he had told on different occasions before the trial. Mr. Power also charges that while the jury was at supper at the St. Louis hotel while they were deliberating on the case and while they were in charge of a deputy sheriff, some of them drank beer and afterwards one of the jurors was separated from the remainder for about twenty minutes.

Counter Charges.

The counter affidavits offered by C. O. Baldwin for the company are just as sensational. Eli Marian, in an affidavit, denies all of the matter respecting him contained in the affidavits offered by Mr. Power, and says that Mr. Power attempted to influence him to go on the stand at the trial and testify that he saw the accident, whereas he was in Pennsylvania at the time it occurred.

Marian denies ever having been tampered with by any of the agents of the Oliver Iron Mining company, and denies having been at the scene of the accident when it occurred. He says he did not meet the little girl or mother until some time after the accident.

The affidavit of Marian is supported by affidavits of E. B. Ryan and Otto L. Manthe, agents of the company, both of whom deny any knowledge of the matters mentioned by Mr. Power.

The charges of misconduct of the jury are answered by George S. Monsey, H. C. Gravatt, George H. Young and John S. Dahl, the four jurors mentioned in Mr. Power's affidavit and by William H. Oppel, the deputy who was in charge of the jury. The jurors say they asked the deputy if they might have a glass of beer with their meal, and he assented. Not more than one or two glasses were drunk by any of them, and they claim there was no effect from it. Mr. Dahl says he went across the street to the Baltimore restaurant to get a sandwich, was in plain view of the deputy and the jury all the time, and was not gone more than five minutes altogether.

Mr. Dahl was the juror who had the newspaper. He says he doesn't remember anything he read in it and if there was anything about the case, he didn't read it, and he immediately desisted.

The Rober case has been fraught with sensational developments. After the trial of the case, Peter Solerich, who was charged with having prevented John Kostelac, a boy who was a witness for the company, from coming to Duluth when subpoenaed, was found guilty of contempt of court and was sent to the county jail for two days. He also paid a fine of $25. Later one of the boys who testified at the trial came to Duluth and wanted to tell Judge Dibell that he committed perjury.

Anna Rober, a child 7 years old, was injured by the explosion of a dynamite cap given her by a boy playmate. The fingers of her left hand were injured. The plaintiff claimed that the cap was found at the powder house of the company at the Monroe mine location at Chisholm. The company claimed the boys found them elsewhere, and the jury returned a verdict in favor of the company.

SOLD WHISKY TO LAURIN

Assault on Hermantown Road Followed Visit to Saloon.

Laurin Was Minor and Bartender Is Fined in Court.

Ralph Hanson, bartender in the saloon of Dolph Fifer, 2231 West Superior street, charged with the sale of liquor to a minor, was fined $50 and costs by Judge Cutting in municipal court this morning. Thirty day in jail was the alternative.

Hanson admitted having sold a glass of whisky to Alphonse Laurin, the young man who is now in the county jail, charged with having criminally assaulted Miss Edna Stahbrodt, on the Hermantown road, last month, but said he thought he was more than 21 years of age.

Laurin's mother and sister swore on the witness stand that he was 20 years old, and would not be 21 until next November. Several other witnesses testified that Alphonse had passed as 21 years old, and that he was generally understood to be of age. It was shown that in accepting employment with a milkman in the West end, a Mr. Benson, Alphonse said he was 21 years old. When he was arrested, he told the police he was 21 years of age. He admitted all this in court this morning.

Attorney McMahon, acting for the defendant, admitted a plolation of the law, and said it had been proven to his satisfaction that Laurin was under 21 years of age. He asked for a light fine, however, on the ground that the young man was generally understood to be of age, and had told several people that he was more than 21 years old. The evidence showed Hanson had inquired of Benson, Laurin's employer, and the man had said Laurin was 21. Mr. McMahon argued that his appearance would lead one to believe him that old, and that as Mr. Hanson had made every reasonable effort to satisfy himself the youth was of age, he should be let off easily.

Assistant City Attorney Kenny admitted that Laurin might be mistaken for a man of 21 years, but said that, in view of the alleged assault upon Miss Stahbrodt shortly after Laurin's visit to the Fifer saloon, the sale of liquor in this instance had had serious results and was deserving of more than light punishment. Judge Cutting in pronouncing sentence said Laurin could easily be taken for a person of 21 years or more, and that, because he was generally understood to be that old, and had told people he was 21, punishment would be lighter than would otherwise be the case.

HEAVY BONDS ARE REQUIRED

Alleged Resort Keepers From Range Held in Jail.

The heavy bonds fixed by the court are keeping the inmates of alleged disorderly houses of Hibbing in the county jail. Thus far, May Fisher of Chisholm is the only one of those arrested during the week, who has been able to furnish bonds. She put up $1,700 and was released yesterday afternoon.

Nearly all of those under arrest were indicted on two or three counts and the bonds are naturally heavy. Glenn Seville, who is under four indictments, would be released if he could furnish $3,500 bonds, but he is unable to do so. The others are unable to funish proportionately heavy bonds.

Read the Label.

Under the Pure Food Laws baking powder labels now show the ingredients of which the powder is made.

Those who appreciate the importance to health and good baking of using a purse cream of tartar powder will read the back of the label carefully and make sure that the ingredients mentioned include cream of tartar.

The food law does not force consumers; it merely helps them to protect themselves. All good housekeepers want cream of tartar baking powders, and will not use alum substitutes in the food, if they know it. As the ingredients are printed on the back of the label, all may know the facts.

Good baking powder is one of the most useful things in the kitchen; it is easily obtained at any store; the better it is, the more economical it is in cooking materials, and the more it conserves the health of the family.

MORE TALKS ON FARM SUBJECTS

Prof. J. T. Stewart Principal Speaker at Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

"Drainage and Farm Surveys" was the subject discussed by Prof. John T. Stewart, director of farm engineering and physics at the state school of agriculture, last night before a fair sized audience in the assembly room of the Y. M. C. A. Brief addresses were also made by Rt. Rev. James McGolrick, bishop of Duluth, and Prof. A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the state experimental station at Grand Rapids.

Prof. Stewart, by the use of charts, diagrams and drawings, illustrated the manner in which tiling should be laid so as to drain off the surplus water, and indicated the method by which a water level is found, and how to lay tiling so water would seek its own level. He also explained a system of drainage by means of lateral ditches emptying into main ditches, which in turn discharge into swamps, streams or other low places.

The speaker explained how the state is now experimenting with a piece of swamp land at one of its stations, in the hope of discovering a better method of draining muskegs. He said that when general interest in drainage had been aroused, special application of the principles of drainage would follow rapidly in various portions of the state.

Prof. McGuire spoke briefly on the dairy cow. He said there was room in St. Louis county for creameries. Bishop McGolrick thanked the auditors for the interest they are taking in the course of lectures on agriculture, and said that great good would come from these lectures.

The next one will be delivered Friday evening, March 26, by Prof. A. H. Kohler, assistant in horticulture at the state school of agriculture. His subject will be "Potatoes and Root Crops."

Purity, healthfulness, strength, deliciousness and economy in use are five points in favor of "Salada" Tea. Sealed lead packets only. Ask your grocer for a 10c trial packet.

BACK FROM HONDURAS

E. M. Ferguson Returns From Plantation in the South.

Says Central America Is Still an Undeveloped Country.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Ferguson are home after two months journey through the South. They visited many of the Southern cities of the southern part of the United States, and in addition took a trip through Spanish Honduras, British Honduras and Guatemala. They had a delightful trip and report that they enjoyed beautiful weather all along the line.

Mr. Ferguson has a large banana plantation at Tela, Spanish Honduras, and it was there that they spent considerable time. They are already shipping the fruit from Mr. Ferguson's plantation, which he has held but a short time. Bananas are raised almost exclusively in this country, and they are really the only support of the natives. The country, Mr. Ferguson says, is very rich, but as yet has been but little developed. Nearly all the development that has been done is the result of American energy and American money.

The raising of bananas is now down to a science. The trees are planted in rows and about the same distance apart as are apple trees. But a few years ago, the trees were planted in a haphazard way and there used to be regular banana forests. The plants are set out between December and July, and the following June they are bearing fruit. After they begin to bear they are cut each week for the next fifteen years. At the end of that time, sometimes the soil gives out, but usually the tree will last for an indefinite period. The plants are usually set out in the lowlands, as the banana needs much moisture.

Mr. Ferguson is enthusiastic about the country, but when asked what chance a young man with no capital but lots of energy would stand, said that capital was necessary as the country is new and needs first of all capital, with which to build it up.

The population is composed mostly of Indians and Spaniards. Three-fourths of the people are Indians. The Indians, Mr. Ferguson says, make good workmen and furnish the cheap labor of the country.

TAFT CABINET IS TO TRAVEL

New President Will Get His Information First-Hand.

Washington, March 13.—If President Taft's present desires are carried out his advisers soon will become known as the "traveling cabinet."

Experience has taught the new chief executive that first hand information is the best and he will have each of the various departments of the government make frequent tours of inspection.

Secretary of War Dickinson will make an early visit to the Isthmus of Panama to inspect the canal.

Secretary of the Interior Ballinger will go to Alaska to investigate conditions in that territory, particularly in regard to public lands.

Secretary of the Navy Meyer probably will visit the various navy yards of the country to acquaint himself with existing local conditions.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson expects to visit the various state experiment stations this summer, also inspecting packing houses in the West.

Just what program Mr. Taft has outlined for Postmaster General Hitchcock, Secretary of the Treasury MacVeigh, Attorney General Wickersham, Secretary of State Knox and Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel, is not now known, but the nation's energetic "traveling man" president, as he has been called, doubtless will find some way to keep all of them moving.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS.

PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

SUPERIOR NEWS

WHITEHEAD TAKES FINE.

Pleads Guilty Rather Than Wait for Court to Take Course.

Walter Whitehead, a local negro prizefighter, claiming that he is far too busy a man to wait on the red tape of police court proceedings, yesterday pleaded guilty to the charge of disturbin the peace and was fined $10 and costs amountig to $4.66.

Whitehead was arrested for trying to prevent his wife from taking the train in the Superior depot. His case was called for 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The young negro appeared prepared to fight the charge, but when the prosecuting attorney asked that the trial be put off a week, it was too much for Whitehead, and he "jest nachally" couldn't afford to wait any longer, so pleaded guilty.

Try Out at Oshkosh.

The Superior baseball team will work out after the first of May at Oshkosh, Wis. Andy Porter, who is to manage the Superior clubs expects to have eighteen men in the field by that time. By June 1 he will have the squad down to twelve men. Returning to Superior from Oshkosh, the team will play a series of practice games with Duluth.

More Assessable Coal.

Following the decision of the court that railroad coal is assessable, City Assessor Tiedeman of Superior yesterday stated that last year there was upwards of $1,000,000 worth of assessable railroad coal on the Superior docks, which has not been placed on the rolls. If coal stored on docks can be assessed, it will result in an annual income of from $10,000 to $15,000 for Superior.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Two Years' Course in Physics Required of All Engineers.

The Annual Indoor Track Meet to be Held Saturday, March 20.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prospective engineers may look forward to a two years' course in physics beginning next year. This will affect this year's freshmen and all coming classes. It is the first innovation in connection with the five-year engineering course. Heretofore the course in electrical maesurements has been given separately from the regular physics course during the first semester of the junior year. This will now be incorporated in the new physics course required of all engineers. The physics course is the hardest one offered in the curriculum and is the cause of more "flunks" than any other course. Under the new arrangement all the subjects offered in the physics department will be made broader and the aim will be toward increased thoroughness. The board of regents has also announced that two years of academic work will soon be required for entrance to the professional colleges.

A revolving fund for worthy engineers has been established at Minnesota. Because of a concrete case, which came before the engineers' society, the need of students for extra funds has made a strong appeal. The engineers have started the fund by subscribing $100. This is the beginning of a fund, the interest from which is to go to junior or senior engineers, who would have to leave college on account of lack of financial backing. The alumni throughout the state will probably add to this small beginning. Charge of the money is to be given to a committee of students, but grants are to be made with the approval of the faculty.

Saturday, March 20, is the date for the annual indoor track meet. Most of the prep schools near the Twin Cities have entered teams in the events. The inter-fraternity and inter-society relay races promise great excitement, for the gold medals which are offered are eagrly sought prizes.

Good Cough Medicine for Children.

The season for coughs and colds is now at hand and too much care cannot be used to protect the children. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when he has a cold. The quicker you cure his cold the less the risk. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the sole reliance of many mothers, and few of those who have tried it are willing to use any other. Mrs. F. F. Starcher of Ripley, W. Va., says: "I have never used anything other than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for my children, and it has always given good satisfaction." This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a child as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

SURETY COMPANY DISCHARGES WARNER CASE LIABILITY.

St. Paul, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The National Surety company has discharged its liability to the state on account of the $900 judgment secured against Fenton W. Warner, former state oil inspector. The amount for which the company was liable was $5,242.46. Mr. Warner recently filed a petition in bankruptcy.

In the judgment, which the state obtained against Mr. Warner, was a stipulation that the discrepancy was entirely free from criminal interest.

This stipulation will bar the surety company from instituting crimianl procedings against Mr. Warner on his bond.

Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs quickly, strengthens the lungs and expels colds. Get the genuine in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

WEST END

WILL GET SIGNATURES.

West End Hillside Improvement Club to Push Grading Project.

With renewed energy, the members of the West End Hillside Improvement club are going ahead with the project of securing an easier grade on Piedmont avenue, to permit an extension of the West Third street car line this summer.

At a meeting of the club, held last evening, it was decided to have a committee go around to all the property owners who have not signed the petition, and secure their signatures.

The committee started its work at once, and it is expected that in two weeks the necessary 300 signature will have been secured.

Frank Erwin of St. Paul is registered at the Esmond.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Luke's Episcopal church met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Grey of West First street.

The Epworth League of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church will give a pie social in the church parlors Wednesday evening.

The young people of Zion Norwegian Lutheran church gave a musical program in the church last evening.

The Adams Athletic association gave a dancing party last evening in the Lincoln Park auditorium. The proceeds will go toward new uniforms for the baseball team.

L. J. Morrison has gone to Tower on business.

It has been decided to continue the revival services in Central Baptist church for another week, commencing Monday evening. There will be no services this evening.

The Men's Literary Club of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church is busy preparing for the debate with the members of the Bema club. The church organization is trying out prospective members of its team.

SAW HIS MISTAKE

The corporation employe who woke up one morning and found himself out of a job, saw his mistake too late. If he had only had the foresight to get a little orange grove on the Isle of Pines, his future would have been abundantly provided for. You can safely figure on at least $300 a year net profit per acre. How many acres do you need to equal your present income. Price still $40 an acre.

NO LEAGUE FOR RANGES.

Hibbing Man Says Neither Hibbing Nor Virginia Will Enter League.

W. Bell of Hibbing, a former attorney of Duluth, says there is little truth in the report that Hibbing and Virginia will be taken into the Minnesota-Wisconsin league. Mr. Bell says the people who are supporting baseball upon the iron ranges, have little desire to see their towns represented in any organized baseball league.

Mr. Bell says both Hibbing and Virginia are going ahead with their plans for strong independent teams for the coming season, and that there is no thought for putting either of the two towns in the same league with Duluth.

Men's Diseases

We strive to cure the thousands of young and middle-aged men who are tortured by the woes of nervous debility. I have evolved a special treatment for Nervous Debility and special weakness that is uniformly successful in cases where success was before and by other doctors deemed impossible. It does not stimulate temporarily, but restores permanently. It allays irritation of the delicate tissues surrounding the lax and unduly expanded glands, contracting them to their normal condition, thereby relieving all distressing symptoms. It tones up and strengthens the blood vessels that carry nourishment, thereby restoring health and strength. Meanwhile the patient realizes a great blight has been lifted from his life.

We make no misleading statements or deceptive propositions to the afflicted, neither do we promise to cure them in a few days in order to secure their patronage, but WE GUARANTEE A COMPLETE, SAFE AND LASTING CURE in the quickest possible time, without leaving injurious after-effects in the system, and at the lowest cost possible for Honest, Skillful and Successful Service. We cure

And all diseases and weaknesses due to habits, dissipation or the result of specific diseases, sciatica, neuralgia, bowel and stomach troubles, appendicitis, dyspepsia, syphilis, gonorrhoea, gleet, stricture, varicocele, hydrocele, lost manhood, emissions, piles, bladder trouble, rectal trouble, kidney, gall stones, catarrh of nose and throat, and many other diseases. All skin diseases and those of the brain, paralysis, cancers, tumors, rupture (without knife), blood poison, nervous diseases, ulcers of leg and feet, and have been doing so all over the United States.

Oranges Are Now Cheap and Good

SPECIAL ORANGE SALE!

An Entire Trainload—35 Cars—of California's Choicest Seedless "Sunkist" Oranges Now Speeding Across the Continent for the Great Special Orange Sale

Beginning Monday, March 15th

This entire trainload made up of selected oranges only—the inspector's first choice from the 5,000 orchards of the California Fruit Grower's Exchange.

Hand-picked and as direct from the trees to you as a Special Train can bring them—fresh, juicy, full flavored, golden "Sunkist" Oranges.

No other fruit so tempting to look upon. No other so pleasing to the taste.

More Luscious Than Ever

Keep the date in mind and ask your dealer to send one or two dozen of these fresh picked "Sunkist" Oranges up to your home.

See how much more luscious they are than any you ever ate before. All seedless, too, and as full of juice as an orange skin can hold.

This "Sunkist" Orange Special is now speeding from California by special express freight—given the right of way wherever possible, and during the entire week beginning Monday, March 15, this extra fine fruit will be on sale at special prices everywhere throughout the state.

A Splendid Spring Tonic

The tonic value of a good orange is recognized by physicians. A "Sunkist" Orange with every meal means a keener appetite, better digestion and a clearer brain.

In these earliest days of spring the system requires a gentle, persistent "toning up." For this you can find nothing so delightfully effective as "Sunkist" Oranges.

This "Special Sale" is your opportunity to buy the finest, juiciest, most luscious Oranges ever grown, at the lowest prices. Don't miss it.

Also "Sunkist" Lemons

"Sunkist" Lemons are the choicest grown. Thin-skinned, mostly seedless, and extremely rich in juice. These are the cultivated lemons. Use them for hot lemonade when you have a cold. Keep them on hand for use in flavoring various cakes, desserts and sauces.

Tell your dealer "Sunkist" Oranges are the ones you want. Insist on having them. Don't be misled by "just as good" talk.

Robert C. Hair Recalls Some Interesting Incidents of 1875.

Marvels at Change in Duluth Since That Time.

Robert C. Hair, Chicago representative of the French line of ocean steamers, told a bit of Northwestern history yesterday at the Spalding hotel that will be of interest to many Duluthians.

Mr. Hair came to Minnesota in 1875. He was in Duluth shortly after that. He remembers well the serious financial disturbances caused by the panic in 1872, when the many employes of the Northern Pacific got time checks from the road, which they found it extremely difficult to cash.

These people would take the time checks to the Duluth grocery stores, to the meat markets, and to other places where they could get the necessities of life. But times kept on getting harder. The country was in a panic. Finally Duluth was overstocked with these time checks, and money was very scarce.

There was only one institution in St. Paul that would cash these checks. That was a bank. Many of the checks of the company were sent to this bank in St. Paul. Finally the railroad company made good on the checks, but there was some going down into the little old sock in those days, when men were waiting for money, and there was no money in the little young town of Duluth.

Mr. Hair tells of the great stir caused by the fact that the Northern Pacific was agitating a line to the Pacific coast. Some congressman laughed at the project, when some of the officials of the company began inquiring what chance the road would have of receiving a substantial land grant. Others roared at the very mention of the plan.

They asked what use a railroad would be through a country like North Dakota. They asked who would ever live in a state like North Dakota. They said that the state would never be settled. That was back in the '60s somewhere, when the agitation for the coast line was first given life.

"Look at the result today," exclaimed Mr. Hair. "Those men who scouted the very mention of a line to the coast, were certainly not foolish men. There were too many of them, for all of them to be foolish, or men of shallow judgment. It simply goes to show what wonderful strides this country has taken, and what little belief men had that the country would expand in the amazing manner it has.

A Military Scheme.

"Do you know that the few people who favored the construction of a road to the Pacific coast, suggested that the road might be of use as a military adjunct. They thought that in the case of war, this road would be very useful. You see there were forts in North Dakota and the rest of the Western country, in those days, and it was this phase of the question that appealed to those few who looked upon the project with any favor.

"Finally a commission was appointed by congress, or through some official channel, and this commission was to go to the coast, over about the same route that the road would take, and report its opinion of the feasibility of constructing a transcontinental railroad.

"Do you know, that it was just the other day that a friend of mine stopped me and informed me that he had something that would be very interesting to me. What do you suppose it was? It was a copy of the report that this commission made upon the feasibility of constructing a road from St. Paul to the Pacific coast.

"You would laugh if you read that report. It scouted the very idea that the Northwest would ever be built up sufficiently to support a road from St. Paul through North Dakota, and the wild and unbroken country, that lay in great rolling prairies and trackless forests, between the coast and St. Paul. The only side the members of the commission could see to the project of a railroad, was that it might be a service to the army.

"Here in all parts of the country, were solid, substantial business men, who couldn't conceive of this country developing to the extent that it could support a transcontinental railroad. Well look at what we have today. There is the Great Northern, north of the course taken to the coast by the Northern Pacific. North of those two lines we have those two other transcontinental lines, the Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk.

"Another thing that many people in Duluth will remember, was the time that Rutherford B. Hayes, afterwards president of the United States, visited this part of the country. He bought some property in Duluth. If I remember rightly, it was a brick building, a store or something of that order. Well sir, you know that times were very poor in Duluth then, and that building of Hayes' remained untenanted for years. Then came the election of Hayes as president. What happened then? Why the Duluth federal offices occupied the building owned by Mr. Hayes.

"In those days we paid $7 and some odd cents to ride to St. Paul. Then the fare came down to $6 even. People thought that it was wonderful that you could ride from Duluth to St. Paul for $6. It was almost an unbroken stretch of pine between Duluth and Pine City. Not until you reached there, did you see any cleared country. There were only a few people who lived on the railroad, farmers to support it, so the railroad officials had to charge a good price for hauling people.

"In those days people thought that only insane people would attempt to farm in North Dakota. The Northern Pacific had a railroad from Fargo to some point up in North Dakota. They didn't attempt to operate this railroad beyond Fargo, when those northern winters set in. They used sleighs north of Fargo. They used these sleighs to carry the government mail. The sleigh trail followed the right of way of the railroad, right on top of the tracks, where the snow and ice had packed in. In the spring the railroad company would have to pick that accumulation of snow and ice out of the tracks; almost have to build a new road.

"Duluth came through some hard times in those old days. There was the Jay Cooke panic, and there was the panic of '93. It was hard sledding for Duluth in those days, but the city has come through it all right, and today you have your future ahead of you. I can remember when all of the people around here could quote the speech of Proctor Knott. But the country has grown, despite Proctor Knott's dreary suspicion of this part of the globe, and today those of us who remember when people laughed when the Northern Pacific asked for a government land grant, so that it could raise money upon this security, now laugh at those people. Times have changed, and those of us who lived through the old days, realize that gigantic development has been accomplished since the days when people looked at the great, roving West, as a part of the country that it would require countless decades to develop."

Wind Up Campaign.

The membership committee of the Commercial club wound up its campaign for 200 new members today. The thirty members of the committee have taken different business sections of the city, covering these parts of the city thoroughly. It is believed that the 200 members have been secured. The committee will report results Monday.

PLUMBER IS BADLY BURNED

His Furnace Explodes and Sets Fire to Building.

E. Henrickson, a plumber, residing at Main street and Sixty-sixth avenue west, was this morning severely burned by the explosion of a plumber's blast furnace.

The man, who is employed by Charles Ittis, was working in the basement of the store at 5507 Grand avenue at about 9 o'clock, when the accident occurred.

The explosion, which knocked Henrickson down, was so severe that it shook the building, and sent the people upstairs hurrying to the basement to discover what had occurred.

If the inmates of the house had not come to his aid as soon as they did, Henrickson, would probably have been dangerously burned, for his helper, was so panic-stricken that his efforts to remove the burning clothing from the man, were useless. As it was both his hands, face, ears and hair received a bad scorching.

While Henrickson was being carried from the basement, he fainted from the pain. A physician was called and dressed the wounds.

Win Esterly Trophy.

The Esterly trophy was won last evening by the rink skipped by Wade, which won from McDonald's rink by a score of 14 to 7. The ice was heavy and the cutting slow.

After this evening, when the final game between Micklish and Hewitt is played in the Henrickson contest, the only trophy remaining to play for will be the Bagley stickpins. The Western curlers have been hurrying the games so as to make sure of finishing before warm weather made playing impossible.

The line-up and score was as follows:

Miller,	Mallory,
Ittis,	Scott,
Staples,	Feeley,
Wade, skip—14.	MacDonald, skip—7.

MINSTRELS A "KNOCKOUT"

Amateur Comedians Make Big Hit With Lyceum Audience.

Snappy Entertainment Given Under Auspices of Y. M. C. A.

Those who went to the Lyceum last evening with a carefully adjusted smirk, prepared to be good sports and turn loose a laugh sounding like the cook falling down the cellar stairs with a scuttle of coal, whenever one of the musty old ones from Henry Miller's edition of '76 was unloaded by some friend in the cast, were pleasantly surprised.

Nobody who didn't want to laugh and applaud last night had to. There were enough who were willing and even anxious to laugh to leave very few aching voids to be filled, and even the most blase disdainers of amateurs' efforts had to admit that the minstrel show given by the Y. M. C. A. was a "knockout," to use a slang phrase of the Rialto.

Amateurs they were, but a casual visitor wouldn't have known it. They appeared to be as much at home working in burnt cork as a fly in the boarding house butter, and they violated all precedents for amateur minstrel shows by springing some new gags. It will leave a feeling of distrust in the minds of the public in regard to amateur shows. Hitherto they have been fairly reliable, with one or two notable exceptions, and the public could always feel assured of meeting the old friends in the joke world.

From the time the curtain rose on forty-nine shaggy heads and forty-nine pairs of pajama-clad figures, to the last feat performed by the gymnasium squad, the show was a snappy, clever, and most amusing entertainment, and it doesn't require any flirting with the truth in the interest of home talent, to make the statement.

Clad in a nobby blue suit, a wine colored tie, a straw hat, a spotlessly white shirt bosom, a pale pink smile, and an obviously fresh shave, George C. Cowing, as interlocutor, looked like the tenor hero of a musical comedy when he rushes in from the American fleet lying at anchor, while the spotlight plays about his figure, and the little broilers down in front warble the finale of the first act.

George was strictly on the job every minute. He never missed a cue, bit on every gag from the end men as if he had never heard them before, and expressed just the proper degree of surprise disgust or curiosity as the occasion might require. He introduced the comedians and singers as if he had been doing it for a living since birth, and had been fed grease paint and burnt cork from a bottle. In fact, George was quite a big noise in the general detonation.

Those "old time favorites," Charles Applehagen and John Doran, ably assisted by John Tresise and O. Seller, were working on the ends. It is unfair to draw comparisons, but Messrs. Applehagen and Doran have won their laurels and can afford to be generous, while a particularly enthusiastic boost is given Mr. Tresise, better known as "Johnny." Johnny is a big hit with the curlers, who discovered him. He has a burr like a bare-legged piper in a Highland regiment, and his Scotch songs would make a Baptist preacher call for a Scotch highball. When Johnny dons the cork and does a double shuffle, he is the saccharine kid. None of this should be construed as a slap at Messrs. Doran, Applehagen and Sellers, but you have to give it to Johnny.

The audience forgave the end men for the old one about Stone turning to Wood, and Wood to Stone and both turning to rubber, in consideration for the one about Messrs. Panton and White. There was excitement in the Glass Block, according to the end men, and Mr. Panton was so excited he was White, while Mr. White was so excited he was pantin'.

George Suffel and John Koneczny were both heard in solos, assisted by the chorus—and right here a stop must be made to mention that chorus drilled by Mr. Custance. It was just a little better than the best ever heard in an amateur show in Duluth. Mr. Suffel and Mr. Koneczny of course made a hit. They always do in Duluth, and that's one way Duluthians show their good taste in music.

"The Mysterious Veiled Lady" whom somebody whispered was Miss Alice Sjocelius, was led on by two little pickinninnies, and sang "College Sweetheart" composed by Mr. Custance. It was a very attractive number, sung in splendid style, in spite of the fact that the veil persisted in trying to get into the singer's mouth.

But the big surprise, and probably the biggest hit of the evening, was the solo by Master Donald Alexander. The lad sang from the dress circle to a humming accompaniment from the chorus. He has a boy soprano voice of exquisite sweetness and wonderful range, and the plaintive little number chosen for him was well suited to his voice. Seldom has a Duluth audience shown more enthusiasm over anything than it did over this number, and he was encored again and again.

The second part of the program contained five numbers. Two were by Harry Hall, the first a Swedish dialect turn that was a scream from start to finish, and the second a series of stories in French and Irish dialects. They were both far above the average of professional turns. J. H. Free had a good dancing turn, and Charles Helmer gave a cornet solo in his usual finished style. The program was brought to a close by the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium team, consisting of Messrs. Frey, Mapp, Grochau and Lindbloom. They did some sensational turning on a horizontal bar.

The chorus consisted of the following:

L. A. Thompson, G. A. Maney, H. L. George, W. E. McLeod, A. A. Ames, A. Inman, H. Carman, W. H. Gurnes, H. E. Stinchfield, L. Swan, S. U. Johnson, S. W. Richardson, E. Edwards, M. P. Ebar, G. Wildman, J. McGhie, B. Hanford, H. E. Voigt, R. F. Hartman, O. S. Cummins, J. A. Cummins, H. J. Rox, R. M. Foote, H. Fischer, B. Newell, L. Dahl, S. Ballou, M. George, R. Dunlop, F. Penstermacher, O. Z. Sellar, J. Tressle, W. Hancock, G. Harbison, F. Roelter, F. George, G. Black, S. Baker, G. Helmer, G. D. Negley, A. Kienly, H. Denny, F. Smith, A. Smith, G. Suffel, J. Koneczny, J. Doran, C. SNOW WAS FOUR FEET IN DEPTH

Duluth Man Warned of the Fence Under the Crust.

Fred A. Hills, general passenger agent of the Great Northern railway at Duluth, returned from the Copper country and the upper peninsula yesterday, with the statement that all through the upper peninsula country the snow is about four feet on the level. Mr. Hills also stated that the story was on the level.

"I was up beyond the end of the street car line in Calumet," said Mr. Hills, "when I was attracted by some one yelling at me. I turned and listened to what the fellow had to say.

"'Don't walk over there; you're off the sidewalk, and if you break through the crust of snow you are liable to straddle that rail fence, that separates the street and that lot, over yonder,' was the substance of what the fellow said."

Mr. Hills says there is an immense amount of snow all through the country, from Calumet to the Soo, and that the railroads are having a hard task to keep the tracks clear.

TO EXPLORE ISLE ROYALE

Duluth Men Likely to be Officers of New Company.

The Copper Stock Market Quiet and Closes Fairly Firm.

Thomas F. Cole is to be the head of the Island Copper company, which will explore Isle Royale, sixty miles off the shore of the Keweenaw peninsula of Michigan, for copper, according to the gossip of the copper world. The deeds to the land, which was recently acquired from the Isle Royale corporation of Liverpool, have been filed with the register of deeds of Keweenaw county, Michigan, and they are in the name of Thomas F. Cole. When the permanent organization of the Island Copper company is effected, Mr. Cole will transfer the title to the company, it is said.

The capitalization is 40,000 shares, par $25 each. The dummy incorporators are: Fred W. Nichols, James B. Looney, John G. Stone, Herman A. Wieder, Albert N. Baudin, C. Hjalmar Primodle, Thomas McRae, Edward Rompf and Oscar J. Larson.

It is probable that Thomas F. Cole will be president, George E. Stone, a Duluth business man, the president; Edward J. Maney, treasurer of the Giroux, and other Cole-Ryan properties, will be treasurer, and Fred W. Nichols of Houghton, secretary.

An Ideal Cough Medicine.

"An an ideal cough medicine I regard Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in a class by itself," says Dr. R. A. Wiltshire of Gwynneville, Ind. "I take great pleasure in testifying to the results of Chamberlain's Cough Medicine. In fact, I know of no other preparation that meets so fuly the expectations of the most exacting in cases of croup and coughs of children. As it contains no opium, chloroform or morphine it certainly makes a most safe, pleasant and efficacious remedy for the ills it is intended." For sale by all druggists.

The Secret.

"Happiness," says one who understood the meaning of the word, "is a mosaic, composed of many smaller stones. It is the little acts of kindness, the little courtesies, the disposition to be accommodating, to be charitable toward the weaknesses of others—these are the little things which, added up at night, are found to be the secret of the happy day. The secret of perfect health is to serve daily at mealtime a good malt tonic such as golden grain belt beer. This is the one beverage which is as good for the health as it is to the taste. Have it on your home table at all times. Order of your nearest dealer, or be supplied by the Duluth Branch of the Minneapolis Brewing company.

WANTS $15,250 FOR HIS THUMB

Matt Bahor wants $15,250 from the Shenango Furnace company, and Andrew Dahl, its foreman, because he claims that Dahl refused to allow him to lay off for two or three days and get medical attention. Bahor was a teamster at the Shenango mine at Chisholm. On Nov. 10, he cut his thumb, and he says that because the foreman would not allow him to lay off, he caught cold in the cut. Blood poisoning followed, and he has lost the use of his thumb. He does not claim that the company was negligent in allowing him to be cut, but he places the blame for the complications which followed on the foreman.

NOT DISCOURAGED.

Workers for Woman's Suffrage Take Their Defeat Cheerfully.

Local advocates for woman's suffrage say they are not cast down over the failure of the house of representatives of the legislature to pass their bill. They point to the number of signatures to the petition for woman suffrage as evidence that they are gaining ground. The suffragists blame the brewers and the retail liquor dealers rather than public sentiment for their defeat, as the liquor men, they say, more than any other organization, are opposed to woman's suffrage.

The branch of the woman's suffrage league, recently organized in Duluth, is more active than ever.

HOW THE CHARIOT RACE IS MANIPULATED IN KLAW & ERLANGER'S COLOSSAL "BEN HUR."

For the Opening Performance of the Great Historical Drama—

BEN HUR

At the Lyceum theater, Monday evening, March 22, The Herald has purchased 150 of the best $2.00 seats in the theater and intends making up a large theater party to be comprised of 150 school pupils. The members of this party will be selected by means of a simple contest.

Who can write the best essay of not more than 150 words on Ben Hur? Almost every one has read this wonderful story. Almost every one is familiar with the wonderful character, Ben Hur, so that an essay of 150 words on the subject will be an easy matter for the bright school pupil.

To refresh your memories, The Herald this week published in five daily installments an epitome of the story, finishing in last night's Herald.

Essays are to be written on one side of paper only.

Give your name, address and school, and mail to Ben Hur Contest Editor, The Herald.

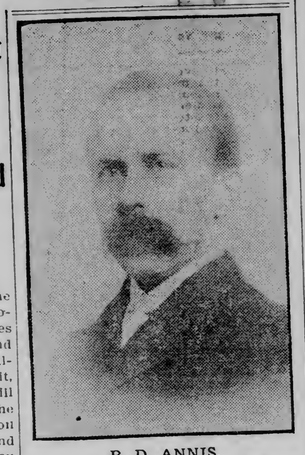

YOU'LL HAVE TO HURRY

Essays must be in The Herald office not later than 6 p. m. next Wednesday, March 17.

MERCHANTS ORGANIZE TO DOWN "DEADBEATS"

New Merchants' Credit Association Takes in All Lines.

Credit Will be Refused All Who Neglect Old Debts.

R. D. ANNIS,
One of the Directors of the Association.

"Down With the Dead Beat" is the slogan of the Merchants' Credit association of Duluth. He who believes that the world owes him a living and tries to take it out on the retail dealers by working up a line of credit, which he intends to discredit, will soon find that particular part of the world represented by the association circumventing him at every turn and forcing him to adopt the "Pay as you go, and if you don't pay, you don't go, system."

The Merchants' Credit association sprang into being Jan. 1, and at present its business consists principally in systematizing its work and preparing for the onslaught on "dead beats." It is an outgrowth of the Retail Grocers' association, the former organization having been extended so as to take in every line of retail business. The methods of the Grocers' association have been extended and improved upon, and in the future the "dead beat" will find rather hard sledding on his chosen road.

The Merchants' Credit association has an office at 18 Third avenue west and there the information collected for the benefit of the members will be kept on tap that prevention may be had, whereas cure was often difficult to obtain. Patrons of retail dealers will be put under a searching scrutiny and every possible scrap of information that may aid a dealer in deciding whether an extension of credit is advisable, will be collected. In a card index system, every credit buyer in the city will be listed with a rating. His rating will be determined by the manner in which he has taken care of debts in the past, by his standing debts, and by his ability to care for those that may be contracted in the future.

The card index will be supplemented by a book, which will be circulated among the members of the association. The book will be a compilation of the data contained in the card index and both the book and the card index will be kept as up-to-date as possible, so that the merchants may know just where their course lies when an application is made for credit.

Object of the Association.

"We don't count on harrassing or persecuting the honest man, who really intends to pay his debts, but is embarrassed temporarily and cannot care for them," said George H. Schulenberg, one of the directors of the association. "The particular object of our attention is to be the 'dead beat,' who is well known to dealers in every community. He asks credit, when he knows he will never pay for the articles he secures. He 'does' one merchant and then goes to another. He hasn't anything to attach and a judgment against him is no good. All the merchant can do is to pocket his loss and look pleasant.

"No merchant will extend credit to a man he knows to be irresponsible, but the most searching individual investigation often leads to a wrong conclusion. No one man can alone and unaided find out all he should know about a man, who asks for credit, and to correct that obstacle, the association was organized. Under the system employed, the association will have just the information desired on every prospective credit patron and much time, trouble and expense will be saved, besides a big reduction in the actual losses from bad debts.

"The association will try to keep every man within his means. If a man's debts are altogether out of proportion with his salary, there is something wrong, and the association will advise the shutting off of credit until some of the old debts are adjusted. If a man has been a steady customer of one establishment and he goes to another in the same line, there will be an inquiry. If he owes money to the first store, he will be told to pay it before any credit will be given elsewhere."

It is estimated that several hundreds of thousands of dollars are lost each year in bad debts by the retail stores of Duluth. Some people go into debt and then meet with misfortune so that they can't pay. Others are merely slow and unbusinesslike. They mean to pay, but they keep putting it off. The majority of the bad debts are incurred by "dead beats," who never intend to pay and never will. To the first, the association will be as charitable as businesslike methods will allow. To the second, a temporary suspension of credit will act as a prod. The operations of the third will be stopped.

"Merchants and retail dealers of all kinds need something of the sort," said Whitney Wall, real estate and rental agent, and also a director. "Prevention is better than cure in the case of credit, and when a man is 'no good,' it is much better for the merchant to know it beforehand than to learn by the sad experience of a bad debt. A collection agency hurries some people, who would not move for individual effort, and the merchants may as well have their own collection agency as to pay heavy commissions to outside agents.

"Under the system of the association, the 'dead beat' will soon become a live one. With his credit shut off entirely he will have to pay for necessities and he will get over scheming how to beat the merchants, and go to work. Some bad debts will creep through the accounts, but they will be brought down to the minimum and we expect the association will have excellent results."

The lines represented in the association and the representative of each on the board of directors, are: Hardware, dealers, R. D. Annis; shoe dealers, Gustav A. Wieland; clothing dealers, Charles W. Ericson; grocers, George H. Schulenberg; butchers, B. J. Toben; sheet metal workers and furnace dealers, J. P. Hollihan; dry goods and department stores, I. Prelmuth; plumbers, H. H. McFadyen; furniture, A. C. Pearson, French & Bassett; doctors, Dr. D. D. Murray; real estate and rental agents, Whitney Wall; dairymen, George W. Bergtold; pain dealers, H. H. Borgen; druggists, W. A. Abbett; fuel dealers, C. E. Tweed; jewelers, E. E. Esterly; florists, W. W. Seekins; tailors, J. Frank Burrows.

"Uncle Charlie" Perry 92 Years Young

MR. S. C. PERRY, Age 92.

Mr. Samuel Charles Perry of Lockport, N. Y., who is 92 years old and a bachelor, retains all his faculties to a remarkable degree. He is as active and vigorous as he was twenty years ago. Recently when celebrating his 92d birthday, he entertained his friends by playing on the violin, which he has owned for over sixty years, many old-time pieces.

For many years Mr. Perry has been prominent in business and politics.

In his old age he finds Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey indispensable, and the only medicine to which his vigor is due; he says that it has no equal.

Mr. Perry writes: "The vitality and usefulness of my powers, which I have preserved through a long life up to the age of ninety-two, I attribute partly to moderation in all things, partly to an indisposition to worry and partly to my natural abhorrence of all kinds of drugs.

"In my extreme old age I am exercising the same discretion, with but the one exception, that I find Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey an indispensable medicine. As a tonic and general preserver of health in old age, I believe that it has no equal."

Every testimonial is guaranteed genuine, and is published in good faith with full consent.

Mr. Perry's case is similar to that of thousands of others, both aged men and women, who have been kept hale, hearty and vigorous by the constant use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as a medicine. It is a predigested food which has a stimulatnig and tonic effect upon the system. It builds nerve tissues, prevents decay and keeps the entire system in a normal, healthy condition.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

If you wish to keep young, strong and vigorous and have on your cheeks the glow of perfect health, take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, regularly, according to direction. It tones and strengthens the heart action and purifies the system. It is recognized as a family medicine everwhere.

CAUTION—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. It's the only absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold in sealed bottles only; never in bulk. Price $1.00. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Write Consulting Physician, Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y., for a free illustrated medical booklet and free advice.

AND NOW THE ESSAYS COME

Three Days More to Enter the "Ben Hur" Contest.

Every Pupil Above Sixth Grade Invited to Compete.

As was predicted in The Herald last night, the morning mail was heavy with "Ben Hur" essays. The serial story of the play was finished last night, and many got busy as soon as the final installment had been read.

Thus ends the first week of the big contest. There are but three days more, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. One thing that must be kept in mind is that the contest will close at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. No essay, however good, that comes in after that hour, will be considered. In order that all the pupils of the schools shall receive impartial treatment, the rules will be strictly lived up to.

It has been a busy week for all concerned. The children of the city have been busy reading the story, having the more difficult parts explained to them, and writing their essays, and the teachers report the interest as very keen.

As soon as possible after all the essays have been received, they will be judged, and the results and list of winners will be published. From the present appearances it will take some time to go over the whole bunch, if they continue coming in the way they have started. It may not be possible to announce them until Saturday or Monday, but the minute the winners are decided, the names will be made public.

Thursday the seats that are to be occupied by the guests of the paper Monday night, March 22, were secured and laid away in the office at The Herald, where they will remain until the winners begin to call for them. They are the best in the Lyceum theater.

Th big Klaw & Erlanger production has not been in Duluth for two years, and there is as much interest in its coming by the older people as by those included in the contest. Parents are greatly interested in the contest and not a few have called up The Herald and congratulated the paper on its offer to school children. The play is one that parents are anxious to have their children see and many of them welcome the opportunity offered them by The Herald.

The contest has been indorsed on all sides by public officials and well known men. They think well of the plan as worked out for the benefit of the Duluth school children, and none of them has shown any hesitancy in saying so.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

"Diamonds and Hearts" is the vehicle which Manager A. F. M. Custance has selected for the theatrical stars of the senior class, with Miss Cleo Fenton in the leading role. Miss Fenton will be supported by a cast of the best talent in the senior class, many of whom have appeared before the footlights before with success.

The senior class play will be given next Friday night in the assembly hall at the school. These plays have been given by the graduating classes for many years and they have become one of the institutions of the school. Mr. Custance, who directs the plays, has done a great deal to make them the success that they have been, and every indication points to the fact that this one will eclipse all previous achievements in this line. Work has been going along steadily for several weeks and Mr. Custance feels confident that his cast will do full justice to the piece. The class of 1909 has a reputation of doing everything better than it has ever been done before, and the members are working hard to make this play no exception to the rule. Several new features will be added this year and it will be conducted on a different scale. A small orchestra will be provided and a "Country Choir" will appear in one of the acts. The best seats in the house will be reserved and sold at 50 cents, and the other seats will be 25 cents. Archie Glass is acting as business manager and is working hard to make the financial end as great a success as the dramatic side. The proceeds of the play help to pay for the Zenith that is published by the class. The cast is as follows: Bernice Halstead, Cleo Fenton; Inez Gray, Marjorie Shipherd; Amy Halstead, Ruth Davis, Mrs. Halstad, Dorothy Olcott; Hannah Barnes, Gladys Clark; Abraham Barnes, John Quinn; Dr. Burton, Jack Hurdon; Dwight Bradley, Robert Ely; Sammy ?, Leonard McHugh; sheriff, Roy Kent; attorney, Harvard Rockwell.

Dramatics seem to be flourishing in the school lately. The senior-junior division of the Philomathian society has been doing something in this line too, and with apparent success. Last Monday afternoon in the music room they put on a little college play that was very good. The room was fitted up as a college room, all in pennants and posters, and this, together with the extremely "sporty" clothes worn by those taking masculine parts, went to make it very realistic and a great success. The name of the play was "A Case of Suspension," and those taking part were Marie Agatin, Fanny Hogan, Ruth Erieson, Marie Craig, Margaret Elder, Jean Corcoran, Elsie Schweiger, Lily Peterson, Grace Farmer and Frances Mooney.

A very largely attended meeting of the Public Speaking club was held last Monday afternoon for the purpose of electing a new set of officers, but owing to some difficulty as to a constitutional amendment, the election was put off until another time. Mr. Baker and some of the members of the club have been working quite hard, and as a result of their efforts they have built up a good-sized club, which is larger now that it ever was before, and they have aroused a great deal of interest in debating in the school. Just now the try-outs are being held for the interclass debates, and as soon as the final teams are chosen, these debates will come off in chapel. After this the elections will be held three dimes a year, the next election being about the first of April. The debate at the last meeting was: "Resolved, That the women of the United States should be allowed to vote." The affirmative side consisted of Rupert O'Brien, Alfred Ott, Robert Thompson, and those on the negative were Harry Zlatkovski, George Syreen and Harry Weston. The speech of Rupert O'Brien was exceptionally good, being the best heard in the club this year. The negative side won the debate, however. Unfortunately, the girls couldn't hear the discussion.

Miss Jane Everigton was the soloist at the musical society last Tuesday. Miss Everington sang before the club earlier in the year and they were so well pleased with her singing that she was invited again. Miss Everington's first selection was "Down on the Sands," and as an encore sang "My Laddie," a beautiful Scotch song which made a great hit with the students.

In chapel Friday morning the choir sang one of Mr. Custance's selections, entitled "Tarry With Me." The choir has been doing fine work all year at the Friday morning chapels, when they sing special music. Mr. Denfeld gives little talks, as Mr. Smith used to do, and he succeeds in bringing his points "home" in a very humorous way, which usually keeps the school in very good humor. His talks are very popular with the students, for they like his humor and also ths things he has to say.

Dido died again. Poor Dido. Every year she dies again, and the seniors who are so fortunate as to take Virgil appear in deep morning and dolefully (?) regret the decease of their dear friend. It is exceedingly fortunate that she is not human, or so many funerals might prove exceedingly expensive. Dido will continue to die for centuries to come, and Mr. Custance will continue instructing his classes to put on mourning for the occasion again.

TO OWN BOATS ON GREAT LAKES

Corporation Now Being Formed Will Operate Fifty or Sixty.

Detroit, Mich., March 13.—The Free Press today says the owners and managers of fifty of the largest lumber-carrying vessels on the Great Lakes have agreed to sell their boats to a corporation now in process of formation, which will own and operate 50 to 60 per cent of the lumber carriers of the lakes.

Many of the prominent members of the Lake Lumber Carriers' association have been in Detroit for two weeks and preliminary arrangements for the organization of the corporation were completed at a two-days' conference, which ended here yesterday. The value of the fifty vessels to be purchased has been mutually agreed upon as approximately $850,000. The new corporation will probably be capitalized at $1,000,000, but the name of the concern, its capitalization and the selection of directors will be matters to be brought up at a meeting to be held next week, probably in Detroit.

It is said that the Hines and Blodgett fleets, which figure prominently in the project, move 200,000,000 feet of timber in an average season. The consolidation of interests is expected to effect a considerable saving in insurance charges and expenses of management.

GENERAL TRADE CONTINUES QUIET

Dun, However, Notes the Improved Situation in Steel.

New York, March 13.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade today says:

Milder weather will stimulate spring sales, but general trade continues quiet. Conditions are better in the West than in the East, but everywhere there is still lacking the desired animation.

Some progress toward more settled conditions is noted in iron and steel. The most encouraging feature is the better sentiment, and this has been followed by an increased demand in some lines. Best news comes from the structural division, orders for material aggregating a good volume, while the new prices are firmly maintained. The advancing season is also expected to increase the tonnage for building work. Demand for railroads has not expanded to any extent, although additional inquiries for steel rails are reported. In wire products orders are somewhat heavier, while bids for cast-iron pipe were opened in this city early in the week, but otherwise this division is generally quiet.

Western distributers of dry goods, particularly jobbing houses in the Northwest and Missouri river territory, report a satisfactory business, but conditions are less satisfactory in the coal and iron sections of the Middle West and among local jobbers. Some falling off in activity is normal at this season.

GIVE FALSE TEETH TO CHURCH FUND

Jewelry Also Contributed to be Melted for Chalice.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 13.—While many of the members of the congregation of Calvary Episcopal church at Conshhocken sacrificed articles of jewelry to be used toward fashioning a memorial chalice, two members of the church parted with their false teeth.

The pastor recently solicited contributions of jewelry made of gold to be melted up to make the vessel for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary, which is soon to be held.

All the articles donated were to be placed in a collection basket at a special service.

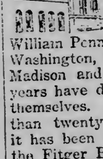

Those who opened the baskets were at loss to acount for the two sets of teeth they found there, thinking at first that some one had attempted a practical joke.

It was found, however, that both the sets were heavily lined with gold.

Among the articles of jewelry found in the baskets were old watches, earrings, old gold pens, gold lead pencils and earrings of the post-rebellion period.

A TEMPERANCE BEER

The Commendable Achievement of a Duluth Brewery.

FOR centuries, beer has been a standard beverage with the best classes of all civilized nations. In this country particularly it has been favored by many of our greatest men including William Penn, Samuel Adams, George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison and thousands who in later years have distinguished themselves. For more than twenty-five years it has been the aim of the Fitger Brewing Co. to create a beer containing all the virtues of the old time brew, and at the same time decrease the percentage of alcohol contained. The fact that Fitger's Beer contains only 3½ per cent alcohol, a smaller quantity than is contained in most patent medicines and just enough to aid digestion, is proof of this company's successful efforts. Thousands drink it in their homes and find in its tonic and food qualities a really beneficial beverage—a food and medicine combined. To the nervous and weak or to those whose tissues have been wasted through sickness it affords the proper elements to build up and strengthen the system as well as give delicious refreshment.

Try it in your home.

JOHN QUINCY ADAMS said:—

"Forget not the rights of personal freedom. Seek not to enforce upon your brother, by legislative enactment, that virtue which he can possess only by the energy of his own will."

ASSOCIATION OF SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Convention Will be Held in Duluth to Organize It.

Next month the first annual meeting of the Sunday schools of St. Louis county will be held for the purpose of organizing a county association. The movement has been started by the Duluth Sunday School association, the members of which feel that the time is now most auspicious for this organization, in order that the institute and convention work which the associaiton aims to do may be brought to the Sunday schools of the county.

The convention will be held in Duluth April 23 and 24, and the executive committee of the Duluth society is making arrangements for the meeting. The members of the committee are: F. N. Burall, president; I. G. Wollan, R. R. Forward, W. L. Smithies and J. L. Cromwell. The work is recommended by the state association. The society does not establish Sunday schools, but every effort is made to help and improve and enlarge the schools now existing. The Sunday school convention aims to do the work which educational conventions have done for the common schools. The meeting next month will be the first attempt of the kind in St. Louis county, and it is hoped that every Sunday school in the county will be represented.

The state association will send a prominent speaker and organizer to help in the work, and the following local committee is arranging the program: F. N. Burrall, Rev. M. O. Stockland, L. A. Sulcove, Rev. F. B. Black, Alfred Thoren, W. E. A. Le Quesne, Anton Ringsred, Mrs. Alexander Milne, Miss Annie Hicken and I. G. Wollan. This committee will meet Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. to discuss plans for the convention. It is especially desired that the county association be of particular value to the small Sunday schools.

MINNESOTA

J. B. LEMIRE IS WINNER

Comes Out on Top in Contest Over Aitkin County Office.

Supreme Court Rules in His Favor and Against Odegard.

Aitkin, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The uncertainty that has hung over the county auditor's office since election was cleared up a few days ago, when a decision from the supreme court settled it that J. B. Lemire, the new auditor, declared elected by the canvassing board, is the winner in the contest brought by Carl Odegard against him. Lemire took the office the first of the year on his election certificate, and the contest has been in progress since then.

While the annual village election was probably the principal event of the week here, but little interest was shown. No direct issue was up and the vote polled was light. The successful candidates were: P. O. Erickson, president of council; J. A. Casey, D. M. Falconer and D. McMahon, councilmen; Harry Beecher, recorder; Olaf Olson, treasurer; W. B. Gwathmey, assessor; W. H. Harrison and George T. Williams, justices; J. A. Cameron, constable.

Docks on Mille Lacs Lake.

With the coming of the Soo road to the Mille Lacs lake district, docks will be built at all settlements on the lake shores for traffic that promises to reach large proportions in the aggregate, and freight will be billed direct to the lake points by the Soo company.

The March apportionment will give the Aitkin county schools $4,149. $1.80 per pupil.

A meeting will be held next Thursday for the purpose of reorganizing the Commercial club, which has been inactive for some time.

The 3-year-old son of R. D. Guptill has scarlet fever, and the home has been placed under quarantine.

Mrs. H. Moork has returned from Minneapolis, where she has been in a hospital for several weeks, undergoing serious operations.

Dr. A. C. Taylor of Duluth was called to the local hospital Thursday to perform two delicate operations, in which he was assisted by the hospital corps of physicians.

John A. Healey, formerly of this place and still interested in the First National bank here, was the successful bidder for a $70,000 plumbing contract for the government at Fort Russell, Wyo. He is at the head of the Healey Plumbing & Heating company of St. Paul, and that concern has done more than $100,000 worth of government work during the past few years.

The members of St. James' Catholic church will give a St. Patrick's day entertainment at the opera house, and have decided upon "Finnigan's Fortune" as the play to be given by the following local talent: William O'Hara, Glen Duffy, Fred Hoover, Matt Kivney, Ben Fallen, Mrs. O'Malley, Nellie Madden, Marie Vachon.

NOTES FROM ARNOLD.

Township Election and Late Happenings in That Section.

Arnold, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the monthly meeting of the Francis club held last Saturday evening, some of the members placed orders for seed potatoes for the coming season.

The annual meeting of Rice Lake township was held at Arnold hall. Charles Grochowski was elected supervisor in the place of Victor Larson. The former treasurer, E. N. Holmerud was re-elected, as was also the former assessor, Stephen Helewski, and William W. Schaub was re-elected clerk. Charles Gustafson was chosen overseer of road district No. 2.

There was a tie in District No. 1 between Marion Fenske and Jasper Wald, which was settled by drawing lots, M. Fenske being the winner. Fifteen hundred dollars was voted for roads and $500 for general purposes. Little more of importance came up before the meeting.

Tuesday afternoon, the registered Guernsey sire, Pelton's Pride, No. 10000, purchased through Woodend farm, arrived in Arnold.

The annual meeting of the Guernsey club was held Tuesday evening. Three trustees were elected for the coming year, E. N. Holmerud, Charles M. Nelson and John W. Murphy.

Rev. J. G. Litch spoke at the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. A. F. Coulter visited her husband, where he is working, near Ashland Saturday and Sunday.

Malcolm Brown was severely bruised while digging J. F. Taylor's well, but is better now.

J. W. Murphy, who had taken up his work again, but for one week after recovery from serious injury, has had to quit and take a place on the petit jury.

A committee of county commissioners, Messrs. Tischer, Fraser and Cummings examined the location of the proposed change in the old Vermilion road. August Rehbein and others met them with a team and reported that he found them all favorable to this improvement to be made in the interests of Arnold.

WILL HAVE A LYCEUM.

Another Variety Theater to be Opened at Thief River Falls.

Thief River Falls, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A second variety theater will open here next Monday in the Grundy block on Third street by Messrs. Angell, Elde & Thompson of this city. It will be known as the Lyceum and will furnish daily entertainments, consisting of moving pictures, music and light vaudeville. The growth of the city has been such that with two other places of amusement running daily, still numbers are unable to find accommodations at these houses and the new house will likely enjoy a share of the patronage.

PREFERRED DEATH TO LEAVING FARM

Joseph Boucher Killed Himself Rather Than Return to Hospital.

Thief River Falls, Minn., March 13.—Coroner Melby was called to the town of Lambert, Red Lake county, this week to investigate the death of Joseph Boucher, who committed suicide by shooting himself in the head. Despondency caused by ill health was assigned as the cause. Boucher was 39 years of age, unmarried, in comfortable circumstances and for the past twenty-five years had been a well respected resident of the town of Lambert.

During all of these years he has been absent from his farm only to make occasional trips to this city to purchase supplies and dispose of his products, and last fall when he was taken ill he was ordered to a hospital by the attending physician. This appeared to make him despondent and he begged to be taken back to his farm. Later this was done, and on the return of his former complaint, sooner than be taken away from his beloved farm home again, he committed suicide.

CRAZY MAN HAS TO BE WATCHED

Arrested at Cass Lake He Attempts to Burn Jail and Himself.

Cass Lake, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ludvig Buckiner, who claims his home is in Itasca county, was picked up by Officer Bourlette here yesterday in a deranged condition and taken to the village lockup and placed under guard. At first he claimed his home was in Bemidji, and accordingly Sheriff Hazen of Bemidji was notified. The sheriff arrived here in the afternoon to take the man back to Beltrami county, but he then said he was from Itasca county, and it is believed the latter is correct.

Since Buckiner was locked up he has grown steadily worse. It became necessary for the officers to remove all the bedding from the room, as he was tearing it into shreds. At one time he was attempting to set fire to it, when he was stopped by an officer. It later became necessary to handcuff him, as it is feared he will harm himself. Apparently either some love agair or Dr. Till figured in the man's mental malady, as he is constanaly speaking of Dr. Till and some woman, whose name he does not mention.

The Itasca county sheriff will arrive today and take him to Grand Rapids.

TO DRAFT A CHARTER.

Commission Named to Agree Upon One for International Falls.

International Falls, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following have been appointed by the district court a charter commission to prepare a charter for this place: John Berg, J. J. Stone, L. A. Ogaard, H. I. Bedell, B. W. Bacon, N. L. Olson, J. J. Hosler, F. G. Nelson, R. Walsh, M. Burton, C. B. Lang, M. E. Withrow, C. B. Montgomery, R. S. McDonald.

The commission will have six months in which to make a report, and the adoption of the charter as formulated by them will depend upon the decision of the citizens at an election which will follow the report.

WISCONSIN

UNHAPPY UNIONS RESULT OF HASTE

Milwaukee Poor Superintendent Would Restrain Young Lovelorn.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 13.—"No marriage license should ever be issued until the applicant can show satisfactory evidence of his ability to furnish a home and support a wife without incurring debt," said Superintendent of Poor William C. Spindler.

"Forty per cent of the applications this winter were from married couples less than 25 years of age.

"The glamour of the honeymoon passes, weekly payments on debts drain the young man's slender wages; the wife proves to be a poor economist; then comes quarrels, then drinking—and, finally, I have an application for aid.

"I don't believe young people should marry unless they have saved enough to start housekeeping. And if they haven't common sense enough to see that—and we all know what young folks are, when they think they are in love—the state should compel them to observe the rule.

"Another fruitful source of dependent families is the 'marriage of necessity.' If it were not for the children, I would advocate the repeal of the law which makes them.

"My reason for this stand is that almost invariably the mother and child ultimately become a public charge. Often this happens soon after the marriage; sometimes it is postponed one, two, or even five or six years. But years of experience have convinced me that a large proportion of the nonsupport and abandonment cases are the outgrowth of unfortunate marriages."

NO CHEAPER MEAT.

Packer Cudahy of Milwaukee Disagrees With J. Ogden Armour.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The opinion of J. Ogden Armour that the price of meat will go down this summer is wrong, thinks Patrick Cudahy of Cudahy Brothers' company, Milwaukee, who declares there is no prospective relief from present prices.

In an interview in Atlanta, Mr. Armour said the price of meat would drop this summer. He predicted a decrease in corn prices and said the reduction in meat would follow.

"I do not agree with that," said Mr. Cudahy. "Corn is scarce and the price will remain where it is. As far as I can see, there will be no drop in the price of meat for some time to come."

THREE DAYS IN BOXCAR.

Plight of Escaped Inmate From Feebleminded Institute.

Eau Claire, Wis., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Samuel Rice, aged 25, who has been an inmate of the feeble minded home at Chippewa Falls, was found in this city yesterday in a pitiable condition when employes of the Lange Fruit company went to unload a carload of sugar.

Rice, according to his story had been without food or nourishment in the car for three days. His feet were badly frozen. As he talked in a rather disconnected manner the police were called in and the man taken to the detention station. He said that he was 25 years of age, had been an inmate of the feeble-minded home at Chippewa Falls, but had been released by the doctor and had gone away.

Rice was kept here till a guard from the feeble-minded home came after him.

SENATOR'S RELATIVE MAY HUNT WITH ROOSEVELT.

Marinette, Wis., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to a current report, ex-President Roosevelt has invited Fred Stephenson, a relative of Senator Stephenson of this city, and a noted hunter, to accompany him on his African hunt. Mr. Stephenson is in Louisiana and the story cannot be confirmed.

Ship Tons of Carp.

Fort Atkinson, Wis., March 13.—The last consignment of carp and buffalo fish caught with seines in Lake Koshkonong during the last two months was shipped to the Eastern markets this week. The weight aggregated 600,000 pounds, and it required more than fifty freight cars to move the lot.

Heads Green Bay Road.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ashland—Abraham Movitz was discharged by Judge McCloud on the charge of cruelty to animals. Movitz was accused of tying a horse to a tree with a wire, leaving the animal out exposed to the weather.

Menomonie—Charles Shafer, aged 42, committed suicide by stabbing himself at a lumber camp at Weston. He left a widow and children.

Milwaukee—The funeral of J. H. Van Dyke was held Friday afternoon from the residence. The Rev. G. A. Scott of the Grand Avenue Methodist Episcopal church officiated. The active pallbearers were Judge Paul D. Carpenter, Charles Allis W. O. Goodrich, Abbot Lawrence, Robert Camp and Clarence J. Allen.

Madison — Miss Emily Winslow, daughter of Supreme Justice J. B. Winslow, has been elected president of the Girls' Self Government association. The other officers are: Gertrude Kitchell, Topeka, Kan., vice president; Martin Marsh, Marshfield, secretary; Ethel Taylor, Sioux City, Iowa, treasurer.

Ashland—Indian Farmer Miles of Odanah removed John Doherty from the Bad River reservation. Doherty is a mixed blood Chippewa and a deputy sheriff of Ashland county and is one of the five Indians ordered removed by the secretary of the interior. Doherty had successfully evaded removal for two weeks by remaining on his own land.

Eau Claire—Archie Remington has bought the P. J. Chambers fruit farm just west of the city. This is the farm formerly owned by George Thomas and made famous by his fast horses. It is one of the prettiest and best berry farms in the state.

Chippewa Falls—One of the Omaha's 145 ton engines jumped the track in front of the depot in this city Thursday. The engine and tender were both completely off and two other engines worked until 2 o'clock before it was replaced.

Wausau—The movement for a central slaughter house, doing away with private yards, will probably be successful here and a location on the West side selected. It is also proposed to have a city inspector to pass on all meats before they are sold in the city.

UPPER MICHIGAN

POSTOFFICE IS ROBBED OF $200

Uncle Sam's Office in Upper Michigan Visited by Yeggmen.

Marquette, Mich., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—United States Marshal Manning has gone to Birch to investigate the robbery of the postoffice there Wednesday night, when about $200 was taken from the safe belonging to Postmaster Kreig.

The postoffice is located in the rear of the Northern Lumber company's store, on the left hand side. The robbers entered by way of the rear sliding door, through which freight is handled. The door was forced open with a chisel inserted between the door and the casing, just above the lock. The safe is said to have been a rather insecure affair, and the statement is borne out by the fact that the thieves got into it without using any explosives. The money box in the safe, with its contents of $181 of government money and several of the Northern Lumber company's checks, was taken outright and carried away by the thieves. They also appropriated $30 collected for the Modern Brotherhood of America, which was hid behind an old tea can.

It is believed that the men who did the job knew the ground well and that they were still in the town yesterday morning, as no tracks on the newly fallen snow leading away from the town were to be found. At the store, the tracks of the robbers, both coming and going, could be plainly seen. Postmaster Krieg is manager of the store, which he left Wednesday night about 8 o'clock, and he did not know of the robbery until he opened the store Thursday morning.

FEDERAL BUILDING AT SOO.

Work on $150,000 Structure Will Start April 1.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work will start on the Soo's $150,000 federal building about April 1.

The successful bidder, Edward Henry of Tipton, Ind., has arrived and is completing the details connected with the work. M. E. Smith of Tipton will attend to the construction of cement, store houses, tool sheds and an office building. This work will start with a few days. During the principal construction of the building between forty and fifty hands will be employed. The building will be constructed of Oolidic limestone, quarried in Monroe county, Ind. It will be shipped in the rough and hewed by at least a dozen cutters. The smallest amount these men will draw will be $3 per day.

WORKS FOUR DAYS THEN HE IS KILLED.

Menominee, Mich., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—After working only four days for the Northwestern railway at Daggett station, George Eck, 19 years old, the sole support of his mother, was struck by a passenger train as he was crossing the track, a quarter of a mile from Daggett, and cut to pieces.

The young man's mother was waiting at Daggett to meet him, when he was killed and the shock nearly cost her life.

VETERAN COPPER COUNTRY MINER TO HIS REWARD.

Hancock, Mich., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Kit" Wallace, one of the oldest residents of Pewabic, is dead at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John R. Hosking, in that location, aged nearly 80. The deceased had been a resident of the Copper country for almost half a century, and for years was employed in local mines. He is survived by several children, all of whom are grown.

MICHAELSON HELD.

Calumet, Mich., March 13.—Alfred Michaelson, a well-known local business man, arrested recently on the charge of embezzling funds entrusted to his care, has been held to the circuit court in $6,000 bonds.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Hancock—Mrs. Margaret Stephenac of Hurontown died Thursday at St. Joseph's hospital, where she had been receiving treatment for some time. The deceased was a resident of Hurontown, 35 years old, and is survived by a husband and two step-children.

Houghton—Mr. and Mrs. Phil Thomas of Duluth are in Houghton called here by the serious illness of Capt. Johnson Vivian.

Calumet—Joseph Schvegilj, a trammer employed at the fifty-fifth level of No. 4 shaft of the Calumet mine, was injured in a fall of ground Wednesday evening. It appears that he and two others were working at their usual vocation, when a heavy mass of loose ground fell upon them. The other men were not seriously injured.

Houghton—The Montreal Wanderers, crack Montreal hockey team, of which Jimmy Duggan of Houghton is trainer expects shortly to go to New York for an exhibition trip, after which Jimmy will return to Houghton.

Calumet—Mrs. Elizabeth Collins, a widow, aged 78 years, died Wednesday night at the home of her son, Josia on Amygdaloid street. Mrs. Collins was an old pioneer of Calumet.

Hancock—The Republican ward caucuses will take place Friday evening, March 26, at the following places: First ward, Germania hall; Second ward, city hall; Third ward, L. Horan's store; Fourth ward, basement of West Hancock primary school.

Houghton—C. A. Mayworm has received from E. J. Dube at Hot Springs, Ark., a cheerful letter which shows that Mr. Dube is recovering his health rapidly. Accompanied by Mrs. Dube he will leave the springs in a few days for Mount Clemens and from there will leave for Houghton after a brief visit.

Negaunee—The street car employes were forced to give up the fight against the storm Wednesday evening, but the cars were running as usual Thursday. It required several hours to open the system to both ends. The snow was from two to four feet deep in places.

Marquette—Percy Delft has received a letter from the widow of the late T. J. Millen, formerly of this city, who died Feb. 2 at his home in Bierne, Ark. The letter states that Mr. Millen's death was due to an injury received on an engine four days before. The remains were taken to Osceola for interment, in obedience to his request.

Houghton—As was done some months ago at Calumet, a union of the retail clerks of the Portage Lake district has been formed. The organization is composed of sales-people of Houghton and Hancock.

Pure Blood in Spring Makes Perfect Health

The blood is rightly called the vital fluid, because without it life is not possible.

In an adult the blood averages eighteen pounds or fully one-eighth of the entire weight.

It is composed of liquids and solids.

The liquid portion is a watery, albuminous fluid amounting to about three-fifths of the whole.

Minute particles, known as blood corpuscles, constitute the remaining two-fifths.

There are both red and white corpuscles, the red ones greatly outnumbering the white.

The red corpuscles contain, as an active ingredient, a chemical substance having iron in its composition.

There are millions of white blood corpuscles, which protect the red blood corpuscles and bodily tissues from disease germs, to which you are more exposed at this season than at any other.

Healthy blood is pure blood, and at no season is it more necessary than in the spring.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes healthy blood.

It is the medicine that purifies and enriches the blood and makes it normal in red and white corpuscles and all other constituents.

It cures all humors and eruptions, catarrh, and rheumatism, relieves that tired feeling, restores the appetite, cures paleness, weakness, nervousness, and builds up the whole system.

"I consider it an important duty to keep well, in order that I may perform my daily duties.

"And especially in the Spring when I feel run down and need a blood purifier and tonic, to restore my appetite, I take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"A course of this medicine has splendid effect on my blood, keeps my appetite good, and holds up the general tone of my health, so that all summer I can work and feel strong." Mrs. Wm. McAuley, 48 Eaton Ave., Camden, Maine.

"My little boy was vaccinated last fall, and it was spring before his arm healed. The arm was broken out nearly all around, and every scratch he got became a running sore and refused to heal. He was very nervous and irritable, had no appetite or energy. We tried various remedies without success, then gave him Hood's Sarsaparilla, and he now seems to be entirely well." Mrs. A. M. Stevens, Orfordville, N. H.

☞Hood's Sarsaparilla effects its wonderful cures, not simply because it contains sarsaparilla, but because it combines the utmost remedial values of more than 20 different ingredients, each greatly strengthened and enriched by this peculiar combination. If urged to buy any preparation said to be "just as good," you may be sure it is inferior, costs less to make, and yields the dealer a larger profit.

Begin taking Hood's Sarsaparilla today. Get it in the usual liquid form or in chocolated tablets known as Sarsatabs. 100 Doses One Dollar.

DAKOTAS

RISE OF ENGER IS REMARKABLE

Coming to This Country Poor Immigrant Now Big Land Holder.

Fargo, N. D., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Coming to Fargo in 1872, a green Norwegian immigrant, scarcely able to speak a word of the language of his adopted country, penniless, friendless and his only fortune a stout heart, a giant's physique and a boundless ambition, Finger J. Enger is today one of the heaviest landowners of North Dakota, having 25,000 choice acres in Steele county.

Mr. Enger's experience aptly illustrates the possibilities of the immigrants in this country, as well as the golden promise of the Northwest. He worked as a hired laborer in Fargo for a few months, took a homestead and started to break the virgin soil with a yoke of oxen. When his homestead was under cultivation he purchased wild prairie land and subjugated that, reaping rich golden harvests of grain as the reward of his industry. As rapidly as he paid for a new addition to his farm he bought still other acres, till he acquired his present immense holding, each acre of which is worth $30 to $40 under a forced sale.

Incidentally, Mr. Enger has raised a family of nine brawny sons and one daughter. The latter is in school at the Lutheran Ladies seminary in Fargo, and the present site of the institution is on the location where Mr. Enger chopped cordwood the first winter of his arrival in Fargo. He is a trustee of the school and a booster for the seminary.

Mr. Enger has been prominent in Steele county politics and served one legislative term.

FOR CUTTING STEEL.

New Process Being Used in All Great Northern Repair Shops.

Devils Lake, N. D., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Great Northern is installing in its locomotive shops here and all along the line the latest and newest method of cutting hard or carbon steel and cast iron.

This is known as the acetylene-oxygen process, and as its name denotes, is a combination of acetylene and oxygen gases which, in a remarkably short time melts, or disintegrates the iron or steel molecules after the flame which is but one-half inch in width, is applied to steel or iron on which work is being done. A job which formerly required two or three days' work, such as the cutting out of side sheets in a locomotive fire box, can now be done in almost that many hours.

The process has been in use on all big Eastern roads, where it has passed the experimental stage, and is an assured success. The gas is stored in a heavy steel reservoir, which can be taken to the engine or engines to be repaired, the devices in connection being portable. All large Western roads are adding the process, as it is convenient, cheap and powerful.

TO APPRAISE LANDS.

Former North Dakota Legislator Appointed on Federal Commission.

Bismarck, N. D., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Rose, a former member of the North Dakota legislature from Dickey county, has been appointed by the interior department to appraise the lands on the Standing Rock Indian reservation, which are to be thrown open to settlement.

This land lies along the main line of the Milwaukee road to the Pacific. The commission consists of one from North Dakota, one from South Dakota, and one representing the United States interior department, and an Indian. The workp begins on April 1, and must be completed in six months.

FOR

Cold in Head

USE

Omega Oil

Pour a teaspoonful of Omega Oil in a cup of boiling water, hold the mouth and nose close to the cup, and inhale the arising steam. The steam carries the healing properties of the Oil into the throat and lungs, giving quick relief. Also rub the nose and forehead with the Oil. 10c., 25c., 50c.

Firebug Burns Elevator.

Hudson, S. D., March 13.—Destroying 5,000 bushels of corn and oats the second incendiary fire which Hudson has suffered in recent months, consumed the Reliance elevator. The smell of kerosene was plainly discernible when the blaze started and no other cause can be assigned than that some "firebug" is at work.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Grand Forks, N. D.—John Connell, employed in moving one of the Mart Lynch from the site purchased by the Northern Pacific to a site on First street, was seriously injured when a door fell on his shoulder, breaking his collar bone, and shaking him up considerable.

Bismarck, N. D.—F. C. Heffron of Dickinson has been appointed by Attorney General Miller as a special assistant attorney general for Morton, Stark and Billings counties, and it is understood his appointment means the beginning of a campaign against violators of the prohibition law in the western part of the state.

Fargo, N. D.—E. J. Schwellenbach, formerly of this city, and for many years a resident of Jamestown, died Monday in Chicago of heart disease. The deceased was train dispatcher for the Northern Pacific here before the office was removed to Jamestown many years ago.

Pingree, N. D.—The Pingree Equity band has been organized. Oscar Boyd has been chosen manager, and Leader Aldson of Carrington instructor.

Williston, N. D.—Ed Benner, the man arrested for robbing and slugging M. B. Chase, was held to the district court under bonds of $1,000, which he was unable to obtain and is in the county jail until court sets this month.

Fargo, N. D.—Millicent Ryder, who for some time has worked as a waitress at the Waldorf hotel in this city, died early Thursday morning at a local hospital from typhoid fever. The deceased was 26 years of age and came here from Ohio, her parents now residing at Youngstown, in that state.

Devils Lake N. D.—At a meeting of the board of education of the high school, the faculty for the coming year was elected, as well as the superintendent, Prof. W. A. Godward being unanimously re-elected to the latter position.

NESBIT IS PROGRESSIVE.

Polk County Town Votes Large Sum for Road Improvement.

Crookston, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The town of Nesbit leads all the townships of Polk county, if not in the state of Minnesota, in liberal appropriations for the improvement of highways. At the annual town meeting, March 9, $2,700 was appropriated for the improvement of roads in Nesbit township. At present the town's system of roads is second to none in Polk county. Her liberality in the good roads movement places her citizens among the most progressive in Minnesota.

SPOONER CASE ENDED.

Alleged Sensation About Toombs' Death is Completely Exploded.

Spooner, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The attempt to work up a sensation over the death of George C. Toombs, a popular young man who died recently from injuries sustained when he was thrown from a sleigh ,by spreading reports he had died of malpractice, the attending physician being accused, has proved a dismal failure. The post-mortem and inquest have exploded the sensation.

The post-mortem was held Thursday before Coroner M. E. Ibertson by Drs. McCrimmon and McBane of Redney and Dr. Stuart of Baudette.

An inquest was held held before the coroner, and six jurors, P. C. Nelson, Axel Miller, Bert Tenberg, T. J. Williams, William Rogers and J. F. Collins, rendered the following verdict: The cause of death was compression of the brain, due to hemorrhage and a blood clot inside the skull, pressing the brain, caused by being thrown from a sleigh and striking on the back of his head.

MILLIONS OF BRICK FOR INTERNATIONAL FALLS.

St. Cloud, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—O. Douclos, the brick manufacturer, got an order for 6,000,000 brick which are to be delivered to the International Falls Power company. The contract will bring a total of $36,000, having been sold at $6 per thousand.

ROSEAU GOES "DRY."

Roseau, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—By a majority of 22 out of 134 votes cast at the village election, this week, Rosau voted to go "dry."

There were three tickets in the field, these being elected: President, A. H. Foss; trustee, Olaf Holdahl, Mike Holm, Andrew Peterson; clerk, P. H. Buran; treasurer, T. D. Thorson; assessor, E. I. Lindberg; justice, H. F. Miller; constable, Iver Hanson.

MANGLED TO DEATH.

Tracy, Minn., March 13.—Roy Gilpert, electrician at the city water and power plant, while turning on the night current, was accidentally caught in the machinery and was fatally mangled, both legs being crushed before the machinery could be stopped. He was taken to the city hospital, but death resulted an hour later.

Old Citizens Buried.

Marinette, Wis., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas E. Ano and Jefferson Davis, both old residents of Marinette, who died several days ago, were buried Thursday. Joseph Beaucock of Crivitz, who died suddenly of heart disease Tuesday, was buried today.

Twin City Teams to Play.

Menominee, Mich., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—This evening the crack Menominee and Marinette high school basket ball teams will clash to determine the championship of the two counties Each has defeated the other.

TAFT TO ALASKA WITH BALLINGER

Secretary of Interior Will Study the Problems There.

Washington, March 13.—To study the various problems with which he will have to deal in the administration of the affairs of the interior department, Secretary Ballinger will make an extended tour of the West, including Alaska, this summer.

He will look into the needs of the Indian service and the condition of the great irrigation projects, and will investigate in Alaska the alleged acquirement of extensive coal lands by corporations and individuals.

It is probable the president and Secretary Ballinger will visit Alaska about the same time.

18,000 Cured of Rheumatism

Over 18,000 grateful people have written us unsolicited letters telling how young and well they feel since Hill's Rheumatic Pills have driven away every twinge and ache—loosened up the stiffened joints—given new flexibility to strained and tortured muscles.

What a range of suffering these letters cover—men and women who never expected to walk again—who had been bed-ridden for years, as helpless as babes—whom untold agony had warped and twisted until they were unable to feed or dress themselves—all cured, all free from suffering through the wonderful virtues of the healing roots and herbs combined in this miracle-working remedy.

Hill's Rheumatic Pills

have been in use for 73 years without a single change in the formula. They are the only remedy we know which really cures Rheumatism without leaving trouble just as bad in its place.

Hill's Rheumatic Pills are purely vegetable. They contain no harmful minerals, such as iodides and salicylates, to upset the digestion or weaken the heart. They cure by aiding nature—gently stimulating Kidneys, Liver and Bowels until the poisons which cause Rheumatism are removed from the body. It only takes a short time, and you are free from every ache and pain and feel years younger as the deadly uric acid poison is dissolved and passed off as nature intended.

Determine to know today what the harmless but wonderful healing herbs and roots used in Hill's Rheumatic Pills do for you.

TEST THEM FREE

We realize that there are hundreds of worthless nostrums on the market—that you may have been deceived into trying them and derived no benefit. If so, you have a right to be suspicious. RETURNS FROM ENGLAND.

John H. Dixon Says America is Best Country to Live In.

John H. Dixon, formerly night cle k at the St. Louis hotel, returned today from dear old London, with an English hitch in his walk, a cap that has cross plaids and will do everything but talk, and an English accent.

Dixon has crossed the pond before; in fact, he has been over to the old country two or three times. He says he likes to visit there, but as for living there, this good, old country has the tight little isle beaten several ways.

Mr. Dixon says there is nothing particularly stirring in England at the present time. There is some agitation in politics over the Indian question, for India is getting to be a serious problem with England. He says the labor problem is still a very serious one in England, and one that no solution has been found for. The labor party is gaining strength, says Mr. Dixon, and it is only a question of time before the English laborer will have a strong voice in the political affairs of England.

MILLER WILL GO TO THE CAUCUS

Went to the Insurgent Meeting to Secure Information.

Washington, March 13.—Congressman Clarence Miller, the new member from the Duluth district, decided yesterday that he would attend the house caucus tonight. This leaves only two of the eight Republican members from Minnesota who will refuse to meet with their colleagues to select the majority candidate for speaker. These are Davis and Lindbergh, the former of whom has been active in trying to line up enough insurgents who will refuse to meet with their colleagues to select the majority candidate for speaker. These are Davis and Lindbergh, the former of whom has been active in trying to line up enough insurgents who will refuse to meet main out of the caucus to defeat Speaker Cannon for re-election. Representative Miller said that while he attended the meeting of insurgents Thursday night, he did so only as a seeker for information and without subscribing to their views entirely. He had been investigating the question from the other side, and wanted to get first-hand information as to the insurgent position on the speakership and rules. He said he believed every Republican member should attend the caucus, and that the party should adjust its difference in its own ranks.

While it is probable that most Republican members from Minnesota will go into caucus and will accept the decision as to the speakership, some of them will be found voting with the insurgents when the question of adoption of the rules comes up on Monday. These include Volstead and Steenerson, and possibly Miller, although the latter said that he had not made up his mind as to his course on the rules. Gronna and possibly Hanna of North Dakota may be found in the insurgent ranks on the question of revising the rules, while Burke and Martin of South Dakota will line up with the organization.

TO WIND UP THE SEASON

The Ski Club Plans a Bumper Tournament for Sunday.

Weather Conditions Are Favorable for Both Riders and Public.

Sunday will be the big day of the year for the Duluth Ski club. The members are planning on making their final effort to amuse the public the largest and most successfu ever attempted by the club.

Cash prizes of sufficient size have been hung up so that the best of the riders will be attracted, and a number are expected from the ranges, Copper Country, and Superior.

All the old Duluth riders who have been favorites with the Head of the Lakes enthusiasts will be in line and if the present weather conditions continue, the sport for the season will wind up in a blaze of glory.

The Duluth club, while hampered this year on account of the unfavorable weather conditions have furnished the public with some good sport, and as it is greatly in debt on account of the many improvements made this year, the officers are esepecially anxious that a large crowd turn out Sunday.

The hill has been put in the best possible condition, and it is expected that some of the riders will flirt with records on the old slide.

An effort is being made to get some of the boys at Coleraine who have developed into barrel stave wonders, since Bernt Hanson set the pace, give an exhibition of their skill. The club will not promise that they will appear but say they will secure this additional attraction if possible.

YALE CAPTAIN TO SELECT COACH

Eli Athletic Officials Recognize Clearly Authority of Leader.

New Haven, Conn., March 13.—Many graduates of Yale, especially those who were baseball players during their college career, insist that Yale is in no way committed to the system of professional baseball coaching by the engagement of Billy Lush. They assert that Yale's baseball captain, who is chosen next June for another season, will be free to return to graduate coaching if he chooses.

Their statement makes it clear that Yale is still in a muddled condition as regards her baseball policy. Yale has been successful in other sports because of a definite system of coaching. In baseball one of the reasons for repeated failure has been clearly that contradictory systems from year to year have been followed.

Old Yale players, who are fighting for graduate coaching, say that they have no fault to find with Lush as a coach. They state that if Yale is to have a professional coach Lush is to be the man, and he has now come to be regarded as Yale's official professional coach, if Yale has a coach who is paid.

Capt. Fred Murphy of the Yale nine has drawn the issue clearly. He believed firmly that better results can be secured from a professional than an amateur coach, and his decision to reinstate Lush was made on account of his belief. This was the reason why Tad Jones, captain last year, did not return as resident coach for the season.

TOM LONGBOAT IN DISFAVOR

Indian Marathon Runner Loses Friends for Not Racing Shrubb.

New York, March 13.—Tom Longboat, who until a few weeks ago was a bigger man in Canada than King Edward, the governor general and both houses of parliament thrown together, has fallen from his high perch. Where they once called him the boss of the universe, they are now taking turns at roasting him. Tom used to be even more popular in Buffalo than across the border, but even there he is denounced for quitting in the race that had been arranged with Shrubb. A sporting authority there says: "If ever a man should be blacklisted for turning down a bona fide contract, after a racing association had spent thousands of dollars in advertising him and in building tracks, etc., it is this man Longboat."

Looking for Trouble.

Calumet, Mich., March 13.—Local athletic promoters are in receipt of a communication from Barney Cinnamon of Duluth who asserts that he is open to meet any man in a boxing exhibition at 135 pounds or under and would like to get a bout here at any time in the near future. Cinnamon is to box Johnnie Kelley at Iron River Friday evening and is to meet Paddy Ryan at Escanaba Tuesday evening.

Cinnamon also states that he has charge of Nicokli Constantine, the Italian boxer, and says that the boy is ready to meet anybody at 126 pounds or under and at any time. He says that he is in a position to aid in getting good, clean first-class bouts at almost any weight, and at any time and that he would like to be kept in mind by the people of this section.

WHITE EASY FOR GANS

Former Champion Had It on Englishman in 10-Round Bout.

Joe Is But a Shadow of Former Self, However.

New York, March 13.—Joe Gans, former lightweight champion of the world, easily defeated Jabez White, the English lightweight champion, in a ten-round bout at the National Athletic club last night. It was a tame exhibition and the big crowd was disappointed as the men were slow and lacked force behind any of their blows.

White used his left cleverly in the first two rounds, but in the third he changed his tactics, relying mainly on his right. Two rounds later the cause of this shift was apparent. White had broken his left arm some time ago in England and he hurt it early in the third round tonight.

White was knocked down once in the sixth, twice in the seventh, when the bell saved him by one second, and once in the eighth.

Gans was far from being the Gans of even two years ago, as he missed several blows, misjudged distance, and failed to take advantage of many opportunities that presented themselves.

The bout brought a great crowd of spectators to the National club. The men were matched to go ten rounds at 135 pounds and they were weighed in at 2 o'clock. Gans weighed 132½ and White was just 135.

Round 1—After fiddling for an opening, White lead twice for the head, but was blocked. Gans jabbed left to face and sent right to jaw, and the bell found them sparring in the center of the ring.

Round 2—White swung hard left to Joe's stomach. He also sent his left to chest and jabbed it to the jaw. White ripped his left to chest. Both missed right swings for the head. Gans jabbed light left to face. White swung left to neck. Gans jabbed left to face. White had a good margin in this round.

Round 3—White forced the negro and tried a swing, but missed. White landed hard right to stomach. White changed his tactics, using a straight right to stomach instead of the left swing he tried in the first two rounds. Gans put a hard right swing to the jaw and hooked his left to the face. Honors pretty even.

Round 4—White led left for the chin and sent his right to the jaw. He landed a hard right to the stomach. Gans upper-cut with right, and sent in a straight right to stomach, following up with a right hook to the jaw. White swung two lefts to jaw, followed by a hard straight right under the heart. Gans seemed to be in distress, and was weak at the bell. White's round.

Round 5—Gans jabbed left to the face and swung right to jaw. White led for the body but Gans sent in two jabs to the face. White jabbed twice lightly to face and Gans sent straight right to side of head. After an exchange of light lefts, White sent left to the stomach and repeated. Gans closed the round with left and right hooks to the jaw. Neither man's blows had force at this stage.

Round 6—Gans slowed up considerably and had no speed seemingly. He jabbed a light left to face and hooked his right to head, doing no damage. Gans swung right to jaw twice and sent another harder one, putting White down for nine seconds. He upper-cut twice with his right and White went down again for a count of eight. White was very groggy at the bell. Gans' round.

Round 7—Tom O'Rourke and White's other seconds worked hard over him during the intermission, but White came up weakly. Gans sent right and left hooks to stomach. White swung right to jaw. Gans stepped in with right and left hooks to the jaw, but they were light. White's left arm seemed useless at this stage and he could not use it. Gans' upper-cut with right to chin, sending White down and the bell saved him the count of ten. Gans' round.

Round 8—White swung right to jaw. Gans jabbed two lefts to face and forced White about the ring, playing for a right hook. Gans upper-cut with left to jaw and swung left and right to head, sending White down for six seconds. Gans swung right to the wind. White swung right to the eye lightly. Both very tired at the bell. Gans' round.

Round 9—White slapped Gans on the jaw with an open right. Gans put a straight right to jaw and repeated. Then he sent a right upper-cut, stopping white, but failed to follow up his advantage. White got in a stiff right under the heart. Gans kept jabbing with his left, but missed several rights. This was a very tame round, in favor of Gans.

Round 10—Joe landed heavy right to the wind and swung right to the ear. Joe did all the forcing, but missed right and left swings. White swung right to head, and although it had little force, it halted Gans. White swung again to head and ripped to head and ripped it into the wind. They were sparring at the bell.

HAS LEAD OF 21 MILES.

French Team Now Looks Like a Sure Winner.

New York, March 13.—With about fourteen hours remaining to the finish of the six-day go-as-you-please race at Madison Square garden, at 8 a. m., today, Girot and Orphee, the French team, still held the lead by about twenty-one miles, and appeared to have a strong hold on the first place cash prize of $1,500. The race is scheduled to finish a few minutes after 10 o'clock tonight.

Hart Gets Decision.

New Orleans, La., March 13.—Marvin Hart was awarded the decision on a foul in the thirteenth round of a scheduled 20-round bout with Tony Ross at the West Side Athletic club, in McDonoughville, late last night.

Players at Hot Springs.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 13.—Twenty-one members of the Pittsburg National league team, under the leadership of Tommy Leach, arrived here yesterday for their spring practice.

WILL DINHAM'S "ROCK CRUSHERS" AS SEEN BY HERALD CARTOONIST

"ARLIE" LATHAM WAS A MERRY BASEBALL MAN

Wit, bon vivant, optimis, visionary.

Who? Walter Arlington Latham.

Wit—Has given voice to more impromptu sallies, sparkling with humor, than any professional player in baseball's history.

Bon vivant—Knows the value of terrapin and partakes of it discriminatingly. Also knows the value of apple pie and partakes of it liberally.

Optimist—Never saw a cloud over the sun in his life.

Visionary—Since 1858 has been cheerfully tramping along life's highway, expecting daily to catch up with the bag of silver spoons at the end of the rainbow.

Born in New Hampshire under the shadow of the Green Mountains. Puritan by family, a Louisiana Creole by temperament.

In his time he has played many parts, but the harlequin best of all. "I was born with a smile and I will die with one," said the jester of the diamond one day in a moment of seriousness.

In his youth Latham could run 100 yards in ten seconds. When he played baseball in the major leagues he was almost that fleet. He has been known to make a running jump of 21 feet 2 inches. He could play roller polo like a fiend. He is a typical New England athlete—one of those young fellows, and there are plenty of them in Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire—who can do almost anything on track or field, and do it well, even though they are not champions.

The first professional baseball played by Latham was at Pittsfield, Mass., in 1877. He played there the next season. The Pittsfield club could beat almost anything in that part of the known world. New England clubs came to Pittsfield, invested with such shin plasters as could be spared from immediate circulation, and walked home after they had finished the games.

Our young hero played third base, flirted with the girls and caught with rare gallantry in those days. It was prior to the time when a catcher must sit underneath the bat for all of the nine innings. From Pittsfield Latham went to Stoneham. That, too, was in New England. He had not escaped the stony fastnesses of Massachusetts.

Next year he broke out. He got as far west as Buffalo—thanks to the kind intervention of friends along the road. There was a disposition to capture him at every station.

He was in Buffalo three years. During that time he divided attraction with the Falls of Niagara. From Buffalo he went to Philadelphia for a time, but rebelled at the inability of the citizens to appreciate his jokes, and attached himself to the St. Louis Browns, where he made the hit of his career.

In St. Louis he became one of the most famous ball players in the history of the sport. He played third base with rare skill. Sometimes the hot shot got away from him, but Latham, in explaining it, had a habit of informing his friends that they couldn't possibly ask one so good natured to shorten his life and deprive them of his company.

He was one of the best base runners in the big game. There never has been much of a time when he has not been a good base runner. Even when his "props" began to show indications of ossifying Latham could beat some of the kindergarten around the bases.

His career in St. Louis was a grand success. It was a duel of finances between him and "Chris" Von der Ahe. The latter was president and owner of the St. Louis club. During the time that Latham played for him it is conjectured that "Chris" fined "Arlie" not less than $1,000,000.

It is also on record that Latham probably never paid a cent of the fines. Further than that, careful research into the records of the high finance, as they were made in St. Louis in that era, show that while Latham was signed for a yearly contract of about $2,500, he usually managed to get $3,500 out of "Chris" in one way and another before the season was over and that his six years with the St. Louis club probably brought him about $20,000 real money, to which may be added the sum of $1,000,000 in fines never collected, which would make Latham the highest salaried player in the world.

This is put in just to show some of these latter day young "cubs," who think that they are such high priced persons, that they are handicapped fifty yards in one hundred by Latham.

When the Brotherhood "shindy" came on, Latham went to Chicago with Comiskey. He was not so much of a success in that city. The players got an idea that Latham was not wholly in love with the Brotherhood. Nor was he. The only difference between Latham and some of the other Brotherhood members was that he was frank enough to show his disgust at the manner in which things were going, while the others tried to place the blame for their downfall on the shoulders of somebody else.

Latham did not indulge in intoxicants and appear on the field out of condition, blaming the unfortunate owners of baseball clubs for all the evil of the world. He was frank enough to admit that occasionally the players are much at fault.

From Chicago he went to Cincinnati and there remained until his arm lost its strength, and he was compelled to abandon major league baseball for good.

Since then? Well, he has been an umpire—which he says is the only punishment that he has been called upon to endure since he first saw the light of day—has played in minor leagues, has gone about the country looking over young ball players, and handing down expert advice to club owners, and has clerked, and worked, and worked and clerked.

The New York Baseball club, National, desired a man to assist McGraw this spring in teaching young players the art of expert base running. Latham was chosen. That's why he is on the payroll. Incidentally, if he can add to the joy of nations and individuals, by contributing an occasional sally of wit, there is no objection, so far as can be ascertained.

There are many persons in the world more lugubrious than "Arlie" Latham. If he hasn't written a philosophy, he has banished many a care, and there is little difference, after all, in the two occupations.

Clown, dude—for he is rated as one of the smartest dressers of all the professional players—merrymaker, doctor of baseball, versed in all its tricks and subtleties, the worst he will do all the season will be to provoke a laugh now and then and have the weather eye of every umpire turned in his direction for the learned referees know the sharpness of his tongue and are fearful lest a single shingle in the roof of their dignity be disturbed.

"ARLIE" LATHAM.

Grand Final SKI TOURNAMENT

Baptie Defeated.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 13.—Norval Baptie, world's champion professional ice skater, was defeated by Morris Wood of New York last night in the final contests of the indoor meet. In the fifty-yard dash, won by Charles Rankin, the world's record was equaled.

Hockey for Big Stakes.

New York, March 13.—In the first of the two hockey games for a purse of $1,000, the Ottawas of Ottawa, present holders of the world's championship, defeated the Wanderers of Montreal here, yesterday, by a score of 6 to 4.

REVOLVER CONTESTS

Complete Rules for the National Competition to be Held Here.

Some of the Best Shots in Minnesota to be Entered.

The indoor championship revolver matches to be conducted in Duluth under the auspices of the United States Revolver association and more directly under the personal supervision of Col. F. E. Resche, will begin at the armory tomorrow, and will continue every day for a week, unless all the competitors are through shooting before that time.

Considerable local interest has been shown in the event, and numerous inquiries have been received from the range. While Col. Resche will not know until the match actually begins how many contestants there will be, he is of the opinion, from the inquiries made, that the list of participants will be a fairly long one, representing the best revolver shots of Northern Minnesota.

The entrance fee in match A, revolver championship, is $3; in match B, pistol championship, it is $3; and in match F, pocket revolver championship, it is $2. A pocket revolver is defined as a revolver having a maximum weight of two pounds; maximum length of barrel, four inches; minimum trigger pull, four pounds; sights and model must be such as not to hinder quick drawing of the weapon from the pocket or holster.

Match A, revolver championship, is open to everybody; distance, fifty yards; fifty shots on the standard American target, 8-inch bull's eye, 10-ring; arm, any revolver of any caliber; maximum length of barrel, including cylinder, ten inches; minimum trigger pull, two and one-half pounds. Sights may be adjustable, but they must be strictly open, in front of the hammer, and not over ten inches apart.

The prizes for this match will be the championship silver cup, value $200, to be held by the winner until the next annual competition, also a gold medal, value $25, to be held for all time. The second prize is a gold and silver medal; the third, a silver medal; fourth, a silver and bronze medal, and fifth, a bronze medal, all medals to be properly inscribed.

Match B, pistol championship, open to everybody; distance, fifty yards; fifty shots on same kind of target as match A; arm, any pistol of any caliber, with maximum length of barrel ten inches; minimum trigger pull, two pounds; sights subject to same rules as in revolver contest.

The prizes are a $175 championship silver cup, and the second, third, and fourth prizes of gold, silver and bronze medals.

Match C, military championship, open to everybody; distance, fifty yards; fifteen consecutive strings of five shots on the same target as class A; each string must be shot within the time limit of fifteen seconds, taking time from the command to fire; prizes, first, an elaborate $50 silver trophy, to be held by winner until next competition, and four gold, silver and bronze medals.

A bronze honor medal is also awarded to every competitor not a prize winner, making a score of 425 or better in match A; 435 or better in match B, and 500 or better in match C.

"The United States has lost much of the prestige it once enjoyed as a nation of marksmen," said Col. Resche yesterday, in speaking of the match. "We have a few superior shots, but the great majority of our civilians, through lack of incentive and proper facilities, seem to have lost interest in the important art of shooting. It is well known that the efficiency of the firing line in battle depends upon the skill of the individual marksmen. In order, therefore, that citizen soldiery may be effective in the time of need, it is essential that every able-bodied man should know how to shoot.

"On account of the comparative ease in getting suitable and convenient pistol and revolver ranges, and the lessef expense of the practice with these arms, it is much less difficult to interest civilians in pistol shooting than in rifle shooting. Moreover, practice with a pistol or revolver affords training in sighting, steady holding and pulling the trigger, which are also the essential features of rifle shooting. Consequently, anyone who develops into a fair pistol shot, masters the rudiments of rifle shooting as well, and largely increases his usefulness as an American citizen.

"To be a good shot is, therefore, a desirable and valuable accomplishment, while to practice shooting with the pistol and revolver is intensely fascinating and is a wholesome and manly sport."

All But Put Away.

Savannah, Ga., March 13.—Only the ability of Charlie Goldman of Boston to take punishment saved him from a knockout at the hands of Young Britt of Baltimore here last night. At the end of the 15-round battle, Referee Jenkins called it a draw.

A Religious Author's Statement.

Rev. Joseph H. Fesperman, Salisbury, N. C., who is the author of several books, writes: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble, and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment and I passed same frequently day and night. I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the pain gradually abated and finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy." Sold by all druggists.

JEFFRIES STILL FIT

Five Years Make But Few Changes in the Great Pugilist.

New York Writer Tells of the Big Fellow's Condition.

(By Robert Edgren.)

New York, March 13.—Jim Jeffries stripped to fighting costume in his room the other afternoon to let the camera illustrate his exact physical condition.

I slipped a tape measure on Jeff's muscles to be able to compare his measurements today with those of a few years ago. Exact measurements, while they don't tell anything about a man's stamina and the condition of his nerves and stomach, have a certain value, for they show at once what parts of his body are becoming gross or pasting away through lack of hard work.

"You don't need to measure my height," said Jeff. "I haven't grown any shorter. What did I measure that day at Carson when they made us all stand up by the wall?"

"Just six feet and one three-fourths inches," said I. "You and I were the same. Do you remember how sure Corbett was when the first measurement showed him a quarter of an inch shorter, and how he thumped us on the head to make us go down harder on our heels, and then got measured over again himself?"

Jeff chuckled.

Then I put the tape on the big fellow's chest. He was contracting. "Only 44 inches, Jim," I remarked. "You're getting small."

"Huh," grunted the champion, and taking a deep breath, he puffed out until the tape showed an even 49 inches. Then Jeff was satisfied, although he hazarded the opinion that he could add an inch or so after a little road work and deep breathing.

The waist measure showed 38 inches. Jeff lifted his eyebrows when it was announced and patted his stomach regretfully. "I have put on about eighteen pounds since leaving California," he said. "I used to measure about 34. I'll have this off soon."

Jim's left biceps taped an even seventeen inches. His right arm was an inch smaller. Jeff is left handed in the ring. That's why he hits such a terrific punch with that rigid left battering ram of his.

While measuring the right arm I noticed that it didn't straighten out. The elbow had a bend like that in Battling Nelson's famous "crippled" left arm. I asked Jeffries if that bothered him.

"Not at all," exclaimed the giant, pretending to drive his right fist into my ribs. "It makes it all the better for hitting. I've had that bent elbow through my best fights. I hurt it throwing a stone years ago. I could have the tendons stretched out in two weeks so the elbows would straighten. But what's the use when it's better for punching the way it is?"

The big fellow's thigh taped 27½ inches and his calf 17. He is proud of those legs. When I remarked that I didn't notice any change in them, he said: "O, I've been skipping the rope lately. That's all the training I've had. And then I do a lot of hunting in the mountains, and that's great work for the legs. My pins are in good shape now."

His forearm, fourteen inches, was as hard as iron.

Willing To Be Measured.

I noticed that Jeffries had no objection to being measured. He wasn't afraid of what the tape might show.

I've known Jeffries since the days when he was a mere novice. At Carson, in Champion Corbett's training camp, when James was preparing for the fight with Fitzsimmons, I watched Jeff daily. I saw him then, huge and awkward, but wonderfully for his size, send pile driver blows that earned Corbett's respect. I saw him a little later in his first fight with Sailor Sharkey. The sailor was untamed in those days. He always roughed in his fights. He tried to calmly grasp Tom by the shoulders, pushed him back to the ropes and shook him until his teeth rattled. Jeff's strength tamed Sharkey then. Strength was his strong point. I always had an immense admiration for Jeff's powerful muscles. They are huge and thick like the muscles of the Farnese Hercules, and they are long. His biceps extend right to the bend of the elbow. His thigh muscles almost overlap the upper end of the kneecap.

I've seen Jeffries when he had the idea that his legs were too thick, and when he ran scores of miles on the hot roads to make himself thin as possible. He was all stringy bunches then. Later, when he fought his greatest fights, he was more filled out. Even at his best he took on quite a little weight between training periods, so it is nothing surprising that he is four or five inches larger around the waist now than when he fought Bob Fitzsimmons and became champion of the world. He weighed more when beginning work for his last two fights than he does today.

JAMES J. SNIFFS AT $50,000 OFFER

New York, March 13.—"Why only $50,000?" asked James J. Jeffries scornfully yesterday, when told of Hugh McIntosh's proposal to give a $50,000 purse for a Jeffries-Johnson battle.

Jeffries also took exception of the Australian promoter's suggestion that the fight take place in England. "This offer of a $50,000 purse doesn't look very attractive," he said. "How about the $200,000 offers? A syndicate in Seattle, backed by responsible men, had a bona-fide offer of a purse of $150,000 for a contest at the Seattle exposition.

"But it isn't a matter of money with me. All the money in the world wouldn't drag me into the ring if I thought I was going to be licked. If I got into shape and thought I could beat Johnson, I'd fight him for nothing.

"I will never enter the ring again unless I feel sure I have got back to my old fighting form. I shall not fight anyone unless I think I can do myself justice."

FITWELLS IN THE LEAD

Clothing House Bowlers Holding Fast to First Place.

Sam Olson Heads Individual List With Average of 184.

The Fitwells now have a good lead in the city bowling league. The Columbias, Big Duluths and First Nationals are tied for second place. The Centrals are close to them, being only twenty-one points behind, and the General Electrics are at the bottom.

In the individual average list Sam Olsen heads the list, with an average of 184. Miller, Otterson and McDonald are tied for second place, with 183. Hale has 182, Listy 181 and Schultz and Nobis are tied with 180.

The averages in the individual average column are extremely close this month. They begin at 184 and go down a point at a time until they reach the low mark, 155.

The Columbias lead when it comes to team averages. They have an average of 888 and a total of 42,633 pins. The Fitwells are second with 885 and the Big Duluths are third with 874.

"MUGGSY" M'GRAW WANTS RUNNERS

John J. Thinks Fast Men Essential to Winning Ball Team.

New York, March 13.—For three years it has been the openly expressed theory of John J. McGraw that no team should rate itself as a championship contender unless its players could run the bases well and understandingly. Repeatedly he has called the attention of his own men to the manner in which the members of the Chicago team could get around the diamond after they reached first base, and has worked to cultivate speed among those who were inclined to be slow, and expert baserunning among those who could run rapidly.

When Arlie Latham was a member of the famous St. Louis Browns, one of the best baseball nines that ever played on a professional field, he was also one of the most expert base runners in the United States. As a matter of fact, Latham was about ten years ahead of his time in base running, notwithstanding that there were some excellent base runners in the old days.

He knew how to slide to bases in a manner which would make it difficult for the baseman to touch him. That is half the success of some of the most expert base runners in professional baseball. With no more speed than others possess, they not only know how to slide, but they study the position of the baseman whom they are approaching and slide in such a manner as to make it most difficult for him to reach them.

Latham has been engaged by McGraw to act as the fun maker of the team in one sense, in another sense he has been engaged to take hold of the young players, and some of the old ones, too, that they may learn a few things about real base running. McGraw has a larger staff of instructors than the Giants have ever carried before, and it shows with what solicitude he is entering upon the next campaign in the National league.

He believes that he has the material to give New York a winning club, and desires to bring the players back to the city in such condition that the Giants will begin to set the pace from the first game.

DANCING PAVILION MOVED ALONG THE ICE TO ITS NEW SITE ON OATKA BEACH

MOVING THE DANCING PAVILION ON THE ICE.

Snuggled safely among the pines near the end of the car line on Park Point, the old dance pavilion of the Yacht club fits well into its new surroundings.

Immediately after the meeting, at which the members of the Yacht club elected to cast their fortunes in with the members of the Boat club, making one of the largest water clubs in the country, men were at work moving the pavilion along the ice, and it wasn't long before the building was located at its new site. The point to which it was moved is one of the prettiest on the point, and the selection of a place for the building finds much favor among members of the organization.

This makes three dance halls owned and operated by the Boat club, one at the main house, one at Spirit lake, and the one recently moved from the site formerly occupied by the Yacht club to the Oatka branch.

For a part of the summer at least the three halls will be furnished with music. Summer and dancing days are near and the three halls, it is expected, will furnish much enjoyment to those who like to dance.

WILLUS BRITT IS AFTER BIG BOUTS FOR KETCHEL

New York, March 13.—Willus Britt, "the boy bandit," is in town looking for trouble on behalf of the Montana cowboy, Stanley Ketchel.

Willus stole Ketch from another gent while out West and has brought him East to muss things up. Ketchel isn't in New York as yet, having stopped off in Detroit, but Willus can get him to bring him on in a day or so.

"I'm just dying to get O'Brien on with Ketchel," said Willus last night, struggling with a pill the size of a hammer handle, "and the sooner I get things fixed up, the better. I've almost made up my mind to sign for a go in Philly, but think I'll look over these New York clubs, and if they look better I might put him on here.

"Take it from me, that if O'Brien does sign for ten round go you'll see him flattened out on the floor before the limit. There's not a harder hitter in the world than Ketchel, and undecided just where he's going to land.

"Not one of his fellows he ever fought ever came back. Look at Papke, you never hear of him. Thomas is in, the two Sullivans haven't won since, and as for Kelly—well, just watch and see what he does.

"Who, Johnson? Yes, sir! I intend to get Johnson for Coffroth as soon as the champ is ready. Langford? Well, we're going to get him after Johnson, but just now, you see, there is no soap, but just now, you see, there is no good dates open out there. We intend to fight Sam, but not until later in the year.

"Did I see Jeff? Yes, but take it from me, he isn't going to fight for a year. He wants the money on the stage, and after that he might take a chance. He's going around the country picking up some easy coin, but they'll soon get much about Johnson here that Jeffries will have to come out and say whether he's going to fight or not."

"THREE IN ADDITION TO CHICAGO," SAYS CHANCE

(By Frank L. Chance.)

Now as to what we will have to go up against when the flag drops. There are only three btsides ourselves that look good enough to cut any ice in the pennant race, New York, Pittsburg and Philadelphia, and I would put them in that order the way it looks now. The Giants will be in the hunt from the start—stick a pin in that. They will be fully as strong as last year despite the loss of Bresnahan. Schlei is a mighty good catcher, and I don't think they will miss Roger as much as some of the fans think.

McGraw had a little hard luck in pitchers last year, and it is a certainty that he won't be worse off in that department. To my way of thinking Ames will be back in form this year, and that will be a lot of difference.

Every spring there is a lot of foolishness printed about Mathewson not being in good shape, but he will be there as usual. I offered McGraw $50,000 for Matty last year, and I guess he could hold me up for that now, which shows what I think about a pitcher who always has seen his "best season."

It is no need to go into details about the rest of the team. It is a good bunch, all right. We can beat Pittsburg, but, as usual, the Pirates will next year stronger than ever, and with a number of additional teams in the league.

The teams lined up last night as follows:

Bryants.		Northerns.
Addler	lw	S. McCrea
Poissant	r. w.	Taylor
Blaise	c.	McFadyen
Johnson	r.	Caulkins
Olson	c. p.	R. McCrea
Fortune	p.	Holgate
Woods	g.	Feetham

OLD RECORD IS SMASHED

A Brother, Two-Man Team, From Madison Rolls 1,304.

Robert H. Bryson Chosen Head of National Association.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 13.—A world's record broken, the election of a new president and the appointment of a national bowling conference committee, were yesterday's features of the ninth annual international tournament of the American bowling congress, which is on the eve of concluding its second week's session in this city.

To the new president, Robert H. Bryson, postmaster of Indianapolis, credit is due for preliminary steps in an arrangement that will eventually have potent effect in connection with all bowling affairs throughout the world. Elected to the presidency late yesterday afternoon, to succeed August Herrmann of Cincinnati, President Bryson's first official act was the appointment of an international conference committee, which will meet at the Fort Pitt hotel, in this city, this morning at 10 o'clock.

It is the idea of President Bryson to make this bowling committee identical with what the national baseball commission is to baseball. It is planned to abolish the provoking matter of conflicting dates of the various bowling associations, and inaugurate harmony in all organized bowling.

Following is the committee: August Herrman of Cincinnati, chairman; M. A. Phillips, St. Louis; William D. Alexander, Cincinnati; Edward Meyers, Washington; J. W. McCormick, Toledo; E. W. Fraser of Philadelphna, representing the National Bowling association; A. D. Neblett of Marshalltown, Iowa, representing the Middle West Bowling association; W. F. Thomson of Hamilton, Canada, representing the Canadian Bowling association.

With the exception of the appointment of the conference committee, President Bryson proposes nothing new in administering the affairs of the American Bowling congress and will carry out the policy of Former President Hermann.

The former president's decision to retire from the leadership was announced publicly last night. Mr. Hermann expects to be chosen grand exalted ruler of the Elks, and for this reason alone retired from the American Bowling congress However, he says, he will continue to devote much time to the game of bowling and will act in an advisory capacity to the present national officer.

Notwithstanding a couple of alleged unlucky thirteens, together with Friday, Al Schwoegler and Tony Schwoegler of Madison, Wis., early yesterday established new world's records in two men teams. Rolling their game on Friday and on Alley 13, they made the high mark of 1,304, which is 50 points higher than the record of Chalmers and Kiene of Chicago, rolled at the Cincinnati tournament last year. In every respect the match was almost perfect, and it is the general opinion the score will remain topmost for some time to come.

In the individual events, late yesterday afternoon, Larry Sutton of Rochester, N. Y., rolled 691, equalling the high score of F. Buggemann of Sioux City, Iowa, made last Wednesday.

PLAY FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP

Chicago Basket Ball Team May Meet "Pennsy" In Big Series.

Chicago, March 13.—The question of the national intercollegiate basketball championship took on a new aspect last night, when it was announced here that the University of Chicago, winners of the Western title, probably would play the University of Pennsylvania in the big series. The Eastern championship is in dispute, between Pennsylvania and Columbia. Coach Stagg of Chicago wired to Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Brown, Wesleyan and West Point, asking if they would consider that a contest between Pennsylvania and Chicago would decide the national championship. The Chicago team left last night for Minneapolis, where it will play the final game of the season with Minnesota.

The decision of the Eastern authorities probably will be announced from there today.

M'GRAW WILL SELL SEYMOUR

Outfielder Assaults 'Arlie' Latham and Must Quit Giants.

St. Louis, Mo., March 13.—A special to the Post Dispatch from Marlin, Tex., says that "Cy" Seymour, center fielder of the New York National league team, was discharged by Manager McGraw yesterday, following an encounter between Seymour and Arlie Latham, coach of the team. Latham claims that Seymour knocked him down without provocation. The dispatch says that McGraw ordered the fielder to leave the field when the latter appeared for practice.

The special says that Manager McGraw has issued a statement saying that waivers will be asked for Seymour's contract at once, and that he will be sold to some other club. The fight took place in the Arlington hotel, and Latham was prone and being beaten when Manager McGraw heard the disturbance, rushed from his room, and separated the men. When Seymour had been barred from the playing field, he returned to the hotel, packed his trunk and announced his intention of returning to the East at once, according to the dispatch from Marlin.

Seymour met Latham in the hall leading from their rooms to the elevator, knocked him down and then bit him on the cheek, according to the special. McGraw was notified of the affair and immediately discharged Seymour. Seymour would have nothing to say, and Latham says he does not know for what reason he was attacked.

Manager McGraw says that he and Latham had just started for the elevator. Latham was behind and Seymour came up to him. McGraw says he heard Seymour say:

"Why, I'll give you a punch in the jaw."

In a second Latham had been knocked down and Seymour jumped on top of him and bit him.

"I'll fight him at the park," Latham said, as he reached the hotel desk.

"No you won't," replied Mr. McGraw. "Seymour will be barred from the park, as well as the hotel and the club."

"Do you really mean that Seymour is done with the club?" McGraw was asked.

"Well, I'm telling you the facts," replied McGraw, rather hotly. "I am not in the habit of saying things just to hear myself talk. Seymour is done with the New York club, and that goes. It was the worst thing I ever saw pulled off," continued McGraw.

"Nothing like that can go in the New York club."

Seymour donned his uniform and started for the park, but McGraw gave him to understand his orders were positive.

FITZ, DISGUSTED, IS COMING HOME

Former Champion Says Fighting Game is Dead in England.

London, March 13.—Bob Fitzsimmons must return to America or go "broke." When Fitz sailed for this country in December last the old war horse of the prize ring had visions of picking up a wad of long green by meeting Jem Roche, Jack Palmer, Gunner Moir and other third raters before the National Sporting club. In fact, officials of the London club called to the Cornishman before his departure that there would be an excellent chance of "making hay while the sun shines" during his stay on this side of the Atlantic.

Fitz was led to believe that the London club would be willing to guarantee him at least $25,000 for a series of fights, but the former champion was sadly mistaken when he began to talk business with the English sports, according to a recent letter.

Fitz declares that the fighting game is dead in England, and that the highest price the London club would offer for a fight between him and any of the British fighters was $500. Fitz declined these offers and was disgusted with the prospects of getting in the ring while here.

"I am longing for April," says Fitz, "for by that time we will be on our way home to America. I'm through with the fight game, and next summer I expect to devote all my time to farming."

M'GRAW WORKING FOR A GOOD NINE

Marlin Springs, Tex., March 13.—When the Giants take the trail for home, late in March, they will be divided into two sections, as they were in the spring of 1908, the kindergarten playing along one circuit and the regulars on another.

McGraw was almost as proud of his "cub" nine last year as he was of the regulars. They won most of the contests they played, and they handled themselves with such dexterity and assurance that the manager said he could take them and win a minor league championship.

John James is ambitious to send as skilled a team along the road this year, and that is why he is working mornin gand afternoon to whip the newcomers into condition.

Of the young brigade Fletcher and Schaefer seem the fastest. Both can spread over a lot of ground. They are accurate, forceful, and will make fixtures some day in the big leagues if they prove to be reliable batters.

Cocash and Benny Meyers are good outfielders. The latter is a natural ballplayer. He makes things easy by playing the same right.

Heller is heavy and appears to be likely to pick up weight rather than scale it much. He can cloud the ball and is sure enough in the field for the amount of ground that he covers.

Jack Myers, the Indian catcher, is a batting fiend. Robby says it is natural with him and that the Indian will play his part of the game with any team.

If Snodgrass continues to travel as he does in practice, it is certain that he will play his share of the games behind the bat this year. McGraw is confident that he will develop into one of the great catchers of the year, and he seems to be headed that way. He is a better ball player by one hundred per cent than when he reported in the spring of 1908.

Nothing much has been done with the regular pitchers, except to coach Marquard. Robinson has taken him in hand with earnestness and is devoting all the stored up wisdom of ten years to make him a shining star among the the left-handers.

"He has everything that is needed except experience," said Robinson. "No pitcher will have anything on him in speed and he can shoot curves over that Waddell cannot duplicate, and I have seen 'Rube' at his best."

Every youngster will have his place on the "cub" team when McGraw gets all the players here. That nine will be a fixture and will have its own dates and its own practicing hour In the outfield, it is likely to have three of the fastest young men in the United States, if they are not the hardest batters.

McGraw was asked if there was anything to say in regard to the men who have declined to sign contracts for the coming season. "Not just now," replied the manager. "Every effort was made to give every player what was thought to be right for the season of 1909. Some of the players figure that they are worth more than others. If all the men would agree to accept a unifor mrate, Mr. Brush would be glad to pay it, but the players will not consent to a proposition of that kind. I know that it takes nine good men to win a championship, but of these nine there are bound to be three or four who think they are better than the other five, and probably the yare right. The New York Baseball club pays aslaries at the highest notch in baseball. It is the most liberal club in the country in its general treatment of players. More than once it has presented bonuses to the men. Sometimes to all of them, sometimes to part of them. If there is any baseball player on the team who thinks that he should share the profits with the owner without risking a dollar of his own money, I want to know if there is any player who will agree to forfeit any part of his pay if the club happens to run into a streak of ill luck and lose money. That's all. What is sauce for one is sauce for the other, if both are to eat pudding."

WOULD FIGHT ALL IN ONE DAY

San Francisco, March 13.—Battling Nelson, champion of champions among lightweight pugilists, made the following notable statement this morning:

"Just to show the admirers of these English scrappers and as a grand finale to my ring career, I will make a proposition to James W. Coffroth to fight all the champions of England in one day.

"I will never appear in the ring again after the Fourth of July next, but before I retire I want to show the world that an American boxer, and that boxer is myself, can beat all the so-called fighters in England.

"I will fight Freddie Welsh, champion lightweight of England; Jem Driscoll, the English topnotcher; Owen Moran, champion featherweight of England; Jabez White, ex-champion lightweight of England, and Johnny Summers, who recently beat Britt, and fight them all in one day. All I ask is a fifteen-minute intermission between each bout, and maybe I won't need that much in some cases.

"I will let Coffroth pick any two of the fighters I named above, and will fight them for $25,000. I will fight three of them for $30,000, four for $35,000, and after that as many as Coffroth wants for $2,500 apiece."

NORTHERNS WIN FLAG

The Bryants Defeated in Close Game for the Championship.

Final Contest Was the Most Exciting of the Year.

How They Finished.

Club—	W.	L.	Pct.

The hockey season is over and the Northern Juniors have won the pennant.

In the best game of the season, played between the Bryant and Northern teams last night at the Central rink for the championship of the league, the Northern team won out by a score of 3 to 2.

It was a hot game all the way through, and the result was in doubt until the final minute of play. The teams played the best game of the season and during the first half neither had the advantage, no scores being made.

In the second half McFadyen of the Northerns opened things up by shooting a goal. Blaiss of the Bryants followed suit and the score was tied.

Poissant of the Bryant team got another goal and it looked like the Bryants' game. McFadyen scored for the Northerns, however, in the last minute of play and an additional ten minutes was played to decide the game. McFadyen again came to the rescue of his teammates and shoveled a pretty goal through the stakes for the final and deciding score of the game.

The fight for the flag has been a hard one since the beginning of the season. The hockey season is now over and the boys are well pleased with the league idea carried out so successfully during the season. They hope to organize next year stronger than ever, and with a number of additional teams in the league.

DINNER IN HONOR OF "JOSIE" KRICK

Local Men Bid Former Duluth Ball Player Farewell.

Last evening at the Metropole hotel, Herbert Parkhurst entertained at an informal dinner in honor of "Josie" Krick, who leaves today for New Bedford, Mass., where he will play baseball with the team representing that place.

An informal good time was enjoyed by all. After the dinner there were cigars and a number of the men made little talks wishing Mr. Krick success in his new berth and assuring him of their good will.

Among those present were: J. J. Desmond, Joe Maitland, George Barney, Mike Gleason, Joe Kennedy, Newton Randall, Jack McMillan, G. W. Krick, Gus Pollock, J. L. Travers and Sandy McDonald.

JOHN D. BEHIND ANTI-SALOONISTS

Liquor Dealer's President Repeats a Charge Previously Made.

Providence, R. I., March 13.—The charge previously made by men engaged in the liquor traffic, that J. D. Rockefeller is financing the anti-saloon movement, was repeated yesterday by William F. Maines, president of the Rhode Island Retail Liquor Dealers' association in a circular addressed to all retail liquor dealers in New England. The circular invites the dealers to attend a meeting here tomorrow for the purpose of discussing ways and means of meeting the public opposition to the saloon. Mr. Maines says:

"The anti-saloon agitation is largely artificial and is financed by John D. Rockefeller for the purpose of giving the public something to think about that will take its mind off the anti-trust agitation."

Blue and Gray Together.

Fitzgerald, Ga., March 13.—Veterans in gray and veterans in blue marched side by side in parade at the fourth national encampment of veterans of the opposing sides here. Stormy weather did not thin the ranks of the marchers. There was speech-making with Judge O. S. Deming of Warren, Ohio, and Mrs. Doctor Stockton of Chicago on the program.

AUTO SHOW IS OPENED

Minneapolis Has One of Best Exhibits Seen In West.

Nearly All the Well Known Cars Are Shown.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—With a roar of cannon and the clang of opening doors, the second annual Minneapolis automobile show was given its premier at the new armory this afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the first of the many thousands destined to see it during the next seven days passed the gate keepers.

The early comers, and those who followed after, had plenty of excuse for expressing their pleased surprise at the extent and elaborateness of the show as presented to the automobile fancying public by the dealers and distributors of Minneapolis. Entirely filling the main drill floor, except for the broad aisles along which the public may easily find its way about the building, were dozens of booths, tastily done in staff and plaster work, and nicely fitting into the general scheme of decoration, in which were the finest examples of the modern automobile makers' skill and artistry.

There were "American" cars, cars of the "American Locomotive" model, Buick cars, Brush cars, Carter cars, Chalmers Detroit cars, Columbus Electric cars, Firestone cars, Ford cars, Gyroscope cars, Holsman cars, Jackson cars, Kissel cars, Knox cars, Midland cars, Mora cars, Oakland, Overland cars, Packard cars, Pennsylvania cars, Pope-Hartford cars, Pullman cars, Rambler cars, Reo cars, Reo cars, Stearns cars, Stevens-Duryea cars, Thomas cars, Yelle cars, Welch cars, Wolfe cars, and many other cars waiting in state to hold court to the mauling in state to hold court to the mauling in state of devotees to the sport of motoring.

Flyabouts, raceabouts, runabouts, laudaulets, limousines, touring cars, roadsters, runabouts, taxicabs, transfer trucks and half a dozen other styles of cars were on parade, while students of mechanism had stripped chassis shown for their benefit, and there were many high wheeled cars, now coming so much into vogue, on display.

Tonight, and each night during the coming weekcoming week, thousands of electric lights will run in lines from the dome to the balcony pillars, on the top of each of which is a big electric basket, and thousands of other lights will complete the brilliancy of a scene which is worthy of attention were there no record breaking assemblages of motor cars and accessories to make the armory the meeca for thousands.

While the First Field Artillery band and K. A. Kaynor, the Chicago barltone, contributed to the pleasure of those on the main floor and balcony, a neat little vaudeville show was being given in the big hall room on the third floor, singing and dancing acts, acrobatic acts, magic acts and illustrated songs alternating with moving picture reproductions of the sensational Savannah cup races, and throngs came and went as one bill after another was given. Those who were hungry and needed material refreshment, found it to their satisfaction in the basement, where a cafe is ready to serve all customers, afternoon and evening.

The show will be open from 9:30 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. each day next week, with band concerts afternoons and evenings, vaudeville shows afternoon and evening, and special musical features each evening.

DINHAM'S C CLASS RINK IN FINALS

"Bill" Skips B Class Players and Is Defeated.

Will Dinham's B class rink, skipped by himself, was defeated last night at the curling club by his C class rink, skipped by R. D. Bradley, in the semi-finals in the president's event. Dinham and his C class players will meet Walter Hall in the finals, and the event will be wound up.

In the second draw Dinham and his C class players won a very close game over Harry Feetham in the Bagley, Manley-McLennan event, and besides successfully defending their right to the board of trade buttons. The final score was 11 to 9.

Dinham is now C class winner in the Bagley, squad winner in the Manley-McLennan, down to the finals in the president's, and has the board of trade buttons still in his possession.

Ron Smith's A class rink won from Walter Hall in the Manley-McLennan yesterday afternoon. The scores follows:

"The Thief."

"If I were not convinced of the absolute truth of the character of Marie Louise, 'The Thief,' as drawn by Bernstein," says Margaret Wycherly, "I certainly never could play the part. To me there is nothing abnormal about Marie Louise. She is a woman pure and simple, with all a woman's faults if you will, but with all a woman's virtues, too.

"Women certainly owe Bernstein a great debt of gratitude for this fine creation. It is nothing short of marvelous the insight he has into woman's nature. If I did not already know it, after studying the character of Marie Louise, I should feel certain that Bernstein had been reared among gentle, tender women.

"Women psychologically yet sympathetically studied, are presented in Marie Louise. The world has so long accepted Schopenhauer's famous diatribe on women as the last word on her failings and her sphere in the scheme of things, that it is positively refreshing when a man unites to searching powers of analysis, a humanity and kindliness such as Bernstein displays.

"Woman's lot in life surely has been made severe enough by nature without man adding to the burden by hasty and lack-logic judgments. Poor Marie Louise's troubles and misdoing all result from a desire to retain her husband's love. Every woman desires to be attractive in the eyes of some man. The reason of this is the very essence of her nature. I venture to say that no woman ever erred yet but that it was on account of some man. It is idle to condemn the so-called vanity of woman without looking for the cause of it. If woman is vain—in the matter of dress and her personal appearance—you may depend on it, it is because of man.

"Your most inflexible moralist among men likes a pretty face and a smart get-up. Virtue in the home abstract may have great charms for him, but in the concrete he demands a modish investiture for it.

"In her peccadilloes, in those little vanities that are supposed to be inevitable attributes of her sex, woman is no worse than man. Quite as many beaux as belles snatch a hasty glance at the plate glass windows of our great stores; as much time is 'wasted' on the adjustment of cravats as upon the poise of milliner's creations.

"In fact, we are all sinners against the law of humanity; consequently, we should have a little charity for one another. Now this is what I consider Bernstein has done in 'The Thief.' He has not hesitated to expose poor Marie's faults in all their distressing and futile pettiness; yet no cynical tincture is in the picture. Mindful of his own humanity, Bernstein treats Marie humanly, and presents her not as a creature outre or impossible, but a woman, great in love, erring for love, and finding regeneration in the source of that same love."

"The Girls From Berlin."

Corinne in a new musical play "The Girls From Berlin" by John J. McNally comes to the Lyceum theater next Friday and Saturday and Saturday matinee.

Corinne is sure of a hearty welcome as her last appearance here in George Cohan's "45 Minutes From Broadway" was considered one of the treats of the season. "The Girls From Berlin" will give Corinne a character part, a serio comic role, for, while it is a musical play, it tells a consistent story in which the characters actually do something. The Girl is of course the pivot of the play. She comes to New York in response to an advertisement inserted in a German paper in which an heir to a large fortune in America is sought. She lands in America and seeks out the lawyer who has the estate in charge, only to be mistaken for a servant for whom the wife had happened to advertise the same day. Though the mistaken identity is but an an incident, for it is quickly cleared up, it gives the comedy a good start. Lola unable to understand or be understood, makes a laughable figure. The musical features will prove an agreeable part of the performance. In the first act Corinne is to sing her latest song success entitled "Bright Eyes." William Jerome and Jean Schwartz have contributed some of their latest and best lyrics which include the following song hits: "I Think of You the Whole Year Round," "I'd Sooner be a Has-been," "Beneath the Moon," "There's not Another Girlie in the World for Me," "Signs," "Just Home From College," "Poor Little Foolish Man." An excellent cast of comedians and comediennes have been engaged to support Corinne, including: Mark Sullivan, Hazel Carlton, Franklin Vail, Henry Carl Lewis, Lillie May White, Osborn Clemson, Lillian Wilson, Neil McKinley, Pearl Revare, Stephen Stott, Adele frish and an ensemble force said to contain some of the prettiest girls that ever graced a stage. The play is superbly mounted.

"Ben Hur."

"Ben Hur," that enthralling play, with its sumptuous pictures and lovely story, will forever be welcomed as one of the masterpieces of American literature and American drama. The simple announcement that it will be staged at the Lyceum theater on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday evenings, March 22, 23, and 24, and at a matinee on Wednesday, March 24, will attract the widest attention.

"Ben Hur" as a play has often been exploited in these columns. As a romance it is one of might and splendor, which has seemed to gain accumulated strength and glory in dramatization. So masterly is the preservation of the purpose of the work in pictorial magnificence and spiritual fervor, William Young, who made the dramatization, that the original beauties of the theme, so deftly penned by the late Gen. Lew Wallace, are reproduced with wonderful correctness in every detail. And from the religious standpoint, whence the spectacle is more often viewed than any other, "Ben Hur" is a succession of magnificent pictures, which are a form of instruction, regarding the incidents of the time of Christ upon earth. In fact, it is the beautiful religious sentiment which dominates the entire drama that has made it so popular with the thousands of people who do not attend the theater as a rule on account of religious scruples.

Its first presentation in New York marked a distinct advance in a new field, which had hitherto been unexplored. So-called religious dramas had been presented without number, but their lack of success came from the fact that they possessed no inherent dramatic virility. The palpable injection of a religious episode into a play of no human interest, served neither to elevate the drama nor to hold the attention of the public. For many years actors, managers and dramatists looked longingly at the novel, "Ben Hur." Lawrence Barrett and others of equal prominence presented the subject for dramatization to Gen. Wallace, but he resolutely set his face against any stage presentation, until Klaw & Erlanger won him over. Gen. Wallace was unable to understand how a proper and impressive presentation of the appearance of the Star of Bethlehem to the Wise Men could be made within the limited confines of a modern stage. Klaw & Erlanger exhibited an electric device, whereby a star is first seen about as big as a glow-worm on a summer's night, gradually increasing in intensity until it develops 25,000 candle power, with rays extending a distance of sixteen feet. The representation of the famous chariot race was next taken up. It was necessary to show the contesting horses running at top speed, as well as a representation of thousands of excited spectators in the circus at Antioch, and the smashing of the wheel of Messala's chariot, as described in his book. Solving the chariot race problem, Klaw & Erlanger then submitted a plan of action, whereby the presence of the Divinity would be suggested only by a peculiar light of purest white flashing across the scene and resting on the faces of the assembled worshippers. This instantly dissolved the fast of Gen. Wallace's objections, and it has proved to be the most powerful and convincing stage picture of all dramas.

"Ben Hur" is now in its tenth season, and from the manner in which it is being patronized, bids fair to remain the leading offering of the American stage for many years to come.

Seats for the engagement announced at the Lyceum theater will be placed on sale next Thursday, March 18, and 250 school children will be the guests of The Herald at the opening performance.

CHARLES DALTON AND MARGARET WYCHERLY,
In a Scene From "The Thief."

Lyceum Notes.

"Brewster's Millions" is announced for presentation at the Lyceum on March 25, 26 and 27.

The play is a mixture of farce and melodrama. Those who have read the story know the plot and can readily understand its claim to popularity. The book has been followed very closely in the main incidents, but it was necessary to depart from the story in one or two minor particulars to preserve the dramatic unities.

The feature of the play is the yacht scene and the storm at sea in the third act. This is said to be one of the finest mechanical and electrical stage spectacles ever produced.

Robert Ober will be seen in the role of "Monty" Brewster, supported by the following well known people: Carl Gerard, George Crossette, Franklin George, Norman McDonald, George Harcourt, John Alden, Gene Foxcroft, Daniel Fager, Charles H. Crosby, Gus Christie, Nat Royster, Frank Hughes, Jack Barns, Roger L. McAndrew, June Mathis, Katharine Ray, Charlotte Lambert, Marie Horton, Elizabeth Van Sell and Viola Grant.

Manager Marshall of the Lyceum announces that arrangements have been completed with Mort H. Singer, whereby the music play, "A Stubborn Cinderella, will be produced here.

This is the same attraction that has been produced over 465 times at the Priess theater in Chicago, holding several records—the record for having "sold out" for more performances than any other attraction ever produced in Chicago; the world's record inasmuch as every seat for every performance was sold out twenty days in advance. The company is headed by the well known comedian Homer B. Mason.

"The Wolf," a drama of the Canadian woods, which will be presented at the Lyceum soon is from the pen of Eugene Walter, a newspaper man, virtually unknown to the play-going public before the middle of last season, when his "Paid in Full" was produced. In "The Wolf," he is said to have registered his second undoubted success as a writer for the stage. Like "Paid in Full" this romance of the simple woodsman of the Hudson Bay country, holds its audience closely to the end.

At the Bijou.

One of the biggest features offered at the Bijou this season will be Dr. Carl Herman, "The Electric King, and Cripple's Friend." Dr. Herman is considered one of the greatest exponents of the wonders of electricity the country has ever seen.

Some of the features of his act are the electrified man, the electric sword dance, the electric chair, the man plays with the deadly current like a child plays with its toys, and has been named, "The British Edison, the Electric Wizard of the North." His act causes screams of laughter from start to finish, and is one of the best and most costly acts Manager Maitland has ever put on.

The return of Cal Stewart, who was a big favorite at the Bijou two years ago, with his original stories o fcountry life will be another feature. He is the original Uncle Josh of the down east plays, and his act this year comprises all new songs and stories.

An excellent novelty will be "Cowboy Williams," a sensational juggler, who was a feature of the Ringlings' circus the past season. Williams juggles wagon wheels, guns, battle axes, spears, etc., featuring the catching of cannon balls upon the back of his neck.

A good singing and piano act will be presented by Dick Richards and Mildred Grorer. Both are musical comedy favorites, and have a very good vaudeville offering.

As an added feature Williams and Walkers' "Chocolate Drops," will introduce twenty-five minutes of real up-to-date musical comedy, by six talented artists, headed by the well known comedians, King and Bailey.

Isadore Silver will sing the newest illustrated song hit, entitled, "Its Always Nice Weather Indoors."

The moving pictures will be Edison's best subjects. Matinees are given daily at 2:45 and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by telephone. A school children's matinee will be given at 2:30 and performances Sunday afternoon and night.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

"THE RICHEST GIRL" A FEEBLE COMEDY—MISS KIDDER'S TRIUMPH IN "A WOMAN OF IMPULSE" —THE MIXED SUCCESS OF "MEYER & SON."

NEW YORK, March 13.—"Dixey and "Mary Jane's Pa" have gone, and in their place at the Garden we have "Meyer & Co." William Gillette has gone hence after playing "Samson" for many weeks at the Criterion, and his memory is being supplanted by little Marie Doro in "The Richest Girl," The Herald Square theater has risen improved from its recent visitation of fire, and Kathryn Kidder is there in "A Woman of Impulse," and thus the whirligig of time, etc.

Neither of these three, I seriously apprehend, will long bask in the electric glare of the Great White Way. There is not a knock-out success among them, and the critical fraternity was exceedingly "busy" sharpening pencils and whetting their scalpels all of Tuesday. Yet you can't always tell by this. "The Lion and the Mouse," "The Belle of New York," "Florodora," and others too numerous to mention, attracted the public to the box office in spite of what the critics had to say in derogation of these eminently successful theatrical offerings.

One calls "The Richest Girl" a papier mache Ollendorf comedy. She is the daughter of the chocolate king of Paris and her name is Benjamine Monmaye. As MM. Paul Gavault and Michael Morton have set her on the stage, she is a sort of compound of eau sucree and chocolate cream, and apt to give you indigestion. Paul Gavault wrote that interesting and lively piece, "My Wife," which John Drew played last year, and which thrust Miss Billee Burke forward into stellar distinction. But apparently he has been unable to duplicate the success of that comedy, and has not done so well by Miss Doro as he did for Miss Burke, for Michael Morton, after all, is only an incident to the authorship. But Mr. Frohman knows his public well enough to be able to rely for some time on the spell which personal beauty in Miss Doro's case exercises on the rank and file of people who may be generalized under the title of a "following," and by the time they cease coming he will have a new comedy ready for her. Of course, Miss Doro is charming, and does what in her lies to redeem the cloying sweetness of this rather feeble French parlor comedy from proving indigestible.

The Herald Square play served to bring back to the stage, after a considerable absence, Katheryn Kidder, who proved so engaging a personality in the American production of "Madame Sans Gene." About four years ago she came out in a play called "The Embarrassment of Riches." That play was written by Louis Anspacher, and it was Mr. Anspacher again who wrote "A Woman of Impulse," her present venture.

Mr. Anspacher is well known in academic circles as a lecturer on aesthetic subjects, has a great following among academy people and the friends of Columbia university, and incidentally is Miss Kidder's husband. He is still young, the opening night of his latest play falling coincident with his thirty-first birthday. His standing among the learned served to fill the theater with a select audience, which included the brightest members of the litterati down to the humbless rushlight of a magazine writer or department editor. It started out with every prospect of becoming a gala event, but before the evening was over, settled down to a personal triumph for Miss Kidder. And that is about the best that can be said in connection with the play.

It is intended to show the incompatibility of the relationship of a professional woman—in this case a noted prima donna—with a man who rebels against the odium of being considered merely a tail to his wife's kite. It is a fitting subject in a maze of attenuated theatricalisms, and the press is unanimous in its unfriendly attitude toward the production.

The husband grows jealous of his cousin, an unconscionable rake and woman-hunter. After a rebuff from the prima donna, known as La Vecci, the gayLothario forces himself into the sleeping room where her sister is writing a letter late at night, and is first stabbed by the girl with a jeweled dagger and immediately after knocked to the ground by the jealous husband. The villain is killed, but the husband rests under the belief that the unconsciousb form of the girl on the bed is his wife, and thinks he has avenged his honor on his wife's paramour. There is a long inquiry by the coroner, who ultimately establishes the truth. Both the husband and the sister believe themselves guilty of manslaughter, and to add to the confusion, La Vecci, in order to protect her idolized sister from the consequences of her act, declares she killed the man. It is a terrible muddle, and when the truth comes out that the responsibility is divided between the husband and the sister La Vecci refuses to forgive her husband for doubting her virtue. Another act is tagged on to show the reconciliation.

It provided a good role for Miss Kidder and she played with all her old spirit and scored a decided hit. She looks as young as the first night I saw her in the first English performance of "Sans Gene," at Albaugh's Opera house in Washington, a dozen years ago, and the splendid gowns she wears in the piece added mightily to her attractiveness. She demonstrated that she is one of the best actresses we have, but it did not avail in saving the play.

The third offering of the week is "Meyer & Son," which was produced at the Garden theater. It deals with the intermarriage of Jew and Gentile, which has been extensively canvassed here of late by eminent divines on both sides of the question. But we think it was Augustus Thomas who inspired the present tendency to discuss this subject in dramatic form. He declared at an afternoon function some time the magnitude of the Divine Sarah, and many of less significance, prefer only such roles as present them physically attractively as well as mentally brilliant. It is also said that Mme. Bernhardt was quite anxious to assume the late Coquelin's place in Rostand's new poetic drama, "The Chanticleer," the role being that of a barnyard rooster.

There is nothing that succeeds like success. Eugene Walter's first big hit, "Paid in Full," is to be given a European hearing. It has been translated into Dutch and is to be presented in the Rembrandt theater in Amsterdam early in May.

The American tour of the delightful Vienese operetta, "A Waltz Dream," came to an end in Boston last Saturday night. This operetta, the musical score of which is by far the best to be produced in this country for many years, suffered chiefly at the hands of its American adapters. Their interpolations and the changes came nearly spoiling the work, which, in spite of this handicap, proved a very enjoyable production.

A new theatrical partnership has been formed by William Norris and A. G. Delamater. Norris is well known as an actor, and is at present a member of Hattis William's company. Delamater is very much in evidence these days as the producer of "Graustark."

The principal mission of the new firm is to produce Robert M. Baker's dramatic version of George Barr McCutcheon's "Beverly of Graustark." Norris is participating in the project merely as a capitalist, for he will not act a role in the play. A spring production and a tour of the first-class houses are contemplated. The dramatization of "Graustark" has made a good-sized fortune for Delamater. When it was first made into play form it was refused by practically every manager. Delamater then took it up, made it a popular attraction and has three companies now presenting it in various parts of the country.

Percy Haswell, formerly the leading lady with Otis Skinner in "The Honor of the Family," has been engaged by Liebler & Co. for the principal female role in "Foreign Exchange," a new play by Booth Tarkington and Leon Wilson, which is to be one of next season's early productions. H. B. Warner is to be the leading man in the same piece.

Charles Frohman has cabled from London engaging Miss Valli Valli for the title role of the musical comedy, "The Dollar Princess," the present European musical success, which he will produce in New York next season. Miss Valli Valli is now playing the part of Lady Binfield with G. P. Huntley in "Kitty Grey" at the New Amsterdam theater. Her selection is in recognition of the success she has made in this role.

William Morris has signed a contract with Annette Kellermann, the diver and long-distance swimmer, at a reported salary of $1,500 a week. Reports from abroad say that Henry W. Savage will produce in London "La Femme X," Bisson's powerful French play, before it is seen in New York. It is also reported that Mr. Savage has engaged Mrs. Patrick Campbell for the title role. "La Femme X" is the dramatic sensation of the year at the Porte St. Martin theatre in Paris, and, strangely enough, has duplicated its success in Berlin.

Americans returning from the continent predict that "La Femme X" will be another sensation when it reaches this country. It has furnished Mme. Jane Hading perhaps her greatest emotional part and one in which she is thrilling her audiences as no other continental actress is able to do. Her powerful actress of the leading role is described as being so realistic that it caused a tragic interruption of the drama at a recent matinee performance. A man of 74, named Letang, sitting in the third row of the stalls, suddenly sprang to his feet. He was very much excited by the play and shouted to the judge in the trial scene that the prisoner (Mme. Jane Hading) was fainting and ought to be allowed to leave the court. "You are torturing an unfortunate woman," he shouted, and as he said the words he broke a blood vessel and fell dead in theater.

The trial scene is near the close of the play, and is the sensational scene that has given the play so much free advertising. Any actress playing "La Femme X" has her work cut out for her. At one part of the play Madam X is a beautiful young woman of twenty, but shortly thereafter she must appear a woman of forty-five, able to picture the tragic agonies of a lifetime, all within the brief space of a few minutes. Mr. Savage has not announced who will play the part in America.

The story of "The Love Cure," which Oliver Herford has adapted from Leo Stein's interesting libretto, is described as being right up to tht minute. It tells about an infatuated youth and a prima donna, and the methods employed by the boy's family to cure him. In the end love is cured, but not exactly as the plotters hoped it would be. Edmund Eysler's music is of the modern Vienese school, with melodies that charm the ear and stirring concerted numbers that cause every tingling nerve to vibrate in tuneful sympathy. But you must wait until Henry W. Savage produces the operetta in September before realizing all the beauties of the work.

A Louisville editor asks if the charming girls of that favored city are lacking in a sense of humor, illustrating his point with the following:

"The other evening at the performance of "The Merry Widow" there was a young girl who was with her mother. This girl didn't overlook a chance to tell her apparently feeble-minded parent just why and how when everything happened, and what the true inwardness of every remark was.

At one time a character on the stage said, "I wonder if that's her real name, or only a pomme de terre?

Raising her voice so that all in the immediate vicinity might take advantage of the opportunity to absorb a little wisdom, the busy little information bureau remarked distinctly, ("Pomme de terre,") that means potato, mother. He means 'nom de guerre.' What ignorance!"

E. A. McFarland, manager of "The Lion and the Mouse," Company C, is having the time of his life out in the tall timbers adjacent to the alfalfa country, as is evident by the following letter he sent in to Henry B. Harris:

"The show, as you can see from the enclosed box-office statements, is doing a big business. The monotony of playing an uninterrupted series of one-night stands is being varied by a few humorous incidents that I have met with. A sample of them I am herewith inditing.

"Yesterday we played Frankfort, Ind. I was on the front door taking tickets, and a fellow presented himself for free admission, with nothing to show 'cause' except his statement that he was the 'bellman.' I asked him where the bell-man came in. 'Well,' said he, 'next door to this opera house we have a tower with a very large bell, and at 9 o'clock I ring the curfew. If I get in the show free I am going to give the bell a couple of light taps. If I don't get in free, I ring it like —— for fifteen minutes, and it generally breaks up the show for a while.' I made inquiry from the local manager, and he assured me it was a fact, so rather than have the audience disturbed during our second act, I passed the fellow in.

"The other night at Paducah, Ky., while in conversation with the treasurer of the theater, I was told of two old ladies on their way home from church the Sunday previous, who were admiring our 24-sheet stand, which shows a large lion intangled in a net and a mouse gnawing at the strings. One of the old ladies remarked: 'I want to see that show dreadfully bad; I am not afraid of lions, but if I go they will have to tie up that mouse.'

"When we arrived at Olney, Ill., there were between 200 and 300 men and boys down at the depot. They crowded around our baggage car to see the animals unloaded. When all our scenery had been taken out without any visible sign of the car containing a menagerie, one of them spoke up and asked me what section would the animals come in on."

Robert Edeson, who is appearing in "The Call of the North," is heavily interested in a company that is about to put on the market a motor-cycle guaranteed to be absolutely noiseless.

John Flood, who is appearing in Chares Klein's play, "The Third Degree," finds his greatest enjoyment in adding to his wonderful collection of butterflies through correspondents located in all parts of the world.

• • •

Elsie Ferguson, who is appearing as Beth Elliott in James Forbes' comedy, "The Traveling Salesman," at the Gaiety theater, New York, has grand opera aspirations and with that aim in view is studying under a noted master in voice culture.

Elmer B. Harris, the author of "Sham," Henrietta Crossman's new vehicle, sailed for Europe on Feb. 25, and while there will complete a new play for Henry B. Harris.

Baltimore opened the closet door and brought out the skeleton of Robert E. Graham's past during the "Merry Widow's" recent visit to his native city. As Baron Popoff he is one of the liveliest figures in the fascinating operetta, yet his biographer digs up a past extending back to and before the palmy days. They say he began as call boy, when 11 years old, at the old Holliday Street theater. Soon he was playing boy's parts and was captain of supers. By the time he was 17, he was a full fledged stock actor of considerable reputation. His first great opportunity came when the famous Munrdoch failed to appear one night in Maggie Mitchell's production of "The Pearl of Savoy," and young Graham had the chance to establish himself solidly by his tremendous hit. He went on from success to success, being leading man for the great stars of that generation, and playing in the stock companies which were then so popular. He was associated with Dion Boucicault in "The Shaugran," with Alice Oates and with Roland Reed, and in 1880 took California by storm with his versatile work in repertoire.

At the request of a member of the faculty of the Women's College of Brown university, Harrison Grey Fiske has permitted the use of the opening chorus of "Sappho and Phaon" for a Greek college song.

In the letter proffering the request, the writer emphasized recollection of the production of Percy Mackaye's poetic drama, which she characterized as "a wonderfully beautiful and finished performance," and the charm of the song as rendered in the play appealed to suggest its use as noted.

Mr Fiske forwarded a copy of the song which was followed by a letter of thanks, of which this is a part:

"My Dear Mr. Fiske: All the students who have heard of your generosity in permitting the Woman's College to use the Greek chorus have expressed their delight and gratitude. As yet it has not been decided how to present it first to the college at large. We want it to begin its career appropriately as a new feature of one of our college customs, but, however, we introduce it, we feel confident that it will be a brilliant success."

Walter Hackett who, with F. Marion Crawford, is the author of "The White Sister," Viola Allen's new vehicle, has returned from Chicago, where Miss Allen is now filling an engagement. He has this to say: "Miss Allen has scored a splendid hit as the Dominician nun in 'The White Sister,' and is doing a land office business in Chicago, where she is likely to stay for a long time to come. The story of the play is based upon the problem whether a nun should forego her religious vows to marry the man she loved before assuming those vows. We have treated this problem from the standpoint that is delicate and subtle and worthy the attention of the religious orders. Miss Allen and William Farnum are giving a remarkable performance of the two leading characters."

Just now Liebler & Co. are devoting all their energies to the forthcoming production in Chicago of "The Head of the House," a new comedy in which they are to exploit Ada Lewis as a star. Miss Lewis, who is a clever comedienne, has long been a favorite in this city, and her debut as a twinkler will be of interest to her many admirers here. She is to have the assistance of a specially selected company, which will include several prominent actors and actresses. This firm is also busily preparing for a revival of "Cameo Kirby," in which Dustin Farnum will have the role played by Nat Goodwin until that actor and his manager parted company. Mr. Farnum's supporting cast will be practically a new one.

From all accounts Bertha Kalish has scored heavily in her new vehicle, "The Unbroken Road," which Thomas Dickinson, a well known college professor, is the author. The play deals with the possible complications of politics, which are used as a basis of certain social ideals. Its story tells of an unhappy woman who in an effort to regenerate herself involves other personalities with dramatic results. The role of Eva Fellanova, played by Mme. Kalilsh, is a typical American woman with a strong emotional temperament. The play, which is optimistic, has a happy ending. Manager Harrison Grey Fiske has surrounded his star with an excellent company which includes Frederick Truesdale, Eugene Ormonde, Thomas H. Coleman, Florine Arnold, Blanche Weaver and Merle Maddern. Mme. Kalish and her new play will probably be seen here late in the present season.

Monday night was announced as "Gamble night" at the Circle theater, where "The Queen of the Moulin Rouge," with a fat and wheezy young woman in flesh-colored tights as the Queen, is on view. A look over the audience disclosed Pat Sheedy in a box, with many well known sporting men, short-card men, and a few "second story" artists, in the best seats. Every one of them was accompanied by a lady(?) They seemed most interested in the raid on the house with the green shutters, but did not applaud so one could notice it.

Carlotta Nillson in "This Woman and This Man," is filling the Maxine Elliott theater nightly. The play is not the best ever, but it has several appealing moments in which Miss Nillson does some remarkably convincing acting.

• • •

"A Woman's Way," which Grace George is presenting at the Hackett theater, is a comedy in which a woman wins back a flirtatious husband. The play is extremely amusing without being a farce; moreover, there is not a risque or vulgar incident from first to last. As Marion Stanton, Miss George is charming. She acts with intelligence and is altogether an attractive figure. Frank Worthing, as the wayward husband, lends valuable assistance to the star.

When bill collectors, borrowers and other bores rap upon William Pruette's dressing room door a trim, brisk young woman opens it.

"Beg-b-b-eg, pardon," stammered the intruder, "I would like—is Mr. Pruette in?"

"No, is there anything I can do?"

"I should like to see his dresses."

"I'm his dresser."

"You?" Are there female valets? Ha, ha, ha! Ho! ho!"

"I am Mrs. Pruette."

"I beg your pardon."

"Certainly."

When the man who "wants what he wants when he wants it" arrives he explaines that Mrs. Pruette's skilled labor makes the services of any mere male dresser a botch and an offense. "She always makes me up," he says. "If I were to lose her I would have to leave the stage."

Of equal dependence upon wifely assistance is that subcellar basso, Eugene Cowles. His wife it is who paints his cheeks and tints his brows and gives to his eyes the mild Southern expression with which he languishes at Marie Cahill in "The Boys and Betty."

Austin Strong says that while he was in London he paid a visit to J. M. Barrie. On his way he passed through Kensington gardens, where Peter Pan happened. As the writer of rare whimsies bade him welcome, Mr. Strong said:

"Mr. Barrie, on my way here I met a duck. He was swimming around in the pond, and I spoke to him. I said, 'Do you know Wendy?' He said, 'I never heard of Wendy.' I said, 'Do you know Hook, the pirate?' He said, 'I never heard of Hook, the pirate.' I went through the whole category of Peter Pan worthies, and that duck doesn't know one of them." Mr. Barrie listened with eyes of owlish wideness and innocent gravity. When Mr. Strong finished he asked, "Was it a duck with a red bill?"

During her present season at the Empire theater in "What Every Woman Knows," Miss Maude Adams has broken all records for the theater and even all records made during the wonderful career of "Peter Pan," when the Barrie fantasy was played during its first year at this theater. The only fly in the amber of this year's success, to Miss Adam's way of thinging, is the fact that "dear Peter has at last been beaten."

Billy Lytell has written sketches of every conceivable sort and for every known variety of artist, but he hesitated this week when Adgie called upon him to provide a vehicle for her troupe of lions. Adgie has a special set of scenery, and the lions and Bill are to work out the rest of a sketch. He accepted the commission with the proviso that he should not be called upon to rehearse the act.

E. H. Sothern carries with him this season the largest dramatic organization touring the country. In point of numbers and prominence of the different artists, it is by far the most important supporting company that the great artist has ever had. Three baggage cars are required to carry the elaborate scenic effects of the four big productions the great actor is presenting.

• • •

E. H. Sothern has made even a more elaborate production of "Hamlet" than when he produced it last. During his recent Shakespearean season in London, with Julia Marlowe, English critics pronounced Sothern's Hamlet to be the finest rendition of the character seen in the British metropolis in recent years. Mr. Sothern has made Hamlet the beloved work of his life, and at each performance it is noted that he adds to his portrayal until it is now generally looked upon as the greatest masterpiece of acting which the American stage can now point to.

Clyde Fitch named the central character in his new comedy, "The Bachelor," in which Charles Cherry is to be seen for the first time as a star, George Goodale, in honor of the oldest dramatic critic in America. Mr. Goodale is still occupying that post on the Detroit Free Press.

Miss Maxine Elliott will sail on the Mauretania on March 17, in order to fulfill her engagement in London with Lewis Waller at the Lyric theater. Miss Elliott will appear as the duchess in Miss Constance Fletcher's play, "1801," the rehearsals for which are already in progress.

Messrs. Shubert announce that, beginning about Sept. 1, Miss Julia Marlowe, the distinguished actress, will make her first tour of South America under their direction. This is not only the first time that Miss Marlowe has toured South America, but it is also the first time that any of the great New York managers have booked an entire South American route for a star. The few Americans who have played in South American cities have heretofore done so under the auspices of various Spanish-American impresarios.

Herbert Corthell, who is playing Bob Blake with the touring company of James Forbes' comedy, "The Traveling Salesman," was born in Massachusetts, playing his first engagements with stock companies touring New England. His first New York engagement was with the Proctor stock company, at the Fifth Avenue theater, 1900. His first big New York hit was with Robert Edeson, playing Billy Saunders, in "Strongheart."

An offer made Eva Tanguay to play in vaudeville for this season and next is said to have left it at Miss Tanguay's discretion to name her own terms and time. It was reported that the United Booking office had placed $2,500 weekly as Miss Tanguay's salary for next season, that being the reported amount of Morris' first offer. Miss Tanguay leaves for Europe in May or June, and has had an offer to appear in the big London halls.

The three beautiful scenic acts for the next Viennese operetta, to be heard in America, "The Love Cure," have just been given their finishing touches by Walter Burridge in Henry W. Savage's New York studios, and are now awaiting Mr. Savage's "O. K." on his return from abroad. "The Love Cure" will have its first American performance in September. The libretto is the work of "Merry Widow" fame, and the music by Leo Fall of Vienna.

It's not enough to conduct "the best boarding house on the street;" but you must use an "endless chain" of want ads.

STOCK ISSUED UPON NOTES

Shattuck and Denn Minority Stockholders Make Pointed Inquiries at the Annual Meetings—Old Directors and Officers Are Re-elected.

Bisbee, Ariz., March 13.—The annual meetings of the Shattuck-Arizona and Denn-Arizona Mining companies resulted in but little of the expected sensation. It was brought out, however, that several of the largest stockholders of the company are retaining their holdings by virtue of notes issued in lieu of the cash which should have been paid for the stock. The minority stockholders, through their attorney, George Neale, brought this fact out at the Shattuck meeting, and Dr. Shine performed the same office at the Denn gathering.

In each case the contestants retired satisfied, as the directorate promised that this was a feature which would be given attention in their annual report. The names of the stockholders and the amount they owe will be published.

Save for these disclosures the meeting ran smoothly from start to finish, all the directors and officers serving last year being re-elected without opposition.

Those who will serve as directors in the Shattuck company are: Thomas Bardon, A. Guthrie, A. M. Chisholm, M. Pattison and L. C. Shattuck. The officers chosen are: Thomas Bardon, president; A. Guthrie, vice president; A. M. Chisholm, secretary-treasurer.

The Denn-Arizona directors are all of those named above with the addition of Morris Denn and B. M. Pattison. The officers are: Martin Pattison, president; Thomas Bardon, vice president; L. C. Shattuck, treasurer; John G. Williams, attorney and secretary.

The meetings were held at the Miners' & Merchants' bank. About twenty stockholders were in attendance. The business meeting of the Shattuck stockholders was featured by Neale asking some pointed questions as to the issue of stock by the company made a few years ago, when 100,000 shares were put out at $10 a share. He queried as to whether these shares had been paid for in cash or by note. It was admitted that a portion of the issue had been covered by note, and it was agreed that the annual report of the company should contain the information as to who had the stock under these conditions.

The same questions asked by Dr. F. E. Shine elicited from the directors of the Denn company the fact that the same men who had given notes to the Shattuck people owed the Denn.

Those from out of Bisbee attending the meeting were: A. Guthrie, St. Paul, Minn.; John G. Williams, A. M. Chisholm, Norman E. Lamond, Duluth, Minn.; Thomas Bardon, Ashland, Wis., and L. W. Hill, St. Paul.

DALY-WEST ANNUAL REPORT

Surplus to be Distributed as Dividends---Option Given on Colorado Company and Tintic Smelting Company by Jesse Knight.

Salt Lake, Utah, March 13.—After a struggle for proxies lasting several months, the annual meeting of the Daly-West Mining company, held in Denver, resulted in the re-election of the men in control of the property. The directors are J. E. Bamberger, F. J. Hagenbarth, H. G. McMillan, W. H. Dickson and W. S. McCornick. At the meeting a resolution was adopted providing for the distribution of the surplus as dividends. The annual report, which was not presented, has since been given out. It shows: Receipts—Cash on hand, Jan. 1, 1908, $305,067.31; sales of crude ore, $225,789.69; sales of concentrates, $150,624.25; miscellaneous, $2,388.85. Disbursements: Mine account, $225,639.72; mill account, $38,728.87; assay office and ore expense account, $20,162.95; general expenses, $30,572.10; Ontario drain tunnel expense, $37,364.66; advance to Ontario company, $1,236.72. Total, $372,373.31. Cash on hand, Jan. 1, 1909, $311,484.79.

The annual report of the Daly Judge company shows a balance on hand Dec 31, 1908, of $131,997.36. During the year the total receipts from all classes of ore amounted to $285,570.31, of which $14,166.96 came from zinc middlings. Development and dead work for the year exclusive of prospecting in ore amounted to 4,833 feet. The amount of ore mined was 50,536 tons of milling and 1,269 tons of shipping grade.

A thirty-days' option has been given on the Colorado Mining company, largely owned by Jesse Knight, and on the Tintic Smelting company, also controlled by him. While the indications are that the United States Smelting, Refining & Mining company holds the option, some hold the opinion that the Cole-Ryan syndicate, organized as the International Smelting & Refining company, is the prospective purchaser.

The first car of ore from the Homerine Extension at Stockton, has come to market. It assayed 25 per cent lead, 18.5 ounces silver and 60 cents in gold to the ton. The ore was taken out while running eighty feet through the ore body on the 800-foot level. The drift is entirely in ore and has been for the entire distance. The top and bottom as well as the sides of the avenue are all ore. A second car of the same quality is on the way, while sixty tons of second-class ore is being worked through the jigging plant.

A new ore body, three feet of which assays 117 ounces silver, $9.60 gold and 10 per cent lead, has been found in the Lion Hill Consolidated at Ophir.

Six feet of steel galena has been struck in the Butler Liberal claim of the North Utah company at Bingham.

A complete overhauling and remodeling of the Cactus mill of the Newhouse Mines company in Beaver county is in progress. One half of the mill has been closed to permit the necessary alterations, which will increase the capacity to 1,000 to 1,200 tons daily.

GROUP BOUGHT AT BIG PRICE

Fourteen Claims in Desert Canyon in Yuma County, Arizona, Sold by Calcite Copper Company to an Eastern Syndicate.

Prescott, Ariz., March 13.—Fourteen claims, situated in Desert canyon, between Granite wash and the south end of the Harcuvar mountains, in the northern part of Yuma county, and sixty miles west of Wickenburg, on the A. & C. railroad, have been sold under a working bond for $300,000 by the Calcite Copper company to an Eastern syndicate, which will begin the sinking of four shafts in a short time. The property is one of the most promising in the very rich mining district on the C. & A. and is located only two miles from the track. The claims were originally located by Judge Stillwell in 1896, while on his way to examine another property in the same region. However, the Calcite group attracted his attention, as it has a number of mining experts. For years the property was crossed by freighting teams from Prescott and Khrenberg, and it was prospected and abandoned.

About a year ago, the Calcite company was organized by Judge Stillwell, Thomas Finnegan and Charles McDonald. There is now one shaft 120 feet deep, another 35 feet in iron sulphide, and two other shafts with a showing of gold and copper. In the deep working at 55 feet, good copper ore was found and the shaft is now in sulphides, cutting the formation at an angle of 45 degs.

On the claims is a zone of quartz and iron sulphides 600 feet wide and 6,000 feet long, with a quartzite foot wall and a porphyry hanging wall.

The property was examined by George A. Lonsbery and George Kislingbury of Los Angeles, both mining experts. The report was very satisfactory to the Eastern parties, who have taken the property over and will do extensive development work. Judge Stillwell is rather gratified that the ground has proved to have a valuable copper deposit, for it means not only a good buy for the stockholders of the Calcite company, but bears out his first conclusions that it had the making of a mine when others were passing it up. Judge Stillwell returned a few days ago from the property, accompanied by the interested parties.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Company Formed Entirely of Italians to Operate Property Adjoining the Monarch---The Dakota-Calumet Mine is Again Active.

Deadwood, S. D., March 13.—For the first time in the history of the Black Hills a company, composed entirely of Italians, has been formed to operate. It is the Cristoforo Colombo Gold Mining company and is organized by some of the best known and most influential Italians in Lead, Portland and Central City. The directors are Victor Vigna A. R. Rizzuto, John B. Vigna, Martin Marchiano and Bart Trucano. The officers are: Victor Vigna, president; A. R. Rizzuto, vice president; Bart Trucano, treasurer, and Martin Marchiano, secretary. Practically all of those interested in the new company are miners of long experience, who own a large acreage between Two Bit and Strawberry gulches, which they have decided to pool and operate jointly. The ground includes the King Lear, Tempest and other well known groups of claims and adjoins the Monarch, one of the steadiest producers that section has known.

The Portland and Clinton Mining company, operating in the Bald mountain district, is doing its regular amount of development work and at the same time shipping daily about fifty tons of ore. Part of this—the

Shipments Show an Increase—Supplies in District About Seven Per Cent of Annual Production—Isle Royale Stops Diamond Drilling the Baltic Formation in Shaft "A."

Houghton, Mich., March 13.—((Special to The Herald.)—The local metal situation for the first week in March shows a decided improvement over the previous four weeks in the matter of shipments. The metal at present is moving out of the district at the rate of twelve to fifteen cars, or about 750 tons refined copper daily, a rate considerably better than double the daily production of the entire district, and compares with not to exceed 59 per cent of production during the greater part of February. The greater part of this metal is apparently going directly into the hands of American consumers, shipments consigned to foreign points being somewhat less frequent than for many months past, though one smelter in particular continues to cast a considerable proportion of its outturn in export cakes. Present available supplies in this district will not greatly exceed 15,000,000 pounds, or about 7 per cent of annual production.

Elm River.

Elm River is engaged in crosscutting the eastern portion of the mineral belt at a depth of 200 feet, a small exploratory shaft having been sunk to that depth last winter. Crosscutting has been in progress for several months past. An unidentified amygdaloid lode, carrying a small amount of copper is disclosed in the shaft, and remains unexplored pending completion of crosscut, which is driving for another unknown lode from which a core, said to have been well charged with copper, was obtained several years ago. The crosscut is in about 300 feet and driving at a rate calculated to reach this lode early in April.

Isle Royale.

Isle Royale has discontinued diamond drilling the Baltic formation in Shaft "A" and, satisfied that the shaft is opened on the Baltic lode, is centering its activities at this point in an endeavor to gain depth as rapidly as possible. The shaft is down about 160 feet, and will sink to a depth of 500 feet, at which depth the first lateral work will be done. Nothing of value is revealed by operations to date. On the Isle Royale lode to the westward, development work continues with excellent results. The three new shafts on this formation are sinking steadily, and have reached an average depth of about 700 feet, disclosing copper ground of exceptional richness. Lateral openings are being created at a good rate, and a limited amount of stoping is being done. The new compressor plant at No. 6 shaft is now regularly in commission, and gives the company compressor capacity for 110 drills. About sixty machines are now in service.

Superior.

At the Superior mine, the number of machine drills was recently increased to nine, of which number seven are engaged in drifting on the several levels below the sixth. The shaft is approaching the eleventh level. Shipments to the mill continue with slight interruption, and the two steam stamps at the Atlantic mill, where the rock is being treated, are seldom idle. Mill returns at present are not quite so sensational as were those of the past, the last run of rock carrying but twenty-five pounds mineral as against an averge of fifty pounds per ton of rock, milled during the first two months of the mill's operations. The decline is apparently due to the poorer ground showing in the north drifts on the seventh and eighth levels, where a stretch of exceedingly rich copper ground, nearly 200 feet in length, has been passed through. Conditons elsewhere in the mine show little change.

Trimountain.

The improved condition in the Trimountain mine continues to hold, and is rapidly assuming proportions that will give it a favorable comparison with its neighbors, the Baltic and Champion mines among which it has long been "the weak sister." The best showing is had in the No. 4 shaft, which has just reached the thirteenth level, and discloses mass and stamp rock of exceptional character. In the No. 2 shaft, good copper rock is exposed on the fourteenth level, where the north drift, after driving through 500 feet of clay and broken vein stuff, is now in first-class rock for more than 100 feet. The laterals below have not yet passed through to firm ground, and disclose nothing different from that encountered in the first 500 feet by the fourteenth drift. The shaft is approaching the eighteenth level. A further improved showing is had in the No. 3 shaft at and below the fourteenth level, while in the No. 1

EAST BUTTE LOOKING WELL

Good Results From Development Work on New 900-Foot Level—Explanation of North Butte Extension Company's Affairs —The Butte-Montana Deal Meeting Opposition.

Butte, Mont., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The East Butte Copper Mining company, whose stock has had a rather sensational rise from about $7 per share to above $15 in a few months, is accomplishing good results the development work on the new 900-foot level, though the work has been done contrary to the general opinion of Butte mining men, who say greater depth is necessary to find big and permanent ore bodies. Four or five veins have been cut south of the main shaft, but on only one of them has any drifting been done. The one farthest south, though less than a foot wide in the crosscut, assayed so high—23 per cent copper and twenty ounces of silver to the ton—that President Gross directed some exploration work. Within ten feet from the crosscut the vein widened to two feet at the top of he drift and four at the bottom, and in twenty-five fet the ore body widened to seven feet, the entire width assaying an average of 9 per cent copper and twelve ounces of silver. The exploration work will be continued, but for the present none will be done on any of the other veins opeend by the crosscut as the latter is to be pushed south with the object of opening the big Glengarry vein, which will probably be reached in a few weeks. The Glengarry is nearly 100 feet wide on the upper levels, but at that depth carries only a low grade of ore. If an improvement is found at the 900-foot, it will justify the company in exploring it to greater depth. The No. 1 shaft of the East Butte, 900 feet deep, is the deepest shaft in that part of the Butte district, and the East Butte company is practically developing the territory for itself and other mining companies interested there. The Butte Coalition, Anaconda, Butte & Boston, and Boston & Montana company, are mining in that part of the district at depths of 1,500 to 2,000 feet, but on veins having the apexes far to the north of the East Butte ground, and dipping to the south as they descend into the earth. President Gross has been in Butte for several weeks personally supervising the work, but a few days ago left for Goldfield to inspect some properties and work geing done there, in which he is interested. The East Butte company is experimenting with a new concentrating process, the invention of a Boston chemist named Churchill, and the preliminary runs have been highly satisfactory, but it has not yet been determined what percentage of the metals is saved in the concentration.

North Butte Extension.

Because of various stories published relative to the affairs of the North Butte Extension Development company a Butte representative of the company makes this statement: "The company incorporated first to take over the property consisting of the Assay and Clipper millsites, the Overman, Black Crow, Occidental and Free Trade claims, was known as the North Butte Extension Copper Mining company. This company was financed by New York parties, who, during the panic of 1907 and 1908, themselves became embarrassed and in their efforts to keep from losing the properties they were backing involved the North Butte Extension Copper Mining company in some of their other deals through a manipulation of the treasury stock of this company as collateral for a loan. The parties making the loan were compelled to foreclose and as a result obtained a large block of the treasury stock, thus giving them hold on the affairs of the company. When these facts became known to some of the stockholders an investigation was instituted, with the result that the board of directors resigned and a new board was elected. On the new board were men of prominence who had invested heavily in the stock of the company and were anxious to see it succeed. A representative of the firm who made the loan and foreclosed on the same was elected as treasurer and director of the company and matters of refinancing practically turned over to him. When it was found impossible to make a success of the old company, a new or holding company was organized, known as the North Butte Extension Development company. The former treasurer of the old company was elected to the same position in the new company, and efforts were made to secure funds for the completion of payments yet due on the property purchased and to pay off standing accounts, principally in Butte, though there were some in New York for office and other expenses. A plan of exchanging one share of stock of the old company for one share of the stock in the new company and 50 per cent additional was launched, and many of the old stockholders took advantage of this plan. Confidence having been placed in the treasurer in handling this exchange nothing further was thought of the matter on the part of the directors until they realized that not enough funds were being received to justify the conditions. An investigation proved that the treasurer was issuing stock that had been granted to him firm as promotion stock in exchange for the old stock and the payment of the assessment of 50 per cent instead of issuing treasury stock in the new company and turning the assessment into the treasury of the same, hence further action was needed and the resignation of the treasurer was demanded and received. Not having been able to control the balance of the promotion stock grant-

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

North Lake Near Ishpeming Being Explored for Ore by Diamond Drills Working Through the Ice—International Harvester Company Installing Machinery at Its Lot Three Property.

As the ground beneath its basin is believed to hold valuable deposits of mineral, North lake, a body of water a few miles west of Ishpeming, on the Marquette range, is being explored for iron ore. The operations are unique in the respect that the diamond drills with which the tests are being made are installed in stations erected on the icy surface of the lake. The work is Iron company, the biggest of all the Marquette range mining corporations. However, while the circumstances are unusual, it is not the first time the same operating concern has explored a lake basin for ore and has conducted the prospecting from the ice which covers the body of water. The mine, which for many years has been the company's biggest producer on the Marquette range—the Lake Shaft property, in section 10, 47-27, within the limits of the city of Ishpeming—is developed in ground underlying what was formerly Lake Angeline. Other portions of the same basin are being mined by the United States Steel corporation and the Jones & Laughlins interests, operating as the Pittsburg & Lake Angeline Mining company.

The ore bodies in the Lake Angeline were proved by diamond drills set on the ice in winter, and mining was begun in 1885. As depth was attained it was found that the existence of a lake containing a billion gallons of water directly over the working was too great a menace to safety. It was decided to drain the lake, and in 1892 the work of unwatering was undertaken jointly by the three companies interested in the basin. The pumping was a stupendous and costly task, but with the achievement accomplished the reward was decidedly pleasing. The area over which the lake once spread its placid waters has long since been the Lake Shaft mine of the Cleveland-Cliffs, the Lake mine of the United States Steel corporation and a part of the mines of the Pittsburg & Lake Angeline company. Millions of tons of ore of good grade have been taken from this ground, and there are millions of tons yet to be extracted. For a decade after the draining of the lake no little annoyance was experienced because of a tenacious deposit of mud, too thin to shovel and too thick to pump, that had been left as an unpleasant reminder of the water which for many centuries had filled the basin, but this trouble has passed as greater depth has been reacher by the miners and the "batter" no longer hampers underground operations.

Cleveland-Cliffs War Out.

An aftermath of the freeing of the basin of its water was litigation between the Cleveland-Cliffs and Pittsburg & Lake Angeline companies. Although these two concerns are partners in the Lake Superior & Ishpeming railway, a line nineteen miles in length, running from Ishpeming to Presque Isle, Marquette, and which was constructed and equipped at a cost of $3,500,000, exclusively for hauling ore from the mines of the interested companies, and coal to them, several years' court proceedings were required to establish the respective rights to a large area of disputed ground in the bed of the former lake. The Cleveland-Cliffs company was signally successful in the struggle, the litigation ending with the award to it of a large body of ore that was generally believed to be the property of the Jones & Laughlin subsidiary concern at the time the lake was unwatered.

It was at the Cleveland Cliffs company's Lake Shaft mine that the use of electricity for underground tramming was first employed in the Lake Superior region, and this system of haulage by motor has given great satisfaction, not only at this property, but at the dozens of other mines where it has since been adopted, both in the iron and the copper districts. Extensive expansion in the direction of utilizing electricity as motive power is planned by the Cleveland Cliffs company. O. D. McClure, master mechanic for the big concern, has recently made an investigation of electrical appliances as applied to the mining industry in the United States, and he will leave shortly for Europe to inspect similar equipment in use there. Through ownership on its own account and through subsidiary corporations, the Cleveland Cliffs company controls a number of its Marquette range mines to be of immense service to many of the properties and it is the intention eventually to harness much of the energy now running waste and make of it a large factor in ore production. In any event, whether waterpower is available or not, it will not be many years before electricity will have displaced steam as the motive power in most of the American mining camps. Notable progress in this direction is already being made in the Lake Superior copper region.

Ore in the Vicinity.

As to whether it will be found desirable to drain North lake, the basin of which is now being drilled, that is a matter for future determination. That ore exists in the vicinity, however, is already known, this as a result of exploratory work conducted the past year or two. In fact, the Foundation company of New York has recently started the sinking of a concrete shaft near the shore of the lake for the Cleveland Cliffs, and with this shaft through the quicksand overburden and firmly anchored in the rock ledge development work will be undertaken in earnest. A valuable mineral-bearing formation has been found adjacent to North lake, and excellent results have been met with a few miles still further westward, where George J. Maas of Negaunee, is puncturing the ground with deep drill holes and where he has been finding hard ore in quantity. Ores of the quality being discovered in the North lake country are in demand at good prices, and they always will be, as the supply of ore of this grade is limited. The field is one that never in the sixty years' history of the Marquette range had been given the attention it merited, until recently, the exploration not having been carried to points sufficiently deep to reach the mineral. The

THE CARMAN MINE SCANDAL

Arizona Attorney Gives History of the Case and Tells What is Being Done to Protect the Stockholders' Interests.

Douglas, Ariz., March 13.—Douglas people who hold stock n the Carman Consolidated company are much agitated over the scandal which has developed in connection with the company's title to the properties in Sonora and J. P. Casey's alleged acts. The law firm of Richardson & Doan of this city are the legal representatives of President Powers of the Carman Consolidated company, who is acting for the interests of the company and its stockholders through the medium of this firm.

Attorney D. A. Richardson was seen by a Dispatch reporter and talked freely on the matter. "There is more than a foundation of truth in the matter," said Mr. Richardson, "and is the story of one of the greatest outrages ever attempted in all the Southwest and Sonora. The matter is now virtually reaching a satisfactory conclusion and the title papers are in escrow in El Paso and I expect to have them in my possession to turn over to the company within two weeks.

"The facts of the case are practically these: Casey, with Mr. Power, organized a company in Duluth to take over and operate the Carman and other properties near the famous Chospas property to the south of Arizpe. There were eleven holdings in the group and Casey was to have 110,000 of the 200,000 shares of the capital stock and to turn these properties over to the Carman Consolidated Mining company, or to a Mexican holding company, rather. This holding company was organized as the Compania Minera de Oroy Plata de Arizpe S. A., and Casey told Power he had made over the holdings in the various eleven properties to that company. On the strength of this Mr. Power, as well as Casey himself, proceeded to sell stock to various people. Later Casey showed pencil copies of alleged smelter reports and on the strength of them recommended that the company pay a dividend of 25 cents per share, which was done, and the stock soared high. Later suspicion was aroused and Mr. Power learned through Pedro Robles of Cananea that Casey had never turned over to the company the properties he had sold and for which he had received the 110,000 shares. Our firm was employed to investigate and we found the above to be the facts and my partner, Mr. Doan, went to Duluth last December. We advised the obtaining of a transfer of the mines and this Mr. Power was

IMPRESSED WITH CHEMUNG

Boston Man Returns From Inspection of the Mine---Over 2,000,000 Tons of Ore Actually Blocked Out---To Build Mill.

Boston, Mass., March 13.—Concerning the Chemung property in New Mexico, James J. Phelan of Hornblower & Weeks, who has returned to Boston after an inspection of the mine is quoted as saying: "I was greatly impressed with the developments at the mine. The company has three shafts and about 27,000 feet of workings. No attempt has been made to stope any ore and only such ore has been extracted as was necessary in the process of opening up the property. As I figure it the Chemung has in sight over 2,000,000 tons of ore actually blocked out, which will run over 3 per cent. It is a concentrating proposition and it is expected that the ore can be concentrated 10 into 1 and a 70 per cent saving of copper made from the concentrates. Steps will probably be taken in the not distant future for the construction of a 2,000-ton mill and to provide for this the company may decide to issue a portion of the 100,000 shares still remaining in the treasury. When the mill is in position to treat 2,000 tons of ore per day, it should, on 13-cent copper, and a cost of between 3½ cents and 10 cents per pound, earn something over $3 per share. On 15-cent copper the company should earn $5 per shaer.

"The company expects to show an operating cost, including expenses of every character, of between $2.50 and $2.60 per ton of ore. It should be stated in this connection that the 2,000,000 tons above referred to have been put into sight on the 400-foot level and above. The ore increases in richness with depth and on the 600-foot level, which is now being driven, it is expected within sixty days to intercept the ore bodies cut on the 400-foot level. This, of course, will be a very large tonnage of high grade ore in sight. The Chemung property has an authorized capital of 300,000 shares, of which 100,000 are in the treasury; 100,000 are full paid and 100,000 upon which $8 per share has been paid and upon which $2 per share may yet be called."

AT THE OLD DOMINION MINE

Developments on Lower Levels Continue Very Favorable --- Heavy Flow of Water Into Eureka Shaft of the Arizona Commercial.

Globe, Ariz., March 13.—Developments on the lower levels of the Old Dominion mine continue to be very favorable. The drifts on the fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth levels are in sulphide ore, which seems to improve with depth and as the drifts extend west. The development of the sixteenth level has proceeded much more rapidly since the connection was made with A shaft, and the sulphide ore body on that level as far as prospected seems to be equally as large and the ore of as good grade, if not better, than on the levels above. The east drifts on the tenth and twelfth levels, which have opened an important vein of high-grade ore, are being pushed eastward in the Gladiator claim of the United Globe, and will have to be driven less than 500 feet farther to reach the Hoosier ground, where it is expected an ore body of great size will be encountered.

The Arizona Commercial has been handicapped by the very heavy flow of water into the Eureka shaft, estimated at one thousand gallons per minute, which drowned the pumps. A station pump of 750,000 gallons capacity has been received and two Cameron sinkers borrowed from the Old Dominion; also a large marine boiler, and as soon as these can be installed the shaft will be unwatered and the work of opening a level at 710 feet resumed. Developments at the 710-foot station were of an extremely favorable character, high grade ore having been encountered, when the brush of water flooded the station and shaft. At the old Black Hawk workings a winze is being sunk from the 550-foot level in good-looking iron carrying some copper.

The Superior & Boston is making good headway in the development of its fine property and is making regular shipments of fifty tons of ore daily. The winze from the 550-foot level had reached a depth of 30 feet when sinking had to be discontinued on account of water. This winze is in high-grade ore its entire depth, which would seem to indicate that the zone of secondary enrichment continues to a considerable depth and that deep development will add immensely to the value of the Great Eastern mine.

Since the Arizona-Michigan installed a hoist, good progress has been made sinking, and the shaft promises to equal any three-compartment shaft in the district. Mine Foreman N. A. Nelson is at present directing the development work on the Arizona-Michigan property.

DEEPEST MINING AT COBALT

Rich Values Being Found in the Kerr Lake Section--- La Rose Continues to be Heaviest Shipper, Both in Tonnage and Silver.

Cobalt, Ont., March 13.—The deepest mining now going on in Cobalt is in the Kerr Lake section of the camp, and some of the richest values are being found in this district. The Kerr Lake mine is producing some of the highest values in the entire section from a depth of over 450 feet. Cobalt Central is now drifting on a new vein 350 feet from the surface, showing four inches of ore, running 3,500 to 4,000 ounces, and has recently located with a diamond drill a 4,000-ounce vein 170 feet north of these workings and 75 feet below them. This new vein is, therefore, 425 feet below surface. The Temiskaming, which has one of the best veins in the camps, has reached a depth of 209 feet. The Crown Reserve is mining at a depth of 150 feet, and its rich vein is showing no diminution of the remarkable values.

While it is not officially announced, the conditions of Kerr Lake have improved so much the last few weeks that it is understood the management contemplates increasing the dividend in the near future. Some of the showings lately have been phenomenal.

It was announced by a director of the Poldavis Mines, Ltd., that a variety of remarkable samples showing the rich character of the ore now being mined on their Bloom Lake property will be placed on exhibition at the company's offices, No. 66 Broadway, New York. W. A. Pollock Davis of Philadelphia, who has operated since 1904 in Cobalt, is president of the company. He stated that a thorough and systematic surface development was completed during the summer of 1908, under the personal direction of John G. Donaldson, and that the production of ore by seventy miners quartered at the camp is now going on, while shafts are being sunk.

The La Rose of Cobalt continues to be the heaviest shipper in Cobalt, both in tonnage and silver. It ships to the smelter one-quarter of the total output of the camp. The La Rose is a 40-acre lot, and is now the richest block of land in Cobalt. The MacDonald tunnel No. 5 on the MacDonald vein is now in 300 feet, and has rich ore all the way. The vein is now five inches wide, and the ore is a solid mass of agentite and native silver, so rich that it chokes up and stops the crushers.

ON THE IRON RANGES

UNKNOWN MAN IS CUT TO PIECES

Mangled Body Is Found Beside Tracks Near Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two men passing near the Duluth & Iron Range tracks two nights ago came upon the mangled remains of a man. Undertaker Hubbard took the body to the Mesberg morgue, awaiting the location of the dead man's relatives.

The body is supposed to be that of Jakob Kosala, the identification being made by a letter found in his pocket bearing that name. The letter came from a brother in Finland, and Mr. Hubbard has written there for information and advice as to the disposal of the body.

EXPECTS BUSY TERM.

Court Will Begin at Grand Rapids Tuesday, March 23.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—An unusually busy term of the district court will begin here Tuesday, March 23, Judge B. F. Wright presiding.

It is expected the case against Ex-County Treasurer C. C. Miller will again be tried, an action that will consume considerable time.

WILL SAVE HIS EYE.

Grand Rapids Man Will Not Lose Sight of His Organ.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald)—J. S. Schultz, who had his left eye badly injured in an accident on Jan. 5, has returned home from Milwaukee, where he had been receiving treatment from a specialist. Mr. Schultz will be able to save his eye, but it will be necessary for him to wear glasses.

L. J. Dorenkemper, who has been local manager of the City Lumber yard the past eighteen months, will move to Stearns county, where he has some business matters to attend to.

W. P. Brown, who has had a large crew of men at work all winter getting out wood and cedar, has about completed his operations. Mr. Brown has put up and sold a large quantity of wood stuffs, and has cleared up a considerable acreage to add to his fields.

J. W. Mills, who is putting in a sawmill south of Pokegama lake, reports that he has the mill in shape to saw, and that the wheels turned for the first time this week.

PASSES CENTURY MARK.

Mother of Virginia Woman Dies at Remarkable Age.

Virginia, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. John Peterson of this city received a telegram Wednesday stating that her mother, Mrs. C. Olsen of Minneapolis, had passed away. Mrs. Olsen was over 100 years of age, having celebrated her centenary last September. Mrs. Peterson left at once to be in attendance at the funeral, which was held Friday.

JURY COULDN'T AGREE.

Hibbing Assault Case Tried Before Judge Brady, Not Conclusive.

Hibbing, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the trial of the state against Ella Marian, on the charge of assault and battery, before Judge Brady's court, evidence considered of a convicting nature was submitted by Anna Roper upon whom the assault was alleged to have been committed, and by her little son and daughter, but the jury could not agree. Stratton for the state, and Baldwin for the defense prosecuted, and defended the case most ably. After an all-afternoon's deliberation, the foreman of the jury came in and said that after every effort had been exhausted, the men were unable to agree on a verdict. They were, therefore, discharged.

CAUCUS TICKET WON.

Result of Exciting Election Held at Nashwauk.

Nashwauk, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—An exciting election was held here Tuesday. Two tickets were out, the caucus and the independent. The caucus ticket won out by a majority of 29 votes, the vote being as follows:

President—Henry Hogan, 104; John Carlson, 75.

Trustees—James Hayes, 108; W. A. Gordon, 72; William Trythall, 108; Gust Anderson, 70; Charles Latvalla, 110; Charles Ollila, 67.

Recorder—John L. Shellman, 111; William Vera, 67.

Treasurer—John Lanto, 114; Santo Sella, 63.

Justice of peace—Carl Lippincott, 114; Mike Donovan, 65

The township ticket vote follows: Supervisor, B. W. Batchelder, 171; clerk, Mike Donovan, 124; C. G. Lippincott, 50; treasurer, John Ring, 174; justice of peace, Tom Brown, 171; Max Shuirman, 171; constable, George Moran, 172; Frank Saccoman, 171; overseer of highways, Oscar Johnston, 171; assessor, W. A. Gordon, 173.

HIBBING BUILDINGS.

Several Improvements That Are Under Way in Range Town.

Hibbing, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Geary Wholesale Liquor company is now established in its new quarters in the new M. & M. Bank building. The bank expects to get into its new home about the first of the month.

The National hotel, or more properly that part of it which was formerly occupied by John Bradach as a saloon, is being entirely remodeled, even to the putting in of a basement and will, when completed be occupied by James Mahanney for a cafe, with chop suey rooms on the second floor.

Things about town are gradually assuming the form in which they were before election. O. J. Tucker, the successful candidate for township treasurer, is being congratulated.

VIRGINIA'S REVIVAL.

Successful Meetings Being Conducted by Two Revivalists.

Virginia, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The revival services at the Presbyterian church, under the leadership of Evangelists Loose and Erwin are increasing in interest daily. Two special meetings have been held, one for children and one for ladies only. The response was generous and the results very promising.

These services will continue next week, each evening until the 20th. There will be a special meeting for men only Sunday afternoon, at 3:30.

GEO. O'CONNOR PRESIDENT.

Selected to Head Affairs of Coleraine Commercial Club.

Coleraine, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the Coleraine Commercial club Thursday evening, a reorganization was effected and new officers elected for the ensuing year. There was a representative attendance of the business men, and much interest displayed.

The election resulted in the choice of the following officers: George E. O'Connor, president; George Smith, vice president; A. S. McCullough, secretary; Jake Lieberman, treasurer; directors, Messrs. Goodwin, Blair, Gates, Lacy and August Johnson.

Matters of general interest were discussed. The directors were authorized to close a contract with the Western Mesaba Electric company for lighting the streets.

EVELETH BASEBALL FANS WILL MEET SUNDAY.

Eveleth, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Baseball enthusiasts will meet tomorrow afternoon at the Globe hotel when final plans will be made for putting a first-class baseball team in the field this season.

J. P. Tredinnick, who was elected manager while on a trip West, has returned and will be ready to start in soon. J. J. Gleason has been re-elected secretary-treasurer. The plan at present seems to be to sell shares in the baseball club at $5 each and not solicit money among the business men as was done last year. Several men have already expressed their willingness to buy five shares, and some will go as high as ten.

EVELETH WILL OBSERVE EVENT

To Honor Memory of St. Patrick Next Tuesday Evening.

Eveleth, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—An excellent program has been arranged for the St. Patrick's entertainment to be given Tuesday night at the Vail opera house.

Assistant County Attorney James P. Boyle will deliver the address of the evening, and the following night he will address a St. Patrick's entertainment in West Duluth.

The program to be given Tuesday evening is in charge of Father Floyd of the St. Patrick's church and is as follows: Opening chorus, "Come Back to Erin"; piano solo, "course folie" (Wild Ride) Mrs. Josephine Sterle; vocal solo, selected, (by request) Rev. Father Floyd; male quartette, "Minstrel Boy," Messrs. JACOB CLELAND DEAD.

Paralysis Claims Father of Mrs. Liscombe of Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jacob Cleland, father of Mrs. C. F. Liscombe, died at the family home, 301 Wyoming avenue, Friday forenoon, from paralysis. The deceased was 74 years of age and is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Liscombe.

The funeral will be held from the Liscombe residence at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, followed by interment in Greenwood cemetery.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Iveson of Cook, died Wednesday. Funeral services were held here today.

TWO HARBORS EVENTS.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Conductor Fred Hiller of the Iron Range has disposed of his residence on Second avenue to Victor Carlson, section foreman for the Duluth & Iron Range at York station.

Conductor John C. McGreevy was called to Austin, Minn., yesterday by a telegram announcing the serious illness of his mother.

J. Wheeler has started shipments of cedar bolts from his landing at Mile 60 to the Lake County Lumber company's shingle mill at Stewart. He will ship about three carloads per day for the present.

HIBBING OUTCLASSED IN GAME WITH CLOQUET.

Cloquet, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Cloquet high school team last evening defeated the Hibbing high school basketball team in a one-sided exhibition, in which the visitors were completely outclassed. The score at the end of the first half was 24 to 6, and the final score was 59 to 9. A large crowd attended, expecting to see one of the best games of the season, but in point of speed the game was far below the average.

MANY BIDDERS ARE AFTER JOB

Considerable Rivalry Over Securing Big School Contract at Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is evidently keen rivalry for the big school building contract, to be awarded by the school board for putting up a substantial building on the foundations erected last year in the lot in the rear of the Central school. The contract is expected to amount to close to $100,000.

The board was to have opened bids called for last night, but as Clerk Godfrey was absent, having gone East to witness Taft's inauguration, the matter went over. It is expected the board will get together this afternoon, without waiting for Mr. Godfrey to return, and open and examine the bids.

Ten bids have been received, ranging, it is understood, from about $80,000 to $100,000, and offered by local, Duluth and Twin City contractors. That there is considerable rivalry among contractors, and they are bidding closely, is known, by the report that at least nine of the bids are within $2,000 of eacgsh other.

MOTHER OF EIGHT.

Mrs. Catherine Bekett of Two Harbors Goes to Her Reward.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Catherine Beckett, who for the past dozen years had conducted the boarding cars for the Iron Range road, and was known as a keen business woman, is dead here, at the age of 50. She was a native of Scotland, and came here about twenty years ago, being one of the pioneer residents of the city.

She was the mother of eight children, those living being Mrs. S. A. Maxwell, Lethbridge, Alberta; Mrs. H. K. Crouthers, Minneapolis; Charles J. and A. G. Beckett of Superior, and H. M. Beckett of this city.

SOUDAN PLAY SUCCESS.

"Tony the Convict" Given in Finnish Temperance Hall.

Tower, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The play presented at the Finnish Temperance hall, at Soudan, Thursday evening, was largely attended. It was entitled "Tony, the Convict."

The characters were as follows: Tony Warren, a many-sided character, who has an honest heart beneath his ragged coat, Andy Larson; Weary Warpide, his henchman, Ed Mickola; James Barclay, hard hearted and vindictive, Martin Jeramson; Philip Warburton, a social leader, Will Shipman; Judge Van Crugu of supreme court, Oscar Korby; Warden Burrows of Sing Sing, Will Shipman; Jackson, the negro footman, Frank Sniderich; Lena, the respectable daughter of Judge Van Cruger, Manica Kowaleska; Mrs Van Cruger, the judge's wife, Agnes Anderson; Miss Ledley, who takes pleasure in being disagreeable, Annie Johnson; Sally, with a soul above (—), Hilda Lindstrom.

Those in the cast acted their parts remarkably well. Miss McMaster gave two solos between acts. Miss Kowaleska drilled the participants in their parts and much credit is due to her.

SUPERIOR TEAM BEATEN.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Matt Carpenter basket ball team of Superior was defeated at the Metropolitan Opera house by the local Y. M. C. A. team last night by a score of 20 to 19. The loca lhigh school team defeated the alumni team in a preliminary game, large crowds watching both contests.

VIRGINIA BRIEFS.

Virginia, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. William McCoy returned Wednesday from a ten days' visit among relatives and friends in the Twin Cities. Mrs. De Forest, a sister of Mrs. McCoy, accompanied them home, to remain for several weeks.

A. George returned this week from an extensive business trip through the East.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Pickering spent Sunday in Superior, the guests of Mr. Pickering's parents.

W. A. Hall left yesterday for the Twin Cities, to make arrangements for the shipment of his horse and stable effects to Arcadia, Tex., where he will locate on a fruit farm.

The next number of the Lyceum course at the Roosevelt auditorium will be the Symphony Quartette and Adelaide Pierce, contralto, Monday, March 22.

Charles Schaeffer, traveling passenger agent for the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway, was here Wednesday.

Virginia Lodge Notes.

Virginia, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. C. Herbst of Brainerd is spending a few days in the city in the interests of the Red Men lodge. It is expected that Nitche Nobby lodge will initiate a class of about 100 within the next few weeks.

The local Eagle lodge has instituted a contest by selecting two teams for the purpose of getting new members. The losers in the contest will give a banquet to the winners.

Hibbing Man at Ashland.

Ashland, Wis. March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Koin, formerly of this city, but now of Hibbing, Minn., is spending a few days in the city renewing old acquaintances. Mr. Koin now holds a responsible clerical position with the Oliver Mining company. He states that Hibbing is a great place and that preparations are being made for a prosperous season next summer.

Night School at Fayal.

Eveleth, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A night school will be started Monday night at the Fayal school building, under the direction of John Shoemaker of the school faculty. Instruction will be given in reading, writing, arithmetic, grammar and mathematics. Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights, classes will be held from 7:30 until 9 p. m.

BONDSMEN MAKE GOOD.

Carlton County Loses Nothing by Alleged Shortage of Treasurer.

Carlton, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of the board of county commissioners this week, the resignation of County Treasurer, P. W. Ehr, was accepted, and the board appointed William Gallagher of this place, his successor.

As stated in a dispatch to The Herald, Mr. Ehr resigned because of financial complications arising in his office, it being alleged he used some of the county funds in discharging private indebtedness, growing out of the destruction of his mill at Moose Lake.

There are various reports as to the amount of the shortage, the generally accepted being that it is about $6,700. Mr. Ehr's bondsmen are said to have made the shortage good and so far as known there will be no prosecution, despite persistent rumors that the grand jury may probe the affair.

the expense of the undertaking. Petrosino left for his native land to establish bureaus through which it was hoped to keep such complete records that the news of the departure from Italy or Sicily of any criminals could be flashed to this country almost immediately so that the authorities here could be on the alert and prevent their landing or place them under arrest.

Petrosino was so accustomed to receiving threatening communications and of hearing of threats against his life, that he paid little attention to it. It is said he had been warned against going to Palermo, but that he ignored the threat and scoffed at the idea of being killed.

Prominent Italians here say there is no doubt that the detective met death among his countrymen as a direct result of his untiring efforts to suppress the Mafia, the Camorra and the Black Hand.

Petrosino's young wife was seen in her home, but had heard nothing from her husband since a letter Thursday. There was anxiety in her voice as she stood in the doorway holding her little daughter in her arms.

"But," she said, "I am sure he is all right, or I should know."

When official news of the assassination in Palmero of Lieut. Petrosino of the New York detective bureau was received by Chief of Detectives McCafferty, he immediately sent telegrams to the chiefs of police in all large cities of the country, asking them to round up every Black Hand suspect in their locality.

lawful or corrupt practices in that campaign.

That a Stephenson worker was instructed that if Stephenson was elected United States senator the Lutheran Northwestern university might receive a donation of $10,000 from him, was revealed in the testimony of Dr. J. H. Frank of Neillsville, who received $600 to be spent in the Stephenson cause. After seeing Mr. Edmonds in Milwaukee late in July, he engaged Frank Marth to work among the Lutherans, and also engaged a Mr. Monti. Frank said he had been given the privilege to make the statement as to the donation by Rev. Mr. Epping. He did not know that any money had been spent unlawfully.

Smith said he did not believe he could enter another campaign in the same manner, not because he believed it to be improper, but possibly "unjudicious." Of the expenditures, a "small amount" was given to the editor of the Neillsville Times, "for him to spend." Outside of certain expenses, he spent most of the money in the saloons of Clark county. When the senatorial proposition was discussed it seemed to be the field against "Uncle Ike." When they got to discussing him, that he was too old, etc., and got warm under the collar, "I'd ask them to have one and cool off," said Smith. "Did you tell that this was on Stephenson or on you?" asked the chairman.

"I don't know as I did," said the witness.

ANTHRACITE MINE STRIKE

The proposition of the operators to continue the agreement will be laid before the convention. The delegates to this convention will be elected by the local unions next week.

President Lewis declines to predict what the outcome of the convention will be, saying that the whole matter is up to the convention to decide. It is believed he has decided upon a plan of action and that the convention will carry this out.

Despite the stand pat attitude of both sides, there is still a feeling that there will be no serious interruption in the mining of anthracite coal. There is a possibility of the men continuing to work without an agreement and striking at the various collieries as grievances come up, if they are not adjusted by the superintendents of these mines. This it is pointed out, would be a return to the chaotic conditions that have prevailed prior to the strike of 1902, when there were strikes every day in all sections of the anthracite regions, making the amount of coal production from day to day uncertain. Following the meeting late yesterday of the subcommittees of the operators and labor men, the following statement was given out:

"The joint meeting of the mine workers' committee and the operators' committee came to an end without an agreement being reached. The operators repeated their intention to deal with the committee as representatives of the anthracite mine workers and not as officers of the union. They renewed their offer to continue the present agreement for a term of three years, and this was their final proposition. Mr. Lewis wanted it put in writing and the operators said it could be considered as a duplicate of the one made in 1906."

to see that its terms were lived up to. It will be under that stipulation, if at all, therefore, that intervention will be based.

The control of the cable by President Zelaya makes it impossible for the navy department to secure any news from the coast towns, except by the use of naval vessels, and it is probable that if the difficulties of communication continue, a line of naval scouts or torpedo boat despatch carriers will be installed.

A natural outcome of the withdrawal of American Secretary of Legation Gregory from Managua would be the retirement from Washington of Senor Espinosa, the Nicaraguan minister to this capital. But, of course, he would not be likely to act on his own volition in a matter of such importance and so far has had no instructions from his government.

The naval strength of the United States in the vicinity of Nicaragua will soon be increased by the presence of the Dubuque of Bluefields. The Dubuque sailed from Guantanamo yesterday for that port. The Marietta was at the same time ordered to leave Hampton Roads for Guantanamo.

News is momentarily expected by the state department from the government of Mexico in relation to the proposition submitted by this government to the Mexican ambassador looking to a conference on the pending situation between Nicaragua and Salvador. The Mexican ambassador has telegraphed his government concerning the desire of the United States for a conference.

The American consul at Managua has been informed of the movements of American men of war. The Tacoma has been ordered to Porto Cortez and the Yorktown is soon expected at Amapala. The Yorktown probably will visit Corinto in the near future.

Quake Somewhere.

Manila, March 13.—Local seismographs recorded serious earthquakes continuously from 7:36 to 9:40 this morning. It is estimated that the region of disturbance was 10,000 kilometers distant.

ARGUMENTS AT AN END

her name being on the indictment, and that the state should have used her if she knew anything pertinent about the case. He said:

"And now, gentlemen, I am going to quit. The responsibility which has rested on me is passing to you. You know how handicapped we have been by a failure of the state to offer any theory at all. But there is one fact in this case which cannot be controverted. And that is, that Senator Carmack drew a revolver first, and fired first. It cannot be disputed that Tomlin fired only when he had to. I feel safe in the result, gentlemen, and I leave it to you."

Attorney General McCarn began his closing argument at once. He said:

"It becomes my duty and my pleasure to stand before you and argue this case. I said this case and I do not mean the case of Robert Love Taylor against E. W. Carmack. I do not mean the case of M. B. Patterson against E. W. Carmack, and I do not intend to appeal to prejudice or defame the dead, as has been done in this case.

"If have been denounced, but, thank God, the same tongue which wagged against me also assailed Mrs. Eastman and I am proud that Washington assailed me too. I have not any time to shoot at sparrows.

"They accuse me of abusing the defendants or unjustly prosecuting them I am responsible for the conduct of this office and all the devils in hell cannot deter me from my duty. And they say the state has no theory. Well, what of it? When your old dad took you out to lick you, did you ever know what his theory was? And did he ever ask for yours? No, he just decided from the proof that you were guilty and lit into you.

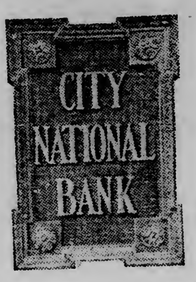

"That's what we are doing. We have no theory, gentlemen, we just have the proof."

Stiff Neck.

Stiff neck is caused by rheumatism of the muscles of the neck. It is usually confined to one side or to the back of the neck and one side. While it is often quite painful, quick relief may be had by applying Chamberlains Liniment. Not one case of rheumatism in ten requires internal treatment. When there is no fever and no swelling as in muscular and chronic rheumatism, Chamberlain's Liniment will accomplish more than any internal treatment. For sale by all druggists.

SALOON ELEMENT SEEK MAYOR ROSE'S HELP.

Marinette, Wis., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Determined to hold their own against the Prohibition forces who are conducting a whirlwind fight, the saloon element of Marinette have secured Mayor David S. Rose of Milwaukee to deliver an address at a mass meeting to be held a day or two before the municipal election, the second Tuesday in April, when the no license proposition will be submitted to the voters.

THE MORAL OF MILLER'S CREEK.

In Thursday's Herald this statement was printed: "In the past twenty years since the trees have been cut from the hills back of Duluth, Miller's creek has carried more sediment into the bay than it did during the hundred years preceding." There is a moral in this carrying away of the Duluth hills by Miller's creek that we shall do well to ponder. If we will look at the problem of forest and soil conservation from the standpoint of Miller's creek we may be able to appreciate that it is not a problem of theorists but one for practical men, not a problem for the future, but for all of us right now.

It is through such attempts at reforestration as that now being made by Z. D. Scott of Duluth that real progress in this important matter must come. From all parts of the world comes the testimony to the need of reforestration and the conservation of forests; without them we shall have not only a famine of timber, but the very soil under our feet will be washed away. Governments are turning their attention to these matters in a slow and uncertain way, for the ignorance of the whole people as to the need of forest conservation together with the greed of some people for the immediate profits of forest destruction, makes progress on the part of the government very difficult. Real forest conservation will never be accomplished until public sentiment is aroused to its necessity. Nothing can help so powerfully to arouse public sentiment in this matter as the kind of effort that Mr. Scott is putting forth.

Mr. Scott's attempt to reforest the northern shores of Lake Superior is a practical effort to grow new forests on land that has been stripped of its trees. It is startling to read in some magazine of the enormous wastes in China, where all timber has been cut, and where the land, unprotected by the roots of trees, is carried away from where it is needed and deposited where it is not wanted by each rainfall. But it is more startling, and it means a good more to us, to read in The Herald that "in the past twenty years since the trees have been cut from the hills back of Duluth that Miller's creek has carried more sediment into the bay than it did during the hundred preceding years. It is the same with all the streams along the north shore, where miles of county has been left naked by logging operations and by the forest fires that invariably follow in the slashings, burning year after year until all life is burned from the ground and nothing but useless wastes will be left. The soil there, unprotected by the roots of the trees, will be washed away down the streams into the lake, until nothing but the bald rocks is left."

When we read of this destruction that is going on right under our eyes, where we have but to look and see that it is true, we have some definite conception of the need of forest conservation. And when we find a resident of our city planting young trees on cut over lands by the thousands, trees from which he himself can never take a cent of return and lands upon which he must each year pay taxes, we must realize that some great necessity impels him to this extraordinary action.

Mr. Scott's action points the moral to Miller creek. We have got to be up and doing if we are to hold on to the land we have got, to say nothing of preserving our timber supply. It is through such efforts as that now being put forth by Mr. Scott that we must be aroused to the necessity of the state's bureaus of forestry and its attempts to conserve the forests we have left and to plant and grow others to take the places of those we have cut down. A very real danger, the danger of Miller's creek, the carrying away of the soil and the converting of fertile lands and fine forests into treeless, profitless plains, is the danger that confronts us in North America.

HISTORICAL BUILDING NEEDED.

There is now pending before the legislature a bill to provide for the erection of a suitable building for the state historical society. The subject is a matter to which every resident of the state, who cares for anything beyond the needs of the present moment, should give his earnest support.

The Minnesota State Historical society is much more of an institution that most people realize. Its collections, of untold value, occupy five large rooms in the new state capitol, rooms that are already badly crowded, while a considerable portion of the priceless possessions of the society are of necessity stored in the old capitol building, subject to irretrievable loss by fire.

Of the spending of money in a great state there is no end. The calls for appropriations roll in upon the legislature at each biennial session like some great tidal wave which looks high enough and wide enough to engulf the whole state. In the pressure of demands for the needs of the hour, we are prone to overlook such things as this which is one of the needs of all time. Yet urgent as are the thousand and one things for which the passing time demands money, there are comparatively few of greater importance to the permanent well being of the people of the state and their children than the proper care and the proper display of the treasures of the state historical society. The present generation has the largest possible interest in the display of these treasures and ready access to them; posterity has an overwhelming interest in their preservation.

Here is the society's great historical library of 94,686 volumes, growing in size at the rate of nearly 4,000 volumes per year. Here are files of nearly all the newspapers of the state, dating from the year '49, "a priceless treasury of materials for future historians." Here are township histories and family genealogies, 1,827 bound volumes and 950 pamphlets, besides hundreds of references. Here are priceless portraits, only a few of which can now be displayed, and about 500 of which are perilously stored in the old capitol. Here are thousands of books relating to Minnesota, a complete series of reports of the United States Patent office, letters of the highest historical interest, precious maps and "original documents of every sort which may throw light on the history of any portion of the United States and particularly of Minnesota and the Northwest."

That the state urgently needs a separate building for the preservation and display and use of this great mass of matter of untold value, a value which fire would destroy beyond possible recovery, every person will admit with but a moment's consideration. That such a building is more worthy of an appropriation, and that at once, than very many of the uses to which the state money is being put will also be as freely admitted.

Wisconsin and Iowa have large fireproof State Historical Library buildings. Wisconsin's cost $650,000 and Iowa's cost $450,000. Surely Minnesota, the empire state of the Northwest, can afford to spend as much as these and surely it cannot afford not to spend the money.

TO FIGHT OR NOT TO FIGHT.

It has been said, backed by plenty of proof from history, that the nation that is great is a nation of fighters and that no country can raise to supremacy in the arts of peace unless it can also demonstrate its supremacy in war. We have got to be a nation of first class fighting men to be anything of a nation at all.

Just how we are going to reconcile this fact, if it is a fact, with that further fact which appears to be, that fighting is fast becoming so dangerous that it will soon be impossible, is a bit difficult.

Here now are the English again upsetting the navies of the world with plans for a battleship without funnels, a battleship that shall be nothing above water but a bristling battery of guns pointing in every and any direction, every gun ready to fire in front or in rear at instant's notice. England in its greed for battleships brought out the Dreadnought some time ago, the leviathan of the deep, and now it gives us the Indefatigable with terrible mouths spitting fire to every quarter of the compass. The Indefatigable is without funnels, boiler up-takes and other obstructions. Nothing will be visible above decks but the turrets and one or two tripod skeleton masts for wireless apparatus and the lookouts. Of fighting turrets there will be five, each equipped with two great guns capable of being swung and fired in any direction. This new war devil can spit cannon ball to every quarter of the compass at one and the same moment.

All this is made possible by new inventions and discoveries. This time it is gas that is to replace steam as a motive power and abolish funnels and make battleships really quite practical. Coal and air are shoveled into a pot stove; steam is added and the steam and the air and the red hot coals give forth a gas known as carbon monoxide. This gas and others like hydrogen which keep it company, is then passed along to other receptacles to be washed and scrubbed and thoroughly cleansed of its impurities when it is delivered in an exceedingly healthful condition to the engine of the war monster. Here you press the lever and the engine does the rest. The funnelless Indefatigable goeth wheresoever its master listeth with its decks literally stripped for action.

It is said that the English navy yards can turn out a battleship in two years, while it takes other countries twice as long. Before the ships just authorized by congress can be tried, England can have three or four of its new obstructionless spit-thunders ready for action. What are we going to do about it?

By the time we all get to building Indefatigables there will be some other battleship that is more terrible still, to say nothing of aerial battleships and other engines of war. At the present rate of progress how long will it be before war becomes impossible? how long before a war will mean the blotting out of a nation in the twinkling of an eye, if indeed it does not put both parties to the scrap out of business?

Meanwhile we must not forget the philosophers and the historians who declare that no nation can be a first class nation unless it is a nation of first class fighting men. If to fight means annihilation and not to fight means to rot, we are surely in a pretty bad way.

LOOKING BACKWARDS.

The cause of the insurgents in the house of representatives is sure to succeed. The rules of procedure must be revised. But that success will crown the efforts of the insurgents in the next congress is hardly to be expected; the country is not yet fully aroused to the evil which it is permitting in the lower house of congress.

Not only do the present rules make one-man power possible in the house, making the speaker virtually a despot, but they have steadily been looking backward for many sessions. The archaic rules of the house are not tolerated in any other parliamentary body in the civilized world. The changes that came with Speaker Reed were in part necessary to expedite business. The right of the speaker to count a quorum, insisted upon by Reed, raised a tremendous uproar of protest throughout the country. But if counting as present those who are present is an act of despotism, entitling the counter to the title of "Czar," there is no name strong enough in usurpation and tyranny with which to characterize the present rules of the house. This innovation of Czar Reed was but a mild summer's breeze compared to the winter's blast of Speaker Cannon's absolute dictation of the time and the content of all legislation.

Could anything be more absolutely despotic than the right of the speaker of the house to recognize whatsoever member he pleases in debate with absolutely no reference to the member's right to the floor? Such is the power of the speaker at present, a power granted to no other presiding officer of any parliamentary assembly in the world. This arbitrary power is the most horrid of all the dictatorial powers which have been conferred upon the speaker. By means of it the members of the house are made to surrender their manhood. Would they speak to any question? They must first cringe before the speaker in private and crave his worshipful permission for the right of free speech. If it does not suit the despot's fancy, if the servile member has not been servile enough, he and his thousands of constituents are denied representation upon the floor of the house. The invitation to be a man, under this barbaric rule, is not strong in the house of representatives. To attempt to play such a part is to call down upon himself the sure displeasure of the czar of the house; he will go hence with no public building or other crumbs for his constituents and they will refuse to re-elect a man who had not sense enough to be a more willing tool.

This particular rule is a shame to manhood, but there are others that are equally despotic. The speaker and four other members of his party (the two of the minority do not count) constitute the committee on rules and their business it is to report rules day by day, when necessary, which will carry out the wishes of the speaker. If the house does not vote just as he wants it to, the speaker, in other words, will report a rule that will make it. Fine—for the speaker, isn't it?

The principal reason why the cause of the insurgents makes such slow progress, is that it is exceedingly dangerous to be an insurgent. The speaker appoints all the committees and bestows all the chairmanships, and the insurgent does not get any chairmanships worth while and his committee assignments are not such as are calculated to impress upon his constituency the belief that he is a big man in congress. The speaker is the devil and the member's constituents are the deep sea and the insurgent is between them.

We ought not to expect our representatives to carry on the fight all alone. When we rally to their support there will be a revision of the house rules and the house of representatives will be governed like other civilized bodies. Until then despotism will sit enthroned in the speaker's chair.

JUSTICE SHOULD BE CERTAIN.

The least unfortunate aspect of the final outcome of the government prosecution of the Standard Oil company is that the company escapes punishment for its misdeeds; the sorely unfortunate part of the business is that public confidence in the efficiency of the federal courts has been seriously disturbed.

The suit of the government was begun in August, 1906, so that it has been under consideration by the courts for two and one-half years. The first trial of the case resulted in a fine against the company of $29,240,000. This fine the court of appeals set aside and the supreme court refused to disturb the findings of the court of appeals. The second trial thereupon began a few weeks ago and came to an abrupt end by a dismissal of the suit the past week. The case has been most peculiar in all its aspects. The original fine was not only unprecedented, but was so enormous that it was certain to seriously disturb business and, indeed, it is the general belief that it had much to do with aggrevating the panic of 1907. This fine was then overturned in a decision, remarkable for its caustic phrasing, handed down by a judge whose bent of mind and training, in the popular mind, made him naturally sympathetic with capital. The suit is now finally dismissed upon what is expressly declared to be the conclusions of this decision of the court of appeals.

The public will naturally draw the conclusion from these judicial decisions, all of them most peculiar and marked by extremeties of reasoning, that somebody blundered. Whatever may be the correctness of the abstract principles of law laid down in these three very unusual decisions, the decisions themselves will fail to meet the approval of the public conscience, the first in that the fine levied was so heavy as to shake the very framework of society, the second in that it bears marks of intemperance and bias, and the last in that it puts an end to the whole proceeding upon a technicality. The net results of the three decisions has been to belittle the bench in the eyes of the people. Instead of doing justice, the courts have been hopelessly divided among themselves and the guilty have escaped.

The final outcome of this suit leaves it very clear that the government has need of additional powers in order to defend the cause of the whole people against the aggressions of some of the people. Either we need more and better laws or we need more definite and more simple rules of court procedure. Possibly we need both. The problem is one that the government has to solve.

There are very few people who do not believe that the Standard Oil company is more guilty than charged in the indictments in this suit. Yet after two and one-half years of vigorous prosecution the company escapes punishment entirely. It is very evident that our system is at fault. Our laws ought to be clear enough so that definite offenses may be alleged and definitely proved or definitely disproved. Our court procedure should be such that justice may be definitely arrived at. "The most that we can say," declare the judges of the court of appeals, "is that the question is one upon which judges, after a full discussion, might very reasonably disagree." Both the law and the methods of procedure at law are so vague and uncertain that the decisions of the courts are conflicting to violent extremes.

Justice ought to be certain. From the widely varying and conflicting decisions of the courts in this case it is evident that under present conditions justice, so far as the rebating Standard Oil company is concerned, is very uncertain.

Erin go braugh, Ireland forever, now, March 17 and forever!

The Standard Oil company will never have to pay that $29,240,000, but it will have to go down in its sock some when it settles with Attorney John S. Miller, et al.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Dr. T. F. Rodwell of the Vermilion Lake Indian school, who was at the St. Louis hotel yesterday, is training the students of the school in the secrets of football and baseball.

There are 150 students at the school at the present time. The government officials have always advocated that the Indian youths be given plenty of exercise. Following this desire upon the part of those who have Indian affairs in charge, Dr. Rodwell has mapped out his baseball and football ideas.

The Vermilion Lake Indian team played two or three football games last fall, as a matter of fact. They were beaten by the Ely high school, but that didn't discourage the boys, as they played under the most discouraging conditions.

They didn't have regular uniforms, for one thing. Another point in favor of the opponents of the Indian youths, was the fact that the redskins didn't have any helmets, which are handy when you desire to butt your opponent in the stomach. They didn't have any cleats in their shoes, and Dr. Rodwell found it necessary to have some of the boys play in moccasins.

Some of the boys on the Indian team couldn't speak the English language. There were seven members of the Chippewa tribe upon the team, so the signals were given in the language of this tribe. On the other hand, the pale-faced youths were giving their signals in the good old-fashioned mother tongue. Spies in the camps of the enemy availed nothing in a case like this, for neither team could understand the language the other gave its signals in. Great idea that for managers, who are suspicious of the other team getting too familiar with their team's signals.

As soon as the frost gets out of the ground Dr. Rodwell is going to get his football squad together for early training. It's rather an advanced training idea for a team that has only played about three games, but the doctor is of the opinion that his school can turn out a team that will make the high school teams in the northern part of the state look to their laurels, and he is going to have the team well prepared.

He has a man named Irving at the school, who played with the Haskell Indian football team. This fellow will coach the Indian youths in the mysteries of cross buck, the forward pass and the gentle art of sticking your head into the abdomen of the opponents. That is, Irving won't neglect this part of the art of football playing, not if he is a good coacher.

The doctor will have his baseball boys out this spring, too, so that if anyone should happen to journey across the lake from Tower he might imagine that he had stepped on to the campus of an embryo Carlisle school.

Dr. Rodwell says his team is after games, and that this fall it will be able to meet all teams of its weight. They are looking for games already, as a matter of fact, so the teams of the northern part of the state had best beware of the red brother when he trots on the North State gridiron. Last fall, pale brother, those dusky youths were new at the game; this fall they are going into the game with some additional knowledge, and if you have followed the traditions of the Carlisle Indian school, you will know that if there is one game in which poor Lo excels in, that game is the same game of football.

Watch out for Dr. Rodwell's Indian football team this fall.

A. T. Henderson, New York representative of the French line of steamers that ply between New York and Havre, France, stated at the Spalding yesterday that it was necessary nowadays for every steamship company that wished to be successful, to have at least two of the fastest type of vessels.

For instance, Mr. Henderson stated that the French line had quite a few vessels that can steam along at the comfortable rate of 18 knots an hour. But some people are not satisfied with this. They want speed, the mania of the age, and to satisfy this love of fast traveling, the steamship people have found that they must construct faster boats.

Mr. Henderson says the French line will have a new boat that will average 25 knots an hour. The contract for the Lusitania and the Mauretania, the two speediest boats upon the ocean, specified that these vessels should be able to make an average speed of 25 knots an hour. Both of the big ocean greyhounds have done better than this, as a matter of fact.

Mr. Henderson says that it is this love of speed upon the part of the traveling public that has led railroad officials to put on faster trains. Some people want speed at any price, and both the railroad officials and the men engaged in the steamship business are in the business to satisfy the public.

On the other hand, Mr. Henderson says some people want the largest boat afloat, as they imagine these are safer. Some people prefer to ride upon the slower boats, as they are of the opinion that these boats are less liable to accident.

So there you have it. The steamship company that wishes to be popular with the public must have more than one type of vessel. They must have boats for all kinds of people, and Mr. Henderson says most of the big companies have.

Emil Olund, who used to be collector of customs in Duluth during the administration of Grover Cleveland, was at the St. Louis yesterday. Besides being collector of customs at this city, Mr. Olund once ran for the office of county treasurer upon the Democratic ticket.

He called up his home at St. Paul upon the long distance last evening. He was informed over the telephone that his son had at last won the consent of a young lady whom he was very anxious to hear say "Yes." Mr. Olund asked to talk to the lady in the case, as she happened to be at the Olund home at the time. She came to the telephone, and the prospective father-in-law gave her his blessing over the wires.

Mr. Olund was very much pleased by the announcement of his son's success, and the very pretty remarks he made to the future bride must have made the young lady sorry that 152 miles intervened between such a gallant future papa and herself.

THE WEATHER.

SNOW

Last night was marked by a light snow fall, and the weather remained mild. It was 22 degs. above zero here. But lower temperatures, accompanied by snow flurries are predicted for tonight.

A year ago today, it was clear and cold.

The sun came up this morning at 6:25 and is scheduled to set at 6:10.

R. E. Clark, acting forecaster, says of weather conditions:

"A through of low pressure, with centers over Minnesota, Tennessee and Louisiana, now overspreads the Mississippi and Ohio valleys, the Gulf and the Middle Atlantic coast states, while another disturbance is approaching over British Columbia. The movement of these barometric depressions during the past twenty-four hours has been attended by rain or snow over Texas, Oklahoma, the Ohio, Mississippi and Missouri valleys, the upper Lake Region, the Southeastern states and in Canada. The weather is somewhat warmer over all districts except over Texas, Vermont, the Dakotas and in the extreme Northwest, where the temperatures have fallen slightly since Friday morning, due to the movement of the three high pressure areas now central over Saskatchewan, Kansas and Eastern Ontario."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures:

Incentivum.

'Tis grief inspires the fervent prayer—
And trials guide us to our God
And sorrows as we linger there,
Reveal the path our Saviour trod;
'Tis human to forget—how prone
To thankless take of blessings given;
And ofentimes distress alone
Directs the mind and soul to heaven.

II.

And we forget the summer's doom
If flowery paths before us lie,
We fail to comprehend the gloom
Should clouds obscure the sunny sky.
'Till showers arise and thunders roll
In which despair and anguish blend,
With fear transfixed—then doth the soul
In suppliant appeal ascend.

III.

Thus sorrows sent but win the hearts
From earth's alluring haunts of sin,
Disguised, some blessing to impart,
For heaven perchance a soul to win,
Inciting penitence and prayer
The fire refines—the chastening rod,
But serves to perfectly prepare
The heart for good—the soul for God.

They bring to youth a budding flower,
A strain of music sweet;
Love's thrilling dream—a sunlit hour—
Full hands and eager feet.

They bring to middle life, content,
Brave days and nights of calm;
An anthem, on the winds half spent,
A knowledge of life's balm.

They bring to age the boon of rest—
Surcease from labor's woes.
Pale folded hands upon the breast,
The triumph of repose.

Some carp at verse
On spring.
'Tis not so worse

When vernal cheer
In rhyme
Throughout the land will be on tap,
The ink starts running with the sap.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Human Types---The Pessimist.

Only last week I stood with one of a half hour on the front platform of a car. The sky was overcast and his face more so. As from time to time he turned the "juice" on and off I could see that it was a tired, dispirited man who was guiding that car. Asking him if he had attended any of the special religious meetings in the city lately, I learned that all his spare time had been giving to caring for a sick friend, who had died the night before. "And now," continued the man at the brake, "things look pretty dark." I tried to rally him by reminding him that he had still his own life to live, and that he could naturally expect at least twenty years of happy life. "I don't care whether it is twenty or two," he gloomily replied. "In fact, I shouldn't care if it ended today."

"There you have the pessimist and this particular one has ample company today, not only in men of his own class, but in men who stand high in philosophy. But somehow I have less sympathy with the philosophical pessimist, the man who reasons it all out theoretically that this is the worst possible world, than I have with the pessimist by the hard conditions of his own life. If I were going to spend my days and nights constructing a system of philosophy, I should try to build a cheery, hopeful one. But for the man who is chronically gloomy because he has to stand at the brake all day long, or to do even harder and more monotonous things, who has to shovel coal into the fires of an ocean steamer, the woman who has to leave her own children with a neighbor while she earns their daily bread, the child who goes to some monotonous and paralyzing employment every morning, when he ought to be on his way to school, I have a heart full of sympathy. Were I in their places I might be a pessimist, too.

Certainly we who are more favored in our surroundings who have more congenial and varied, if not less arduous tasks, ought to be considerate of the pessimist. And we who are constitutionally equipped with a sunny disposition should be patient with the man whose temperament is just the opposite of ours. Poor fellow, he may have inherited it from some ancestor several generations back. And all of us should recognize the service which the pessimist renders by recalling us now and then to the hard, sober, painful facts of life.

But let the pessimist also see things straight and see life as a whole. A cute distinction some witty fellow has made between optimist and pessimist. The former, he says, sees the doughnut, the latter the hole. It is too much to ask of my motorman for example, that he be fair and broad enough to look occasionally at the doughnut, to hear the laughter of the happy children whom he carries day by day, to recognize the hearty and order of the universe all about him and the indisputable fact that more people are happier, more often than they are sad. Are, let him, as he probably can, recall moments of supreme happiness in his own experience. Let him be candid enough to own that these are the real things in human life; to admit with Archbishop French:

That doubt and trouble, fear and pain,
And anguish all are shadows vain;
That death itself shall not remain.

Another bright characterization of the pessimist is this: "Life is the man who, when he sees the tide go out thinks it will never come back." Are you so impatient, my pessimistic friend, that you cannot wait for the turn of life? THE PARSON.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "Is your husband a somebody?"

"Oh, yes," answered the guileless wife. "He is never away at night unless he is detained at the office."

Detroit Free Press: "Is he making good in his new line of work?"

"Yes, indeed. He is already finding fault with the way his boss carries on the business."

Brooklyn Eagle: Harry—I hear that your father-in-law has cut you out of his will.

Thomas—I don't care. I'm teaching him to play poker.

Puck: The Cop—Hello, kids. You're just the kids I'm looking for. Goin' West to hunt Indians, I suppose?

The Leader (doggedly)—No, we ain't. We're goin' to Africa to hunt lions with Teddy.

THOUGHTS ON BOYS

By J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

Author of "The Young Man and Himself," etc.

His Religion.

(Copyright, 1909, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Some people are feeling sorry for the boy who is not a tough or at least an unfortunate, one whom the professional students of the subject call a "delinquent," for the delinquent gets most of the kind thoughts and the kind words and the flowers, while the real first-class boy who does somewhat as he ought to do is passed by. The "delinquent" holds the center of the stage.

Yet there would not be many delinquents if we only knew how hungry almost every boy is for the best things, provided they are brought to him in a way that he can take hold of them. If one's religion is the attitude he takes toward the invisible Father above, then that ,as Carlyle says, is the most important thing about anybody, even a boy. And a boy's grandmother has no more reason for having that right attitud than he has, not as much. Nor is it any easier for her than for him. It is the same religion in both, even as they may eat the same food at the same table. But in her that food reappears in a bent body, soft baby-like flesh, beautiful gray hair and extensive wrinkles, while in him it becomes an erect little body, knotted muscles, stubby hair and smooth skin. They get their relation in the same way—the same loving Father, gracious Saviour, instructing and inspiring Bible; but in one it reappears as grandmother, in the other as boy.

He gets into religion and religion gets into him in a most proper way. He finds himself in a physical world and he must adjust himself to it, with food and water and air and exercise, and he does it by directing himself and correcting himself, though, of course, somebody helps him. He does this because he feels his limitations, has a sense of need. That is what we call physical adjustment. He is in a world of things that his intellect must get hold of, and so there must be a constant intellectual adjustment. In like ways he adjusts himself to his social world. In each case he has a hunger, a sense of need, that propmts him. He is also in a world of moral forces and of spiritual existences. They appeal to him. It is this sense of need that leads him into a peaceful and loving relation to God and, under the influence of that relationship, he lives his religious life; but does it as a boy. A boy has a hunger for God as he has for food and friends and fun, but he does not always know what it means. He has the same taint and bias that the rest of us have and the same disinclination to all the pain he may experience in the readjustment, but it is only the process that he dislikes and not the peace to which it leads. He is just as ready as the rest of us—in fact, more ready—to give up what is wrong and accept what is right and to worship and serve God. He may have a much more acute sense of need and may more eagerly lay hold of the help that comes from the Father above. He has all the material for a religious life, if he is only helped to see the meaning of his hunger and to adjust himself aright. But he must be religious in his own way. It will be wholly personal devotion to the person of his Lord and to those with whom he is connected. Therefore, it is social. No boy is religious to himself. He is a hero worshiper, and this instinct is dominant. The "gang" instinct is a part of the same spirit. His divine Master is more divine and lovely when he can regard him as one of them, an interested in the boy's friends. It is not abstract, but concrete, truth that he likes—truth in the form of persons, who appear to him. His religion is, therefore, emotional. It fires the feelings and the imagination. In original and spontaneous ways his feelings express themselves, but usually by his actions. Interest and activity are the laws of his nature. He gets it ingrained by what t lead him to do. It is not a fence around him, but a force within him. He is not a doctrinaire nor solely a dreamer; he is a doer. Let him have something to love and to learn to do and he is happy. He is ready to show his feeling in extravagant ways, sometimes scenic, but always sincere. Let me not fail to say that his religion is militant. Something to do; also something to dare. It is not claimed that he is any too brave, but he likes to be in a contest, and when he is truly religious he wants to buckle on sword and go forth to smite sins, private and public, and to liberate their victims. He takes to military titles and organizations and decorations. Boys' brigades, Knights of King Arthur, epaulettes and brass buttons. Let him think of his faults and sins as horrible giants and he will make war on them. He often tries to be good when he don't know it.

His susceptibility to religious impressions comes at intervals, with the awakening of new powers, like the will and the conscience and the social instincts. At those moments he is more easily helped. Another interesting fact is that the food for his religious life is the Bible and that can be brought to him in a way to appeal to all of those characteristics of his religion. His memory is active to retain it.

All boys love geography and he can construct with his own hands the geographical setting of the Bible stories. The world's greatest heroes are there and the most exciting battles in behalf of righteousness. He can play all the games of society. In the gang he widens out into a member and lover of men, as his Master did.

Obedience to the earthly father constitutes a training in respect for the heavenly Father's will; lofty earhtly companionship makes it easier for him to know his best friend. The father who fails to teach him the true obedience is almost as criminally stupid as the one who denies responsibility for his religious as well as his physical well being. When that father hustles him off to Sunday school and thinks he has discharged his debt to his boy, he has only befooled himself and betrayed his boy.

UNITED STATES AND JAPAN

BY SAVOYARD

LIKE Esau, the state of California parted with her birthright, and unlike Esau, she did not get even a mess of pottage for it. The first week of last month California was ruled from Tokio and under the lash of the president of the United States, California surrendered to Japan under the tenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

The inducement is that if California will be good, polite, humble, subservient, sycophantic, Japan will do her a favor, and we have the spectacle of California being required by the administration at Washington to submit her laws to the mikado of Japan for approval or disapproval.

Now I don't care whether there is danger of war or not, but I do say that it is better to have a war to the finish with Japan, or any other people, than to throw the tenth amendment of the Federal Constitution to the dogs, and that is what California has done. What a pity it was not one of our Southern states that had to deal with the condition!

And then how humiliating it is! Have we not heaped all sorts of contumely upon China, and more humiliating than the segregation of Washington? A Chinese is not a first-class fighting man like your Jap. Can that be the reason we are insolent to the one and sycophantic to the other? Are we a nation of Sir Andrew Agueche eks?

Be that as may be, we have abjectly surrendered the rights of a sovereign state of this Union to Japan, and the legislature of that state has been coerced into ratification of the thing; but what will the people of California do? There is the rub. What if they take a notion to settle the race question by vigilance committee? What if they forbid Japs to enter schools with their children? What if they string up a few of the brown men?

There is your war, that a dozen plain words from the state department of Tokio would have made impossible, if spoken when the question was first broached, at the time when the president of the United States forced the mayor of San Francisco to knuckle to the Japs.

The right to regulate their common schools is not surrendered by the states in the Constitution, and the exercise of that right is not prohibited to the states in that instrument. But, Roosevelt says that by a treaty our government has made with Japan, California has forfeited the right to regulate her common schools, and that treaty operates to repeal a vital principle of the Constiution of the United States. To support this monstrous heresy Clause 2 of Article 6 of the Constiution is invoked, which declares that all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land.

Then the sole question is, has the United States "authority" to make a treaty that repeals a part of the Constitution of the United States? If so, the federal establishment may make a treaty that repeals all the Constitution of the United States. If one right of a state can be nullified by a treaty with an alien people, all the rights of the states can, in like manner, be destroyed by treatey negotiation. Absurd!

But there is something in this Japanese question that is stronger than presidents, than armies, than navies, and that is that almighty element we call caste. The white race will not descend to an equality with the brown, or the black. There is a stubborn fact that the Constitution could not overcome at the South, and that no treaty can obscure at the West. Two children Rebecca bore to Isaac at one birth, and of them it is written, "Jacob have I loved, but Esau have I hated," and yet from our lame preachments of human justice Esau was the betetr man of the two. But if that distinction was divinely made between two children, sprung from the same loins, born of the same womb, nourished at the same breast, at the same time, what must be the human repugnance, if not loathing, the superior has for the inferior, when Caucasian comes in contact with meaner folk?

There is your issue in California, as it was in Mississippi, and it is stark madness to say that it can be composed by a governor and a speaker cringing to the orders of a president. There would have been nothing of it if, when the fleet reached the Pacific, the state department had notified Japan that our ships would stay in the waters of that ocean until the Japs ceased to cross it except from our shores to theirs.

The thing is not done with. The Jap is going to be denied the school by public opinion just as the negro is denied he ballot at the South by public opinion. The ostracism will accomplish that which the law failed to do, and if ostracism fails, then the vigilance committee will come in and take a hand. We all know what took place when the Chinese threatened to overcome and possess the Pacific coast.

There is a difference between your Chinaman and your Jap. The Chinaman is honest and a coward, while your Jap is brave and a rascal. Nobody ever heard of a Chinaman standing before danger, but he never fled from an improvident bargain. Your Jap never stood to a losing contract and he never blanched before peril. Is that how is came that we are insolent to China and yielding to Japan? Is that it? The more's the pity the matter did not rise in New Orleans instead of in San Francisco.

How did we treat the Chinese some years ago, and what came of it? We excluded their coolies, and they did not complain, but we got to transporting some of her gentlemen, assuming they were coolies. China remonstrated and we paid no heed. Then China passed the word to all the guilds of that wonderful people to buy no more American goods, and invoice after invoice of our merchandise rotted on Chinese wharfs.

Here was the devil to pay and we paid him like a man to the uttermost farthing. Her treaty rights we had treated with contempt, when China appealed to them and to our sense of right; but when she fought us with the boycott, the only way she can fight, we awarded to Mammion what we had denied to justice. And had Japan been as helpless, physically, as is old China, doubtless the thing would have been composed after the same fashion. We would have forced her to keep her laborers out, and she would have forced us, as China did, and by the same methods, to let her gentry in.

But Japan is a fighting nation, flushed with a glorious and bloody victory. Nobody outside of Japan dreamed that she could contend against Russia; nobody outside of Japan dreams she can contend against the United States. She is poor and in debt and they all say that she has no money to fight. Neither did Revolutionary France have money for war. Suppose Japan thinks she can lick us as easily as she did Russia? If she does, the war is as certain as tomorrow's sunrise, for she will make the war as a business venture, hoping to get a couple of billions as an indemnity, and this forcing of California to kiss her rod will only fix her in the opinion that she can lick us. The fleet is out of the Pacific, and when Japan strikes it is without warning, mighty sudden, mighty hard, and at a mighty vital place.

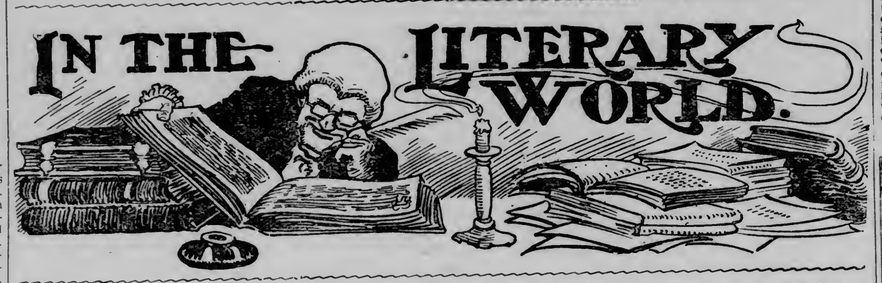

There are varied opinions as to whether Japan is in good faith in her dealings with our state department, and conflicting reports are abroad as to the number of Japanese arriving upon and departing from our shores. If the government of the mikado is sincere the thing will soon be composed, for every Jap is at the order of his rulers at home. At this moment the Japs could take absolute possesion of Hawaii, between the setting of one sun and the rising of its next successor. That is not a very comforting piece of reflection. How many Japs are in this country nobody knows, but it is persistently stated that they are swarming in through the British possessions at the north, and Mexico at the south.

But that is not the thing. The portentous fact is here—that the Federal government invaded the sovereign state of California and coerced that daughter of the republic to do the will of an alien power in a matter over which California, and California only, had jurisdiction.

That is what makes it a tremendous question and not a threatened nor a real war is as dangerous? Is California a state or a satrapy?

IN THE LITERARY WORLD.

LOADED DICE. By Ellery H. Clark. Indianopolis: The Bobbs-Merrill Co. $1.50.

The name of Ellery H. Clark is new on the title pages of popular fiction, but it has been known for more than a decade in athletic history. Several times Mr. Clark won the title of champion all-around athlete of America. This love of outdoor sports shows itself romantically in scenes of thrilling excitement throughout the pages of "Loaded Dice." There is a horse race, for instance, that makes you want to rise in your seat and cheer. There is a vivid duck-hunting episode that makes the pulses leap; Mr. Clark's particular penchant is duck-hunting. There is the best fist-fight we've had since "Rodney Stone." There is a hammer-throwing contest, full of amusement, and said to be based on actual experience. The first time Mr. Clark essayed to throw the hammer he is supposed to have landed just as he describes his miner doing, only he lit on the back of his neck, and was too busy seeing stars to want to fight any one.

But more impressive than race or contest is the theme which Mr. Clark has chosen and the direct, straightforward way in which he works it out. The face of the narrative is set like a flint toward the climax. It concerns one Richard Gordon, a man of massive strength and enormous energy. He conceives of life and love as gambling, and of immortality as the biggest game of all. He will take his chances of future punishment if he seems the gambler incarnate. The very essence of the spirit of play. And whether he or fate holds loaded dice, the reader does not know until the very end, when that great climax, with all the swell accumulated through long suspense, breaks upon him with its overpowering wave.

Mr. Clark displays such originality, such vigor, such bold handling of big ideas and big situations that it is safe to predict for "Loaded Dice" a very large measure of popularity and for its author as successful a career in fiction as in athletics.

THE JOURNAL OF A NEGLECTED WIFE. By Mabel Herbert Urner. New York: B. W. Dodge & Co. $1.10.

Women are more prone than men to display to the world their heart secrets —or at least they used to do so. That's why in the last few years the book-buying public has been inflicted with such a stream of "Confessions," "Diaries" and "Journals Intimate"—all alike nauseatingly gushy or monotonously tiresome. Mabel Herbert Urner's "Journal of a Neglected Wife" is different. This "Journal" is real, bitingly, convincingly genuine, so much so that there are passages poignant that the mere reading hurts. There is no appeal to passion, no striving for effect in the mute entries of this diary; it tells only everyday things; but they're true to life.

"Sometimes I wonder," she writes, "if I could have held his love longer had I dressed more and been more careful that he should never see me unless I was attractively gowned. When I look back I am filled with dismay to think how often he has seen me when I must have been most unattractive. It is true that fifteen years of married life have made me careless. I remember all the lacy, delicate, perfumed lingerie of my wedding trousseau, and how he used to admire them and call them 'frillikins.' But now I wear the plainest and most untbecoming things. I have felt that it was unnecessary and extravagant to spend as much money on lingerie; instead, I have put it in the house—in rugs, cut glass and silver—in things I could 'keep.'

"Oh, how foolish I have been! How much wiser to have bought some expensive morning gowns than that solid silver teaset this fall. The gowns would have made me more attractive every morning at breakfast, and the tea service—I don't think he ever noticed it."

Again she writes:

"What a pitiful thing it is to depend so completely on any one person for happiness! Had I only the courage to go away—to leave him a note saying that if he loves this other woman, I want him to be with her. In desperate moments I have planned this note over and over again. But I have not the strength. He has made up my life for so long. To give him up now would be like tearing my very soul apart."

INFATUATION. By Lloyd Osbourne. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill Co. $1.50.

The girl in Lloyd Osbourne's novel, "infatuation," is a genius for loving. Her one thought is to make herself indispensable to the man she loves. Her one ambition—to please him, and her brain is busy all the time to find new ways of doing it. Her every impulse and every action springs from love. To love is her vocation. Her sparkling tongue, her audacity—all are a spice to a love that might otherwise grow cold. Her lover is a man. She loves him "millions and millions"—makes him a millionaire—a love millionaire.

Mr. Osbourne's vivid novel deals with a woman's infatuation for a man, frankly, bravely, unconventionally with her love tenderly, touchingly, gloriously. If it speaks of passion unashamed, it is only to give splendid praise to the redeeming power of a pure affection. If it touches on the significance of flesh, it is only to offer an enduring tribute at once to the beauty and the force of a woman's consuming devotion.

Among the Magazines.

In the March American Magazine, Samuel Hopkins Adams relates the adventures of a somnambulist. It is the true story of a man with whom Mr. Adams roomed while in college. It is doubtful whether a more extraordinary case of this kind was ever recorded.

In the same number Ida M. Tarbell, writing under the title "Where Every Penny Counts," shows how the tariff operates to increase the cost of living. Irving Bachelier presents a mass of new and interesting facts about Commodore Vanderbilt. Edwin Lefevre writes an imaginary conversation about Roosevelt, in which a railroad magnate, a great nerve specialist, and a famous novelist give their ideas of the man.

George Fitch, the new humorist, writes on Taft. William Allen White continues his series, Ingraham Lovell proceeds with his serial story. Other story writers are: Mrs. L. H. Harris, James B. Connolly, Octavia Roberts and James Oppenheim. "The Interpreter's House" and "The Pilgrim's Scrip" are full of good reading.

The March Woman's Home Companion carries out the publishers' promise of a bigger and better magazine in 1909. It is a large, handsome issue, full of human interest, and attractive in every way. A discussion of "What the Emmanuel Movement Realy Is," begins in this issue. The importance of the subject and the standing of the writers make this article of particular interest. Walter Prichard Eaton contributes an article on the higher phase of acting, pointing out, with a sure hand, the greatest of our actresses and telling why they are so. Alexander Dana Noyes financial editor of the New York Evening Post, has something very important to say about women's investments. There are a number of valuable articles on subjects of peculiar interest to women.

The March issue is a special spring fashion issue announcing the advanced spring styles. Princess gowns, small hats and dainty shoes seem to be the leading notes. A most interesting feature is a discussion of the colors and styles suitable to blondes and brunettes, tall women and short women, stout women and slim.

The leading place in the Engineering Magazine for March is given to the introductory article of a series by Charles Buxton Going on the operating methods of the Santa Fe railway. The Santa Fe has developed shop methods, mechanical and manufacturing practice and relations with employes, which are in advance of many of the standards reached even under conditions of keen competition in manufacturing. Mr. Going's profusely illustrated articles will describe in detail the chief of these features. Another illustrated feature of much interest is Edgar Allen Forbes' description of the railways of French North Africa and the conditions of travel in Algiers, Tunis and Morocco. A discussion of the engineering situation in the United States navy is of peculiarly timely interest at the present time. Arthur Selwyn-Brown contributes a review of production and prospects in the coper industry.

* * *

The Pallette and Bench for March, published by the Keramic Studio company, is filled with new studies and designs for the oil and water colorist. The colored study by Miss Josephine Fitkin of "Deers in Moonlight" is very rich in color, and her other studies of fowl and animals are quite interesting. The correspondence column, open to all art students, is highly instructive and of great assistance to all who are perplexed in deciding as to best methods to pursue in coloring.

* * *

The two series which gave distinction to the February Atlantic continue with increasing interest in the March number. The Diary of Gideon Welles relates very fully the cabinet devates over the Emancipation Proclamation and describes with perfect frankness the various intrigues of cabinet members which constantly threatened to destroy the success of the Lincoln administration. It is with startling candor, too, that J. O. Fagan, "The Author-Switchman," pays his respects to labor unions, telling the truth about them without malice or concealment Samuel P. Orth has some plain facts to state about American public schools which will give parents and educators much to think of. Prof. Munsterberg tells why the American book in an American edition is as unknown abroad as when Sidney Smith asked in scorn, "Who reads an American book?" "Physical Science of Today," by Prof. John Trowbridge, tells of the most important of our present day advances in knowledge of the universe.

* * *

Sir H. H. Johnston, who for many years has represented Great Britain in divers capacities in her African possessions, and is a mighty hunter, contributes to the Youth's Companion for March 4 a most interesting article on "What Mr. Roosevelt May See in Africa." He takes the reader step by step along the probable route of the ex-president's travels from Zanzibar through the vast inland regions, where game abounds, to his coming out of the dark forest at Khartum. He tells what bests and birds—dangerous, rare, and some legendary—ahe traveled may encounter, and gives a synopsis of his hunting license, which is an ordinary one, but sufficiently liberal to satisfy the most exacting, since it puts no limit on the number of lions, leopards and crocodiles that may be taken.

* * *

The Popular Science Monthly for March opens with an article on the electrical operation of steam railways by Prof. J. B. Whitehead, of the Johns Hopkins university, who makes a careful comparison of the cost and other conditions of operating railways by steam and electricity and finds the balance t be decidedly in faver of the latter method. Prof. C. Stuart Gager, University of Missouri, gives an illustrated account of the very interesting experimelts he made on the influence of radium rays on life processes of plants. Dr. George A. Soper of New York city, gives an account of the work that should be undertaken by city boards of health.

Legislation which is wanted by the whole nation cannot be obtained Why? A. L. Thomas' article, "The Barnacles on the Ship of State." In the March number of "Success Magazine," answers this question and throws interesting side-lights on prominent politicians of the day. In the same number Ernest Poole in his article, "The Venerable factories of Paris," shows us what can be accomplished by intensative cultivation of the land; Frederic Thompson, the well-known theatrical manager, discusses openly and freely the recent spread of decadent and suggestively immoral plays in America and their evil effect on the minds of the young; Woods Hutchinson tells us what we can learn from our children, and Walter Weyl describes the dangers of impure milk. Orison Swett Marden's editorial is entitled "Not the Salary But the Opportunity."

* * *

The fiction in Putnam's for March includes "A Stranger in New York," a story of life skil by Elliott Flower, illustrated by Glackens; "In Sound of the Sea," by Eleanor Seeleye, a sombre story of the King Arthur region on the coast of Cornwall, illustrated by drawings from Louis A. Holman; "The Child Spirit," a story of the Champs Elysees, Paris, by Marie L. Goetchius, illustrated by H. J. Mowatt; "The Pipe of Pan," a tale of a young German musician in New York, and another of Jane Clifford's "Yours in Confidence" stories about Mrs. Jared Dowe.

Current Literature for March emphasizes the extent to which the "psychic" note has invaded contemporary life and letters. In the "Literature and Art" department it discusses Henry M. Alden's theory of the "new psychical era" dawning on literature. Under the heading "Religion and Ethics" it presents some new explanations of spiritualistic phenomena. In the dramatic field it describes the "psychic currents" that vitalize such plays as "The Third Degree," "The Dawn of Tomorrow," and "The Vampire." And, finally, in the "Science and Discovery" department it summarizes a recent argument of Dr. Woods Hutchinson's indicting the "New Thought" and metaphysical cults. In addition to these timely articles Current Literature features character sketches of William Nelson Cromwell, "the man behind the Panama canal," of Jose Miguel Gomez, the new president of the Cuban republic, and of Abbott Lawrence Lowell, the newly elected president of Harvard University.

* * *

The special features of the March number of the American Review of Reviews includes a group of striking articles on the Africa of today, including an authoritative illustrated forecast of the expedition of which President Roosevelt will be central figure, by Edward C. Clark; an informing statement by Cyrus C. Adams, the geographical expert, regarding "Africa in Transformation;" a communication from Olive Schreiner, author of "The Story of An African Farm," concerning the native problem in British South Africa; and a sketch of Bishop Hartzell, of the Methodist Episcopal church, and his great African diocese, the largest in the world, by Dr. Ferdinand C. Iglehart. This number also contains a notable survey of the achievements of the Roosevelt administration, by Judson C. Welliver; a timely analysis of the recent devices and inventions making for the safety of travel on the modern ocean liner, by Col. E. A. Stevens, the marine engineer; a significant exposition of the nationalizing tendencies of the conservation movement, by Dr. W. J. McGee, of the conservation commission; an illustrated study of the latest methods adopted in the transportation of perishable fruits, by Francis J. Dyer; a timely description of the various European attempts to form farm colonies for tramps, by Gustavus Myers, and a piquant essay on "The Motor Car and Its Owner," by E. Ralph Estep.

The Keramic Studio for March has for its colored study "Blackberries, In Fruit and Blossom." It is very soft in color and will readily appeal to the china painter. The black and white studies of fruit are very good, as are the conventional designs. One of tomatoes for plate decoration is very unique, and a full size working design is given. Other studies of fruit, fish and flowers are very interesting.

* * *

Among the special features of the National for March are: "Why I went to the Philippines," by William H. Taft; "Lincoln and Grant," by Gen. Horace Porter; "The Navy Department," by Secretary Truman H. Newberry; "Bureau of Entomology," by L. O. Howard; "With Taft in the Southland," by Joe Mitchell Chapple; "Wireless Telegraph, Telephone and the Telepost." The opening chapters are given of a stirring story of the Marblehead fisher-folk. "The Adventures of Floyd Ireson," by H. C. Gauss, and there are all the usual essentials to a satisfying magazine.

Articles of special interest in the World's Work for March are: Dr. Alexander Graham Bell's "When Does Profit Become Usury?" French Strother's "Three Days With John Muir." "On the Frontier of the Fur Country," by Agnes C. Laut; "What Health is Worth to Us," by Frances Maule Bjorkman; "What Country Life May Become"—editorial article; and Lieut. Col. Patterson's "A Return to the Lion Country." John D. Rockefeller contributes the sixth installment of his Random Reminiscences, on "Experiences in the Oil Business," while other articles are: "A Small Measure of What President Roosevelt Has Done;" "The Heavy Cost of Innocence" "Art in Everyday Life;" "An Immigrant in the Land of Opportunity;" "A Theater to Teach Children," and a composite article on "The Open Corporation," by ex-Judge Gray and others.

In an impressive article in the March number of the North American Review, entitled "The Church and the Republic," Cardinal Gibbons declares that the church and the state being both divine institutions, each has its own specific jurisdiction within which obedience must be rendered to it. Senator Carter writes a suggestive article on "Tariff Revision and the Nation's Necessities." Hamilton W. Mable pays a tribute to "Burns, the Poet of Democracy." The concluding installment of the Duchess of Marlborough's series on "Woman's Position" discusses activities and opportunities in England and America. In an able article, entitled "Germany in Transition," "Anglo-American" recounts the changes which have occurred in German life since the end of the Franco-German war. Harold E. Gorst critices the present system of education and advocates a new order which would be in effect "An Educational Revolution."

* * *

Among the contents of the Forum for march are the following: "Suggestions for Amendments to Our Patent Law," by Isaac L. Rice; "The Incoming of Taft's Administration," by Henry Litchfield West; "The English Language in Porto Rico," by Roland P. Falkner; "Pleasant and Unpleasant Plays," by Clayton Hamilton; "The Silent Sisters of the Poor," poem by George Herbert Clark; "An Unlearned Lesson from Wagner," by Frederick R. Burton; "To the Towny Thrush," poem, by Max Eastman; "Writing as a Fine Art," by George Philip Krapp.

The Van Norden Magazine for March is one of the most attractive publications of the month. The frontispiece is a finely executed picture of the Italian royal family, and the news of the month is illustrated by photographs and cartoons. "Burton, the Independent Partisan," is an appreciation of the new Ohio senator by Thomas Hanly. John R. Bradley has an illustrated article on "The Big Gun in Africa," and William Allen discusses "The Awakening of the Northwest," the article being illustrated. "The Fallacy of Spring Medicine" is the subject of an interesting article by William T. Partridge. These are but a few of the highly interesting features of this rapidly growing periodical.

* * *

That the spirit of a famous artist can control the hand of a man who has never set brush to canvas and inspire him to produce pictures in the dead painter's characteristic style, is the suggestion made by Gustavus Myers in an article entitled "Telepathy on Canvas," which appears in the issue of Harper's Weekly for March 6. The story of the goldsmith Thompson and his paintings—samples of which are reproduced—is one of the most interesting that have been written concerning this class of psychic phenomena. To the same issue of Harper's Weekly Forbes Lindsay contributes the second of two articles which describe the work now being accomplished at Panama and show the falseness of the outcry against the Gatun dam. "A Modern Moses" is the title of the charming story by Robert Howard Russell descriptive of a Pennsylvania farmer's pilgrimage to the Holy Land.

NOTES ON GARDENING

THE TOMATO AND CELERY

The tomato is one of the most important and most in demand of all vegetables. It is one also that requires mores attention and proper cultivation to ripen in this far northern part of the country than most others. To have ripe tomtaoes in this neighborhood the earliest kinds should be used. It is difficult to say which is the very earliest, as nearly all seed men claim to have the earliest. Sparks' Earliana is, perhaps, the most universally conceded to be the earliest, good, tomato. Most seed men call it the "best early good tomato." Earliest Pink is another, differing only in color. From my own experience most of the others are small and irregular in shape. The two above are the best I have tested. There are many others, even second earlies, which by sowing early in the hotbed or hothouse and kept growing without a check and repotting once or twice, will produce quite a number of ripe fruit. If green tomatoes are wanted for pickles, the second earlies are perhaps the best, as they are generally more productive. The earlier the seed is sown the better, care being taken to keep the plants growing without a check. As soon as the plants are two inches high they should be transplanted into flats two inches apart each way, or into thumbpots, and as they grow larger transplant again into larger pots, to give them more room. The plants should never be crowded, for then they would be drawn up and become spindly and weak.

Air, light and sun are what they want. Transplanting into pots is the best way, for should the plant be in blossom at the time of setting out in the open ground, they may be moved without disturbing the roots and they will continue to bloom and fruit without a check. Set the plants four feet apart each way in fairly good soil. A warm, sandy loam is the best. If the ground is too rich the plants will grow too much leaf, become rank and bear few fruit. Stakes or trellis, should be used to grow the vines on, doing them as required. A trellis is the best, and looks the best. The vines can be grown in fan shape, thus giving light, air and sun, which are all important to the full development of the fruit. Close pruning of the side shoots, after enough branches have been established, should be attended to, and when a reasonable number of fruit are set, the large leaves may be taken off, so as to throw all the strength of the plant into the fruit. Plenty of water in the growing season should be given. This can be gradually diminisfied as the fruit begins to ripen.

If the above directions are strictly carried out, anyone can have a fair crop of ripe tomatoes. The most of the green tomatoes can be ripened in a sunny window, if not touched by frost when cold weather comes in the fall. There is one seed man, John Lewis Childs of Floral Park, N. Y., who claims to have a tomato so early and quick-groiwng that it can be sown in the open grounf in May and produce a crop of good tomatoes as early as most of the other kind grown in hotbeds. If sown in the hotbed this ought to be the tomato for this section. I am trying it.

Celery.

The seed of this important and most healtiful vegetable can be sown almost any time now. The early kinds as early as February, the later or main crop kinds later. If the late kinds are sown too early they are liable to run to seed in the hot summer weather. They are superior to the early kinds both in flavor, crispness and size or root. The early kinds are used for summer and fall, but if wanted for winter the large late sorts ought to be used and if properly stored in a cool cellar or root house will keep till late in the spring.

White Plume celery has long been thought the best early kind but the Chicago Giant self blanching and Silver self blanching are just as good or better.

The seed should be sown in rows in flats or seed boxes and when large enough to handle the plants should be pricked out or transplanted into other flats two inches apart each way. The soil should be very rich and well watered so as to keep the plants growing without a check. When the weather is suitable (a cloudy day is best,) the plants should be transplanted to the open ground. The rows should be three to four feet apart and the soil very rich. To have the best celery, trenches should be dug twelve inches more in depth and four to six inches well rotted manure put in bottom, treading it firmly. Then cover the manure with several inches of rich soil. The celery may then be planted in these trenches six to eight inches apart.

A shovel is the best tool to use for transplanting, so that the roots may be spread in a natural way or a larger ball of earth allowed to remain on the roots than could be done in any other way. The earth should be well firmed round each root and then watered. If the weather is hot, some kind of shade should be sed to prevent the young plant wilting till they have taken fresh root. As the plant grows, a little soil should be drawn up around each root to keep them growing in an upright position. This should be done as required, but earthing up too soon should be avoided as it retards the full development of the plants. As the fall approaches earthing up should be done gradually to the top of the plants, to blanch the stalks. When blanched the celery is ready for use and as soon as cool weather sets in it may be dug up and planted in wet soil or sand in the cellar or root house which must be kept quite dark. The roots of the plants only must be covered and packed as close together as possible. In this way if any of the celery is not thoroughly blanched when put away it will soon become so.

The early self blanching kind can be blanched by placing a wide board on each side of the row without earthing up, but earthing up is the best plan as the celery is much more crisp and tender than when boards are used.

My experience is that Winter Queen and Golden self-blanching are two good kinds. Winter Queen is the best keeper I ever had. Although not advising the general use of new kinds of seeds I always like to try a few of them. There is one new plant which I think deserves a thorough trial by people in the North—the Wonderberry produced by John Lewis Childs of Floral Park, N. Y., and one of Luther Burbank's creations is, if all he true that is said of it, a great acquisition. Mr. Burbank says of it: "This absolutely new species of berry plant is of great scientific interest having been produced by the combination of two very distinct wild species, Solanum guinense of West Africa, and Solanum villasium of the west coast of America. Neither of these wild species bear edible berries, but this new species bears the most delicious, wholesome and healthy berries in the utmost profusion, and always comes as exactly true from seed as any species produced by nature." It is very early and quick growing, said to produce fruit in three months from seed sown in any soil or climate. It is said to be good for any purpose, for eating raw, cooked, canned, or preserved. Try it.

COMFORTING WORDS.

Many a Duluth Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer greatful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Duluth readers.

William Bain, 1402 East Fourth street, Duluth, Minn., says: "About three years ago I was in poor health and my kidneys were badly disordered. My back also ached considerably. As I had heard and read a great deal of Doan's Kidney Pills, I made up my mind to try them and I procured a supply. After I had used two or three boxes, I was relieved and I have not had to take any medicine for my kidneys since. I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

MARJORIE SHIPHERD,
Who Will Take the Role of "Inez Gray" in the Senior Play.

CLEO FENTON,
As Bernice Halstead in the Senior Play.

EMMA EAMES.

The amusements of the time are typically those of Lent. Cards are played surreptitiously; women are showing a little more than ordinary interest in their favorite charities; the spring sewing is being considered; and amateur theatricals receive attention. The Y. M. C. A. minstrels last evening interested many people, and during the coming week the senior class of the high school will appear in the annual production under the guidance of A. F. M. Custance. The play to be presented this year will be "Diamonds and Hearts," and not only the students at the school but every alumnus is always deeply interested in the spring dramatic treat offered by the members of the graduating class. The girls of the class who will take part this year in the little play are Misses Cleo Fenton and Marjorie Shepherd of whom pictures are shown this week, and Dorothy Olcott, Ruth Davis and Gladys Clark. The play will be given at the assembly hall Friday evening.

Another event of the coming week which will be of much social and musical interest will be the concert by Mme. Emma Eames, who will appear in Duluth for the first time with Emilio Gogorza, baritone.

The Duluth women who serve the board of directors of the Y. W. M. C. A. are busy arranging plans for the membership contest which will be waged during the next month.

One of the very delightful events of the week was the outing party and Chinese supper at which William White Jr., was host at his home, 1421 East Superior street, Tuesday evening. After a few hours of skiing, the guests were entertained at supper. The dining room was transformed with decorations of Chinese lanterns and fans and flags, and presiding there was "Charley," a real Celestial, who has recently come to Duluth. "Chow nern" was the piece de resistance of the supper, and the genius of the dining room beamed a happy welcome on the guests and provided a running comment of stories and wise observations in a dialect that was altogether delightful. The guests were:

Misses—
Currier of Lynn, Mass., Hartley, Irma Hartley, St. Clair, Griffin, Marshall, Hunter, Richardson, Hubbell, Whister.

Messrs.—
Spencer, John Peyton, James McLennan, Charles McLennan,

PINK PREVAILING COLOR AT FIRST TAFT RECEPTION.

Washington, March 13.—Never has a more brilliant official function been held at the White House than the diplomatic reception yesterday, the first given there since President Taft has occupied the executive mansion. Resplendency of color was given to the scene by the full court uniforms worn by all the members of the diplomatic corps. To each of the diplomats with ambassadorial rank, President Taft gave a few moment's audience. In the east room, Mrs. Huntington Wilson poured tea during the assembling while Mrs. Moore, sister of Mrs. Taft, poured cafe frappe. Huntington Wilson and William Phillips, assistant secretarics of state, and the White House aides, aided President and Mrs. Taft in receiving the guests.

The color scheme was pink, white roses being used in the blue and red roses in the Red room. Mrs. Taft wore a dress of pink silk, draped with gauze lace, and carried a large princess bouquet af pink roses.

PRISONER IDENTIFIED AS SLAYER OF PRIEST.

Newark, N. J., March 13.—William Olsefski, one of the men arrested in connection with the murder of Father E. Anison of St. Stanislaus church, is identified by the dead priest's housekeeper as one of the trio who did the shooting. He was later arraigned in the criminal court and committed without bail to await the action of the grand jury. Twelve others were arraigned on charges of conspiracy. The police still believe Anison's enemies brought outsiders to Newark to kill the priest in order to make detection less easy.

WHEN LITTLE PATRICK BECAME WORTHY OF HIS NAME.

BY MAUD WALKER.

LITTLE Patrick Ryan's birthday fell on the 17th of March, the day devoted to the celebration of the Great Saint Patrick. And that was why little "Pat"—as he was commonly called—happened to be named in honor of the good Irish Saint.

"I wish I could do something great, and be called Patrick instead of plain Pat," said little Pat to himself one day after he and his mother had been talking over the coming birthday and the plans for a party. "But I'm just a little Irish kid and don't know what I can do to make myself uncommon. At present I'm no more than Johnny Woods, Fred Smith, Fatty Thompson and Snubby Travis. And all those kids are just common kids."

Then Pat was called to run an errand

for his grandmother, who lived in Pat's home, and was Pat's best chum of all the family. Somehow, dear old Grandmamma knew just what children wanted, and she understood Pat's wants as well as she knew his needs. She never forgot that while Pat was to have plenty of good wholesome bread and milk and vegetables and fruit for his meals, he loved a nice fat doughnut or a "turnover" pie occasionally, and with her own ready hands she made the doughnuts and "turnover" pies for him.

"Granny," said Pat to the old lady, after he had performed the errand for her, "do you know what I should love to do?—I should love to do something—something—well, something that everybody can't do, you know. I want to be—deserving of the name of Patrick, but until I do something worth notice I must remain plain Pat Ryan. And I don't like the name of Pat. I want to have my full name, Granny, dear."

"Bless my boy," smiled the old lady. "Well, you'll do something yet, sonny, that will make you a real hero, and then everyone must call you Patrick. But—come to the kitchen with me—I've got a fine "turnover" pie in the oven baking for a certain young laddie that I know. And it's an apple pie, too, with a sprinkling of brown sugar on top."

"Um, Granny, that sounds good!" And Pat smacked his lips and ran off to the kitchen ahead of Grandmother. And for the time his eagerness to do something worthy of the name of Patrick was forgotten in his enjoyment of the spicy smell that came from the big cooking oven. "It's a 'turnover' all right, all right," he cried, laughing with happy anticipation as grandmamma entered the kitchen.

The days passed and preparations were made for the seventeenth, St. Patrick's Day, and little Pat's birthday. About 20 young guests had been invited, and a fine time was expected by Pat. Indeed, he knew everything would go off splendidly, for dear old Grandmother had superintended everything pertaining to the party. And secretly she had baked a little—very little—"turnover" apple pie for each invited boy and girl. "I know what they will enjoy," she had said to herself. And she was right; for though apple pie as a rule is very indigestible when eaten at night (and Pat's party was to take place at 8 o'clock in the evening), dear old Grandmother's pie was not the heavy kind. She knew how to bake "child's pie," a secret few people of today understand.

When the morning of the seventeenth arrived everything was bustle and hurry in the home of young Patrick. Of course, Pat had to attend school as usual, but the preparations for the evening event went on during his absence, for there were Grandmother, Mother, Aunt Kate, and Bridget, the house servant, to get things in readiness for the great event. "I'll have John hitch up the horse to the buggy, and I'll go to the florist for green ferns and leaves, and to the store for green ribbon, for the decorations must be in keeping with the day," said Grandmother, as full of enthusiasm as though she were a child again. But was not it her dear little Pat—who was already great in her eyes—whose birthday was to be celebrated that evening? And was it not the greatest joy for her to help with the arrangements and to make the party a glorious and happy success?

It was a few minutes before 4 o'clock when Grandmother, in cape and bonnet, climbed into the little black-covered buggy to which was hitched old Custer, a fine, spirited horse, but one as gentle as a dog.

Grandmother was used to driving Custer, and took up the lines and called out to him to trot along. Custer, feeling sprightly and in need of exercise, for the weather was cold for March, and Custer had been standing in the warm barn for days together without once feeling the bit between his teeth, pricked up his ears and trotted off down the street at a lively gait. At the corner old Custer took the turn so suddenly that poor old Grandmamma, in trying to keep her balance on the seat, let fall the lines. They were jerked over the dashboard by the quick swaying of the buggy, and when Grandmamma again became settled comfortably in her seat she found the guiding lines gone.

In vain she called out to Custer to stop. On and on he went, his speed quickening, for he was in the spirit to travel and felt no restraining hand. Down the almost deserted street he went, now turning his gait into a swinging gallop. Poor old Grandmamma sat white and silent, realizing her great danger. As she was traversing the residence streets there were few persons about, and those few hardly grasped Grandmamma's dilemma before the buggy was out of sight around a corner.

After a few minutes old Custer turned into one of the busiest streets of the town and there his excitement grew. Vehicles were passing him every which way and he became nervous and frightened and must have wondered why the driver had ceased to guide him. He probably did not understand that the flapping strings about his hind feet were the guiding lines and that the dear old lady in the buggy could not turn him this way or that, according to their pain of safety. So he went at a run, his head thrust out, his nostrils dilating, his eyes full of fright. He did not turn out of the way of other horses and vehicles, and often he and his precious freight came within an inch of disaster.

A crowd of pedestrians grew and followed the runaway horse, but it seemed no one could reach old Custer's head to stop him in his madness. Several men made the dash toward his bridle, but the next instant Custer was far away from them, turning corners and dashing through streets wildly. And all the time dear white-faced old Grandmamma sat perfectly still, not daring to move lest she be thrown to the earth, for the frail buggy was rocking like a boat on troubled water.

Within a few seconds after old Custer's advent into the busy part of the town the streets were thronged with an excited and anxious crowd of people, for the occupant of the buggy had been recognized and the cry went from throat to throat that "dear old Grandmamma Brown was in danger of a sudden and terrible death," for the pursuing people expected to see the buggy thrown over against a lamp post or a telephone post at any moment.

Just as the danger was growing, for old Custer had headed toward a railroad track on which were passing an engine and several freight cars, there dashed from the pursuing crowd of men and boys one little figure, a figure slight and swift. With almost superhuman effort one slim arm was swung out, the little figure leaped into the air and Custer's head was jerked quickly to one side, the old horse dropping to his haunches, while the buggy, rolling upon him, came to a sudden standstill.

The crowd gathered about, cheering the brave boy who had come just in time to prevent a most horrible accident—maybe a most terrible death, for both woman and horse, for the railroad tracks were only about 100 yards distant when old Custer was brought to such a sudden stop.

Then the brave boy who had saved the life of dear old Grandmamma Brown came from the horse's head, and going to the buggy looked into the face of the dear old lady, who was smiling as quietly as though nothing had happened. "Well, Granny dear, you had a close call." It was Pat's voice that spoke, and dear little Pat's eyes that looked so lovingly at the old lady. And then it was that Grandmamma broke down and wept, wept from very happiness and pride, for she understood that it was her own dear little Pat who had saved her from fatal accident. Holding out her hand to him she whispered through her tears: "You are a hero, dear sonny, a real hero, and you deserve your birthday to fall on the glorious seventeenth of March. Come, fix the lines, and let us be going home together. Your father and mother will be proud of you this day. Is old Custer calm and reassured, poor old horse? He must have wondered why some hand did not guide him safely."

Quickly the crowd dispersed, knowing that all danger was past and that Grandmamma and Pat wanted to be alone, for the emotion of each was battling for expression.

Pat soothed old Custer, who now seemed to be very peaceable again, and gathering up the dusty lines, he climbed into the buggy and told Custer to "get up." And as he and Grandmamma rode homeward, going first to the florist's for green ferns and leaves, and to a shop for green ribbon, Pat said: "Grandmamma, you are very calm to have passed through so dangerous an experience. Most any other old lady would be hysterical."

"I have forgotten the danger of the incident, sonny, in remembering your brave deed. You risked your life for old Granny. It was a noble thing to do, and you shall be called from henceforth by your full name, for you deserve it. You are not a saint, child, but no saint is greater than a great hero, and you are Hero Patrick, named for the great Saint Patrick. And no one shall call you plain Pat any more."

A flush of pride crossed Pat's face, and his heart beat high. Then, pressing one of the dear, wrinkled old hands of Grandmamma, he said: "Granny, I had no thought of becoming a hero—of being brave—when I ran out through that crowd to get hold of Custer's bridle. I only saw that you were in danger, and I said to myself, 'I must save Granny at all costs.'"

Then nothing was said for several minutes, but Granny's lips twitched and her eyes moistened. And after a little she said: "Your party shall be the grandest that any boy ever had in this town, for you are the dearest and bravest boy, and deserve that it should be so. Tonight we celebrate the birthday of two Patricks—Saint Patrick of old, and Hero Patrick of today—the latter my own dear little sonny-boy."

The Influence of Saint Patrick's Day.

TIM and Fred had had a "scrap"
About some trivial thing,
And sticks and stones and ugly names
Did at each other fling.

And for a solid week these boys,
When out of school, did fuss;
They kept their parents in a stew,
Their own tempers in a muss.

But on St. Patrick's morning, bright,
Tim to his mother said:

"I'm sorry that I've 'acted up'
Towards my school pal, Fred."

And on that very self-same morn
Fred to his mother went,
And said: "'Tis true that Tim and I
An ugly week have spent.

"We used to be the best of chums,
Like a brother towards a brother,
And it is wrong for us to fight,
And so abuse each other."

And on the way to mass that morn
Fred saw his old chum, Tim,
And with a genial smile he ran
Right up and said to him:

"If good St. Patrick, long ago,
Could from old Ireland drive
The poisonous reptiles all away,
So that no harm should thrive,

"Why shouldn't we drive from our hearts
All envy, hate and spite,
And love each other as of old,
And live our lives just right?"

And Tim, his heart a-throb with joy,
Said: "I am with you there,
For on St. Patrick's glorious day
Good should reign everywhere."

A NOVEL SUPPER for YOUNG FOLKS

A Saint Patrick's Day supper for young folks is both unique and interesting, as well as being most artistic. It is given in this way:

Decorate the parlors and dining room with festoons of ferns and other green vines and leaves, with streamers and bows of green ribbon holding them in place round the walls, over mantels and on the supper table. White blossoms may be added to the vases and bowls of green vines and ferns here and there. In fact, green should predominate everywhere, only being relieved by white.

Beside each cover at table place a dainty card bearing the name of the guest to occupy that place, and have painted in water colors a wreath of shamrock about the name, thus making of the card a pretty souvenir. A tiny green ribbon may be thrust through one corner of the card, tied into a little bow, with a loop long enough to be fastened to the shoulder of the guest, thereby preserving the souvenir from injury during the evening's festivity.

The young hostess should be dressed in white with a green ribbon sash crossed, Scottish fashion, over the left shoulder and knotted on the right side a little below the waist. Green paper caps should be supplied to the guests, and when all have donned them the sight is very pretty.

The refreshments may be called by Irish names, in honor of St. Patrick. There may be Saint Patrick sandwiches, Shamrock salad, Emerald ice, Blarney cake and Killarney nectar, and any other "fancy dishes" that are appropriate for a supper and which may boast of Irish names.

If each guest is requested to come prepared to relate some bit of history pertaining to either Saint Patrick, or the festivals held in different countries on the date of the good saint's birth, the evening will be made a very instructive as well as a most enjoyable one. Young girls and boys, try giving a Saint Patrick's supper. You will not regret having done so.

The Squirrel's Spring Festival.

BY HELENA DAVIS.

SPRING was approaching. Everything heralded the fact. The trees' sap was coming from their roots to their branches, and tiny buds were appearing on bush and bough, promising very early blossoms.

One morning a fine old grey squirrel came from his winter quarters in a huge hollow tree and sat on a bare branch, enjoying the aspect of a change of seasons with apparent delight. "Spring," he said, sniffing the air. "Spring, the most glorious of all the seasons!"

"Oh, why should you say that, dear friend Mister Greytail?" It was a soft voice that spoke, and old Mister Greytail (for that was the name of the old squirrel) turned about and looked for the owner of the voice which he had recognized as that of a pretty neighbor lady squirrel. On seeing her perched on the nearby limb he smiled and said: "Morning to you, Lady Pinknose. Isn't this a glorious dawn? See the sun coming over the eastern hills! And scent the warmth that is coming from old Mother Earth, in whose bosom sleep the billions of blossoms and grasses, only waiting to be called from slumber by the lovely maiden, Miss Spring."

"Yes, it is a divine morning, and I have come forth early to enjoy it," said Lady Pinknose. "And now I wish I had brought my son and daughter to enjoy the early spring sunrise. It's the first time that we have had warmth so early in the day during this month. But, returning to your soliloquy, Mister Greytail, you were saying that the spring is the most glorious of all the seasons. Now, I don't quite agree with you."

"What—don't agree that the spring is the most glorious of all the seasons?" asked old Mister Greytail in some surprise. "Well, how can you say such a thing? Isn't the spring just right in temperature? Isn't everything coming into life in the spring. Doesn't old Winter steal away when he hears the soft footsteps of the gentle maiden, Miss Spring?" And old Mister Greytail sat upright and wiped his nose with the end of his tail.

"Yes, the spring is very lovely," admitted Lady Pinknose. "But so is the summer. And I can say the same for autumn and the winter. They are all glorious."

"Oh, ha, ha, ha!" laughed old Mister Greytail. "The winter glorious? Why, it is cold enough to freeze the hair on a brass monkey, my dear. How can you say the winter is lovely?"

"I'll admit that the winter brings us some very cold days and nights," smiled Lady Pinknose, "but with those cold days and nights come many happy hours. For instance, when the snow is flying about and the winds are howling through the branches, aren't we just too happy to be in our snug houses with warmth and with plenty to eat? And you should remember the keen enjoyment of running out for a bit of exercise and a game of hide-and-seek when the snow lies deep on the ground. Why, I've seen you as happy and merry as your own young son while frolicking in the snow. And, then, how we all gather together in some cave under the rocks and have a winter festival! Why, my good friend, how can any season be finer than the winter? It's glorious! And the winter sunshine is the most perfect of sunshines, for it never blisters nor burns, but it is just genial and welcome."

"Well, I guess you are right about the winter," agreed old Mister Greytail. "You see, I had not thought over the many joys we have together during the storms and colds. But now I do recall the many pleasures of games and social intercourse we have had during the past few months, and the colder it was the jollier we all became. Yes, I'll withdraw what I said about old Sage Winter. But I remain pat on what I have intimated about Dame Summer and her daughter, Mistress Autumn. They are both very disagreeable."

"Oh, say not so, say not so, my friend" cried Lady Pinknose. "What can be nicer than the summer? Why, think of the long, warm days when not a leaf stirs on the branches and the water in the brook looks like the sky dropped to earth. And how green everything is—trees, grass, hedges—all so fresh in the morning when laden with dew! Ah, the summer is so joyous!"

"But it is hot," declared Mister Greytail. "If it were cooler I would like it more."

"No, you would like it less," declared Lady Pinknose, "for then it would be no different from the spring or autumn. So, you see, the summer, like the winter, is characteristic of itself and has advantages that the other seasons do not possess. I say the summer, the winter, the spring, the autumn are alike beautiful—delightful."

"Well, I'll grant that the summer is better than I had thought it," admitted Mister Greytail. "Since listening to your description of some of its beauties I have changed my mind regarding it. I guess the heat is balanced by the many lovely calm days and long, peaceful nights when the moon shines like a second sun, all veiled to make it cooler. Yes, I should not like to be without the summer—old Dame Summer, as we call it." And Mr. Greytail again rubbed his nose with his broad tail. "But I shall still contend that I do not in the least see much beauty in the autumn. It has falling leaves, gray days, hazy skies and everything is dying."

Lady Pinknose sighed. "Sir Mister Graytail, you are a poor reasoner. What? Everything dying! Not at all. Everything is ripening in the autumn. What if the leaves do fall? So do the nuts fall. And were it not for the fallen nuts, where, oh! where would we poor squirrels be? We find our food in the autumn, and then is our great harvest time. Ah, how little you seem to appreciate nature's changes and the splendid things they bring forth!"

"Yes, I hadn't thought about the harvest time coming in the autumn," confessed Mister Greytail. "But you must admit that the days of autumn are gray and drear."

"There you are again," said Lady Pinknose, growing a bit impatient. "What could be nicer than gray days following the perpetual sunshine of summer? After we have feasted, so to say, on sunshine and green, is it not kind of Nature to bring gray, dull days full of soft shadow and cool winds with the falling of leaves and nuts and the ripening of the harvest? Ah, ah, my good friend, learn to read the book of Nature better, to understand her bounties and beauties, and then you'll have no complaint to make against any of the four delightful seasons, each so different from the other, yet all so perfect as a whole."

"I guess you are right, Lady Pinknose, the winter, for it must be the gala time when only merriment and good cheer shall abound among us."

"A splendid idea, my wise friend," said Mister Greytail. "And you shall be appointed queen of the festivals and of the carnival."

At this moment a number of squirrels came running out of their houses in the hollow trunks of trees, and began crying in a voice of happiness: "Oh, how glorious the day is to be! Spring is coming again! And then will come the buds and flowers, and the birds to sing to us, and the soft winds to rock us to sleep at night as we sit on the open boughs."

"Come one and all of you to my house this evening," sang out old Mister Greytail, waving his paws towards the squirrels that were appearing in the trees about him. "Come here this evening, for we shall talk over a plan for a spring festival to be participated in by every squirrel in the wood."

"Hurrah, hurrah!" cried all the squirrels, gaily waving their tails, "We'll be there, friend Mister Greytail. A spring festival just suits us to a T."

And that is how the squirrels of the wood held a grand spring festival, and the date happened to fall on the seventeenth of March, the good St. Patrick's Day. And while the people in the towns were celebrating in memory of the good Saint the squirrels were celebrating the beautiful spring, for they had no way of knowing about great Saints, for they had only read in the Book of Nature, and had not learned all the things that people know.

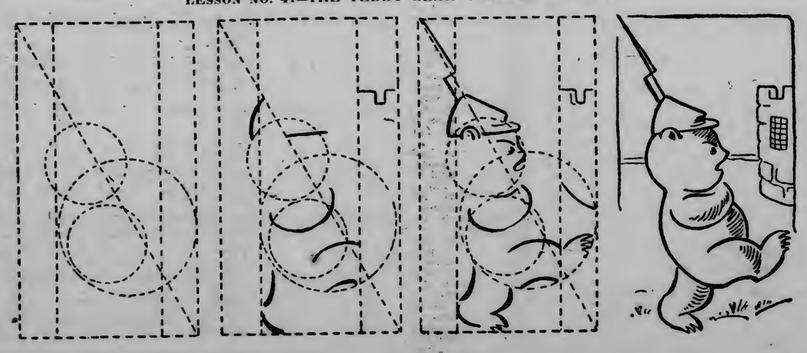

And it is quite safe to say that the squirrels will hold a festival for each of the other seasons, save winter, when will be held the carnival of joy.

"Morning to you, Lady Pinknose. Isn't this a glorious dawn?

LESSON NO. 41—THE TEDDY BEAR PLAYING SOLDIER.

TAINTED BREATH

Everyone should take care to keep the breath sweet. It is a personal matter that should have constant attention. Nothing is more disagreeable to others than a person with tainted breath. It is usually caused by simple neglect of nature's laws, and is without excuse. Keep the stomach sweet and the bowels open with Beecham's Pills, and the breath is as pure as an infant's. Bad taste in the mouth and coated tongue disappear after Beecham's Pills have been used. Take them occasionally as a sure preventive against tainted breath.

Engineers and Mechanics Refuse to Accept Reduction.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 13.—Rather than accept reductions in salary varying from $500 to $1,500 a year, between fifteen and twenty expert engineers and men high in the mechanical departments, including the chief engineer of the National Tube company at McKeesport, Pa., near here, have resigned their positions, and others are expected to do likewise within a short time.

It is said several of the big producers have announced a further reduction of prices in steel plates and structural steel, following the announcement of a decrease of $5 in the price of tin plate.

INSURGENTS COMBINE WITH HOUSE DEMOCRATS AND CLAIM MAJORITY

Washington, March 13.—A compromise, fathered by Senator Cummins of Iowa and presented to the house regulars by President Taft, has failed to unite the Republican members. What was pronounced as a satisfactory working agreement has been entered into by the Republican insurgents and the Democrats and the name of Theodore Roosevelt has been introduced as an insurgent sympathizer.

The compromise was one the insurgents have had under consideration ever since the report became current that President Taft desired a postponement of the fight on the rules lest it might delay the passage of a tariff bill. It provided for the re-election of Speaker Cannon and the adoption of the rules of the sixtieth congress for the special session. After the organization of the house it was provided that a resolution should be passed authorizing a committee to investigate the rules and report on proposed changes at the regular session in December. It was proposed the insurgents allowed to name four of their number for the committee, the Democrats six and the regulars five. The latter five were to be Representatives Mann of Illinois, Currier of New Hampshire, Keifer of Ohio, Smith of Iowa and Stevens of Minnesota.

For the regulars Former Representative Watson of Indiana replied that the compromise was acceptable if amended so as to allow the speaker to appoint the committee, due regard being given to the insurgents in its composition. The leaders of the insurgents subsequently declared that they would accept no such suggestion.

The insurgents have convinced the Democrats that they can deliver thirty votes for any proposition they desire to propose next Monday. The Democrats promised to furnish 170 votes against the previous question motion on the adoption of the old rules. This is the full Democratic strength less two, there being one vacancy on account of death, and one member being seriously ill. As 195 will be a majority, the allied forces claimed the victory.

The regulars claim to have the promises of several Democrats not to vote with their party for the various amendments and deny that the insurgents forces will number 30.

"I have never yet, as 'whip', fallen down on a poll of the house," says Former Representative Watson. "The organization will win in a walk."

NEWSPAPER CLAIMS TO HAVE ELIMINATED AN UNDESIRABLE MAYOR

Los Angeles, Cal., March 13.—As throwing important light upon Mayor Harper's sudden resignation, the Evening Express says the mayor called upon E. T. Earl, owner of the Express, and offered to withdraw from the race for re-election if the Express "would not publish an exposure of himself," the details of which the Express says, were then in its possession. The Express says:

"At 4:30 yesterday Mr. Harper appeared at the private office of Edwin T. Earl and requested an interview. It was granted. Mayor Harper proposed that he would withdraw his name from the ticket as a candidate for re-election March 26, it being understood that certain information in the possession of Mr. Earl regarding Mr. Harper's official acts, would not be published.

"No newspaper or individuals possess the information now in the hands of Mr. Earl. This information, let it be distinctly understood, has reference to Mr. Harper's administration and not to Mr. Harper's private affairs.

"Finally, the Express will simply say that having the information it has, it could not in justice to the city, permit Mr. Harper to continue to be a candidate. Mr. Harper was the only issue before the people. Mr. Harper has withdrawn. The Express has accomplished its purpose in the cause of right and decency. The recall movement has succeeded."

ORE TONNAGE TAX BILL WILL BE DEFEATED IN THE HOUSE WEDNESDAY

the hope of starting a band wagon movement in its favor.

The object of this attempt is interesting, because it involves one of the most unique conditions this legislature has witnessed in many years.

There are in the house about twenty-five members who practically ran for the office on a tonnage tax platform. They are new members, and when they talked tonnage tax in the campaign it was their idea that it is simply a plan to make the rich steel trust pay more taxes to the state. They did not realize that it involved a seizure for state purposes of the major portion of the taxes raised upon the principal industry of a region that is struggling against heavy handicaps to turn a wilderness into a productive empire. They did not realize that it meant the tyrannous exertion of the power of a majority for the oppression of a minority that is dependent upon fair play and just treatment for its future prosperity. They thought it a case of the people against a great corporation, and they did not realize that it was a case of the people of the older and richer portions of the state against the people of the newer and needier sections.

So these members declared for the tonnage tax.

There is scarcely a man in this class of legislators who is not heartsick over the situation in which he finds himself today. They know that the tonnage tax is vicious, unjust, tyrannous and oppressive. They know that it is not a matter of making the iron companies pay their just share of taxation, because they know that they can be made to do that by the old method of increasing their assessments, as the tax commission increased them since the session two years ago, adding 200 per cent to the amount of taxes paid by them to the state. They are at heart against the tonnage tax, and they would like to vote against it.

But—

If it is made clear that the bill is going to pass by a large majority, and their votes would not defeat it, they may vote for the bill in order to square their actions with their statements made before a study of the question, and in order not to arraign themselves uselessly with a minority.

Hence the bandwagon movement for the tonnage tax. Hence the claims by the advocates of the measure, assisted by those whose motives are not of unmixed patriotism—of whom more later, perhaps—that the bill is assured of a large vote; claims absurd upon their face.

The fact is that, upon its merits, the tonnage tax bill would not have twenty votes in the house. All pretense of argument in its favor ceased long ago. It is admitted by everybody that the brief put forth by Representative Chester A. Congdon, and his talks before the tax committee have obliterated all arguments for the measure, moral, practical and legal. If every member of the house is present Wednesday afternoon, and votes his honest convictions upon the Bjorge bill, there will be about twenty votes in favor and something less than a hundred against it.

This isn't empty boasting. It is a fact that will be admitted by a great majority of the members of the house, including some who, for one reason or another, may vote in favor of the bill. As it is, however, while it is idle to attempt to put forecasts into figures, there is every reason to believe that the bill will be beaten a little worse than it was two years ago, when there were 51 votes for it and 58 against it.

Tuesday there is a special order on three tax measures requested by the tax commission and introduced in the house by Chairman John Dalzell of the house tax committee.

One provides for county assessors to replace the present system of local assessments. One assessor in each county, with a sufficient number of deputies working under his direction, will do the assessing instead of the city, village and township assessors who do the work now, and do it in about as many different ways as there are assessors, which is many.

Another bill provides that all property shall be valued by the assessors at its actual worth, and that for purposes of taxation shall be assessed at 40 per cent of that valuation. At present, while the law requires assessment at actual value, the state is struggling with a system of percentages. This property is assessed at 15 per cent, and that at more than 100 per cent. Property in this county is assessed at 30 per cent, and property in that county is assessed at 50 per cent.

The obvious need is uniformity, that all sections and all interests may stand on an even footing under the burden of taxation—which will be much less a burden than it is now when uniformity is attained. The object of the bill is to secure that uniformity, but there is another object, too.

The tax commission finds that the law requires the assessment of all property at its full value. Because boards of equalization and assessors have from time to time immemorial, blinked at that law, is no reason the tax commission should continue to do so. In fact, since the tax commission is over the entire system of taxation, it should set a good example of law enforcement, and it proposes to do so.

But if all valuations were raised at once from their present 15 per cent or 50 per cent to 100 per cent, things would happen. Salaries of public officials, based on assessed valuation would boom tremendously, for instance. Bond limits based on assessed valuation would spontaneously expand, permitting further bond issues for communities already staggering under more debt than they ought to carry as a good business proposition.

So the tax commission proposes to obey the law, but to prevent that obedience working unnecessary hardships upon the taxpayers, it asks that the law be amended as the Dalzell bill proposes. That is all there is to that measure.

The third bill is one to which there will be little opposition, if any. It increases the exemption of household goods from taxation to $200 for each family, instead of the present exemption of $100. This is on the principle that household goods should not be made to share an undue portion of the burden of taxation.

The Republican majority in the senate masqueraded a political trick in the regimentals of sympathy for the veterans of the Civil war when it railroaded through the senate the Peterson bill designed to force Governor Johnson to retain S. W. Leavett as a member of the state board of control.

It must not be thought that this was done through admiration for Mr. Leavitt or a belief that his place on the board of control cannot be filled.

It was done to embarrass the governor of this state, with the hope that in some way it might work to decrease his popularity, which has been a bar, of late, to the success of Republican candidates for the governorship.

It would have required forty-two votes to suspend the rules and pass the bill thus hurriedly if objection had been raised, and the fact that no objection had been raised, and the fact that no objection was raised was due to the explanation of the author of the bill that it was a measure asked for by the veterans, and that it merely enlarged the old law giving preference in public employment to men who had served their country. That it what it does, of course, but if it had been known just how it enlarged this law, and just what the purpose of the enlargement was, it would have been impossible to suspend the rules. The proposition got but thirty-five votes as it was, seven short of enough to bring about a suspension of the rules.

The bill now goes to the house, and it will undoubtedly be pushed there.

Members of the legislature will have to wait until next year for their second half of the pay provided by the law of 1907, because the senate, in committee of the whole, yesterday afternoon killed the Brady house bill, making the second $500 available at the close of the present session.

The law which superseded the old per diem pay law provided $500 a year for members of both houses, $250 Feb. 1 and $250 March 15 of each year. The members of this legislature, therefore, get but $500 for the session, and next year they will get $500 more when there is no session. In view of the fact that much might happen before next year, the house passed this bill, making the second $500 available at the close of the session. There was absolutely no harm in the measure, except that, in case of a special session, members would get no pay at all, but the senate seemed to consider the bill uncalled for, and killed it by a decisive vote.

Senators Laybourn and Vail appeared before the senate judicial committee yesterday afternoon and secured the adoption of a favorable report on the house bill providing for a new judge in the Eleventh district and giving the Mesaba range towns terms of district court. Two minor, though necessary amendments, prepared by Judge Cant, Clerk of Court Johnson and Special County Attorney Stevenson, were added to the bill, which makes it necessary that it should go back to the house for repassage after it goes through the senate.

One of the amndments provides that offices of the range clerks of court shal ibe used only for purposes connected with the cases pending there, and that the important details, such as handling money paid into court, shall be attended to at the county seat. The other amendment takes care of the traveling expenses of judges, clerk of district court and county attorney, which will be made necessary by the range terms of court.

Representatives of telephone companies appeared before the house committee on express, telegraph and electric lines yesterday afternoon to oppose several pending bills affecting the telephone business. One measure increases the present gross earnings tax upon telephone companies from 3 per cent to 4 per cent. Another makes telephone companies common carriers and puts them under the regulation of the railroad and warehouse commission. A third requires competing companies to give connections, so that, for instance, a party in Duluth having the old 'phone could compel the new 'phone to connect him with a party on its line.

The telephone folks objected particularly to being put under the railroad and warehouse commission. They said that competition is the life of trade, and that competition between the two companies had benefited the people both as to service and as to rates. Regulation, on the other hand, would put all on a dead level. The reply of the advocates of the bill to this was that proper regulation would accomplish all the benefits of competition. No action was taken by the committee.

Senator Pugh's bill reorganizing the naval militia to put it on the same basis as the navy was advanced to the calendar by the senate yesterday afternoon in committee of the whole.

The senate, in committee of the whole, yesterday afternoon, killed the Sullivan bill to provide a legislative reference bureau in the attorney general's office, with a special assistant attorney general to draw up bills for the members. It would be more correct to say, however, that Senator Wilson killed the bill by ridicule. He said the state had got along without this provision for half a century, and that while that was not argument, he saw no harm in stating it. The legislature is getting 2,000 bills every session now, and the wonder is where they all come from. With a "bill factory" twice such as this bill would provide, the legislature would be flooded with twice that many bills. He pictured the stamp everybody would have on that $3,500 a year with $1,200 for a stenographer, investigating the hunting and fishing of other states in order to be ready to draw up fish and game bills. The measure was recommended for indefinite postponement with only four votes against that action.

After an amendment which practically killed it had been adopted yesterday afternoon, progress was reported on the senate bill requiring everybody to pay for hunting small game in this state, in the senate committee of the whole, thereby giving its friends a chance to get rid of the amendment later and to try to put it through. The law now requires a dollar license fee from all hunters, except in their own counties, and the bill seeks to enlarge the revenues of the fish and game commission by making everybody pay, except those who hunt on the land on which they live. Senator Clague offered an amendment, which was adopted, making the bill correspond with the present law, after which Senator Hardy, who was championing the bill, had progress reported.

The Wright bill, pensioning citizen soldiers who fought Indians in 1862, was indefinitely postponed by the senate in committee of the whole, and later was returned to general orders for another attempt at passage.

The senate committee on municipal corporations yesterday reported back to the senate the Austin bill, allowing cities and villages to take in outlying territory. The bill had been reported out before and was on general orders, but was sent back to the committee to give ex-Senator McCarthy of Grand Rapids, and others, a hearing against it. The committee stood by its former action, however.

The house had a hot fight in committee of the whole yesterday afternoon on the Nolan bill, placing street railways under the railroad and warehouse commission, but finally recommended it to pass, advancing it to the calendar. The bill puts street railways entirely under the control of the railroad and warehouse commission, as common carriers, though it provides that nothing in its terms shall modify or impair "any duty, obligation, right or privilege, imposed by or contained in any law, contract, obligation or any ordinance or resolution heretofore adopted."

The house is not in session today, having adjourned until 11 o'clock Monday. An attempt was made yesterday afternoon to have the senate adjourn over today also, on the ground that it would be impossible to get a quorum today. "The question of whether there will be a quorum tomorrow," said Senator Calhoun, suavely, "can best be determined upon the morrow," and the motion to lie idle today was voted down.

Discouraged?

"Do As I Did"

writes Mrs. A. J. Smith, of Trego, Wis., "and take that good medicine, Cardui, for your troubles.

"Before I commenced to take Cardui, I was so sick and discouraged I thought I would never get well, and did not care if I didn't. I suffered terrible pain, every month, and had displacement and other female troubles.

"I took a lot of medicine before I could notice any difference, but now I feel better than in fourteen (14) years, I have no more pain, the female trouble is cured, and I am so well that I do all my own work, milk six cows, night and morning, and wash and cook for seven persons."

If this is not a remarkable record, nothing is. It must have a message for you, telling you what you might expect for yourself, as a result of taking Cardui, for any ailment that is yours, as a result of womanly weakness.

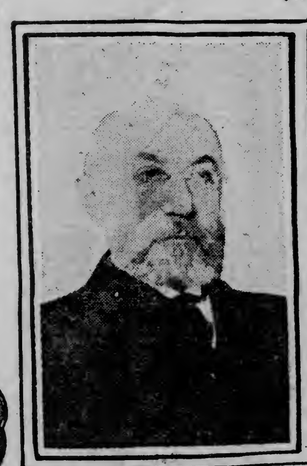

No matter how weak you may feel; no matter how long you may have suffered; no matter how many other medicines have failed; do not be discouraged. Take Cardui. It will help you.

By JOHN S. HARWOOD

(Copyright, 1909, by the Associated Literary Press.)

DR. ROBERT KOCH, who practically started it; King Edward VII, who is using his high station to encourage it; J. Pierpont Morgan, John D. Rockefeller, Henry Phipps and other world-famous pocketbooks—who are financing it; in fact, a vast majority of today's men and women the world over who are leaders in their respective fields—the sciences, the professions, finance, business, sociology, what not—are more or less prominent as commanders in the world-wide warfare now being waged with grim intensity upon mankind's greatest foe—tuberculosis.

As to what Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Phipps and Mr. Morgan and many, many others have done, and are doing, toward leading their fellowmen to ultimate victory over "the great white plague" most of us are pretty well informed. But it is not so generally known that among those who have devoted their skill and knowledge to arousing the people to a full apprehension of the true character of the disease, and the way to conquer it, two of the most prominent were at first its victims. Yet not only did they succeed in shaking off its grip, but they have also enabled thousands of others to achieve a like victory. These two men are Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau, the founder of the outdoor or cottage sanitarium treatment of tuberculosis in America, and Dr. Lawrence F. Flick, under whose direction the Henry Phipps institute of Philadelphia has become a powerful agency for the study, treatment and prevention of tuberculosis.

When Dr. Trudeau fell ill in 1873 his fellow physicians gave him up to die. Consumptives in those days got little hope from the medical profession. They were usually sent away to find graves in other climes. Some were shipped to warm countries, others to the dry air of the mountains, while not a few were advised to take long sea voyages. The final result expected in almost all cases was death.

Accordingly, when the young consumptive told his friends that he was going to the Adirondacks, they bade him farewell forever, as they thought. His plight seemed pitiable, indeed. Only two years before, in 1871, he had married Miss Charlotte G. Beare. On the following year, when 24 years old, he had begun the practice of medicine in New York city. Then his prospects of happiness and success were suddenly darkened by a disease which at that time was regarded incurable.

It has been said that when young Trudeau reached the North woods he was so weak that he was compelled to complete the journey on a stretcher. It was in the summer time, but the Adirondacks in those days were not crowded with vacation pleasure-seekers. The region was visited only by a few sportsmen. With his faithful wife, the young physician buried himself in the wilderness. As winter came on he began to receive letters from medical friends in New York beseeching him to return from the solitudes of pine trees and snow. Exposure to an Adirondack winter, they declared, meant sure death. But at the advice of Dr. Alfred Loomis, the consumptive and his wife remained at Paul Smith's, then a small hunting lodge forty-two miles from any railroad or physician, and completely cut off for weeks from the outer world by huge snow drifts.

To the intense amazement of most of his acquaintances, the following spring found the young recluse stronger, more hopeful and almost convinced that the dry, cold, mountain air, as it blew in his face over miles of snow and ice, had caused the dread disease to begin to loosen its grip. The following winter Dr. Trudeau took up his abode in Saranac Lake, then a mere hamlet, which owed its existence to a sawmill. Throughout the long winter it was almost as isolated as the Arctic outpost of some exploration party. Only a few guides continued to live there in a state of hibernation, awaiting the coming of summer and hunters and the chance to earn enough money to carry them through the next winter. How utterly different from the Saranac Lake of today, which, through the fame of Dr. Trudeau, has grown to be a city of 6,000 inhabitants!

Dr. Trudeau's Great Discovery.

Discovering that the outdoor air, no matter how cold, kept increasing his vitality and strength, Dr. Trudeau decided to make Saranac Lake his permanent home. Although it had been his ambition, after graduating from the Lycee Bonaparte of Paris and the College of Physicians and Surgeons of New York, to seek fame and wealth as a city physician, he abandoned all these hopes for the humble task of caring for other consumptives from the working classes in the Adirondack wilderness.

Without money and still in delicate health, he nevertheless succeeded in raising funds for the erection of the first tuberculosis sanitarium in America. In this enterprise he was assisted by Dr. Alfred Loomis, who gave him the support of his great name and offered to examine in New York, free of charge, all applicants for the Adirondack institution. Mr. and Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes gave the first subscription. On a hillside site, given by guides and residents of Saranac Lake, the first Trudeau cottage was erected in 1884.

"It consisted of one room, heated by a wood stove and lighted by a kerosene lamp," said Dr. Trudeau, in recalling the beginning of his great work. "It accommodated two patients and cost about $350. It was furnished with a small covered piazza, where, after much persistence and eloquence, I persuaded my patients to sit most of the day at rest. This was, as far as I know, the first sanitarium rest and open-air method according to the teachings of Brehmer and Dettweiler."

The persistency of purpose, so characteristic of Dr. Trudeau, was also aptly illustrated by his early struggles to perfect a bacteriological laboratory, the first of the kind in America for the study of tuberculosis.

"During the intense cold of winter," he said, "the water froze at night in this little workshop despite all my efforts, for we then had no coal in Saranac Lake. To prevent the tubercle bacilli from being affected by the extreme cold, I kept them comfortable with a small kerosene lamp inclosed in a wooden box. But on very cold nights I was compelled to get up and build a fire in the stove for additional warmth. The guinea pigs which I inoculated I put in a hole under ground heated by a lamp, this being the only place in Saranac Lake where the little animals could escape freezing at night."

After all these trials, Dr. Trudeau, while lying ill in New York, learned that his laboratory had burned to the ground. The lamp had exploded, and bacilli and guinea pigs had met death together. Two days later he received this laconic note from Dr. William Osler of chloroform-at-forty fame, himself a pioneer commander against tuberculosis:

"Dear Trudeau—I am sorry to hear of your misfortune; but take my word for it, there is nothing like a fire to make a man do the Phoenix trick."

As if in fulfillment of Dr. Osler's prophetic suggestion, there has arisen out of the first little $350 cottage, with its two patients, and from the ashes of the crude laboratory a veritable village of beautiful wood and stone structures—twenty-five, all told—grouped together picturesquely and known to the world as the Adirondack cottage sanitarium. The buildings have all the conveniences of a New York city residence, being lighted by electricity, heated by hot water and fireplaces, and abundantly supplied with baths and running water. Each bedroom opens directly on a covered veranda, where the patient sleeps at night, no matter how cold the weather. The village character of the sanitarium has been made complete by a chapel, library and a large reception pavilion.

"You see," said Dr. Trudeau, the other day to some visitors who had expressed their astonishment at seeing a building erected for pleasure and merrymaking in such a place, "jollity aids digestion, and digestion aids lungs. No man ever cured a disease by brooding over it."

Because of many large money gifts, so much of the expense of the institution is met by its income that patients, though enjoying the accommodations of a first-class hotel and hospital pay only $5 a week. Consequently, there is a long waiting list. Reports show that out of 1,500 patients who left the hospital in the course of seventeen years, 434 could not be located, and of the balance 46.7 per cent lived. Of these, 31 per cent enjoyed good health, 6.5 per cent relapsed, 5.2 per cent became chronic invalids, and 58.3 per cent, or more than half, died. These figures, Dr. Trudeau says, emphasize the necessity of patients continuing

BABY'S VOICE

Is the joy of the household, for without it no happiness can be complete. Angels smile at and commend the thoughts and aspirations of the mother bending over the cradle.

The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass is such that she looks forward with dread to the hour when she shall feel the thrill of motherhood. Every woman should know that the danger and pain of child-birth can be avoided by the use of Mother's Friend, which renders pliable all the parts, assisting nature in its work. By its aid thousands of women have passed this crisis in safety. $1.00 per bottle of druggists. Valuable book of information to women sent free.

J. H. Beagle of Duluth, a public land examiner, arrived Saturday from Bena and spent Sunday in this city. His son, W. J. Beagle arrived in Bemidji Sunday afternoon from Duluth and they left Monday morning for Pine River, where they will look over some state land.

Dan Rose, the buyer for the Watab Paper & Pulp company, went to Northome Monday evening. He spent yesterday in Bemidji and closed an important personal deal while here.

Thomas S. Erwin went north Tuesday evening, after having spent a few days in this city on business.

PARK RAPIDS

Park Rapids, Minn., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—There were three tickets in the field election day. The successful candidates were as follow: Mayor, J. D. Ressler; trustees, C. W. Wilkins, Ed Butterfield; recorder, Ward Burnett, treasurer, William Tiber; assessor, Henry Pennock; justice of the peace, A. S. Leland; constable, Byron Knapp. The water bonds carried by a large majority.

Judge Wright and Court Stenographer Gardner went to Grand Rapids Tuesday evening on court business.

O. S. Keay left Wednesday evening for International Falls on business connected with the state scaler's office.

Mrs. F. P. Rice and family returned Tuesday evening from a visit with friends down the line.

D. B. Bradford is interesting himself in the real estate business.

Hugh Alexander returned Thursday morning from a trip up over the Iron Range country looking up a market for potatoes.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilsie went to Akeley Monday evening called there by the sudden sickness of their son, who had an attack of appendicitis.

U. A. Wray, who has been confined to his home for some time, is slowly improving.

Mrs. Irs. Bartlett returned Wednesday from a week's visit with her daughter at Hewitt.

Miss Grace Brown, who has been teaching at Dorset, spent Saturday with her parents here.

R. E. Hardman has let the contract for a new store building on the East side to be finished for occupancy by April 1.

Alfred Churchill returned from his Iowa visit Saturday evening.

Rev. A. L. Holden and son, John went to Akeley Monday evening to be present at the Sunday school convention in session there Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mrs. Bouck and daughter, Bessie, spent Sunday with Akeley friends, returning Monday.

F. D. Judnitsch returned Saturday from Bertha, where he has been for several weeks.

A party of young people went to Hubbard last Thursday evening for a sleighride and on their return were treated to an oyster supper at the home of A. Kerr.

Ira Bowers, who lived up over the old furniture store, moved into the John Pullar residence the latter part of last week.

Rev. Mr. Barbour, pastor of the Congregational church at Cass Lake, is in town on business connected with the Congregational work of the northern part of the state and particularly in Park Rapids.

J. P. Holgerson of Almen, Kan., has bought the Conard farm, northeast of Park Rapids and will be here with his family in the near future, to take possession.

Christian Klink of Barnes county, North Dakota, was married to Miss Cora Eva Johnson at the home of her parents Thursday evening, March 4.

Ed. Stearns died at the home of his parents at Ponsford of smallpox, March 5.

Isabel Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Doran of this place, died at the home of her sister near Hubbard Tuesday, March 9th, of tuberculosis. She was in the prime of young womanhood and was married last July to Rev. F. A. Smith.

J. C. Brown spent part of the week at Bertha.

Clarence Walters left Wednesday morning for Illinois, where he will spend the summer.

L. H. Rice and W. M. Taber will leave Monday for Minneapolis to attend the automobile exhibit, which has been arranged for next week.

A delegation from Cass Lake visited Park Rapids Saturday on matters pertaining to the normal school situation.

SOCIALISM AND GOVERNMENT BY COMMISSION

A bill recently introduced in the state legislature providing for a commission form of government in the larger cities of the state, is causing quite a deal of discussion within certain circles. Every little while the "respectable citizens" get their "habit" on and start out to purify government. Sometimes they form good government leagues, sometimes citizens committees, sometimes reform clubs, always with the ostensible object in view of "purifying municipal politics," "Smash the Machines," "let us elect honest men to office," "no politics in municipal affairs," "let us run the city government on a business basis." It is this which has brought about the agitation for "government by commission." In a recent discussion, answering a question propounded by the writer to an advocate of the above theory, as to how the lot of the wage-worker would be improved materially relative to wages or hours or employment, the reply was that "in Des Moines the laboring people are all happy." If that be true, it seems to me that the millenium has already arrived in one city of the nation and that therefore it behooves us Socialists, as well as all others who strive for human betterment, to "jump into the band wagon." But let us now to the point.

What is government by commission? In brief it aims to place the affairs of the city in the hands of five men—these men to rule completely and absolutely—to hire subordinates, determine wages, hours, etc—look after the welfare of the city and citizens, thus enabling the citizenship to trace responsibility and blame to proper source—nominations to be made at the primaries by popular vote after aspirants have furnished signed credentials vouching for good character, etc—not less than twenty-five citizens' names affixed thereto, makes one eligible for vote at the primaries. The idea at first glance is very good and commendable. No doubt it would tend to the destruction of the political machine and give a non-partisan form of government. We may also take it for granted that a more honest class of men would be elected to hold such offices. Admitting all of the above contentions, yet the writer holds that no real revolutionist can stand for or advocate any reform that would tend to break up political parties—yes, and political machines—for the following reasons: First, we are living under a class government and therefore all laws are necessarily construed to benefit the ruling class, namely the property owners; second, the interests of all the citizens of a municipality are not identical and therefore fundamentally there must exist disharmony; third, cities are but smaller expressions of the national basis and differences national, are essentially differences local; fourth, the class war is a factor resultant from our existing method of wealth and property ownership—to cry for harmony and peace and good will and better feeling is out of question at such a time; fifth, that partisan politics, united effort disciplined and organized, is the only civilized method of expression of all citizens who seek fundamental changes in our economic system, and that therefore any measure that advocates the abolition of class or partisan politics must essentially be frowned upon and opposed by believers in a revolutionary change of government—differences national are differences local; sixth, primary voting is not secret voting, this applies likewise to signers of petitions for nomination. Everybody knows every other person's business. We all know how few votes are generally cast at primaries for radical parties, the reason being that not every person can afford to give public expression to his politics. Figure this out for yourself and then answer how many workingmen will dare possible loss of work in order to enable them to vote for an "undesirable" because radical candidate?

For the taxpayer and property owner and business man, government by commission is a good thing, but for the average workingman who owns nothing, but his labor-power, which is the only commodity he has for sale, there is no benefit and will be of much harm. You cannot by legislation make a man honest when the conditions offer him greater benefits to be dishonest. The politician on the average is as honest as the average business man. We are all as good as the conditions permit us to be. Let us not hoodwink ourselves by putting on the hypocritical mask of pretended morality. We are all in the same boat, and in this sift a receiver has been appointed. This, however, does not affect us. The title papers, the transfer to the Mexican company, the stock in the Mexican company, and Mr. Casey's resignation are all in the State Bank at El Paso held in escrow to be delivered on the final payment of $20,500 and this I expect to occur within two weeks. Mr. Power has paid this money out of his own pocket and intends to pay the balance, though I believe the company will be glad to reimburse Mr. Power for perfseting their title from them. This is the truth of the story in all its infquity."

It is reporte'd that Casey is now in Canada.

"Let he who is guiltless cast the first stone." Do you want pure politics? Then begin by purifying business. Until we begin housecleaning first at our own doors we should cease "Knocking." The Socialist will not give up his party organization for the benefit of the taxpayer. Our struggle is for the emancipation of society. Are we wrong?

THE COLORADO DISTRICTS

Barnsdall-Lake and Stein & Boericke Companies to Consolidate---Rich Silver Strike in Denver Mine ---Litigation Over War Dance Mine.

Colorado Springs, Colo., March 13.—The Barnsdall-Lake and the Stein & Boericke Mining companies, operating in the Boulder, tungsten fields, have filed articles of agreemnt for consolidation. About $100,000 is to be paid to the Barnsdall-Lake interests, with an equal amount of stock in the Primos Mining company, the new company to have the use of the Boulder county mill for two years from June, 1908, when the contract was made. The Primos Chemical company of Primos, Pa., is the largest dealer in and refiner of tungsten in the world.

The Slide mine, whose discovery led to the founding of Boulder, fifty years ago, is owned by Senator Henry M. Teller. At 1,000 feet depth the mine is yielding some of its richest ore. The mine is located at the mouth of Boulder canon.

The Ramsdell Gold Mining & Milling company on Lincoln mountain, Georgetown, is showing 200 ounces in silver a ton from a ten to sixteen-inch streak, on which thirty feet of drifting has been done.

Work on the Snowdrift mine, Georgetown, Colo., is being prosecuted through the Kalamazoo addition. For seventy-five feet, a fine streak of silver, lead ore has been followed, four to eight inches wide; values $45 to $55 a ton.

Levels 11, 12, 13 and 14 of the Terrible mine on Brown mountain, Georgetown, Colo., are being extended easterly to reach Dunderberg ground. The breast shows ore from four-inch streaks to two-foot veins, worth 125 ounces in silver a ton.

The Lucky Corner Leasing company is preparing a five-car shipment of smelter grade ore through the Ophelia tunnel. Returns show $60 to $100 gold content.

A prospector's permit with option to lease has been given Vidler and associates on the El Paso Consolidated mine dump, Cripple Creek.

Judge McCall has refused to enjoin lessees from operating the War Dance mine, Central City, Colo., on account of papers being inaccurately drawn up. The hearing is set for May 6. Meanwhile all proceed sfrom ore must be deposited in the First National bank, Central City, except $1,250 for expenses. The War Dance was opened about 1876. The ore bodies pinched off after yielding big values. After years of idleness, in 1907, John Klais and others obtained a lease and struck rich ore. A. E. Elliott then claimed two-fifths interest as alleged sole surviving director of the Russell Gold & Silver Mining company, the original owner, and filed suit. Cross complaints followed from T. J. Chase, trustee, and heirs of James C. Hutchinson. Returns from a recent shipment show $480 a ton in gold values.

The Roscow Leasing company, operating the Victor mine, Cripple Creek, will sublease ground to the 700-foot level. An electric hoist has been installed. Already five sets of lessees are in ore. Since January, 4,250 tons of $20 ore have been shipped. Pay ore has been found in old workings long since abandoned. Two cars of ore recently shipped carried $39.80 a ton.

A syndicate, including New York and other Eastern capitalists, represented locally by the Strapp brothers, is operating successfully on Lincoln mountain, Cripple Creek, at the head of Barnard creek, near Gillett. Ore running as high as $70 a ton is reported. A tunnel, which has been steadily driven into the mountin for two years is in a large dike of oxidized ore adapted to cyanidation.

NEW COURTLAND COMPANIES

Independents Hold Many Valuable Copper Claims Near Holdings of the Calumet & Arizona, Copper Queen and Great Western Companies.

Courtland, Ariz., March 13.—The success of Courtland is in a large measure due to the fact that the mining claims in the immediate camp are all held by the three giants in the copper industry, the Great Western, the Calumet & Arizona and the Copper Queen companies. But claims are staked out on the hills all around the holdings of these big companies, and it will be only a short time until other Courtland companies will probably be in the field as producers on a smaller scale.

Probably one of the first of these independent holdings to receive attention will be the group of claims held by Balias L. McKinney, James Walker and associates. These men have eighteen claims in a group on a hill about a mile north of Courtland, where there is a detached peak of the Dragoon mountains rising up from the Sulphur Springs valley. The claims were located and bought up about a year ago by McKinney, one of the leading merchants of Courtland, Gleeson and Pearce, and James Walker of Tombstone, and associates.

The work on these claims is not new. More than eight years ago the claims were worked for copper, and a shaft eighty feet deep was put down. The copper ledge showed up on the crest of the ridge, and on the surface is about fourteen inches thick. As the development work was carried down this ledge gradually widened, till now, in the bottom of the eighty-foot shaft, the vein is about three and one-half feet in thickness. The ore is easily worked and the only assay made of the ore showed about 34 per cent copper, with some gold and silver. It is not probable that the ore would make an average showing anything near this figure, but the quartz carries free copper and much glance, with about as much gold and silver as is found in the Courtland ore on the dumps of the big companies. In the shaft so far no water has been encountered, but for uses at a plant, water can be gotten near at hand, one fine well being located about a mile from the claims.

medium grade material—is sent to the Lundberg, Darr & Wilson mill, while the remainder, which is of high-grade, is shipped to the smelter at Denver. The company is installing a new electric hoisting engine. The ore is being taken from the top of the quartzite and several good ledges of a fair grade have been blocked out so that there is sufficient ore to last an indefinite period.

The Dakota Calumet mine, near Sheridan, in Pennington county, is again the scene of activity. Fifty men are employed. The property has new machinery and the development of the copper ledges is in progress. It is understood that the fifty-ton smelter on the property is soon to be blown in . The property is now owned by the Continental Mining & Smelting company.

It is considered probable that the recent inquiries made by the Krupp Steel Company of Germany relative to the supply of tungsten and other metals used in the manufacture of guns will lead to more extensive work on the various wolframite properties in the Black Hills. On the Harrison property, a short distance from Lead, considerable wolfram is found and some years ago carload lots of it were shipped. The ore contained about 70 per cent wolfram and brought from $250 to $300 a ton. The same deposits were also found on the Hidden Fortune ground near Lead, but never developed. In the Southern Hills, near Hill City, there are numerous wolfram deposits, the best known being the property of John Truax, near Hill City, where several successful seasons of operation have been carried on. Other deposits of wolfram in that section will warrant investigation.

It is expected that work will be resumed on the property of the Burlington Mining company, near Redfern, in the Central Hills. Since the fatal explosion there last year, which cost the life of Supt. J. B. Taylor and one of his men, the property has been at a standstill. Raymond Taylor has succeeded his father in charge of the ground.

The long standing dispute between the Cleveland, Ohio, interests in the old Clara Belle Mining company and Frank Hebert, the former manager, has been amicably settled and the Easterners are now ready to resume work on what has been called one of the richest mines in the Black Hills. The property is located at Oreville in the Southern Hills. The company has been reorganized and is now called the Forest City Mining company, with funds said to be ample to carry on development.

most anxious to do to protect those who had purchased stock in the Carman on his recommendation when he had been deceived by Casey. Casey was also in Duluth and finally agreed to turn over the titles to the Sonora properties in consideration of a further payment of $35,50). Of this Mr. Power has already paid out of his own resources $18,000 and will shortly pay over the rest. Through Mr. Dunn in Duluth on January 22 he paid Casey $2,500 and through me in El Paso, when Casey transferred the holdings to the Mexico company and deposited the title papers, stock and his resignation as vice president of the company in escrow with the State Bank. Casey received $15,500 more, the balance to be paid on or before April 23. We have, however, advised an immediate payment of the balance to quiet Casey, who is said to have been making threats against the company. The money paid was attached by C. B. Bell (against whom nothing has been even whispered and who was apparently an innocent party in the transaction) and in this suit a receiver has been appointed. This, however, does not affect us. The title papers, the transfer to the Mexican company, the stock in the Mexican company, and Mr. Casey's resignation are all in the State Bank at El Paso held in escrow to be delivered on the final payment of $20,500 and this I expect to occur within two weeks. Mr. Power has paid this money out of his own pocket and intends to pay the balance, though I believe the company will be glad to reimburse Mr. Power for perfseting their title from them. This is the truth of the story in all its infquity."

It is reporte'd that Casey is now in Canada.

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

shaft, which has been in good ground all the way down, no change either way is noted. The company is operating sixty drills, and shipping around 1,100 tons of rock, carrying seventeen pounds fine copper per ton of rock, dailly.

Ojibway.

Ojibway has entered the so-called west vein of the Kearsarge lode, by crosscutting from the No. 1 shaft at a depth of 650 feet, and is opening copper ground fully equal to that disclosed in the east vein, where the remarkable showing of two weeks ago was made. The 650-crosscut in the No. 2 shaft is in about sixty feet, and expected to reach the lode between ninety and 100 feet from the shaft. Both shafts are sinking below a depth of 700 feet.

The New Baltic Lode.

The New Baltic Lode Exploration company's operations to date reveal two lodes, evidently the main Baltic and it strikn, the so-called West lode and the formation. The lodes are 76 feet and 26 feet wide, respectively, and are separated by a back of mixed trap and amygdaloid 52 feet wide, making them workable through a single line of shafts. Trenching and test pitting continues. An exploratory shaft will be started within the present month, and diamond drilling by two outfits is expected to be in progress at about the same time.

Keweenaw.

The thirteenth level drift in the Mandan shaft of the Keweenaw mine has reached the west fissure vein, and preparations are made to begin crosscutting at once. An encouraging amount of copper was encountered at the intersection of this fissure vein with the North lode on the level above. The shaft is sinking below the sixteenth level. The company is milling about 110 tons of rock daily and securing therefrom a mineral recovery of about sixteen pounds per ton of rock.

EAST BUTTE LOOKING WELL

ed to him, his firm is now sending out circulars offering to sell the stock for six shares of old, but the company itself has no stock for sale, merely exchanging on the plan as originally put out. The present board of directors consists of: George N. Orcutt, general attorney of the Erie railroad company, New York city; Charles H. Moore, civil engineer of the Erie, New York; E. S. Thatcher, bond dealer, 10 Wall street, New York; C. S. Batt of Griggs, Baldwin & Pierce, attorneys, New York; Joseph A. Morris, attorney, Chicago. As to the property itself, two other claims were later added to the group, an option to include them having been previously entered into by the old company, the Michigander and Third Sphinx. The options on the original group that had expired were renewed and arrangements have been made for the paymnt in full of the accounts originally agreed upon, some of which payments have been made and all will be cared for when due. Up to this time $230,000 has been paid on the purchase price of the claims and deeds have been secured to the Assay and Clipper millsites and the Black Crow, as well as the Ryan fraction, and naymens have been made for seven-eighths of the Overman. Expenditures have been made for development, etc., amounting to $150,000, and no current indebtedness stands against the company. The property is situated adjoining the North Butte and Butte & Superior properties and veins encountered in these are traceable to some extent on the claims of the company, so that with the proper development, which will come with time, values should be shown at depth. As matters now stand the company is on a good, solid footing and includes some of the very highest class of men as its stockholders. With the proper management it should develop into one of the best new properties in the camp."

John A. Ryan, who has been superintendent of the North Butte Extension ever since its organization, has resigned and the position of superintendent has been abolished. Herbert Tonkin, an experienced miner, has been placed in charge of the property as foreman. No work is being done on it at present.

The Butte-Montana.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Butte-Montana Mining company has been called for March 28 for the purpose of voting on a proposition that has been made by Thomas A. Merritt of Duluth, which contemplates the sale of all the property of the company to a new organization known as the Butte-Alex Scott Copper company. The new company has been incorporated under the laws of Delaware with a capital stock of $1,200,000, divided into 125,000 shares of the par value of $10 each. The new company proposes to give the old comapny 50,000 shares of full paid and non-assessable stock, and to pay all the outstanding debts of the old concern, in consideration of which the latter will transfer to the new company all its property, consisting of the Alex Scott and Annie lode claims and equipment. Mr. Merritt also agrees to sell 50,000 shares of the new stock, $2 per share to be paid into the treasury of the new company at once, and the remainder due on the stock to be paid as it is called for. Old stockholders are to be given an opportunity to subscribe for the new assessable stock on the basis of one share of new for forty shares of old stock, paying $2 per share at the time of subscription. The directors of the Butte-Montana company have already approved of the Merritt proposition, and if it is accepted by the stockholders, it is represented, it will at once place $100,000 in the treasury of the Butte-Alex Scott company with an asset of $400,000, subject to call of the directors. There has been much opposition to the reorganization of the plan on the part of minority stockholders, but it is not likely that they have sufficient strength to defeat it.

Souvenir Gold Company.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Souvenir Gold Mining company, held in Butte recently, a proopsition for a reorganization was accepted. The old company is capitalized for 1,200,000 shares of the par volue of 25 cents per share, and the new company will have the same capitalization, but only 300,000 shares of the par value of $1 each. It is understood that the organization proposition was submitted in behalf of some Eastern parties who are prepared to finance the company. The old stock will be exchangeable for new on an equitable basis, to which the stockholders have agreed. The property of the company is situated in Lewis and Clark county, near the mines of the old Witlach Union company.

The Pilot-Butte.

The plans of President W. P. Jahn and the directors of the Pilot-Butte Copper Mining company to raise money with which to pay back $25,000 advanced the company by Jahn, take up a $40,000 mortgage and pay off an option for a fourth interest in the Pilot for $35,000, have not been successful. They want to raise $85,000 from the stockholders for those purposes and give them some sort of mortgage security, but the stockholders have not responded to the first appeal. President Jahn is now out with another appeal, giving the stockholders notice that they will lose the option unless they advance the $35,000. The option expired March 1, but so far as known there is no arrangement for payment or extension was made. The Pilot claim is well situated, lying just east and south of the Butte & Superior, Elm Orlu and Poser mines, but the stockholders appear to have a lack of confidence in the company, or its management. President Jahn and his Milwaukee associates had undertaken to finance the company when it was organized, and for that service were given a big block of promotion stock as a bonus, but the financial panic interfered and their plans miscarried. President Jahn has personally advanced $25,000 to the company. The latter owns three-fourths of the Pilot. Senator Clark is developing two good mines out of the Poser and Elm Orlu, and every indication is that the Pilot contains good copper veins.

Other Unfortunates.

The Green Campbell Consolidated Gold Mining company is another unfortunate concern. It has a large number of stockholders in the East. The stockholders have been called to meet in Butte March 23, to authorize the directors to sell the property to pay the debts. A suit to foreclose a mortgage held by bondholders is now pending in the courts. Poor management by men having little knowledge of mining has been partly responsible for the failure of the company.

The Pittsburg & New York Copper Mining company, owner of a group of claims in the Butte district, and some gold prospects near Helena has found it necessary to mortgage the property to raise money for paying debts.

tests now being made by the Cleveland Cliffs company and others are systematically conducted along scientific lines. In some localities the drills are boring to depths approximating 2,500 feet.

An old time property in this North lake region, midway between Ishpeming and Champion, and the Dexter mine, the machinery of which has recently been sold for scrap and will shortly be dismantled and removed. The Dexter was opened a quarter of a century ago, but was never a profitable producer for the reason that the ore lenses developed were so pockety it was possible to take out only very small outputs, all the ore the property ever shipped amounting to but 118,500 tons. The ore was manganiferous Bessemer and so impregnated with sulphur that some cargoes forwarded averaged no less than 17 per cent, in that element, the product in this respect excelling any other kind ever mined in the Lake Superior country. The success now being met with in the territory westward of Ishpeming has directed renewed attention to the possibilities of the Dexter, and it would not be surprising to see the property taken over by some one of the big mining concerns and given the test that it now seems to merit in view of recent developments in the district. The Dexter has been in the hands of a number of operators since its opening in 1886, one of these the Silver Iron Mining company, now the Lake Superior operating end of the United States Steel corporation, but it is apparent that all the work so far done has been at too shallow a depth. The deeper one of the two shafts put down, both of which are badly wrecked, ise bottomed at 800 feet. If deposits of workable and profitable proportions exist, it is believed they will be found at points materially deeper. A large acreage is embraced in the Dexter tract.

Lot Three Property.

The International Harvester company is installing machinery at its Lot Three property in the Crystal Falls district of the Menominee range, and will shortly have in progress the task of unwatering the workings. It is intended to give the tract a thorough exploration, something which was not done when prospecting was carried on there a few years ago. At the North Armenia property, in the exploitation of which Ohio furnace interests are associated, a new exploratory shaft is down 150 feet. Some additional depth will be attained, following which a new level will be opened for the purpose of more definitely determining the extent of the ore body cut by the initial shaft put down. The outlook indicates the development of a good sized mine. Mineral lands in both the Crystal Falls and Iron River districts, at the western end of the Menominee, are much in demand nowadays, and tracts, the fee of which can be acquired at reasonable prices, are being picked up both by mining concerns and individual capitalists. A Prof. Carpenter of the University of Chicago has been among the more diligent of investors, and he has already taken over a number of properties well located in the Crystal Falls iron-bearing zone. Out from the village of Amasa, the Consumers' Ore company of M. A. Hanna & Co., of Cleveland is exploring in Section 28, a diamond drill being utilized in the work.

Rail shipments are going forward from Oglebay, Norton & Co.'s Bristol mine at Crystal Falls. The ore is consigned to the Mayville (Wis.) blast furnace. Charles G. Jones, who has been superintendent of Oglebay, Norton & Co.'s Eureka, Asteroids and Castile mines, Gogebic range, the past four years, has resigned that position and has been succeeded by Percy G. Williams, M. E., of Ironwood, who has been assistant superintendent at the same operator's Montreal mine, in the Wisconsin portion of the Gogebic.

A Plague of Rats

Everybody Should Join in Fighting the Pests.

Rats have grown very numerous of late, being driven indoors by the cold weather, and this has resulted in attacks on children and in some instances on grown persons.

Everybody should join in destroying these dangerous pests. The best way to get rid of them is with Stearns' Electric Rat and Roach Paste, which drives them out of the house to die, and is absolutely reliable.

Stearns' Electric Paste is sold everywhere, or sent express prepaid on receipt of price. 2 oz. box 25c, 16 oz. box $1.00.

SOME COMMANDERS IN THE WARFARE AGAINST MAN'S DEADLIEST FOE

to live an outdoor, regular life after leaving a sanitarium.

The founder of America's first open-air retreat for consumptives does not live among his patients, but on the main street of Saranac Lake, a mile away. Naturally enough, he is proud of the town's remarkable growth, due to his own success and fame. Half of the town is said to be made up of consumptives, who may be seen seated on the porches of the hotels and boarding houses, in winter wrapped in great fur coats, and all day looking down on the streets as if awaiting the passing of a procession. Even in midwinter, when the temperature falls 40 degrees below zero, the town has all the bustle and business o fa Western community in boom times. Trains arrive and leave every few hours. Toward the end of the week crowds of friends an drelatives of patients begin to pour in for a visit over Sunday, nd the scenes at the station, where incoming guests are welcomed by convalescent hosts, where laughter is heard on all sides, and the tinkling of a hundred sleighbells resounds through the frosty air, prompt the stranger at first to forget that death still lurks near by.

An Optimistic Commander.

One of the most optimistic of all the commanders in the warfare on tuberculosis—probably because he has personally conquered the dread disease—is Dr. Lawrence F. Flick, director of the Phipps Institute of Philadelphia, and foremost among the Americans who succeeded in bringing the International Congress of Tuberculosis to Washington last autumn. Dr. Flick, in almost every public speech, predicts that consumption might be stamped out in a single generation if all members of society would unite against it. He seeks to do away by teaching every one the simple methods of preventing contagion all further progress of the disease would be stopped instantly; and with these methods persistsed in consumption would vanish off the face of the earth in two decades at the most. "Education—and still more education," he told me the other day, "is the secret of the ultimate overthrow of tuberculosis in all its various forms."

Dr. Flick has long been an enthusiastic and undaunted advocate of the educative campaign against tuberculosis. Indeed, it can almost be said that he latrned up his present associates to the value of fighting tuberculosis by educating the people how to avoid getting it and recovering their health once they had got it.

The writer well remembers when Dr. Flick began his tuberculosis campaign in Philadelphia, his home city, not so very many years ago. In his effort to get publicity, he haunted the newspaper offices, literally flooding the editors with the sort of educative matter he longed fervently to have published. A very great deal of the matter at first, found its way into the editorial waste baskets, but, nothing daunted at being classified as a harmless sort of crank, Dr. Flick kept pegging away for publicity, and in the course of time he was having the newspapers sending to him for articles, and not going to them almost begging them to give his work publicity.

It was in this wise that Philadelphia learned of the existence of Dr. Lawrence F. Flick, and since then, to the popular mind at least, he has been that city's leading tuberculosis authority, a feeling that was not lessened when Mr. Phipps named him as the head of his institute, organized primarily for the study, cure and prevention of tuberculosis.

Dr. Flick believes in eternal publicity regarding the best methods of attacking tuberculosis. As a result he has probably written more pamphlets and articles on the subject than any other well-known commander of today. He never lets an opportunity pass that might be used to keep the subject before the people. Perhaps his cleverest publicity "stunt" was "pulled off" when he persuaded the Republican party of Pennsylvania to adopt a plank in its platform of 1906, which pledged it to a campaign against consumption in that state.

The almost ubiquitous advertising methods adopted to a rouse the public's attention to the recently held tuberculosis exhibits in Washington and New York—the printing of notices in street car transfers, the dissemination of consumption literature among school children, that it might be carried by them into the homes, are all in line with recommendations made by Dr. Flick many years ago.

Dr. Flick's interest in consumption began in his youth. "I became a student of tuberculosis," he said to me, "because I myself contracted tuberculosis when quite a young man, and had a struggle of eight or ten years for the recovery of my health. When I again became well I felt that I owed a debt to humanity in general, and that I should devote my life to the cause of the crusade against tuberculosis. The cause has been an inspiration to me ever since, and I have found great pleasure in working in it."

To Philadelphia Dr. Flick often points as an example of how a city's death rate for consumption may be cut down with the co-operation of the public. In Philadelphia, in the last six months of 1908, there was a decrease of 300 deaths from this disease, as compared with the preceding half year. "If the same rate of progress is kept up for six years to come," said Dr. Flick, in commenting on these figures, "consumption will be pretty nearly abolished in Philadelphia at the end of that time."

Most important in educating the public to fight consumption, says Dr. Flick, is to emphasize individual responsibility. Each man, woman and child should face the problem independently. No one should despair because of the belief that consumption is hereditary. Science, he asserts, has proved this untrue; that, as a matter of fact, it has found that the children of consumptives are less likely to get it than others.

Fighting Tuberculosis With Millions.

Sharply contrasting with the optimism of Dr. Flick are the rather sombre utterances of Dr. Simon Flexner of New York city, who says the day is still in the dim future when mankind can rid itself of tuberculosis. As director of the laboratories of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, Dr. Flexner is, of course, regarded as a high authority, and his views carry great weight. He does not believe that a specific remedy to make man immune to tuberculosis is yet in sight, and he calls attention to the fact that so far most of the cures affected have been due to the open-air treatment, not to antitoxins. Even despite his rather pessimistic attitude, Dr. Flexner is undoubtedly one of the world's leading commanders in the fight for a cure—an annihilator of the disease—he is on record as declaring that he would gladly offer himself as a subject to be experimented on if he thought this would lead to a discovery that would mean ultimate victory, a frame of mind akin to that of the soldier who is willing to fill a ditch with his dead body that his comrades may rush over it to conquest.

Though Dr. Flexner may never discover the consumption cure, still his researches have already borne fruit that will make his name remembered. Perhaps the best known result of his painstaking work is an antitoxin for spinal meningitis. For his discoveries in the treatment of snake poisons, he received a $2,000 prize from the institute. He has also obtained valued information concerning the bubonic plague, yellow fever and other tropical diseases.

Perhaps no man in the world is armed with so much money to combat consumption and other diseases as is Dr. Flexner. At his disposal he has $15,000,000 from the purse of Mr. Rockefeller, a donation resulting, as has often been told, from the grief in the life of the "Oil King," which he could assuage in no other way, the death of a boy grandchild of a malady for which the best physicians of the land could find no remedy. Hence, an institution devoted exclusively to medical research. Casting about for a man to take charge of this work, Mr. Rockefeller, with that skill in selecting men which has made the Standard Oil company the greatest business organization in the world's history, picked out a comparatively obscure Philadelphia professor. The oil magnate had heard that this man loved work, and that when he was at the University of Pennsylvania, he used to sleep in a college dormitory, so that he might be near the laboratories. There he devoted every available moment in research work, oftentimes spending the whole night over cultures and test tubes in some new, secret experiment.

Driving Tuberculosis From the Tenements.

A constant and powerful factor in the task of driving tuberculosis from the germ-haunted tenements of New York city is Dr. Herman M. Biggs, chief bacteriologist of the board of health. It has been estimated that sanitary reforms which he was largely instrumental in securing saved 6,000 lives in the metropolis last year. For example, he has waged a persistent war on the practice of spitting in public places. He believes that it has had a great moral effect on the community, and that the day will come when the man who endangers the lives of others by scattering disease broadcast in tuberculosis saliva will be regarded as much a criminal as he who shoots a revolver into a crowd.

Though the family physician of the Vanderbilts and other rich New Yorkers, Dr. Biggs is as interested in the sick poor as in his wealthiest clients. Since 1892, when, 32 years old, he was made chief medical officer of the health department, he has devoted nearly all his spare time studying means of preventing consumption and other diseases by sanitary reforms. Many of these have been brought about by rigid enforcement, still more by education. It has been said that pamphlets issued by the New York board of health containing his suggestion that housewives should not stir up the dust of their homes, but use a damp cloth to wipe woodwork and furniture, have put down the sale of feather dusters in certain tenement districts more than one-half.

Foremost among Britishers who are seeking to save England from the ravages of consumption is Sir Frederick Traves, the king's surgeon. With Sir William Ramsay, Sir J. J. Thomson and Henry Morris, Sir Frederick Treves has interested his sovereign in the establishment of the Royal British Radium institute. Every facility is to be given to the radium treatment of tuberculosis and other diseases.

It was the sudden illness of King Edward in 1902 which afforded Treves the chance of winning international fame. London was filled with foreign ambassadors and representatives gathered to witness the coronation of the new ruler. Great, indeed, was the consternation of every one when, a few days before the date set for the ceremony, the king fell ill. Americans called it appendicitis; Britishers, perityphlitus. Treves was called to the royal bedside. His hand was trusted because of his successful operation on one of the king's daughters, for which he was made a baronet. He used the knife on the king and watched his return to health. Since then he has been fairly idolized by the British public.

While Sir Frederick was still in the spotlight of popularity the papers looked up his record as a surgeon, and found that he had performed 2,000 operations, with only two deaths. As soon as the king felt that his recovery was complete he said in effect to Sir Frederick, "You are too good a man to be cooped up in England. I want the rest of the world to meet you." So the surgeon his wife and daughter took a trip around the world. Within the British domains the party was given all the honors due royalty. Even the mikado, most exclusive of monarchs, made them his guests. In this country Sir Frederick met President Roosevelt.

Treves a Man of the People.

Treves, who was born in 1853, is called a man of the people. In a large sense, he is self-made. The death of his elder daughter from appendicitis prompted him to devote especial attention to this disease. After building up a lucrative practice in London and winning high honors from various institutions he suddenly quit England for the Transvaal. The Boer war had broken out, and he went to the front as a consulting surgeon. As evidence of his popularity, more than 500 medical men bade him goodby at the Waterloo station. His career in South Africa was as brilliant as in London. Not only was he able to superintend the treatment of more wounded soldiers than any other surgeon, but he won a medal and three clasps for personal bravery.

Treves considerably startled the medical world in 1905 by declaring that disease tended to prolong rather than to shorten life. "Were is not for peritonitis every case of appendicitis," he said, "would be fatal. Colds should not be stopped too quickly, because they are merely the efforts of the human system to counteract disease. Coughing is merely the effort to dislodge disease germs. The manifestations of tuberculosis," he pointed out, "are simply the struggles of the body to oppose invading bacteria."

According to Dr. Flick, the battle that a fellow physician of the Quaker City is waging against tuberculosis gives great promise of relief from tuberculosis than any experiments yet made. This commander's name is Dr. Leonard Pearson, who has been professor of veterinary medicine at the University of Pennsylvania since 1891 and state veterinarian of Pennsylvania for fourteen years.

Like that of the health officials of the big cities, Dr. Pearson's battle is to prevent tuberculosis-infected milk from coming into a city. From experiments he believes that cattle can be made immune from tuberculosis by the injection of a serum. It is his hope to develop, by his experiments on cattle, a treatment which will make human beings immune.

Two Prominent Lay Commanders.

In addition to the men who have trained themselves especially for the prevention and cure of consumption there is an ever increasing body of laymen who are giving either their wealth or their energies to this cause. Prominent among them is Nathan Straus, who has won an international reputation because of the pasteurized milk depots established by him in many of the great cities of the world. His first child died in infancy, and since that time he has given much of his great wealth to saving the lives of other children.

Contrary to Koch, he believes that pasteurization of milk is absolutely necessary to guard against the peril of tuberculosis. He contends that while there is danger of infection, especially of children, from tuberculous cows, milk should be sterilized by heating it to a high temperature for a considerable time.

When he was park commissioner under Mayor Grant, Mr. Straus became especially interested in the great infant mortality in New York. He noticed how the women of the slums in the heat of summer, brought their children down to the water's edge. That they might have a still cooler retreat, he obtained the use of a pier, covered it with canvas and furnished it with comfortable seats. It proved such a blessing that other piers were secured, and led to the wonderful system of recreation piers on the river edges of the metropolis.

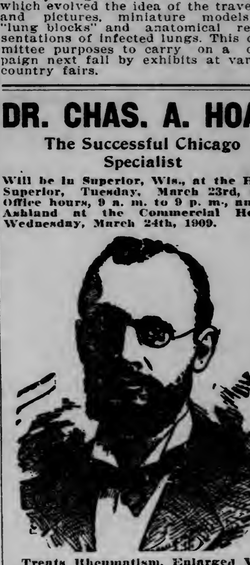

Shocked by the discovery that one child in every three died before reaching the age of 5, and that most of these deaths occured in the hot period of July and August, Commissioner Straus established booths where pasteurized milk might be sold at a cent a glass. The credit of the idea, he says, belongs to his wife, who was Lina Guthers, the daughter of a singer, and who has taken a profound interest in all of his philanthropic work. In the sixteen years since the Straus pasteurized milk depots have been in operation in New York thirty million glasses or bottles of milk have been sold or given away. When the city balked at the expense of erecting the stands, Mr. Straus built them himself. They proved instantly successful, and today Mr. Straus is famed in two continents as one of the leading lay commanders in the battle against consumption.

Another man who is valiantly fighting consumption from the ranks is Edward T. Devine, secretary of the Charity Organization of New York, which evolved the idea of the traveling and pictures, miniature models of "lung blocks" and anatomical representations of infected lungs. This committee purposes to carry on a campaign next fall by exhibits at various country fairs.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR NEW EIGHT STORY HOTEL

Handsome New Structure on Fifth Avenue Will Cost $200,000—Several Big Realty Deals Pending, But None Closed—Home Building Active.

Plans for the new eight-story hotel building, to be erected on the northwest corner of Fifth avenue west and Superior street, by S. I. Levin, were filed in the Builders' Exchange rooms this week, and contractors are now busy figuring on the work. The plans were prepared by Bray & Nystrom, and the building will cost about $200,000.

The plans for the new hotel embody every modern idea in hotel construction that could advatageously be used in a Duluth building. W. T. Bray of the firm of Bray & Nystrom, made a trip East just after he was commissioned to prepare the plans, and ideas gathered in visiting new hotels in the Eastern cities have been incorporated to good advantage in the plans for the Duluth building.

The new building will be eight stories in height, fronting fifty feet on Superior street and 140 feet on the avenue. The street and avenue construction will be in ornate brick, stone, tile and stucco and will be a display of architectural beauty. The building will be of reinforced concrete, brick and stone.

There will be three store rooms o nthe first floor, facing on Superior street and the remainder of the building will be given over to the hotel. The main entrance will be on Fifth avenue, with the lobby on the second floor. The billiard, grill rooms and rathskellar will be in the basement and the dining rooms on the second floor. There will be 137 guest rooms, all outside rooms.

The site for the new building is an ideal one for a hotel. It is in the center of the district which is easy of access to the railroad stations and boat landings and the ever-increasing importance of Duluth as a tourist and transient population center, furnishes an opening for another first class hotel.

Contractors are also figuring this week on the new Endion M. E. church, which, it is expected, will be erected during the coming season. The plans were prepared by a New York architect, a specialist in Methodist church construction.

The real estate market is in much the same groove that it has followed since the turn of the year. Perhaps the most noticeable surface feature, which has appeared during the last few weeks, is the increase in the number of Eastern buyers in the field. Real estate men say that Eastern inquiry has been unusually strong during the past two weeks, with a number of Eastern buyers in the field in person. The condition should have a marked effect on the spring selling.

There are still several big deals in the air, but the spring movement in business property isn't likely to be very brisk. Owners are holding on pretty tightly and sales will not be numerous. Prospective builders of big office structures all have secured their sites and likely purchasers for investment aren't willing to pay the prices for which most of the owners of good business property are holding out.

One real estate man sizes up the investment phase of the situation in this manner:

"As time passes, the pace at which the city grows in population, wealth and in the value of its real estate is accelerated, and there never was a period more favorable than the present investing in wisely selected property —improved or unimproved.

"There have been times of speculative booms, in which real estate values in one or another section were marked so high that the normal appreciation for years in advance was discounted in the artificial rise of a few weeks or months. Reaction in such circumstances was sure to occur. Some injudicious purchases made in boom times have proved profitable where the buyer waited for the natural, inevitable enhancement in values to overtake him.

"The rise in city real estate that has recently begun is not of a manipulated or frothy nature. It is conservative and gradual, and therefore is not liable to any sudden reaction. It is based on healthful demand, and with the advent of the spring season, when building operations may be advantageously carried on, it will develop possibly unprecedented proportions."

During the lull in the real estate market since last fall, the home builders have not once let up. With the approach of spring, they are becoming still more active. There is nobody well enough versed in the developments to estimate the number of homes now under way and in completion. Every real estate man reports that sales of building lots in the suburbs and in the popular residence districts are continuous and numerous. Builders say that stock plans for modest homes are in demand, while the architects have been busy all winter preparing plans for the more pretentious homes of the well-to-do class. With five or six big blocks under construction in the down-town district and hundreds of residences of all kinds in course of erection in all parts of the city, there is no danger of workmen in the building trades bing idle during the coming season.

• • •

The demand for apartment houses, also, is having its effect. Men with money to invest are finding that the modern apartment house, for which people are always ready to pay big rental prices, is one of the best forms of investment, and, acting on it, they have prepared to put up a large number of new apartment houses in different parts of the city during the coming season. Nobody, who has put up a modern aparament house in Duluth during the past few years, has regretted the investment, for there are no empty apartments in the many buildings of that class that have been erected.

• • •

Despite the number of new homes, apartment houses and office buildings erected during the past two years, the demand for homes, offices and business places this spring is just as insistent as it was two year ago. Rental agent will carry almost nothing past May 1, and leases are already being signed for the new buildings that are contemplated for the coming season. The rental situation isn't serious at all, for everybody will be cared for, say the the rental agents, but there isn't any surplus and building must continue to keep up with the pace.

• • •

Extensive improvements on J. T. Armstead's building on the north side of First street near the Wolvin building was begun this week. The building will be raised to three stories in height and a front of white brick similar to the Wolvin building, will be put

FREE IRON IS TO BE OPPOSED

Democrats and Some Republicans Line Up Against It.

Washington, March 13.—One of the provisions of the new tariff bill which many Republicans as well as Democrats are likely to attack, is that taking off the duty on iron ore. The Dingley bill imposes a rate of 40 cents a ton on iron ore, and the importations in 1907 amounted to more than $3,000,000, on which the duties collected amounted to $400,000. The placing of iron ore on the free list was advocated by John F. Oates and numerous foundry and furnace concerns of the East and the Pacific coast.

Representatives of iron mining interests in the Lake Superior, Mesaba and Adirondack regions were favorable to a reduction of from 15 to 25 per cent in the duty on iron ore, if it was proposed to make a general downward revision of the tariff. The National Grange favored the placing of iron ore on the free list as being in line with the idea of conserving the natural resources of the country.

MONTANA STOCKMAN IS SLAIN BY CRAZY WIFE.

Butte, Mont., March 13.—Thomas Metzel, one of the best known stockmen in Montana, was shot and instantly killed by his wife yesterday, on their ranch in the Centennial Valley, in the southern part of Montana. Mrs. Metzel had just left a Butte hospital, and it is believed her mind was deranged.

Governor Johnson sent in a list of appointments, including the reappointment of Dr. McClaran of Duluth as a member of the state osteopathy examining board.

Only three bills were introduced and none of these were important except one by Senator C. A. Johnson, providing a new mineral lease law to replace that repealed two years ago. The bill is a copy of the Bendixen house bill, already described.

• • •

In committee of the whole, the senate advanced to the calendar the Farrington bill, prohibiting the killing of game in state or national reserves, or in regions designated by the state game and fish commission as breeding grounds. This is the bill which is to accomplish Minnesota's part in establishing the international game preserve of 2,090,000 acres, which is to be created on the international boundary, between Minnesota and Ontario. Ontario is to set apart 1,000,000 acres as a game preserve, and this bill will bar hunting in a corresponding area on the Minnesota side.

The senate also advanced to the calendar, without debate and without opposition, the house bill requiring corporations to pay their employes twice a month instead of monthly.

The Lobeck house bill, increasing the age of consent from 16 to 18 years, was advanced to the calendar without opposition. So was the Mork house bill, prohibiting persons under 18 years from visiting bowling alleys, except when accompanied by parents.

• • •

Senator Laybourn tried to advance the Wall bill exempting from the inheritance tax, all bequests for charitable purposes, but opposition developed, and no action was taken. Senator Laybourn said the bill had its origin in the desire of a Duluth man to bequeath a handsome donation to the Children's home.

• • •

The Adams house bill, requiring railroads to pay a $50 license fee for every car on which liquor is sold, was advanced to the calendar. So was the bill by Senator V. L. Johnson, punishing the making of false statements to obtain credit, and teh bill by the senate committee on public health, authorizing the state board of health to adopt regulations for the protection of the health of wage earners.

• • •

The Peterson bill, raising the pay of jurors, from $2 to $3 a day, leaving taleamen to draw $2 as at present, was recommended for passage in committee of the whole, thus advancing it to the calendar.

• • •

The house judiciary committee had a hot fight yesterday afternoon over the constitutionality of the Stewart bill, exempting all credits from taxation. While it was admitted on both sides that it was a delicate question and that nobody could forecast what the courts would do with it, the vote was 7 to 5 against the constitutionality of the bill. It was decided to refer it to a sub-committee to be redrafted, and it is likely that the outcome will be a compromise in the form of a merely nominal tax on mortgages to replace the present mortgage registry tax law.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

CONFERENCE TO MAKE CHANGES

Los Angeles, Cal., March 13.—E. H. Harriman and party are due to arrive late today. With the party are Julius Kruttschnitt, vice president and director of maintenance and operation of the Harriman lines, and General Supt. H. V. Platt.

Hurrying from San Francisco to meet Harriman for a conference, involving changes in the management of the Harriman lines and the New York Central and Illinois Central, are E. E. Calvin, general manager of the Southern Pacific in San Francisco; J. T. Harahan, president of the Illinois Central, and J. P. O'Brien, vice president of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company.

It has been said Calvin is to leave the Southern Pacific to accept the general managership of the Illinois Central, and that O'Brien will go from Portland to San Francisco to succeed Calvin. Southern Pacific officials both here and in San Francisco do not credit this report, and point out that it would be no promotion for Mr. Calvin. It is not denied that Calvin may go East, but railroad men are inclined to believe he will take the place vacated by Harahan as president of the Illinois Central, should the last named go with the New York Central, as it is reported important developments and changes are expected to result from the conference here.

LABOR

THE BILL IS CONDEMNED

Trades Assembly Picks Employer's Liability Law to Pieces.

Claim It Makes Man No More Valuable Than Cattle.

The employer's liability law, recently presented to the state legislature, was read last evening at the regular meeting of the trades assembly and fell far short of meeting with the approval of the assembled delegates from the local unions. In fact it was severely condemned as a makeshift and a deep laid plot to avoid Commissioner W. E. McEwen's purpose to benefit the laboring man.

The bill and also a letter were received from Mr. McEwen, who said that the bill had taken an unexpected course, and had proved a disappointment to him and others interested in labor. The following is from Mr. McEwen's letter to the assembly:

"The bill attempts to place the value upon a human leg, arm eye, etc., and in the opinion of the officers the schedule is so low that we have asked ourselves, whether its authors were considering the value of cattle or men in determining the amounts of compensation to be paid for injuries. I ask all bodies of organized labor in Minnesota to give the bill careful thought and write a letter with union seal, stating the position of the organization on the bill. We fear if the bill is passed subsequent legislatures can not be made to increase the rewards. We ask that all unions give expression on the bill immediately, for it is feared that an attempt will be made to railroad it through the house without giving those interested a chance to be heard."

The Schedule.

A schedule of the damages as provided in the bill is as follows:

For death, $2,000 to $3,000 where there are persons wholly dependent, two-thirds that where there are persons partly dependent, and limited to $75 where there are no dependants; loss of both hands and feet, four years' wages, not less than $2,650 or more than $4,000; one hand and one foot, or both feet, three years' wages or $2,000 to $3,000; one hand or one foot, fourteen months' wages, or $660 to $1,000; loss of finger, $75 and medical attendance; thumb, $100; toes, $25; loss of sight, $2,000 to $3,000; one eye, one-third of this amount; deafness, $1,000 to $1,500; permanent total disability, $2,000 to $3,000; temporary disability, half the regular wages. If employers don't pay workmen may sue, and contributory negligence, fellow servants' negligence or assumption or risk, shall not be set up as a defense; if workingmen refuse to accept the law, these doctrines can be set up in defense. Workingmen's attorneys cannot charge more than $25 when $500 is recovered, $50 for $500 to $1,500; $75 for $1,500 or more.

At the close of the reading of the bill, several of the delegates took the floor and with some warmth denounced the authorities of the bill for their alleged trickery, in framing a schedule of awards so low that injury to a human being seemed little more important than the injury to a dog or cow. It was stated, that the framers wished to make it appear that they are doing something for the benefit of the working man, while in reality they are trying to pass a law that will make the conditions worse for the injured laborer than they are now. Mr. McEwen was lauded for his efforts to bring about a satisfactory liability law, and his failure was not held against him.

The secretary was instructed to write the representatives from this district, that they do not approve of a liability law, such as has been framed in the present bill.

Judging from the reports of the delegates concerning the condition of their trades last evening at the Trades' assembly, nearly every craft is doing well. These reports of the delegates were better last evening than they have been for over a year.

The meeting was also exceedingly well attended, delegates from twenty-three locals being present. The following are the conditions of trade in the various unions, as reported: Barbers and confectioners, trade fair; blacksmiths, fair; butchers, fair; building laborers, good; telegraphers, good; carpenters, fair; cigarmakers, quiet; freight handlers, dull longshoremen, dull; leather workers, good; machinists, fair; typographical union, good; painters, decorators and paperhangers, good; metal workers, fair; L. T. P. A., slow; team drivers, poor; tailors, good; musicians, dull; plumbers, quiet; switchmen, fair; union garment workers, fair; steamfitters, fair; and W. U. L. L. No. 230 reported that they are adding new members to their force right along, sixty now being their total membership.

Delegates' credentials were received from their unions as follows: R. B. Harrington, telegraphers; O. A. Mattison, Superior Trades assembly; L. A. Hoffman, Superior Trades' assembly; Julius Stefanlak, brewery workers; A. E. Paul, leather workers; Union Label league, Catherine J. Dempsey, Mary McInnis and Bertha Thebo.

The assembly went on record as indorsing the action of the city council in regard to the bill for issuing bonds for the purchase of an electric light plant.

• • •

A delegate from the blacksmith's organization stated that the blacksmiths are attempting to better and enlarge their union. They will hold a good-fellowship social and smoker not later than April 15.

• • •

President McDonald appointed the following to the Society of Equity committee: J. H. Baker and Peter Marandow.

Dr. Mary McCoy, president of the Political Equality club, delivered an address before the Federated Trades assembly last night. She announced her subject as: Are Women Citizens of the United States, and If So, What Privileges Does the Citizenship Confer Upon Them?"

The speaker argued that if men can vote for the women, it is no more than just that men should also take their place in regard to punishment, even to hang for them. Dr. McCoy said men had all they could do to represent themselves at the polls, without trying to represent women into the bargain.

She argued that as women are amenable to all laws, they should be given the right to vote, and thus have something to say about making those laws. She quoted Gladstone as having said: "The stamp of inequality is the brand of degradation."

Dr. McCoy addressed the assembly by invitation of that organization, and her remarks were enthusiastically received.

"The women help the men in their difficulties, and wars and scrapes," she said, "and now, in the question of political equality, we want you to help us." She said the word "she" or "female" does not appear in the Constitution of the United States, and that the word "she" does not appear in the constitution of Minnesota, and the word "female" but once, and that one time in relation to property rights.

VACATION AT NORMAL

Second Term of School Ends—Spring Term Opens March 23.

Other News of the Week at the Normal School.

The second term of school for this year ended yesterday. Examinations were held Thursday and Friday of this week and the school will be closed now until a week from next Tuesday, March 23, when the pupils will enroll for the spring term's work. Washburn Hall will be practically empty, and there will be no more lights on after 10 for over a week at least, as all the girls are going to their homes to spend their vacations or will visit friends in the city.

Following is the list of the girls and the places to which they will go: Jean Stepleton, to Cloquet, taking with her Emmeline Huggins, who will be her guest during the vacation; Winnifred Wright, Brainerd; Hildegarde Snyder, Brainerd; Myrtle King, Coleraine; Hazel Heimbaugh, Milwaukee; Fae Cook, Cloquet; Mamie Brown, Eveleth; Charlotte and Theresa Gionotti, Ely; Agnes Brackett, Eveleth; Helena Gannon, Minneapolis; Florence Ryan, Ironwood, Mich.; Blanche Russell, Sandstone; Ada Price, Aitkin; Ruth and Ruby Hang, Goodland; Astriel Dahle, Aitkin; Harriet Dennis, Biwabik; Victoria and Ella Hawkins, Harris; Ethel Ekert, Cloquet, Ethel Lewis, Staples; Lois Quinn, Wapheton; Zeta Doran, Grand Rapids, Minn.; Rebecca Snyder, at the home of Bishop Morrison, Duluth; Louise Dockstader, Proctor; Maure Blaney, McKinley; Etta McMurtrie, Proctor; Agnes Lunmark, Virginia; Dora Torkin, Ely; Margaret Raleigh, Minneapolis; Annie Mitchell, Ely; Ethel Beatty, Tower; Lulu Hewitt, Fond du Lac; Annie Fagerstrom, Pike Lake; Anna Fischer, Pine City.

Several members of the faculty will leave the city for their vacation. Miss Shoesmith will spend her vacation in Chicago; Miss Carey in Cleveland, Ohio; Miss Robertson in Chicago; Miss Bieswinger in Chicago, and Miss Palmer in Fort Dodge, Iowa.

• • •

Some of the members of the faculty went on a snowshoe tramp last week from Woodland to Lakeside, and cooked their supper in the woods.

• • •

Miss Florence Pettingill, supervisor of Washburn hall, is spending her vacation in Menominee, Mich.

• • •

The senior class had its picture taken on Wednesday in the front entrance of the school.

• • •

The normal school last Tuesday had a visit from several members of the normal school committee of the state legislature. They came to see the conditions at the school and its needs. They attended the chorus exercises at which several of the visitors made short addresses to the students, saying that when they returned to the legislature, they would do all in their power to fill the needs of the school.

• • •

Miss Post left yesterday for Pine Bluff, N. C., where she will remain until next summer.

• • •

Several luncheons were given at the school in Miss Post's honor within the last two weeks. The third year class entertained for her at a luncheon in the domestic science dining room on Wednesday. The class colors, corn and light blue, were used for decorations. The girls gave Miss Post a chafing dish as a token of their regard for her. The members of the freshmen class also presented Miss Post with a very pretty book as a parting gift.

• • •

Miss Nella Anderson of Washburn Hall, has discontinued her studies at the school and gone to her home in Maple Hill, Iowa.

NO TRADING IN MAY FLAX

Not a Single Transaction in the Seed During the Day.

Wheat Is Quiet and Closes Unchanged in Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 13.—For the first time since the spring of 1905, not a single trade in flax was made today in Duluth, the greatest flax market in the world. All the quotations were bid and asked prices, and not a seed changed hands. In the spring of 1905, following the short crop of 1904, such occurrences were quite frequent, but they have not been lately.

Wheat was rather quiet and steady. Prices were in Chicago from yesterday in Duluth. May wheat closed a little up in some of the markets.

Liverpool closed ¼d to ⅝d higher, Budapest ⅗c higher.

The May option closed unchanged in Duluth and Chicago, a shade higher in Minneapolis, ½c higher in New York, ⅛c higher in St. Louis, ⅛c higher in Kansas City and 1@1⅛c lower in Winnipeg. The July option closed unchanged in Duluth, a shade off in Chicago and Minneapolis, ⅛c higher in New York, a shade higher in St. Louis and Kansas City and 1c lower in Winnipeg.

May corn closed ½c lower in Chicago and unchanged to ⅛d higher in Liverpool. May oats closed unchanged in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"Wheat—This market was wholly affected at the opening by the firmness in American cables, at which time values were ⅜ to ½d higher. Shorts were the principal buyers and offerings were light. Following the opening, there was some profit taking on more favorable Argentine news, and the unexpected liberal shipments from America, as indicated by Bradstreets. At the close, however, the market was protected by bull support and the decline was recovered, and at this time the undertone was still firm, with prices ¼ to ⅝d higher than yesterday. September was under pressure.

"Corn was steady at the start and unchanged. Later, the nearby month advanced ¼d, while the distant option held unchanged. The strength was the result of the steady American cables, and the strength in spot, American mixed, being ¼d higher on spot."

Car receipts of wheat were against last year, and at Minneapolis 115 against 298 last year. Chicago received 33 against 41 last year. Winnipeg received 239 against 115 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 441,000 bu, last year, 525,000 bu. Shipments, 250,000 bu last year, 294,000 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 211,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 423,000 bu, last year 377,000 bu. Shipments 491,000 bu, last year 438,000 bu. Clearances of corn were 537,000 bu.

Wheat was rather quiet, May wheat opened ⅝c lower at $1.15¾ bid, advanced to $1.15⅞, declined to $1.15¼, rallied to $1.15⅝@⅞, and closed at $1.15⅝, unchanged from yesterday. July wheat opened ⅜c lower at $1.15⅞, went to $1.16⅛, declined to $1.15¾, rallied to $1.16¼ and closed there, unchanged from yesterday.

Durum wheat was unchanged and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 1@1½c over May for No. 1 northern.

The entire session did not see a single trade in flax here. May flax opened unchanged at $1.64⅞ bid, went off to $1.64½ asked and closed there, a loss of ⅜c from yesterday. July flax closed ½c lower at $1.63½. September flax closed at $1.43¼ and October at $1.38.

Oats closed ⅛c lower and other coarse grains unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Has Early Weakness and the Prices Decline.

Chicago, March 13.—The wheat market was weak early in the session today and prices declined about ½c from yesterday's close, notwithstanding a firm market at Liverpool. Some of the influential longs were sellers and demand was rather slack. Prices at the opening were unchanged to ⅛c lower, May being at $1.16¾@1.17¼ and July at $1.05¼@1.05⅝. Later May touched $1.16⅝, while July sold off to $1.04⅞@1.05.

Demand was a trifle more active late in the day and part of the loss was regained. May advanced to $1.17¼ and July to $1.05¾. The close was steady with May unchanged at $1.17⅛ and July off a shade at $1.05¾@1.05⅝.

Realizing sales caused weakness in the corn market early in the day, there being only a scattered demand. May opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 68⅛@68⅜c and declined to 68¼c. A heavy tone prevailed all day and the market closed easy with May off ⅛c at 68⅛c.

Oats were steady at the start but eased off on selling by cash interests. Trade was dull. May opened unchanged to a shade lower at 55¼@55⅜ to 55⅜c and sold at 55⅛c.

A weak market for live hogs inspired considerable selling of provisions resulting in an easy tone early in the day. Prices at the opening were a shade to 7½c lower.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Week's Closing Transactions in Wheat and Other Cereals Recorded.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 13.—There was a decrease of 20,000 bu, in the local elevator stocks of wheat for one day. Cables were weak compared with yesterday's strength, and the local market opened ½c below yesterday's closing. The tone was nervous, but near the end there was a decided advance and May closed at $1.15@⅝, ¾c above the opening. Minneapolis today received 155 cars against 298; Duluth 117 against 53; Winnipeg 239 against 113. May opened $1.14⅜@⅞; high, $1.15⅝; low, $1.14¾; close, $1.15½@⅝. July opened $1.16; high, $1.16¼@⅜; low, $1.15⅝@¾; close, $1.16¼@⅝. Cash wheat was in good demand. Millers bought all the light offerings readily. No. 1 northern sold for 1¾c to 2c over May and No. 2 northern ¼c under to the full May price. Close: No. 1 northern, $1.17@1.17¼; to arrive, $1.17@1.17¼; No. 2 northern, $1.15@1.15¼; to arrive, $1.15@1.15¼; No. 3 wheat, $1.11@1.13¼; No. 3 yellow corn, 62¾@63c; No. 3 white oats, 51¼@52½c; No. 3 rye, 73⅝@76¼c.

Flax receipts 9 cars today against 45; shipments, none. Receipts were light and nearly all the cars arrived on sale, so that the lack of offerings made the market inactive. Prices were quoted the same as Duluth May. Close: $1.64¼.

Barley receipts 43 cars today against 24; shipments, 42. Demand was strong, receipts were light and all cars for sale were cleaned up early in the session. Prices advanced ½c. Feeding grades were in strongest demand. Close: 62½@63½c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,660 tons. Demand was as strong as it has been for the past two months. Shipments were about the same and prices held firm. Bran in bulk, $23@23.50.

Flour advanced on account of the higher wheat market. Shipments showed a falling off. Demand was only fair, coming from domestic trade entirely, there being no foreign inquiry. Country millers generally report better conditions than the local millers. Shipments, 45,357 barrels. First patents, $5.65@5.75; second patents, $5.55@5.65; first clears, $4.40@4.50; second clears, $3.15@3.25.

HEARD ON THE FLOOR.

Gossip of the Trading Room and the Pit.

Minneapolis puts were $1.14⅜@½, and calls $1.16⅝.

Chicago May downs were $1.16¼@1.16. Chicago July ups were were $1.06½@⅝ and $1.06½, and downs, $1.04⅞@½, $1.04¾, and rallied to $1.04⅞.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., March 13.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Market active in tone. Good farm mares had the call. Atkinson & Morris of Pembina, N. D., and Pierson Bros. of Minnewaukon, N. D., purchased loads, which for quality and finish could not be beat on any market in America. The plainer classes of horses met with easy clearance to Dakota buyers. Large consignments of logging horses are expected on the market in a few days. Ben Betts, the veteran mule buyer, arrived with two loads of big, rugged mules.

INSTRUCTING LAWMAKERS.

James W. Sargent, one of the oldest conductors in the employ of the Northern Pacific railroad, and personally known to nearly every man, woman and child in Duluth, has a new vocation for a few days. He is explaining to some of the state lawmakers things about railroads in general and, it is presumed, about the Northern Pacific in particular.

Sargent has appeared before the railroad committee of the legislature in connection with the full train crew bill, as well as other pending railroad legislation, and is going into some of the details of the railroad business.

Mr. Sargent has been pulled off his Minneapolis-Duluth run for the time being.

If there is any man well qualified to assume the task of enlightening the members of the legislature upon railroad matters, that man is "Jim" Sargent. He has been through all of the branches of the business, has worked up to his present position of conductor, through the hard mill of railroad experience, and, besides possesses that happy faculty of making friends.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Market Opened With Trivial Changes and Then Receded Slowly.

Trading Very Limited and Close Was Irregular and Dull.

New York, March 13.—The languid interest in the opening stock market resulted in only trivial price changes from last night. The ticker came to a stop within a few minutes after the opening.

Although there were no great amount of stocks offered for sale, prices receded, most of the representative stocks scoring losses of half a point or more. Erie yielded 1, International Paper preferred 1¼, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie 1⅞ and Wabash preferred 1¾.

The market closed irregular and very dull. Wabash, preferred, ran off 2½ points, but when it rallied 1¾ the general market steadied. Louisville & Nashville, Wabash, Wisconsin Central and International Harvester fell 1. Missouri Pacific rose 1¼ and Minneapolis & St. Louis, preferred, 1.

SATURDAY, MARCH 13, 1909.

Butte-Alex Scott is fast becoming the leader of our local curb. This stock is getting hard to buy. Those who buy this stock are putting it away the same as those who are now buying Ballaklava. These two mines will do more for our city than twenty of the others now before us. Butte-Alex Scott is certainly the safest and surest one for the real big money from a low level. This stock should sell at $25 or higher before many months have gone by.

Calumet & Sonora never looked better. They are now opening up better ore on the lower levels and this mine should be one of the biggest shippers in the Southwest. It is now trading at $14 to $14.25.

Conditions in the metal market will again get better and remember the Butte mines can make money when others have to close down. The silver, gold and copper values are so big on the hill that they can always make money. The Butte-Alex Scott has no water to pump, the mine has a down cast shaft, and this means that the air goes down. This is a great thing for our mine and the West Colusa. The Amalgam

No Better in the East.

J. A. Watson, who was a visitor to the South Shore office this morning, says the Duluth railroad men have no reason to complain over the fact that there is comparatively little freight business at the present time.

Mr. Watson is in the wholesale coal business in the Sleepy City, and in the course of his business has intimate relations with the Pennsylvania lines. He says that the freight traffic of the West is fully as good as that of the East, and that if anything, the Western railroads are doing more business than the lines in the East.

BECOMES A UNITARIAN.

Dr. N. I. Rubinkam Now Head of a Society in Chicago.

At the sixth annual meeting of the Rubinkam association of Chicago, which was held this week, Dr. N. I. Rubinkam, the lecturer announced that the association had applied for fellowship in the Western Unitarian conference. The Rubinkam society will hereafter be known as the Central Unitarian society of Chicago, with Dr. Rubinkam as its minister and lecturer. Dr. Rubinkam is known to many Duluth people through his series of lectures here last fall, under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club.

He began his ministry in the Presbyterian church. Later he was affiliated with the Dutch Reformed church. He went to Chicago in 1893 and built University Congregational church, of which he was pastor for several years. He has traveled extensively and he took his doctor's degree at Basle, Switzerland. In the last six years he has been delivering lectures on ethical, literary, social, musical, travel and dramatic subjects.

HE USED DANCER AS CLOAK MODEL

Man Says She Was Getting Only $12 Weekly.

Chicago, March 13.—His burst of anger, his desperate attempts to control his emotions and appearance seeming to tell of nerves strained almost to the breaking point, Luman C. Mann, accused of the murder of Frances Gilmore Thompson, was curiously suggestive of Harry K. Thaw today.

Asked where he had met Maude Shanks, who afterward became his wife, Mann replied:

"At Britt, Iowa. She was doing a dance in fleshings and getting $12 a week. I used her as a cloak model to show off my samples. Later we were married."

Back From West.

Lewis H. Merritt returned yesterday from a visit to the Red Warrior, Mowitza and Rawhide Royal mines. He was in Reno, Nev., Salt Lake City, and other Western mining centers.

Mr. Merritt says the value of the Rawhide Royal is increasing, as with the increase of the depth of the shaft the ore body is showing greater value.

Mr. Merritt stated that developments at the Red Warrior and the Mowitza were very satisfactory and that at the Mowitza, the engineers were confident of striking a good body of ore soon.

The Mayor's Message.

The mayor's annual message and balloting for president will be the features of interest at the council meeting next Monday evening.

The message will cover all city departments, making such recommendations for the coming year as the city's chief executive deems necessary. The balloting for president may take up considerable time, for it is understood that no candidate for the place has as yet been decided upon by the majority.
